MINNESOTA
HISTORICAL SOCIETY

START

CROOKSTON
POLK COUNTY
JOURNAL

JAN 1 APR 22
THRU

1885 THRU 1886

Title: (Crookston) POLK COUNTY JOURNAL

8:36 - 9:52

Inclusive Dates: Jan 1 1885 Apr 22 1886 *

"The Polk County Journal"
Missing Issues: Apr 30, 1885
May 7, 1885
Apr 22, 1886 pp 3-4

41- 7--1995

Originals held by: MHS ___ Other ___

Prepared by: J.Wendland
Date: Jul 7,1995
Format: 1A X 2B ___

Filmed by: SAD
Date: 7-17-95
Camera No. Y-7

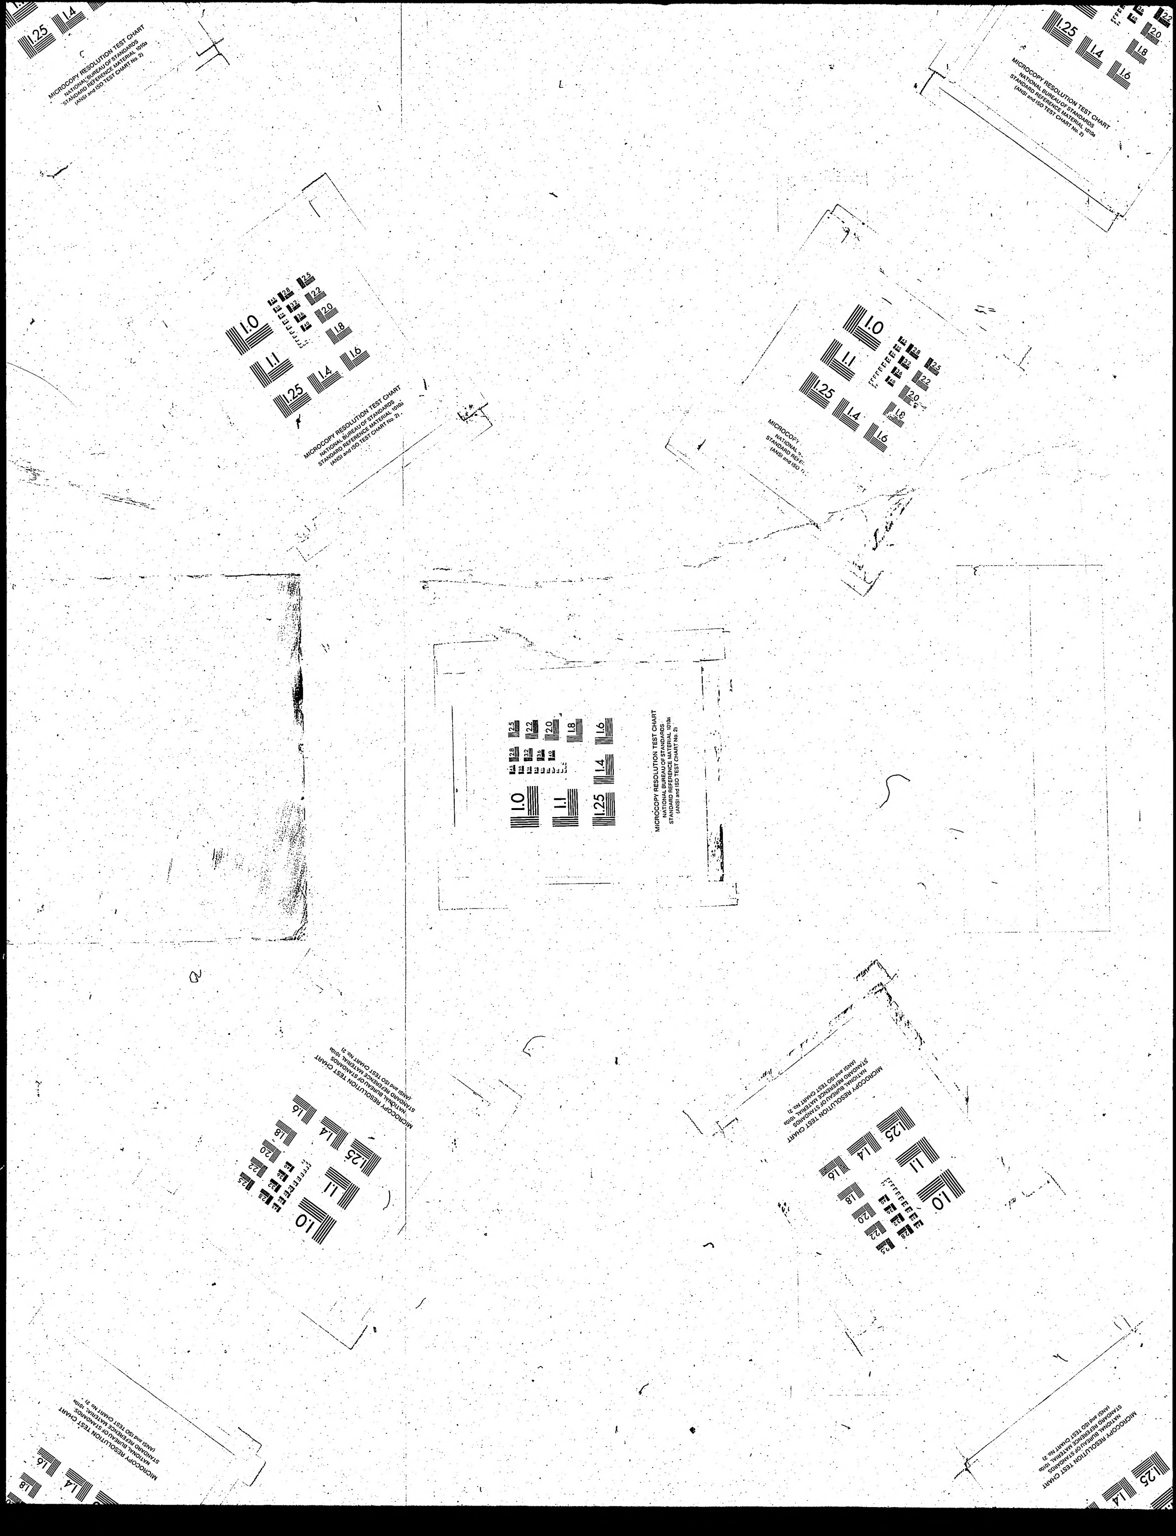
Reduction Ratio: 14½
Voltmeter: 104
No. Expos.

Prelim., Inspection by:
Date:
Density:

Target Resolution: ______/mm
O.K. ____
Reject ____
Length:

The Minnesota Historical Society has reproduced the material in this microfilm without any purpose of direct or indirect commercial advantage in order to preserve & to secure it for private study, scholarship, and research.

The material reproduced may be protected by copyright law. Any person engaging in further reproduction of this material may be liable for infringement.



MICROCOPY RESOLUTION TEST CHART
NATIONAL BUREAU OF STANDARDS
STANDARD REFERENCE MATERIAL 1010a
(ANSI and ISO TEST CHART No. 2)
1.0
1.1
1.25
1.4
1.6
1.8
2.0
2.2
2.5
2.8

The Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Proprietor.
DEVOTED TO THE WELFARE OF POLK COUNTY.
TERMS—$1.50 Per Annum.
VOL. VIII. CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINNESOTA, JANUARY 1, 1885. NO. 36

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

H. E. COOKE, Editor and Proprietor

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance, to any address in Polk County. If outside of Polk County 20 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

ADVERTISING RATES.

SPACE.	1 w	2 w	1 m	2 m	3 m	6 m	1 year
½ inch	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1 inch	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
2 inches	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
3 inches	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
4 inches	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
5 inches	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
¼ column	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
½ column	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1 column	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

Entered at the Post Office in Crookston as Second Class matter.

FARM NOTES.

American Farmer.

[illegible] PEN NOTES.

Analysis of artichokes shows them to contain more fattening power than potatoes. They cannot be kept out of the ground over winter, but should be left undisturbed till the ground thaws in spring. Hogs, after living all winter on dry feed, can be turned on them to dig for themselves till after corn-planting. Then turn the hogs off; harrow down smooth and mellow, and the plants will come up thick. Cultivate in rows as before, and the same ground can be kept on artichokes for years without re-planting. Cultivate the same as potatoes. A common yield is 500 to 1,000 bushels per acre. One writer claims to have had 2,000 bushels. They are excellent for brood sows in spring, as also for your rundown shoats, to give them a start in growing.

Dr. Kedzie, of Michigan Agricultural College, says: While science has aided those engaged in every other pursuit and calling, the farmer, the most important of all, and the one without whom no other could exist, has been allowed to grovel in the blackness of ignorance, and what little he has learned has been by bad experience. We want more science in agriculture; we want to know more of the relations of the soils to plant growth, of the nutritive power of the soil.

The farmer's ideas of his business are beginning to change. The question he used to ask himself was, How much money can I get for this steer? It wasn't asked how much it cost to produce; in fact he thought it cost him nothing: summer pasture on the road side was nothing, and as the animal had to shift for itself, the labor was nothing. Now the advanced farmer asks himself, how much beef, butter and cheese can I get from an acre? If he takes care of the stock and the acres the dollars will shift for themselves.

Every farmer should keep a can of the following mixture: Kerosene, two quarts; linseed oil, one gill; rosin, one ounce. Melt the rosin in the linseed oil and add to the kerosene. Coat all steel or iron tools, wherever bright, with this when they are to idle if for only a few days. It will not take half a minute or half a teaspoonful of the mixture to coat a plough when one has finished using it, and it will prevent all rust and save half a day's time in cleaning it when it is again needed, besides saving the team many thousands of pounds extra pulling. Coat the iron work of the mowers and reapers with it when they are put away for the winter. A little rust is only a little thing, but it makes much difference in the aggregate.

Our leading breeders and importers have drawn from all European countries whatever promised to improve what we had. Francis Galton says nature is more potent than nature. The successful dairyman or stockman means the same thing when he says that breed is better than feed. The best management is largely wasted unless you have well bred stock to care for. This acknowledging the merits of blood has placed our Western country in the lead of every civilized country for the best of all breeds.

A DAIRY SCRAP BOOK.

There is no better habit that a dairyman can get into than that of keeping a scrap book. There are so many things he sees in the papers that he would like to remember, and just when he wants to use the information some vital point in it is forgotten. Then there are semi-scientific articles relating to matters that he already has in hand, that he is very anxious to refer to, as his own matter progresses. If he cuts these out and attempts to keep them in a drawer or box, they are almost sure to get mislaid and lost, and not to be found when wanted. The objections to cutting out articles is, that it mars the paper before others have read the article, and is lost sight of and forgotten when they are done with it. Keeping files of papers is a great bother; and all good things are not to be found in any one or two publications. The rule of the farm house should be this, when any one reading the paper sees anything they would like to save, let them put their private mark upon the article with a red, green or blue pencil, just as editors do; then let it be the duty of somme younger member of the family, when the paper has acquired a certain age, to cut these all out and paste them in the respective scrap-book, for each department of the family, the females as well as the males, should have their subjects of interest protected in the same manner. This is an excellent practice for young people, and it would be all the better if they could be induced to keep a common place book at the same time, in which they write out their own expressions of such matters as come under their own observations, as far as known of calves, colts and other animals born on the farm. It awakens an interest to them in these matters that will always be of value to them.

MEASUREMENT OF MILK.

We agree with a contemporary in stating that if the tests of noted cows were made known in quarts instead of pounds, the experiments would be more easily understood. It may be supposed that every farmer knows how many pounds of milk are contained in a gallon, but the common custom of measuring with the liquid system is not usually usurped, and we may safely assert that there are hundreds of farmers who read of the yields of cows, given as so many pounds of milk, and yet do not feel competent to state what that quantity should be in liquid measure. The method of weighing by the scales also misleads, as the quantity is usually seemingly larger than that from good dairy cows; but give the record in quarts, and every farmer understands the quantity at once.

Milk does not weigh the same under all conditions. A gallon of new milk should weigh eight pounds and eight ounces, or two pounds and two ounces per quart. It requires a pencil and paper for the farmer to reduce a certain number of pounds to the more familiar quarts, owing to the weight of a quart exceeding two pounds, and with a fraction to contend against. Again, skimmed milk weighs an ounce more to the gallon, or eight pounds nine ounces, while cream only eight pounds and four ounces. Buttermilk, however, weighs eight pounds eight and a half ounces, and the fraction in that case is a bother. Few farmers read milk records closely when pounds are given, for they do not wish too much arithmetic in simple statements, although the weight system may be preferable at times, but give the production in quarts, and greater interest will be created in the tests, for the easier and more thoroughly understood the experiments, the better for those who make them and for those who are indirectly interested.

CHURNING.

The New England Farmer summarises the features of churning most admirably as follows:

Sweet cream just removed from the milk does not churn as readily as older cream that has been ripened. Cream when too warm is liable to give trouble, and if too cold it is sure to. Thin cream is longer in coming than thick cream. Filling the churn too full is a very common cause of trouble. The rapid motion of the dasher is liable to whip the cream into froth. The trouble is more with the operator or cream than with the churn. If churned very slowly there is liable to be so little friction the the butter will never come. By long churning the temperature may change so much as to prevent success. If a barrel or box churn is filled very full the cream may swell until the revolutions go on without agitating the cream and if the churn has a crank it may thus revolve the cream in a solid body without friction. These are not all the troubles that may get into the churn, but they are quite enough for one lesson. The cardinal points are, fill your churn but half full and see that the temperature is right.

The dairy cow must be good for milk, butter, cheese and beef. To get her, we need a grade Short-horn heifer—the higher the grade the better. She must be so fed and cared for as to produce a good growth of frame without excess of fat, and bred so as to drop her first calf at about 2 years old, the calf to be soon taken from her, and she milked by hand, and kept in milk as long as possible. Her pasture should be well drained and supplied with an abundance of good grass and pure water. Her stable should be warm and clean, and her feed liberal; corn meal, bran, oil meal and early cut hay certain but that feeding grain lightly the entire year would be profitable. A better quality of her product may be made on the farm than in the miscellaneous creamery. Increased fertility to the soil is an incentive for keeping her on the farm, and, finally, keeping such a cow is continually a source of pleasure and profit to the owner.

Every dairyman who desires to make his business as profitable as possible, should turn his attention to securing pure bred animals of what he considers the best dairy breed, at the earliest possible moment. It is an exploded idea that a half scrub is better than a pure bred animal. In breeding your cow select the very best pure bred male to be found, no matter if you have to pay a good price for his service when you could get that of a scrub for nothing. Follow this plan each year, taking care that the male possesses merit and blood calculated to produce progeny fitted for the dairy, until you are ashamed to remember that you were ever satisfied with your old mongrel herd.

MAKE GOOD BUTTER.

An exchange truly asserts that the gap between the prices of fine butter and low grades has been gradually widening for several years until it has now become apparent to the most casual observer that poor butter must go. Dairymen and farmers who wish to be on the winning side should put their best foot forward now, and determine to produce gilt edge articles and no other.

The whole operation of butter making, from the taking of the milk to the delivery of the butter to the consumer, is entirely mechanical; but it is a branch of mechanics that tolerates no mistakes; for the least failure to perform the operations at the proper time, results in an inferior article; and perfect butter only commands the highest price.

The Evening Journal

is published at Minneapolis, Minn., the metropolis of the Northwest, a city with a population of 125,000, to which is tributary the States of Minnesota, Iowa, Dakota, and the entire northwest.

The Journal is the leading afternoon newspaper of the northwest, and the only afternoon newspaper published in Minneapolis. It has a circulation six times that of any afternoon paper published in Minnesota. It also has a greater daily circulation in the towns directly tributary to Minneapolis than any other paper.

The Journal is sent out on the afternoon trains, and reaches all points from 12 to 24 hours in advance of any other paper.

The Journal publishes the complete Associated Press reports, and copious Special Telegrams, and gives all the news of the day in a condensed form. Complete Market Reports are also published daily, and full reports of the proceedings of Congress and the State Legislature.

A large and complete editorial corps, and thoroughly trained men are employed in every department.

The Journal is the best equipped, best established, most enterprising and newsy afternoon newspaper northwest of Chicago.

The Journal is printed on a Hoe Perfecting Press of the latest pattern, built expressly for The Journal, and capable of a speed of 250 complete papers per minute folded, ready to deliver. A contract has also been made with R. Hoe & Co. for another press, capable of a speed of 500 complete papers per minute.

The subscription price is lower than that of any daily paper circulated in the northwest. The retail price is only two cents each. Its success has revolutionized the newspaper methods of this section, and demonstrated that a thoroughly first-class paper can be produced at a price within the reach of all. The subscription price of The Journal is—

One Year	$5 00
Six Months	2 50
Three Months	1 20
One Month	50

Payable in advance.

The POLK COUNTY JOURNAL and The Evening Journal will be furnished by us at the regular subscription rates of The Evening Journal.

To any one who desires to keep posted on the news of the day and on all current local events, this offer is the best ever made by any publishers. The changes in the administration of the government will make the papers very interesting next year. Call at once and subscribe. [35-4t]

Frank M. Brown,
COMMISSION
STORE,
Main Street, - Crookston.
TWO DOORS NORTH OF MERCHANTS' BANK.

Consignments of Goods for
QUICK CASH SALES
SOLICITED.
☞ Auction every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon.

M. M. VAN DYKE,
Physician and Surgeon,
Corner of Main and Second Streets,
CROOKSTON - MINN
Will attend to all professional calls promptly.

The Old Brick Block
IS THE PLACE
To Buy Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Boots and Shoe Hats and Caps, or anything you want.
FONTAINE & ANGLIM
IS THE FIRM
Who are ready, with a corps of affable clerks to show you their NEW FALL and WINTER STOCK and quote prices to astonish the natives.
Great Bargains!
Don't forget to visit Fontaine & Anglim's Emporium, in the Old Brick Block,
MAIN STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.

E. D. CHILDS & CO.,
Proprietors of
CARMAN TOWNSITE,
AND
Dealers in Real Estate!

AMERICAN FARMER
FREE
To Journal Subscribers!
Who will pay up their subscription account to THE JOURNAL in full and one year in advance at our regular rates, we will present with one year's subscription to
The "American Farmer."
A sixteen-page Agricultural Magazine, published by E. A. K. Hackett, at Fort Wayne, Indiana, and which is rapidly taking rank as one of the leading Agricultural publications of the country. It is devoted exclusively to the interests of the Farmer, Stock Breeder, Dairyman, Gardener, and their household, and every species of industry connected with that great portion of the people of the world, the Farmers. The subscription price is ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR. Farmers cannot well get along without it. It puts new ideas into their minds. It teaches them how to farm with profit to themselves. It makes the home happy, the young folks cheerful, the growler contented, the downcast happy, and the demagogue honest.

Money to Give Away
IN BARGAINS,
AT MARKHAM'S,
THE LEADING GROCERY HOUSE
AND THE LARGEST BOOT AND SHOE STORE
IN CROOKSTON.
Goods Delivered to any Part of the City
FREE OF CHARGE.

JOHN N. IVES.
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
Collection and Land Office Business made a specialty. Money secured for final proofs on short notice.
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

Crookston Tonsorial
PARLORS.
PROF. THOMPSON, Proprietor.
Robert Street, - - - - Crookston, Minn.
Shaving, hair dressing and all work in my line promptly attended to the latest style of the art. Give me a call.

P. A. DUFOUR,
Attorney and Counselor at Law,
—MAIN STREET,—
CROOKSTON, - - MINN.

FURNITURE STORE,
BROADWAY, CROOKSTON MINNESOTA.
P. BATAGLIA, Prop.
Keeps constantly on hand a well selected stock of Wardrobes, Bureaus, Sofas, Lounges, Bed steds, Bed Springs, Tables, Chairs, Rocking Chairs, Stands, Ornaments, Picture Mouldings, and Picture Frames. REPAIRING DONE TO ORDER. Coffins of all kinds kept constantly on hand.

A. H. DUNLOP M. D.,
Graduate McGill University, Montreal.
LICENSED COLLEGE PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON QUEBEC.
Office on Robert Street, Crookston.

New York Store.
We call attention to the reduction in prices of Dry Goods, Notions, etc. Instead of reducing prices after January 1st, we intend doing so NOW, and give our customers a grand opportunity of purchasing goods at almost their own prices.
Black and colored Cashmeres, warranted all wool reduced to 50c; at this price they are the cheapest goods ever offered here.
A full line of the diamond black Cashmeres, at 60c, 75c, 95c, $1.25, $1.50. For value they have no equal; every yard we guarantee in every respect.
SILKS Reduced. SATINS Reduced. VELVETEENS Reduced.
SILK VELVETS—We have a fine assortment in silk velvets that we are selling at 80c; worth $2.00.
SHAWLS Reduced. CLOAKS Reduced. BLANKETS Reduced.
DRESS FLANNELS—Brown's navy, carmine, bronze, myrtle, steel grey, black, red, etc. Goods excellent colors.
Red flannels, blue flannels, grey flannels, cotton flannels,
White Bed Spreads only $1.00.
Collars, neckties and all kinds of domestics reduced.
BOOTS AND SHOES—Gents fine shoes—Reduced. Ladies fine shoes—Reduced.
☞ New and complete stock of Notions, Hosiery, Corsets, Silk Handkerchiefs, Jewelry, Perfumery, etc.
Our line of Kid Gloves at 75c. Bargains.
Call and ask our prices before buying. We are selling the closest cash buyers in the country, and we know we can save you big money.
PROUD & MACDONELL.
☞ Agents for Butterrick Patterns. ☜

FARMERS, FARMERS,
WE ARE
Selling Lower Than Ever!
You will always find it to your advantage to
Trade with Us!
We Sell the Best for the LOWEST LIVING PRICES. Remember the place,
Broadway, bet. 2d and Robert Sts.
D. BUCHANAN.

A Puzzle.
TO FIND ALL OUR GOODS!
CHRISTMAS CARDS by the hundred, from 2c to $5 each.
ALBUMS by the bushel, from 25c to $15.
LADIES' Comb, Brush and Mirror Sets, in PLUSH, from $5 to $25.
GENTLEMEN'S Toilet and Shavins sets, in Morocce, from $5 to $10.
BRIC-A-BRAC at all prices
TOYS of all kinds for children at Low Prices.
☞ You need't run all over town. We have ALMOST EVERYTHING, and will be glad to see you at MEDICAL HALL.
Respectfully,
POTTER & GEORGE.

Fortier's Place,
Corner Broadway and Robert Street
EVERYTHING — NEW, NEAT
—AND NOBBY.—
Billiards, Pool, and the Choicest Wines, Liquor and Cigars. The purest High Proof Whiskies at wholesale prices.
PURE IMPORTED GOODS ON DROUGHT.

BERG & OLSON,
PRACTICAL WATCHMAKERS
AND DEALERS IN CLOCKS,
WATCHES,
JEWELRY,
—ROBERT STREET,—
CROOKSTO - - MINNESOTA.

The Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Proprietor. DEVOTED TO THE WELFARE OF POLK COUNTY. TERMS—$1.50 Per Annum.

VOL. VIII. CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINNESOTA, JANUARY 1, 1885. NO. 36

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

H. E. COOKE, Editor and Proprietor

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance, to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

ADVERTISING RATES.

SPACE.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 m.	2 m.	6 m.	1 year
½ inch	50	$1 05	$1 15	$1 40	$3 00	4 70	$ 6 00
1 inch	75	1 25	1 75	2 60	5 50	6 00	10 00
2 inches	1 50	2 25	3 00	3 50	6 50	9 50	15 00
3 inches	1 75	2 75	3 75	4 70	9 50	13 50	20 00
4 inches	2 50	3 50	4 20	5 50	10 00	19 00	25 00
5 inches	3 00	4 00	5 00	6 00	12 50	20 00	30 00
¼ column	3 50	5 20	5 75	6 50	15 00	25 00	35 00
½ column	6 00	7 50	10 50	12 00	20 00	35 00	50 00
1 column	9 50	12 50	15 00	18 00	35 00	60 00	100 00

Entered at the Post Office in Crookston as Second Class matter.

FARM NOTES.

American Farmer.

PIG PEN NOTES.

Analysis of artichokes shows them to contain more fattening power than potatoes. They cannot be kept out of the ground over winter, but should be left undisturbed till the ground thaws in spring. Hogs, after living all winter on dry feed, can be turned on them to dig for themselves till after corn-planting. Then turn the hogs off; harrow down smooth and mellow, and the plants will come up thick. Cultivate in rows as before, and the same ground can be kept on artichokes for years with no re-planting. Cultivate the same as potatoes. A common yield is 500 to 1,000 bushels per acre. One writer claims to have had 2,000 bushels. They are excellent for brood sows in spring, as also for poor run-down shoats, to give them a start in growing.

Dr. Kedzie, of Michigan Agricultural College, says: While science has aided those engaged in every other pursuit and calling, the farmer, the most important of all, and the one without whom no other could exist, has been allowed to grovel in the blackness of ignorance, and what little he has learned has been by sad experience. We want more science in agriculture; we want to know more of the relations of the soils to plant growth, of the nutritive power of the soil.

The farmer's ideas of his business are beginning to enlarge. The question he used to ask himself was, How much money can I get for this steer? It wasn't asked how much it cost to produce; in fact he thought it cost him nothing; summer pasture on the road side was nothing, and as the animal had to shift for itself, the labor was nothing. Now the advanced farmer asks himself, how much beef, butter and cheese can I get from an acre? If he takes care of the stock and the acres the dollars will shift for themselves.

Every farmer should keep a can of the following mixture: Kerosene, two quarts; linseed oil, one gill; rosin, one ounce. Melt the rosin in the linseed oil and add to the kerosene. Coat all steel or iron tools, wherever bright, with this when they are to idle if for only a few days. It will not take half a minute or half a teaspoonful of the mixture to coat a plough when one has finished using it, and it will prevent all rust and save half a day's time in cleaning it when it is again needed, besides saving the team many thousands of pounds extra pulling. Coat the iron work of the mowers and reapers with it when they are put away for the winter. A little rust is only a little thing, but it makes much difference in the aggregate.

Our leading breeders and importers have drawn from all European countries whatever promised to improve what we had. Francis Galton says nature is more potent than nature. The successful dairyman or stockman means the same thing when he says that breed is better than feed. The best management is largely wasted unless you have well bred stock to care for. This acknowledging the merits of blood has placed our Western country in the lead of every civilized country for the best of all breeds.

A DAIRY SCRAP BOOK.

There is no better habit that a dairyman can get into than that of keeping a scrap book. There are so many things he sees in the papers that he would like to remember, and just when he wants to use the information some vital point in it is forgotten. Then there are semi-scientific articles relating to matters that he already has in hand, that he is very anxious to refer to, as his own matter progresses. If he cuts these out and attempts to keep them in a drawer or box, they are almost sure to get mislaid and lost, and not to be found when wanted. The objections to cutting out articles is, that it mars the paper before others have read the article, and is lost sight of and forgotten when they are done with it. Keeping files of papers is a great bother, and all good things are not to be found in any one or two publications. The rule of the farm house should be this, when any one reading the paper sees anything they would like to save, let them put their private mark upon the article with a red, green or blue pencil, just as editors do, then let it be the duty of some younger member of the family, when the paper has acquired a certain age, to cut these all out and paste them in the respective scrap-book, for each department of the family, the females as well as the males, should have their subjects of interest protected in the same manner. This is an excellent practice for young people, and it would be all the better if they could be induced to keep a common place book at the same time, in which they write out their own expressions of such matters as come under their own observations, as far as known of calves, colts and other animals born on the farm. It awakens an interest to them in these matters, that will always be of value to them.

MEASUREMENT OF MILK.

We agree with a contemporary in stating that if the tests of noted cows were made known in quarts instead of pounds, the experiments would be more easily understood. It may be supposed that every farmer knows how many pounds of milk are contained in a gallon, but the common custom of measuring with the liquid system is not usually usurped, and we may safely assert that there are hundreds of farmers who read of the yields of cows, given as so many pounds of milk, and yet do not feel competent to state what that quantity should be in liquid measure. The method of weighing by the scales also misleads, as the quantity is usually seemingly larger than that from good dairy cows; but give the record in quarts, and every farmer understands the quantity at once.

Milk does not weigh the same under all conditions. A gallon of new milk should weigh eight pounds and eight ounces, or two pounds and two ounces per quart. It requires a pencil and paper for the farmer to reduce a certain number of pounds to the more familiar quarts, owing to the weight of a quart exceeding two pounds, and with a fraction to contend against. Again, skimmed milk weighs an ounce more to the gallon, or eight pounds nine ounces, while cream only eight pounds and four ounces. Buttermilk, however, weighs eight pounds eight and a half ounces, and the fraction in that case is a bother. Few farmers read milk records closely when pounds are given, for they do not wish too much arithmetic in simple statements, although the weight system may be preferable at times; but give the production in quarts, and greater interest will be created in the tests, for the easier and more thoroughly understood the experiments the better for those who make them and for those who are indirectly interested.

CHURNING.

The New England Farmer summarises the features of churning most admirably as follows:

Sweet cream just removed from the milk does not churn as readily as older cream that has been ripened. Cream when too warm is liable to give trouble, and if too cold it is sure to. Thin cream is longer in coming than thick cream. Filling the churn too full is a very common cause of trouble. The rapid motion of the dasher is liable to whip the cream into froth. The trouble is more with the operator or cream than with the churn. If churned very slowly there is liable to be so little friction the the butter will never come. By long churning the temperature may change so much as to prevent success. If a barrel or box churn is filled very full the cream may swell until the revolutions go on without agitating the cream and if the churn has a crank it may thus revolve the cream in a solid body without friction. These are not all the troubles that may get into the churn, but they are quite enough for one lesson. The cardinal points are, fill your churn but half full and see that the temperature is right.

The dairy cow must be good for milk, butter, cheese and beef. To get her, we need a grade Short-horn heifer—the higher the grade the better. She must be so fed and cared for as to produce a good growth of frame without excess of fat, and bred so as to drop her first calf at about 2 years old, the calf to be soon taken from her, and she milked by hand, and kept in milk as long as possible. Her pasture should be well drained and supplied with an abundance of good grass and pure water. Her stable should be warm and clean, and her feed liberal; corn meal, bran, oil meal and early cut hay, certain but that feeding grain lightly the entire year would be profitable. A better quality of her product may be made on the farm than in the miscellaneous creamery. Increased fertility to the soil is an incentive for keeping her on the farm, and, finally, keeping such a cow is continually a source of pleasure and profit to the owner.

Every dairyman who desires to make his business as profitable as possible, should turn his attention to securing pure bred animals of what he considers the best dairy breed, at the earliest possible moment. It is an exploded idea that a half scrub is better than a pure bred animal. In breeding your cow select the very best pure bred male to be found, no matter if you have to pay a good price for his service when you could get that of a scrub for nothing. Follow this plan each year, taking care that the male possesses merit and blood calculated to produce progeny fitted for the dairy, until you are ashamed to remember that you were ever satisfied with your old mongrel herd.

MAKE GOOD BUTTER.

An exchange truly asserts that the gap between the prices of fine butter and low grades has been gradually widening for several years until it has now become apparent to the most casual observer that poor butter must go. Dairymen and farmers who wish to be on the winning side should put their best foot forward now, and determine to produce gilt edge articles and no other.

The whole operation of butter-making, from the taking of the milk to the delivery of the butter to the consumer, is entirely mechanical; but it is a branch of mechanics that tolerates no mistakes; for the least failure to perform the operations at the proper time results in an inferior article; and perfect butter only commands the highest price.

The Evening Journal

is published at Minneapolis, Minn., the metropolis of the Northwest, a city with a population of 125,000, to which is tributary the States of Minnesota, Iowa, Dakota, and the entire northwest.

The Journal is the leading afternoon newspaper of the northwest, and the only afternoon newspaper published in Minneapolis. It has a circulation six times that of any afternoon paper published in Minnesota. It also has a greater daily circulation in the towns directly tributary to Minneapolis than any other paper.

The Journal is sent out on the afternoon trains, and reaches all points from 12 to 24 hours in advance of any other paper.

The Journal publishes the complete Associated Press reports, and copious Special Telegrams, and gives all the news of the day in a condensed form. Complete Market Reports are also published daily, and full reports of the proceedings of Congress and the State Legislature.

A large and complete editorial corps, and thoroughly trained men are employed in every department.

The Journal is the best equipped, best established, most enterprising and newsy afternoon newspaper northwest of Chicago.

The Journal is printed on a Hoe Perfecting Press of the latest pattern, built expressly for The Journal, and capable of a speed of 250 complete papers per minute folded, ready to deliver. A contract has also been made with R. Hoe & Co. for another press, capable of a speed of 500 complete papers per minute.

The subscription price is lower than that of any daily paper circulated in the northwest. The retail price is only two cents each. Its success has revolutionized the newspaper methods of this section, and demonstrated that a thoroughly first-class paper can be produced at a price within the reach of all. The subscription price of The Journal is—

One Year	$5 00
Six Months	2 50
Three Months	1 20
One Month	50

Payable in advance.

The POLK COUNTY JOURNAL and The Evening Journal will be furnished by us at the regular subscription rates of The Evening Journal.

To any one who desires to keep posted on the news of the day and on all current local events, this offer is the best ever made by any publishers. The changes in the administration of the government will make the papers very interesting next year. Call at once and subscribe. [35-4t]

Frank M. Brown,

COMMISSION STORE,

Main Street, Crookston.

TWO DOORS NORTH OF MERCHANTS' BANK.

Consignments of Goods for QUICK CASH SALES SOLICITED.

Auction every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon.

M. M. VAN DYKE

Physician and Surgeon,

Corner of Main and Second Streets,

CROOKSTON, MINN.

Will attend to all professional calls promptly.

The Old Brick Block

IS THE PLACE

To Buy Dry Goods, Groceries. Clothing, Boots and Shoe Hats and Caps, or anything you want.

FONTAINE & ANGLIM.

IS THE FIRM

Who are ready, with a corps of affable clerks to show you their NEW FALL and WINTER STOCK and quote prices to astonish the natives.

Great Bargains!

Don't forget to visit Fontaine & Anglim's Emporium, in the Old Brick Block,

MAIN STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.

E. D. CHILDS & CO.,

Proprietors of

CARMAN TOWNSITE,

AND

Dealers in Real Estate!

AMERICAN FARMER

FREE

To Journal Subscribers!

Who will pay up their subscription account to THE JOURNAL in full and one year in advance at our regular rates, we will present with one year's subscription to

The "American Farmer,"

A sixteen-page Agricultural Magazine, published by E. A. K. Hackett, at Fort Wayne, Indiana, and which is rapidly taking rank as one of the leading Agricultural publications of the country. It is devoted exclusively to the interests of the Farmer, Stock Breeder, Dairyman, Gardener, and their household, and every species of industry connected with that great portion of the people of the world, the Farmers. The subscription price is ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR. Farmers cannot well get along without it. It puts new ideas into their minds; It teaches them how to farm with profit to themselves. It makes the home happy, the young folks cheerful, the growler contented, the downcast happy, and the demagogue honest!

Money to Give Away

IN BARGAINS,

AT MARKHAM'S,

THE LEADING GROCERY HOUSE

AND THE LARGEST BOOT AND SHOE STORE

IN CROOKSTON.

Goods Delivered to any Part of the City

FREE OF CHARGE

JOHN N. IVES,

ATTORNEY AT LAW.

Collection and Land Office Business made a specialty. Money secured for final proofs on short notice.

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

Crookston Tonsorial PARLORS.

PROF. THOMPSON, Proprietor.

Robert Street, Crookston, Minn.

Shaving, hair dressing and all work in my line promptly attended to the latest style of the art. Give me a call.

P. A. DUFOUR,

Attorney and Counselor at Law,

MAIN STREET,

CROOKSTON, MINN.

FURNITURE STORE,

BROADWAY, CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

P. BATAGLIA, Prop.

Keeps constantly on hand a well selected stock of Wardrobes, Bureaus, Sofas, Lounges, Bedsteads, Bed Springs, Tables, Chairs, Rocking Chairs, Stands, Ornaments, Picture Mouldings, and Picture Frames. REPAIRING DONE TO ORDER. Coffins of all kinds kept constantly on hand.

A. H. DUNLOP, M. D.,

Graduate McGill University, Montreal.

LICENSED COLLEGE PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, QUEBEC.

Office on Robert Street, Crookston.

New York Store.

We call attention to the reduction in prices of Dry Goods, Notions, etc. Instead of reducing prices after January 1st, we intend doing so NOW, and give our customers a grand opportunity of purchasing goods at almost their own prices.

Black and colored Cashmeres, warranted all wool reduced to 50c; at this price they are the cheapest goods ever offered here.

A full line of the diamond black Cashmeres, at 60c, 75c, 95c, $1.25, $1.50. For value they have no equal; every yard we guarantee in every respect.

SILKS Reduced. SATINS Reduced. VELVETEENS Reduced.

SILK VELVETS—We have a fine assortment in silk velvets that we are selling at 80c; worth $2.00.

SHAWLS Reduced. CLOAKS Reduced. BLANKETS Reduced.

DRESS FLANNELS—Brown's navy, carmine, bronze, myrtle, steel grey, black, red, etc. Goods excellent colors.

Red flannels, blue flannels, grey flannels, cotton flannels,

White Bed Spreads only $1.00.

Collars, neckties and all kinds of domestics reduced.

BOOTS AND SHOES—{ Gents fine shoes—Reduced. Ladies fine shoes—Reduced.

☞ New and complete stock of Notions, Hosiery, Corsets, Silk Handkerchiefs, Jewelry, Perfumery, etc.

Our line of Kid Gloves at 75c. Bargains.

Call and ask our prices before buying. We are selling the closest cash buyers in the country, and we know we can save you big money.

PROUD & MACDONELL.

☞ Agents for Butterrick Patterns. ☜

FARMERS, FARMERS,

WE ARE

Selling Lower Than Ever!

You will always find it to your advantage to

Trade with Us!

We Sell the Best for the LOWEST LIVING PRICES. Remember the place,

Broadway, bet. 2d and Robert Sts.

D. BUCHANAN.

A Puzzle.

TO FIND ALL OUR GOODS!

CHRISTMAS CARDS by the hundred, from 2c to $5 each.
ALBUMS by the bushel, from 25c to $15.
LADIES' Comb, Brush and Mirror Sets, in PLUSH, from $5 to $25.
GENTLEMEN'S Toilet and Shavins sets, in Morocce, from $5 to $10.
BRIC-A-BRAC at all prices
TOYS of all kinds for children at Low Prices.

☞ You need't run all over town. We have ALMOST EVERYTHING, and will be glad to see you at MEDICAL HALL.

Respectfully,

POTTER & GEORGE.

Fortier's Place,

Corner Broadway and Robert Street

EVERYTHING NEW, NEAT AND NOBBY.

Billiards, Pool, and the Choicest Wines, Liquor and Cigars. The purest High Proof Whiskies at wholesale prices.

PURE IMPORTED GOODS ON DROUGHT.

BERG & OLSON,

PRACTICAL WATCHMAKERS

AND DEALERS IN

CLOCKS,

WATCHES,

JEWELRY.

ROBERT STREET,

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, January 1, 1885.

'ROUND HOME.

1885. Don't forget to write it 1885.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Walker are in Montreal.

Get there Eli! To Medical Hall. Toys, toys, toys, cheap, cheap, cheapest. 33-tf

Wheat is going up but prices remains as low as ever at Hack & Gallasch.

Best Patent Flour $2.25 per hundred lbs. at Hack & Gallasch.

Somewhat blustery on Tuesday. Trains all on time however.

Dune Morris returned on Saturday. He has settled with the G. A. R. and taken their receipt in full.

See the new ad of the new Second street jeweler and drop in and see what he can do for you in his line.

J. H. Prescott, formerly a happy granger at Euclid, arrived in the city on Tuesday from a sojourn in Dakota.

Gardner Stevens went below on Monday with one Grandbois, accused of stealing timber from Government lands.

If you want a rattling good cigar don't take our word for it. but take ten cents and go and try one of those what you read about at Van Dyke & Co's.

The little Misses Copeland entertained a number of their little friends at tea on Tuesday evening. A very enjoyable season is reported.

Sleds, sleighs and sleds. Make a grab before they are gone. Medical Hall. [33-tf]

Rev. C. E. Page will preach next Sunday evening on "Amusements" at the Congregational church. Services commence at 7 p. m., sharp.

The Commercial house has met with a change of heart this week, Mr. S. P. Norton goes out and a gentleman from Grand Forks takes his place.

Christmas cards did you say? Well, just go to Potter & George, and see if they don't beat the bugs in variety and low prices, Medical Hall. [33-tf]

Before the holidays he dassent go upon his claim, (because he had his orders,) and now it is so "blooming" cold he can't. Sich is life under the Queen's government.

Hack & Gallasch have a large stock of winter goods, which they must sell by Jan. 1st 85. Call and see them and buy for $1.00 what will cost you $1.50 elsewhere.

A new stock of photograph and autograph albums selling very cheap at M. Van Dyke & Co's.

The new Second street jeweler, Mr. Saake, from Grand Forks, comes well recommended. He will soon receive his goods and be ready to receive his customers. Go in and look over his stock.

Every Democrat in Polk County ought to buy some of those Cleveland toys from Potter & George of Medical Hall. 33-tf

Mr. Churchill and family, Dr. Just and Bert Wells intend to start next week for their claims. Mr. Churchill intends to remain all winter. The doctor and Bert will hold down their claims a week or so and then return to civilization.

Gene Ferry goes into the Linton house. Gene is a rustler and he is well and favorably known all over North America, wherever there is a good hotel to be kept and a weary traveler to be well "pervided" for, Gene is a "good pervider."

Capt. Eustrom's son Henry, is reported to have been killed by the accidental discharge of a revolver in his own hand. Capt. Eustrom is well known as the popular Auditor of Kittson County, and Henry was foreman of the big Kelso farm.

Mr. A. A. Olds has returned from a pleasant visit to the old home and will now go to work and make up new brooms enough to keep Crookston clean for six months or a year. Mr. Olds makes the boss broom they all do say who have used them.

The Moorhead News issued a neat little holiday supplement. By the way Mr. Lamphere deserves of the people of Moorhead something better than thanks for the faithful manner in which he has kept a daily alive and for the labor and expense he is putting into the enterprise. Most of us would give it up in despair. We fear he is not making his fortune.

Chas. D. Fox, deputy Clerk of the Court left Moorhead suddenly for Winnipeg on Saturday evening last. The Clerk, Gus Hendricks, got onto the racket and telegraphed to have him detained at St. Vincent which was done and Sheriff Sloggy went down on Sunday, returning to Moorhead on Monday with his Fox, who confesses to $1200 shortage in his accounts. Fox says that wine and women have wrought his ruin.

Wm. Davidson, of Euclid went below on Monday after some milch cows. He is going to try a little good butter.

Chief of Police Hennessy, of Grand Forks, and Dept. Sheriff Dennis Dwyer, of East Grand Forks were after a couple who went through the headquarters saloon on Sunday last for $300 or so. They had tracked their game to the neighborhood of Mallory to which place they followed on Tuesday evening's train. We have not learned what luck they had but if the thieves get away from those two officers they are good ones.

J. H. Kling has returned from his eastern trip.

Drop in and see the new clothing house on Main street.

The county Commissioners will meet next week, Monday, we believe.

Fred Chapin has gone on a visit to his old home in Prattsburgh, Steuben Co., N. Y.

The Catholic fair last night was a great success in point of numbers as well as financially considered.

Wheat has taken a tumble upwards. It is now selling at 55 in this city and will doubtless go higher get before it drops.

Max Ericsson has a big stock of liquors on the way and will enter the wholesale trade upon their arrival. Look out for his announcement.

Hon. Knute Nelson spent Christmas with his family, at Alexandria. He is not very sanguine that his pine land bill will pass during this session as the session will be a short one and it will doubtless not be reached on general orders.

Rev. Thos. McClary, Presiding Elder of this district in the M. E. church, will preach at this place next Sunday both morning and evening. He will remain during the following week to assist in special services which will be held each evening.

Mr. Fairweather, of Euclid, greeted friends in the city on Wednesday. Mr. F. is one of those genial Scotch gentlemen whom it is ever a pleasure to meet and his knowledge of stock is a fund of information possessed but by few. He don't believe in wheat alone.

Our apologies are due to the ladies who handed in their notices of New Year's receptions. Owing to our necessary absence from the office for the most of the week we are unable to get out in time to do them any good and for that reason we are obliged to omit them.

It was our pleasure to take dinner at the Richardson house in Grand Forks, on Tuesday. The wild winds made mad war without and we dittoed on roast turkey and sich, within. Such coffee? It is needless to remark about that to those who know mine host Topping, or who has ever sampled his bill of fare. Topping knows how to keep hotel and anent this subject arises the regret that he found it necessary to leave Crookston. We believe the reason was too high rent and right here we are tempted to preach a little to those who own buildings to rent in our city, who are interested in building it up, least the temptation to put up the price to exorbitant rates prove too strong but we think this case as an example is sufficient. Mr. Topping did not say so in so many words but we believe that should an opening occur he could be prevailed upon to return. That he is the right man in the right place in a hotel and that he is a man that Crookston can ill afford to lose we believe all will agree. We trust the way will open for his return at an early day.

A nice stock of goods has been ordered and will arrive in the next few days. C. H. Saake,

Jeweler and watchmaker, Second Street, Crookston.

The Olive Leaf

a bright little paper published at Euclid, by the Literary Society, has found its way to our table. It shows journalistic ability of a very high order, and when Cleveland shall have invited its editor to a cold seat far removed from the Government crib—may that day never arrive—should it ever happen we should advise the O. L.'s editor to obtain a power press and sail in. We gladly X and here goes for clippings:

EUCLID OLIVE LEAFLETS.

Our cold weather has improved—somewhat. Last Tuesday registered 40° below. No blizzard so far this winter.

Our old friend, Charlie Rauch, has left us. Our loss is Crookston's gain.

Robt. Teal has laid up his well apparatus for the winter. It is too cold for that kind of business.

We were pleased to see Mr. and Mrs. Tiedt, and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Teal Sr. enjoy themselves at the masquerade. We love to see our seniors as well as the young people enjoy themselves,

David Fairweather and sisters, came up from Minneapolis to spend the holidays with their parents.

Mrs. C. E. Misner and son spent Christmas in Crookston with her parents. Charlie endured until Saturday then went down to escort her home.

Rev. J. P. Schell and son, Plummer, Simmons, W. Davidson and Lizzie Crookshanks, were the Euclid delegates to Crookston on Saturday.

The masquerade was a grand succes both as to attendance and enjoyment. E. C. Murray and Henry Biyer make good and gentlemanly flour managers, The prizes were won by Miss Dora Horton and Mr. G. Vonder Beck. Miss H's dress and cap were profusely adorned with turkey feathers. She had a fan of the same materials. Mr. Vonder Beck represented a Chippewa brave sustaining his part as well as tho' to he manner born.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Ballou spen Christmas with Rev. J. P. Schell. E. B. is one of the old-timers here and all were glad to greet him again.

Mr. M. P. Losey is getting out plans and specifications for a roller skating rink, opera house and hall. Mr. L. is always ready to make any and all improvements likely to prove beneficial to the public.

The Christmas Cantata and Tree furnished a vast fund of enjoyment and profit, reflecting great credit upon the management. Kris Kringle remembered the little ones right royally.

A number of our young gentlemen contemplate a raid upon the favorite rink at Crookston soonly.

The christmas supper at the hotel de Biver would have done credit to many a more pretentious hostelry. The menu was simply perfect.

Wells Misner expects to start for his old home at Fond du Lac, Wis., next week, on a visit to parents, relatives, friends and the girl he left behind him after an absence of four years. Success and a good time attend him.

Mrs. Wm. Pierce presented her husband a very handsome Christmas gift—a son.

Sie Mead is homesick—says he never had any use for bear-traps in his old Wisconsin home so far away. We sympathize with you, Sie.

In the case of Carr vs. Loughbridge, tried before Justice Kirsch last Wednesday, judgment was rendered for plaintiff.

Mr. S. D. Knapp has kindly offered to furnish a four in hand for a New Year's ride for our young folks. One more such offer would afford all an opportunity of enjoying Mrs. Davidson's noted hospitality. She entertains in right royal style.

At the last meeting of the literary society Dr. J. S. Chapin was elected president and Mr. M. P. Losey vice-president; C. E. Southmayd secretary.

The C. O. D. and the Excelsior One Price Clothing House will be found ready for business this morning at Chiniquy's old stand. They have the new place neatly fixed up and in a day or so will be stowed away in there as snug as a bug in a rug. Drop in and buy a suit of clothes and don't stand around outside freezing to death.

Some even remarked that the weather appeared to be somewhat cold on Wednesday.

A Card of Thanks.

The G. A. R. Post desires to return its sincere thanks to the members of the dramatic club and all who took part in rendering the Spy of Atlanta such a signal success.

BY ORDER OF COMMITTEE.

Strayed.

From my premises at East Grand Forks, on Friday night Dec. 19th 1884, one team brown mares; one branded "T. S." on right hip. Ten dollars reward will be paid for information leading to their recovery.

GUST MELIN,
[36-38] East Grand Forks.

Whoop-a-la! We are bound to scalp anything in the way of prices on Christmas and New Year's presents for old and young. Medical Hall. 33-tf

We would say to the people of Crookston and vicinity that we have received our Christmas and New Year's cards, the finest ever brought to this city, which we will sell at a very low figure, M. Van Dyke & Co.

Fine stationery a specialty at M. Van Dyke & Co's.

MARRIED.

BIVINS—FISK.—At the residence of W. G. Lytle, by the Rev. C. E. Page, on Wednesday Dec. 29th 1884. Mr. Burton Bivins to Miss Emma Fisk, daughter of R. C. Fisk, Esq.

The happy couple left on Wednesday evening's train for a visit to the old home of the groom in Wabasha Co. Burt is well and favorably known in this city where he has resided since 1878, while his lovely and accomplished bride who came to this county with her parents from Richville, N. Y. two years since has made many friends here who will all unite with the JOURNAL in throwing the slipper and wishing the happy couple a long and useful life.

ROOME—DAVIS.—In this city, at the residence of J. B. Roome, Esq., by the Rev. S. Currie, on Wednesday, Dec. 24th 1884, Mr. Frank B. Roome to Miss Ida M. Davis, all of Polk Co., Minn.

HAUSER—WELLS.—In Ada, Norman Co., Minn., by the Rev. J. Wells, on Sunday Dec. 24th 1884, Mr. W. B. Hauser to Miss Julia A. Wells, all of Norman Co., Minn.

The happy couple took the early train on Monday morning for a visit with friends and relatives in Minneapolis. Mr. H. has many friends in this city who will rejoice in his good fortune and wish him oceans of good luck.

LEO—WAAK.—In this city, Saturday Dec. 27th 1884, by Rev. C. A. S. DeCarufel, Mr. John Leo of Crookston, to Miss Carolina Waak, of Moorhead.

That accounts for it. We have noticed that John has seemed to have a vast deal of business to transact "with his brother in Moorhead" for some time past. We presume this settles all that and John will not now be obliged to go so far to see his "brother." THE JOURNAL extends its sincere congratulations.

LYTLE—ROOME.—At the residence of the bride's parents in this city by the Rev. C. E. Page, on Thursday Dec. 25th 1884, Mr. Van C. Lytle to Miss Orilla E. Roome, all of Polk Co.

And so they go. "Leaf by leaf" etc., and wheat begins to look up. Keep on in the good way until wheat reaches $1. The happy couple have the sincere congratulations of THE JOURNAL.

Lost in the Village of Euclid, on Wednesday, November 12th, 1884, a black leather pocket-book containing $910 in bills. A reward of one hundred dollars will be paid on the return of the pocket-book and money.

R. CASEY.
Euclid, Minn. [36-tf]

IF YOU
WANT A FINE JOB OF ANY KIND DONE IN THE Watch or Jewelry Line
GO TO
C. H. SAAKE, - SECOND STREET.
You will get in deed and in fact,
Not simply in name, but in truth.
FINE WATCH REPAIRING A SPECIALTY.
C. H. SAAKE,
Practical Watchmaker, Jeweler and Optician, Crookston.

Crookston City Bakery,
Peter Lorge, Prop,
Keeps constantly on hand a full line of all goods usually found in a
First-Class Bakery
Cigars and Tobacco, Nuts, Fruits,
Candies, Pies, Cakes, Bread,
And everything to fill out a hungry man, constantly on hand.

Those mechanical toys at Medical Hall are the wonder and delight of young and old. It will pay you to see them. Potter & George. 33-tf

Notice to Farmers.
C. Kretzschmar's Grist Mill, at Red Lake Falls, is again open for business. Flour will be exchanged for wheat, or your wheat will be ground on shares. A good feed mill is run in connection with the mill and satisfaction in all cases is guaranteed. Flour and feed on hand at all times and sold at lowest market rates.
[16-tf] C. KRETZSCHMAR.

The best five cent cigars is at the Red Star Grocery, Broadway. [51-tf]

TO PARTIES DESIRING INSURANCE!
We represent the following old and reliable Fire Insurance Companies:

	Assets.
Ætna	9,182,644
American	1,304,519
Fire Association	4,279,676
Underwriters	3,639,794
Orient	1,411,891
Phenix	5,919,463
Lancashire	6,787,983
Milwaukee Mech	1,129,875
Germania	2,700,729

Having represented nearly all of the above companies for 14 years we have acquainted ourselves with the business, and think that we can justly claim the patronage of the public, who can depend upon having insurance written correctly and losses adjusted promptly.
MOSES & MOECKEL.

John Kauppe.
General Agent in the Red River Valley of the Netherlands American Land Company of Amsterdam, Holland.
Money to loan on good real estate security, on time to suit the borrower. Office over Merchant's Bank. [1-tf]

For Sale Cheap.
A complete set of bar fixtures. Call on August Wentzel for particulars. [19-tf]

NO SURPRISE!
THE GOVERNMENT ENDORSES
The American Agriculturist.
FROM THE TENTH CENSUS, VOL. 8, JUST PUBLISHED:
"The American Agriculturist is especially worthy of mention, because of the remarkable success that has attended the unique and untiring efforts of its proprietors to increase and extend its circulation. Its contents are duplicated every month for a German edition, which also circulates widely."
This tribute is a pleasing incident in the marvellous nearly
HALF A CENTURY
career of this recognized leading Agricultural Journal of the world.
What it is To-Day.
Six months ago the American Agriculturist entered upon a NEW CAREER OF PROSPERITY, and to-day it is far superior to any similar periodical ever produced in this or any other country. Richer in editorial strength; richer engravings; printed on finer paper, and presenting in every issue 100 columns of original reading matter from the ablest writers, and nearly 100 illustrations. Dr. George Thurber, for nearly a quarter of a century the editor-in-chief of the American Agriculturist, Joseph Harris, Byron D. Halsted, Col. M. C. Weld and Andrew S. Fuller, the other long time editors, together with the other writers who have made the American Agriculturist what it is to-day, ARE STILL AT THEIR POSTS.
WHAT, FREE?
Every subscriber, whose subscription is IMMEDIATELY forwarded us with the price, $1.50 per year, and 15 cents extra for postage on Cyclopedia—making $1.65 in all—will receive the American Agriculturist for Dec, 1884, and all of 1885, and will be presented with the AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST FAMILY CYCLOPÆDIA, (just out.) 700 Pages and over 1,000 Engravings. Strongly bound in cloth, black and gold.
This entirely new volume is a remarkable storehouse and book of reference for every department of human knowledge, including an Agricultural supplement by Dr. Thurber.
Send three 2-cent stamps for mailing you specimen copy American Agriculturist, an elegant 40-page Premium List, with 200 Illustrations, and specimen pages of our Family Cyclopædia. Canvassers wanted everywhere.
Address PUBLISHERS AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST.
DAVID W. JUDD, Pres't. SAM'L BURNHAM, Sec.
751 Broadway, New York. [25-36]

MERCHANTS'
BILLIARD HALL,
FRED ANDERSON, Proprietor.
CROOKSTON, - - - MINNESOTA
The choicest Wines, Liquors and Cigars constantly on hand.

DR. M. WATTS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
OFFICE ON ROBERT STREET.
Professional calls by day or night attended to with promptness.

THE PIONEER
HARNESS SHOP,
M. RAPENBUEHLER, Proprietor,
CORNER OAK AND THIRD STS., CROOKSTON, MINN.
ready for the Spring trade with a full supply of Work and Light Harness, Single and Double Saddles, Bridles, Whips, Blankets, etc. Give me a call before you purchase.

WANTED!
5,000 Men, Women and Children
—TO VISIT—
HacK & Gallasch
General Store, where you can buy
13 lbs. Pure Sugar for......$1.00
12 lbs. Turkish Prunes for...... 1.00
5 three lb. cans Table Peaches for.. 1.00
Japan Tea from......20 to 60 cts per lb
1 long bar of soap, and 1 towel, all for...... .25c
Our stock of
DRY GOODS, NOTIONS,
AND DRESS GOODS IS COMPLETE.
Don't fail to visit our Shoe and Slipper department before buying elsewhere New and complete stock of Groceries Crockery, Glassware, Flour and Feed,
☞ We pay the highest market price for Butter, Eggs, Snake Root, Etc.
Call and see us. NO TROUBLE TO SHOW GOODS.
Cor. Main and Second Street,

ATTENTION
Now is the Time to Build
While you can buy
Cream Brick
at Very Low Figures. The Best Brick ever made in the Red River Valley. Manufactured by SWANSON & KOEPPE,
[11-15] Crookston, Minn.

CITY ICE HOUSE!
E. D. SCHRAEDER & CO., Proprietors,
CROOKSTON, - - - MINN.
Having purchased the ice house business of Ruedy & Kindler, and put up during the past winter from 75,000 to 100,000 tons of ice, we are now prepared to supply the trade the coming summer at reasonable figures.
E. D. SCHRAEDER & CO.

Wentzel & Rauch,
Sample Rooms,
MAIN STREET, - - - CROOKSTON, MINN
For a fine mixed or straight drink call on the boys. The choicest liquors and cigars in stock. [9-tf]

AIME GABOURY,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Graduate Doctor in Medicine Laval University Canada. Licensed Coll. Phy. Surg., Quebec Late of Michigan University, U. S.
Office over Barber's store, Second St.
CROOKSTON MINN

MERCHANTS'
Bank of Crookston.
H. B. MONTGOMERY......President, St. Paul, Minn.
M. R. BROWN,......Vice President, Crookston, Minn.
J. KELSO......Second Vice President, Bellevue, Iowa.
Wm. ROSS......Cashier, Crookston, Minn.
CASH CAPITAL, $32,000
SURPLUS, $16,533.32.
Will receive deposits and allow interest by special contract.
Buy and Sell Foreign and Domestic Exchange, make collections, and do a strictly legitimate business.
Agents for foreign passage tickets.
De Skandinaviske Sprog tales her.
WM. ROSS, Cashier.

McKINNON BRO'S
CARRIAGE WORKS!
Robert Street,
Crookston, - Minn.
AGENTS FOR THE
J. I. CASE THRESHING MACHINES!
And Manufacturers of Carriages, Wagons,
BUGGIES,
Cutters, Sleds, &c.
Axles, Springs, and all Repairs kept in stock,
DEALERS IN
FARM MACHINERY.
In Farm Machinery we have the Champion Seeder, Fargo Diamond Tooth Harrow, Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow, Davenport and Grand Detour Sulky and Walking Plows, Buford Gang Plows, Field Rollers of all sizes, Warrior Mowers, the leading Hay Rake and first-class Harvesters and Binders, the Webber Wagon and McKinnon Bros. Wagon, In fact we have everything in machinery, from A Wheelbarrow to a Threshing Machine!
—EXTRAS—
For all Machines constantly on hand

E. M. WALSH,
DEALER IN
Hardware, Tinware
BAR IRON, STEEL,
BLACKSMITHS SUPPLIES,
BUILDING PAPER,
&c., &c. Also Agent
For the Celebrated Monitor Plows.
CROOKSTON, MINN.

THE
J. I. CASE
THRESHING MACHINE COMPANY
The Dennet or Beloit
HARVESTING MACHINE COMPANY
And the Van Brunt & Davis
SEEDER COMPANY,
Are Represented
BY
STEENERSON BROS.,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

HOW TO BE HEALTHY!
Drink LePage's
35c Tea and 35c pure Java Coffee
AND SMOKE MY NICKEL PILGRIM CIGAR.
HOW TO BE WEALTHY!
COME TO THE RED STAR GROCERY
And Save Money on everything you buy.
AND IF YOU ARE WISE
You will buy only Pure and Fresh Groceries. THE RED STAR GROCERY is the place to get them and there you will find Prices the Lowest. Farmers and others bring in your Butter and Eggs and get highest prices for them. Remember the RED STAR, one door south of Montreal House.
E. LEPAGE, Broadway, Crookston, Minn

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, January 1, 1885.

'ROUND HOME.

1885. Don't forget to write it 1885.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Walker are in Montreal.

Get there Eli! To Medical Hall. Toys, toys, toys, cheap, cheap, cheapest. 33-tf

Wheat is going up but prices remains as low as ever at Hack & Gallasch.

Best Patent Flour $2.25 per hundred lbs. at Hack & Gallasch.

Somewhat blustery on Tuesday. Trains all on time however.

Dune Morris returned on Saturday. He has settled with the G. A. R. and taken their receipt in full.

See the new ad of the new Second street jeweler and drop in and see what he can do for you in his line.

J. H. Prescott, formerly a happy granger at Euclid, arrived in the city on Tuesday from a sojourn in Dakota.

Gardner Stevens went below on Monday with one Grandbois, accused of stealing timber from Government lands.

If you want a rattling good cigar don't take our word for it, but take ten cents and go and try one of those what you read about at Van Dyke & Co's.

The little Misses Copeland entertained a number of their little friends at tea on Tuesday evening. A very enjoyable season is reported.

Sleds, sleighs and sleds. Make a grab before they are gone. Medical Hall. [33-tf]

Rev. C. E. Page will preach next Sunday evening on "Amusements" at the Congregational church. Services commence at 7 p. m., sharp.

The Commercial house has met with a change of heart this week, Mr. S. P. Norton goes out and a gentleman from Grand Forks takes his place.

Christmas cards did you say? Well, just go to Potter & George, and see if they don't beat the bugs in variety and low prices, Medical Hall. [33-tf]

Before the holidays he dassent go upon his claim, (because he had his orders,) and now it is so "blooming" cold he can't. Sich is life under the Queen's government.

Hack & Gallasch have a large stock of winter goods, which they must sell by Jan. 1st 85. Call and see them and buy for $1.00 what will cost you $1.50 elsewhere.

A new stock of photograph and autograph albums selling very cheap at M. Van Dyke & Co's.

The new Second street jeweler, Mr. Saake, from Grand Forks, comes well recommended. He will soon receive his goods and be ready to receive his customers. Go in and look over his stock.

Every Democrat in Polk County ought to buy some of those Cleveland toys from Potter & George of Medical Hall. 33-tf

Mr. Churchill and family, Dr. Just and Bert Wells intend to start next week for their claims. Mr. Churchill intends to remain all winter. The doctor and Bert will hold down their claims a week or so and then return to civilization.

Gene Ferry goes into the Linton house. Gene is a rustler and he is well and favorably known all over North America, wherever there is a good hotel to be kept and a weary traveler to be well "pervided" for, Gene is a "good pervider."

Capt. Eustrom's son Henry, is reported to have been killed by the accidental discharge of a revolver in his own hand. Capt. Eustrom is well known as the popular Auditor of Kittson County, and Henry was foreman of the big Kelso farm.

Mr. A. A. Olds has returned from a pleasant visit to the old home and will now go to work and make up new brooms enough to keep Crookston clean for six months or a year. Mr. Olds makes the boss broom they all do say who have used them.

The Moorhead News issued a neat little holiday supplement. By the way Mr. Lamphere deserves of the people of Moorhead something better than thanks for the faithful manner in which he has kept a daily alive and for the labor and expense he is putting into the enterprise. Most of us would give it up in despair. We fear he is not making his fortune.

Chas. D. Fox, deputy Clerk of the Court left Moorhead suddenly for Winnipeg on Saturday evening last. The Clerk, Gus Hendricks, got onto the racket and telegraphed to have him detained at St. Vincent which was done and Sheriff Sloggy went down on Sunday, returning to Moorhead on Monday with his Fox, who confesses to $1200 shortage in his accounts. Fox says that wine and women have wrought his ruin.

Wm. Davidson, of Euclid went below on Monday after some milch cows. He is going to try a little good butter.

Chief of Police Hennessy, of Grand Forks, and Dept. Sheriff Dennis Dwyer of East Grand Forks were after a couple who went through the headquarters saloon on Sunday last for $300 or so. They had tracked their game to the neighborhood of Mallory to which place they followed on Tuesday evening's train. We have not learned what luck they had but if the thieves get away from those two officers they are good ones.

J. H. Kling has returned from his eastern trip.

Drop in and see the new clothing house on Main street.

The county Commissioners will meet next week, Monday, we believe.

Fred Chapin has gone on a visit to his old home in Prattsburgh, Steuben Co., N. Y.

The Catholic fair last night was a great success in point of numbers as well as financially considered.

Wheat has taken a tumble upwards. It is now selling at 55 in this city and will doubtless go higher yet before it drops.

Max Ericsson has a big stock of liquors on the way and will enter the wholesale trade upon their arrival. Look out for his announcement.

Hon. Knute Nelson spent Christmas with his family, at Alexandria. He is not very sanguine that his pine land bill will pass during this session as the session will be a short one and it will doubtless not be reached on general orders.

Rev. Thos. McClary, Presiding Elder of this district in the M. E. church, will preach at this place next Sunday both morning and evening. He will remain during the following week to assist in special services which will be held each evening.

Mr. Fairweather, of Euclid, greeted friends in the city on Wednesday. Mr. F. is one of those genial Scotch gentlemen whom it is ever a pleasure to meet and his knowledge of stock is a fund of information possessed but by few. He don't believe in wheat alone.

Our apologies are due to the ladies who handed in their notices of New Year's receptions. Owing to our necessary absence from the office for the most of the week we are unable to get out in time to do them any good and for that reason we are obliged to omit them.

It was our pleasure to take dinner at the Richardson house in Grand Forks, on Tuesday. The wild winds made mad war without and we dittoed on roast turkey and sich, within. Such coffee? It is needless to remark about that to those who know mine host Topping, or who has ever sampled his bill of fare. Topping knows how to keep hotel and anent this subject arises the regret that he found it necessary to leave Crookston. We believe the reason was too high rent and right here we are tempted to preach a little to those who own buildings to rent in our city, who are interested in building it up, least the temptation to put up the price to exorbitant rates prove too strong but we think this case as an example is sufficient. Mr. Topping did not say so in so many words but we believe that should an opening occur he could be prevailed upon to return. That he is the right man in the right place in a hotel and that he is a man that Crookston can ill afford to lose we believe all will agree. We trust the way will open for his return at an early day.

A nice stock of goods has been ordered and will arrive in the next few days.

C. H. SAAKE,

Jeweler and watchmaker, Second Street, Crookston.

The Olive Leaf

a bright little paper published at Euclid, by the Literary Society, has found its way to our table. It shows journalistic ability of a very high order, and when Cleveland shall have invited its editor to a cold seat far removed from the Government crib—may that day never arrive—should it ever happen we should advise the O. L.'s editor to obtain a power press and sail in. We gladly X and here goes for clippings:

EUCLID OLIVE LEAFLETS.

Our cold weather has improved—somewhat. Last Tuesday registered 40° below. No blizzard so far this winter.

Our old friend, Charlie Rauch, has left us. Our loss is Crookston's gain.

Robt. Teal has laid up his well apparatus for the winter. It is too cold for that kind of business.

We were pleased to see Mr. and Mrs. Tiedt, and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Teal Sr. enjoy themselves at the masquerade. We love to see our seniors as well as the young people enjoy themselves.

David Fairweather and sister, came up from Minneapolis to spend the holidays with their parents.

Mrs. C. E. Misner and son spent Christmas in Crookston with her parents. Charlie endured until Saturday then went down to escort her home.

Rev. J. P. Schell and son, Plummer, Simmons, W. Davidson and Lizzie Crookshanks, were the Euclid delegates to Crookston on Saturday.

The masquerade was a grand success both as to attendance and enjoyment. E. C. Murray and Henry Blyer make good and gentlemanly floor managers. The prizes were won by Miss Dora Horton and Mr. G. Vonder Beck. Miss H's dress and cap were profusely adorned with turkey feathers. She had a fan of the same materials. Mr. Vonder Beck represented a Chippewa brave sustaining his part as well as tho' to he manner born.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Ballou spent Christmas with Rev. J. P. Schell. E. B. is one of the old-timers here and all were glad to greet him again.

Mr. M. P. Losey is getting out plans and specifications for a roller skating rink, opera house and hall. Mr. L. is always ready to make any and all improvements likely to prove beneficial to the public.

The Christmas Cantata and Tree furnished a vast fund of enjoyment and profit, reflecting great credit upon the management. Kris Kringle remembered the little ones right royally.

A number of our young gentlemen contemplate a raid upon the favorite rink at Crookston soonly.

The christmas supper at the hotel de Biver would have done credit to many a more pretentious hostelry. The menu was simply perfect.

Wells Misner expects to start for his old home at Fond du Lac, Wis., next week, on a visit to parents, relatives, friends and the girl he left behind him after an absence of four years. Success and a good time attend him.

Mrs. Wm. Pierce presented her husband a very handsome Christmas gift—a son.

Sis Mead is homesick—says he never had any use for bear-traps in his old Wisconsin home so far away. We sympathize with you, Sic.

In the case of Carr vs. Loughbridge, tried before Justice Kirsch last Wednesday, judgment was rendered for plaintiff.

Mr. S. D. Knapp has kindly offered to furnish a four in hand for a New Year's ride for our young folks. One more such offer would afford all an opportunity of enjoying Mrs. Davidson's noted hospitality. She entertains in right royal style.

At the last meeting of the literary society Dr. J. S. Chapin was elected president and Mr. M. P. Losey vice-president; C. E. Southmayd secretary.

The C. O. D. and the Excelsior One Price Clothing House will be found ready for business this morning at Chiniquy's old stand. They have the new place neatly fixed up and in a day or so will be stowed away in there as snug as a bug in a rug. Drop in and buy a suit of clothes and don't stand around outside freezing to death.

Some one remarked that the weather appeared to be somewhat cold on Wednesday.

A Card of Thanks.

The G. A. R. Post desires to return its sincere thanks to the members of the dramatic club and all who took part in rendering the Spy of Atlanta such a signal success.

BY ORDER OF COMMITTEE.

Strayed.

From my premises at East Grand Forks, on Friday night Dec. 19th 1884, one team brown mares; one branded "T. S." on right hip. Ten dollars reward will be paid for information leading to their recovery.

GUST MELIN,
[36-38] East Grand Forks.

Whoop-a-la! We are bound to scalp anything in the way of prices on Christmas and New Year's presents for old and young. Medical Hall. 33-tf

---

We would say to the people of Crookston and vicinity that we have received our Christmas and New Year's cards, the finest ever brought to this city, which we will sell at a very low figure, M. Van Dyke & Co.

Fine stationery a specialty at M. Van Dyke & Co's.

MARRIED.

BIVINS—FISK.—At the residence of W. G. Lytle, by the Rev. C. E. Page, on Wednesday Dec. 29th 1884, Mr. Burton Bivins to Miss Emma Fisk, daughter of R. C. Fisk, Esq.

The happy couple left on Wednesday evening's train for a visit to the old home of the groom in Wabasha Co. Burt is well and favorably known in this city where he has resided since 1878, while his lovely and accomplished bride who came to this county with her parents from Richville, N. Y. two years since has made many friends here who will all unite with the JOURNAL in throwing the slipper and wishing the happy couple a long and useful life.

ROOME—DAVIS.—In this city, at the residence of J. B. Roome, Esq., by the Rev. S. Currie, on Wednesday, Dec. 24th 1884, Mr. Frank B. Roome to Miss Ida M. Davis, all of Polk Co., Minn.

HAUSER—WELLS.—In Ada, Norman Co., Minn., by the Rev. J. Wells, on Sunday Dec. 28th 1884, Mr. W. B. Hauser to Miss Julia A. Wells, all of Norman Co., Minn.

The happy couple took the early train on Monday morning for a visit with friends and relatives in Minneapolis. Mr. H. has many friends in this city who will rejoice in his good fortune and wish him oceans of good luck.

LEO—WAAK.—In this city, Saturday Dec. 27th 1884, by Rev. C. A. S. DeCarufel, Mr. John Leo of Crookston, to Miss Carolina Waak, of Moorhead.

That accounts for it. We have noticed that John has seemed to have a vast deal of business to transact "with his brother in Moorhead" for some time past. We presume this settles all that and John will not now be obliged to go so far to see his "brother." THE JOURNAL extends its sincere congratulations.

LYTLE—ROOME.—At the residence of the bride's parents in this city by the Rev. C. E. Page, on Thursday Dec. 25th 1884, Mr. Van C. Lytle to Miss Orilla E. Roome, all of Polk Co.

And so they go. "Leaf by leaf," etc. and wheat begins to look up. Keep on in the good way until wheat reaches $1. The happy couple have the sincere congratulations of THE JOURNAL.

Lost in the Village of Euclid, on Wednesday November 12th, 1884, a black leather pocket-book containing $010 in bills. A reward of one hundred dollars will be paid on the return of the pocket-book and money.

R. CAMPEY,
Euclid, Minn. [illegible]

IF YOU

WANT A FINE JOB OF ANY KIND DONE IN THE

Watch or Jewelry Line

GO TO

C. H. SAAKE, - SECOND STREET.

You will get in deed and in fact,
Not simply in name, but in truth.

FINE WATCH REPAIRING A SPECIALTY.

C. H. SAAKE,

Practical Watchmaker, Jeweler and Optician, Crookston.

Crookston City Bakery,

Peter Lorge, Prop,

Keeps constantly on hand a full line of all goods usually found in a

First-Class Bakery

Cigars and Tobacco, Nuts, Fruits,
Candies, Pies, Cakes, Bread,

And everything to fill out a hungry man, constantly on hand.

Those mechanical toys at Medical Hall are the wonder and delight of young and old. It will pay you to see them. Potter & George. 33-tf

Notice to Farmers.

C. Kretzschmar's Grist Mill, at Red Lake Falls, is again open for business. Flour will be exchanged for wheat, or your wheat will be ground on shares. A good feed mill is run in connection with the mill and satisfaction in all cases is guaranteed. Flour and feed on hand at all times and sold at lowest market rates.

[16-tf] C. KRETZSCHMAR.

The best five cent cigars is at the Red Star Grocery, Broadway. [51-tf]

TO PARTIES DESIRING INSURANCE!

We represent the following old and reliable Fire Insurance Companies:

	Assets.
Ætna	$9,182,644
American	1,804,519
Fire Association	4,279,676
Underwriters	3,629,794
Orient	1,411,834
Phœnix	5,919,403
Lancashire	3,787,323
Milwaukee Mech	1,129,875
Germania	2,700,729

Having represented nearly all of the above companies for 14 years we have acquainted ourselves with the business, and think that we can justly claim the patronage of the public, who can depend upon having insurance written correctly and losses adjusted promptly.

MOSER & MOECKEL.

John Knuppe.

General Agent in the Red River Valley of the Netherlands American Land Company of Amsterdam, Holland.

Money to loan on good real estate security, on time to suit the borrower. Office over Merchant's Bank. [1-tf]

For Sale Cheap,

A complete set of bar fixtures. Call on August Wentzel for particulars. [19-tf]

NO SURPRISE!

THE GOVERNMENT ENDORSES

The American Agriculturist.

FROM THE TENTH CENSUS, VOL. 3, JUST PUBLISHED:

"The American Agriculturist is especially worthy of mention, because of the remarkable success that has attended the unique and untiring efforts of its proprietors to increase and extend its circulation. Its contents are duplicated every month for a German edition, which also circulates widely."

This tribute is a pleasing incident in the marvellous nearly

HALF A CENTURY

career of this recognized leading Agricultural Journal of the world.

What it is To-Day.

Six months ago the American Agriculturist entered upon a NEW CAREER OF PROSPERITY, and to-day it is far superior to any similar periodical ever produced in this or any other country. Richer in editorial strength; richer engravings; printed on finer paper, and presenting in every issue 100 columns of original reading matter from the ablest writers, and nearly 100 illustrations. Dr. George Thurber, for nearly a quarter of a century the editor-in-chief of the American Agriculturist, Joseph Harris, Byron D. Halsted, Col. M. C. Weld and Andrew S. Fuller, the other long time editors, together with the other writers who have made the American Agriculturist what it is to-day, ARE STILL AT THEIR POSTS.

WHAT, FREE?

Every subscriber, whose subscription is IMMEDIATELY forwarded us with the price, $1.50 per year, and 15 cents extra for postage on Cyclopedia—making $1.65 in all—will receive the American Agriculturist for Dec, 1884, and all of 1885, and will be presented with the AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST FAMILY CYCLOPÆDIA, (just out.) 700 Pages and over 1,000 Engravings. Strongly bound in cloth, black and gold.

This entirely new volume is a remarkable storehouse and book of reference for every department of human knowledge, including an Agricultural supplement by Dr. Thurber.

Send three 2-cent stamps for mailing you specimen copy American Agriculturist, an elegant 40-page Premium List, with 250 illustrations, and specimen pages of our Family Cyclopædia. Canvassers wanted everywhere.

Address PUBLISHERS AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST.

DAVID W. JUDD, Pres't. SAM'L BURNHAM, Sec.
751 Broadway, New York. [25-36]

MERCHANTS'

BILLIARD HALL,

FRED ANDERSON, Proprietor.

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA

The choicest Wines, Liquors and Cigars constantly on hand.

DR. M. WATTS,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.

OFFICE ON ROBERT STREET.

Professional calls by day or night attended to with promptness.

THE PIONEER

HARNESS SHOP.

M. HABENBUEHLER, Proprietor,

CORNER OAK AND THIRD STS., CROOKSTON MINN.

ready for the Spring trade with a full supply of Work and Light Harness, Single and Double, Saddles, Bridles, Whips, Blankets, etc. Give me a call before you purchase.

WANTED!

5,000 Men, Women and Children

—TO VISIT—

HacK & Gallasch

General Store, where you can buy

18 lbs. Pure Sugar for	$1.00
12 lbs. Turkish Prunes for	1.00
5 three lb. cans Table Peaches for	1.00
Japan Tea from	20 to 60 cts per lb
1 long bar of soap and 1 towel, all for	25c

Our stock of

DRY GOODS, NOTIONS, AND DRESS GOODS IS COMPLETE.

Don't fail to visit our Shoe and Slipper department before buying elsewhere New and complete stock of Groceries Crockery, Glassware, Flour and Feed.

We pay the highest market price for Butter, Eggs, Snake Root, Etc.

Call and see us. NO TROUBLE TO SHOW GOODS.

Cor. Main and Second Street,

ATTENTION

Now is the Time to Build

While you can buy

Cream Brick

at Very Low Figures. The Best Brick ever made in the Red River Valley. Manufactured by

SWANSON & KOEPPE,

[11-18] Crookston. Minn.

CITY ICE HOUSE!

E. D. SCHRAEDER & CO., Proprietors,

CROOKSTON, MINN.

Having purchased the ice house business of Ruedy & Kindler, and put up during the past winter from 75,000 to 100,000 tons of ice, we are now prepared to supply the trade the coming summer at reasonable figures.

E. D. SCHRAEDER & Co.

Wentzel & Rauch,

Sample Rooms,

MAIN STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN

For a fine mixed or straight drink call on the boys. The choicest liquors and cigars in stock. [9-tf]

AIME GABOURY,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Graduate Doctor in Medicine Laval University Canada. Licensed Coll. Phy. Surg., Quebec Late of Michigan University, U. S.

Office over Barber's store, Second St. CROOKSTON MINN

MERCHANTS'

Bank of Crookston,

H. B. MONTGOMERY, President, St. Paul, Minn.

M. R. BROWN, Vice President, Crookston, Minn.

J. KELSO, Second Vice President, Bellevue, Iowa.

Wm. ROSS, Cashier, Crookston, Minn.

CASH CAPITAL, $32,000

SURPLUS, $16,533.32.

Will receive deposits and allow interest by special contract.

Buy and Sell Foreign and Domestic Exchange, make collections, and do a strictly legitimate business.

Agents for foreign passage tickets.

De Skandinaviske Sprog tales her.

WM. ROSS, Cashier.

McKINNON BRO'S

CARRIAGE WORKS!

Robert Street,

Crookston, - Minn.

AGENTS FOR THE

J. I. CASE THRESHING MACHINES!

And Manufacturers of

Carriages, Wagons,
BUGGIES,
Cutters, Sleds, &c.

Axles, Springs, and all Repairs kept in stock,

DEALERS IN

FARM MACHINERY.

In Farm Machinery we have the Champion Seeder, Fargo Diamond Tooth Harrow, Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow, Davenport and Grand Detour Sulky and Walking Plows, Buford Gang Plows, Field Rollers of all sizes, Warrior Mowers, the leading Hay Rake and first-class Harvesters and Binders, the Webber Wagon and McKinnon Bros. Wagon, In fact we have everything in machinery, from

A Wheelbarrow to a Threshing Machine!

EXTRAS

For all Machines constantly on hand

E. M. WALSH,

DEALER IN

Hardware, Tinware

BAR IRON, STEEL,

BLACKSMITHS SUPPLIES,

BUILDING PAPER,

&c., &c. Also Agent

For the Celebrated Monitor Plows.

CROOKSTON, MINN.

THE

J. I. CASE

THRESHING MACHINE COMPANY

The Dennet or Beloit

HARVESTING MACHINE COMPANY.

And the Van Brunt & Davis

SEEDER COMPANY,

Are Represented

BY

STEENERSON BROS.,

CROOKSTON, MINN.

HOW TO BE HEALTHY!

Drink LePage's

35c Tea and 35c pure Java Coffee

AND SMOKE MY NICKEL PILGRIM CIGAR.

HOW TO BE WEALTHY!

COME TO THE RED STAR GROCERY

And Save Money on everything you buy.

AND IF YOU ARE WISE

You will buy only Pure and Fresh Groceries. THE RED STAR GROCERY is the place to get them and there you will find Prices the Lowest. Farmers and others bring in your Butter and Eggs and get highest prices for them. Remember the RED STAR, one door south of Montreal House.

F. LEPAGE, Broadway, Crookston, Minn.

The Detroit Surprise has resigned Receiver Aaker and appointed one Oakes or somebody. Well, we must say that is a decided "surprise" to us as well as to Mr. A. himself who naturally objects to being thus summarily disposed of without being consulted. Mr. Aaker has decided to remain nevertheless.

THE JOURNAL modestly considers itself endorsed. We have persistently held to the idea that there is not as much wheat in this country as there was last year and now this very statement is made by one of the leading Chicago dealers in the great cereal. We have maintained that the yield has been largely overstated for speculative purposes and events are seemingly justifying our position. If this is so, and there is no good reason to doubt it, then farmers have it in their power to take a hand in the deal that would prove of great benefit. Under the present system a large share of the advantage buyers are enabled to take is due to circumstances. They know that nearly every farmer is obliged or thinks he is, to sell immediately the grain is threshed and they lay their plans accordingly and heretofore farmers have tumbled right into the trap. Some by selling all at once and others by delivering their grain into the hands of the buyers, drawing a small amount thereon and waiting for a raise. These find that there is no occasion for a rise when once the millers have secured the grain and used it and they can afford to wait longer than can the farmer. Now, if, two or three years ago, the farmers instead of doing this had built granaries stored their wheat therein then insured it they could have drawn enough upon it for their immediate wants and could then have bided their time. The millers MUST have the grain or let their mills lie idle and that they could not afford to do. The result would have been that the miller would have had to come to time and paid what our wheat is worth in order to get it, but this work for two years has been so well done that we doubt whether this plan could be made to work—farmers are now unable to hold. The prospects are that wheat will be better next year than for several past years and our advice to farmers is to get out of debt if possible, then build granaries and be prepared to hold in the future. This could be done if farmers were generally organized into associations or granges, thus prepared to act unitedly. Much good can be and will be accomplished by our Legislature if wise counsels are allowed to prevail but it cannot accomplish everything. There are unalterable laws governing trade which cannot be regulated by any legislation. If it is true that the farmer holds the balance of power in politics and if it is true that all business depends for its success upon the farmer then it is also true that he can in the same degree control his own business, but it can never be done by allowing his business to run itself. It must be done by intelligent, concerted action. As soon as farmers generally awake to their own interests and organize they can do something. Never until they do.

Fargo Argus: The statement given in The Argus recently describing the tribulations of Mr. J. Weller's wheat in trying to make its way from his farm on the Red River to a market at Duluth, is illustrative of several points in the category of complaint. It will be remembered that he had 2,844.37 bushels on reaching Fargo. The passage of one elevator left him 2,675.40 bushels. The wheat was shipped to Fargo by barge, and of course was all of the same grade. Some six or seven cars were filled with it and receipts taken for each car, with the number and in due time it reached the "zenith city of the unsalted sea," and underwent a second cleaning and minor shrinkage, in all amounting to nearly ten per cent. He seems to have been fortunate in getting the bulk of it through. The main point illustrative of the Duluth method comes in here. The surviving portion of his shipment was graded as No. 1 hard, with the exception of one car, which was rated as No. 1 Northern. The other five cars lost but twenty pounds in the transit, but the sixth fell short twenty bushels and lost its grade. Very likely Mr. Weller was fortunate in not suffering greater shrinkage as others are reported to have done, but it furnishes ample indication of the methods in vogue there. The consignors and elevator people there are not at fault. Of course not. They do not control the grading. They say so and ought to know. The board of inspection fixes the grade, and is appointed by the board of trade. This body is the agile servitor of the elevator interest. All the business and commercial interests of Duluth circle around the elevators. Without them the grass would grow and the coyotes would revel in the streets. Was there no grain sent to the zenith port, a weekly hand car would suffice for its railroad traffic. Let this board of inspection cross the lines of the dominant interests there, and their official life would have no saline preservative. Even in cases like that of Mr. Weller where a car of grain of an inferior quality that did not belong to him was substituted for his No. 1 hard, or the other instance of lighter weight, the case is not greatly relieved. The numbers of his cars were named upon the receipts given here, and there could be no mistake not due to intention or the most culpable indifference. If there is such looseness and uncertainty about shipments there evidently there is need of reformation and a new deal. It is related by another Dakota farmer that he sent 2,000 bushels of No. 1 hard to that haven of absorbers, and only got pay for 1,500 bushels of No. 3 soft, and his complaints provoked unbounded merriment among the sleek, obese recipients, and he was told that his wheat was in the elevator with 4,000,000 bushels. Mr. Weller then was in exceptional luck to lose but one grade on one sixth of his shipment and less than ten per cent in shrinkage and cleaning. He might have had it all graded No. 1 northern or some lower grade, or a few cars of rejected substituted for his first grade. As Duluth subsists and gathers its shekels from the wheat growers, some latitude must be allowed its manipulators. They must live—at least that is their impression, though the necessity is not apparent at this distance—and how can they fatten and clothe themselves in fine furs except at the expense of the unsophisticated and docile wheat growers? Some, however insist that there should be assurance that the same wheat shipped shall be delivered to the consignees.

Sheep on Grain Farm.

The advantages arising from keeping sheep on wheat growing farms are thus summed up by Mr. Buell, in an address delivered before the sheep breeders of Michigan:

1. They are less subject to contagious diseases, for the reason that the flock can be more easily kept isolated.

2. When individual losses do occur, they are less in value than in case of the loss of a horse or cow.

3. They grow quickly and mature early, and with their fleece pay dividends oftener than any other live stock.

4. When summer fallowing is practiced they act as gleaners in cleaning fence corners of briars and weeds, and in keeping down annual grasses that spring up on plowed lands.

5. During winter they are still doing their work of converting the surplus straw into fertilizers.

It is not clear that the profits from sheep raising on farms where other crops are grown, instead of wheat, would be less than on wheat farms. Sheep make good use of corn stalks, prairie hay, oat straw and almost any kind of fodder or feed grown.

Farmers' Meeting at Jamestown.

Pioneer Press: A meeting of the farmers and business men of Stutsman County was held Dec. 27th for the consideration of grievances arising from present wheat grading outrages and the exorbitant freight and elevator charges along the line of the Northern Pacific railroad, and the proper means for remedying the same. A petition to the territorial legislature was adopted and a committee appointed to attend to its circulation throughout the county, and to its early presentation to the Legislature. The petition sets forth the grievances well known to exist, and recommends remedial measures which meet with very general approbation. The method of wheat grading now in vogue in the principal markets, Duluth in particular, very forcibly characterized as a damnable outrage. Steps were taken toward the organization of a Stutsman County agricultural society and a committee appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws and report at a future meeting. Public sentiment is becoming thoroughly aroused to the necessity that something be done to the effect that the railroad and elevator monopolies may not hereafter be able to take the entire profits of the farmers' toil.

Notice.

I desire to call the attention of the public to the fact that I have opened a Jewelry and Watchmaking business in the store formerly occupied by James McKenzie, Second Street, Crookston. I purpose to run a first-class jewelry store and shall adhere to the rule of promptness all the time. I would ask respectfully for a friendly patronage by the generous public.

C. H. SAAKE,

Fine watchmaker and jeweler, Crookston, Minn.

$100,000

To Loan on improved claims in sums of $250 to $2,000. Cash paid for school bonds. Call on or address,

JOHN McLEAN, Att'y at Law,

[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

Frank M. Brown,

COMMISSION

STORE,

Main Street, - Crookston.

TWO DOORS NORTH OF MERCHANTS' BANK.

Consignments of Goods for

QUICK CASH SALES

SOLICITED.

☞ Auction every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon.

M. M. VAN DYKE,

Physician and Surgeon,

Corner of Main and Second Streets,

CROOKSTON, MINN

Will attend to all professional calls promptly.

Crookston Tonsorial

PARLORS.

PROF. THOMPSON, Proprietor.

Robert Street, Crookston, Minn.

Shaving, hair dressing and all work in my line promptly attended to the latest style of the art. Give me a call.

P. A. DUFOUR,

Attorney and Counselor at Law,

MAIN STREET,

CROOKSTON, MINN.

Big Bonanza.

JOSEPH BARRETT

Has decided to Put on the Market his

ADDITION

TO THE

City of Crookston,

Next adjoining the Crookston Driving Park. Parties desiring to purchase

CHOICE LOTS

NOW IS YOUR TIME!

LOTS

For Sale Separately, or in

BLOCKS.

TERMS EASY!

Apply to the undersigned or at the office of C. B. Palmer, U. S. Land Office Building. Both English and French spoken.

JOSEPH BARRETT.

New York Store.

We call attention to the reduction in prices of Dry Goods, Notions, etc. Instead of reducing prices after January 1st, we intend doing so NOW, and give our customers a grand opportunity of purchasing goods at almost their own prices.

Black and colored Cashmeres, warranted all wool reduced to 50c; at this price they are the cheapest goods ever offered here.

A full line of the diamond black Cashmeres, at 60c, 75c, 95c, $1.25, $1.50. For value they have no equal; every yard we guarantee in every respect.

SILKS Reduced. SATINS Reduced. VELVETEENS Reduced.

SILK VELVETS—We have a fine assortment in silk velvets that we are selling at 80c; worth $2.00.

SHAWLS Reduced. CLOAKS Reduced. BLANKETS Reduced.

DRESS FLANNELS—Brown's navy, carmine, bronze, myrtle, steel grey, black, red, etc. Goods excellent colors.

Red flannels, blue flannels, grey flannels, cotton flannels,

White Bed Spreads only $1.00.

Collars, neckties and all kinds of domestics reduced.

BOOTS AND SHOES—Gents fine shoes—Reduced. Ladies fine shoes—Reduced.

☞ New and complete stock of Notions, Hosiery, Corsets, Silk Handkerchiefs, Jewelry, Perfumery, etc.

Our line of Kid Gloves at 75c. Bargains.

Call and ask our prices before buying. We are selling the closest cash buyers in the country, and we know we can save you big money.

PROUD & MACDONELL.

☞ Agents for Butterick Patterns. ☜

FARMERS, FARMERS,

WE ARE

Selling Lower Than Ever!

You will always find it to your advantage to

Trade with Us!

We Sell the Best for the LOWEST LIVING PRICES. Remember the place,

Broadway, bet. 2d and Robert Sts.

D. BUCHANAN.

DENTISTRY.

J. H. THOMAS, D. D. S.

ROBERT STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.

Artificial Teeth from one to an entire set inserted. Gold, Silver or Artificial Filling used as desired. Regulating Children's Teeth a specialty. ALL WORK WARRANTED.

JOHN N. IVES.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,

Collection and Land Office Business made a specialty. Money secured for final proofs on short notice.

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

City and County Directory.

☞ We wish to make this directory as reliable as possible, and consequently request all parties interested to notify us of any changes in their respective announcements.

U. S. LAND OFFICE.

John Cromb	Register.
L. K. Aaker	Receiver.

Office hours from 8:30 a. m. to 12 m., and from 2:00 to 4:30 p. m.

MEMBER OF CONGRESS.

Knute Nelson	Alexandria.

DISTRICT COURT.

O. P. Stearns, Judge	Duluth.

STATE SENATOR.

Halvor Steenerson	Crookston.

REPRESENTATIVE.

A. H. Baker,	Ada.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

R. J. Montague	Judge of Probate.
T. C. Shapleigh	Clerk of Court.
C. S. Spendley	Register of Deeds.
P. J. McGuire,	Auditor.
O. H. Lucken	Treasurer.
John Leo	Court Commissioner.
Wm. Watts	Attorney.
V. D. Carruth	Supt. of Schools.
W. F. Jwickey	Sheriff.
H. Shephard	Coroner.
C. L. Brainard	Surveyor.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Knute Nelson—1st Dist	Aldal.
R. A. Bradish—2d "	Fisher.
M. R. Brown—2d "	Crookston.
C. Kretzschmar—4th "	Red Lake Falls.
T. Sullivan—5th "	East Grand Forks.

CITY OFFICIALS.

Mayor	E. M. Walsh.
Recorder	W. D. Hurlbut.
Treasurer	A. G. Gallasch.
Justices	G. W. Lewis, J. W. Lilly.
Ald.—1st Ward	Ole Bang, L. Fontaine.
—2d "	Henry Nolan, P. Bataglia.
—3d "	N. P. Stone, W. Walker.
—4th "	S. F. Markham, C. A. Chiniquy.
—at large	R. Houston.
City Attorney	J. N. Ives.
City Engineer	W. D. Hurlbut.
Marshal	J. Dowling.
Deputy Marshal	J. B. Fillatrault, Ole Bjoin.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

PRESBYTERIAN—Corner Broadway and Fifth street. Rev. R. L. Adams, Pastor. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 m. Prayer meeting in church every Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

Methodist Episcopal Church—Corner of Main and Fourth streets. Rev. J. C. Gullette, Ph D. Pastor. Services every Sabbath at 11 a. m. And 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30.

EPISCOPAL—Ash street, head of Second street. Rev. S. Currie, Rector. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Sunday School at 2:00 p. m.

CONGREGATIONAL—Rev. C. E. Page, Pastor. Corner Third and Ash streets. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at noon.

BAPTIST—Rev. H. L. House, Pastor. Second street, between Broadway and Ash streets. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12:15 p. m. Young people's meeting from 6:15 to 7:15. Services always closed in time to allow those present to attend their own churches. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. A cordial invitation to all. Friday evening at 7, teacher's meeting at different homes.

CATHOLIC—Ash street. C. A. S. DeCarufel, Pastor. Services every Sunday at 8:30 and 10:30 a. m. 8:00 p. m.

CARMAN.

BAPTIST—F. K. Roberts, Pastor. Services in Baptist Block at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at noon. Prayer meeting Thursday evening.

SOCIETIES.

HIRAM LODGE, No. 73, A. O. U. W. Meets in K. P. Hall, Second and Fourth Thursday of each month.

C. H. MIX, M. W.

F. DRHLMER, Secretary.

PIERSON CHAPTER, R. A. M. Meets in Masonic Hall, First and Third Monday of each month.

T. C. SHAPLEIGH, H. P.

O. H. LUCKEN, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 79, I. O. O. F. Meets every Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows' Hall, over Post Office.

F. M. SCHWARK, N. G.

R. B. GATES, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 1,469, K. of H. Meets the First and Third Monday evening of each month, in Losey's Hall, Main street.

T. A. HARRIS, Dictator.

JAS. BUTLER, Reporter.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 141, A. F. & A. M. Meets on the Second and Fourth Saturday evening of each month, in Masonic Hall.

W. D. HURLBUT, W. M.

GEO. D. BUCKNAM, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 25, K. of P. Meets every Friday evening, in K. of P. Hall, on Broadway.

C. W. BARNES, C. C.

W. B. DAWLEY, K. of R. & S.

JOHN BEO. H. STEENERSON.

W. L. Sargeant

Veterinary Surgeon.

CROOKSTON, - - - - MINN.

Diseases of horses and cattle a specialty.

[9-tf

A. Allen,

AGENT

FOR THE

HOWE

SCALE

COMPANY.

Christening and Wedding Cakes Made upon Shortest Notice in the Best Style.

A Choice and Well Selected Stock of Confectionery Always on hand.

John Crawford & Son,

Proprietors of

Crawford's

Bakery,

SECOND STREET,

Crookston, Minn.

CONFECTIONERY

Fresh Bread, Buns, Cakes and Biscuits. All Articles in the Fancy Baking Line.

EIKEN BROS.,

Corner of Fletcher and Main Street, Crookston, Minn.

Dealers in

HARDWARE, TIWARE,

STOVES,

AND SHELFWARE.

WE KEEP A

FULL & COMPLETE

STOCK,

AND

Invite the Patronage

OF ALL.

Bigham & Olafson

(Successors to Juve & Bergland,)

THE POPULAR MERCHANTS ON

MAIN STREET, - - CROOKSTON

Have on hand and are constantly receiving full lines of

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES,

CROCKERY,

CLOTHING,

BOOTS AND SHOES,

HATS AND CAPS

In fact everything usually found in first-class general store.

☞ Our goods are bought with great care and will be sold at

LOW PRICES

☞ FOR CASH. ☜

Crookston Nurseries

ESTABLISHED IN 1870.

Tree Claim Stock.

I desire to inform my customers and others that I shall make a great reduction from former prices on forest trees and seeds for tree-claims. I have good thrifty two year old trees, such as Box Elder, Ash and Cottonwood to sell by the thousand. I also furnish the hardier varieties of

SMALL FRUITS,

Such as Currants, Gooseberries, Raspberries and Strawberry plants, and young, thrifty Transcendent and Hislop Crab Apple trees. The firm of Heseltine Bros. having dissolved, I still continue business on the

OLD NURSERY GROUNDS

in Crookston. Hoping by fair dealing and promptness with my customers to merit their patronage.

Don't fail to write for Catalogue and Prices.

☞ ALL COMMUNICATIONS PROMPTLY ANSWERED.

F. T. HASELTINE,

Proprietor of the Crookston Nurseries, Crookston, Minn.

NEW

DRUG STORE

IN GARFIELD

DR. A NELSON, Prop.

The citizens of this town and vicinity are respectfully invited to call at my new Drug Store in the town of Garfield and examine my stock of,

DRUGS, MEDICINES, PAINTS, OILS AND YANKEE NOTIONS.

It is no longer necessary to go 40 or 55 miles for anything in this line, as I have a full supply at prices as reasonable as any town in the Northwest. Call and see

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON

I am also ready to answer all calls day or night, for the practice of my profession. Call, or leave orders at my Drug Store in Garfield, Polk Co., Minn

DR. A. NELSON.

First National Bank

OF CROOKSTON.

PAID IN CAPITAL, $100,000

SURPLUS, 1,400

Money to loan on long or short time on approved security.

Interest on time deposits. Faithful attention to Collections and prompt remittance.

GEO. O. ERSKINE, President.

K. D. CHASE, Vice President.

ANSEL BATES, Cashier

LEO & STEENERSON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW

Room 3, U. S. Land Office Building,

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

The Toledo Blade

(NASBY'S PAPER.)

Circulation 191,000.

The Largest Circulation of any weekly paper in the United States.

The Largest Paper published in the United States at One Dollar per year.

The Best Paper and the Cheapest Paper.

The Only Paper publishing the Nasby Letters.

The Blade alone $1.00 per year; with Waterbury Watch, $3.50; with steel Engraving of Pilgrim's Progress (a fine engraving) $2.00.

Special terms to club raisers made known on application. Any week's issue of the Blade announces our bargains in cheap books, pictures, etc.

We want everybody to send postal card to us for a specimen copy.

It will tell its own story. A column advertisement would not afford room to describe its various departments and our announcements for the coming year. Write for a specimen, and also send the address of all your friends.

THE BLADE,

TOLEDO, OHIO.

A PURELY

National Paper

Circulating in Every State.

LOST!

$100 REWARD!

E. D. Schreader

LIVERY,

Feed and Sale Stable.

BEST TURNOUTS

IN THE CITY.

Single or Double Rigs, with or without driver or

SADDLE HORSES

Always ready at a moments notice by day or night. If you want a Nobby Turnout call at the Red Barn, Corner Main and Third Streets,

CROOKSTON. MINNESOTA.

THE

St. Paul,

Minneapolis

AND

Manitoba

RAILWAY,

WITH ITS

1,400 Miles of Road

Is the only line extending through the

Park Region of Minnesota,

To all principal points in

Red River Valley,

Northern Minnesota,

Northern Dakota,

And to Devil's Lake and Turtle Mountain Districts.

CONTAINING OVER

9,000,000 Acres

GOVERNMENT LANDS!

The Land department of the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway has exclusive charge of the Company's Lands in Minnesota, and all correspondence relative to the purchase of lands, terms, description or price of any particular tract should be addressed to that department.

Maps and pamphlets describing the country and giving rates of fare to settlers, etc., mailed FREE on application

JAS. B. POWER,

Land and Immigration Commissioner

C. H. WARREN,

General Passenger Agent,

St. P., M. & M. R'y., St. Paul, Minn.

NEW LIVERY,

Feed and Sale

STABLES.,

CORNER MAIN AND FOURTH STS.,

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA

TERRY & COLLINS, Prop's.

☞ Good Turnouts at all times at reasonable prices. Good Hearse and careful driver when needed.

WM. WATTS,

ATTORNEY AT LAW,

AND DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE.

OFFICE OVER MERCHANTS' BANK.

The Detroit Surprise has resigned Receiver Aaker and appointed one Oakes or somebody. Well, we must say that is a decided "surprise" to us as well as to Mr. A. himself who naturally objects to being thus summarily disposed of without being consulted. Mr. Aaker has decided to remain nevertheless.

THE JOURNAL modestly considers itself endorsed. We have persistently held to the idea that there is not as much wheat in this country as there was last year and now this very statement is made by one of the leading Chicago dealers in the great cereal. We have maintained that the yield has been largely overstated for speculative purposes and events are seemingly justifying our position. If this is so, and there is no good reason to doubt it, then farmers have it in their power to take a hand in the deal that would prove of great benefit. Under the present system a large share of the advantage buyers are enabled to take is due to circumstances. They know that nearly every farmer is obliged or thinks he is, to sell immediately the grain is thrashed and they lay their plans accordingly and heretofore farmers have tumbled right into the trap. Some by selling all at once and others by delivering their grain into the hands of the buyers, drawing a small amount thereon and waiting for a raise. These find that there is no occasion for a rise when once the millers have secured the grain and used it and they can afford to wait longer than can the farmer. Now, if, two or three years ago, the farmers instead of doing this had built granaries, stored their wheat therein then insured it they could have drawn enough upon it for their immediate wants and could then have bided their time. The millers must have the grain or let their mills lie idle, and that they could not afford to do. The result would have been that the miller would have had to come to time and paid what our wheat is worth in order to get it, but this work for two years has been so well done that we doubt whether this plan could be made to work—farmers are now unable to hold. The prospects are that wheat will be better next year than for several past years and our advice to farmers is to get out of debt if possible, then build granaries and be prepared to hold in the future. This could be done if farmers were generally organized into associations or granges, thus prepared to act unitedly. Much good can be and will be accomplished by our Legislature if wise counsels are allowed to prevail but it cannot accomplish everything. There are unalterable laws governing trade which cannot be regulated by any legislation. If it is true that the farmer holds the balance of power in politics and if it is true that all business depends for its success upon the farmer then it is also true that he can in the same degree control his own business, but it can never be done by allowing his business to run itself. It must be done by intelligent, concerted action. As soon as farmers generally awake to their own interests and organize they can do something. Never until they do.

Fargo Argus: The statement given in The Argus recently describing the tribulations of Mr. J. Weller's wheat in trying to make its way from his farm on the Red River to a market at Duluth, is illustrative of several points in the category of complaint. It will be remembered that he had 2,844.37 bushels on reaching Fargo. The passage of one elevator left him 2,675.40 bushels. The wheat was shipped to Fargo by barge, and of course was all of the same grade. Some six or seven cars were filled with it and receipts taken for each car, with the number and in due time it reached the "zenith city of the unsalted sea," and underwent a second cleaning and minor shrinkage, in all amounting to nearly ten per cent. He seems to have been fortunate in getting the bulk of it through. The main point illustrative of the Duluth method comes in here. The surviving portion of his shipment was graded as No. 1 hard, with the exception of one car, which was rated as No. 1 Northern. The other five cars lost but twenty pounds in the transit, but the sixth fell short twenty bushels and lost its grade. Very likely Mr. Weller was fortunate in not suffering greater shrinkage as others are reported to have done, but it furnishes ample indication of the methods in vogue there. The consignors and elevator people there are not at fault. Of course not. They do not control the grading. They say so and ought to know. The board of inspection fixes the grade, and is appointed by the board of trade. This body is the agile servitor of the elevator interest. All the business and commercial interests of Duluth circle around the elevators. Without them the grass would grow and the cayotes would revel in the streets. Was there no grain sent to the zenith port, a weekly hand car would suffice for its railroad traffic. Let this board of inspection cross the lines of the dominant interests there, and their official life would have no saline preservative. Even in cases like that of Mr. Weller where a car of grain of an inferior quality that did not belong to him was substituted for his No. 1 hard, or the other instance of lighter weight, the case is not greatly relieved. The numbers of his cars were named upon the receipts given here, and there could be no mistake not due to intention or the most culpable indifference. If there is such looseness and uncertainty about shipments there evidently there is need of reformation and a new deal. It is related by another Dakota farmer that he sent 2,000 bushels of No. 1 hard to that haven of absorbers, and only got pay for 1,500 bushels of No. 3 soft, and his complaints provoked unbounded merriment among the sleek, obese recipients; and he was told that his wheat was in the elevator with 4,000,000 bushels. Mr. Weller then was in exceptional luck to lose but one grade on one-sixth of his shipment and less than ten per cent. in shrinkage and cleaning. He might have had it all graded No. 1 northern or some lower grade, or a few cars of rejected substituted for his first grade. As Duluth subsists and gathers its shekels from the wheat growers, some latitude must be allowed its manipulators. They must live—at least that is their impression, though the necessity is not apparent at this distance—and how can they fatten and clothe themselves in fine furs except at the expense of the unsophisticated and docile wheat growers? Some, however insist that there should be assurance that the same wheat shipped shall be delivered to the consignees.

Sheep on Grain Farm.

The advantages arising from keeping sheep on wheat growing farms are thus summed up by Mr. Buell, in an address delivered before the sheep breeders of Michigan:

1. They are less subject to contagious disease, for the reason that the flock can be more easily kept isolated.
2. When individual losses do occur, they are less in value than in case of the loss of a horse or cow.
3. They grow quickly and mature early, and with their fleece pay dividends oftener than any other live stock.
4. When summer fallowing is practiced they act as gleaners in cleaning fence corners of briars and weeds, and in keeping down annual grasses that spring up on plowed lands.
5. During winter they are still doing their work of converting the surplus straw into fertilizers.

It is not clear that the profits from sheep raising on farms where other crops are grown, instead of wheat, would be less than on wheat farms. Sheep make good use of corn stalks, prairie hay, oat straw and almost any kind of fodder or feed grown.

Farmers' Meeting at Jamestown.

Pioneer Press: A meeting of the farmers and business men of Stutsman County was held Dec. 27th for the consideration of grievances arising from present wheat grading outrages and the exorbitant freight and elevator charges along the line of the Northern Pacific railroad, and the proper means for remedying the same. A petition to the territorial legislature was adopted and a committee appointed to attend to its circulation throughout the county, and to its early presentation to the Legislature. The petition sets forth the grievances well known to exist, and recommends remedial measures which meet with very general approbation. The method of wheat grading now in vogue in the principal markets, Duluth in particular, very forcibly characterized as a damnable outrage. Steps were taken toward the organization of a Stutsman County agricultural society and a committee appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws and report at a future meeting. Public sentiment is becoming thoroughly aroused to the necessity that something be done to the effect that the railroad and elevator monopolies may not hereafter be able to take the entire profits of the farmers' toil.

Notice.

I desire to call the attention of the public to the fact that I have opened a Jewelry and Watchmaking business in the store formerly occupied by James McKenzie, Second Street, Crookston. I purpose to run a first-class jewelry store and shall adhere to the rule of promptness all the time. I would ask respectfully for a friendly patronage by the generous public.

C. H. SAAKE.

Fine watchmaker and jeweler, Crookston, Minn.

$100,000

To Loan on improved claims in sums of $250 to $2,000. Cash paid for school bonds. Call on or address,

JOHN MCLEAN, Att'y at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

Frank M. Brown,

COMMISSION STORE,

Main Street, - Crookston.
TWO DOORS NORTH OF MERCHANTS' BANK.

Consignments of Goods for
QUICK CASH SALES
SOLICITED.

☞ Auction every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon.

M. M. VAN DYKE,
Physician and Surgeon,
Corner of Main and Second Streets,
CROOKSTON - - - MINN

Will attend to all professional calls promptly.

Crookston Tonsorial
PARLORS.
PROF. THOMPSON, Proprietor.
Robert Street, - - - Crookston, Minn.

Shaving, hair dressing and all work in my line promptly attended to the latest style of the art. Give me a call.

P. A. DUFOUR,
Attorney and Counselor at Law,
—MAIN STREET.—
CROOKSTON, - - MINN.

Big Bonanza.

JOSEPH BARRETT

Has decided to Put on the Market his

ADDITION

—TO THE—

City of Crookston,

Next adjoining the Crookston Driving Park. Parties desiring to purchase

CHOICE LOTS

NOW IS YOUR TIME!

LOTS

For Sale Separately, or in BLOCKS.

TERMS EASY!

Apply to the undersigned or at the office of C. B. Palmer, U. S. Land Office Building. Both English and French spoken.

JOSEPH BARRETT.

New York Store.

We call attention to the reduction in prices of Dry Goods, Notions, etc. Instead of reducing prices after January 1st, we intend doing so NOW, and give our customers a grand opportunity of purchasing goods at almost their own prices.

Black and colored Cashmeres, warranted all wool reduced to 50c; at this price they are the cheapest goods ever offered here.

A full line of the diamond black Cashmeres, at 60c, 75c, 95c, $1.25, $1.50. For value they have no equal; every yard we guarantee in every respect.

SILKS Reduced. SATINS Reduced. VELVETEENS Reduced.

SILK VELVETS—We have a fine assortment in silk velvets that we are selling at 80c; worth $2.00.

SHAWLS Reduced. CLOAKS Reduced. BLANKETS Reduced.

DRESS FLANNELS—Brown's navy, carmine, bronze, myrtle, steel grey, black, red, etc. Goods excellent colors.

Red flannels, blue flannels, grey flannels, cotton flannels,

White Bed Spreads only $1.00.

Collars, neckties and all kinds of domestics reduced.

BOOTS AND SHOES—{ Gents fine shoes—Reduced.
Ladies fine shoes—Reduced.

☞ New and complete stock of Notions, Hosiery, Corsets, Silk Handkerchiefs, Jewelry, Perfumery, etc.

Our line of Kid Gloves at 75c. Bargains.

Call and ask our prices before buying. We are selling the closest cash buyers in the country, and we know we can save you big money.

PROUD & MACDONELL.

☞ Agents for Butterrick Patterns. ☜

FARMERS, FARMERS,

WE ARE

Selling Lower Than Ever!

You will always find it to your advantage to

Trade with Us!

We Sell the Best for the LOWEST LIVING PRICES. Remember the place,
Broadway, bet. 2d and Robert Sts.

D. BUCHANAN.

DENTISTRY.
J. H. THOMAS, D. D. S.,
ROBERT STREET, - CROOKSTON, MINN.

Artificial Teeth from one to an entire set inserted. Gold, Silver or Artificial Filling used as desired. Regulating Children's Teeth a specialty. ALL WORK WARRANTED.

JOHN N. IVES.
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,

Collection and Land Office Business made a specialty. Money secured for final proofs on short notice.

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

City and County Directory.

☞ We wish to make this directory as reliable as possible, and consequently request all parties interested to notify us of any changes in their respective announcements.

U. S. LAND OFFICE.

John Cromb	Register.
L. K. Aaker	Receiver.

Office hours from 8:30 a. m. to 12 m., and from 2:00 to 4:30 p. m.

MEMBER OF CONGRESS.

Knute Nelson	Alexandria.

DISTRICT COURT.

O. P. Stearns, Judge	Duluth.

STATE SENATOR.

Halvor Steenerson	Crookston.

REPRESENTATIVE.

A. H. Baker,	Ada.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

R. J. Montague	Judge of Probate.
T. C. Shapleigh	Clerk of Court.
C. S. Spendley	Register of Deeds.
P. J. McGuire	Auditor.
O. H. Lucken	Treasurer.
John Leo	Court Commissioner.
Wm. Watts	Attorney.
V. D. Carruth	Supt. of Schools.
W. F. Jwickey	Sheriff.
H. Shephard	Coroner.
C. L. Brainard	Surveyor.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Knute Nelson—1st Dist	Aldal.
E. A. Bradish—2d "	Fisher.
M. R. Brown—3d "	Crookston.
C. Kretzschmar—4th "	Red Lake Falls.
T. Sullivan—5th "	East Grand Forks.

CITY OFFICIALS.

Mayor	E. M. Walsh.
Recorder	W. D. Hurlbut.
Treasurer	A. G. Gallasch.
Justices	G. W. Lewis, J. W. Lilly.
Ald.—1st Ward	Ole Bang, L. Fontaine.
—2d "	Henry Nolan; P. Bataglia.
—3d "	N. P. Stone, W. Walker.
—4th "	S. F. Markham, C. A. Chiniquy.
—at large	R. Houston.
City Attorney	J. N. Ives.
City Engineer	W. D. Hurlbut.
Marshal	J. Dowling.
Deputy Marshal	J. B. Fillatrault, Ole Bjoin.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

PRESBYTERIAN—Corner Broadway and Fifth street. Rev. R. L. Adams, Pastor. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 m. Prayer meeting in church every Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

Methodist Episcopal Church—Corner of Main and Fourth streets. Rev. J. C. Gallette, Ph D. Pastor. Services every Sabbath at 11 a. m. And 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30.

EPISCOPAL—Ash street, head of Second street. Rev. S. Currie, Rector. Services every Sunday at 11:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday School at 2:00 p. m.

CONGREGATIONAL—Rev. C. E. Page, Pastor. Corner Third and Ash streets. Services every Sunday at 11:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at noon.

BAPTIST—Rev. H. L. House, Pastor. Second street, between Broadway and Ash streets. Services every Sunday at 11:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12:15 p. m. Young people's meeting from 6:15 to 7:15. Services always closed in time to allow those present to attend their own churches. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. A cordial invitation to all. Friday evening at 7, teacher's meeting at different homes.

CATHOLIC—Ash street. C. A. S. DeCarufel, Pastor. Services every Sunday at 8:30 and 10:30 a. m. 8:00 p. m.

CARMAN.

BAPTIST—F. K. Roberts, Pastor. Services in Baptist Block at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at noon. Prayer meeting Thursday evening.

SOCIETIES.

HIRAM LODGE, No. 78, A. O. U. W. Meets in K. P. Hall, Second and Fourth Thursday of each month.
C. H. MIX, M. W.
F. BEHLMER, Secretary.

PIERSON CHAPTER, R. A. M. Meets in Masonic Hall, First and Third Monday of each month.
T. C. SHAPLEIGH, H. P.
O. H. LUCKEN, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 79, I. O. O. F. Meets every Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows' Hall, over Post Office.
F. M. SCHWARK, N. G.
R. B. GATES, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 1,469, K. of H. Meets the First and Third Monday evening of each month, in Losey's Hall, Main street.
T. A. HARRIS, Dictator.
JAS. BUTLER, Reporter.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 141, A. F. & A. M. Meets on the Second and Fourth Saturday evening of each month, in Masonic Hall.
W. D. HURLBUT, W. M.
GEO. D. BUCKMAN, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 25, K. of P. Meets every Friday evening, in K. of P. Hall, on Broadway.
C. W. BARNES, C. C.
W. B. DAWLEY, K. of R. & S.
JOHN BEO. H. STEENERSON.

W. L. Sargeant
Veterinary Surgeon.
CROOKSTON, - - - MINN.

Diseases of horses and cattle a specialty.
[9-tf]

A. Allen,

AGENT

—FOR THE—

HOWE
SCALE
COMPANY.

Christening and Wedding Cakes Made upon Shortest Notice in the Best Style.

A Choice and We Selected Stock o Confectionery Always on hand,

John Crawford & Son,
Proprietors of
Crawford's Bakery,
SECOND STREET,
Crookston, Minn

CONFECTIONERY
Fresh Bread, Buns, Cakes and Biscuits. All Articles in the Fancy Baking Line.

EIKEN BROS.,
Corner of Fletcher and Main Street,
Crookston, Minn.

Dealers in

HARDWARE, TIWARE,
STOVES,
—AND—
SHELFWARE.

WE KEEP A
FULL & COMPLETE
STOCK,
—AND—
Invite the Patronage
OF ALL.

Bigham & Olafson
(Successors to Jure & Bergland.)
THE POPULAR MERCHANTS ON MAIN STREET, - - CRNOKSTON

Have on hand and are constantly receiving full lines of

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES,
CROCKERY,
CLOTHING,
BOOTS AND SHOES,
HATS AND CAPS

In fact everything usually found in first-class general store.

☞ Our goods are bought with great care and will be sold at

LOW PRICES
☞ FOR CASH. ☜

Crookston Nurseries
ESTABLISHED IN 1870.
Tree Claim Stock.

I desire to inform my customers and others that I shall make a great reduction from former prices on forest trees and seeds for tree-claims. I have good thrifty two year old trees, such as Box Elder, Ash and Cottonwood to sell by the thousand. I also furnish the hardier varieties of

SMALL FRUITS,

Such as Currants, Gooseberries, Raspberries and Strawberry plants, and young, thrifty Transcendent and Hislop Crab Apple trees. The firm of Heseltine Bros. having dissolved, I still continue business on the
—OLD NURSERY GROUNDS—
in Crookston. Hoping by fair dealing and promptness with my customers to merit their patronage.

Don't fail to write for Catalogue and Prices.

☞ ALL COMMUNICATIONS PROMPTLY ANSWERED.

F. T. HASELTINE,
Proprietor of the Crookston Nurseries, Crookston, Minn.

NEW
DRUG STORE
IN GARFIELD
DR. A NELSON, Prop.

The citizens of this town and vicinity are respectfully invited to call at my new Drug Store in the town of Garfield and examine my stock of

DRUGS, MEDICINES, PAINTS, OILS AND YANKEE NOTIONS.

It is no longer necessary to go 40 or 55 miles for anything in this line, as I have a full supply at prices as reasonable as any town in the Northwest. Call and see

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON

I am also ready to answer all calls day or night, for the practice of m profession. Call, or leave orders at my Drug Store in Garfield, Polk Co., Minn

DR. A. NELSON.

First National Bank
OF CROOKSTON.

PAID IN CAPITAL,	$100,000
URPLUS,	1,400

Money to loan on long or short time on approved security.
Interest on time deposits. Faithful attention to Collections and prompt remittance.
GEO. O. ERSKINE, President.
K. D. CHASE, Vice President.
ANSEL BATES, Cashier

LEO & STEENERSON.
ATTORNEYS AT LAW
Room 3, U. S. Land Office Building,
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

The Toledo Blade
(NASBY'S PAPER.)

Circulation 191,000,

The Largest Circulation of any weekly paper in the United States.
The Largest Paper published in the United States at One Dollar per year.
The Best Paper and the Cheapest Paper.
The Only Paper publishing the Nasby Letters.
The Blade alone $1.00 per year; with Waterbury Watch, $3.50; with steel Engraving of Pilgrim's Progress (a fine engraving) $2.00.
Special terms to club raisers made known on application. Any week's issue of the Blade announces our bargains in cheap books, pictures, etc.
We want everybody to send postal card to us for a specimen copy.
It will tell its own story. A column advertisement would not afford room to describe its various departments and our announcements for the coming year. Write for a specimen, and also send the address of all your faiends.

THE BLADE,
TOLEDO, OHIO.

A PURELY
National Paper
Circulating in Every State.

LOST!
$100 REWARD!

E. D. Schreader
LIVERY,
Feed and Sale Stable.

BEST TURNOUTS
IN THE CITY.

Single or Double Rigs, with or without driver or

SADDLE HORSES

Always ready at a moments notice by day or night. If you want a Nobby Turnout call at the Red Barn, Corner Main and Third Streets,
CROOKSTON. MINNESOTA.

THE
St. Paul,
Minneapolis
—AND—Manitoba
RAILWAY,
WITH ITS
1,400 Miles of Road
Is the only line extending through the
Park Region of Minnesota,
To all principal points in
Red River Valley,
Northern Minnesota,
Northern Dakota,
And to Devil's Lake and Turtle Mour-Districts.

—CONTAINING OVER—
9,000,000 Acres
GOVERNMENT LANDS!

The Land department of the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway has exclusive charge of the Company's Lands in Minnesota, and all correspondence relative to the purchase of lands, terms, description or price of any particular tract should be addressed to that department.
Maps and pamphlets, describing the country and giving rates of fare to settlers, etc., mailed FREE on application

JAS. B. POWER,
Land and Immigration Commissioner
C. H. WARREN,
General Passenger Agent,
St. P., M. & M. R'y., St. Paul, Minn.

NEW LIVERY,
Feed and Sale
STABLES.,
CORNER MAIN AND FOURTH STS.,
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA
TERRY & COLLINS, Prop's.

☞ Good Turnouts at all times a reasonable prices. Good Hearse and careful driver when needed.

WM. WATTS,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
AND DEALER IN
REAL ESTATE.
OFFICE OVER MERCHANTS' BANK.

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, January 1, 1885.

RAILROAD TIME TABLE.

GOING NORTH.

	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
1 Passenger	10:15 p. m.	10 55 p m
9 Passenger	10:30 a. m.
19 Freight	12:30 a. m.
15 Freight	4:00 p. m.
23 Freight		10:20 a. m.

GOING SOUTH.

	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
No. 2 Passenger	4:30 a. m.	4:50 a. m.
10 Passenger		5:30 p. m.
20 Freight		7:30 a. m.
22 Freight		6.15 p. m.
24 Freight	5:00 p. m.

DEVIL'S LAKE LINE.

	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
No. 9 Passenger		10:20 a. m.
10 Passenger	5:50 p. m.
15 Freight		6:00 a. m.
16 Freight	7:30 p. m.

ST. HILAIRE BRANCH.

Trains leave Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 12:15 a. m., and arrive same days at 4:00 p. m.

Passenger Trains No's 1 and 2, Main Line, run daily except Sunday. No's 3 and 4 run daily. Devil's Lake Passenger runs daily. Freights No's 22, 20 and 21 run daily. Freights No's 15 and 22, and Freights on Devil's Lake Line run daily except Sunday.

Fargo Argus: The Miller, of London, presents some interesting tables in regard to the prices of wheat in England a hundred and five years. The present price is the lowest, thirty-two shillings and four pence per quarter or $1.01 per bushel; the next lowest is 1780 when the price was $1.12 per bushel. Wheat has gradually declined in price since 1877, when the selling price was $1.77. In 1867 the wheat sold for $2.01 per bushel, and in 1851 was down to $1.25. For the past thirty or forty years wheat has sold the lowest in the fourth year of each decade and been the highest in the seventh; if this proves true in this decade wheat will be higher in 1885, and gradually advance until 1887.

The highest price paid in the past century was in 1812, when $3.95 per bushel, or one hundred and twenty-six shillings and six pence was realized. In 1799 wheat sold in England for $2.15 per bushel, in 1800 it was worth $3.55; in 1801 $3.73, and then the next year it dropped to $2.18. These are the greatest changes which have taken place in the English market in a hundred years.

NOTICE.

As I have established a Nursery in Crookston and propose to continue the business, I will announce to our former customers and all that are desirous of obtaining trees and Plants the coming spring that I will sell said stock at prices below any competition. Call and see me before making purchase elsewhere. Residence on second block north of Court House, or address P. O. Box 754. [illegible]

[38-tf] [illegible] W. HASELTINE.

PIANO TUNING.

Any parties having pianos or organs that need tuning or repairing can have their work satisfactorily done by leaving orders at the Linton House. Satisfaction guaranteed.

[9-tf] E. F. WHEELDEN.

The place to buy toys, from a brass watch up to old Santa Claus himself is at Medical Hall. [33-tf]

For Sale Cheap.

A complete set of bar fixtures. Call on August Wentzel for particulars. [19-tf]

Attention Farmers.

As wheat brings very little money this fall and it is for your interest to buy good goods cheap, don't fail to call on Hack & Gallasch. We have marked our goods very low and will not fail to please you.

TO PARTIES DESIRING INSURANCE!

We represent the following old and reliable Fire Insurance Companies:

	Assets.
Ætna	$9,182,644
American	1,804,519
Fire Association	4,279,676
Underwriters	3,689,791
Orient	1,411,394
Phœnix	5,919,403
Lancashire	6,787,983
Milwaukee Mech.	1,129,375
Germania	2,700,729

Having represented nearly all of the above companies for 14 years we have acquainted ourselves with the business, and think that we can justly claim the patronage of the public, who can depend upon having insurance written correctly and losses adjusted promptly.

MOSER & MOECKEL.

John Kuuppe.

General Agent in the Red River Valley of the Netherlands American Land Company of Amsterdam, Holland.

Money to loan on good real estate security, on time to suit the borrower. Office over Merchant's Bank. [1-tf]

I have got ten first-class sewing machines that I will close out at cost before January 1st, 1885. Any one wishing a good machine will do well to call at once and look them over.

[32-34] E. M. WALSH.

We mean it. Call at Medical Hall and see their Christmas goods before you buy. You can save money in these hard times. 33-tf

The United States Internal Revenue Special Tax is due May 1st. Any information and a full line of blanks can be had by calling on or addressing,

JOHN McLEAN,
Attorney at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

LIST OF LETTERS

Remaining uncalled for in the Crookston Post Office, for the week ending Dec. 29th, 1884. Persons calling for these letters will please say "advertised."

Backer, Mathis A
Bigmen, Mrs M
Fornier, Edward
Fornier, Aloseis
Foster, John
Fuchs, Friedrick
Larson, Amelia
McLean, Petter G
Nelson, Ole
Olson, Gustav
" Angel
Skatein, Ole O
Skaaraas, Ole N
Todal, Bargite Audest
Wereide, Andrias A

D. JACOBUS, P. M.

At Seely's

You can find some extra fine crab-apple cider; old bourbon whisky, eight years old. Maryland Club, pure rye; Jules and G. H. Mum's extra dry champagne; imported Scotch ales and porters for medicinal purposes; also a fine stock of imported cigars. Call and sample. [22-tf]

Money to Loan.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS to loan on improved farms from THREE to FIVE years time at very reasonable rates. Apply at my office on Broadway, in U. S. Land Office building.

[1-tf] H. STEENERSON.

MORTGAGE SALE.

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of five hundred twenty-nine and 17-100 ($529.17) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Mathew Ruedy and Jennie Ruedy, his wife, mortgagors, to Altaira Clements, mortgagee, bearing date the 2d day of May, A. D. 1882, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of May, A. D. 1882, at [illegible] o'clock p. m., in book "F" of mortgages, on pages [illegible] and [illegible]. That said mortgage was duly assigned by an instrument in writing thereof, duly executed and delivered by the said Altaira Clements to George E. Banning, dated the [illegible] day of April, A. D. 1884, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for Polk County, State of Minnesota, on the [illegible] day of April, A. D. 1884, at [illegible] o'clock a. m., in book "S" of mortgages, on pages 57 and 58; and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot No. seven (7) in block No. thirteen (13) in the townsite of Crookston, according to the recorded plat thereof now on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 5th day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and thirty dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Nov. 20th, A. D. 1884.

GEORGE E. BANNING,
Assignee of Mortgagee.

JOHN McLEAN,
Att'y for Assignee, Crookston, Minn. [35-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of five hundred forty-eight and 50-100 dollars, ($548.50) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Jacob Francis and Ellen Francis, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 21st day of August A. D. 1882 and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 22d day of August A. D. 1882, at 8 o'clock a. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 263, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot eight (8) in block seven (7) of the Townsite of [illegible] according to the recorded plat thereof now on file in the office of the Register of Deeds Polk County, Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 23 day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred eighty-one and 35-100 dollars, ($181.35) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Sophia Busch and Henry Busch, her husband, to Henry Hammond, bearing date the 11th day of December A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 24th day of December A. D. 1883, at [illegible] o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 222, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lots numbered twenty-two (22) twenty-three (23) and twenty-four (24) in block No. three (3) of Bottineau's addition to the Townsite of Red Lake Falls, County of Polk and State of Minnesota, according to the certified plat of said addition recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Polk County, Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMOND,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred seventy-five and 8-100 dollars, ($175.08-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Moise Thiebert, a single man, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 10th day of April A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 11th day of April A. D. 1883, at 11 o'clock a. m., in book "L" of mortgages, on pages 381, 382 and 383, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The fractional lot No. two (2) on Elm Street having a frontage of one hundred and seventy-five (175) feet on Elm Street, ninety-five (95) feet on Sixth Street, and one hundred and ninety-five (195) feet on the quarter section line, Townsite of Crookston, Polk County, Minnesota, according to the recorded plat thereof now on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said Polk County and forming a triangular lot, the lot hereby conveyed being the same property conveyed by E. H. Bly and wife, to Newton K. Hubbard by warranty deed dated Sept. 13th 1881, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 23 day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First Publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE conditions of a certain mortgage made, executed and delivered by Walter B. Moore and Mary A. Moore his wife, mortgagors to James McLaughlin mortgagee, by the failure on the part of said Walter B. Moore and Mary A. Moore to pay the interest which became due and payable on said mortgage, on the 1st day of November 1883, the sum of fifty (50) dollars, and on the 1st day of November 1884, the sum of fifty (50) dollars, amounting to the sum of one hundred (100) dollars, and said mortgage containing a clause whereby the failure on the part of the mortgagors to pay said interest when the same became due empowered the said mortgagee or his assigns to declare the whole sum of principal and interest due and payable by such default at his or their election. Said mortgage being dated the 5th day of November 1881 and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, on the 5th day of November 1881 at 4:35 o'clock p. m. in book "G" of mortgage deeds on pages 413 and 414, and said mortgage was duly assigned by Selina McLaughlin executrix of said James McLaughlin mortgagee, to George McLaughlin, by an instrument in writing, dated the 1st day of April 1884 and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said Polk County, on the 24th day of October 1884, at [illegible] o'clock p. m. in book "M" of mortgages on pages 470 and 471, and said mortgage was duly assigned by said George McLaughlin to Etta S. Brown by an instrument in writing dated the 5th day of May 1884 and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said Polk County, on the 24th day of October 1884 at [illegible] o'clock p. m. in book "M" of mortgages on page 471 and 472. And said Etta S. Brown, assignee of said mortgage, having exercised said option does hereby declare the whole sum of principal and interest secured by said mortgage now due and payable by reason of such default, and there being now due and unpaid on said mortgage the sum of five hundred (500) dollars principal and interest amounting at this date to the sum of one hundred and five [illegible] dollars amounting in all to the sum of six hundred and five and [illegible] dollars ($605.[illegible]) and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise for the recovery of said debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, Therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, which by reason of the defaults above stated became operative, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the mortgaged premises therein described, which sale will be made at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, by the sheriff of said County, on Saturday the 24th day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, to satisfy the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage and interest, and taxes if any, and costs and disbursements allowed by law, together with the sum of twenty-five dollars lawful attorney's fees, as stipulated in said mortgage, to be paid in case of foreclosure.

The premises described in said mortgage and to be so sold are described as follows, to-wit: The northeast quarter (ne¼) of section No. four (4) in Township No. one hundred and fifty (150), north, of Range No. forty-six (46) west, containing one hundred and sixty [illegible] acres according to the government survey thereof, situate in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota.

Dated December 1st A. D. 1884.

ETTA S. BROWN,
Assignee of Mortgage.

E. St. JULIEN COX AND W. A. SMART,
Attorneys for Assignee of Mortgage.
[33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred eighty and 45-100 dollars, ($280.45) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph E. Bason and Hermina Bason, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 13th day of June A. D. 1882, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of June A. D. 1883, at 11 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 20, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: [illegible] at a point [illegible] feet [illegible] of the east corner of the block or parcel of land [illegible] lot seven (7) in section thirty-six, [illegible] one hundred and fifty [illegible] seven (7) [illegible] north by the street running west to the county bridge across the Red Lake River to the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railroad track and on the easterly county road, running south from said bridge, thence south one hundred (100) feet, thence west about one hundred and fifty (150) feet to the said railroad track, thence northerly one hundred (100) feet along said railroad track and thence east about one hundred and fifty (150) feet to the place of beginning, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 23d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred sixty-one and 55-100 dollars, ($161.55) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Sophie Busch, and Henry Busch, her husband, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 20th day of July A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, on the 23d day of November A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 236, and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter (ne¼) of Section No. thirty-three (33) in Township No. one hundred and fifty (150) north, of Range No. forty-four (44) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres more or less in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 24 day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred fifty-three dollars, ($253) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Tollef J. Farden, and Julia Farden, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 2d day of November A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, on the 23d day of November A. D. 1883, at 10.45 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 237, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northwest quarter of Section twenty-four (24) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149) north, of Range No. forty-four (44) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres of land more or less, in Polk County and State of Minnesota; with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 24 day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred seventy-six and 17-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Elling Knudson and Ingebor Knudson his wife to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the fourteenth day of March A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 16th day of March A. D. 1883, at 3 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 473 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for three hundred dollars, due October 1st, 1887 with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for sixty-six and 75-100 dollars due in eleven installments, as follows: Six and 75-100 dollars on October first 1883, and six dollars on the first day of April and October 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888 respectively, and, default having been made in the payment of the interest due April 1st, 1884, and of the interest due October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on April 1st, 1884, and of the installment due October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice three hundred seventy-six and 17-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The southeast quarter of Section twenty-eight (28) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149) of Range forty-five (45) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 6th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of [illegible] dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by [illegible] to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twenty [illegible] day of April A. D. 1883 and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota on the 24th day of April A. D. 1883 at [illegible] o'clock p. m., in book "L" of mortgages, on page [illegible] and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for [illegible] dollars, due [illegible] with six per cent. interest per annum and one installment note for forty-five and [illegible] dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Five and [illegible] dollars on November first, 1883, and five dollars on the first day of May and November 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due [illegible] 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on May 1st, 1884 and of the installment due November 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums described in said notes should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice [illegible] dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The [illegible] quarter of section twenty [illegible] in Township one hundred and [illegible] north of Range [illegible] containing one hundred and sixty acres in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 6th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred eighty-two and [illegible] dollars which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by [illegible], an unmarried man, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the second day of March, A. D. 1883 and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota on the [illegible] day of March, A. D. 1883, at [illegible] o'clock p. m. in book "K" of mortgages on page 251 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for two hundred and twenty-five dollars due October 1st, 1887, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for fifty and 75-100 dollars, due in eleven installments as follows: Five and 75-100 dollars on October first, 1883, and five and 50-100 dollars on the first day of April and October 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due October 1st, 1884, and of the interest due April 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on April 1st, 1884, and of the installment due October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice two hundred eighty-two and [illegible] dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: the west half of the northeast quarter, and the west half of the southeast quarter of section twelve (12) in township one hundred and fifty-one (151) of range forty-five (45) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth (24th) day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 6th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, (Seal.)
By Robert N. Jackson, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., Dec. 8th, 1884.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Boyd P. Van Gordon against William R. Dunn for failure to comply with law as to Timber Culture Entry No. 1862, dated May 12th, 1881, upon the nw¼ S. 17, T. 153 N. R. 47, in Polk County, Minn., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; contestant alleging that the said William R. Dunn since date of said entry has failed to break upon said tract to exceed eight acres, or to plant upon said tract any trees, tree seeds or cuttings and that there is not at the present time to exceed eight acres of land broken, nor any trees, tree seeds or cuttings planted or growing thereon the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 30th day of Jan. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged failure.

[47-78] JOHN CROMB, Register.

DENTISTRY.

J. H. THOMAS, D. D. S.,
ROBERT STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.

Artificial Teeth from one to an entire set inserted. Gold, Filling or Artificial Filling used as desired. Regulating Children's Teeth a specialty. ALL WORK WARRANTED.

MORTGAGE SALE.

(First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.)

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of five hundred, eleven and [illegible] dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Louis Horlset, an unmarried man, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the eleventh day of August, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 13th day of August, A. D. 1883, at [illegible] o'clock p. m., in book "O" of mortgages, on page 177 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for four hundred dollars, due January 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for [illegible] dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: six and [illegible] dollars on January first, 1884, and eight dollars on July first, 1884, and eight dollars on the first day of January and July, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and eight dollars on January 1st, 1889, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due January 1st, 1884, and of the interest due July 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on January 1st, 1884 and of the installment due July 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums described in said notes should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice five hundred eleven and [illegible] dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The [illegible] quarter of section twenty-four (24) in township one hundred and fifty-one (151), of range forty-[illegible] containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises and fifty dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the city of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 6th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, (Seal.)
By Robert N. Jackson, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

(First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.)

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of six hundred, [illegible] dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by [illegible] to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the [illegible] day of January A. D. 1883 and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the [illegible] day of February, A. D. 1883, at [illegible] o'clock p. m., in book [illegible] of mortgages, on page [illegible] and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for five hundred dollars, due October 1st, 1887, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for one hundred and thirteen and [illegible] dollars, due in eleven installments as follows: Thirteen and [illegible] dollars on October 1st, 1883, and ten dollars on the first day of April and October 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888 respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due April 1st, 1884, and of the interest due October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on April 1st, 1884, and of the installment due on October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums described in said notes should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice [illegible] dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The [illegible] quarter of section [illegible] in Township one hundred and fifty [illegible] of Range forty-[illegible] containing one hundred and sixty acres in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and [illegible] dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 6th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, (Seal.)
By Robert N. Jackson, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred seventy-six and [illegible] dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Ole Anderson and Sarah Anderson, his wife, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twentieth day of March, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 23d day of March, A. D. 1883, at [illegible] o'clock a. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page [illegible] and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of three notes for one hundred dollars each, due October 1st, 1887, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for sixty-six and 75-100 dollars, due in eleven installments as follows: six and 75-100 dollars on October first, 1883, and six dollars on the first day of April and October, 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due October 1st, 1884, and of the interest due April 1st and October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on October 1st, 1883, and of the installment due April 1st and October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice three hundred, seventy-six, and [illegible] dollars after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section twenty-four (24), in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149), of Range forty-five (45), containing one hundred and sixty acres in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest and the taxes, if any, on said premises and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

Dated December 6th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, (Seal.)
By Robert N. Jackson, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

U. S. LAND OFFICE.
Crookston Minn., Dec. 12th, 1884.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., on Jan. 24th, 1885, viz: ELIE LARIVERE, for the [illegible] S. 11, T. 149, R. 47. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Charles Martelle, Charles Dewal, Clement Pogant and William Dewal, all of Crookston, Polk Co., Minn.

[34-39] JOHN CROMB, Register.

Commercial Hotel,

NORTON & BENEDICT, Prop's.
SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON MINN

First-class in all respects. Terms reasonable. A share of the public patronage solicited.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum four hundred ninety-nine and 75-100 dollars which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Philip Murphy and Mary Ann Murphy his wife to Middlesex Banking Company of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twenty-first day of April A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of April A. D. 1883, at [illegible] o'clock p. m., in book "L" of mortgages, on page 251 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for four hundred dollars, due November 1st 1887, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for [illegible] and [illegible] dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Eight and [illegible] dollars on November first, 1883, and eight dollars on the first day of May and November, 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due November 1st, 1884, and of the interest due [illegible], and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on May 1st, 1884, and of the installment due November 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice four hundred ninety-nine and [illegible] dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The south [illegible] quarter of section [illegible] in Township one hundred and [illegible] of Range forty [illegible], containing one hundred and sixty acres, in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 6th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred sixty and [illegible] dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by [illegible] to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the [illegible] day of July A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 5th day of July A. D. 1883, at [illegible] o'clock a. m., in book "O" of mortgages, on page [illegible] and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for two hundred dollars, due [illegible] with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for forty-five and [illegible] dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Four and [illegible] dollars on December first, 1883, and four dollars on the first day of June and December 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due [illegible], and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on June 1st, 1884, and of the installment due December 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums described in said notes should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice [illegible] dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The north [illegible] quarter of [illegible] in Township one hundred and forty [illegible] of Range [illegible] containing one hundred and sixty acres in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State on the twenty-fourth day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

Dated December 6th, 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of eleven hundred [illegible] and [illegible] dollars which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by George J. Christenson, an unmarried man, to Middlesex Banking Company of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the first day of February A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1883, at [illegible] o'clock a. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page [illegible] and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for nine hundred dollars due January 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for one hundred eighty-one and [illegible] dollars due in eleven installments, as follows: Thirty-seven and [illegible] dollars on January first, 1884, and [illegible] dollars on the first day of January and July, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due January 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on January 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice, eleven hundred eighty-[illegible] and [illegible] dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The east half of the northwest quarter and lots one (1) and two (2) being the fractional northwest quarter of Section No. thirty (30) in Township one hundred and fifty-two (152), north, of Range No. forty-seven (47) west, containing one hundred and thirty-nine and [illegible] acres, according to the United States government survey thereof, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and seventy-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the city of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

Dated December 6th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

U. S. LAND OFFICE.
Crookston, Minn., Nov. 21st, 1884.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office at Crookston, Minn., Jan. 7th, 1885, viz: HANS JOHNSON, H'd No. 1751, for the [illegible] S. 23, T. 150, R. 47. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Morton Jenson, Christ Hanson, Even Erickson and Even Thoreson, all of Crookston, Polk Co., Minn.

[32-37] JOHN CROMB, Register.

U. S. LAND OFFICE.
Crookston, Minn., Dec. 3d, 1884.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., on Jan. 15th, 1885, viz: OLE C. BERGLAND, H'd No. 16,521, for the nw¼ S. 29, T. 149, R. 46. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Joseph Norre, Napier LaBaye, Andrew Elken and T. Olafson, all of Crookston, Polk Co. Minn.

[32-37] JOHN CROMB, Register.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 25th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred seventy-two and 21-100 dollars, ($372.21-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Aiken Dumas and Emily Dumas his wife to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 14 day of July A. D. 1882, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 5th day of July A. D. 1882 at [illegible] o'clock p. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 122, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northwest quarter of Section twenty-six (26) Township one hundred and fifty-two north, of Range forty-four (44) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres more or less, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston in said County and State, on the 9th day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

Dated Crookston Dec. 20th, A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [35-41]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Jan. 1 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of [illegible] hundred [illegible] dollars which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Alvin D. Berry and Carmelie Berry, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 21st day of April A. D. 1882, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the [illegible] day of April A. D. 1882, at [illegible] o'clock p. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page [illegible] and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The [illegible] quarter of section [illegible] Township one hundred and [illegible] north, of Range [illegible] in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the [illegible] day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

Dated Crookston Dec. 26th, A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [36-42]

A. Yvernault,

Dealer in

General Merchandise,

MAIN STREET,

Crookston, - - Minn.

All my friends, both old and new, are cordially invited to call and examine my stock and get prices.

Christmas and Wedding Cakes Made upon Shortest Notice in the Best Style.

A Choice and Well Selected Stock of Confectionery Always on hand.

John Crawford & Son,

Proprietors of

Crawford's Bakery,

SECOND STREET,

Crookston, Minn

CONFECTIONERY

Fresh Bread, Buns, Cakes and Biscuits. All Articles in the Fancy Baking Line.

A. A. JUST, M. D.,

Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Rooms corner Main street and Fletcher Avenue, over Elken Bros. Hardware Store,

CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINN.

MERCHANTS' HOTEL,

J. E. MITTON, Proprietor,

CORNER BROADWAY AND ROBERT STREET

CROOKSTON, MINN.

The new Merchants' Hotel, recently re-fitted and re-furnished is now ready to accommodate the traveling public, who are cordially invited to stop at the Merchants' when in the city.

SECOND STREET

MEAT MARKET

STANTON & CO., Proprietors.

Choice meats of every description. Fish and game in their season. Everything of the very best quality and lowest prices. Call and see us.

STANTON & CO.,
Dobson's Block, Second Street.

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, January 1, 1885.

RAILROAD TIME TABLE.

GOING NORTH.

	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
1 Passenger	10:45 p. m.	10.55 p. m
9 Passenger	10:20 a. m.
19 Freight	12:20 a. m.
15 Freight	4:00 p. m.
23 Freight		10:30 a. m.

GOING SOUTH.

	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
No. 2 Passenger	4:00 a. m.	4:20 a. m.
10 Passenger		5:00 p. m.
20 Freight		7:00 a. m.
22 Freight		6:15 p. m.
24 Freight	5:00 p. m.

DEVIL'S LAKE LINE.

	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
No. 9 Passenger		10:20 a. m.
10 Passenger	5:30 p. m.
45 Freight		6:00 a. m.
46 Freight	7:00 p. m.

ST. HILAIRE BRANCH.

Trains leave Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 10:45 a. m., and arrive same days at 4:00 p. m.

☞ Passenger Trains No's 1 and 2, Main Line, run daily except Sunday. No's 3 and 4 run daily. Devil's Lake Passenger runs daily. Freights No's 23, 20 and 24 run daily. Freights No's 15 and 22, and Freights on Devil's Lake Line run daily except Sunday.

Fargo Argus: The Miller, of London, presents some interesting tables in regard to the prices of wheat in England a hundred and five years. The present price is the lowest, thirty-two shillings and four pence per quarter or $1.01 per bushel; the next lowest is 1780 when the price was $1.12 per bushel. Wheat has gradually declined in price since 1877, when the selling price was $1.77. In 1867 the wheat sold for $2.01 per bushel, and in 1854 was down to $1.25. For the past thirty or forty years wheat has sold the lowest in the fourth year of each decade and been the highest in the seventh; if this proves true in this decade wheat will be higher in 1885, and gradually advance until 1887.

The highest price paid in the past century was in 1812, when $3.95 per bushel, or one hundred and twenty-six shillings and six pence was realized. In 1799 wheat sold in England for $2,15 per bushel, in 1800 it was worth $3.55; in 1801 $3.73, and then the next year it dropped to $2.18. These are the greatest changes which have taken place in the English market in a hundred years.

NOTICE.

As I have established a Nursery in Crookston and propose to continue the business, I will announce to our former customers and all that are desirous of obtaining trees and Plants the coming spring that I will sell said stock at prices below any competition. Call and see me before making purchase elsewhere. Residence on second block north of Court House, or address P. O. Box 754.

Most Respectfully,

[33-tf] E. W. HASELTINE.

PIANO TUNING.

Any parties having pianos or organs that need tuning or repairing can have their work satisfactorily done by leaving orders at the Linton House. Satisfaction guaranteed.

[9-tf] E. F. WHEELDEN.

The place to buy toys, from a brass watch up to old Santa Claus himself is at Medical Hall. [33-tf]

For Sale Cheap.

A complete set of bar fixtures. Call on August Wentzel for particulars. [19-tf]

Attention Farmers.

As wheat brings very little money this fall and it is for your interest to buy good goods cheap, don't fail to call on Hack & Gallasch. We have markep our goods very low and will not fail to please you.

TO PARTIES DESIRING INSURANCE!

We represent the following old and reliable Fire Insurance Companies:

	Assets.
Ætna	$9,132,644
American	1,804,519
Fire Association	4,279,676
Underwriters	3,699,794
Orient	1,411,894
Phœnix	5,919,403
Lancashire	6,787,983
Milwaukee Mech	1,129,375
Germania	2,700,729

Having represented nearly all of the above companies for 14 years we have acquainted ourselves with the business, and think that we can justly claim the patronage of the public, who can depend upon having insurance written correctly and losses adjusted promptly.

MOSER & MOECKEL.

John Knuppe.

General Agent in the Red River Valley of the Netherlands American Land Company of Amsterdam, Holland.

Money to loan on good real estate security, on time to suit the borrower. Office over Merchant's Bank. [1-tf]

I have got ten first-class sewing machines that I will close out at cost before January 1st, 1885. Any one wishing a good machine will do well to call at once and look them over.

[32-34] E. M. WALSH.

We mean it. Call at Medical Hall and see their Christmas goods before you buy. You can save money in these hard times. 33-tf

The United States Internal Revenue Special Tax is due May 1st. Any information and a full line of blanks can be had by calling on or addressing

JOHN MCLEAN,
Attorney at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

LIST OF LETTERS.

Remaining uncalled for in the Crookston Post Office, for the week ending Dec. 29th, 1884. Persons calling for these letters will please say "advertised."

Backer, Mathia A
Bigmen, Mrs M
Fornier, Edward
Fornier, Alexsis
Foster, John
Fuchs, Friedrick
Larson, Amelia
McLean, Petter G
Nelson, Ole
Olson, Gustav
Angel
Skatein, Ole O
Skaaraas, Ole N
Todal, Bargitte Audest
Wereide, Andrias A

D. JACOBUS, P. M.

At Seely's

You can find some extra fine crab-apple cider; old bourbon whisky, eight years old; Maryland Club, pure rye; Jules and G. H. Mum's extra dry champagne; imported Scotch ales and porters for medicinal purposes; also a fine stock of imported cigars. Call and sample. [22-tf]

Money to Loan.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS to loan on improved farms from THREE to FIVE years time at very reasonable rates. Apply at my office on Broadway, in U. S. Land Office building.

[14tf] H. STEENERSON.

MORTGAGE SALE.

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of five hundred twenty-nine and 17-100 ($529.17) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Matthew Ruedy and Jennie Ruedy, his wife, mortgors, to Alzina Clements, mortgagee, bearing date the 2d day of May, A. D. 1882, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of May, A. D. 1882, at 1:30 o'clock p. m., in book "F" of mortgages, on pages 329, 330 and 331. That said mortgage was duly assigned by an instrument in writing thereof, duly executed and delivered by the said Alzina Clements to George E. Banning, dated the 28th day of April, A. D. 1884, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for Polk County, State of Minnesota, on the 28th day of April, A. D. 1884, at 11:30 o'clock a. m., in book "S" of mortgages, on pages 57 and 58; and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot No. seven (7) in block No. thirteen (13) in the townsite of Crookston, according to the recorded plat thereof now on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston in said County and State, on the 5th day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and thirty dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Nov. 20th, A. D. 1884.

GEORGE E. BANNING,
Assignee of Mortgagee.

JOHN MCLEAN,
Att'y for Assignee, Crookston, Minn. [29-35]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of five hundred forty-eight and 50-100 dollars, ($548.50-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Jacob Francis and Ellen Francis, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 21st day of August A. D. 1882 and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 22d day of August A. D. 1882, at 8 o'clock a. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 216, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot eight (8) in block seven (7) of the Townsite of Crookston, according to the recorded plat thereof now on file in the office of the Register of Deeds, Polk County, Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage, in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred eighty-one and 3-100 dollars, ($181.03-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Sophia Busch and Henry Busch, her husband, to Henry Hammond, bearing date the 13th day of December A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 24th day of December A. D. 1883, at 10:20 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 352, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lots numbered twenty-two (22) twenty-three (23) and twenty-four (24) in block No. three (3) of Bottineau's addition to the Townsite of Red Lake Falls, County of Polk and State of Minnesota, according to the certified plat of said addition recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Polk County, Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMOND,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [31-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred seventy-five and 8-100 dollars, ($175.8-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Moise Thiebert, a single man, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 10th day of April A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 11th day of April A. D. 1883, at 11 o'clock a. m., in book "L" of mortgages, on pages 381, 382 and 383, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The fractional lot No. two (2) on Elm Street having a frontage of one hundred and seventy-five (175) feet on Elm Street, ninety-five (95) feet on Sixth Street and one hundred and ninety-five (195) feet on the quarter section line, Townsite of Crookston, Polk County, Minnesota, according to the recorded plat thereof now on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said Polk County and forming a triangular lot, the lot hereby conveyed being the same property conveyed by E. B. Ely and wife, to Newton K. Hubbard by warranty deed, dated Sept. 15th 1881, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First Publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE conditions of a certain mortgage made, executed and delivered by Walter B. Moore and Mary A. Moore his wife, mortgagors, to James McLaughlin mortgagee, by the failure on the part of said Walter B. Moore and Mary A. Moore to pay the interest, which became due and payable on said mortgage, on the 1st day of November 1883, the sum of fifty (50) dollars, and on the 1st day of November, 1884, the sum of fifty (50) dollars, amounting to the sum of one hundred ($100) dollars, and said mortgage containing a clause whereby the failure on the part of the mortgagors to pay said interest when the same became due empowered the said mortgagee or his assigns to declare the whole sum of principal and interest due and payable by such default at his or their election; Said mortgage being dated the 5th day of November 1881 and duly recorded, in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, on the 5th day of November 1881 at 4:25 o'clock p. m. in book "E" of mortgage deeds on pages 415 and 416, and said mortgage was duly assigned by Selina McLaughlin executrix of said James McLaughlin mortgagee, to George McLaughlin, by an instrument in writing, dated the 21st day of April 1884 and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said Polk County, on the 27th day of October 1884, at 12:10 o'clock p. m. in book "M" of mortgages on pages 470 and 471, and said mortgage was duly assigned by said George McLaughlin to Etta S. Brown by an instrument in writing dated the 8th day of May 1884 and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said Polk County, on the 27th day of October 1884 at 12:10 o'clock p. m. in book "M" of mortgages on pages 471 and 472. And said Etta S. Brown, assignee of said mortgage, having exercised said option does hereby declare the whole sum of principal and interest secured by said mortgage now due and payable by reason of such default, and there being now due and unpaid on said mortgage the sum of five hundred ($500) dollars principal and interest amounting at this date to the sum of one hundred and five 84-100 dollars; amounting in all to the sum of six hundred and five and 84-100 dollars ($605.84-100), and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise for the recovery of said debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

NOW, THEREFORE, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, which by reason of the defaults above stated became operative, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the mortgaged premises therein described, which sale will be made at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, by the Sheriff of said county, on Thursday the 22d day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, to satisfy the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage and interest, and taxes if any, and costs and disbursements allowed by law, together with the sum of twenty-five dollars, lawful attorney's fees, as stipulated in said mortgage, to be paid in case of foreclosure.

The premises described in said mortgage and to be sold are described as follows, to-wit: The northeast quarter (ne¼) of Section No. four (4) in Township No. one hundred and fifty (150) north, of Range No. forty-six (46) west; containing one hundred and fifty-eight 45-100 acres according to the government survey thereof, situate in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota.

Dated December 1st A. D. 1884.

ETTA S. BROWN,
Assignee of Mortgage.

E. ST. JULIEN COX AND W. A. SELBY,
Attorneys for Assignee of Mortgage.
[illegible]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred eighty and 62-100 dollars, ($280.62-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph L. Daoust and Hermina Daoust, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 18th day of June A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of June A. D. 1883, at 10 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 65, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Beginning at a point fifty (50) feet west of the north-east corner of the block or parcel of land in lot seven (7) in Section thirty-six (36) Township one hundred and fifty (150) of Range forty-seven (47), bounded on the north by the street running west from the county bridge across the Red Lake River to the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railroad track, and on the east by the county road running south from said bridge, thence south one hundred (100) feet, thence west about one hundred and fifty (150) feet to the said railroad track, thence northerly one hundred (100) feet along said railroad track, and thence east about one hundred and fifty (150) feet to the place of beginning, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred eighty-one and 18-100 dollars, ($181.18-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Sophia Busch and Henry Busch, her husband, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 24th day of July A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, on the 22d day of November A. D. 1883, at 1 o'clock p. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 279, and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter (ne¼) of Section No. thirty-three (33) in Township No. one hundred and fifty (150) north of Range No. forty-four (44) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres more or less in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred fifty-three dollars, ($253) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Tollef J. Farden, and Julia Farden, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 22d day of November A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, on the 22d day of November A. D. 1883, at 10:40 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 277, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northwest quarter of Section twenty-four (24) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149) north, of Range No. forty-four (44) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres of land more or less in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred seventy-six and 27-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Elling Knudson and Ingebor Knudson his wife to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the fourteenth day of March A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 15th day of March A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 529 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for three hundred dollars, due October 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for sixty-six and 77-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Six and 77-100 dollars on October first 1883, and six dollars on the first day of April and October 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888 respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due April 1st, 1884, and of the interest due October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on April 1st, 1884, and of the installment due October 1st, 1884; the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice three hundred seventy-six and 27-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The southeast quarter of Section twenty-eight (28) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149) of Range forty-five (45) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

(First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.)

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred twelve and 26-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Mary Ka[illegible], an unmarried woman to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twenty-[illegible] day of April A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 24th day of April A. D. 1883 at 5 o'clock p. m., in book "L" of mortgages, on page [illegible], and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for two hundred and fifty dollars, due November 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for fifty-five and 35-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Five and 35-100 dollars on November first, 1883, and five dollars on the first day of May and November 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due May 1st, 1884, and of the interest due November 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on May 1st, 1884, and of the installment due November 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice three hundred twelve and 26-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The southwest quarter of Section twenty-eight (28) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149) of Range forty-five (45) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885 at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred eighty-two and 52-100 dollars which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph Derocher, an unmarried man, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the second day of March, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 5d day of March, A. D. 1883, at 1:50 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages on page [illegible] and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for two hundred and twenty-five dollars due October 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for fifty and 55-100 dollars, due in eleven installments as follows: Five and 55-100 dollars on October first, 1883, and four and 50-100 dollars on the first day of April and October 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due April 1st, 1884, and of the interest due October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on April 1st, 1884, and of the installment due October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice two hundred eighty-two and 52-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: the west half of the north-east quarter, and the west half of the southeast quarter of section twelve (12) in township one hundred and fifty one (151) of range forty-five (45) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court-House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth (24th) day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, (Seal.)
By Robert N. Jackson, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., Dec. 8th, 1884.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Boyd P. Van Gordon against William R. Dunn for failure to comply with law as to Timber Culture Entry No. [illegible], dated May [illegible], 1881, upon the ne¼ S. 15, T. 149 n. R. 43, in Polk County, Minn., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; contestant alleging that the said William R. Dunn since date of said entry has failed to break up said tract, to exceed eight acres, or to plant upon said tract any trees, tree seeds or cuttings and that there is not at the present time to exceed eight acres of land broken, nor any trees, tree seeds or cuttings planted or growing thereon; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 30th day of Jan. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged failure.

[illegible] JOHN CROMB, Register.

DENTISTRY.

J. H. THOMAS, D. D. S.

ROBERT STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.

Artificial Teeth from one to an entire set inserted. Gold, Silver or Artificial Filling used as desired. Regulating Children's Teeth a specialty. ALL WORK WARRANTED.

MORTGAGE SALE.

(First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.)

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of five hundred, eleven and 93-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Louis Morisset, an unmarried man, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the eleventh day of August, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 11th day of August, A. D. 1883, at 3:20 o'clock p. m. in book "O" of mortgages, on page 177 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for four hundred dollars, due January 1st, 1889, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for eighty-six and 22-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: six and 22-100 dollars on January first, 1884, and eight dollars on July first, 1884, and eight dollars on the first day of January and July, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and eight dollars on January 1st, 1889, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due January 1st, 1884 and of the interest due July 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on January 1st, 1884 and of the installment due July 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice five hundred, eleven and 93-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: the southwest quarter of Section twenty-four (24) in township one hundred and fifty-one (151), of range forty-seven (47); containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the city of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY. (Seal.)
By Robert N. Jackson, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of six hundred, twenty-eight and 25-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Simeon Patnode, an unmarried man, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twenty-third day of January, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 25d day of January, A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page [illegible] and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for five hundred dollars, due October 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for one hundred and thirteen and 21-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Thirteen and 21-100 dollars on October 1st, 1883, and ten dollars on the first day of April and October 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888 respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due April 1st, 1884, and of the interest due October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on April 1st, 1884 and of the installment due October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice six hundred twenty-eight and 25-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The southeast quarter of Section thirty-four (34) in Township one hundred and fifty-one (151), of Range forty-five (45), containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY. (Seal.)
by Robert N. Jackson, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred seventy-eight and 25-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Ole Anderson and Sarah Anderson, his wife, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twentieth day of March, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 22d day of March, A. D. 1883, at 9 o'clock a. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page [illegible] and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of three notes for one hundred dollars each, due October 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for sixty-six and 77-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Six and 77-100 dollars on October first, 1883, and six dollars on the first day of April, and October, 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due October 1st, 1883, and of the interest due April 1st and October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on October 1st, 1883 and of the installments due April 1st and October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable; according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice three hundred, seventy-eight and 25-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section twenty-four (24), in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149), of Range forty-five (45), containing one hundred and sixty acres in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY. (Seal.)
By Robert N. Jackson, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston Minn., Dec. 15th, 1884.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., on Jan. 24th, 1885, viz: ELIE LARIVERE, for the ne¼ S. 14, T. 148, R. 47. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Charles Marielle, Charles Dewal, Clement Pagant and William Dewal, all of Crookston, Polk Co. Minn.

[34-39] JOHN CROMB, Register.

Commercial Hotel,

NORTON & BENEDICT, Prop's.

SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.

First-class in all respects. Terms reasonable. A share of the public patronage solicited.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum four hundred ninety-nine and 73-100 dollars which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Philip Murphy and Mary Ann Murphy his wife to Middlesex Banking Company of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twenty-first day of April A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of April A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m., in book "L" of mortgages, on page 671 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for four hundred dollars, due November 1st 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for eighty-eight and 58-100 dollars; due in eleven installments, as follows: Eight and 58-100 dollars on November first, 1883, and eight dollars on the first day of May and November, 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due May 1st 1884 and of the interest due November 1st 1884 and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on May 1st, 1884, and of the installment due November 1st 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice four hundred ninety-nine and 73-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The southeast quarter of Section twenty-six (26) in Township one hundred and forty-eight (148) of Range forty-seven (47) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney.
[33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred sixty and 21-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Peter N. Olstad, an unmarried man to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown Connecticut, bearing date the second day of July A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 7th day of July A. D. 1883, at 11 o'clock a. m., in book "M" of mortgages, on page [illegible] and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for two hundred dollars, due December 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for forty-four and 25-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Four and 25-100 dollars on December first, 1883, and four dollars on the first day of June and December 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due December 1st, 1883, and of the interest due June 1st and December 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on December 1st, 1883, and of the installments due June 1st and December 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice two hundred sixty and 21-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section fourteen (14) in Township one hundred and forty-eight (148) of Range forty-five (45) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of eleven hundred eighty-two and 14-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by George J. Charboneau, an unmarried man to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the first day of February A. D. 1883 and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1883, at 2 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 151, and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for nine hundred dollars, due January 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for one hundred eighty-one and 70-100 dollars, due in five installments, as follows: Thirty-seven and 70-100 dollars on January first, 1884 and thirty-six dollars on the first day of January 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due January 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on January 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice eleven hundred eighty-two and 14-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The east half of the northwest quarter and lots one (1) and two (2) being the fractional northwest quarter of Section No. thirty (30) in Township No. one hundred and fifty-two (152) north, of Range No. forty-seven (47) west, containing one hundred and thirty-nine and 1-100 (139 1-100) acres, according to the United States government survey thereof, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and seventy-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., Nov. 21st, 1884.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office at Crookston, Minn., Jan. 7th, 1885, viz: HANS JOHNSON, H'd No. [illegible], for the [illegible], S. [illegible], T. [illegible], R. 47. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Morton Jenson, Christ Hanson, Even Erickson and Even Thorson, all of Crookston, Polk Co., Minn.

[31-35] JOHN CROMB, Register.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., Dec. 2d, 1884.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., on Jan. 16th, 1885, viz: OLE C. BERGLAND, H'd No. 10,521, for the nw¼ S. 20, T. 149, R. 46. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Joseph Morre, Narcisse LaVaye, Andrew Eiken and T. Olafson, all of Crookston, Polk Co., Minn.

[32-37] JOHN CROMB, Register.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 25th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred seventy-two and 21-100 dollars ($372.21-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Aiken Dumas and Emily Dumas his wife to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 1st day of July A. D. 1882, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 5th day of July A. D. 1882, at 4:30 o'clock p. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 127, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northwest quarter (nw¼) of Section twenty-six (26) Township one hundred and fifty (150) north, of Range forty-four (44) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres more or less, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston in said County and State, on the 9th day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston Dec. 24th, A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [35-41]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Jan. 1st 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred eighty-four and [illegible]-100 dollars, ($384.[illegible]-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Albert D. Berry and Clorentha Berry, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 21st day of April A. D. 1882, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 22d day of April A. D. 1882, at 1:15 o'clock p. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 1, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute, in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The Southeast quarter (se¼) of Section one (1) Township one hundred and fifty-one (151) Range forty-five (45), in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 16th day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston Dec. 27th, A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [36-42]

A. Yvernault,

Dealer in

General Merchandise,

—MAIN STREET.—

Crookston, Minn.

All my friends, both old and new, are cordially invited to call and examine my stoc 2nd get prices.

Christening and Wedding Cakes Made upon Shortest Notice in the Best Style.

A Choice and Well Selected Stock of Confectionery Always on hand.

John Crawford & Son,

Proprietors of

Crawford's Bakery,

SECOND STREET,

Crookston, Minn

CONFECTIONERY

Fresh Bread, Buns, Cakes and Biscuits. All Articles in the Fancy Baking Line.

A. A. JUST, M. D.,

Homœopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Rooms corner Main street and Fletcher Avenue, over Eiken Bros. Hardware Store,

CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINN.

MERCHANTS' HOTEL,

J. E. MITTON, Proprietor,

CORNER BROADWAY AND ROBERT STREET

CROOKSTON, MINN.

The new Merchants' Hotel, recently re-fitted and re-furnished is now ready to accommodate the traveling public, who are cordially invited to stop at the Merchants' when in the city.

SECOND STREET

MEAT MARKET

STANTON & CO., Proprietors.

Choice meats of every description. Fish and game in their season. Everything of the very best quality and lowest prices. Call and see us.

STANTON & CO.
Dobson's Block, Second Street.

The Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Proprietor. DEVOTED TO THE WELFARE OF POLK COUNTY.

VOL. VIII. CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINNESOTA, JANUARY 8, 1885. TERMS---$1.50 Per Annum. NO. 37

GREAT CLOSING OUT SALE

AT THE

Old Brick Block,

Commencing on

TUESDAY, JANUARY 6TH, 1885.

Must Be Closed Out

WITHIN TWENTY DAYS!

Call Early For

BIG BARGAINS.

FONTAINE & ANGLIM.

Polk County Journal.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

H. E. COOKE, Editor and Proprietor

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance, to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

ADVERTISING RATES.

SPACE.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 m.	2 m	6 m.	1 year
½ inch	50	$1 00	$1 15	$1 50	$3 00	4 50	$ 6 00
1 inch	75	1 25	1 75	2 00	5 50	6 00	10 00
2 inches	1 50	2 25	3 00	3 50	6 50	9 50	15 00
3 inches	1 75	2 75	3 75	4 50	9 50	13 50	20 00
4 inches	2 50	3 50	4 50	5 50	10 00	10 00	25 00
inches	3 00	4 00	5 00	6 00	12 50	20 00	30 00
¼ column	3 50	5 50	5 50	6 50	15 00	25 00	35 00
½ column	6 00	7 50	10 00	12 00	20 00	35 00	60 00
1 column	9 50	12 50	15 00	18 00	35 00	60 00	100 00

Entered at the Post Office in Crookston as Second Class matter.

FARM NOTES.

American Farmer.

The man who, working with his hands for his daily bread, insists upon it that his hands shall be enlightened and helped by his brains, will by-and-by, I think, not only make more brains, but he will make so many more that the head can't hold them, and they will creep down into his arms and hands; and that is what is called skilled labor.

An Indiana farmer relates his experience in raising potatoes under straw, in the following language: "I had my ground broken up deep, working a rich and well rotted compost thoroughly in the soil. The soil was now made level and smooth. The seed pieces were planted on top of the soil in straight lines, ten inches apart, and eight inches apart in the lines. The whole was then covered with about six or eight inches of straw. During the season the moles raised the soil somewhat, but not injure the potatoes. A liberal sprinkling of unleached ashes about twice through the growing season is of great advantage. Many vines when stretched up measured five feet, and the tubers are the finest I ever raised.

In closing the stable against the cold winds of the winter there is danger, if the work is done thoroughly, of cutting off ventilation. The plea that there is plenty of room for the air to enter and escape from the stable cannot be taken as a good one, for these crevices and cracks may occur just where they should not. It is as important that stables should be ventilated properly as it is that they should be ventilated at all.

STEAMING FOOD FOR FARM ANIMALS.

It is, we think, generally admitted that the grain for stock is greatly increased in value by steaming and cooking before feeding. Mr. Joseph Watts, of Amity, Oregon, who has been engaged for the last three years in buying hogs and fattening and killing them for the market, gives some of the results of his experiments in that line. He fattens form 100 to 250 hogs at a time, feeding barley and sometimes wheat. In his experience finds that it takes about six pounds of raw wheat, or nearly seven of barley to make a pound of pork, and that a hog when fattening will consume that many pounds of wheat daily for each 100 pounds of live weight. Ground barley, steamed in a vat four hours is the feed now used. The grain fed is ground on the premises, a family grist mill and a six-horse power being used for the purpose. The result of feeding steam cooked food, as tried by Mr. W., is very satisfactory, requiring one-third less feed to grow the same weight of pork as compared to using raw food.

A cheap and convenient steamer for this purpose can be made by taking 1¼ by 14 or 16-inch lumber and making a trough, flaring at the top, with ends grooved in and a bolt run through to hold the sides firmly up to their place. The bottom is made of stove-pipe iron; closely nailed over the outside edges. A furnace upon which the trough is to rest may be built either of brick or by digging a trench in the ground. An old stove pipe should be attached to carry up the smoke and create a draft for the fire. The size and length of the trough may be suited to the needs of the user, but it will give better satisfaction in under ten feet long about sixteen inches deep, sixteen inches wide at the bottom and twenty inches wide at the top.

It will surprise many to know that nearly or quite one-half of the merchantable sugar of the world is produced from beets, chiefly in France and Germany, both of which countries are large exporters. Without this production of beet sugar prices of all sweets would be much higher than they are. It is believed, however, that the superiority of sorghum over beets as a sugar plant will enable us to compete in the Northern States in sugar and sirup production notwithstanding the higher price for labor in this country.

GRAIN AND STOCK FARMING.

The result of grain farming and stock farming may be summed up as follows: The grain farmer spends his energies in getting all he can out of his land during the short space intervening between the beginning of spring's work and the end of harvest, or perhaps he may have a few acres of wheat, which he sows in the fall, and after sprouting, waits till the advent of spring to renew its growth. In any event, his farm lies unproductive during the greater portion of the year, while his taxes, the interest of his investment, and his family and household expenses are going on all the time. And with all this, his farm is every day becoming less productive.

The stock breeder has his work at his hand the whole year round. Some fields must be cropped with coarse grains for winter feed, and those are more than refertilized by the product of manure every year. These fields have to be cultivated by the farmer, but his pasture lands only require cultivation at long intervals, while, as for the rest of the work, the herd manures the land, reaps the crop and carries it to market. The crop of the intelligent and thrifty stock farmer is growing from the first of January to the thirty-first of December, night and day, hour by hour increasing in value; while every year sees his farm more productive, and his breeding herd more richly bred and valuable.

A WORD FOR WHITE CLOVER.

White clover has been called a weed and a detriment to the farm. It creeps over the farm so rapidly and so unaccountably; it flourishes when the true grasses wither; it appears to defy equally poverty of soil, cold, excessive moisture or extreme drouth.

If allowed to grow without too close grazing, it forms a dense mass of matted leaves and stems close to the earth, which shuts out the sun and retains the moisture.

It is this dense covering of blue grass and white clover, which gives value to the prairie pastures for early and late grazing. The advantages of white clover may be sumarized as follows:

1st. It is perennial, which gives it a great advantage over red clover, and renders it an almost necessary substitute where close grazing is practiced.

2d. It is extremely hardy. It turns its sprightly green leaves to the lingering snows of spring and it stoutly resists the sharp frosts of approaching winter. It resists drouth with true clover stubbornness, and thrives in the slough or upon the knoll with almost equal vigor.

3d. When not grazed too closely, its dense matted coating of leaves and stems forms an excellent protection to the soil during the protracted drouth of summer.

4th. It furnishes a large amount of highly nutritive material. It has more protein and more fat than red clover. In flesh-forming material, it is nearly 20 per cent. richer than blue grass. The product is about eight tons of green fodder per acre upon rich prairie soil.

5th. The flavor is excellent during most of the season, and the cattle eat it with avidity, except during the months of July and a portion of August.

Almost the sole objection urged to white clover, is its effect on horses, during the maturing of the seed. As this effect is for a comparatively short time, it can scarcely outweigh the many advantages to be gained by its use.

After a few months of rest, a calm before a storm, as it were, big butter yielding cows have again come to the front, waking up sleepy old farmers and throwing staid old matrons off their balance. The latest wonder in this line is from Canada. The Jersey cow, Ida of St. Lambert, belonging to Mr. Fuller, of Hamilton, Ont., produced thirty pounds two ounces of butter in seven days, as shown by official test. Just how this official test was made is not known to this deponent, but most probably upon the horse jockey plan. It now remains to be seen whether the United States will stand this sort of thing, of being beaten by our Kanuck brothren. Let some blue-bellied Yankee immediately go to work and produce a cow or a yarn that will knock this Canada cow, Ida of St. Lambert, higher than Gilderoy's kite and save the reputation of this country for lying. It can be done.

Free—Splendid Dictionary—Free.

A grand 600-page Dictionary will be sent free to every person sending $1 for the Farm Journal and Live Stock Review, one year. Don't fail. This is the greatest offer ever made. Address the Journal Publishing Company, Box 57, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. [37-39]

A Real Good Paper

For everybody, and his wife, and their children, is the Prairie Farmer, as it is now edited by the veteran journalist, Orange Judd, who brings to it a most valuable experience. He is not "Dead" as "rumored" by a long way, but hale and hearty, and doing better work than ever before. His journal is packed full of good things every week, all carefully prepared, interesting, instructive, reliable and useful to all. Mr. Judd has made a good paper for a Quarter of a Century, and keeps doing so, in his now, broad Western field. He gives his whole attention to the weekly Prairie Farmer. It is beautifully printed, with many engravings, and is first-rate for all farmers, gardeners, dairymen, stock-growers, horticulturists of all classes, and it is also specially valuable to housekeepers everywhere. Though issued weekly, it costs but $2 a year, including a large, splendid U. S. $3 map; or $1.50 a year without the map, and less to large clubs. Take our advice and TRY it for a year. Address Prairie Farmer, Chicago.

Wheat Growing in the Future.

Manitoba Free Press.

Following up an article in a previous issue, recommending farmers to alter their style of farming, we wish to draw attention to the latest European advices. One of the American agents on the continent telegraphs his Government that Russian wheat merchants are pushing their business, particularly in Switzerland and other continental points, to such an extent that unless American wheat can be delivered at much lower rates than formerly, the trade will practically come to an end. This appears to be the final blow, nobody could have foreseen that in the year 1884 wheat could have been sold, as has been the case this season, for 28s 6d. per quarter in Great Britain. Unfortunately, hitherto, the Canadian farmer has looked too much to his fall wheat to pay his many expenses, and we all know how difficult it is to change the idea of a large community. In former years calculations were based very much on wheat averaging at least one dollar per bushel, and the chances of from 25 to 50 per cent. rise on this was often looked forward to. As far as human calculations can go, this is finished, and an entirely new system must be inaugurated to meet the change in the price of this staple article. We recommended in our last article seeding down to grass as the first step preparatory to increasing the number of live stock; this, of course, is absolutely necessary to provide sufficient fodder for winter and grazing for the summer months. But to carry out this system to advantage, and to reap the greatest benefit within the shortest time, nothing but the very best animals must be kept, consistently with the capital of the proprietor. Every farmer, of course, is not in a position to purchase a number of high priced animals, but we fear a false economy is too often exercised in selecting a sire, whether in the case of cattle, horses or sheep, and nothing more fully bears out the truth of the old adage, "penny wise and pound foolish," than this stupid, parsimonious habit.

Too many farmers have an old-fashioned idea that well bred animals require more feed and forcing than native scrubs; experience would very soon teach them that the reverse is entirely the case, and moreover, that a highly bred animal matures from eighteen months to two years earlier than the native. We also have another point we must not lose sight of—viz., that Canada has every year a large surplus stock of all kinds to dispose of, that she has a neighbor on the other side of the line able and willing to invest capital in profitable breeding at all times; consequently she must keep up with the times and breed what her customers require. Again, suppose that we have convinced a large proportion of the farming community that so far our remarks are correct, we have still another point to remind them of, and this is one that invariably strikes strangers visiting our country. We allude to the waste on ninety-nine farms out of a hundred of what might be valuable food. Drive north, east, south or west through the land and what do you see? On every farm a huge straw stack rotting and spoiling, exposed to the weather. We all know that one of the principal drawbacks to this country is its long winter, but strange to say; with very few exceptions, the straw is wasted as though spring were expected any day. Turning out stock to winter at the straw stack is as common as ever, pigs, cattle and colts are expected to "Root hog or die," when a little foresight, and a small expense, would nearly double the number of animals that could be well kept. It is astonishing what can be done by using the cutting box and turnip pulper, and a small supply of meal, the straw goes when fed in this way to make up necessary bulk, and the turnips and meal afford the nourishment and fattening qualities. Where capital is available, the feeding of stock in winter is greatly assisted by bank barns, as they are termed. The convenience of feeding and comfort to the animals is enormous, to say nothing of saving of exposure to labor, etc. Purchasers, also, inspecting cattle housed in this way, are also in a much more amiable frame of mind, and inclined to view things in a much better light than when exposed to zero weather at the back of a straw stack, and greeted at every turn with a blast of snow and ice.

Twenty-five or thirty years ago the face of the country was more or less covered with wood, and much more shelter was thus given in winter. Also, employment out of doors afforded in cutting saw-logs, cordwood, &c. In these days wheat growing was a necessity, the land was cleared and sown in wheat, no other crop answering the same purpose. All of this state of things has passed away, and the land requires assistance in shape of manure, which it did not to the same extent formerly. Therefore we must breed, and let every farmer join in saying, let us breed the best.

Beautiful Dictionary and Paper for $1.

That excellent farm and home paper, the Farm Journal and Live Stock Review, filled with splendid family and household reading, stock notes, interesting stories, etc., one year, and a grand 600-page Dictionary, both for $1. Send to-day, addressing the Journal Publishing Company, Box 57, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. [37-39]

The Indian Wheat-Scare.

Prairie Farmer: Telegraphic reports say that the present price of India wheat in London is 90 cents a bushel, and Calcutta dealers declare this is too low for any profit. Of course it is; and what is more, there is little likelihood of their raising much wheat in the hot climate of India, of good enough quality to bring through the long journey from that country, pay the Isthmus Canal tolls, and put it down in England so as to compete with wheat grown at a profit in our great west and northwest. Ships, bringing goods across the Atlantic, can carry back our grain and meats at low freightage; and cheap transportation to the seaboard from all our western fields is bound to come.

The present is an exceptional period, and will not last long—provided, always, that the cornering speculators can be choked off, or killed off by legislation, so as to let prices and trade be governed by natural causes. It was these men that started up this distant competition. The present very low prices will, in the long run, work out good results to our farmers, by stopping the foreign competition, and restoring to us our rightful and natural position as grain growers for the world. In producing meat and wool, butter and cheese, in which condensed form large values are carried at small freightage, we have comparatively little competition now.

The Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Proprietor.

DEVOTED TO THE WELFARE OF POLK COUNTY.

TERMS---$1.50 Per Annum.

VOL. VIII. CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINNESOTA, JANUARY 8, 1885. NO. 37

GREAT CLOSING OUT SALE

AT THE

Old Brick Block,

Commencing on

☞ TUESDAY, JANUARY 6TH, 1885.

Must Be Closed Out

WITHIN TWENTY DAYS!

Call Early For

BIG BARGAINS.

FONTAINE & ANGLIM.

Polk County Journal.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

H. E. COOKE, Editor and Proprietor

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance, to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

ADVERTISING RATES.

SPACE.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 m.	2 m	6 m.	1 year
½ inch	50	$1 00	$1 15	$1 50	$3 00	4 50	$ 6 00
1 inch	75	1 25	1 75	2 00	5 50	6 00	10 00
2 inches	1 50	2 25	3 00	3 50	6 50	9 50	15 00
3 inches	1 75	2 75	3 75	4 50	9 50	13 50	20 00
4 inches	2 50	3 50	4 50	5 50	10 00	10 00	25 00
inches	3 00	4 00	5 00	6 00	12 50	20 00	30 00
¼ column	3 50	5 50	5 50	6 50	15 00	25 00	35 00
½ column	6 00	7 50	10 00	12 00	20 00	35 00	60 00
1 column	9 50	12 50	15 00	18 00	35 00	60 00	100 00

Entered at the Post Office in Crookston as Second Class matter.

FARM NOTES.

American Farmer.

The man who, working with his hands for his daily bread, insists upon it that his hands shall be enlightened and helped by his brains, will by-and-by, I think, not only make more brains, but he will make so many more that the head can't hold them, and they will creep down into his arms and hands; and that is what is called skilled labor.

An Indiana farmer relates his experience in raising potatoes under straw, in the following language: "I had my ground broken up deep, working a rich and well rotted compost thoroughly in the soil. The soil was now made level and smooth. The seed pieces were planted on top of the soil in straight lines, ten inches apart, and eight inches apart in the lines. The whole was then covered with about six or eight inches of straw. During the season the moles raised the soil somewhat, but not injure the potatoes. A liberal sprinkling of unleached ashes about twice through the growing season is of great advantage. Many vines when stretched up measured five feet, and the tubers are the finest I ever raised.

In closing the stable against the cold winds of the winter there is danger, if the work is done thoroughly, of cutting off ventilation. The plea that there is plenty of room for the air to enter and escape from the stable cannot be taken as a good one, for these crevices and cracks may occur just where they should not. It is as important that stables should be ventilated properly as it is that they should be ventilated at all.

STEAMING FOOD FOR FARM ANIMALS.

It is, we think, generally admitted that the grain for stock is greatly increased in value by steaming and cooking before feeding. Mr. Joseph Watts, of Amity, Oregon, who has been engaged for the last three years in buying hogs and fattening and killing them for the market, gives some of the results of his experiments in that line. He fattens form 100 to 250 hogs at a time, feeding barley and sometimes wheat. In his experience finds that it takes about six pounds of raw wheat, or nearly seven of barley to make a pound of pork, and that a hog when fattening will consume that many pounds of wheat daily for each 100 pounds of live weight. Ground barley, steamed in a vat four hours is the feed now used. The grain fed is ground on the premises, a family grist mill and a six-horse power being used for the purpose. The result of feeding steam cooked food, as tried by Mr. W., is very satisfactory, requiring one-third less feed to grow the same weight of pork as compared to using raw food.

A cheap and convenient steamer for this purpose can be made by taking 1½ by 14 or 16-inch lumber and making a trough, flaring at the top, with ends grooved in and a bolt run through to hold the sides firmly up to their place. The bottom is made of stove-pipe iron; closely nailed over the outside edges. A furnace upon which the trough is to rest may be built either of brick or by digging a trench in the ground. An old stove pipe should be attached to carry up the smoke and create a draft for the fire. The size and length of the trough may be suited to the needs of the user, but it will give better satisfaction in under ten feet long about sixteen inches deep, sixteen inches wide at the bottom and twenty inches wide at the top.

It will surprise many to know that nearly or quite one-half of the merchantable sugar of the world is produced from beets, chiefly in France and Germany, both of which countries are large exporters. Without this production of beet sugar prices of all sweets would be much higher than they are. It is believed, however, that the superiority of sorghum over beets as a sugar plant will enable us to compete in the Northern States in sugar and sirup production notwithstanding the higher price for labor in this country.

GRAIN AND STOCK FARMING.

The result of grain farming and stock farming may be summed up as follows: The grain farmer spends his energies in getting all he can out of his land during the short space intervening between the beginning of spring's work and the end of harvest, or perhaps he may have a few acres of wheat, which he sows in the fall, and after sprouting, waits till the advent of spring to renew its growth. In any event, his farm lies unproductive during the greater portion of the year, while his taxes, the interest of his investment, and his family and household expenses are going on all the time. And with all this, his farm is every day becoming less productive.

The stock breeder has his work at his hand the whole year round. Some fields must be cropped with coarse grains for winter feed, and those are more than refertilized by the product of manure every year. These fields have to be cultivated by the farmer, but his pasture lands only require cultivation at long intervals, while, as for the rest of the work, the herd manures the land, reaps the crop and carries it to market. The crop of the intelligent and thrifty stock farmer is growing from the first of January to the thirty-first of December, night and day, hour by hour increasing in value; while every year sees his farm more productive, and his breeding herd more richly bred and valuable.

A WORD FOR WHITE CLOVER.

White clover has been called a weed and a detriment to the farm. It creeps over the farm so rapidly and so unaccountably; it flourishes when the true grasses wither; it appears to defy equally poverty of soil, cold, excessive moisture or extreme drouth.

If allowed to grow without too close grazing, it forms a dense mass of matted leaves and stems close to the earth, which shuts out the sun and retains the moisture.

It is this dense covering of blue grass and white clover, which gives value to the prairie pastures for early and late grazing. The advantages of white clover may be sumarized as follows:

1st. It is perennial, which gives it a great advantage over red clover, and renders it an almost necessary substitute where close grazing is practiced.

2d. It is extremely hardy. It turns its sprightly green leaves to the lingering snows of spring and it stoutly resists the sharp frosts of approaching winter. It resists drouth with true clover stubbornness, and thrives in the slough or upon the knoll with almost equal vigor.

3d. When not grazed too closely, its dense matted coating of leaves and stems forms an excellent protection to the soil during the protracted drouth of summer.

4th. It furnishes a large amount of highly nutritive material. It has more protein and more fat than red clover. In flesh-forming material, it is nearly 20 per cent. richer than blue grass. The product is about eight tons of green fodder per acre upon rich prairie soil.

5th. The flavor is excellent during most of the season, and the cattle eat it with avidity, except during the months of July and a portion of August.

Almost the sole objection urged to white clover, is its effect on horses, during the maturing of the seed. As this effect is for a comparatively short time, it can scarcely outweigh the many advantages to be gained by its use.

After a few months of rest, a calm before a storm, as it were, big butter yielding cows have again come to the front, waking up sleepy old farmers and throwing staid old matrons off their balance. The latest wonder in this line is from Canada. The Jersey cow, Ida of St. Lambert, belonging to Mr. Fuller, of Hamilton, Ont., produced thirty pounds two ounces of butter in seven days, as shown by official test. Just how this official test was made is not known to this deponent, but most probably upon the horse jockey plan. It now remains to be seen whether the United States will stand this sort of thing, of being beaten by our Kanuck brethren. Let some blue-bellied Yankee immediately go to work and produce a cow or a yarn that will knock this Canada cow, Ida of St. Lambert, higher than Gilderoy's kite and save the reputation of this country for—lying. It can be done.

Free—Splendid Dictionary—Free.

A grand 600-page Dictionary will be sent free to every person sending $1 for the Farm Journal and Live Stock Review, one year. Don't fail. This is the greatest offer ever made. Address the Journal Publishing Company, Box 57, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. [37-39]

A Real Good Paper

For everybody, and his wife, and their children, is the Prairie Farmer, as it is now edited by the veteran journalist, Orange Judd, who brings to it a most valuable experience. He is not "Dead" as "rumored" by a long way, but hale and hearty, and doing better work than ever before. His journal is packed full of good things every week, all carefully prepared, interesting, instructive, reliable and useful to all. Mr. Judd has made a good paper for a Quarter of a Century, and keeps doing so, in his new, broad Western field. He gives his whole attention to the weekly Prairie Farmer. It is beautifully printed, with many engravings, and is first-rate for all farmers, gardeners, dairymen, stock-growers, horticulturists of all classes, and it is also specially valuable to housekeepers everywhere. Though issued weekly, it costs but $2 a year, including a large, splendid U. S. $3 map; or $1.50 a year without the map, and less to large clubs. Take our advice and TRY it for a year. Address Prairie Farmer, Chicago.

Wheat Growing in the Future.

Manitoba Free Press.

Following up an article in a previous issue, recommending farmers to alter their style of farming, we wish to draw attention to the latest European advices. One of the American agents on the continent telegraphs his Government that Russian wheat merchants are pushing their business, particularly in Switzerland and other continental points, to such an extent that unless American wheat can be delivered at much lower rates than formerly, the trade will practically come to an end. This appears to be the final blow, nobody could have foreseen that in the year 1884 wheat could have been sold, as has been the case this season, for 23s 6d. per quarter in Great Britain. Unfortunately, hitherto, the Canadian farmer has looked too much to his fall wheat to pay his many expenses, and we all know how difficult it is to change the idea of a large community. In former years calculations were based very much on wheat averaging at least one dollar per bushel, and the chances of from 25 to 50 per cent. rise on this was often looked forward to. As far as human calculations can go, this is finished, and an entirely new system must be inaugurated to meet the change in the price of this staple article. We recommended in our last article seeding down to grass as the first step preparatory to increasing the number of live stock; this, of course, is absolutely necessary to provide sufficient fodder for winter and grazing for the summer months. But to carry out this system to advantage, and to reap the greatest benefit within the shortest time, nothing but the very best animals must be kept, consistently with the capital of the proprietor. Every farmer, of course, is not in a position to purchase a number of high priced animals, but we fear a false economy is too often exercised in selecting a sire, whether in the case of cattle, horses or sheep, and nothing more fully bears out the truth of the old adage, "penny wise and pound foolish," than this stupid, parsimonious habit.

Too many farmers have an old-fashioned idea that well bred animals require more feed and forcing than native scrubs; experience would very soon teach them that the reverse is entirely the case, and moreover, that a highly bred animal matures from eighteen months to two years earlier than the native. We also have another point we must not lose sight of—viz., that Canada has every year a large surplus stock of all kinds to dispose of, that she has a neighbor on the other side of the line able and willing to invest capital in profitable breeding at all times; consequently she must keep up with the times and breed what her customers require. Again, suppose that we have convinced a large proportion of the farming community that so far our remarks are correct, we have still another point to remind them of, and this is one that invariably strikes strangers visiting our country. We allude to the waste on ninety-nine farms out of a hundred of what might be valuable food. Drive north, east, south or west through the land and what do you see? On every farm a huge straw stack rotting and spoiling, exposed to the weather. We all know that one of the principal drawbacks to this country is its long winter, but strange to say; with very few exceptions, the straw is wasted as though spring were expected any day. Turning out stock to winter at the straw stack is as common as ever, pigs, cattle and colts are expected to "Root hog or die," when a little foresight, and a small expense, would nearly double the number of animals that could be well kept. It is astonishing what can be done by using the cutting box and turnip pulper, and a small supply of meal, the straw goes when fed in this way to make up necessary bulk, and the turnips and meal afford the nourishment and fattening qualities. Where capital is available, the feeding of stock in winter is greatly assisted by bank barns, as they are termed. The convenience of feeding and comfort to the animals is enormous, to say nothing of saving of exposure to labor, etc. Purchasers, also, inspecting cattle housed in this way, are also in a much more amiable frame of mind, and inclined to view things in a much better light than when exposed to zero weather at the back of a straw stack, and greeted at every turn with a blast of snow and ice.

Twenty-five or thirty years ago the face of the country was more or less covered with wood, and much more shelter was thus given in winter. Also, employment out of doors afforded in cutting saw-logs, cordwood, &c. In these days wheat growing was a necessity, the land was cleared and sown in wheat, no other crop answering the same purpose. All of this state of things has passed away, and the land requires assistance in shape of manure, which it did not to the same extent formerly. Therefore we must breed, and let every farmer join in saying, let us breed the best.

Beautiful Dictionary and Paper for $1.

That excellent farm and home paper, the Farm Journal and Live Stock Review, filled with splendid family and household reading, stock notes, interesting stories, etc., one year, and a grand 600-page Dictionary, both for $1. Send to-day, addressing the Journal Publishing Company, Box 57, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. [37-39]

The Indian Wheat Scare.

Prairie Farmer: Telegraphic reports say that the present price of India wheat in London is 90 cents a bushel, and Calcutta dealers declare this is too low for any profit. Of course it is; and what is more, there is little likelihood of their raising much wheat in the hot climate of India of good enough quality to bring through the long journey from that country, pay the Isthmus Canal tolls, and put it down in England so as to compete with wheat grown at a profit in our great west and northwest. Ships, bringing goods across the Atlantic, can carry back our grain and meats at low freightage; and cheap transportation to the seaboard from all our western fields is bound to come.

The present is an exceptional period, and will not last long—provided, always, that the cornering speculators can be choked off, or killed off by legislation, so as to let prices and trade be governed by natural causes. It was these men that started up this distant competition. The present very low prices will, in the long run, work out good results to our farmers, by stopping the foreign competition, and restoring to us our rightful and natural position as grain growers for the world. In producing meat and wool, butter and cheese, in which condensed form large values are carried at small freightage, we have comparatively little competition now.

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, January 8, 1885.

'ROUND HOME.

Theodore Greenhalgh was reported to be recovering rapidly last week.

Everybody agrees that the weather during 1885 has been just too lovely for any use.

You can buy one pair kid gloves for 50 cents; reduced from $1.50, at the New York store.

The camp-fire and hop on New Year's night was a grand success in every particular.

The net proceeds of the ladies R. C. Fair amounted to $173. For all of which the ladies feel duly thankful.

The chief contestants for the cane at the ladies R. C. Fair were J. J. Brennan and Geo. Mathews. Won by Mathews by four votes.

Fred Durand took a tumble to himself during the grand march on Saturday last and is now thanking his lucky stars that he did not break his neck.

Table linens from 20 cents to 90 cents at the New York store.

Wheat has been climbing rapidly for a week and the Legislature had not commenced operations either. Wonder if it was in anticipation of "aggressive legislation?"

Red flannels, plain and twilled, guaranteed all wool, from 22 cents to 50 cents, at the New York store.

A bit of a rainstorm on Wednesday evening was a novel feature in the history of Minnesota weather. Such things are oftener read about than seen in this country in the winter.

W. S. Campbell, a Crookston old-timer, is down from Stephen, Marshall Co., enjoying city life awhile. He thinks Crookston is the boss place of the Northwest and he is just right about it.

Flannels, 54 and 56 inches wide, in all the new shades, reduced from $1.00 and $1.20 to 75 cents, at the New York store. The nett cost on these goods was 85 cents.

Proud & Macdonnell have finished taking an inventory and marking down their goods and on Wednesday morning threw wide open their doors to their patrons and friends. Just drop in and see what bargains they offer.

Burt Bivens and his bride returned on Wednesday morning. They will soon go to housekeeping in the old Truax house on Main street, and Burt will take his place again at the depot all the same as though nothing had happened.

A. O. Serum was up from Halstad on Wednesday and dropped in to cheer the printer with a bit of the wherewithal. Mr. S. reports times fair to middling in his locality and farmers all anticipating better times in the future.

D. Jacobus has a pet shoulder. He got it at the favorite rink on Saturday evening last in the Grand March. He attempted to sit down all of a sudden like and threw his shoulder out of joint in the effort. Dr. Van Dyke and Dune Terry pulled Jake into shape again and now he is doing nicely.

At the New York store they are bound to do business even in dull times if prices can do any.

The consolidated C. O. D. and Excelsior One Price Clothing Houses are at home in Chiniquy's ~~old~~ quarters where they are able to make an elegant display of gents' furnishing goods such as never before seen here. They will soon have on a complete stock of boots and shoes of the celebrated J. W. Brigham make which are said to be the best in the market. They invite all to call in and look them over.

The place to buy remnants is at the New York store.

The New York store was closed from Saturday until Wednesday of this week for stock taking. This is one of the most popular stores in the city and we have no doubt but they will still give their usual bargains.

The New York papers are having a terrible time this winter. While paper and other printer's materials have advanced the cost of publishing, the lists of the leading papers, such as the Times the Herald and the Sun are falling off largely and the Truth has gone to the wall entirely. The Tribune is the only paper paying its expenses it is said while all the rest are losing money. They'll all have to come west and grow up with the country.

Tom Morris has moved his store across the street into the building two doors west of Medical Hall where he is now prepared to welcome all of his old customers and friends. Tom is one of the old timers, coming to this city six years ago this month, and as a good and faithful workman is too well known to need an introduction. He is now prepared to do all work in his line with promptness and as well and as cheaply as it can be done elsewhere. Drop in and see him.

The Grand Forks Herald, with commendable grit, issued a booming edition on Jan. 1st '85. It is not a booming sheet in the common acceptation of the term but is just booming, that's all. It is a plain common sense statement of solid facts such as outsiders desire to know about this country: and, if properly circulated is calculated to do much good by calling the attention of outsiders to the good points of this country. The Herald is one of the best and most enterprising papers in the great Northwest and has done much to advance its interests.

You can buy gents' wool underwear at less than wholesale cost, at the New York store.

Charlie Robbecke was in from St. Hilaire this week. He is very sanguine of the great future of Polk County.

You can buy a good colored blanket or 95 cents, at the New York store.

Tom Morris has established himself in the jewelry business on Second Street two doors west of Medical Hall.

You can buy a large surge white bed spread for 85 cents, at the New York store.

Leo & George is the way it reads now, Mr. Leo having taken in Ed. George as partner on the 1st of January. Thats the second partner John has taken in recently.

You can buy 20 yards of heavy brown sheeting, one yard wide, for $1.00, at the New York store.

The new Register, John Paterson, took possession of his office on Tuesday with Clark Van Housen as deputy. John will doubtless make a good official when he gets into the harness.

You can buy 10 yards of dress goods in any color, for 50 cents, at the New York store.

Herb Holdrege was smiling all over his countenance on Wednesday all because Mrs. H. had on the morning of that day presented him with a bouncing baby girl. Herb thinks there is nothing like it.

Those mechanical toys at Medical Hall are the wonder and delight of young and old. It will pay you to see them. Potter & George. 33-tf

Judge Spendley Ex-Register of Deeds will open an office on Main Street as soon as he gets used to a civilian's gait. The Judge is so well and favorably known that he will doubtless do well from the start.

If you want a rattling good cigar don't take our word for it. but take ten cents and go and try one of those what you read about at Van Dyke & Co's.

One Polk County granger has got an idea that man can not live by wheat alone as will be seen by an advertisement for hogs found elsewhere in this issue. This farmer wants ten or a dozen good young hogs for breeding purposes.

Sleds, sleighs and sleds. Make a grab before they are gone. Medical Hall. [33-tf]

Notice the big ad of Fontaine & Anglim announcing the big slaughter sale and go and see what bargains are offered. They commenced on Tuesday to sell literally regardless of cost in order to dispose of their mammoth stock which must be sold within twenty days.

Christmas cards did you say? Well, just go to Potter & George, and see if they don't beat the bugs in variety and low prices, Medical Hall. [33-tf]

On Thursday Jan. 1st 1885, at the residence of Conductor Tom Stahl, in Fergus Falls, Mr. W. H. Wright, of Minneapolis was united in marriage to Miss Nellie Stephens, of Crookston, in the presence of many friends of the contracting parties; So says a communication just received at the JOURNAL office.

Every Democrat in Polk County ought to buy some of those Cleveland toys from Potter & George of Medical Hall. 33-tf

W. B. Dawley has returned to Crookston and goes back to Fontaine & Anglim to resume his old position behind the counter. W. B. has been traveling since he left and says he has not seen any place where he prefers as a place of residence. His family will be here shortly and we trust that we shall see W. B's genial countenance at F. & A's for many years yet.

The best five cent cigars is at the Red Star Grocery, Broadway. [51-tf]

The county dads met on Tuesday and went into solemn conclave. There were present, chairman Brown, Sullivan, Bradish, Goodrich and P. C. Schmidt Jr., who has been appointed in place of C. Kretzschmar, resigned. The bonds of the county officers were presented and approved and reports of various officers read and accepted. A delegation of some of the prominent citizens of Crookston appeared with a petition for a bridge into Crookston on the east side. The Board will have considerable business this session.

We would say to the people of Crookston and vicinity that we have received our Christmas and New Year's cards, the finest ever brought to this city, which we will sell at a very low figure, M. Van Dyke & Co.

Almost a Fire.

On Monday evening the fire bell startled the city by its earnest tones and the fire company hastily turned out only to find that an incipient blaze in Barber's drug store had been squelched by a handy Harnden hand grenade. It seems that the fire in the stove being nearly out a varnish pot had been placed upon it to warm up. After Fred Durand had gone to tea the fire had been replenished but the varnish pot for some reason had not been removed. Soon a blaze shot up to the ceiling like lightning and the music commenced. Dune McIntyre grabbed a hand grenade but failed to break it. The second one he threw upon the stove with all his might smashing the bottle and discouraging the fire in an instant. At this juncture the fire department arrived but their services were not needed. The fire had got such headway that the window casing was badly scorched and the walls and ceiling blackened up considerably. But for the presence of mind of Dune McIntyre a serious conflagration might have resulted.

A Card of Thanks.

The ladies of the R. C. Society desire to return thanks to P. Frink, pianist, to the French Cornet Band, and to M. Filiatrault for services rendered freely and to all who helped to render their fair a grand success.

Hogs! Hogs!! Hogs!!!

A Polk County granger wants to buy a few good shotes, from six months to a year old, sows preferd. The highest market price in cash will be paid. For further particulars call on or address JOURNAL office, Crookston, Minn. [37-tf]

They are selling goods at Fontaine & Anglim's cheaper than they can be bought by the cargo in Boston.

Prints 4 and 5 cents.
Ginghams 8 and 10 cents.
Ladies' fine shoes $3.50; worth $6.00:
Men's suits $13.00; worth $18.00.
12 pounds granulated sugar $1.00.
14 pounds C sugar for $1.00.

Get there Eli! To Medical Hall. Toys, toys, toys, cheap, cheap, cheapest. 33-tf

Strayed.

From my premises at East Grand Forks, on Friday night Dec. 19th 1884, one team brown mares; one branded "T. S." on right hip. Ten dollars reward will be paid for information leading to their recovery.

GUST MELIN,
[36-38] East Grand Forks.

LOST!
$100 REWARD!

Lost in the Village of Euclid, on Wednesday, November 12th, 1884, a black leather pocket-book containing $910 in bills. A reward of one hundred dollars will be paid on the return of the pocket-book and money.

R. CASMEY.
Euclid, Minn. [39-tf]

Finestationery a specialty at M. Van Dyke & Co's.

At Seely's

You can find some extra fine crab-apple cider; old bourbon whisky, eight years old. Maryland Club, pure rye; Jules and G. H. Mum's extra dry champagne; imported Scotch ales and porters for medicinal purposes; also a fine stock of imported cigars. Call and sample. [22-tf]

Money to Loan.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS to loan on improved farms from THREE to FIVE years time at very reasonable rates. Apply at my office on Broadway, in U. S. Land Office building,
[14tf] H. STEENERSON.

John Knuppe.

General Agent in the Red River Valley of the Netherlands American Land Company of Amsterdam, Holland.

Money to loan on good real estate security, on time to suit the borrower. Office over Merchant's Bank. [1-tf]

For Sale Cheap.

A complete set of bar fixtures. Call on August Wentzel for particulars. [19-tf]

Notice to Farmers.

C. Kretzschmar's Grist Mill, at Red Lake Falls, is again open for business. Flour will be exchanged for wheat, or your wheat will be ground on shares. A good feed mill is run in connection with the mill and satisfaction in all cases is guaranteed. Flour and feed on hand at all times and sold at lowest market rates.
[16-tf] C. KRETZSCHMAR.

The place to buy toys, from a brass watch up to old Santa Claus himself is at Medical Hall. [33-tf]

We mean it. Call at Medical Hall and see their Christmas goods before you buy. You can save money in these hard times. 33-tf

Notice.

I desire to call the attention of the public to the fact that I have opened a Jewelry and Watchmaking business in the store formerly occupied by James McKenzie, Second Street, Crookston. I purpose to run a first-class jewelry store and shall adhere to the rule of promptness all the time. I would ask respectfully for a friendly patronage by the generous public.

C. H. SAAKE,
Fine watchmaker and jeweler, Crookston, Minn.

TO PARTIES DESIRING INSURANCE!

We represent the following old and reliable Fire Insurance Companies:

	Assets.
Ætna	$9,182,644
American	1,804,519
Fire Association	4,279,676
Underwriters	3,699,794
Orient	1,411,894
Phœnix	5,919,403
Lancashire	6,787,983
Milwaukee Mech.	1,129,375
Germania	2,700,729

Having represented nearly all of the above companies for 14 years we have acquainted ourselves with the business, and think that we can justly claim the patronage of the public, who can depend upon having insurance written correctly and losses adjusted promptly.

MOSER & MOECKEL.

MARRIED.

RICE—MALME.—In this city on Wednesday December 31st 1884, by G. W. Lewis Esq., Mr. Anton Rice to Miss Elise C. Malme, all of Polk Co., Minn.

LIST OF LETTERS

Remaining uncalled for in the Crookston Post Office, for the week ending Jan. 5th, 1885. Persons calling for these letters will please say "advertised."

Anderson, Andreas G
Carlsson, Mrs Nelli
Elmgren, Frank
Johnson, Anna S
Lather, Lather
Naster, Anna H
Olson, Chas
Tweten, Halvor O
Viola, Donato
Skaaraas, Ole M
Solberg, S

PACKAGES.

Quamme, Agathia A
Haris, Robert
Turner, Saforest B

D. JACOBUS, P. M.

IF YOU
WANT A FINE JOB OF ANY KIND DONE IN THE Watch or Jewelry Line
GO TO
C. H. SAAKE, - SECOND STREET.
You will get in deed and in fact,
Not simply in name, but in truth.
FINE WATCH REPAIRING A SPECIALTY.
C. H. SAAKE,
Practical Watchmaker, Jeweler and Optician, Crookston.

Crookston City Bakery,
Peter Lorge, Prop,
Keeps constantly on hand a full line of all goods usually found in a
First-Class Bakery
Cigars and Tobacco, Nuts, Fruits, Candies, Pies, Cakes, Bread,
And everything to fill out a hungry man, constantly on hand.

Money to Give Away
IN BARGAINS,
AT MARKHAM'S,
THE LEADING GROCERY HOUSE
AND THE LARGEST BOOT AND SHOE STORE
IN CROOKSTON.
Goods Delivered to any Part of the City
FREE OF CHARGE.

A Puzzle.
TO FIND ALL OUR GOODS!

CHRISTMAS CARDS by the hundred, from 2c to $5 each.
ALBUMS by the bushel, from 25c to $15.
LADIES' Comb, Brush and Mirror Sets, in PLUSH, from $5 to $25.
GENTLEMEN'S Toilet and Shavins sets, in Morocce, from $5 to $10.
BRIC-A-BRAC at all prices
TOYS of all kinds for children at Low Prices.

☞ You need't run all over town. We have ALMOST EVERYTHING, and will be glad to see you at MEDICAL HALL.
Respectfully,
POTTER & GEORGE.

NO SURPRISE!
THE GOVERNMENT ENDORSES
The American Agriculturist.
FROM THE TENTH CENSUS, VOL. 3, JUST PUBLISHED:

"The American Agriculturist is especially worthy of mention because of the remarkable success that has attended the unique and untiring efforts of its proprietors to increase and extend its circulation. Its contents are duplicated every month for a German edition, which also circulates widely."

This tribute is a pleasing incident in the marvellous nearly

HALF A CENTURY

career of this recognized leading Agricultural Journal of the world.

What it is To-Day.

Six months ago the American Agriculturist entered upon a NEW CAREER OF PROSPERITY, and to-day it is far superior to any similar periodical ever produced in this or any other country. Richer in editorial strength; richer engravings; printed on finer paper, and presenting in every issue 100 columns of original reading matter from the ablest writers, and nearly 300 illustrations. Dr. George Thurber, for nearly a quarter of a century the editor-in-chief of the American Agriculturist. Joseph Harris, Byron D. Halsted, Col. M. C. Weld and Andrew S. Fuller, the other long time editors, together with the other writers who have made the American Agriculturist what it is to-day, ARE STILL AT THEIR POSTS.

WHAT, FREE?

Every subscriber, whose subscription is IMMEDIATELY forwarded us with the price, $1.50 per year, and 15 cents extra for postage on Cyclopedia—making $1.65 in all—will receive the American Agriculturist for Dec, 1884, and all of 1885, and will be presented with the AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST FAMILY CYCLOPÆDIA, (just out.) 700 Pages and over 1,000 Engravings. Strongly bound in cloth, black and gold.

This entirely new volume is a remarkable storehouse and book of reference for every department of human knowledge, including an Agricultural supplement by Dr. Thurber.

Send three 2-cent stamps for mailing you specimen copy American Agriculturist, an elegant 40-page Premium List, with 200 illustrations, and specimen pages of our Family Cyclopædia. Canvassers wanted everywhere.

Address PUBLISHERS AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST.
DAVID W. JUDD, Pres't. SAM'L BURNHAM, Sec.
751 Broadway. New York. [35-36]

A new stock of photograph and autograph albums selling very cheap at M. Van Dyke & Co's.

Wentzel & Rauch,
Sample Rooms.
MAIN STREET, - - - CROOKSTON, MINN
For a fine mixed or straight drink call on the boys. The choicest liquors and cigars in stock. [9-tf]

AIME GABOURY,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Graduate Doctor in Medicine Laval University Canada. Licensed Coll. Phy. Surg., Quebec Late of Michigan University, U. S.
Office over Barber's store, Second St.
CROOKSTON MINN

MERCHANTS'
Bank of Crookston.

H. B. MONTGOMERY.........President, St. Paul, Minn.
M. R. BROWN,............Vice President, Crookston, Minn.
J. KELSO.........Second Vice President, Bellevue, Iowa.
Wm. ROSS............................Cashier, Crookston, Minn.

CASH CAPITAL, $32,000
SURPLUS, $16,533.82.

Will receive deposits and allow interest by special contract.
Buy and Sell Foreign and Domestic Exchange, make collections, and do a strictly legitimate business.
Agents for foreign passage tickets.
De Skandinaviske Sprog tales her.
WM. ROSS, Cashier.

Whoop-a-la! We are bound to scalp anything in the way of prices on Christmas and New Year's presents for old and young. Medical Hall. 33-tf

McKINNON BRO'S
CARRIAGE WORKS!
Robert Street,
Crookston, - Minn.
AGENTS FOR THE
J. I. CASE THRESHING MACHINES!
And Manufacturers of
Carriages, Wagons,
BUGGIES,
Cutters, Sleds, &c.
Axles, Springs, and all Repairs kept in stock,
DEALERS IN
FARM MACHINERY.
In Farm Machinery we have the Champion Seeder, Fargo Diamond Tooth Harrow, Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow, Davenport and Grand Detour Sulky and Walking Plows, Buford Gang Plows, Field Rollers of all sizes, Warrior Mowers, the leading Hay Rake and first-class Harvesters and Binders, the Webber Wagon and McKinnon Bros. Wagon, In fact we have everything in machinery, from
A Wheelbarrow to a Threshing Machine!
EXTRAS
For all Machines constantly on hand

E. M. WALSH,
DEALER IN
Hardware, Tinware
BAR IRON, STEEL,
BLACKSMITHS SUPPLIES,
BUILDING PAPER,
&c., &c. Also Agent
For the Celebrated Monitor Plows.
CROOKSTON, MINN.

THE
J. I. CASE
THRESHING MACHINE COMPANY
The Dennet or Beloit
HARVESTING MACHINE COMPANY
And the Van Brunt & Davis
SEEDER COMPANY,
Are Represented
BY
STEENERSON BROS.,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

HOW TO BE HEALTHY!
Drink LePage's
35c Tea and 35c pure Java Coffee
AND SMOKE MY NICKEL PILGRIM CIGAR.
HOW TO BE WEALTHY!
COME TO THE RED STAR GROCERY
And Save Money on everything you buy.
AND IF YOU ARE WISE
You will buy only Pure and Fresh Groceries. THE RED STAR GROCERY is the place to get them and there you will find Prices the Lowest. Farmers and others bring in your Butter and Eggs and get highest prices for them. Remember the RED STAR, one door south of Montreal House.
E. LEPAGE, Broadway, Crookston, Minn

All who wish to avail themselves of the offer we made Dec. 1st, may do so if they will pay up arreages on subscription and one year in advance before Feb. 1st. This offer made till Jan. 1st, now extended to Feb 1st, is this: To all who will pay up arreages in full and one year in advance before Feb. 1st, 1885, we will allow the usual rebate given for subscriptions paid in advance, i. e, we will accept $1,65 per annum for papers sent outside of Polk County, or $1,50 inside of the County. Everybody should make an effort to avail themselves of this good opportunity to catch up.

C. A. Pillsbury, G. S. Barnes and in fact all of the leading elevator men say that while the elevator system is just a huckleberry ahead of any thing that could be invented to benefit the country they shall not try to oppose any kind of legislation that shall be attempted to change it. While they don't appear to be very much interested yet you can bet your bottom dollar they are not asleep and they will have something to say about every bill suggested. Their game will probably be to have such amendments made as will render any bill inoperative that they don't like and our legislators have need of all the wisdom they have if this crew doesn't get away with them entirely. It does not stand to reason that these men, who are fattening off the labors of the farmer are going to give up their game without a bitter and determined struggle and we consider them all the more dangerous just when they appear the most harmless and contented. They will bear watching. They now claim that if there should be adverse legislation they will make their elevators private houses and buy through them all the same. The people do not think the elevator system the best that could be had and they demand a change.

The Duluth News, New Years' edition is a good one, showing up that city in good shape. One of its assertions in relation to Duluth as a manufacturing city for grinding the wheat of the Northwest we are prepared to endorse heartily. We should grind all of it that we can right here, but we cannot begin to grind a quarter of it, and Duluth, situated as she is on the largest and best water-power in the State, and right on the great water highway to the east, should grind the rest. She has abundant power to do it and her location gives her an advantage which no other city possesses. The time will undoubtedly come when we shall see Duluth the greatest flouring city on the continent. When that time comes the wheat raiser of the Northwest can never again be placed as he is now, wholly at the mercy of the wheat buyer, for when that day comes the water-way will have been extended into the wheat raising country and he will practically have his mills and his market right at his own door. The cost of transportation is now one of the most important factors in the case and one which helps greater than any other one to reduce the profits of wheat-raising. Then, shipped by rail to a distant milling point as it now is it has to go through a great many hands and every one must have his compensation for handling. Controlled as it is now by the middlemen and forced over an all rail route east, the only wonder is not that wheat is so low but that the raiser can retain as much as he does. Everything that has been said, or that can be said on this subject is only another good and sufficient reason why Duluth should interest herself in this matter and erect great flouring mills. The sooner this is done the better for Duluth and for the whole of the great Northwest.

WOODSIDE LETTER.

WOODSIDE, Dec. 30th 1884.

ED. JOURNAL:—Christmas was quite a day of pleasure at Union Lake, near D. Cameron's mill. The weather was mild and pleasant which made it quite agreeable to be out of doors. The shooting match in the forenoon afforded a great deal of sport for the boys. In the afternoon, among other sports was horse-racing on a good mile track on the ice. A number of Woodside sports engaged. The first prize was won by D. Cameron's "Tornado," over "Whirlwind" owned by the Canning Bros. In the trotting heat between E. Cameron's bay horse, "Joe Davis," and Canning Bros'., "Julia," time 3:04, Julia won first prize by about three lengths. Mr. Cameron gave an elegant reception which was highly enjoyed by all, tripping the light fantastic toe to good music, partaking of an excellent supper at 12 o'clock. The event will be long remembered by the many friends of the kind host and hostess who partook of their good cheer. J. W.

[Our correspondent must overlook it if we havn't "caught on" properly. The manuscript, in pencil, was so badly blurred as to be scarcely legible. He will also please overlook the omission of the "poetry." We must confess our entire lack of love for "poetry." We never take it under any consideration (unless for medicine) and then we like it in small doses—the smaller the better. Moreover we could not have reproduced it if we would for the same reason as before stated—too badly blurred. While we cannot appreciate "poetry" as it (probably) should be we do appreciate letters of news items and would like to see more of them. Our thanks for his good news letter and a hearty invitation to come again from ED JOURNAL.]

A Dakota correspondent of the Minneapolis Tribune says:

"Possibly, even at the low price of fifty cents per bushel, the farmer who does his own work and warms his own plow seat, could make a reasonable living profit on his farm if he could get pay for the grain he raises and was not made a helpless victim to the dockage and shrinkage system; but where he is at the mercy of one of the elect of the elevator system who may be without sense, culture, intelligence or common honesty, and is compelled to take receipts for but a portion of the wheat he delivers to the monopoly, he can expect nothing else but to have his nose kept continually at the grindstone. The smooth talk of one of the parties who profits by his misfortunes will go but a little way toward convincing him that this system of plunder is in any way for his own good. While the branding iron sears his flesh no sweet song will dissipate the pain; while his hard earned dollars are going into the strong boxes of the elevator bosses, no charmingly strung together series of inane and silly words lacking in truth and in reason will persuade him that he is being made more prosperous by the kites, vultures, the jackals and the wolves who prey upon his substance."

And another: The self appointed guardians of the farmers' interests talk very glibly about the evils that would result if the nests that they have established with so much care, were broken up and the farmers allowed to market their own grain. The banditti of Spain, the pirates who levied contributions on all nations, the manipulators of the slave trade, and even down to the Missouri James gang claimed to be public benefactors. If cholera and itch could have personalities and tongues they would doubtless tell what great friends of humanity they were. And so, set an elevator man's tongue wagging, and he will endeavor to convince his auditors that he is the very salt of the earth itself, and that a tasteless lump would be left if his valuable presence were dispensed with. It is interesting to observe the look of injured innocence that over spreads his countenance because the farmers will not quietly "stand and deliver" at his command and without protest.

This is the man who is always dry because he takes so much heavy wet. He is a loose fellow who is fond of getting tight. He is no sooner up than his nose is in the cup, and his money begins to run down the hole which is just under his nose. He is not a blacksmith, but he has a spark in his throat, and all the publicans' barrels can't pull it out. If a pot of beer is a yard of land, he must have swallowed up more acres than a ploughman could get over for many a day, and still he goes on swallowing until he takes to wallowing. All goes down Gutter lane. Like the snipe he lives on suction. If you ask him how he is, he says he would be quite right if he could moisten his mouth. His purse is a bottle, his bank is the publicans' till, and his casket is a cask. He is a walking barrel, a living drain-pipe, a moving swill tub.

We are informed that a grand concert will be presented in the Opera House the latter part of next week, consisting of vocal and instrumental solos, duetts, trios and quartetts. The services have been secured of some very fine vocalists, and the entertainment promises to be a delightful treat. Full program and date will be issued on bills in a day or two.

Pembina Pioneer Express: It has been a question with many whether bees could be handled successfully in this part of the Northwest, and to such the experience of Mr. James Airth, of this town, may be valuable: Mr. Airth procured a hive of Italian bees in Minnesota last spring. Early in the season they threw off the largest swarm of bees he ever saw, and he has had considerable experience with bees in the east. These, for the want of a proper hive he placed in a te box, but not liking their home, they left for parts unknown, and during the season two other swarms followed them. In the matter of honey, however, he was not so unfortunate, having from the one hive taken one hundred pounds. One-half that amount is considered a good summer's work for one swarm in bee countries. Therefore Mr. Airth does not hesitate to say that bees may be made to pay well in Dakota.

$100,000

To Loan on improved claims in sums of $250 to $2,000. Cash paid for school bonds. Call on or address,
JOHN McLEAN, Att'y at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

The United States Internal Revenue Special Tax is due May 1st. Any information and a full line of blanks can be had by calling on or addressing.
JOHN McLEAN,
Attorney at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Crookston, Minn., Jan. 7th, 1885.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Peter J. Wikeen against Even Olson Runneberg for failure to comply with law as to Timber Culture Entry No. 1311 dated July 8th, 1879, upon the nw¼ S. 10, T. 147, R 45, in Polk Co., Minn., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; contestant alleging the said Even Olson Eyneberg failed to plant five acres of said land to trees, tree seeds or cuttings during either the third or fourth year after making said entry and that he has not now ten acres of trees growing on said land, also that claimant wholly failed in the year 1883 to cultivate the land which he claimed to have planted to tree seeds prior thereto, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 5th day of March 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged failure.
[37-42] JOHN CROMB, Register.

DENTISTRY.

J. H. THOMAS, D. D. S.,
ROBERT STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.
Artificial Teeth from one to an entire set inserted. Gold, Silver or Artificial Filling used as desired. Regulating Children's Teeth a specialty. ALL WORK WARRANTED.

A. H. DUNLOP M. D.,
Graduate McGill University, Montreal.
LICENSED COLLEGE PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON QUEBEC.
Office on Robert Street, Crookston.

SECOND STREET
MEAT MARKET
STANTON & CO., Proprietors.
Choice meats of every description. Fish and game in their season. Everything of the very best quality and lowest prices. Call and see us.
STANTON & CO.,
Dobson's Block, Second Street.

WANTED!

5,000 Men, Women and Children
—TO VISIT—
HacK & Gallasch
General Store, where you can buy

13 lbs. Pure Sugar for............$1.00
12 lbs. Turkish Prunes for............1.00
5 three lb. cans Table Peaches for.. 1.00
Japan Tea from.........20 to 60 cts per lb
1 long bar of soap and 1 towel, all for............25c

Our stock of
DRY GOODS, NOTIONS, AND DRESS GOODS IS COMPLETE.
Don't fail to visit our Shoe and Slipper department before buying elsewhere New and complete stock of Groceries Crockery, Glassware, Flour and Feed.
☞We pay the highest market price for Butter, Eggs, Snake Root, Etc.
Call and see us. NO TROUBLE TO SHOW GOODS.
Cor. Main and Second Street,

Christening and Wedding Cakes Made upon Shortest Notice in the Best Style.
A Choice and Well Selected Stock of Confectionery Always on hand.

John Crawford & Son,
Proprietors of
Crawford's Bakery,
SECOND STREET,
Crookston, Minn
CONFECTIONERY
Fresh Bread, Buns, Cakes and Biscuits. All Articles in the Fancy Baking Line.

MERCHANTS'
BILLIARD HALL,
FRED ANDERSON, Proprietor,
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA
The choicest Wines, Liquors, and Cigars constantly on hand.

DR. M. WATTS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
OFFICE ON ROBERT STREET.
Professional calls by day or night attended to with promptness.

THE PIONEER
HARNESS SHOP.
M. RAUENBUEHLER, Proprietor,
CORNER OAK AND THIRD STS., CROOKSTON MINN
ready for the Spring trade with a full supply Work and Light Harness. Single and Double, Saddles, Bridles, Whips, Blankets, etc. Give me a call before you purchase.

FURNITURE STORE,
BROADWAY, CROOKSTON MINNESOTA.
P. BATAGLIA, Prop.
Keeps constantly on hand a well selected stock of Wardrobes, Bureaus, Sofas, Lounges, Bedsteads, Bed Springs, Tables, Chairs, Rocking Chairs, Stands, Ornaments, Picture Mouldings, and Picture Frames. REPAIRING DONE TO ORDER. Coffins of all kinds kept constantly on hand.

BERG & OLSON,
PRACTICAL WATCHMAKERS
AND DEALERS IN CLOCKS,
WATCHES,
JEWELRY,
—ROBERT STREET,—
CROOKSTON MINNESOTA.

Fortier's Place,
Corner Broadway and Robert Street
EVERYTHING NEW, NEAT
—AND NOBBY.—
Billiards, Pool, and the Choicest Wines, Liquor and Cigars. The purest High Proof Whiskies at wholesale prices
PURE IMPORTED GOODS ON DROUGHT.

Frank M. Brown,
COMMISSION
STORE,
Main Street, - Crookston,
TWO DOORS NORTH OF MERCHANTS' BANK.
Consignments of Goods for
QUICK CASH SALES
SOLICITED.
☞Auction every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon.

M. M. VAN DYKE,
Physician and Surgeon,
Corner of Main and Second Streets,
CROOKSTON MINN
Will attend to all professional calls promptly.

Big Bonanza.

JOSEPH BARRETT
Has decided to Put on the Market his
ADDITION
TO THE
CITY OF CROOKSTON
Next adjoining the Crookston Driving Park. Parties desiring to purchase
CHOICE LOTS,
NOW IS YOUR TIME!
LOTS
For Sale Separately, or in BLOCKS.
TERMS EASY!
Apply to the undersigned or at the office of C. B. Palmer, U. S. Land Office Building. Both English and French spoken.
JOSEPH BARRETT.

E. D. CHILDS & CO.,
Proprietors of
CARMAN TOWNSITE,
AND
Dealers in Real Estate!

AMERICAN FARMER

FREE

To Journal Subscribers!

Who will pay up their subscription account to THE JOURNAL in full and one year in advance at our regular rates, we will present with one year's subscription to

The "American Farmer,"

A sixteen-page Agricultural Magazine, published by E. A. K. Hackett, at Fort Wayne, Indiana, and which is rapidly taking rank as one of the leading Agricultural publications of the country. It is devoted exclusively to the interests of the Farmer, Stock Breeder, Dairyman, Gardener, and their household, and every species of industry connected with that great portion of the people of the world, the Farmers. The subscription price is ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR. Farmers cannot well get along without it. It puts new ideas into their minds. It teaches them how to farm with profit to themselves. It makes the home happy, the young folks cheerful, the growler contented, the downcast happy, and the demagogue honest.

FARMERS, FARMERS,
WE ARE
Selling Lower Than Ever!
You will always find it to your advantage to
Trade with Us!
We Sell the Best for the LOWEST LIVING PRICES. Remember the place,
Broadway, bet. 2d and Robert Sts.
D. BUCHANAN.

EIKEN BROS.,
Corner of Fletcher and Main Street, Crookston, Minn.
Dealers in
HARDWARE, TIWARE,
STOVES,
—AND—
SHELFWARE.
WE KEEP A
FULL & COMPLETE
STOCK,
—AND—
Invite the Patronage
OF ALL.

Bigham & Olafson
(Successors to Juve & Bergland,)
THE POPULAR MERCHANTS ON
MAIN STREET, CROOKSTON
Have on hand and are constantly receiving full lines of
DRY GOODS, GROCERIES,
CROCKERY,
CLOTHING,
BOOTS AND SHOES,
HATS AND CAPS
In fact everything usually found in first-class general store.
☞Our goods are bought with great care and will be sold at
LOW PRICES
☞ FOR CASH. ☜

Crookston Nurseries
ESTABLISHED IN 1879.
Tree Claim Stock.
I desire to inform my customers and others that I shall make a great reduction from former prices on forest trees and seeds for tree-claims. I have good thrifty two year old trees, such as Box Elder, Ash and Cottonwood to sell by the thousand. I also furnish the hardier varieties of
SMALL FRUITS,
Such as Currants, Gooseberries, Raspberries and Strawberry plants, and young, thrifty Transcendent and Hislop Crab Apple trees. The firm of Haseltine Bros. having dissolved, I still continue business on the
—OLD NURSERY GROUNDS—
in Crookston. Hoping by fair dealing and promptness with my customers to merit their patronage.
Don't fail to write for Catalogue and Prices
☞ALL COMMUNICATIONS PROMPTLY ANSWERED.
F. T. HASELTINE,
Proprietor of the Crookston Nurseries, Crookston, Minn.

NEW
DRUG STORE
IN GARFIELD
DR. A NELSON, Prop.
The citizens of this town and vicinity are respectfully invited to call at my new Drug Store in the town of Garfield and examine my stock of
DRUGS, MEDICINES, PAINTS, OILS
AND YANKEE NOTIONS.
It is no longer necessary to go 40 or 55 miles for anything in this line, as I have a full supply at prices as reasonable as any town in the Northwest. Call and see
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON
I am also ready to answer all calls day or night, for the practice of my profession. Call, or leave orders at my Drug Store in Garfield, Polk Co., Minn
DR. A. NELSON.

First National Bank
OF CROOKSTON.
PAID IN CAPITAL, $100,000
SURPLUS, 1,400
Money to loan on long or short time on approved security
Interest on time deposits. Faithful attention to Collections and prompt remittance,
GEO. O. ERSKINE, President.
K. D. CHASE, Vice President.
ANSEL BATES, Cashier

Crookston Tonsorial
PARLORS.
PROF. THOMPSON, Proprietor.
Robert Street, Crookston, Minn.
Shaving, hair dressing and all work in my line promptly attended to the latest style of the art. Give me a call.

The Toledo Blade
(NASBY'S PAPER.)
Circulation 191,000,
The Largest Circulation of any weekly paper in the United States.
The Largest Paper published in the United States at One Dollar per year.
The Best Paper and the Cheapest Paper.
The Only Paper publishing the Nasby Letters.
The Blade alone $1.00 per year; with Waterbury Watch, $3.50; with steel Engraving of Pilgrim's Progress (a fine engraving) $2.00.
Special terms to club raisers made known on application. Any week's issue of the Blade announces our bargains in cheap books, pictures, etc.
We want everybody to send postal card to us for a specimen copy.
It will tell its own story. A column advertisement would not afford room to describe its various departments and our announcements for the coming year. Write for a specimen, and also send the address of all your friends.
THE BLADE,
TOLEDO, OHIO.
A PURELY
National Paper
Circulating in Every State.

E. D. Schreader
LIVERY,
Feed and Sale Stable.
BEST TURNOUTS
IN THE CITY.
Single or Double Rigs, with or without driver or
SADDLE HORSES
Always ready at a moments notice by day or night. If you want a Nobby Turnout call at the Red Barn, Corner Main and Third Streets,
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

THE
St. Paul,
Minneapolis
—AND—
Manitoba
RAILWAY,
WITH ITS
1,400 Miles of Road
Is the only line extending through the
Park Region of Minnesota,
To all principal points in
Red River Valley,
Northern Minnesota,
Northern Dakota,
And to Devil's Lake and Turtle Mountain Districts.
—CONTAINING OVER—
9,000,000 Acres
GOVERNMENT LANDS!
The Land department of the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway has exclusive charge of the Company's Lands in Minnesota, and all correspondence relative to the purchase of lands, terms, description or price of any particular tract should be addressed to that department.
Maps and pamphlets describing the country and giving rates of fare to settlers, etc., mailed FREE on application
JAS. B. POWER,
Land and Immigration Commissioner
C. H. WARREN,
General Passenger Agent,
St. P., M. & M. R'y., St. Paul, Minn.

W. L. Sargeant
Veterinary Surgeon.
CROOKSTON, - - - MINN.
Diseases of horses and cattle a specialty.
[9-tf

JOHN N. IVES.
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
Collection and Land Office Business made a specialty. Money secured for final proofs on short notice.
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

LEO & STEENERSON.
ATTORNEYS AT LAW
Room 3., U. S. Land Office Building,
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

P. A. DUFOUR,
Attorney and Counselor at Law,
—MAIN STREET.—
CROOKSTON, MINN.

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, January 8, 1885.

RAILROAD TIME TABLE.

GOING NORTH.

	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
1 Passenger	10:45 p. m.	10:55 p. m.
" 9 Passenger	10:30 a. m.
" 19 Freight	12:30 a. m.
" 15 Freight	4:00 p. m.
" 23 Freight		10:30 a. m.

GOING SOUTH.

	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
No. 2 Passenger	4:00 a. m.	4:00 a. m.
" 10 Passenger		5:30 p. m.
" 20 Freight		7:00 a. m.
" 22 Freight		6:15 p. m.
" 21 Freight	5:00 p. m.

DEVIL'S LAKE LINE.

	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
No. 9 Passenger		10:20 a. m.
" 10 Passenger	5:30 p. m.
" 45 Freight		6:00 a. m.
" 46 Freight	7:00 p. m.

ST. HILAIRE BRANCH.

Trains leave Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 10:15 a. m., and arrive same days at 4:00 p. m.

☞ Passenger Trains No's 1 and 2, Main Line, run daily except Sunday. No's 3 and 4 run daily. Devil's Lake Passenger runs daily. Freights No's 23, 20 and 21 run daily. Freights No's 15 and 22, and Freights on Devil's Lake Line run daily except Sunday.

W. T. Baker, a prominent wheat broker of Chicago, says: "My orders to-day come in small quantities from a great many different points, a very encouraging feature. I think that wheat will sell at $1.25 before the next crop is being ground."

Sir John B. Lawes of Rothamstead, England, says he remembers when the first threshing machine was bought and taken into his neighborhood, the owner had to buy it at night, as armed bodies of men went about the country burning all the machines they could find. The socialism of to-day has about as much sense as that of old.

After an absence of some months duration the Fergus Falls Weekly Journal again appears on our table chuck full of news as usual. The Journal is the oldest paper in Otter Tail County now living, it being nearly twelve years old. It has been ably conducted all these years by Bro. Underwood, who has wintered and summered with it all these years and now beholds a live daily and weekly. Long may they wave.

The Minneapolis Tribune under its present management does not talk much like it used to in deacon Nettleton's reign. The Tribune says:

"Whatever detailed shape legislation on this question may assume, it should proceed from a clear understanding of the principle we have stated. The railroads should be the servant and not the master of leading interests of the Northwest. They should have neither direct nor indirect control of the production or the marketing of wheat. They should haul freight for anybody and everybody. They should make no discrimination between large shippers and small shippers excepting the difference in actual cost of service. All freight rates, including rebates and special rates, should be made and kept as public as the rates of United States postage. These propositions are so obviously just and right, that no disinterested persons can take exception to them. The rights of existing elevator companies would not be infringed upon in the least. They are entitled to have just the same chances to by and ship grain as everybody else has. When the railroads endow them with exclusive privileges, the railroads become partners in the monopoly control of the grain trade. A common carrier who becomes a monopolist is an abomination. Let the sovereign will of the state declare that the selling and shipping of wheat shall be free."

The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage takes a roseate view of the future. He says:

"COME NOW! I MAKE A PROPHECY.

The land is full of prophets and I have as much right as any of them to prophesy. We are not far off from the grandest prosperity this country has ever seen. Mechanics will get larger wages, capitalists will receive larger dividends, and the factories that are now closed will have to run day and night to meet the demand, and your store houses will be uncomfortable with jostling customers tired of waiting for their turn to come, and amid the misunderstandings of bargain-makers the attorneys will all be needed to interpret the legalities, and the overworked business men will need more medical attendance, and the orders of God will be thronged with men and women anxious to consecrate their gains to christian purposes. You prophesy amid night. I prophesy amid noon. You pitch your tent toward general bankruptcy. I pitch mine toward general opulency. Do you want my reason for the prophecy? God's evident determination to shower this land with prosperity, five years of unexampled harvest and of unprecedented health, and of unheard-of amity. Northern Pacific railroad apocalypse in one direction. New Orleans exhibition apocalypse in the other direction. When I saw, week before last at the opening of the world's exhibition at New Orleans, a dark-skinned Mexican flutist throw 15,000 people into ecstasy and transport, I said to myself he is only playing in front of the advancing hosts of southern republics and empires which are to reinforce us in a march of commercial prosperity, such as most optimistic capitalist never got a glimpse of in their most excited midsummer's night dream. While we sympathize with the present hardship, we prophecy the coming rescue."

Free—A Beautiful 600-page Dictionary, To every person sending $1 for that large, excellent, 8-page, 48-column monthly farm and family paper, the Farm Journal and Live Stock Review, one year. Send at once to the Journal Publishing Company, Box 57, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. [37-39]

The Evening Journal

is published at Minneapolis, Minn., the metropolis of the Northwest, a city with a population of 125,000, to which is tributary the States of Minnesota, Iowa, Dakota, and the entire northwest.

The Journal is the leading afternoon newspaper of the northwest, and the only afternoon newspaper published in Minneapolis. It has a circulation six times that of any afternoon paper published in Minnesota. It also has a greater daily circulation in the towns directly tributary to Minneapolis than any other paper.

The Journal is sent out on the afternoon trains, and reaches all points from 12 to 24 hours in advance of any other paper.

The Journal publishes the complete Associated Press reports, and copious Special Telegrams, and gives all the news of the day in a condensed form. Complete Market Reports are also published daily, and full reports of the proceedings of Congress and the State Legislature.

A large and complete editorial corps, and thoroughly trained men are employed in every department.

The Journal is the best equipped, best established, most enterprising and newsy afternoon newspaper northwest of Chicago.

The Journal is printed on a Hoe Perfecting Press of the latest pattern, built expressly for The Journal, and capable of a speed of 250 complete papers per minute folded, ready to deliver. A contract has also been made with R. Hoe & Co. for another press, capable of a speed of 500 complete papers per minute.

The subscription price is lower than that of any daily paper circulated in the northwest. The retail price is only two cents each. Its success has revolutionized the newspaper methods of this section, and demonstrated that a thoroughly first-class paper can be produced at a price within the reach of all. The subscription price of The Journal is—

One Year	$5 00
Six Months	2 50
Three Months	1 20
One Month	50

Payable in advance.

The POLK COUNTY JOURNAL and The Evening Journal will be furnished by us at the regular subscription rates of The Evening Journal.

To any one who desires to keep posted on the news of the day and on all current local events, this offer is the best ever made by any publishers. The changes in the administration of the government will make the papers very interesting next year. Call at once and subscribe. [35-4t]

NOTICE.

As I have established a Nursery in Crookston and propose to continue the business, I will announce to our former customers and all that are desirous of obtaining trees and Plants the coming spring that I will sell said stock at prices below any competition. Call and see me before making purchase elsewhere. Residence on second block north of Court House, or address P. O. Box 784.

Most Respectfully,

[38-tf] E. W. HASELTINE.

PIANO TUNING.

Any parties having pianos or organs that need tuning or repairing can have their work satisfactorily done by leaving orders at the Linton House. Satisfaction guaranteed.

[9-tf] E. F. WHEELDEN.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 13th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred eighty-one and 84-100 dollars, ($181.84-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Sophia Busch and Henry Busch, her husband, to Henry Hammond, bearing date the 13th day of December A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 20th day of December A. D. 1883, at 10:20 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 332, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lots numbered twenty-two (22,) twenty-three (23,) and twenty-four (24,) in block No. three (3) of Bottineau's addition to the Townsite of Red Lake Falls, County of Polk and State of Minnesota, according to the certified plat of said addition recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Polk County, Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMOND, Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO, Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred seventy-five and 8-100 dollars, ($175.08-100,) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Moise Thiebert, a single man, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 10th day of April A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 11th day of April A. D. 1883, at 11 o'clock a. m., in book "L" of mortgages, on pages 381, 382 and 383, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The fractional lot No. two (2) on Elm Street, having a frontage of one hundred and seventy-five (175) feet on Elm Street, ninety-five (95) feet on Sixth Street, and one hundred and ninety-five (195) feet on the quarter section line, Townsite of Crookston, Polk County, Minnesota, according to the recorded plat thereof now on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said Polk County and forming a triangular lot, the lot hereby conveyed being the same property conveyed by E. H. Ely and wife, to Newton K. Hubbard by warranty deed, dated Sept. 18th 1881, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage, in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL, Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO, Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First Publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE conditions of a certain mortgage made, executed and delivered by Walter B. Moore and Mary A. Moore his wife, mortgagors to James McLaughlin mortgagee, by the failure on the part of said Walter B. Moore and Mary A. Moore to pay the interest which became due and payable on said mortgage, on the 1st day of November 1883, the sum of fifty ($50) dollars, and on the 1st day of November 1884, the sum of fifty ($50) dollars, amounting to the sum of one hundred ($100) dollars, and said mortgage containing a clause whereby the failure on the part of the mortgagors to pay said interest when the same became due empowered the said mortgagee or his assigns to declare the whole sum of principal and interest due and payable by such default at his or their election. Said mortgage being dated the 5th day of November 1881 and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, on the 5th day of November 1881 at 4:25 o'clock p. m. in book "E" of mortgage deeds on pages 445 and 446, and said mortgage was duly assigned by Selina McLaughlin executrix of said James McLaughlin mortgagee, to George McLaughlin, by an instrument in writing, dated the 21st day of April 1883 and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said Polk County, on the 27th day of October 1883, at 12:10 o'clock p. m. in book "M" of mortgages on pages 470 and 471, and said mortgage was duly assigned by said George McLaughlin to Etta S. Brown by an instrument in writing dated the 8th day of May 1883 and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said Polk County, on the 27th day of October 1883 at 12:10 o'clock p. m. in book "M" of mortgages on pages 471 and 472. And said Etta S. Brown, assignee of said mortgage, having exercised said option does hereby declare the whole sum of principal and interest secured by said mortgage now due and payable by reason of such default, and there being now due and unpaid on said mortgage the sum of five hundred ($500) dollars principal and interest amounting at this date to the sum of one hundred and five 84-100 dollars, amounting in all to the sum of six hundred and five and 84-100 dollars ($605.84-100) and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise for the recovery of said debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

NOW, THEREFORE, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, which by reason of the defaults above stated became operative, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the mortgaged premises therein described, which sale will be mad at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, by the Sheriff of said county, on Thursday the 22d day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, to satisfy the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage and interest, and taxes if any, and costs and disbursements allowed by law, together with the sum of twenty-five dollars lawful attorney's fees, as stipulated in said mortgage, to be paid in case of foreclosure.

The premises described in said mortgage and to be sold are described as follows, to-wit: The northeast quarter (ne¼) of Section No. four (4,) in Township No. one hundred and fifty (150) north, of Range No. forty-six (46) west, containing one hundred and fifty-eight 45-100 acres according to the government survey thereof, situate in the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota.

Dated December 1st A. D. 1884.

ETTA S. BROWN, Assignee of Mortgage.

E. ST. JULIEN COX AND W. A. SELBY, Attorneys for Assignee, of Mortgage. [33-38]

MORTGAGE SALE,

[First publication Dec. 19th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred eighty and 32-100 dollars, ($280.32-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph Daoust and Hermina Daoust, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 16th day of June A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 20th day of June A. D. 1883, at 10 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 63, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Beginning at a point fifty (50) feet west of the northeast corner of the block or parcel of land in lot seven (7,) in Section thirty-six (36,) Township one hundred and fifty (150,) of Range forty-seven (47,) bounded on the north by the street running west from the county bridge across the Red Lake River to the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railroad track, and on the east by the county road running south from said bridge, thence south one hundred (100) feet, thence west about one hundred and fifty (150) feet to the said railroad track, thence northerly one hundred (100) feet along said railroad track, and thence east about one hundred and fifty (150) feet to the place of beginning, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL, Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO, Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-43]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred eighty-one and 28-100 dollars, ($181.28-100.) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Sophie Busch, and Henry Busch, her husband, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 24th day of July A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of November A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 278, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter (ne¼) of Section No. thirty-three (33) in Township No. one hundred and fifty (150) north, of Range No. forty-four (44) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres more or less in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL, Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO, Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred fifty-three dollars, ($253) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Toller J. Farden, and Julia Farden, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 2d day of November A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of November A. D. 1883, at 10:40 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 277, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northwest quarter of Section twenty-four (24,) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149) north, of Range No. forty-four (44) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres of land more or less, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL, Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO, Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred seventy-six and 95-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Elling Knudson and Ingebor Knudson his wife to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the fourteenth day of March A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 14th day of March A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 349 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for three hundred dollars, due October 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for sixty-six and 77-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Six and 77-100 dollars on October first, 1883, and six dollars on the first day of April and October 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due April 1st, 1884, and of the interest due October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on April 1st, 1884, and of the installment due October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice three hundred seventy-six and 95-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The southeast quarter of Section twenty-eight (28,) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149,) of Range forty-five (45,) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

(First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.)

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred twelve and 46-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Mary Knutson, an unmarried woman to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twenty-fourth day of April A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 24th day of April A. D. 1883, at 5 o'clock p. m., in book "L" of mortgages, on page 431, and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for two hundred and fifty dollars, due November 1st 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for fifty-five and 20-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Five and 20-100 dollars on November first, 1883, and five dollars on the first day of May and November 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888 respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due May 1st, 1884, and of the interest due November 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on May 1st, 1884, and of the installment due November 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice three hundred twelve and 46-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The southwest quarter of Section twenty-eight (28) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149) of Range forty-five (45,) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres, in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.
EDW' B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred eighty-two and 59-100 dollars which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph Derocher, an unmarried man, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the second day of March, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 3d day of March, A. D. 1883, at 1:40 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 284 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for two hundred and twenty-five dollars, due October 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for fifty and 35-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Five and 35-100 dollars on October first, 1883, and four and 50-100 dollars on the first day of April and October 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due April 1st, 1884, and of the interest due October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on April 1st, 1884, and of the installment due October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice two hundred eighty-two and 59-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: the west half of the north-east quarter, and the west half of the southeast quarter of section twelve (12) in township one hundred and fifty one (151) of range forty-five (45) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth (24th) day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, (Seal.)
By Robert N. Jackson, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

U. S. LAND OFFICE,

Crookston, Minn., Dec. 8th, 1884.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Boyd P. Van Gordon against William R. Dunn for failure to comply with law as to Timber Culture Entry No. 1023, dated May 12th, 1881, upon the nw¼ S. 15, T. 149 n. R. 43, in Polk County, Minn., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; contestant alleging that the said William R. Dunn since date of said entry has failed to break upon said tract to exceed eight acres, or to plant upon said tract any trees, tree seeds or cuttings, and that there is not at the present time to exceed eight acres of land broken, nor any trees, tree seeds or cuttings planted or growing thereon, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 30th day of Jan. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged failure.

[34-38] JOHN CROMB, Register.

A. A. JUST, M. D.

Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon, Rooms corner Main street and Fletcher Avenue, over Eiken Bros. Hardware Store,

CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINN.

MORTGAGE SALE.

(First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.)

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of five hundred, eleven and 93-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Louis Morisset, an unmarried man, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the eleventh day of August, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 11th day of August, A. D. 1883, at 2:30 o'clock p. m. in book "O" of mortgages, on page 177 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for four hundred dollars, due January 1st, 1889, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for eighty-six and 32-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: six and 32-100 dollars on January first, 1884, and eight dollars on July first, 1884, and eight dollars on the first day of January and July, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and eight dollars on January 1st, 1889, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due January 1st, 1884 and of the interest due July 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on January 1st, 1884 and of the installment due July 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice five hundred, eleven and 93-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: the southwest quarter of Section twenty-four (24) in township one hundred and fifty-one (151), of range forty-seven (47), containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the city of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, (Seal.)
By Robert N. Jackson, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of six hundred, twenty-eight and 19-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Simeon Patnode, an unmarried man, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twenty-third day of January, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 23d day of January, A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 125 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for five hundred dollars, due October 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for one hundred and thirteen and 91-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Thirteen and 91-100 dollars on October 1st, 1883, and ten dollars on the first day of April and October 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888 respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due April 1st, 1884, and of the interest due October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on April 1st, 1884 and of the installment due October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice six hundred twenty-eight and 19-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section thirty-four (34) in Township one hundred and fifty-one (151), of Range forty-five (45), containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, (Seal.)
By Robert N. Jackson, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred seventy-eight and 28-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Ole Anderson and Sarah Anderson, his wife, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twentieth day of March, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 22d day of March, A. D. 1883, at 9 o'clock a. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 358 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of three notes for one hundred dollars each, due October 1st, 1888, with six per cent interest per annum, and one installment note for sixty-six and 77-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Six and 77-100 dollars on October first, 1883, and six dollars on the first day of April, and October, 1884, 1885, 1886 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due October 1st, 1883, and of the interest due April 1st and October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on October 1st, 1883, and of the installments due April 1st and October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice three hundred, seventy-eight and 28-100 dollars after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section twenty-four (24), in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149), of Range forty-five (45), containing one hundred and sixty acres in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, (Seal.)
By Robert N. Jackson, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [32-39]

U. S. LAND OFFICE,

Crookston Minn., Dec. 15th, 1884.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., on Jan. 24th, 1885, viz: ELIE LARIVERE, for the ne¼ S. 14, T. 148, R. 47. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Charles Martelle, Charles Dewal, Clement Pagant and William Dewal, all of Crookston, Polk Co. Minn.

[34-39] JOHN CROMB, Register.

Commercial Hotel,

NORTON & BENEDICT, Prop's.

SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON MINN

First-class in all respects. Terms reasonable. A share of the public patronage solicited.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum four hundred ninety-nine and 72-100 dollars which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Philip Murphy and Mary Ann Murphy his wife to Middlesex Banking Company of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twenty-first day of April A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of April A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m., in book "L" of mortgages, on page 371 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for four hundred dollars, due November 1st 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for eighty-eight and 58-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Eight and 58-100 dollars on November first, 1883, and eight dollars on the first day of May and November, 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due May 1st 1884, and of the interest due November 1st 1884 and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on May 1st, 1884, and of the installment due November 1st 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice four hundred ninety-nine and 72-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The southeast quarter of Section twenty-six (26,) in Township one hundred and forty-eight (148) of Range forty-seven (47,) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred sixty and 24-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Peter N. Obstad, an unmarried man, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown Connecticut, bearing date the second day of July A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 7th day of July A. D. 1883, at 10 o'clock a. m., in book "M" of mortgages, on page 149 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for two hundred dollars, due December 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for forty-four and 24-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Four and 24-100 dollars on December first, 1883, and four dollars on the first day of June and December 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due December 1st, 1883, and of the interest due June 1st and December 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on December 1st, 1883, and of the installments due June 1st and December 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice two hundred sixty and 24-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section fourteen (14) in Township one hundred and forty-eight (148) of Range forty-five (45,) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres, in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of eleven hundred eighty-two and 14-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by George J. Charboneau, an unmarried man to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the first day of February A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1883, at 2 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 154, and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for nine hundred dollars, due January 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for one hundred eighty-one and 70-100 dollars, due in five installments, as follows: Thirty-seven and 10-100 dollars on January first, 1884 and thirty-six dollars on the first day of January 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due January 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on January 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice eleven hundred eighty-two and 14-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The east half of the northwest quarter and lots one (1,) and two (2,) being the fractional northwest quarter of Section No. thirty (30) in Township No. one hundred and fifty-two (152) north, of Range No. forty-seven (47) west, containing one hundred and thirty-nine and 1-100 (139 1-100) acres, according to the United States government survey thereof, in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and seventy-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [32-39]

U. S. LAND OFFICE,

Crookston, Minn., Dec. 2d, 1884.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., on Jan. 13th, 1885, viz: OLE C. BERGLAND, H'd No. 10,521, for the nw¼ S. 29, T. 149, R. 46. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Joseph Morre, Xavier LeMaye, Andrew Eiken and T. Olafson, all of Crookston, Polk Co. Minn.

[13-37] JOHN CROMB, Register.

MERCHANTS' HOTEL,

J. E. MITTON, Proprietor.

CORNER BROADWAY AND ROBERT STREET

CROOKSTON, MINN.

The new Merchants' Hotel, recently re-fitted and re-furnished is now ready to accommodate the travelling public, who are cordially invited to stop at the Merchants' when in the city.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 25th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred seventy-two and 21-100 dollars, ($372.21-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Alexis Dumas and Emily Dumas his wife to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 1st day of July A. D. 1882, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 5th day of July A. D. 1882, at 4:30 o'clock p. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 127, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northwest quarter (nw¼) of Section twenty-six (26) Township one hundred and fifty (150) north, of Range forty-four (44) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres more or less, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston in said County and State, on the 9th day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston Dec. 24th, A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL, Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO, Att'y for Mortgagee. [35-41]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Jan. 1st 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred eighty-four and 83-100 dollars, ($384.83-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Albert D. Berry and Clorenthe Berry, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 21st day of April A. D. 1882, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 22d day of April A. D. 1882, at 1:15 o'clock p. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 2, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The southeast quarter (se¼) of Section one (1,) Township one hundred and fifty-one (151,) Range forty-five (45,) in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House in the City of Crookston, in said County and State on the 16th day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston Dec. 27th, A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL, Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO, Att'y for Mortgagee. [36-42]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of five hundred forty-eight and 50-100 dollars, ($548.50-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and executed and delivered by Jacob Francis and Ellen Francis, his wife, to Henry Hammel bearing date the 21st day of August A. D. 1882 and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 23d day of August A. D. 1882, at 5 o'clock a. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 216, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot eight (8,) in block seven (7,) of the Townsite of Crookston, according to the recorded plat thereof now on file in the office of the Register of Deeds, Polk County, Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL, Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO, Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

A. Yvernault,

Dealer in

General

Merchandise,

—MAIN STREET,—

Crookston, Minn.

All my friends, both old and new, are cordially invited to call and examine my stock and get prices.

NEW LIVERY,

Feed and Sale

STABLES,

CORNER MAIN AND FOURTH STS., CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA

TERRY & COLLINS, Prop's.

☞ Good Turnouts at all times at reasonable prices. Good Hearse and careful driver when needed.

WM. WATTS,

ATTORNEY AT LAW,

AND DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE.

OFFICE OVER MERCHANTS' BANK.

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, January 8, 1885.

RAILROAD TIME TABLE.

GOING NORTH.

	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
1 Passenger	10:45 p. m.	10:55 p. m.
9 Passenger	10:30 a. m.
19 Freight	12:30 a. m.
15 Freight	4:00 p. m.
23 Freight		10:30 a. m.

GOING SOUTH.

	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
No. 2 Passenger	4:00 a. m.	4:00 a. m.
10 Passenger		5:00 p. m.
20 Freight		7:00 a. m.
22 Freight		6:15 p. m.
24 Freight	5:00 p. m.

DEVIL'S LAKE LINE.

	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
No. 9 Passenger		10:20 a. m.
10 Passenger	5:20 p. m.
45 Freight		6:00 a. m.
46 Freight	7:00 p. m.

ST. HILAIRE BRANCH.

Trains leave Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 10:45 a. m. and arrive same days at 4:00 p. m.

☞ Passenger Trains No's 1 and 2, Main Line, run daily except Sunday. No's 3 and 4 run daily. Devil's Lake Passenger runs daily. Freights No's 23, 20 and 24 run daily. Freights No's 15 and 22, and Freights on Devil's Lake Line run daily except Sunday.

W. T. Baker, a prominent wheat broker of Chicago, says: "My orders to-day come in small quantities from a great many different points, a very encouraging feature. I think that wheat will sell at $1.25 before the next crop is being ground."

Sir John B. Lawes of Rothamstead, England, says he remembers when the first threshing machine was bought and taken into his neighborhood, the owner had to buy it at night, as armed bodies of men went about the country burning all the machines they could find. The socialism of to-day has about as much sense as that of old.

After an absence of some months duration the Fergus Falls Weekly Journal again appears on our table chuck full of news as usual. The Journal is the oldest paper in Otter Tail County now living, it being nearly twelve years old. It has been ably conducted all these years by Bro. Underwood, who has wintered and summered with it all these years and now beholds a live daily and weekly. Long may they wave.

The Minneapolis Tribune under its present management does not talk much like it used to in deacon Nettleton's reign. The Tribune says:

"Whatever detailed shape legislation on this question may assume, it should proceed from a clear understanding of the principles we have stated. The railroads should be the servant and not the master of leading interests of the Northwest. They should have neither direct nor indirect control of the production or the marketing of wheat. They should haul freight for anybody and everybody. They should make no discrimination between large shippers and small shippers excepting the difference in actual cost of service. All freight rates, including rebates and special rates, should be made and kept as public as the rates of United States postage. These propositions are so obviously just and right that no disinterested persons can take exception to them. The rights of existing elevator companies would not be infringed upon in the least. They are entitled to have just the same chances to buy and ship grain as everybody else has. When the railroads endow them with exclusive privileges, the railroads become partners in the monopoly control of the grain trade. A common carrier who becomes a monopolist is an abomination. Let the sovereign will of the state declare that the selling and shipping of wheat shall be free."

The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage takes a roseate view of the future. He says:

COME NOW! I MAKE A PROPHECY.

The land is full of prophets and I have as much right as any of them to prophesy. We are not far off from the grandest prosperity this country has ever seen. Mechanics will get larger wages, capitalists will receive larger dividends, and the factories that are now closed will have to run day and night to meet the demand, and your store houses will be uncomfortable with jostling customers tired of waiting for their turn to come, and amid the misunderstandings of bargain makers the attorneys will all be needed to interpret the legalities, and the overworked business men will need more medical attendance, and the orders of God will be thronged with men and women anxious to consecrate their gains to christian purposes. You prophesy amid night. I prophesy amid noon. You pitch your tent toward general bankruptcy. I pitch mine toward general opulency. Do you want my reason for the prophecy? God's evident determination to shower this land with prosperity, five years of unexampled harvest and of unprecedented health, and of unbroken amity. Northern Pacific railroad apocalypse in one direction. New Orleans exhibition apocalypse in the other direction. When I saw a week before last at the opening of the world's exhibition at New Orleans a dark skinned Mexican [illegible] throw 15,000 people into ecstasy and transport, I said to myself he is only playing in front of the advancing [illegible] of southern republics and empires which are to [illegible] [illegible] march of commercial prosperity [illegible] capitalist [illegible] their most excited [illegible] dream. While we sympathize with the present hardship, we prophesy the coming rescue.

FREE—A Beautiful 600-page Dictionary to every person sending $1 for the large, excellent 48-page, 192-column monthly farm and family paper, the Farm Journal and [illegible] Review, one year. Send at once to the Journal Publishing Company, Box [illegible], Cedar Rapids, Iowa. [57-59]

The Evening Journal

is published at Minneapolis, Minn., the metropolis of the Northwest, a city with a population of 125,000 to which is tributary the States of Minnesota, Iowa, Dakota and the entire northwest.

The Journal is the leading afternoon newspaper of the northwest, and the only afternoon newspaper published in Minneapolis. It has a circulation six times that of any afternoon paper published in Minnesota. It also has a greater daily circulation in the towns directly tributary to Minneapolis than any other paper.

The Journal is sent out on the afternoon trains, and reaches all points from 12 to 24 hours in advance of any other paper.

The Journal publishes the complete Associated Press reports, and copious Special Telegrams, and gives all the news of the day in a condensed form. Complete Market Reports are also published daily, and full reports of the proceedings of Congress and the State Legislature.

A large and complete editorial corps, and thoroughly trained men are employed in every department.

The Journal is the best equipped, best established, most enterprising and newsy afternoon newspaper northwest of Chicago.

The Journal is printed on a Hoe Perfecting Press of the latest pattern, built expressly for The Journal, and capable of a speed of 250 complete papers per minute folded ready to deliver. A contract has also been made with R. Hoe & Co. for another press, capable of a speed of 500 complete papers per minute.

The subscription price is lower than that of any daily paper circulated in the northwest. The retail price is only two cents each. Its success has revolutionized the newspaper methods of this section, and demonstrated that a thoroughly first-class paper can be produced at a price within the reach of all. The subscription price of The Journal is—

One Year	$5 00
Six Months	2 50
Three Months	1 20
One Month	50

Payable in advance.

The POLK COUNTY JOURNAL and The Evening Journal will be furnished by us at the regular subscription rates of The Evening Journal.

To any one who desires to keep posted on the news of the day and on all current local events, this offer is the best ever made by any publishers. The changes in the administration of the government will make the papers very interesting next year. Call at once and subscribe. [35-4t]

NOTICE.

As I have established a Nursery in Crookston and propose to continue the business, I will announce to our former customers and all that are desirous of obtaining Trees and Plants the coming spring that I will sell said stock at prices below any competition. Call and see me before making purchase elsewhere. Residence on second block north of Court House, or address P. O. Box 7[illegible].

Most Respectfully,

[38-tf] E. W. HASELTINE.

PIANO TUNING.

Any parties having pianos or organs that need tuning or repairing can have their work satisfactorily done by leaving orders at the Linton House. Satisfaction guaranteed.

[9-tf] E. F. WHEELDEN.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred eighty-one and 84-100 dollars, ($181.84-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Sophia Busch and Henry Busch, her husband, to Henry Hammond, bearing date the 13th day of December A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 20th day of December A. D. 1883, at 10:20 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 332, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lots numbered twenty-two (22), twenty-three (23), and twenty-four (24), in block No. three (3) of Bottineau's addition to the Townsite of Red Lake Falls, County of Polk and State of Minnesota, according to the certified plat of said addition, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Polk County, Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston in said County and State, on the 3rd day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt [illegible]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[illegible]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE conditions of a certain mortgage made, executed and delivered by Walter H. Moore and Mary A. Moore his wife, mortgagors, to James McLaughlin mortgagee, by the failure of the part of said Walter H. Moore and Mary A. Moore to pay the interest which became due and payable on said mortgage on the 1st day of November 1883, the sum of fifty ($50) dollars, and on the 1st day of November 1884 the sum of fifty ($50) dollars, amounting to the sum of one hundred ($100) dollars, and said mortgage containing a clause whereby the failure on the part of the mortgagors to pay said interest when the same became due empowered the said mortgagee or his assigns to declare the whole sum of principal and interest due and payable by such default at his or their election, said mortgage being dated the 5th day of November 1881, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, on the 5th day of November 1881, at 4:30 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgage deeds on pages 445 and 446, and said mortgage was duly assigned by Selina McLaughlin, executrix of said James McLaughlin mortgagee, to George McLaughlin, by an instrument in writing, dated the 21st day of April 1883 and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said Polk County, on the 27th day of October 1883, at 12:10 o'clock p. m. in book "M" of mortgages on pages 470 and 471, and said mortgage was duly assigned by said George McLaughlin to Etta S. Brown by an instrument in writing dated the 8th day of May 1883 and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said Polk County, on the 27th day of October 1883, at 12:10 o'clock p. m. in book "M" of mortgages on pages 471 and 472. And said Etta S. Brown, assignee of said mortgage, having exercised said option does hereby declare the whole sum of principal and interest secured by said mortgage now due and payable by reason of such default, and there being now due and unpaid on said mortgage the sum of five hundred ($500) dollars principal and interest amounting at this date to the sum of one hundred and five 84-100 dollars, amounting in all to the sum of six hundred and five and 84-100 dollars ($605.84-100), and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise for the recovery of said debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

NOW, THEREFORE, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, which by reason of the defaults above stated became operative, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the mortgaged premises therein described, which sale will be made at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, by the Sheriff of said county, on Thursday the 22d day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, to satisfy the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage and interest, and taxes if any, and costs and disbursements allowed by law, together with the sum of twenty-five dollars lawful attorney's fees, as stipulated in said mortgage, to be paid in case of foreclosure.

The premises described in said mortgage and to be sold are described as follows, to-wit: The northeast quarter (ne¼) of Section No. four (4), in Township No. one hundred and fifty (150) north, of Range No. forty-six (46) west, containing one hundred and fifty-eight 45-100 acres, according to the government survey thereof, situate in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota.

Dated December 1st A. D. 1884.

ETTA S. BROWN,
Assignee of Mortgage.

E. St. JULIEN COX AND W. A. SELBY,
Attorneys for Assignee of Mortgage.
[33-38]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred eighty and 32-100 dollars, ($280.32-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Joseph B. Daoust and Hermina Daoust, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 16th day of June A. D. 1881, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded [illegible]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[illegible]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred seventy-six and 95-100 dollars which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Elling Knudson and Ingeborg Knudson, his wife, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the fourteenth day of March A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 14th day of March A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 3[illegible] and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for three hundred dollars, due October 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for sixty-six and 77-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Six and 77-100 dollars on October first, 1883, and six dollars on the first day of April and October, 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due April 1st, 1884, and of the interest due October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on April 1st, 1884, and of the installment due October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice three hundred seventy-six and 95-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The southeast quarter of Section twenty-eight (28,) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149,) of Range forty-five (45,) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred twelve and 46-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Mary Knutson, an unmarried woman, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twenty-fourth day of April A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 24th day of April A. D. 1883, at 5 o'clock p. m., in book "L" of mortgages, on page 481, and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for two hundred and fifty dollars, due November 1st 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for fifty-five and 30-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Five and 30-100 dollars on November first, 1883, and five dollars on the first day of May and November, 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due May 1st, 1884, and of the interest due November 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on May 1st, 1884, and of the installment due November 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that [illegible]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of five hundred, eleven and 03-100 dollars which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Louis Morisset, an unmarried man, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the eleventh day of August, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 11th day of August, A. D. 1883, at 3:20 o'clock p. m. in book "O" of mortgages, on page 177 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for four hundred dollars, due January 1st, 1889, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for eighty-six and 32-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Six and 32-100 dollars on January first, 1884, and eight dollars on July first, 1884, and eight dollars on the first day of January and July, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and eight dollars on January 1st, 1889, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due January 1st, 1884 and of the interest due July 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on January 1st, 1884 and of the installment due July 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice five hundred, eleven and 03-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The southwest quarter of Section twenty-four (24) in township one hundred and fifty-one (151), of range forty-seven (47), containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the city of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY. (Seal.)
By Robert N. Jackson, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of six hundred, twenty-eight and 19-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Simeon Patnode, an unmarried man, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twenty-third day of January, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 23d day of January, A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 128 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for five hundred dollars, due October 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for one hundred and thirteen and 94-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Thirteen and 94-100 dollars on October 1st, 1883, and ten dollars on the first day of April and October 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888 respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due April 1st, 1884, and of the interest due October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on April 1st, 1884 and of the installment due October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice six hundred twenty-eight and 19-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section thirty-four (34) in Township one hundred and fifty-one (151), of Range forty-five (45), containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, (Seal.)
By Robert N. Jackson, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred seventy-eight and 90-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Ole Anderson and Sarah Anderson, his wife, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twentieth day of March, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 22d day of March, A. D. 1883, at 9 o'clock a. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 336 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of three notes for one hundred dollars each, due October 1st, 1888, with six per cent interest per annum, and one installment note for sixty-six and 77-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Six and 77-100 dollars on October first, 1883, and six dollars on the first day of April and October, 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due October 1st, 1883, and of the interest due April 1st and October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note, on October 1st, 1883, and of the installments due April 1st and October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice three hundred, seventy-eight and 06-100 dollars after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section twenty-four (24) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149), of Range forty-five (45), containing one hundred and sixty acres in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House in the City of Crookston, in said County and State on the twenty-fourth day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY. (Seal.)
By Robert N. Jackson, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., Dec. 18th, 1884.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office at Crookston, Minn., on Jan. 24th, 1885, viz: ELIE LARIVIERE, for the [illegible] He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Charles Marcelle, Charles Dewald, Clement Pagant and William Deyal, all of Crookston, Polk Co., Minn. [illegible]

[34-39] JOHN CROMB, Register.

Commercial Hotel

NORTON & BENEDICT, Prop's.

SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.

[illegible] first-class in all respects. Terms reasonable. A share of the public patronage solicited.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum four hundred ninety-nine and 73-100 dollars which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice, upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Philip Murphy and Mary Ann Murphy his wife, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twenty-first day of April A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of April A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 571 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for four hundred dollars, due November 1st 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for eighty-eight and 58-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Eight and 58-100 dollars on November first, 1883, and eight dollars on the first day of May and November, 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due May 1st 1884, and of the interest due November 1st 1884 and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on May 1st, 1884, and of the installment due November 1st 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice four hundred ninety-nine and 73-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The southeast quarter of Section twenty-six (26,) in Township one hundred and forty-eight (148) of range forty-seven (47,) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY. [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney.
[33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred sixty and 24-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Peter N. Olstad, an unmarried man, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the second day of July A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 7th day of July A. D. 1883, at 10 o'clock a. m., in book "M" of mortgages, on page 199 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for two hundred dollars, due December 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for forty-four and 26-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Four and 26-100 dollars on December first, 1883, and four dollars on the first day of June and December 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due December 1st, 1883, and of the interest due June 1st and December 1st, 1884; and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on December 1st, 1883, and of the installments due June 1st and December 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice two hundred sixty and 24-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section fourteen (14,) in Township one hundred and forty-eight (148,) of Range forty-five (45,) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney, [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of eleven hundred eighty-two and 14-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by George J. Charboneau, an unmarried man to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the first day of February A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1883, at 2 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 154, and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for nine hundred dollars, due January 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for one hundred eighty-one and 10-100 dollars, due in five installments, as follows: Thirty-seven and 10-100 dollars on January first, 1884 and thirty-six dollars on the first day of January 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due January 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on January 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice eleven hundred eighty-two and 14-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The east half of the northwest quarter and lots one (1,) and two (2,) being the fractional northwest quarter of Section No. thirty (30,) in Township No. one hundred and fifty-two (152,) north, of Range No. forty-seven (47) west, containing one hundred and thirty-nine and 1-100 (139 1-100) acres, according to the United States government survey thereof, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and seventy-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., Dec. 3d, 1884.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before [illegible] Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., on Jan. 1[illegible], 1885, viz: OLE C. BERGLAND, [illegible] No. 10,52[illegible] for the nw ¼, S. 20, T. 149, R. [illegible] He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Joseph Morre, [illegible] Andrew Eikeh and T. Olafson, all of Crookston, Polk Co., Minn. [illegible]

MERCHANTS' HOTEL.

[illegible], Proprietor.

CORNER BROADWAY AND ROBERT STREET,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

The [illegible] Merchants' Hotel recently refitted and re-furnished is now ready to accommodate the traveling public who are cordially invited to stop at the Merchants when in the city. [illegible]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 24th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred twenty-two and 24-100 dollars ($322.24-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Alcid Dumas and Emily Dumas his wife to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 1st day of July A. D. 1882, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 5th day of July A. D. 1882, at 1:30 o'clock p. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 127, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law, or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz.: The northwest quarter (nw¼) of section twenty-six (26) Township one hundred and fifty (150) north, of Range forty-four (44) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres more or less, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston in said County and State, on the 9th day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage, in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston Dec. 24th, A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [35-41]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Jan. 1st 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred eighty-four and 83-100 dollars, ($384 83-100) which is claimed to be due, at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Albert D. Berry and Clorentha Berry, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 21st day of April A. D. 1882, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 22d day of April A. D. 1882, at 1:15 o'clock p. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 2, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The Southeast quarter (se¼,) of Section one (1,) Township one hundred and fifty-one (151,) Range forty-five (45,) in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 16th day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston Dec. 27th, A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [36-42]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of five hundred forty-eight and 50-100 dollars, ($548.50-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and executed and delivered by Jacob Francis and Ellen Francis, his wife, to Henry Hammel bearing date the 21st day of August A. D. 1882 and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 22d day of August A. D. 1882, at 8 o'clock a. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 216, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot eight (8,) in block seven (7,) of the Townsite of Crookston, according to the recorded plat thereof now on file in the office of the Register of Deeds, Polk County, Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

A. Yvernault,

Dealer in

General Merchandise,

—MAIN STREET,—

Crookston, - - - Minn.

All my friends, both old and new, are cordially invited to call and examine my stoc and get prices.

NEW LIVERY,

Feed and Sale

STABLES.

Corner Main and Fourth Sts.
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

TERRY & COLLINS, Prop's.

☞ Good Turnouts at all times at reasonable prices. Good Hearse and careful driver when needed.

WM. WATTS,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
AND DEALER IN
REAL ESTATE.
Office over Merchants' Bank.

The Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Proprietor. DEVOTED TO THE WELFARE OF POLK COUNTY. TERMS—$1.50 Per Annum.

VOL. VIII. CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINNESOTA, JANUARY 15, 1885. NO. 38

Polk County Journal.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

H. E. COOKE, Editor and Proprietor.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance, to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County, 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

ADVERTISING RATES.

SPACE.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 m.	3 m.	6 m.	1 year.
½ inch	70	1 00	1 15	1 50	3 00	4 50	8 00
1 inch	75	1 25	1 75	2 00	5 50	6 00	10 00
2 inches	1 50	2 25	3 00	3 50	8 50	9 50	15 00
3 inches	1 75	2 75	[illegible]	4 00	[illegible]	12 50	20 00
4 inches	2 50	3 50	4 50	5 50	10 00	16 00	25 00
[illegible] inches	3 00	4 00	5 00	6 00	12 50	20 00	30 00
¼ column	3 50	5 50	6 50	8 50	15 00	25 00	35 00
½ column	6 00	7 50	10 00	12 00	20 00	35 00	60 00
1 column	9 50	12 50	15 00	25 00	35 00	60 00	100 00

Entered at the Post Office in Crookston as Second Class matter.

The Public Herald, published at 700 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, by L. Lum Smith, is doing an excellent work by exposing the frauds and dead-beats who prey upon the public continually. The price is only $1 per annum. Here is what it says about the advertisement of several so-called newspapers that offer to loan their subscribers from $100 to $500.

THE "NEWSPAPER" LOAN FRAUDS.

We copy the following from the Chicago Inter Ocean, which will demonstrate how well founded have been our attacks upon these fraudulent concerns:

"A few weeks ago the Inter Ocean called attention to what appeared to be an attempt to swindle the public by an advertisement of an alleged newspaper entitled Ocean to Ocean, which purported to be published at No. 68 West Monroe Street. At that time a visit was paid to the locality mentioned, but no trace of the Ocean to Ocean could be found. From the similarity in name it was believed that an attempt was made to trade upon the reputation of the Inter Ocean to further this scheme. After exposing this matter the Ocean to Ocean disappeared from Chicago and is now located at Cincinnati, O. In its place, however, and at the same locality on West Monroe Street, there appears another prospective periodical under the name of the Chicago Globe. The weekly papers throughout the country have been filled with glittering advertisements of this paper, which as yet apparently has no existence. The Chicago Globe promises to loan its subscribers any amount of money which may be desired and for an unlimited time. In addition to this, a picture of 'Christ Leaving the Pretorium' is to be sent to every person who will send the amount of 42 cents to the address on Monroe Street. This last feature of the advertisement is the one from which the greatest profit is designed to be realized, and feeling some curiosity in the matter, a reporter for the Inter Ocean called at No. 68 West Monroe Street for the purpose of obtaining definite information regarding the matter. On the top floor of the new brick building Mr. George E. Lloyd was found in possession. There was no indication of a printing office in this room, but standing upon a fire proof safe, encased in a cheap frame, was the famous picture for which the 42 cents was required. In reply to the questions of the reporter Mr. Lloyd stated that the Chicago Globe had been removed to Cincinnati, that it had not yet been issued, and would not be until they had received the names of 100,000 subscribers. Mr. Lloyd disclaimed any connection with the enterprise, but said that he received the mail, which was very heavy, and forwarded it to the proprietors in Ohio. At the post office it was learned that no such paper had been entered according to law as second-class matter, and except that a large number of letters were received daily for this concern, the post office authorities had no knowledge of this publication. It looks very much as if the entire scheme was designed to induce a credulous public to forward 42 cents apiece for this picture, and that no paper will be issued, no money will ever be loaned to any one foolish enough to ask for it, and that the Chicago Globe and the Ocean to Ocean are mere covers to a scheme by which a cheap picture may be disposed of at a price in excess of its value."

Free—A Beautiful 800 page Dictionary. To every person sending $1 for that large, excellent, 8-page, 48-column monthly farm and family paper, the Farm Journal and Live Stock Review, one year. Send at once to the Journal Publishing Company, Box 57, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. [37-39]

FARM NOTES.

American Farmer.

WINTER TREATMENT OF MILCH COWS.

The aim in the treatment of milch cows in winter should be to continue the conditions of summer as nearly as possible. This requires comfortable quarters, not only against the inclemency of the weather but in all that relates to the well being of the cow, such as warm stables, [illegible]

[illegible] the cow feel at home. Give food to meet her requirements, [illegible] the nitrogenous element be well represented, and let the feeds be largely of a succulent character, to keep in line with the summer diet, such as roots and ensilage, with early cut clover, well cured. Feed early and late, and a few times during the day, keeping the cow mostly employed with slight feeds between the two principal rations, the night serving for rest.

It is a great fault with many farmers to allow the cattle the range of the farm, thus giving more exercise than is good for a milch cow, trampling the fields and making muddy paths, while the frost-bitten food that they pick up is of reduced benefit, [illegible]

GREAT CLOSING OUT SALE

AT THE

Old Brick Block,

Commencing on

TUESDAY, JANUARY 6TH, 1885.

Must Be Closed Out

WITHIN TWENTY DAYS!

Call Early For

BIG BARGAINS.

FONTAINE & ANGLIM.

The Wealthy apple is estimated to be worth a million dollars to Minnesota. For hardiness and other good qualities it is attracting much attention in all the Northern States. The history of this valuable apple is thus given by Suel Foster, of Muscatine, Iowa. About 1865 or 1866 Mr. Gideon, of Excelsior, Minn., sent to Mr. Emerson, of Bangor, Me., for some crab apple seed, for he had tried the common apple and they winter-killed. He received nearly two quarts of seed. He planted the seed and in five years one bore a few specimens of apples. At seven years Mr. Gideon was so well pleased with the tree and its fruit, its quality and its quantity, that he took off 400 scions and brought them to me, asking me to graft them on the halves, and to send him one half the trees at one or two years old. I confess that I reluctantly consented to pay so much for an unknown seedling. [illegible]

Peterson's Magazine for February opens with a most bewitching steel plate, entitled "Dressed for the Charade," representing two children, four years old, attired in fancy costume and singing a duet in keeping. Of all the charming engravings for which "Peterson" has become famous, this is certainly one of the most cunning. Besides this, however, there are fifty other embellishments, including a very beautiful colored steel fashion-plate, double size, and a costly large size colored pattern. The literary contents, always superior, are better than ever this month. We would call attention particularly to "In the Ring," "The Pickpocket," and to the two novelets, "The Motherless Girl" and "The Lost Ariadne." Every lady ought to have this magazine. Now is just the time, with the opening year, to subscribe for 1885. The terms are but Two Dollars a year, with great deductions to clubs, and splendid premiums for getting up the clubs. Specimens are sent gratis, if written for in good faith, so as to compare Peterson with other magazines at the same price. Address, Chas. J. Peterson, 306 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Profits of Sheep Husbandry.

Bismarck Tribune: The Boyd Bros., five miles south of Mandan, have 540 head of sheep, mostly merinos. These gentlemen came from Ohio, the great wool State, two years ago, and they state that sheep husbandry will be full as profitable in this region as in Ohio. Their flock has wintered well both winters, the percentage of loss being less than in Ohio, because of the dryness of the atmosphere. Comfortable sheds have been provided, and Mr. Boyd says he fed his sheep a less number of days in this country during the winter than in Ohio. In that State feeding usually begins about the middle of November while here he began the 16th of December and quit the 26th of March. The sheep gained rapidly from the time they began feeding in the spring, which is not always the case East. Boyd's sheep sheared on an average 9 pounds of wool to the head, which netted 16 cents per pound. The percentage of increase is also above that in the east, which is seldom over 75 per cent. Boyd had 147 lambs from 116 ews. Certainly money cannot be made faster in any country than in Dakota by those who go into stock-raising on a moderate scale. It will pay 100 per cent. more than grain, and it is only a question of time when the farmers will see this.

The Evening Journal

is published at Minneapolis, Minn., the metropolis of the Northwest, a city with a population of 125,000, to which is tributary the States of Minnesota, Iowa, Dakota, and the entire northwest.

The Journal is the leading afternoon newspaper of the northwest, and the only afternoon newspaper published in Minneapolis. It has a circulation six times that of any afternoon paper published in Minnesota. It also has a greater daily circulation in the towns directly tributary to Minneapolis than any other paper.

The Journal is sent out on the afternoon trains, and reaches all points from 12 to 24 hours in advance of any other paper.

The Journal publishes the complete Associated Press reports, and copious Special Telegrams, and gives all the news of the day in a condensed form. Complete Market Reports are also published daily, and full reports of the proceedings of Congress and the State Legislature.

A large and complete editorial corps, and thoroughly trained men are employed in every department.

The Journal is the best equipped, best established, most enterprising and newsy afternoon newspaper northwest of Chicago.

The Journal is printed on a Hoe Perfecting Press of the latest pattern, built expressly for The Journal, and capable of a speed of 250 complete papers per minute folded, ready to deliver. A contract has also been made with R. Hoe & Co. for another press, capable of a speed of 500 complete papers per minute.

The subscription price is lower than that of any daily paper circulated in the northwest. The retail price is only two cents each. Its success has revolutionized the newspaper methods of this section, and demonstrated that a thoroughly first-class paper can be produced at a price within the reach of all. The subscription price of The Journal is—

One Year	$5 00
Six Months	2 50
Three Months	1 20
One Month	50

Payable in advance.

The POLK COUNTY JOURNAL and The Evening Journal will be furnished by us at the regular subscription rates of The Evening Journal.

To any one who desires to keep posted on the news of the day, and on all current local events, this offer is the best ever made by any publishers. The changes in the administration of the government will make the papers very interesting next year. Call at once and subscribe. [35-4t]

TO PARTIES DESIRING INSURANCE!

We represent the following old and reliable Fire Insurance Companies:

	Assets.
Ætna	$9,182,644
American	1,804,519
Fire Association	4,279,676
Underwriters	3,699,794
Orient	1,411,894
Phœnix	5,919,403
Lancashire	6,787,983
Milwaukee Mech.	1,129,375
Germania	2,700,729

Having represented nearly all of the above companies for 14 years, we have acquainted ourselves with the business, and think that we can justly claim the patronage of the public, who can depend upon having insurance written correctly and losses adjusted promptly.

MOSER & MOECKEL.

NOTICE.

As I have established a Nursery in Crookston and propose to continue the business, I will announce to our former customers and all that are desirous of obtaining Trees and Plants the coming spring that I will sell said stock at prices below any competition. Call and see me before making purchases elsewhere. Residence on second block north of Court House, or address P. O. Box 754.

Most Respectfully, [illegible]

[illegible] Call at [illegible] Hall and see [illegible] Christmas goods before you buy. You can save money in these hard times. [illegible]

The Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Proprietor. DEVOTED TO THE WELFARE OF POLK COUNTY. TERMS---$1.50 Per Annum.

VOL. VIII. CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINNESOTA, JANUARY 15, 1885. NO. 38

GREAT CLOSING OUT SALE

AT THE

Old Brick Block,

Commencing on

TUESDAY, JANUARY 6TH, 1885.

Must Be Closed Out

WITHIN TWENTY DAYS!

Call Early For

BIG BARGAINS.

FONTAINE & ANGLIM.

Polk County Journal.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

H. E. COOKE, Editor and Proprietor

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Dollar and Fifty Cents. If paid in advance, to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

ADVERTISING RATES.

SPACE.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 m.	2 m	6 m.	1 year
½ inch	50	$1 00	$1 15	$1 50	$3 00	4 50	$ 6 00
1 inch	75	1 25	1 75	2 00	3 50	6 00	10 00
2 inches	1 50	2 25	3 00	3 50	6 50	9 50	15 00
3 inches	1 75	2 75	3 75	4 50	9 50	13 50	20 00
4 inches	2 50	3 50	4 50	5 50	10 00	10 00	25 00
inches	3 00	4 00	5 00	6 00	12 50	20 00	30 00
¼ column	3 50	5 00	5 50	6 50	15 00	25 00	25 00
½ column	6 00	7 50	10 00	12 00	20 00	35 00	50 00
1 column	9 00	12 50	15 00	18 00	35 00	60 00	100 00

Entered at the Post Office in Crookston as Second Class matter.

The Public Herald, published at 706 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, by L. Lum Smith, is doing an excellent work by exposing the frauds and dead-beats who prey upon the public continually. The price is only $1 per annum. Here is what it says about the advertisement, of several so-called newspapers that offer to loan their subscribers from $100 to $500.

THE "NEWSPAPER" LOAN FRAUDS.

We copy the following from the Chicago Inter Ocean, which will demonstrate how well founded have been our attacks upon these fraudulent concerns:

"A few weeks ago the Inter Ocean called attention to what appeared to be an attempt to swindle the public by an advertisement of an alleged newspaper entitled Ocean to Ocean, which purported to be published at No. 68 West Monroe Street. At that time a visit was paid to the locality mentioned, but no trace of the Ocean to Ocean could be found. From the similarity in name it was believed that an attempt was made to trade upon the reputation of the Inter Ocean to further this scheme. After exposing this matter the Ocean to Ocean disappeared from Chicago and is now located at Cincinnati, O. In its place, however, and at the same locality on West Monroe Street, there appears another prospective periodical under the name of the Chicago Globe. The weekly papers throughout the country have been filled with glittering advertisements of this paper, which as yet, apparently has no existence. The Chicago Globe promises to loan its subscribers any amount of money which may be desired and for an unlimited time. In addition to this, a picture of "Christ Leaving the Pretorium" is to be sent to every person who will send the amount of 42 cents to the address on Monroe Street. This last feature of the advertisement is the one from which the greatest profit is designed to be realized, and feeling some curiosity in the matter, a reporter for the Inter Ocean called at No. 68 West Monroe Street for the purpose of obtaining definite information regarding the matter. On the top floor of the new brick building, Mr. George E. Lloyd was found in possession. There was no indication of a printing office in this room, but standing upon a fire proof safe, encased in a cheap frame, was the famous picture for which the 42 cents was required. In reply to the questions of the reporter, Mr. Lloyd stated that the Chicago Globe had been removed to Cincinnati, that it had not yet been issued, and would not be until they had received the names of 100,000 subscribers. Mr. Lloyd disclaimed any connection with the enterprise, but said that he received the mail, which was very heavy, and forwarded it to the proprietors in Ohio. At the post office it was learned that no such paper had been entered according to law as second-class matter, and except that a large number of letters were received daily for this concern, the post office authorities had no knowledge of this publication. It looks very much as if the entire scheme was designed to induce a credulous public to forward 42 cents apiece for this picture, and that no paper will be issued, no money will ever be loaned to any one foolish enough to ask for it, and that the Chicago Globe and the Ocean to Ocean are mere covers to a scheme by which a cheap picture may be disposed of at a price in excess of its value."

Free—A Beautiful 600-page Dictionary,

To every person sending $1 for that large, excellent, 8-page, 48-column monthly farm and family paper, the Farm Journal and Live Stock Review, one year. Send at once to the Journal Publishing Company, Box 57, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. [37-39]

FARM NOTES.

American Farmer.

WINTER TREATMENT OF MILCH COWS.

The aim in the treatment of milch cows in wintr should be to continue the conditions of summer as nearly as possible. This requires comfortable quarters, not only against the inclemency of the weather, but in all else that relates to the well being of the cow—such as warm stables, but not too warm; ventilation, to control the temperature and admit fresh air, but not directly on the animals; floor well littered with fine vegetable material to absorb fluids and odors, aided by plaster, thus securing a clean, dry, soft bed to lie and stand on; carding, plenty of good water, conveniently obtained; occasional outdoor airing and exercise, without rash exposure to cold and wet, getting as much sunlight as possible and avoiding the great changes of temperature; kind treatment, making the cow feel at home. Give food to meet her requirements; if in calf, let the nitrogenous element be well represented, and let the feed be largely of a succulent character, to keep in line with the summer diet such as roots and ensilage, with early-cut clover, well cured. Feed early and late, and a few times during the day, keeping the cow mostly employed with slight feeds between the two principle rations, the night serving for rest.

It is a great fault with many farmers to allow the cattle the range of the farm, thus getting more exercise than is good for a milch cow, trampling the field and making muddy paths, while the frost bitten food that they pick up is of reduced benefit, and leaves the fields bare and exposed to the winter's severity. It is an error to suppose that late grass, frost bitten and bleached, is of more value as feed than for plant food and protection. Leaving the grass unfed is in effect, green manuring, without the expense of turning it under.

By thus favoring our fields, we at the same time favor our cows also. By [illegible] early requires attention, but pays well, as now the time can be well afforded, and the cows are continued in good condition without break yielding a continued liberal supply of milk. All rash changes in feed and in treatment should be avoided, and above all, do not intermit the kindness in the least, without which a milch cow will never do her best. There is nothing new in all this, which makes it so much the better, as it has the experience of the most successful dairymen, yielding the largest quantity of the best milk and an increased percentage of butter from it, besides benefitting the cows.

The points of a good cow are a robust constitution, and a good appetite, large milking capacity, long milking tendency, rich milk, and an easy milker with good disposition. She should be a regular breeder, and her calves should possess her good qualities. After these come the points of shape, color and general appearance, along with the pedigree, which latter is of more or less importance as she is thoroughbred and kept for breeding more than dairy purposes. If the former, it is often the most important of all her attributes. Every cow has more or less of these qualities coupled with some objectionable features and it is a capital exercise to write out the good and bad qualities of every cow in the herd and compare them on paper. It will aid you materially in judging the animals in your herd. If you classify them you will always know which should be parted with first, and save you many a subsequent regret.

Milking in the barnyard, says an exchange, is an old fashion that should be abandoned. It is inconvenient and unclean. It should go, with the wooden pail and the hairy butter and never be heard of any more, gone and forgotten, too. It is a wonder that any farmer would permit it and still more a wonder that farmer's wives or daughters would consent to it.

"THE SUNFLOWER

is the best egg-producing food known for poultry, keeping them in a thriving condition and largely increasing the production of eggs. Every poultry raiser who tries it will find that it is the best food known for glossing the plumage of fowls, and is almost indispensable to those who want to fit their birds for exhibition to the best advantage. The Russian sunflower is easily raised, requires very little care, and can be grown in fence corners and other places difficult to cultivate. Its production of seed is immense, yielding often at the rate of 100 bushels to the acre. It should be planted in hills four feet apart, any time from the 10th of May to the 1st of July. Three quarts of seed will plant an acre."

An Iowa man says in the Country Gentleman: "I have for two years raised all the young calves I could get in the fall at a low price. I take them away from the cow at once, teach them to drink, then scald one part of oil meal, one part of corn meal and eight parts of bran, wet enough to drink at first, but as soon as possible, feed them the same dry, as they are apt to sour on mash in cold weather. I have yearlings, taken from the cow at three days old, which never tasted milk again. They weigh 750 pounds each, and worth $20 a piece. I consider that they cost me $6."

A Wisconsin farmer claims to have found a sure cure for potato bugs. His plan is to plant one or two flax seeds in each hill of potatoes. He says that the bugs will shun it every time, and for ten years he has thus been successful in growing potatoes while others have failed.

The Wealthy apple is estimated to be worth a million dollars to Minnesota. For hardiness and other good qualities it is attracting much attention in all the Northern States. The history of this valuable apple is thus given by Suel Foster, of Muscatine, Iowa: About 1865 or 1866 Mr. Gideon, of Excelsior, Minn., sent to Mr. Emerson, of Bangor, Me., for some crab-apple seed, for he had tried the common apples and they winter-killed. He received nearly two quarts of seed. He planted the seed and in five years one bore a few specimens of apples. At seven years Mr. Gideon was so well pleased with the tree and its fruit, its quality and its quantity, that he took off 400 scions and brought them to me, asking me to graft them on the halves, and to send him one-half the trees at one or two years old. I confess that I reluctantly consented to pay a high price for an unknown seedling. Mr. Gideon's knowledge and faith in the great value of the Wealthy, and his flattering me by saying that he heard that I was an honest man, induced me to accept his terms. I sent him 1,000 one-yearold trees the next fall, which was, I think, 1875. A few scions had been sent out by Mr. Gideon the winter before (1874). Such is the origin of the Wealthy, which is no doubt a hybrid of crab and common apples. Mr. Gideon is quite sure of this, for, from the seed of the Wealty he has obtained crab apples.

Free—Splendid Dictionary—Free.

A grand 600-page Dictionary will be sent free to every person sending $1 for the Farm Journal and Live Stock Review, one year. Don't fail. This is the greatest offer ever made. Address the Journal Publishing Company, Box 57, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. [37-39]

Peterson's Magazine for February opens with a most bewitching steel-plate, entitled "Dressed for the Charade," representing two children, four years old, attired in fancy costume and singing a duet in keeping. Of all the charming engravings for which "Peterson" has become famous, this is certainly one of the most cunning. Besides this, however, there are fifty other embellishments, including a very beautiful colored steel fashion-plate, double size, and a costly large size colored pattern. The literary contents, always superior, are better than ever this month. We would call attention particularly to "In the Ring," "The Pickpocket," and to the two novelets, "The Motherless Girl" and "The Lost Ariadne." Every lady ought to have this magazine. Now is just the time, with the opening year, to subscribe for 1885. The terms are but Two Dollars a year, with great deductions to clubs, and splendid premiums for getting up the clubs. Specimens are sent gratis, if written for in good faith, so as to compare "Peterson" with other magazines at the same price. Address Chas. J. Peterson, 306 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Beautiful Dictionary and Paper for $1.

That excellent farm and home paper, the Farm Journal and Live Stock Review, filled with splendid family and household reading, stock notes, interesting stories, etc., one year, and a grand 600-page Dictionary, both for $1. Send to-day, addressing the Journal Publishing Company, Box 57, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. [37-39]

For Sale Cheap.

A complete set of bar fixtures. Call on August Wentzel for particulars. [19-tf.]

Profits of Sheep Husbandry.

Bismarck Tribune: The Boyd Bros., five miles south of Menoken, have 540 head of sheep, mostly merinos. These gentlemen came from Ohio, the great wool State, two years ago, and they state that sheep husbandry will be full as profitable in this region as in Ohio. Their flock has wintered well both winters, the percentage of loss being less than in Ohio, because of the dryness of the atmosphere. Comfortable sheds have been provided, and Mr. Boyd says he fed his sheep a less number of days in this country during the winter than in Ohio. In that State feeding usually begins about the middle of November while here he began the 16th of December and quit the 26th of March. The sheep gained rapidly from the time they began feeding in the spring, which is not always the case East. Boyd's sheep sheared on an average 9 pounds of wool to the head, which netted 16 cents per pound. The percentage of increase is also above that in the east, which is seldom over 75 per cent. Boyd had 147 lambs from 116 ews. Certainly money cannot be made faster in any country than in Dakota by those who go into stock-raising on a moderate scale. It will pay 100 per cent. more than grain, and it is only a question of time when the farmers will see this.

The Evening Journal

is published at Minneapolis, Minn., the metropolis of the Northwest, a city with a population of 125,000, to which is tributary the States of Minnesota, Iowa, Dakota, and the entire northwest.

The Journal is the leading afternoon newspaper of the northwest, and the only afternoon newspaper published in Minneapolis. It has a circulation six times that of any afternoon paper published in Minnesota. It also has a greater daily circulation in the towns directly tributary to Minneapolis than any other paper.

The Journal is sent out on the afternoon trains, and reaches all points from 12 to 24 hours in advance of any other paper.

The Journal publishes the complete Associated Press reports, and copious Special Telegrams, and gives all the news of the day in a condensed form. Complete Market Reports are also published daily, and full reports of the proceedings of Congress and the State Legislature.

A large and complete editorial corps, and thoroughly trained men are employed in every department.

The Journal is the best equipped, best established, most enterprising and newsy afternoon newspaper northwest of Chicago.

The Journal is printed on a Hoe Perfecting Press of the latest pattern, built expressly for The Journal, and capable of a speed of 250 complete papers per minute folded, ready to deliver. A contract has also been made with R. Hoe & Co. for another press, capable of a speed of 500 complete papers per minute.

The subscription price is lower than that of any daily paper circulated in the northwest. The retail price is only two cents each. Its success has revolutionized the newspaper methods of this section, and demonstrated that a thoroughly first-class paper can be produced at a price within the reach of all. The subscription price of The Journal is—

One Year	$5 00
Six Months	2 50
Three Months	1 20
One Month	50

Payable in advance.

The POLK COUNTY JOURNAL and The Evening Journal will be furnished by us at the regular subscription rates of The Evening Journal.

To any one who desires to keep posted on the news of the day and on all current local events, this offer is the best ever made by any publishers. The changes in the administration of the government will make the papers very interesting next year. Call at once and subscribe. [35-4t]

TO PARTIES DESIRING INSURANCE!

We represent the following old and reliable Fire Insurance Companies:

	Assets.
Ætna	$9,182,644
American	1,804,519
Fire Association	4,279,676
Underwriters	3,699,794
Orient	1,411,894
Phœnix	5,919,403
Lancashire	6,787,933
Milwaukee Mech.	1,129,375
Germania	2,700,729

Having represented nearly all of the above companies for 14 years we have acquainted ourselves with the business, and think that we can justly claim the patronage of the public, who can depend upon having insurance written correctly and losses adjusted promptly.

MOSER & MOECKEL.

NOTICE.

As I have established a Nursery in Crookston and propose to continue the business, I will announce to our former customers and all that are desirous of obtaining trees and Plants the coming spring that I will sell said stock at prices below any competition. Call and see me before making purchase elsewhere. Residence on second block north of Court House, or address P. O. Box 754.

Most Respectfully,

[38-tf] E. W. HASELTINE.

We mean it. Call at Medical Hall and see their Christmas goods before you buy. You can save money in these hard times. 33-tf

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, January 15, 1885.

'ROUND HOME.

O. H. Lucken has gone to St. Paul.

Red flannels, plain and twilled, guaranteed all wool, from 22 cents to 50 cents, at the New York store.

Ed Walsh may be found in the little building on Main street, formerly occupied by R. B. Reiley as a law office.

At the New York store they are bound to do business even in dull times if prices can do any.

The directors of the new Merchants' National Bank held their first annual meeting last week and the report of the first month showed the earnings to be $880. This is a fine showing for a starter.

You can buy a good colored blanket or 95 cents, at the New York store.

There is an overgrown fortune awaiting the man who has sand and capital enough to start a private bank in this city. One that can loan money on long time on city real estate. Such an institution would be of incalculable benefit to this city.

You can buy a large surge white bed spread for 85 cents, at the New York store.

Froze your ears, say you? Well, you ought to freeze your ears if you don't know enough to go to Frank M. Brown's store and buy you a good No. 1 cap for 25 cents. A kyvarter of a dollar or a heluf-a dollar will buy you such a cap as will discourage old jack frost the best day he ever saw! Think of that and weep.

You can buy 20 yards of heavy brown sheeting, one yard wide, for $1.00, at the New York store.

Berthiaume Bro's will take possession of the stand recently occupied by the New England Restaurant and put in a large and complete stock of jewelry, They don't intend to take a back seat for nobody. J. B. told us that he was going east soon to buy up everything worth anything there, and if he can't get all he wants will go until he can. Look out for their announcement later.

You can buy 10 yards of dress goods in any color, for 50 cents, at the New York store.

Miss Annie Drew, a niece of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. LaChapelle died at their residence in this city on Saturday last of of consumption. She came here with the hope that this climate would be of benefit but came too late. Her remains were accompanied to the depot on Monday by a large concourse of old citizens gathered to pay the last sad respects. The remains were sent to St. Paul for interment.

The place to buy remnants is at the New York store.

The delegation representing the Crookston Fire Department at the thirteenth annual convention, held in St. Cloud on the 13th inst., started from this place on Monday evening. When we mention that our representatives consisted of John R. McKinnon, Chief, John McLaren, Foreman, and James O'Brien, secretary, it may safely be assumed that the interests of our creditable, though young, department were judiciously presented, judging from the attractive appearance of our worthy secretary, accompanied by his wife.

Flannels, 54 and 56 inches wide, in all the new shades, reduced from $1.00 and $1.20 to 75 cents, at the New York store. The nett cost on these good was 85 cents.

Elsewhere will be seen the notice of dissolution of Proud & Macdonell. These gentlemen succeeded to the business of the New York store about one year ago and by universal courtesy and a strict attention to the wants of their patrons have built up a good trade. Mr. Proud, the retiring partner, is a gentleman universally respected and should he decide to leave will be followed by the regrets of hosts of friends. Mr. Macdonell who succeeds to the business is one of the most popular young business men of our city. He says that he intends to keep up the reputation of this excellent store to the fullest; and will do his level best to get to the top. He is now selling out the entire stock at prices which actually CANNOT be beaten. After disposing of the stock in this way he will put in a larger and more complete stock than ever before. Try Mac for a bargain.

Table linens from 20 cents to 90 cents at the New York store.

E. M. Walsh has sold his hardware business to Stewart & Laurence who take possession this week. Mr. Walsh has been in business in this city since its formation and has seen it grow from a small hamlet to a thriving city of over 5,000 inhabitants and two roller rinks over which (the city) he presides as mayor. Mr. Walsh was, financially, about as big as Crookston when he came and he has grown with her growth and thriven with her prosperity until now he is as well fixed, financially, as is the city herself. We are not informed what he intends to do but are assured that he does not contemplate leaving, but will at an early day engage in some other line of business. His successors, Messrs. Stewart & Laurence, are well known here, having been in the lumber business, building up the largest trade in the city and county. That they will be eminently successful in their new line of business all who know them feel confident. They assure us that they intend at once to put in a large and complete stock of everything in their to which they will add building paper, sash and doors. They are rustlers and will not be content with a small stock of goods. They will have the best and plenty of it.

You can buy one pair kid gloves for 50 cents, reduced from $1.50, at the New York store.

Sheriff Zwickey is in St. Paul.

Chris Houston is expected home the atter part of this week.

P. A. Dufour has returned from a visit to the saintly city.

McDonell shows some nice woolen blankets—just the thing for this kind of weather.

The weather this week has been pretty snug. Not too cold for sleighriding just snug and nice.

F. S. Smith left this morning for a visit to his old home. He intends to see New Orleans before he returns.

On Monday offers of 66 cents were freely made for No. 1 Hard wheat. Had this occurred last fall it would have done some good.

There will be a big time at the rink to-morrow evening. A big skating match and a big dance. A train from Grand Forks will be over.

Signor Bosco, the Illusionist will be at the opera house on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of next week. 100 gifts will be made each night. Tickets 25c and 35c now on sale at the box office, opera house.

The best five cent cigars is at the Red Star Grocery, Broadway. [51-tf]

Rumor hath it that Lewis Foss has sold his interest in Fosston and will go somewhere else where folks aint so thunderin' careless with their fire arms. He don't like to be the most prominent men in a city where the folks manifest their high regards in that way.

You can buy gents' wool underwear at less than wholesale cost, at the New York store.

We are under obligations to those who have called in to settle up that little subscription since our last issue. We shall hold them in grateful remembrance while we trust that all who have not will come forward. Until the 1st of Feb., all who settle will receive the discount.

Who says there is anything hoggish about Henry Steege? But he has purchased over 100 hogs, pigs and shoats of high and low degree and placed them upon his farm up the river. Steege has evidently set his heart on supplying the hog meat for this city for the next year or so and evidently intends to have a thousand pigs or so to sell next fall.

Mr. Isaiah Gervals was down from Red Lake Falls this morning. While here he received a telegram stating that his brother-in-law, Mr. Joseph Sempre, (some say it is spelled St. Pere) had died suddenly at Helena, Montana, on the 14th and that the body would be sent at once to St. Paul. Mr. G. started on the evening train for St. Paul to attend the funeral. Mr. S. was a traveling man, an old resident of St. Paul, well known there and in the Northwest.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank of Crookston, for the purpose of electing directors and officers for the ensuing year, was held at the Bank on the 12th inst. Geo. Q. Erskine was elected president, K. D. Chase, vice president, and Chas. E. Sawyer, of Racine, Wis., Cashier. Ansel Bates, who has been cashier of the bank since its organization in 1881, was removed. The new board of directors placed the following resolution on their records:

RESOLVED, That Ansel Bates, the late cashier of the First National Bank of Crookston, Minn., since its organization in the fall of 1881, and in his management of the same from that time to the present, has at all times shown good ability and undoubted integrity.

Mr. Bates intends to remain in Crookston and identify himself with its fortunes, as heretofore, and claims to be well pleased with his prospects for the future.

CAUGHT ON THE STREET.

By our Special Reporter.

"I don't can see dot hydrant leak," said Councilman Bataglia, anent the water works question. "Humph," responded Commissioner Markham, there's nothing surprising about that, you can't appreciate anything that has cold water in it!"

Ansel Bates: "This change in the First National Bank does not make a sorehead of me by any means. I intend to remain in this city and take a hand in her development in the future as I have tried to do in the past. I shall embark in business later on, the nature of which I will inform you in due time."

John McLean: "If farmers are wise they will have learned one important lesson from the experience of the past two years. Instead of making their obligations for machinery, horses and all that due Oct. 1st or Nov. 1st, they should make it March 1st or April 1st, then they would have a chance to get the top of the market on their wheat. Oh, they could do it easy enough if they would all unite. Machine men and others would come to time if farmers insisted and everybody would be far better off."

Geo. G. McDonell: "It is a fact that farmers have had a rough deal this past fall on wheat, but I can make up a large share of their losses when they trade here. I am prepared to give such prices that everybody can afford to buy at."

John Leot: "What's the odds as long as you're 'appy?"

Fontaine & Anglim: "It don't make any difference what's up, these goods MUST and WILL be sold inside of 30 days from Jan. 6th. Somebody will get great bargains and don't let that fact escape your memory."

Joseph Simpson: "I see no reason to complain of hard times. I raise only the best of wheat and oats and sell it for seed. I raise some stock and some grain and make it a point to consult the best interests of my farm in all of my farming operations. I FIND THIS METHOD PAYS best. My motto is "take care of your business and your business will take care of you!" If farmers would only adopt this system they could do as I have done, make a good living and have some money to loan."

Adolph Gallasch: "Hack & Gallasch don't offer to give away any goods for nothing, but we are not ashamed to compare prices with any of 'em. You can buy a pile of goods of us for $1—about double what could be bought when wheat was skyward. Don't forget this fact."

Frank M. Brown: "Yes, I heard that a granger had frozen his ears, but it was one who had not read about those cheap caps I advertise in THE JOURNAL, good solid caps that I sell from 25 cents upward."

Arthur Stewart: "Yes sir, we have bought Ed Walsh's interest in the hardware store and we are here to stay. We shall at once lay in a very large and as complete a stock as can be found in the market and you may tell JOURNAL readers that if we do not have what they want in stock we shall take great pleasure in getting it for them."

C. H. Saake: "Yes, times seem a little slow but I can't complain. I am getting a good trade, have all I can do and expect soon to get in a large and fine assortment of jewelry and everything in my line. Tell the JOURNAL readers to call and see me."

Hack & Gallasch are selling at cost to make room for spring stock. For bargains call on them. 38tf

Notice.

Hereafter, until further notice, the stores in this city will be closed promptly at 8 o'clock p. m., except Saturday evenings. Take due notice and govern yourselves accordingly.

Report of the County Commissioners.

The Merchants' National Bank was made the depository of the county funds and bonds approved. The rate of interest was fixed at 4 per cen. on daily balaces. In the matter of the petition for the Robert street bridge, mentioned last week, the board by a unanimous vote, granted said petition. $100 was granted for a bridge in the town of Roome. Assistance for a bridge across the Clearwater at Red Lake Falls was asked and granted. A petition for $300 for a bridge between the towns of Tynsid and Bygland was granted. A petition was received to organize town 148, Range 39. Rejected. Petition for organization of school district in Winger, granted as also that of River Falls. Petition of Michael McGivre and of Jas. and Mary Sullivan were laid on the table to be called up at a future meeting. The Auditor was authorized to advertise for bids for the Robert street bridge, for 40 cords of green wood, for attendance on poor in 2d and 4th districts and the 13 towns and for county printing. The salary of the county attorney was raised to $1,000. The appropriation of $500 for road purposes in the Thirteen Towns was left in charge of Commissioner Goodrich. The report of the Register of Deeds showed that his fees for 1884 amounted to $3,100.38. That of the Clerk of Court to $2,553. Commissioner Jas. Sullivan was authorized to sell the county pile driver.

If you If you If you

WANT anything in hardware call on the new firm of Stewart & Lawrence.

WANT anything in the line of ladies' dress goods, flannels, blankets, boots or shoes for ladies' or gents, don't fail to see Geo. G. Macdonell, successor to Proud & Macdonell.

WANT anything at all in groceries, provisions or Clothing don't fail to attend the closing out sale of Fontaine & Anglim. A $30,000 stock to be sold regardless of cost.

WANT jewelry call on Saake, Second street.

WANT any job work, want to subscribe for a good paper or want to place an advertisement where it will reach three-fourths of the dwellers of Polk County, call at the office of THE POLK COUNTY JOURNAL.

Notice of Dissolution.

Notice is hereby given that the firm of Harry G. Proud and George G. McDonell, doing business as Proud & McMonell, is hereby dissolved by mutual consent. The debts of said firm will be paid, and all accounts owing said firm collected by George G. McDonell.

Crookston, Minn., Jan 2d, 1885.

HARRY G. PROUD.

[38-40] GEORGE G. MCDONELL.

John Knuppe.

General Agent in the Red River Valley of the Netherlands American Land Company of Amsterdam, Holland.

Money to loan on good real estate security, on time to suit the borrower. Office over Merchant's Bank. [1-tf]

Notice to Farmers.

C. Kretzschmar's Grist Mill, at Red Lake Falls, is again open for business. Flour will be exchanged for wheat, or your wheat will be ground on shares. A good feed mill is run in connection with the mill and satisfaction in all cases is guaranteed. Flour and feed on hand at all times and sold at lowest market rates.

[16-tf] C. KRETZSCHMAR.

Notice.

I desire to call the attention of the public to the fact that I have opened a Jewelry and Watchmaking business in the store formerly occupied by James McKenzie, Second Street, Crookston. I purpose to run a first-class jewelry store and shall adhere to the rule of promptness all the time. I would ask respectfully for a friendly patronage by the generous public.

C. H. SAAKE,

Fine watchmaker and jeweler, Crookston, Minn.

IF YOU
WANT A FINE JOB OF ANY KIND DONE IN THE Watch or Jewelry Line
GO TO
C. H. SAAKE, - SECOND STREET.
You will get in deed and in fact,
Not simply in name, but in truth.
FINE WATCH REPAIRING A SPECIALTY.
C. H. SAAKE,
Practical Watchmaker. Jeweler and Optician, Crookston.

A Puzzle.

TO FIND ALL OUR GOODS!

CHRISTMAS CARDS by the hundred, from 2c to $5 each.
ALBUMS by the bushel, from 25c to $15.
LADIES' Comb, Brush and Mirror Sets, in PLUSH, from $5 to $25.
GENTLEMEN'S Toilet and Shavins sets, in Morocce, from $5 to $10.
BRIC-A-BRAC at all prices
TOYS of all kinds for children at Low Prices.

☞ You need't run all over town. We have ALMOST EVERYTHING, and will be glad to see you at MEDICAL HALL.

Respectfully,

POTTER & GEORGE.

At Seely's

You can find some extra fine crab-apple cider; old bourbon whisky, eight years old. Maryland Club, pure rye; Jules and G. H. Mum's extra dry champagne; imported Scotch ales and porters for medicinal purposes; also a fine stock of imported cigars. Call and sample. [22-tf]

Money to Loan.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS to loan on improved farms from THREE to FIVE years time at very reasonable rates. Apply at my office on Broadway, in U. S. Land Office building.

[14tf] H. STEENERSON.

PIANO TUNING.

Any parties having pianos or organs that need tuning or repairing can have their work satisfactorily done by leaving orders at the Linton House. Satisfaction guaranteed.

[9-tf] E. F. WHEELDEN.

The United States Internal Revenue Special Tax is due May 1st. Any information and a full line of blanks can be had by calling on or addressing.

JOHN MCLEAN,
Attorney at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

Hogs! Hogs!! Hogs!!!

A Polk County granger wants to buy a few good shotes, from six months to a year old, sows preferd. The highest market price in cash will be paid. For further particulars call on or address JOURNAL office, Crookston, Minn.

[37-tf]

They are selling goods at Fontaine & Anglim's cheaper than they can be bought by the cargo in Boston:

Prints 4 and 5 cents.
Ginghams 8 and 10 cents.
Ladies' fine shoes $3.50; worth $6.00:
Men's suits $13.00; worth $18.00.
12 pounds granulated sugar $1.00.
14 pounds C sugar for $1.00.

Strayed.

From my premises at East Grand Forks, on Friday night Dec. 19th 1884, one team brown mares; one branded "T. S." on right hip. Ten dollars reward will be paid for information leading to their recovery.

GUST MELIN,
[36-38] East Grand Forks.

LOST!

$100 REWARD!

Lost in the Village of Euclid, on Wednesday, November 12th, 1884, a black leather pocket-book containing $910 in bills. A reward of one hundred dollars will be paid on the return of the pocket-book and money.

R. CASMEY.
Euclid, Minn. [89-tf]

Fine stationery a specialty at M. Van Dyke & Co's.

LIST OF LETTERS

Remaining uncalled for in the Crookston Post Office, for the week ending Jan. 12th, 1885. Persons calling for these letters will please say "advertised."

Billadeau, Jean
Brown, John
Freeman, Calnet
Gustafson, Nils
Hans Lewis
Hegland, Torbior T
Knudson, Caroline M
McLean, Peter G
Murrey, E C
Nilsson, Gulik
Nordland, August
Petterson, Mette
Peterson, Iscar
Samson, P B
Sixsmith, Alexander

D. JACOBUS, P. M.

AIME GABOURY,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Graduate Doctor in Medicine Laval University Canada. Licensed Coll. Phy. Surg., Quebec Late of Michigan University, U. S.
Office over Barber's store, Second St.
CROOKSTON MINN

Wentzel & Rauch, Sample Rooms.

MAIN STREET. - - CROOKSTON, MINN

For a fine mixed or straight drink call on the boys. The choicest liquors and cigars in stock. [9-tf]

MERCHANTS' Bank of Crookston.

H. B. MONTGOMERY.........President, St. Paul, Minn.
M. R. BROWN,...........Vice President, Crookston, Minn.
J. KELSO........Second Vice President, Bellevue, Iowa.
Wm. ROSS...........................Cashier, Crookston, Minn.

CASH CAPITAL, $32,000

SURPLUS, $16,533.82.

Will receive deposits and allow interest by special contract.

Buy and Sell Foreign and Domestic Exchange, make collections, and do a strictly legitimate business.

Agents for foreign passage tickets.

De Skandinaviske Sprog tales her.

WM. ROSS, Cashier.

NO SURPRISE!

THE GOVERNMENT ENDORSES

The American Agriculturist.

FROM THE TENTH CENSUS, VOL. 8, JUST PUBLISHED:

"The American Agriculturist is especially worthy of mention, because of the remarkable success that has attended the unique and untiring efforts of its proprietors to increase and extend its circulation. Its contents are duplicated every month for a German edition, which also circulates widely."

This tribute is a pleasing incident in the marvellous neatly

HALF A CENTURY

career of this recognized leading Agricultural Journal of the world.

What it is To-Day.

Six months ago the American Agriculturist entered upon a NEW CAREER OF PROSPERITY, and to-day it is far superior to any similar periodical ever produced in this or any other country. Richer in editorial strength; richer engravings; printed on finer paper, and presenting in every issue 100 columns of original reading matter from the ablest writers, and nearly 100 illustrations. Dr. George Thurber, for nearly a quarter of a century the editor-in-chief of the American Agriculturist, Joseph Harris, Byron D. Halsted, Col. M. C. Weld and Andrew S. Fulle, the other long time editors, together with the other writers who have made the American Agriculturist what it is to-day, ARE STILL AT THEIR POSTS.

WHAT, FREE?

Every subscriber, whose subscription is IMMEDIATELY forwarded us with the price, $1.50 per pear, and 15 cents extra for postage on Cyclopedia—making $1.65 in all—will receive the American Agriculturist for Dec, 1884, and all of 1885, and will be presented with the AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST FAMILY CYCLOPÆDIA. (Just out.) 700 Pages and over 1,000 Engravings. Strongly bound in cloth, black and gold.

This entirely new volume is a remarkable storehouse and book of reference for every department of human knowledge, including an Agricultural supplement by Dr. Thurber.

Send three 2-cent stamps for mailing you specimen copy American Agriculturist, an elegant 40-page Premium List, with 250 illustrations, and specimen pages of our Family Cyclopædia. Canvassers wanted everywhere.

Address PUBLISHERS AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST.
DAVID W. JUDD, Pres't. SAM'L BURNHAM, Sec.
751 Broadway, New York. [35-26]

WM. WATTS,

ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND DEALER IN
REAL ESTATE.
OFFICE OVER MERCHANTS' BANK.

$100,000

To Loan on improved claims in sums of $250 to $2,000. Cash paid for school bonds. Call on or address,

JOHN MCLEAN, Att'y at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

STEWART & LAWRENCE,

SUCCESSORS TO E. M. WALSH,

Hardware Merchants,

CARRY A FULL LINE OF
Iron, Steel, Nails, Tinware, Guns,
REVOLVER, AMMUNITION, BUILDING PAPER,
Sash, Doors, &c.

McKINNON BRO'S

CARRIAGE WORKS!

Robert Street,
Crookston, - Minn.

AGENTS FOR THE
J. I. CASE THRESHING MACHINES!

And Manufacturers of Carriages, Wagons,
BUGGIES,
Cutters, Sleds, &c.

Axles, Springs, and all Repairs kept in stock,

DEALERS IN
FARM MACHINERY.

In Farm Machinery we have the Champion Seeder, Fargo Diamond Tooth Harrow, Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow, Davenport and Grand Detour Sulky and Walking Plows, Buford Gang Plows. Field Rollers of all sizes. Warrior Mowers, the leading Hay Rake and first-class Harvesters and Binders, the Webber Wagon and McKinnon Bros. Wagon, In fact we have everything in machinery, from

A Wheelbarrow to a Threshing Machine!

EXTRAS
For all Machines constantly on hand

THE
J. I. CASE
THRESHING MACHINE COMPANY
The Dennet or Beloit
HARVESTING MACHINE COMPANY!
And the Van Brunt & Davis
SEEDER COMPANY,
Are Represented
BY
STEENERSON BROS.,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

HOW TO BE HEALTHY!

Drink LePage's
35c Tea and 35c pure Java Coffee
AND SMOKE MY NICKEL PILGRIM CIGAR.

HOW TO BE WEALTHY!

COME TO THE RED STAR GROCERY
And Save Money on everything you buy.

AND IF YOU ARE WISE

You will buy only Pure and Fresh Groceries. THE RED STAR GROCERY is the place to get them and there you will find Prices the Lowest. Farmers and others bring in your Butter and Eggs and get highest prices for them. Remember the RED STAR, one door south of Montreal House.

E. LEPAGE, Broadway, Crookston, Minn

FARM AND HOUSEHOLD.

Good Cooking Rules.

CHOCOLATE CARAMELS.—Two pounds of granulated sugar, a pint of sweet cream, a tablespoonful of vanilla extract, and four ounces of Baker's chocolate. Put into a bright tin dish, and cook slowly until it arrives at the brittle state, which can be known by dropping a little into cold water. Pour at once on to flat, greased tins or plates, and when almost cold cut into square tablets. Better for children than boughten candy.

COOL DISHES FOR HOT WEATHER: GELATINE.—Half a box of Cox's gelatine soaked two hours in milk; add a little soda, then heat, stirring often. Beat the yelks of three eggs with a small teacupful of sugar, and pour over (stirring well) the scalded milk and gelatine. Return to the kettle and let it boil again a minute. Strain and flavor; then pour into a wet mold and set on ice till wanted. Eat with cream and sugar, or fruit.

COLD CUSTARD. Heat a quart of milk; add sugar to taste to the beaten yelks of five eggs, mix with this the hot milk, and add the beaten whites of two. Set stone china cups in a baking-pan of hot water, and, after filling them, put into the oven till "set". Then pour over them a meringue of the three other whites, whipped up stiff, with a trifle of sugar and a little lemon juice. Flavor the custard before baking, if preferred. When done, set away to cool, and if placed in cold water with a little ice, it is a refreshing dessert.

BLANC MANGE. One quart of milk heated and sugared, one package of Cox's gelatine, after being soaked two hours in a cup of cold water. Cook and strain. Set away to cool on Saturday night. Turn out of the mold on Sunday, and if not loose, dip the mold for an instant in hot water, and it will turn out easily. Eat with cream and sugar, or fruit.

GREEN TOMATO SAUCE.—Slice about two gallons of green tomatoes and 10 large onions. Add to these, two quarts of vinegar, two pounds of sugar, three tablespoonsfuls of salt, two of black pepper, one each of allspice and cloves. Cook until tender, stirring constantly. Good with cold meat.

PICKELED PEACHES.—Prepare 10 pounds of peeled fruit. Strew 4½ pounds of sugar over them and let them stand one hour. Then drain off every particle of the sirup; add a cup of water, and boil until the scum ceases to rise. Put in the fruit and cook five minutes. Skim out the peaches; to the sirup add a quart of good vinegar and a small bag of whole spice. Boil 10 or 15 minutes longer, then pour over the fruit. Keep in glass.

HUCKLEBERRY CAKE.—Two cups of sugar, a scant cup of butter, five eggs beaten separately, a cup of sweet milk, three cups of flour, a teaspoonful of soda dissolved in warm water; cinnamon or nutmeg to taste, and a quart of ripe huckleberries which have been dredged with flour. Beat the sugar and butter to a cream, add the yelks, then the milk, flour, whites, spice, soda, and last, the fruit. Bake slowly until a broom splint comes out clean from the thickest part.

Home Decorations.

Cloths for the tea-table are edged with lace.

Glass is becoming fashionable as a protection to oil paintings, and pink macreme is the latest fancy for mantle and shelf ornamentation.

The palm-leaf fan, covered with satin or cretonne and finished with pompons around the edge and a bow at the base of the handle, makes quite a pretty screen.

Tea cups are now made to represent rose petals, and the accompanying saucers imitate the leaves. The other pieces of the service are carried out in the same style.

Corner cupboards are attractive and useful; the tops should have glass doors so that the china may be arranged to show to good advantage, while the solid doors of the closets below form a convenient place to deposit the dishes that are useful only.

A packing box, with lid upon which hinges have been put, covered with cretonne, the top upholstered, is a useful addition to the sewing room, as many odds and ends of work can be laid inside; it should be about three feet long and eighteen inches high, and furnishes a pretty window seat.

The floral wishbone had the audacity to take the position so long occupied by the campanula during the marriage ceremony, to be thrust out by the monograms and models of future blissful cottages in fragrant blossoms.

A present caprice is to use doors and fronts of one of the old sedan-chairs of the last century for screens and as the supply of the ancient articles is inadequate to the demand, furniture dealers have, consequently, undertaken to imitate them as nearly as possible, and have produced screens of a similar shape as well, low enough to suit the present fashion, with glass panes let into the upper half, and have covered them with old damask and brocaded silks.

Watering the Garden

In watering the garden a thorough good soaking occasionally is said to be much better than the light sprinkling every evening, which is the popular way. This last has the tendency to make the roots seek the surface of the ground for the moisture thus supplied. The New York evening post has a florist writer who recommends this plan: When watering is contemplated draw the tubs of water in the morning and let them stand in the sun through the day; at night draw the soil away from the base of each plant in order to form a basin in which to pour the water. Pour this full and let it filter through the soil, again and again filling until the earth is entirely soaked, then draw the soil back to the roots, which will prevent it baking in the sun. In the dryest time of summer a watering of this kind should last for several weeks. When entire beds are to be watered the soil should be opened by a digging fork being thrust into it, when it may be watered with a sprinkler, which should be several times passed over it. The following day, with a hoe or rake, make mellow the surface of the bed. It is not well to give water so long as it can be avoided, for plants left to fight the drought send their roots deep into the soil to seek moisture, and when it does rain they are more benefited than those that have had constant watering. The easiest plan to economize both water and time is to take the garden piece by piece, watering one piece thoroughly every evening, and then beginning again at the first. Surface sprinklings cause roots to seek the surface in search of moisture, which, when found, is not enough to nourish them, but causes exhaustion by inducing the growth of fibres near the scorching sun. Plants in pots that have been plunged in the ground, and those in tubs and vases must be given daily water.

Digging Wells.

The Massachusetts Ploughman gives a hint about constructing a well so as to have the water free from impurities: After digging as low as desired, a cement pipe, some two feet in diameter and two or three feet long, is sunk at the bottom and worked down as low as possible by digging out the inside. The pipe should be covered over with a flat stone, through the middle of which a two-inch hole has been drilled; directly over this hole stand in drain pipe, then begin to fill up the hole, and add drain pipe as the filling proceeds till it comes near the surface, when a pump can be attached. A well of this kind is reliable and permanent, requiring no repairs; the water is cool and free from impurities that open wells are subject to; no insects or animals can find their way into it, and the cost is not more than one-half that of a well that is stoned. If dug, as it should be, when the springs are low a constant supply of water that is as pure as the underground spring is secured. As the well is always full, there is no chance for bad air to injure the water, and, in fact, but little danger of being polluted by surrounding cesspools, compared to that of open wells.

Fertilizer for Cabbage.

"I find," says a writer in the New England Homestead, "that cabbage needs more hoeing and stirring of the soil than almost any other crop. Neither do I approve of too much stable manure, except for an early crop, for it has a tendency to dry the soil and does not furnish potash enough. I had much rather have tobacco stems or stalks, cut up fine and plowed under broadcast, with some chemicals in the drill, for a medium or late crop. As to chemicals, whether to be used alone or in combination with other manures, I recommend this formula as being best and cheapest, which every farmer must make for himself: Two hundred pounds of dry ground fish, 200 pounds of bone meal dissolved in sulphuric acid, 200 pounds of castor pomace and 100 pounds of muriatic potash, or more if the potash salts (kainit) are used. The fish and castor pomace furnish ammonia in quick and slow forms; the bone, phosphoric acid; while the potash is very necessary to a cabbage crop. A ton of this mixture costs about $40, and is sufficient for an acre with light manuring, or half the quanity if manure is used liberally. This is the best cabbage grower I have found. With it and tobacco stalks, as described, I raised cabbages that weiged over twenty pounds. One dozen, as they were taken to market, weighed over 200 pounds."

Distemper in Horses.

Several remedies for this very troublesome disease have been handed us. One says he has used red pepper and vinegar with good results. He steeps a common sized pepper in a pint of strong cider vinegar, and applies it to the diseased part hot. Another writes that his cure is simply a lump of gum camphor about the size of a hazelnut, given to the horse in bran—or anything in which he will eat it—on the first indication of the disease. If one does not effect a cure in two days, repeat the dose. He says he will warrant a cure. The camphor opens the pores, relieves almost as soon as if by magic. A very common remedy is to take of spirits of nitric ether one ounce, laudanum four drams, nitrate of potash three drams and water one pint. Mix and give night and morning as a drench.—Tribune and Farmer.

Chops and Tomato Sauce.

This Pickwickian dish is not often daintily served in the avarage household, and yet it is exceedingly easy to prepare. For the sauce take some fresh, ripe tomatoes, cut them into quarters, and stew for an hour and a half in a porcelain-lined saucepan. Do not put in any water. At the end of that time pass through a cullender, and strain out the skins and pips. Put the liquid back into the saucepan over the fire, add a large lump of fresh butter—don't be afraid of getting in too much—and when it boils up add pepper and salt to taste, a teacupful of cream with enough flour in it to make the sauce of the proper consistency—like rather thick custard. Broil your lamb chops—which should have all the lower part trimmed off, leaving the neat handle of bone—and serve quickly on a hot platter, with a little chopped parsley laid over each brown chop, and with the sauce poured around them. A bit of onion can be stewed with the tomato for those who like that flavoring.—N. Y. Tribune.

Charcoal and Lime

should be allowed fowls always. Let them have all they will swallow. Even if the fowls are not confined, but especially so if they are, charcoal pounded up into bits or pieces about the size of a grain of corn, or a little finer, should be put around in small piles where the fowls can have easy access to it, and they will soon make use of it. The cost of charcoal is but a trifle, and where the distance from town or city is so great as to prevent it from being readily obtained therefrom, the ashes from a wood stove may be sieved out, and the small bits of charred wood or charcoal used in the place of that made in the regular way. Especially during the Spring and Summer months is it advisable to use charcoal freely. Lime, too, is valuable in many ways. In the form of whitewash it begets cleanliness, freedom from disease; and laying hens should have lime, where they can make use of it in assisting in the production of eggs.—American Poultry Yard.

When to Cut Wheat.

Bad straw, must and mildew and the loss of much grain by shelling out—some or all of these will be the penalty for allowing the grain to stand until it is dead ripe. As to the quality of the kernel, the Germantown Telegraph remarks: "It should be remembered that wheat is composed of gluten, starch and bran. Gluten is the nourishing quality of the grain, which makes the flour stick together in the hands of the baker, and gives weight to the grain; and there is the greatest quantity of gluten in the grain when the straw is yellow two or three joints from the ground, the head turns downward, and, when you can mash the grain between the thumb and finger without producing any milk. It may, therefore, be set down as an indisputable truth that every day the wheat stands after this stage of ripeness the gluten decreases in quantity and the bran increases in thickness, and thus diminishes in value, in addition to the danger from must and other risks."

Agricultural Items.

If it rains, be thankful; it will make the crops grow. If it is dry or hot, be thankful; it is splendid harvest weather. Be thankful and happy any way: it is much pleasanter for everybody.

Mr. T. E. Williams writes from Wisconsin that he planted "Pride of the North" corn May 26, last year, and "it was so ripe as to be uninjured by the heavy frost that fell September 9."

One of Jefferson's rules of life: We never repent of having eaten too little."

The editor of The Mirror and Farmer has "never yet heard" of a potato digger that gave satisfaction.

D. D. Royce, Williamstown, Vt., advises farmers to keep an account of all their business transactions. He mentions an instance where a pair of oxen was claimed and taken after the man died, for the reason that his book did not show that they had been paid for. "Buy a book that will cost 30 cents and devote from three to five minutes each night in putting down your transactions, who with, what money you take in and pay out and what for."

Now what would you think of a man, asked Mr. Beecher, who had a laboratory 100 feet square, and who fenced off 20 feet in one corner for use, and let all the rest go?—let it go without yielding a cent? That is what he thinks of a farmer who has three times as much land as he can use and improve. What would you think of a gigantic factory that has no capital to run it? Farmers own more land than they can do justice to. It is dead capital. They work a little part of it, and all the rest is dead waste. Farmers should calculate as manufacturers do; find out how much they can profitably use, and own no more; settle that and then go ahead.

Twins Astonish Judge and Jury.

From the Augusta (Me.) Journal.

At a trial in Augusta the other day, before Judge Whitehouse, the case being a family quarrel between disgruntled heirs, among the witnesses for the defense were twins. They were not ordinary twins. They had hair of the brightest auburn, eyebrows the color of flax, pink and white complexions, and dresses exactly alike, even to the least important bow. Their names were exactly alike, with the single exception that an "a" appeared in one of their names instead of an "o." When the first appeared on the stand the jury, Judge, and lawyers regarded her attentively; she gave her testimony in a modest manner and stepped down. Another name was called; it was that of her twin sister. As her counterfeit presentment quietly took the stand there was a hush in the court room. Judge, jury, lawyers and spectators sat transfixed, and gazed first at the witness in the box and then at the place where her sister had taken her seat. They could hardly beleive their eyes; it seemed as if the last witness had returned to the box without being recalled. The lawyer conducting the cross examination put the usual questions; the name and residence were, to all appearances the same in the case of her double just on the stand, and the voice precisely the same in tone and inflection. The jury looked at each other and seemed ready to match coppers as to whether they were awake or not. Then the lawyer asked the witness if she had been on the stand before during the trial, and received a quiet answer in the negative. This satisfied the court, although if her twin sister had not sat in plain view at the other end of the court room it is by no means certain that she would not have been indicted for perjury.

The Victim of Richardson.

A western friend of mine now in the city, told me a singular thing a few days ago. Said he:

"You know Daniel McFarland, the hero of the sad Richardson tragedy? I met him at Leadville some three years ago, a poor waif and rapidly drifting to the condition of a physical wreck. He was so poor that I have known him to be forced to sleep on the floor of one of the lowest class of Leadville lodging houses. I talked with him a number of times. He had wandered all over the Western states restless and aimless. He was given to frequent spells of drinking. On one occasion while in Kansas City I think he told me he had occupied a seat in one of the public halls while his own wife, Abby Sage, was delivering a lecture. Of course, she saw him, but no sign of recognition passed between the two."

"Where is McFarland now?" I asked.

"In the cemetery at Leadville," he replied, sadly. "Remorse, disease and utter weariness of life wore him out. He gave up the fight after a while, and he is now at rest."

"Tis a sad conclusion to a brilliant life," said I. "McFarland was once one of the brightest lawyers at the New York bar. But such is life."

An Elaborate Clock.

From the New Haven Journal and Courier.

At the office of the New Haven Clock company in this city is a splendid clock just finished, which is to go to the New Orleans exposition. It was constructed specially with reference to exhibiting at the exposition, and is probably the finest clock ever made in New England. It cost $1,000. It stands nine and a half feet high. The case is built of the finest mahogany with elegant decorative carvings showing skillful handiwork, while the dial is of silver and gold finish. A door of beveled plate glass with a light mahogany frame opens to the dial, and a large similar decorative door opens below the weights. Beautifully finished Corinthian pillars flank the main body of the case, surmounted by elegantly carved architraves. The clock rests upon gilded ornamental pedals. The long pendulem beats seconds and the clock chimes the quarter hours either on a set of eight bells or on another known as the Westminister chimes, both sets being very musical and the effect most pleasing. For the first quarter four bells are struck, for the second eight, for the third twelve, the fourth sixteen, and the hour is announced upon a deep-sounding cathedral gong, musical yet solemn, as if the flight of time were a grave matter and no unconsidered trifle. The clock runs eight days and has attachments which shift the striking works to suit the varieties of bells.

Case of Infatuation.

A very peculiar case of infatuation came to light recently says a Newport, R. I., dispatch to The Boston Herald. A few years ago a lad came to Newport and fell in love with a young lady, whom he married. The young wife died soon afterward, and the husband, who is now scarcely out of his teens, is engaged to an estimable young lady. Since the death of his wife, his wife's aunt has been desperately in love with him, and has dogged him everywhere, in fact making life a burden to him. This afternoon he called upon the sister of his fianceo, and as he was leaving, he was accosted by the aunt, who had been watching him. She upraided him, and finally threw a brick which she had concealed under her shawl, at him. Fortunately the brick went wide of the mark. A policeman saw the incident, and induced the furiated woman to cease her annoyances. She went home, and did not seem to mind the commotion she had occasioned upon a public street. The woman belongs to a good family.

An Ugly Customer on a Fish Hook

Monday last an octopus was caught in Commencement Bay in about 300 feet of water by fish-hooks. When brought to the surface it was almost unmanageable, and it was only by a severe struggle that it was hauled into a boat and brought ashore. Once it seized upon the bottom of the boat and no effort could loosen it, until it did so of its own accord after the vessel was set in motion. One of its feelers came in contact with one of the boy's arms and it was only induced to let go by beating the feeler into jelly with a club. It is plenty large enough to master a man and would be a dangerous customer to meet in the water. It was a monster specimen, having arms or feelers fully four feet long. The arms are eight in number, and are each supplied with 120 pairs of suckers, by which they seize and hold their prey. Its body is purse-shaped without fins, and is a foot long and nearly the same in width.—Portland Oregonian.

Four Lucky Men.

Four of the employees at A. Goebel & Co.'s brewery have had a stroke of luck; owning between them one-tenth of a ticket which is said to have drawn the $50,000 prize in the Louisiana state lottery; Albert Mass, 305 Gratiot avenue, Lorenz Traub, 199 Russell street, Wm. Brömmer, 73 Mapel street, and Benjamin Noes are the lucky men. The official list is not yet published. Mass having heard the news through a dispatch from a friend. They expect to have it confirmed to-morrow. None of them have made a habit of buying tickets, but they have all invested two or three times before. This time they chipped in one dollar apiece and bought four one-tenth tickets, three of which have proved blank. They propose to put their money into a house and lot.

Charles E. Stange, stationer, Randolph street near Fort, who drew a share in the capital $75,000 prize in the same lottery in 1882, said recently that both he and his partners in the venture, Philip W. Witzleben, clerk with R. G. Dun & Co., then invested for the first time. The lucky ticket was number 85,003, of which they owned one fifth. They could not get their winnings through the banks, as the latter refused to handle lottery money, but the express company took their ticket down and brought the money back, $15,000 in hard cash, for $70. He was then clerk at Richmond, Backus & Co.'s, and went into his present business, while Witzleben invested in real estate. He still buys tickets occasionally, and won $10 last year. They were the first Detroiters who ever won a prize in that lottery.—Detroit (Mich.) Evening News, Dec. 19.

An Old Minnesota Land Suit.

Reports from Washington say the supreme court has handed down a decision in the case of the St. Paul & Sioux City vs. The Winona & St. Peter. This suit was first brought in the Minnesota courts in 1872, and involved the title to 72,000 acres of land in Cottonwood and Murray counties. The two grants overlap each other, and the suit was brought to establish title to the lands lying within the conflicting limits. The St. Paul & Sioux City, the first company to receive its grant maintained it was entitled to the full 72,000 acres. The decision of the supreme court is in favor of the Winona & St. Peter. The present land in controversy is only a portion of that coming within the conflicting limits of the two grants. The remainder was divided some years ago, each company agreeing to take an undivided one-half. These 72,000 acres have never been included in the accounts of the St. Paul & Sioux City company.

Found No Poison.

Dr. Samuel K. Cox, D. D., Practical Analytical chemist, Washington, D. C., who made thorough and careful analyses, reports that there is neither morphia, opium, emetics nor poisons in the Red Star Cough Cure; that it must prove a boon to those whose systems shrink from the use of such compounds, and especially to mothers, who justly dread the evil, and, at times, fatal effects of these dangerous drugs. He further states it is not only free from all opiates, poisons and emetics, (a thing which not one cough preparation in ten can boast) but it is altogether an original and most happy combination of the best remedial agents, and is as harmless as it is effective.

Spring Institute in Minnesota.

The superintendent of public instruction has fixed the dates for holding the spring institutes in various counties of the state. These dates were made in accordance with the wishes of the county school authorities, as far as their wishes have been made known and with a view of economy in traveling. If county authorities in any case find it impossible to have the meeting held on the dates named, however, they are requested to notify the state educational department. The assignments are as follows: March 9, Carver; 16th, Benton, Isanti and Le Sueur; 23d, Wabasha, Morrison, Nicollet; 30th, Crow Wing, Olmsted, Lyon; April 6, Wadena, Winona, Lincoln; 13th, Stearns, Fillmore, Cottonwood; 20th, Mower, Douglas, Rock; 27th, Jackson, Pope, Dodge; May 4, Martin, Stevens, Steele; 11th, Faribault, Big Stone, Sibley; 18th, Freeborn, Renville, Hennepin; 25th, Waseca, McLeod, Kandiyohi.

Northwestern Harbor Appropriations.

The river and harbor committee has completed its schedule of appropriations beyond all northwestern items, and there is no prospect of any important changes. The northwestern appropriations are as follows:

Fox and Wisconsin, St. Croix; survey of Mississippi reservoirs, Mississippi above St. Anthony, Falls of St. Anthony, mouth of the Columbia, Grand Marais, Mich., nothing; Chippewa river, $7,000; snagboat for upper Mississippi, $15,000; Red river, $10,000; Yellowstone river, $12,500; canal at the cascades of the Columbia, $125,000; upper Columbia, $9,000; Williamette and Columbia rivers, $40,000; upper Williamette, $5,000; Ahnapee, Wis., harbor, $9,000; Green Bay, Wis., $7,500; Kenosha, Wis., $5,000; Kewanee, Wis., $12,500; Manitowoc, Wis., $15,000; Menomonee, Wis., $3,000; Milwaukee, Wis., $75,000; Oconto, Wis., $10,000; Racine, $8,000; Superior bay, Wis., $12,500; Sheboygan, Wis., $20,000; Sturgeon bay, Wis., $5,000; Two Rivers, Wis., $7,500; Two Harbors, Minn., nothing; Duluth, Minn., $31,500; Grand Marais, Minn., $5,000.

Mr. Nimmo, chief of the bureau of satistics, has handed his annual report on internal commerce to the secretary of treasury. The average rate of freight charged on railways in the United States during 1883 was less than half the average rate charged in 1868. In the meantime there was an enormous increase in the volume of traffic. A considerable part of the report is devoted to the subject of pooling, which Nimmo regards as an expedient to which the railroad companies had recourse, not willingly, but of necessity, in order to protect themselves against the ruinous effects of rate wars, and also to protect themselves against the popular indignation caused by the evils of secret rates to individual shippers.

Arnold Mortier, the "Monsieur de l'Orchestre" of the Paris Figaro, has just died. He began his "Soirees Parisiennes" in the Figaro soon after the Franco-Prussian war, and continued them almost to the day of his death.

RED STAR

TRADE MARK.

COUGH CURE

Absolutely Free from Opiates, Emetics and Poisons.

A PROMPT, SAFE, SURE CURE

For Coughs, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, Influenza, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Quinsy, Pains in Chest, and other affections of the Throat and Lungs.

Price 50 cents a bottle. Sold by Druggists and Dealers. Parties unable to induce their dealer to promptly get it for them will receive two bottles, Express charges paid, by sending one dollar to

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER COMPANY,
Sole Owners and Manufacturers,
Baltimore, Maryland, U. S. A.

A Good Family Remedy

STRICTLY PURE.

Harmless to the Most Delicate

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM

THE REMEDY FOR CURING

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS.

NEW EVIDENCE.

Read the following:

ADDISON, PA., April 7, 1883.

I took a violent cold and it settled on my lungs, so much so, that at times I spit blood. ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM was recommended to me as a good remedy. I took it, and am now sound and well. Yours respectfully, A. J. HILEMAN.

ADDISON, PA., April, 1883.

A. J. COLBOM, Esq., Editor of the Somerset Herald, writes: I can recommend ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM as being the best remedy for Colds and Coughs I ever used.

ASTORIA, ILLS., April, 6, 1883.

Gentlemen:—I can cheerfully say your ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM, which I have sold for the past fifteen years, sells better than any cough remedy, and gives general satisfaction. 'Tis frequently recommended by the medical profession here. Yours Truly, H. C. MOONEY, Druggist.

LA FAYETTE, R. I., October, 12, 1884.

Gentlemen:—Allow me to say that after using three bottles of ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM for a bad attack of Bronchitis, I am entirely cured. I send this voluntarily, that those afflicted may be benefited. Yours respectfully, BURRILL H. DAVIS.

J. N. HARRIS & CO., Limited, Proprietors,
CINCINNATI, OHIO.

DON'T FORGET

There is no infirmity so oppressive and burdensome to the human mind as that tired feeling of which so many complain on the approach of serious disorders. The depression and despondency of spirit attending this state are immensurable. That constant drain that is taking from your system all its former elasticity, driving the bloom from your cheeks; that continued strain upon your vital forces, rendering you irritable and fretful. DON'T FORGET all of these ailments can be easily removed and permanently cured, by the use of

HOPS AND MALT BITTERS

Recommended by physicians, ministers and nurses.

I prescribe Hops and MALT Bitters regularly in my practice.—ROBERT TURNER, M. D., Flat Rock, Mich.

If you cannot get Hops and MALT Bitters of your druggist we will send it, express paid, on receipt of regular price, $1 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist; but if he has not got it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed. Do not get Hops and MALT Bitters confounded with other inferior preparations of similar name. Take nothing but Hops and MALT Bitters.

HOPS & MALT BITTERS CO., Detroit, Mich.

NOYES BROS. & CUTLER, St. Paul.
MERELL & RYAN, St. Paul.
LYMAN ELIEL DRUG CO., Minneapolis.
Wholesale Agents.

TUTT'S PILLS

25 YEARS IN USE.

The Greatest Medical Triumph of the Age!

SYMPTOMS OF A TORPID LIVER.

Loss of appetite, Bowels costive, Pain in the head, with a dull sensation in the back part, Pain under the shoulder-blade, Fullness after eating, with a disinclination to exertion of body or mind, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, with a feeling of having neglected some duty, Weariness, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, Headache over the right eye, Restlessness, with fitful dreams, Highly colored Urine, and

CONSTIPATION.

TUTT'S PILLS are especially adapted to such cases, one dose effects such a change of feeling as to astonish the sufferer. They Increase the Appetite, and cause the body to Take on Flesh, thus the system is nourished, and by their Tonic Action on the Digestive Organs, Regular Stools are produced. Price 25c. 44 Murray St., N.Y.

TUTT'S HAIR DYE.

GRAY HAIR or WHISKERS changed to a GLOSSY BLACK by a single application of this DYE. It imparts a natural color, acts instantaneously. Sold by Druggists, or sent by express on receipt of $1.

Office, 44 Murray St., New York.

It Astonished the Public to hear of the resignation of Dr. Pierce as a Congressman to devote himself solely to his labors as a physician. It was because his true constituents were the sick and afflicted everywhere. They will find Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" a beneficent use of his scientific knowledge in their behalf. Consumption, bronchitis, cough, heart disease, fever and ague, intermittent fever, dropsy, neuralgia, goitre or thick neck, and all diseases of the blood, are cured by this world-renowned medicine. Its properties are wonderful, its action magical. By druggists.

The snow blockade on the Oregon Railway and Navigation has been raised after a struggle of more than three weeks.

"Say, why is everything
Either at sixes or at sevens?"

Probably, my dear nervous sister, because you are suffering from some of the diseases peculiar to your sex. You have a "dragging down" feeling, the back-ache, you are debilitated, you have pains of various kinds. Take Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" and be cured. Price reduced to one dollar. By druggists.

Gen. Grant has drank nothing but ale of late years, and that only when oppressed by growing feebleness.

The Worst Urethral Strictures

speedily cured by our new radical methods. Pamphlet, references and terms, two letter stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. Clarissa C. Peck, widow of Philander Peck, of Chicago, left $395,000 to her relatives, and the remainder of her estate, estimated at from $400,000 to $500,000, for the foundation of a home for incurables in that city. There are in all twenty-nine individual bequests.

Germany is sending to Prince Bismarck addresses of confidence and devotion in view of the adverse vote of the reichstag.

I Have Tried It.

DEAR DOCTOR:—I have tried your medicine, and believe that any one who is troubled with Cough, Hoarseness or Lameness about the chest or lungs cannot well afford to be without the White Wine of Tar Syrup.

Your thankful friend,
REV. G. W. PATTISON,
Pastor St. Charles M. E. Church
St. Charles, Iowa.

A fire at Thomasville, Ga., caused a loss of $27,000; mostly insured.

Well Dressed People don't wear dingy or faded things when the 10c. and guaranteed Diamond Dye will make them good as new. They are perfect. Get at druggists and be economical. Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt.

Plain as the Nose on Your Face.

What is the difference between a persons nose and Carboline the Great Petroleum Hair Renewer. Ans:—one is the center of the head and the other is a head-scenter.

The Best for Butter.

There is but one best color for butter, and that is Wells Richardson & Co.'s Improved Butter Color, no candid investigator doubts. It is the best butter color in the world; is free from sediment or impurity, always ready for instant use and it imparts to butter that rich dandelion yellow, without a tinge of red, which is the acme of desirability in any butter color.

Passenger rates from Chicago to New York went down to $12.

Faithfulness is necessary in all kinds of work. Especially is it necessary, in treating a cold, to procure the best remedy, which is Allen's Lung Balsam, and take it faithfully, according to directions, and it will cure a cold every time and prevent fatal results. Sold by all druggists.

Young Men!—Read This.

THE VOLTAIC BELT Co., of Marshall, Mich., offer to send their celebrated ELECTRO-VOLTAIC BELT and other ELECTRIC APPLIANCES on trial for thirty days, to men (young or old) afflicted with nervous debility, loss of vitality and all kindred troubles. Also for rheumatism, neuralgia, paralysis, and many other diseases. Complete restoration to health, vigor and manhood guaranteed. No risk is incurred as thirty days trial is allowed. Write them at once for illustrated pamphlet free.

Gen. Lewal, French minister of war, has ordered several regiments from Algiers to fill gaps in the reinforcements sent to Tonquin.

When Doctors Disagree

it will be time enough to doubt the reliability of Kidney-Wort. Doctors all agree that it is the most valuable medicine in all disorders of the Liver, Kidneys and Bowels, and frequently prescribe it. Dr. P. C. Ballou of Monkton says: "The past year I have used it more than ever, and with the best results. It is the most successful remedy I have ever used." Such a recomendation speaks for itself. Sold by all druggists. See advt.

A sick Democratic state senator in Illinois improves the chances for a Republican United States senator.

A slight cold, if neglected, often attacks the lungs. BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES give sure and immediate relief. Sold only in boxes. Price 25 cents.

Mensman's Peptonized Beef Tonic, the only preparation of beef containing its ENTIRE NUTRITIOUS PROPERTIES. It contains blood-making, force-generating and life-sustaining properties; invaluable for Indigestion, Dyspepsia, nervous prostration, and all forms of general debility; also, in all enfeebled conditions, whether the result of exhaustion, nervous prostration, overwork, or acute disease, particularly if resulting from pulmonary complaints. CASWELL, HAZARD & Co., Proprietors, New York. Sold by Druggists.

A Perfect Remedy for all abrasions of the skin and all diseases of the feet of Horses and cattle. Invaluable to stockmen. Cole's Veterinary Carbolisalve. In 50c. and $1.00 cans. At Druggists or by mail. J. W. Cole & Co., Props, Black River Falls, Wisconsin.

PRIVATE Diseases and Excesses of Youth and Manhood. Cured quick, safe, and permanently. Call or write and get advice, circulars, etc. Consult Dr. N. E. Wood, Sioux City, Ia.

50 Satin Finished Embossed Cards 10c., Rolled Gold Ring, Centennial Pocket Knife, 3 French Dolls with Wardrobe, and agt's Card Outfit, 20c., 5 pks. and your choice of either, 50c., or 10 pks. and all 3 premiums $1.00. HAMDEN CARD CO., Hamden, Conn.

FIRE

THE BIG BOSTON, Minneapolis, Minn., was destroyed by fire CHRISTMAS.

Many goods were saved in a wet condition and are being sold at their new location; Morrison's Block, corner Washington and Second avenue South.

PENICK'S VEG. LIVER PILLS!

For cure of Billousness, Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, and all diseases arising from a disordered condition of the liver, stomach and bowels. These Pills contain no calomel or other mineral, and are mild and agreeable in their action. They are an excellent family medicine. 25 cts. a box or five for $1. For sale by druggists, or sent by mail by WM. R. PENICK, St. Joseph, Mo.

PREPARED FERTILIZING SALT.

Send for "Salt Sayings." Write for Prices. Car lots, on Car at Your Railway Station.

E. S. FITCH, Bay City, Mich.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND IS A POSITIVE CURE FOR All those painful Complaints and Weaknesses so common to our best FEMALE POPULATION.

Price $1 in liquid, pill or lozenge form.

Its purpose is solely for the legitimate healing of disease and the relief of pain, and that it does all it claims to do, thousands of ladies can gladly testify.

It will cure entirely all Ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, and consequent Spinal Weakness, and is particularly adapted to the change of life.

It removes Faintness, Flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves Weakness of the Stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, and backache, is always permanently cured by its use.

Send stamp to Lynn, Mass., for pamphlet. Letters of inquiry confidentially answered. For sale at druggists.

BUY NORTHERN CROWN SEEDS. Buy Flowers, Vegetables and Crops, than our reliable Northern Crown Seeds. Don't buy worthless seeds when for same money ours are delivered FREE BY MAIL at your door. Catalogue free. JOHN A. SALZER, La Crosse, Wis. No Seeds produce.

PURIFY THE BLOOD

BAD BLOOD, SCROFULOUS, inherited and Contagious Humors, with Loss of Hair, Glandular Swellings, Ulcerous Patches in the Throat and Mouth, Abscesses, Tumors, Carbuncles, Blotches, Sores, Scurvy, Wasting of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, Dropsy, Enaemia, Debility, Chronic Rheumatism, Constipation and Piles, and most diseases arising from an Impure or Impoverished Condition of the Blood, are speedily cured by the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally assisted by CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier externally. (CUTICURA RESOLVENT is the only blood purifier that forever eradicates the virus of inherited and Contagious Blood Poisons.

Sold everywhere. Price: CUTICURA, 50c; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1.00. Prepared by POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO.; BOSTON, MASS.

Send for "How to Cure Blood Humors."

ROCKFORD WATCHES

Are unequaled in EXACTING SERVICE. Used by the Chief Mechanician of the U. S. Coast Survey; by the Admiral commanding in the U. S. Naval Observatory, for Astronomical work; and by Locomotive Engineers, Conductors and Railwaymen. They are recognized as THE BEST for all uses in which close time and durability are requisites. Sold in principal cities and towns by the COMPANY'S exclusive Agents (leading jewelers,) who give a Full Warranty.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the article for you, it stimulates the failing energies, invigorates the body and cheers the mind. It enables the system to throw off the debilitating effects of undue fatigue, gives renewed vigor to the organs of digestion, arouses the liver when inactive, renews the jaded appetite, and encourages healthful repose. Its ingredients are safe, and its credentials, which consist in the hearty endorsement of persons of every class of society, are most convincing. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

CATARRH ELY'S CREAM BALM

ELY'S CREAM BALM CURES COLD IN HEAD CATARRH ROSE-COLD HAY-FEVER DEAFNESS HEADACHE PRICE 50 CTS. ELY BROS. OWEGO N.Y. U.S.A.

when applied into the nostrils, will be absorbed, effectually cleansing the head of catarrhal virus, causing healthy secretions. It allays inflammation, protects the membrane from fresh colds, completely heals the sores and restores the senses of taste and smell. Not a Liquid or Snuff. A few applications relieve. A thorough treatment will cure. Agreeable to use. Send for circular. 50 cents at druggists. 60 cents by mail registered.

HAY-FEVER

ELY BROS., Druggists, Owego, N. Y.

BUY SALZER'S (La Crosse, Wis.) SEEDS.

RHEUMATISM!!—Sure cure free for stamp. MEXICAN RHEUMATIC CURE. 24 Bleecker st., N.Y.

CARDS Sample Book, Premium List, Price List sent free. U. S. CARD CO., Centerbrook, Conn.

CANCER A SUCCESSFUL TREATMENT. No knife! No Plaster! No pain! W. C. Payne, M. D., Marshalltown, Iowa.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till Cured. DR. J. STEPHENS, Lebanon, Ohio.

RAW FURS WANTED. Ship by express in sacks to London, Leipzig & Paris. Agency, A. Moore, Mgr., 223 Jackson st., St. Paul, Minn.

BUY NORTHERN CROWN SEEDS. Catalog free. J. A. SALZER, Seed Grower, La Crosse, Wis.

FARMERS I will mail you my large illustrated catalogue free upon receipt of your address. I sell best swell-side cutters $23.00. Harvester binding twine 15 cts. best sewing machine $17.00. Groceries, stoves, furniture, etc., to consumers at wholesale rates. L. G. KNIFFEN, 214 West Water st., Milwaukee, Wis.

40 Hidden Name, Embossed and New Chromo Cards, name in new type, an Elegant 48 page Gilt bound Floral Autograph Album with quotations, 12 page Illustrated Premium and Price List and Agent's Canvassing Outfit, all for 15 cts. SNOW & CO., Yalesville, Conn.

WANTED Ladies and Gentlemen in City or County to take light work at their own homes. $3 to $4 a day easily made. Work sent by mail. No canvassing. We have good demand for our work, and furnish steady employment. Address with stamp CROWN M'F'G. CO., 294 Vine St., Cin'ti, O.

R. U. AWARE THAT Lorillard's Climax Plug bearing a red tin tag; that Lorillard's Rose Leaf fine cut; that Lorillard's Navy Clippings, and that Lorillard's Snuffs, are the best and cheapest, quality considered?

CONSUMPTION.

I have a positive remedy for the above disease; by its use thousands of cases of the worst kind and of long standing have been cured. Indeed, so strong is my faith in its efficacy, that I will send TWO BOTTLES FREE, together with a VALUABLE TREATISE on this disease, to any sufferer. Give express and P. O. address. DR. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl St., New York.

DR. LINQUIST'S
Spinal Misses' Waist, $1 75
Spinal Corset, 3 00
Spinal Nursing Corset, 3 25
Spinal Abdominal Corset, 2 75
Recommended by leading physicians, delivered free anywhere in the U. S. on receipt of price. Lady Agents Wanted.
Dr. Linquist's Spinal Corset Co., 412 B'way, New York.

SORE EYES SURELY And speedily cured by HARDY'S EYE BALM. Also old sores, sore nipples, etc. In use 30 years. Only 25c. a box; 5 boxes, $1. Send for Certificates and Receipt Book. W. R. PENICK, St. Joseph, Mo. Druggists sell it.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S STEEL PENS

SOLD BY ALL DEALERS THROUGHOUT THE WORLD
GOLD MEDAL PARIS EXPOSITION—1878.

RUSSIAN FLAX SEED.

We have FOR SALE GENUINE RUSSIAN SEED FLAX. Experience has proven that Russian seed yields fully FIFTY PER CENT better than any other variety ever sown in this country. Sow only the genuine Russian. We guarantee ours. Write for prices. MANKATO LINSEED OIL CO., MANKATO, MINN.

RUPTURE positively cured in 60 days by Dr. Horne's Electro-Magnetic Belt-Truss, combined. Guaranteed the only one in the world generating a continuous Electric & Magnetic current. Scientific, Powerful, Durable, Comfortable and Effective in curing Rupture. 500 cured in '83. Send stamp for pamphlet. ELECTRO-MAGNETIC TRUSS CO., 191 WABASH AVE., CHICAGO.

ALLEN'S IRON TONIC BITTERS

The most Elegant Blood Purifier, Liver Invigorator, Tonic, and Appetizer ever known. The first Bitters containing Iron ever advertised in America. Unprincipled persons are imitating the name; look out for frauds. See that the following signature is on every bottle and take none other: J. P. Allen, Druggist & Chemist, ST. PAUL, MINN.

HER CONQUEROR.

She was very beautiful and charming, with those large dark eyes soft with the melting tenderness of passion slumbering silently and dreamily—passion that would make them burn and glimmer with radiant glory at its first powerful awakening.

Small wonder that men whose pulses quivered at another's approach should quicken as she drew near: that hearts which beat so cooly and steadily year after year throbbed with a sudden undefinable feeling when she passed by. Wherever she moved, Ethel Burcome seemed to shed some subtle influence impregnating every masculine heart with its strange intoxicating magnetism. Wearied with the triumphs of the winter she had come to this little seaside retreat, to the home of a former schoolmate named Vernon.

"Here at least I can rest," she said one day as she lay swinging in the pretty hammock Mr. Vernon had fastened up between the rocks, within favorite shelter by the sea.

"I am not so sure of that," laughed Miss Vernon, glancing up from a rather shapeless mass of crewel work she was idly endeavoring to disentangle.

"Why so, dear Nell? surely you wouldn't expect one to conform to the fashionable seaside custom of three toilets a day simply because that miserable brother of yours has threatened to visit us, and may drop down from the sky or the station any hour within the next twenty-four?"

"Ah, but I do, Ethel. I don't want to be ashamed of you. That old wrapper will do very well for Dick and myself, but would look horribly dowdy to welcome a visitor in."

"But what if I don't intend to welcome him—to see him, or have anything to do with him?"

"I can't see how you will avoid it, with such a contrary servant as I have now no three meals a day will be carried to anybody's room—of that I am certain. And unless Elliot will take his breakfast before you are up, his lunch in the pantry, and his dinner out of doors, I don't see how you can avoid meeting him at meal times, not to mention other hours of the day when you will be sure to stumble on each other."

The discussion grew so animated that the whistle of the afternoon train was unheeded. Ethel insisted on the necessity of packing up immediately; Mrs. Vernon as strongly insisted upon her remaining.

"Don't be foolish, dear; I was only joking. Probably Elliot is such a confirmed bachelor that he never gives a woman's toilet an instant's consideration now. He is not so formidable—only six feet two in his stockings. You needn't be so terribly alarmed at the thought of him, when the sight of him didn't trouble you very much once I fancy."

A faint flush came over the proud, handsome face; the eyelids drooped for very shame that the woman opposite, though her very best and sincerest friend, should know her secret. Years before they had met, but she imagined that few knew of that meeting. Eagerly, rashly, unconditionally he had surrendered, and Ethel—wrapped in dreams of conquest such as had never entered the head of a female Alexander disdained this easy victory, and cast the the vanquished from her.

Now he was coming of his own accord—as firm in his consciousness of power and strength as she had once been in hers; coming when he knew that the object of his first and only passion was an inmate of the home he had chosen for his summer abode. If he could thus venture undismayed into the presence of one who formerly wielded such a subtle spell over his love-dimmed senses, why did her heart—whose beatings heretofore had never caused her the slightest loss of appetite, or a moment's sleep at midnight—commence to beat so tumultuously that she glanced timidly down to see if the snowy ruffles on her bosom were ever so lightly stirred by the newly-felt emotions within.

"If I go," she thought, "he will be vain enough to think I cared so much for him—repented of what I said—"

"Well," said Mrs. Vernon, giving up all hope of straightening out the obstinate crewel work, "you'll remain, I guess. You needn't dress for dinner if you don't choose to—do just exactly as you like—"

"You may be sure of that!" exclaimed the girl, in such a sharp, petulant tone that Mrs. Vernon, in the large amount of experience which she managed to accumulate during twenty years social conflict with the world, divined at once how the land laid.

She wisely restrained her inclination to torment her guest on the sudden change of position which the couple had suddenly assumed, and, taking Ethel's arm, slowly led the way to the house.

Mr. Vernon met them at the gate.

"I suppose you know Elliot's here?" he began.

"Why, no; when did he come?" asked Mrs. Vernon, feeling a very perceptible tremor creep along the arm on which her hand was still resting.

"Came on the three o'clock train—didn't you hear it? No fault of the whistle if you didn't. Blew loud enough to wake me out of the best nap I've had for I don't know how long."

"Where is he now?"

"Gone to the billiard room to have a smoke, and won't be down till dinner. Feels tired, he says. Well, we'll go up stairs too. Come, Ethel." At the door of her room Mrs. Vernon left her, and hurried on to her own.

Dinner time came. The newly arrived guest had exchanged greetings with her sister and taken his place at her right hand, and Mr. Vernon had long ago served the soup and fish, and the solitary servant was coming in with the chicken when Ethel entered, carelessly brushing back the heavy velvet portiere as she stepped over the threshold.

No longer in the wrapper of muslin and lace which she had hitherto been too indolent to lay aside for the evening meal, but radiant in dark crimson silk, lilies of the valley nestling in her golden hair.

The handsome face opposite lit up for one brief moment with a sudden gleam of involuntary admiration which Ethel's eyes were not quick enough to catch; then a voice rich, sonorous—strangely unlike the pleading accent of years ago—acknowledged her cool greeting with coolness and composure much more genuine than hers. Mrs. Vernon noted the extraordinary change in Ethel's attire, and was wicked enough to say: "I thought you were too tired to dress, dear; you usually are, you know."

Elliot, steadily looking across the table, saw the indignant glance which was the only answer Mrs. Vernon received, and smiled to himself as he raised the campagne to his lips.

"A little tamed, I fancy," was his thought, "but just as proud and unapproachable as ever."

Elliot Gray was a handsome man. His mirror said so, and the adulation of his female friends confirmed it. Yet he was very far from being vain, egotistical or shallowpated, as most handsome men are.

Left an orphan early in life, he had made the comfortable fortune which he then enjoyed, solely by his own shrewdness and exertions. He had once placed it at the disposal of the only woman he could ever endow with a wealth of love as well, and never in all these years had it been offered to another.

He was getting along in years, forty-two, according to the record in the old family Bible. Was it not just as well to drift along easily and contentedly as he had drifted up to now? He would go as usual to spend the summer months at his only sister's; no siren or enchantress, however dangerous, could frighten him from his customary visit to Sea Grove.

And now that he was there at last, sitting not ten feet from the subtle fascination of those great dark eyes, within sound of the sweetest voice that ever lured man to endless dreams of bliss, he felt a sudden, passionate emotion thrill his own veins; the blood which circulated so calmly and naturally now surged with such tremulous force that more than once a purple flush swept over his dark face.

How the dinner hour passed neither he nor Ethel ever had any very distinct recollection. He, too, felt very much inclined to fly. As they sat on the terrace that evening, and glancing at the small figure so near him whose golden head seemed bathed in a shining glory that moonlight alone can give, Elliot knew that—alas for him,—his heart was already willing—even eager to return to its first captivity.

But no. Like Ethel, he would remain—remain to prove to her that her power over him was broken, that he could still listen and reply to that melodious voice without a quiver of his own.

"Don't you want to be made acquainted with our favorite retreat?" asked Mrs. Vernon the next morning as she was about to make her usual visit to the shore. "Ethel and I have chosen a very picturesque spot—we should be glad to have your approval of it, wouldn't we dear?" with an innocent look at that young lady.

"Many thanks," returned her brother dryly, "but I promised Dick I'd break that colt of his while he's here, and I think I'd better begin now."

A slight sneer curled Ethel's lips at these words. Perhaps a look of disappointment shone involuntarily in those dark eyes which Elliot must have caught as he turned away, for he paused as he was leaving the room and said:

"Well—if I shall not be in your way, and Miss Burcome is willing to permit an intruder—"

"But we might be in yours," retorted Ethel, interrupting him, "which would be unpleasant for all parties."

He did not say one word—did not look at her, but took his hat and followed Vernon out upon the terrace.

"Why did you begin by making an enemy of him?" asked Mrs. Vernon, when they were comfortably settled in their corner among the rocks, with the clear white sades at their feet, and the blue Atlantic rolling up to the beach beyond. "He was evidently inclined to forgive and forget, and here you commence raking up old scores again the very first thing!"

Yes, he had apparently forgotten—how it galled and wounded Ethel's heart when truth compelled her to make that acknowledgment! And her friend had also noticed his complete forgetfulness of every past incident which she in her pride fancied he would always remember—unpleasantly of course but still remember.

"Ethel!" exclaimed Mrs. Vernon, after carefully scrutinizing the downcast face for a few moments, "I really believe you are in love with him at last!"

"Sheerest nonsense!" returned Ethel sharply.

"Because I snapped him up so quickly—didn't want him to break in on our nice mornings by the sea, you think I—I'm in love with him."

Her voice grew very soft and gentle towards those last few words, something like a sob shook her breast and sent a tear unbidden to the eyes that looked steadily out to sea.

Mrs. Vernon considerately said nothing for a while, then changed the conversation; and it was not till they at last returned for luncheon that Elliot's name was again mentioned.

"I am a little worried about the colt," she observed meditatively.

"Is he going to die?" asked Ethel, in a careless, unsympathetic tone.

Mrs. Vernon laughed.

"No, Jerry is very far from being in a dying condition. I am expecting to find either Elliot or Dick with a broken neck, or something of that sort."

"Is he so very vicious then?" said the other, more interestedly. Mrs. Vernon even imagined there was a tinge of anxiety in her voice.

"Yes, he is unusually so."

"Then I hope nothing has happened to—to Dick, or—or to—" she stopped.

"The colt?" said her hostess, provokingly. "I hope not. You are very kind to show so much interest in either. Dick will appreciate it, but, alas! Jerry cannot."

The days passed away all in like manner. But two weeks from the date of Elliot's arrival he was standing on the lawn just in front of the doorway, idly switching the heads from the numerous daisies in the pathway. Ethel, coming from one of the long windows that opened on the porch, unexpectedly found herself alone with him. He looked up with a pleased smile on his ordinarily grave face. Ethel paused, and said, with evident embarrassment:

"I thought Nell would be waiting for me here."

"So she will be in a moment. She went around to the stable to see the new greyhound. Sit down, won't you? I am not such poor company that a few moments will be thought wasted with me—am I?" and he drew up a garden chair for her.

There was nothing to do but to accept it. She glanced down the narrow path. Mrs. Vernon was not visible, so she gave herself up to the pleasure and charm of the moment.

"What do you do with yourself every day?" he asked. "Isn't it rather lonesome, after the life and vivacity of the city?"

"O no," she replied eagerly. "I like it very much. You've never seen our seaport town, as Nell calls it, or you would not think life could be monotonous in the midst of such wild, natural beauty."

"I wanted to accompany you one morning, but you cruelly intimated that my society was not acceptable, and so—and so I've not had sufficient courage to ask again."

"I think you would get permission if you should," she said, so softly, however, that he bent down to catch the words.

Mrs. Vernon appearing then, this confidential conversation ceased, but Elliot so unhesitatingly declared his intention of accompanying them that she could not help showing her amazement, and looked inquiringly at Ethel as if for explanation of this unusual hardihood on his part.

But Ethel's impassive face gave no sign. Elliot came to her rescue.

"I am forcing myself on you, it appears, but I am determined to find out the source of Miss Burcome's continual amusement in this dull place."

"You are complimentary to Dick and myself, I must say."

"My dear sister, you are entirely innocent of having furnished me with one particle of amusement. I am wholly indebted to Dick and—"

"The colt," added his sister laughing.

"I'm not so sure of that. He gave me an ugly kick on the shoulder yesterday and I'm not over the effects of it yet."

Ethel's face expressed volumes of sympathy, but she could not trust herself to speak.

"And you never mentioned it before!" exclaimed Mrs. Vernon. "Too bad! I shall persuade Dick to sell it—such a vicious creature it has grown to be."

The summer passed pleasantly and quietly. Elliot was constant in his visits to the rocks, sometimes in company with Ethel and his sister, but latterly to be found with the former alone. For Mrs. Vernon discovering that household matters—which had never caused much anxiety before—were going on the best they might under the sole direction of an incompetent servant, took numberless opportunities of remaining at home thus throwing her two visitors constantly together.

But there was no change in his manner. If Ethel hoped that he was desirous of returning to his former state of hopeless love for her, he certainly gave her no reason to to indulge in such expectations. He was a pleasant, agreeable—even at times vivacious companion, but far from degenerating into the lover. Her pride was sorely wounded and there were occasions when some fittish remark showed it more plainly than she was aware.

She even tried the ball-room ruse of fixing the day of her departure, and telling him of it only the morning before. They were standing on the terrace, he about to pay the first visit he had made in several weeks to the refractory colt.

"O indeed! Nell will be so disappointed, for she thought you might be induced to remain till October," was his cool rejoinder. Not one word of his disappointment!

So Ethel, thoroughly annoyed by his apparent indifference, hastily made all preparations for her departure on the morrow. That afternoon was devoted to a few calls on friends who lived a mile or two above them on the beach. She did not return till dinner, and then walked straight into the dining-room, arrayed in her calling costume.

Vernon, unusually so punctual at meal time, was not in his place, Mrs. Vernon's chair was also vacant.

"Well," said Ethel to herself, "they have often blamed me for keeping them waiting. I shall not be so foolish as to let them keep me."

Ringing the bell, she asked for some soup, and was answered by a stony stare of surprise from the servant. "Is there any particular reason why I should not enjoy my dinner now?" asked Ethel, condescending to try the effect of a sarcastic tone upon the big, bony Irish girl.

"Yis, to be sure if yer appetite's good whin there's death in the house."

Death? How Ethel started at that word! Poor Dick, certainly. Nell always said Jerry would be the death of him. Eat? O! course not, when her friend was in such trouble.

Hastily rising, she made her way to the library and was met at the door by Mrs. Vernon, coming out.

"O Nell, what is the matter? Is he—is he—oh, poor Dick! I'm so sorry I went out this afternoon—"

"Dick?" interrupted Mrs. Vernon in an aggrieved tone. "Well, it isn't Dick—its Elliot. Shoulder broken or smashed or something by that miserable beast, and—and I don't know how much besides. Dick's gone for the Doctor and I'm for a poultice," and she swept past, leaving Ethel standing bewildered, with her hand on the knob of the door. Should she go in?

What would he think if she did not hasten to offer her friendly sympathy?

A burning flush arose to her face as this last question forced itself upon her, and she half turned away. Then came a sudden, overpowering emotion, painful, yet masterful. Tears of loving sympathy sprang to her eyes, and once more she laid her hand upon the door.

For the second time she felt her courage rapidly oozing away, and she probably would have yielded to her first fear had not a faint moan from within decided her. He was suffering—yes, she would go.

Slowly the door rolled back. Finally a small figure stole almost stealthily across the now darkened room, over to the lounge near the window.

One hand shaded his face, the other, crushed and broken, was wrapped in a soft, silk handkerchief.

"Back so soon, Nell?" he asked, without raising his hand from his eyes. A little trembling hand touched his feverish forehead, and a voice—Oh, so sweet and gentle, announced:

"Nell has not returned yet. I—I came to—to tell you—to say how sorry I feel you are injured so—and—and—"

"You are very kind," he answered, feebly, "but there is not so much the matter. How did you know? Did Nell tell you?"

She did not reply.

Elliot turned his head—so near, so very near to hers—and saw a tear falling on her fair, flushed cheek. Raising himself as best he could, he stretched out his arm and drew her silently to his breast.

"O, Ethel—oh, my darling, did you come freely—willingly, or was it sympathy such as only an ordinary friend might offer? Tell me."

"I—I came—" the clear voice faltered but for her own peace of mind the confession must come—"I came because I—I could not stay away from you."

"But you will leave me to-morrow?" he could not help asking, enjoying in his turn the sweetness of a triumph.

Down went Ethel on her knees beside the lounge. Humbly, repentantly, her tearful eyes looking into his.

"Oh, Elliot, I must stay with you."

"For how long, dear?"

"Forever."—Yankee Blade.

The German Army.

The greatest numerical strength of the German army in the late war with France never exceeded 1,400,000 men; but a writer in a recent number of the Fortnightly Review declares that in a future war half a million more soldiers could be sent into the field. He estimates that Germany can almost immediately mobilize an army of 38,000 officers, 1,450,000 men, 27,000 physicians and officials, and 300,000 horses; for which number all clothes, armaments, outfits, carts, etc., are provided in peace time, and held in readiness in the different garrisons. To the mobilized army would have to be added the surplus of drilled reserve and militiamen numbering 150,000 men; the depot reserves of the first class, numbering 550,000 men; one contingent of recruits, one-year Volunteers, Volunteers under twenty years, and ten contingents of Landstrum; which makes up a grand total of 2,830,000 trained men, commanded by officers who have fought some of the greatest battles of the century, and have never turned their backs upon the enemy.

Mrs. E. W. Avery, of Laconia, N. H., has in her possession a half dozen chairs that were brought to this country by John Hancock, who signed the Declaration of Independence. They were purchased by Mrs. Avery's father in Boston where they were formerly used by Hancock in his house on Beacon street.

W. W. Astor, the American Minister at Rome, lives a very secluded life, only giving an occasional dinner party to the Legation. The Rospigliosi Palace, where he resides, is as closely shut up as though there were no American Minister there.

ST. PETER'S AT ROME.

The Greatest and Grandest Temple of Divine Worship in the World—Its Amazing Dimensions.

St. Peter's Church in Rome is surely the largest and grandest temple of divine worship on the face of the earth. Gibbon, the historian, has pronounced it "the most glorious structure ever applied to the use of religion." This most conspicuous building in modern Rome stands upon the site of Nero's circus, in the northwestern part of the city. It is built in the form of a Latin cross, as are most of the great cathedrals of Europe. According to the most reliable figures, its extreme length is over 700 feet, the greatest width 500 feet, and the height to the top of the cross 448 feet. The entire building covers an area of more than five acres. But figures give only a faint idea of the vast dimensions of St. Peter's. Let us make a few comparisons: Thirty good-sized churches, such as generally seen in America, could be put inside this great church and not fill it. Over twenty thousand persons could find standing room in it at once. Three lofty church spires, one above the other, would scarcely reach the top of the cross that surmounts the dome. No crowd ever fills all its spaces. No human voice can reach all its aisles. You can almost lose yourself in its immensity. Day after day we roamed over the wonderful structure, almost too weary at night to make our way to a resting-place.

In the early part of the fourth century the Emperor Constantine built a magnificent church, on the site now occupied by St. Peter's. This church was rebuilt several times during the thousand years which followed. The foundations of the present structure were laid by Pope Nicholas V in 1450, but more than three centuries rolled away before it was entirely completed. In 1535 the work was intrusted to the hands of that greatest of all masters, Michael Angelo, then seventy-two years of age. The dedication took place in 1626, under the pontificate of Pope Orban VIII. The colonnade was built in 1667, and the sacristy added in 1780. Thus we see a church founded before Columbus discovered America, dedicated about the time the Pilgrim Fathers landed in the new world and finished only a century ago. Forty-three popes lived, reigned and died while it was building, each one lavishing great treasure upon it. What it cost, nobody on earth can fully tell. At the lowest calculation, $50,000,000 has been expended upon it. Besides this enormous sum it must be kept in repair at an annual expense of over $30,000.

Let us linger a moment on the great square, or court, called by the Italians a piazza. No other building in the world has so grand an approach. An army of 100,000 men might gather in this vast inclosure. It is well paved and crossed by marble walks. In its center stands a lofy Egyptian obelisk, which, including the pedestal, is 135 feet high. It was brought from ancient Heliopolis by the Emperor Caligula. This gigantic shaft, ten feet square at the base, is of red granite, and weighs five hundred tons. Two grand fountains, one on each side of the great obelisk, are continually throwing up their thousand jets of bright water, which turn into feathery spray, waving to and fro like plumes in the air; then fall, arched with rainbows, into the immense porphyry basins below. Sweeping round to the right and left, partially inclosing the grand square, are the famous imposing semi-circle colonnades, consisting of 284 Doric columns, each one sixty feet high, arranged in four parallel rows, and the whole covered with a stone roof. A whole regiment of marble saints are ranged along the battlements of the roof. An inscription at the entrance tells us that the great artist Bernini built the colonnade "for a shadow in the daytime from the heat, and for a place of refuge, and for a covert from the storm and from rain." (Isaiah iv., 6.) On the higher battlements of the church itself stand thirteen colossal statues, representing Christ and his Apostles.

Passing the two giant statues which stand on guard at the foot of the stairway, representing St. Peter and St. Paul, we mount three successive flights of marble steps and enter a grand vestibule, fifty feet wide, sixty-six feet high, and extending across the entire front of the building. At the right and left ends of this great portal are the gigantic equestrian statues of Constantine and Charlemagne. From the vestibule three great entrances lead into the temple itself. We enter, however, by smaller doorways, for the immense bronze doors are opened only on grand occasions. On the extreme right is the "porta santa," or holy door, formerly opened on Christmas eve only once in twenty-five years, and then walled up, to remain closed for another quarter of a century.

Now let us lift the heavy, quilted, leather curtain which closes the common doorway, and the church, which surpasses all other churches in the world. What a marvelous temple is before us. We are dazzled by its splendor and awed into silence by its vastness and grandeur.

> Vastness which grows, but grows to harmonize—
> All musical in its immensities.

It is hard to realize that it is the work of man. And it is impossible to comprehend its amazing proportions at first sight. But its colossal size will grow upon you more and more every minute, every hour, every day.

> Thou seest not all; but piecemeal thou must break;
> To seperate contemplation, the great whole.

The floor, formed of rich mosaic work, stretches away a great plain of variegated marble before us. The lofty paneled vault of the nave, profusely adorned with gilding and paintings, lifts itself 150 feet above us. On every hand are gorgeously decorated altars, marble and alabaster vases of holy water, sacred shrines, before which flame golden lamps; costly statues, beautifully mosaic copies of world renowned paintings, sculptured tombs of departed kings, magnificent monuments of dead popes, massive columns, grand arches, colossal piers, golden ceilings, splendid side chapels, each as large as an ordinary church, and, above all, that stupendous dome,

> The dome! the vast and wondrous dome,
> To which Diana's marvel was a cell.

How can we give even a meager outline of the wealth of decoration or the wilderness of architecture in this greatest of all churches. But let us take a rapid walk through the building.

In the center where the transept crosses the nave, immediately beneath the dome, stands the "high altar," used only on great occasions, and then only by the pope or high officials. This altar is covered by a colossal bronze canopy, nearly a hundred feet high, called the baldacchino. It was designed by Bernini, and made from metal taken from the old Pantheon. In the tribune, which takes the west end of the church, is the famous "chair of St. Peter." We are told it was the identical one in which St. Peter officiated as the first pope. The original chair is enclosed in a bronze covering and the whole supported by four gigantic statues, representing those four great fathers of the church, Augustine, Ambrose, Carysostom and Athanasius. In the south end of the transept are twelve confessional boxes, designed for the accommodation of strangers in Rome. At one or another of these boxes men of all nations may make confession and hear the words of absolution in their own language.

Beneath the high altar is the shrine and tomb of St Peter and St. Paul. A double flight of marble steps lead down this most sacred spot in the great church. A rich marble balustrade surrounds the descent, and around it a hundred silver lamps are burning. Before the tomb is the beautiful statue of Pius VI, kneeling as if in prayer. There are many other tombs in the crypt below, and many sepulchral monuments in the church above, some of them masterpieces of sculpture. Among the tombs of popes it is strange to see the tombs of James III, Charles III and Henry IX, kings of England.

Now, if you would gain some just conception of the immense size of St. Peter's let us take one more look. Come and stand near the center of the building. As you gaze upward remember it is over three hundred feet to the foot of that dome, and more than four hundred to its summit. This vast dome is supported by four stupendous piers of stone, each of which covers as much space on the floor of St. Peter's as a good sized church. And yet, such is the wonderful symmetry of the structure its vastness is lost in the harmony of its proportion.

> The grandeur overwhelms thee not;
> And why? It is not lessened, but thy mind,
> Expanded by the genius of the spot,
> Has grown colossal.

A broad, winding staircase leads up to the roof, and so gentle is the ascent you might ride up on horseback. On the walls as you climb you see inscriptions telling that the Prince of Wales, Queen of Spain and Empress of Mexico had ascended the same steps. On the spacious roof, which is nearly flat, are domes and pinnacles rising around the great central dome. Before ascending higher let us pause awhile on the circular gallery that sweeps around the interior base of the dome. It makes one dizzy to look down the frightful distance to the floor of the church. The people walking in the cathedral below seem like creeping pigmies. From this point we ascend between the double walls of the dome to the "lantern" which surmounts it.

From the balcony around the lantern we have a bird's-eye view of the grand old city and its surroundings. This panorama is enrapturing. The Rome that is, and the Rome that was, lies spread out like a map beneath us. Close at hand is the Pope's palace and gardens. A little way off is the massive circular castle of St. Angelo. Further on is Pincian hill, with its fine view of Rome. Yonder is the tower of the Capitol and the Pantheon, and still beyond is the Coliseum. Beyond the far-extending walls of the city is the vast, desolate, deserted campagna, across which we can trace the ruins of the ancient acqueducts of Rome, more extensive than the water works of New York, Boston and Philadelphia combined. To the west are the lofty Appennines, and to the east, as far as the eye can reach, we see the blue expanse of the Mediterranean. But we must climb still higher; first to the little room on the top of the lantern, then mounting a vertical iron ladder at least four hundred feet up, we reach our highest point—the copper "ball." The view from this point was not very interesting, consisting, as it did with us, of simply eighteen panting, perspiring men and woman, huddled into a space that looked from the ground below no larger than a globe a foot in diameter. —Troy, N. Y., Times.

Advice to Bachelors.

Once upon a time I read somewhere in a queer little book entitled "Receipts for Bachelorhood," among many other wise counselings in avoiding the snags and pitfalls of social intercourse with the fair sex, "Avoid the Impulse of the Moment"—in fact, setting forth if the well disposed bachelor bewares of the I. of the M. he may escape one of the principal dangers his condition in life exposes him to. There is a great deal of truth—there is no end of truth—in the axiom, and it applies to many other things besides bachelorhood. Another wise apothegm might have been introduced by the author if he had only thought of it, and that is: "If you will only look ten or fifteen years ahead instead of allowing your thoughts to run on the honeymoon your good sense may assert itself and you might be spared. You should by all means endeavor to ascertain what your adored one is when you are not there; what she is to her own people when not en grande tenue, figuratively speaking, when she has her back hair and her boots off. If you would take the trouble, what cause for tribulation you might save yourself and perhaps her! Does your angel bully her mother, or her little brothers and sisters, or worry the dog? I have seen the most delightful little foot, with the most arabesque of insteps and the most rounded ankle, viciously kick a little dog half way accross the room, and she who would do that to her dog would like to do it to you some day, you may depend upon it. If you must choose a future "helpmate," by all that is great and holy find out before hand how your inamorata has been brought up, and whether the temper, if she naturally has one, has been pounded into abeyance by a judicious papa and mamma. Believe me the badly brought-up girl, like hothouse asparagus in the frigid month of January, however fresh and nice her appearance may be, will inevitably return rather more than a soupcon of the mould she was mixed in.

The population of the principal cities of Mexico, as nearly as can be ascertained, is as follows: Mexico, 300,000; Leon, 120,000; Puebla, 800,000; Guadalajara, 70,000; Guanajuato, 55,000; San Luis, Petosi and Merida, 42,000 each.

Compressed Paragraphs.

A Chicago paper says: "The following illustrates the career of a great showman, 1870, unknown; 1872, a man named Haverly; 1874, Jack Haverly; 1876, Mr. John H. Haverly; 1878, Manager Haverly; 1880, Colonel J. E. Haverly; 1880, Gen. J. H. Haverly; 1884, Jack Haverly."

Dr. Miller who made the examination of Guiteau's brain, has been devoting considerable attention to the effect of different professions on longevity. His conclusion is that the average life of business men is fifty years in this country and sixty in England, statesmen seventy-two in England to seventy here, English chief justices sixty-eight, Americans, sixty. The Americans, in his opinion, are too active and not regular enough in their habits.

A Boston man writes of doctors who advertise: "Many such advertisers are specialists, and on old physician frankly tells me that as the practice of medicine is all 'an experiment,' the 'regulars' always use the goods which these specialists have proven to be efficacious. They spend years studying the eye, ear or some other part of the body, and consequently know more about it than a doctor with a general practice, who consults old books and is not progressive."

The City of Mexico possesses many delights for the northern visitor, but there is one drawback mentioned by a correspondent which is rarely referred to. He says: "For the first two days I was a little troubled for breath on this lofty plateau (2,000 feet higher than the top of Mount Washington), and my lips were dry and my throat parched; but my lungs have now become accustomed to the rarified air, and by taking outdoor exercise only in the morning and evening and drinking a little claret and a good deal less water, I succeed in being very comfortable."

A scientific physician says: "In the morning there is an acrid state of the secretions, and nothing is so well calculated to correct it as peaches, apples, etc. The small seed fruits, such as figs, blackberries, raspberries and strawberries, may be classed among the best fruits and medicines. The sugar in them is nutritious, the acid purifying and the seeds laxative. We should look more to our gardens for our medicines and less to our drug stores."

It is not fair to charge workingmen with being low in their tastes or with preferring the saloon, and the beer-hall, and the tavern, until they have had the opportunity to educate themselves. The success of the workingmen's Sunday concerts in New York ought to be the starting point for similar efforts in other cities, and it only needs a trifling generosity on the part of our wealthy men to repeat the success. The rich have their Sunday service in churches to which the poor cannot afford to go. Let the poor have their service also, and what better service can they have than good music on the only day of rest they have?—Chicago Tribune.

The origin of attar of roses is said to have been this: To please a voluptuous monarch his favorite sultana caused his bath in the palace garden to be filled to the brim with rose water. The action of the sun soon concentrated the oily particles floating on the surface, and the attendant, supposing the water to have become corrupt, began to skim it for the purpose of taking off the oil. The globules burst under the process, and emitted such a delightful odor that the idea of preparing this beautiful perfume was at once suggested.

In an article by Charles F. Thwing on "Gifts to Colleges and Universities," published in the Bay State Monthly, it is stated that the amount contributed to college and university education in the United States during the past ten years is $35,622,000, and since 1874 the total amount given has not been less than $50,000,000.

Personal Gossip.

Grant smokes a medium-strength cigar, which he imports from Cuba. He talks while smoking, never lets a cigar go out, and smokes the stub on a wooden toothpick. Sherman smokes nervously, and is always relighting his cigar. Sheridan enjoys a quiet smoke, but can't do anything else while he is smoking. Butler rarely lights a cigar, but carries the wrong end in his mouth. Logan smokes only at long intervals, but when he smokes at all, it is incessantly.

It is well to be posted in the French names of some of the brand new shades which fashion has introduced; "Gris" is a steeley drab shade. "Shauvette," a shade of drab beige. "Armando," a delicate salmon yellow. "Isard," an ashes of rose or pinkish, beige shade. "Champignon" is a yellowish soft drab, or, as its name suggests, a mushroom shade.

Judge Dickey, of the Illinois Supreme Court, shed tears when on the Shiloh battlefield a few days ago. He told the three hundred Union veterans around him how the husband of his daughter General Wallace, was killed near the spot then under foot. During the battle Mrs. Wallace, approaching to join her husband, met a messenger, who told her of the General's fall.

At a station in Montana the other day a Boston girl stuck her head out of a Northern Pacific car and exclaimed: "The bewildering womance which swowns this twanscendental scenewy with such indescwibable facination and tinges its evewy featuh with such overpow'ing interest quite bweaks me up!" And a number of members of the local vigilance committee standing on the platform look grimly into each other's faces and muttered, "Oh, if it was only a man."

The Montreal (Can.) Witness says: "Among other worthy deeds the late Joseph Mackay left $10,000 for a Professorship in Montreal Presbyterian College. His surviving brother, Edward, supplemented this by a gift of $40,000 and called the professorship after his brother. At his death the late Edward Mackay left $10,000 to found a chair in the college. Now his three nephews have added $40,000 and call the professorship after their uncle.

"The Indian girl of Eureka, Nev.," says the San Francisco Chronicle, "who had been given all the benefits of civilization, including dresses of the latest style, and who recently cast them aside and went to live in a wickiup with a Piute buck, has repented of her passion for savage life. Recently, after drinking bad whiskey all night, he arose in the morning and began to beat and kick her. She escaped to town and has once more donned the garb of civilization. Perhaps it would be a good thing to send her east as a lecturer on the beauties of savage life.

The present wife of the emperor of Germany was not his first choice. The lady whom he wanted to marry was the Princess Elizabeth Radziwill. The latter returned his love to the highest degree, but she was much too noble minded to accept the sacrifice of his hand, and, in a last interview with the prince, she besought him to release her. She went into a nunnery, and Wilhelm wedded Augusta, but their married life was not for many years a very happy one. It is only since the different attempts on the emperor's life that their relations have become warmer, and on those occasions the empress always spent many hours daily near the bedside of her husband.

PHYSICAL DEVELOPMENT

How to Get it, and How to Keep in Good Condition.

Detroit News.

"What do you do to keep in such good condition? I suppose you keep up your gymnastic work all the time."

This remark was made by a Detroit lawyer between thirty and thirty-five years of age to a man a year or two his junior. The former looked pale and delicate, and he stooped a little. The latter had a rosy complexion, was as erect and lithe as an Indian, and looked the picture of robust health. The lawyer had just been "sizing up" his acquaintance and admiring the firmness of his muscles. They were co-workers in Allen's gymnasium a number of years ago.

"No; I haven't seen the inside of a gymnasium for five or six years. But I commenced so young and laid such a good foundation in those years that I have kept my strength, health and activity with remarkably little systematic exercise ever since."

"I wonder if that's the reason my physical development hasn't lasted me better? You see I didn't commence until I was 24 or 25, and though I worked up and maintained a good development during my two or three years in the gymnasium, it left me when I quit, and my muscles are as flabby now, and my chest as flat, as before I commenced going to Allen's."

"I guess you've struck it. The time for a man to lay a good foundation of physical strength and endurance by means of systematic and intelligent exercise is between the ages of 18 and 24 years. This is the time to expand the chest, before the bones become set too hard, to get the heart and lungs used to accellerated action, and to put all the vital organs into such fine condition that they will do work continuously for years without repair. Let a person get a muscular development in the arms, the shoulders or the legs in those days, and he will retain it for years with but a trifling use of those members. I know a man in this city who has the finest pair of thighs I ever saw on a man of his size. In fact, his thighs are so large as to be out of proportion to the remainder of his body, and they are as hard as blocks of wood. He was drafted into the German cavalry service when 18 years old, and should have served seven years. He was a Pole, and didn't like the Germans, and at the first opportunity, after serving five years, he deserted and came to this country. He attributes the unusual development of his thighs to those five years on horseback."

"But haven't you taken any exercise since you left the gymnasium?"

"None regularly. I've been out in the air as much as I could, though my business has been mostly indoors. I walk considerably, both regularly and frequently, and often when I get undressed for bed I go through our old calisthenics in my bed-room, with the window down. Then I rub myself and polish the skin until it is all aglow. Then to bed and to sleep; no nightmare after that, you bet."

Extension of the Russian Empire

The star of Russian empire is taking its way east in a manner very unpleasant to Englishmen. According to a paper lately read before the Royal Asiatic Society the Russians are displaying remarkable activity on the Caspian and Black Seas, and have so managed matters that a corps d'armee might be well on the road to India before the movement attracted much attention, England having no consular agent in either place. Baku is a rising Caspian port, which is attaining notoriety for its remarkable petroleum wells. This has led to the collection of a large fleet to convey the kerosene to various parts, and, to the astonishment of the Russian Government, they have thus an unlimited number of steamers which could in twenty-four hours transport the corps d'armee to Michaelovsk, on the eastern shore of the Caspian. From this port there is already a railroad to Kizildavat, a distance of 147 miles; and from the latter place to Askabad, 135 miles, there is a road, and a railway is proposed. Thence to Saraskh is 185 miles, and from the last-named place to Herat is 202 miles, and a Russian surveyer has already surveyed the entire distance and proved that a line can be easly made.

Capers of a Cyclone.

Mr. Robert Wilson, whose mother's house was demolished, was blown out into the yard, but not seriously hurt. He had retired before the storm came on and laid his clothing on a chair. In his vest pocket was a watch. The next morning he found his watch hanging on a small limb of a tree that had blown down in the yard, the chain wrapped several times around the limb. It was ticking away as if nothing had happened. Mr. Stewart, who was killed at Daniel Watson's, was very fond of hunting, and always kept his gun near the head of his bed. When Mr. Stewart was found after the storm his gun was lying near him, but it had been discharged, the entire load passing through Mr. Stewart's body. In one place we noticed a large fat pine log, which would weigh at least 5,000 pounds, which was taken up from the ground where it was lying and carried a distance of twenty to twenty-five paces and piled across some other logs.—North Carolina Rocket.

tions made to its library within the past two years. It has now over 11,000 volumes of standard works upon its shelves, and a number of unbound volumes sufficient to swell the total to 22,090, all of which are being thoroughly catalogued by an expert. The secretary regrets that the newspapers throughout the state do not more generally contribute their journals to the permanent collections of the society. As chronicles of the current history of the commonwealth, he believes they will prove invaluable annals to succeeding generations. The rapid accumulations of its library and museum will soon demand the increased accommodations which a separate structure will furnish, and for which an eligible site was secured some years since, and a considerable subscription is already pledged.

LOGS AND LUMBER.

The following statistics of the lumber interests of the state are furnished by the surveyors general of the districts named, as required by law:

	—Feet Logs Scaled— 1883.	1884.
First district	283,901,470	287,224,770
Second district	279,064,440	306,024,950
Fifth district	59,237,330	97,979,430
Totals	622,203,240	691,229,150

	—Ft. Lumber Manuf'tured— 1883.	1884.
First district	164,989,807	144,329,000
Second district	398,178,995	414,270,514
Fifth district	182,450,000	224,883,800
Totals	745,618,802	783,482,814

FISH CULTURE.

The work of the fish commission has been much extended the past two years, and considerable additions made to the state hatchery, greatly increasing its capacity for the propagation of its product.

The distribution among the waters of the state has been as follows:

	1883.	1884.
Whitefish	4,090,000	4,950,000
Landlocked salmon	10,000	....
Lake Superior trout	92,000	167,000
Brook trout	147,100	340,000
German carp	4,500	....
Western trout	....	9,000
Totals	5,252,600	5,466,000

The suggestions of the commissioners regarding the necessity for protection to the food fishes of our waters deserve attention. Their wanton destruction in recent years, unless checked, threatens the speedy extinction of some of the most desirable species of fish that inhabit our lakes and streams.

THE WORLD'S EXPOSITION.

Pursuant to the provisions of an act of congress, approved Feb. 10, 1883, "to encourage the holding of a world's industrial and cotton centennial exposition," there was inaugurated in New Orleans, on the 16th of last month, what will probably prove to be the most extensive and complete collective exhibit of the arts, industries, products and resources of the world that has yet been brought together. The act referred to provided that the president should appoint, upon the recommendation of the governors thereof, a commissioner and an alternate commissioner for each state and territory, whose special function shall be to represent the interests of their several communities at the proposed exposition. In pursuance thereof, in January last Oliver Gibbs, Jr., of Lake City, was appointed commissioner, and Col. Sam. E. Adams of Minneapolis, alternate commissioner of Minnesota. As the plans for this exposition were developed, and particularly after congress by subsequent act appropriated $1,000,000 as a loan to aid in its organization, and provided a further sum for a governmental representation in the exhibition, I became satisfied that the scope and purposes of the exposition were thoroughly national in their character, and that it would be productive of results of much significance to all parts of the country. Remembering with painful regret, as every patriotic Minnesotian must, the failure of our state to make a proper presentation of her natural and industrial resources at the centennial in 1876, I was extremely anxious that she should not show a like indifference to the opportunities this exposition afforded.

MONEY CONTRIBUTED.

It soon became apparent that most of the states and many of the territories would present an illustration more or less complete of their arts, industries and resources at New Orleans, and certainly Minnesota could not afford the second time to become "conspicuous by her absence" from such a representative exhibit. To collect, arrange and install such an exhibit and properly care for it during the six months' continuance of the exposition would involve great labor and corresponding expense. From as careful an estimate as could be made, it appeared that fully $30,000 would be required to give Minnesota such a representation as would do her credit. There was no appropriation available for the purpose, and the conditions were not favorable for procuring the amount required by private subscription. Believing the people of the state would willingly assume the cost, and being fortified in this belief by the fact that the legislature of 1881 made an appropriation of $25,000 for a world's exposition then in contemplation, but which was not held, I appealed to several of the principal cities of the state, through their commercial bodies and leading citizens, for an advance of the required sum, with the assurance that I would recommend an appropriation at this session to reimburse them. In response to this appeal I received $10,000 each from the two cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis, and nearly $5,000 additional from other cities of the state. Four thousand dollars was contributed by the management of the exposition from the congressional loan. As soon as assured that the requisite means would be provided, effective measures were adopted to secure the best possible illustration of the varied interests and resources of the state. The result is eminently satisfactory. The state collective exhibit is second to none, I am assured, presented by any state. It is especially complete in its display of agricultural products, fruits, lumber, flour, geological and zoological specimens, and the general industrial interests of the state, also in the departments of education and woman's work. Arrangements are perfected for a complete display of dairy products, and also of live stock, poultry, etc., at later dates, designated for exhibitions in those departments. A large number of private exhibitors from the state have also made entries for premiums in the competitive departments of the exposition.

For especial use in connection with the state exhibit at the exposition, a new and enlarged edition of the pamphlet descriptive of Minnesota was authorized by the board of immigration, and prepared under the supervision of the secretary, Mr. H. H. Young. The new work contains over two hundred pages, with many illustrations, and a revised map of the state. The enlargment, affording more full descriptions of counties and towns, makes this the most valuable publication ever made by the board. The first edition was 20,000 copies. It is believed that a much larger number in addition can be advantageously used. I feel that I do not need to present to you the importance to our state, to all her people and interests, of a proper presentation, such as has been made, at this exposition. That its beneficial results will be felt in years to come in the extent and character of the immigration that will be directed to our state, and in the promotion of relations of comity with our sister states of the republic, there can be no question. It is with confidence, therefore, that I recommend an appropriation of $25,000 to reimburse the gentlemen who have become responsible for that amount, and but for whose public-spirited and patriotic action the gratifying results accomplished would not have been possible. Incident to the subject of state exhibitions may be mentioned the success of the State Horticultural society at the meeting of the American Pomological society, last year, at Philadelphia, when, with a selection from the best orchards in the state, it secured the high honor of the Wilder medal, a prize only to be won by displays which are of supreme merit even in the opinion of experts. The medal has been deposited in the office of the secretary of state.

THE THIRD STATE CENSUS.

According to the constitution of the state, an enumeration of the inhabitants must be made the present year. The congress, in providing for the third and subsequent censuses, by act of March 3, 1870, wished, also, to induce the states to adopt the same schedules of enumeration in their respective censuses, to be made at the mean of time between the censuses of the United States, so that the federal and state systems together would form one series of similar, quinquennial enumerations. The act referred to offers to the states which conform theirs to the federal schedules a sum calculated to be half the cost of such enumeration. The amount which this state would be entitled to is $31,497.02. That sum would not make up the increased cost of the desired census over such a one as that of 1875. But the more expensive one would contain all the information now obtained under the laws for collecting and returning agricultural and vital statistics, and in case it were made, the operation of those laws might be suspended for one year, and the expenses under them be saved. From estimates of the county auditors it appears the assessors of the state were paid in the aggregate, on account of agricultural statistics in 1884, the sum of $17,000. For vital statistics for the same year, town clerks received about $10,600; county clerks, about $4,240. This aggregate saving by suspending the collection of these statistics under the present laws for one year ($32,000), added to the federal contingent, would certainly exceed the increased cost of the enlarged schedules. Nearly the same would be true of the cost of printing. The towns pay the assessors, and the counties the clerks for the services here spoken of, and it is easily feasible, if desirable, to leave the same burdens upon the counties, by charging them with the payment of the compensation of the enumerators for filling up the second and fifth schedules, which embrace the agricultural and vital statistics, and properly proportioning the rates of compensation for all the schedules. A change in the manner of collecting vital statistics is elsewhere referred to. Some change seems necessary in regard to the agricultural statistics to obtain more accurate results. A good many county auditors agree that, for various reasons, the assessors in their counties give little care to this part of their work. Insufficient pay for their time does the mischief in some towns. Prejudice against the publication of such facts affects some. The changes which have sometimes been made, before publication, in the most carefully made returns have contributed to the same end. It is due to the officers and people of many towns to say that in some counties the case appears to be different. It is worth your while to consider how to procure the making of returns which shall correctly represent the facts they are intended to make known.

IMPROVEMENTS OF WESTERN RIVERS AND HARBORS.

I transmit herewith a report of the "state commissioners for the improvement of the Mississippi river," in which the interests of our state in connection with the expenditures by the general government for the improvement of Western rivers and harbors, are practically considered. It is of great interest to Minnesota and the Northwest, that the system under which work has been prosecuted since 1878, for the improvement of navigation on the upper Mississippi from St. Paul to the Des Moines rapids, should be developed as rapidly as possible, until its full benefits are realized. Results already accomplished assure the certainty of a channel of sufficient depth to accommodate the largest upper river steamers during all seasons of an open river. The competition of water routes everywhere is the great regulator of rates of transportation, and always a check and restraint upon combinations that seek to maintain a monopoly in the carrying trade. With such assurances and protection to navigation as the complete development of this system contemplates, the certain channel for the export of our surplus products would be the Mississippi river via the gulf, and at a cost for transportation of but a fraction now paid under prevailing railroad tariffs in their land carriage to the seaboard. A moderate expenditure, as shown by estimates of government engineers, upon the Red River of the North, would greatly improve its navigable character, and thereby confer inestimable benefit upon the large and rapidly increasing population occupying the fertile valley of that stream.

The growing importance of the trade of Duluth, the principal lake port of the state should command such governmental aid and protection as shall give its harbor the fullest possible facilities required by its rapidly increasing commerce. The development, also, of our mineral resources in the territory on the north shore of Lake Superior, which have assumed a magnitude that has stimulated the building of railroads to accommodate the mining industries of that region, justly claims such appropriations as may be required to provide harbor facilities at ports from whence the ores are shipped abroad. Such expressions from your body, addressed to congress as may best command its attention in these interests, are among the duties devolving upon you. The "river commission," to whose report reference is here made, has been of much service to the state in this behalf, and I recommend a continuance of the annual appropriation of $1,000 for its use.

ADMISSION OF DAKOTA.

The rapidity of the later growth of the territory on our west has carried it, since its first application for admission into the Union, far beyond what has hitherto been recognized as the requisite in population to become a state. As the area is more than twice the average in existing states, there is reason in the demand for division. But, however, it might be divided, one part at least, and probably both, would have more than the population required for a member of congress. No territorial population has ever been, on the average, better fitted by their intelligence, their experience or their circumstances, to assume the duties of statehood than that of Dakota. The interest of Minnesota in her neighbor's elevation in dignity and importance is so clear, that it is not to be doubted that our senators and members of congress will earnestly support her admission into the Union without incitement from us; but as it is feared that there may develop, in a certain direction, an opposition thereto, motived chiefly in partisanship, perhaps, if the legislature of this state, unanimously by the votes of its members of both parties, were to memorialize congress in behalf of such action for admission as Dakota desires, not inconsistent with former precedents in regard to new states, it might tend to secure for the question consideration above that of party gain, from the standpoint of the public good.

The prohibition by the constitution of certain kinds of special legislation imposes upon you the duty which should no longer be delayed of completing the provision for such cases by the enactment of general laws. The population of Lake county, almost entirely clustered about the port and railway station, Two Harbors, need such a law to bring to them the county seat from Beaver Bay, thirty miles distant.

The encouragement of timber culture has been for years the policy of the state. It will be equally wise to preserve by the best means our existing forests against wanton or heedless destruction. Fires on lands from which the timber has been mostly cleared, are among the greatest disasters. Some anxiety is felt among those who appreciate the influence of abundant forests as to the effects of the submersion of timber lands by the reservoirs about the sources of the Mississippi. An interesting inquiry was begun in that regard by a committee of the American Forestry association, whose chairman visited the region last summer, accompanied by the state land agent, Mr. W. P. Jewett. A copy of their report is transmitted herewith.

STATE INSPECTION OF GRAIN.

I venture to repeat the recommendations made to the legislature of 1843, regarding a system of state inspection of grain. In my communication to that body, I remarked that:

> The grievous compalints of the agricultural class in some sections of the state in regard to warehousing and grading of grain, is a subject that demands attention. The abuses complained of are of a character that cannot be ignored, though they may not be fully sustained by the facts in all cases. It is equally in the interest of the buyer as well as the seller of grain, that some system be devised by which the differences arising between them may be arbitrated and settled through agencies entirely disinterested. The farmer now complains that he has no option or appeal in the transaction involving the disposition of his product, but must perforce accept the judgment of the buyer as to its quality and value. A system of state inspection which comprehends the fixing of grades of grain and the adoption of rules regulating the management of elevators and warehouses, has been tried with success in other states. I recommend a careful consideration of this subject upon your part, and an examination of the methods and results of such a system in its operation elsewhere, with a view to its adaptation to the exigencies of the situation in this state.

I think I may assume that the experience of the past two years has given emphasis to the expressions above quoted. Indeed, the demand for such regulation and restraint in the inspection and warehousing of grain as a judicious legislative enactment may provide is so general and imperative that you cannot longer ignore it. The subject should receive early attention, that your efforts may not fail for want of considerate action. You cannot expect to devise a system that will meet the views of every one who may have earnest convictions upon the subject, but you can certainly provide for the correction to a large extent of those practices and abuses so generally complained of, and that have obtained by reason of the absence of legal restraint. While every one must recognize the fact that the inexorable law of supply and demand as a rule governs values of all food products in the great markets of the world, yet the question of inspection and grading has much to do in adjusting and determining such values. The loss of a grade means a reduction in price. A fictitious depreciation of quality by an arbitrary inspection [illegible] results in a serious loss to the owner of the property thus discriminated against. While it is unquestionably true that an open market, with free competition at primary receiving points, would prove a remedy for many of the worst evils now existing, yet a fixed standard of inspection, that shall secure to the small shipper at remote stations an impartial grading of his property in any market of the state where it may be consigned for sale, is demanded by the simplest fundamental principles attaching to the rights of property. This question is not involved in such complications that it should prove difficult of solution. Probably the simpler the system adopted, if it comprehends the principles requisite to make it effective, the more satisfactory it will prove in its practical operation. You have the experience of other states to aid you in the application of practical remedies for a recognized and admitted grievance. Your are specially charged by your constituents with the duty of providing relief from the further imposition of abuses that have become intolerable, and I venture to remind you that it should be among the first acts of your body to address yourself to its fearless and concientious discharge.

It is the conviction of some whose relations to this subject have been of a character to induce thoughtful investigation, that our people should take an advanced position upon this question, and bring the highest and most practical intelligence into service in determining grades and values of our grain. It must be conceded that the cereal productions of the Northwest have intrinsic merits not possessed by those grown in countries where the best elements of the soil have been eliminated by many years of continuous cultivation. I is a well known fact that our wheat or its product is largely used in mixing processes, whereby it is made to contribute essential qualities to the inferior wheats grown in other climates. Some of the most practical and scientific manufacturers of flour employ experts to test by analysis all grain used by them, and through the combination of certain elements secure the best possible results in their product. A system of inspection that would in like manner bring to its aid the knowledge so far as may be usefully employed, gained by such mechanical or chemical analysis of our cereal productions as would demonstrate their superiority, would doubtless result in establishing a high standard of grades for our grain. It may be said that such grades are not known in the great markets of the country, and would not be recognized by their commercial bodies. Let it become known that Minnesota has a system of inspection by which her wheat is classified according to its milling value and bread-producing qualities, and the direct consumptive demand for those grades that contain the elements of "body and strength" would absorb her product independent of all other markets. The State of New York has an "experimental station" where facilities are afforded to test the culture of the various productions of the husbandman, from whence reports are frequently issued for public information. Upon a similar basis the department of agriculture of our state university could provide the facilities for such scientific experiments as the system in contemplation would require or suggest, and provide the means by which inspectors could receive the instruction required to qualify them for their duties. It is not contemplated by such a system that every load of wheat shall be subjected to scientific tests, but that the system shall be controlled and directed by an intelligence that shall secure to the farmer offering for sale the best qualities of grain such advantage as superior husbandry should always command.

RAILROADS.

Nothing will engage your attention of such vital import to a very large part of our population as questions of railroad legislation. Many reasons for action seemed to exist at the last session, but although the subject was considered in committee, so persuasive were the assurances that the railroad companies would voluntarily remove every just cause of complaint that nothing was done. In less than a twelvemonth afterwards, under the intensified pressure of the same and some newly developed practices, many numerously signed petitions came up from widely extended agricultural sections, asking that an extra session of the legislature be called to adopt measures of relief against the oppression of railroad management. There were controlling reasons against reconvening that body, but as I called their attention earnestly to the subject, so I give it to you as one which, in my judgment, cannot lightly be passed over. Whatever reasons for complaint of discrimination or extortion there were two years ago are believed to exist today; while the evil of certain other practices and rules of management his disclosed its enormity. The assurances of the representatives of the companies to your predecessors that the interests of the farmers might safely be left to their discretion has proved delusive. As might be expected, those who manage the great railroads are intent, first and chiefly, upon subserving the interests of their stockholders. They seek economy, profit and convenience in operating their lines. Profit and certainly convenience, some of them think, will be secured as to freights, by large, frequent and easily regulated shipments under contracts with a small number of shippers, and therefore their management aims to encourage such. If this tends to build up a monopoly at every station, or one monopoly existing along their whole line, and making itself cruelly felt at every station, that result is not, they say, a part of their intention; they regret it if it is really oppressive, and hope it will not always be so, and call you to witness that, at the very worst, their road is a great blessing to the farmers. They tell you that wholesalers are accorded an advantage in rates and facilities the world over, citing the examples of individuals who have received nothing from the public and are under no obligations to the public, as a precedent for a company created by the commonwealth to serve the common weal, and bound by law, as well as the logic of its creation, not to discriminate, not to deal unequally, not to restrict its obligation of common carriage.

TRANSIT EVILS.

Beside the practices above hinted at, which tend to establish monopolies by giving some shippers advantages over others, another exists upon some lines, in accordance with which an owner of wheat who wishes to send it to any point on the line must pay the charges for carrying it over the whole road. He may then stop his wheat where he chooses, and sell his transit, or remaining freight right, for what he can get. This is defended on the ground that the wheat, or its product must go by some transportation line to that terminal point, Chicago or Milwaukee, and that the company which first has it is entitled to devise any possible plan to keep it, without having, at any intermediate point, to compete for its further carriage with other rival lines. Every argument to justify the demand for payment for carrying grain to Chicago, when the shipper only wants it carried to some intermediate point, would justify the exaction of transit rates to the seaboard instead of Chicago, if the company could possess itself of the control of a continuous line thither. Another rule by which producers have grievously suffered, is that adopted by some roads to receive no wheat upon its cars except from elevators of a given minimum capacity. The managers allege that a regulation of that kind is necessary to the proper performance of their obligation to carry the freight which may be offered them for transportation with due dispatch; that elevators of at least the capacity prescribed are necessary for the expeditious handling and loading of the grain; that the demand for cars when a great crop is to be moved, can scarcely be supplied even when they are occupied the least time in loading; and that by any other manner of handling the grain there would be great loss in the service obtained from their rolling stock. As a consequence of this impossibility of getting their purchases to market whenever desired, buyers, it is said, could not maintain prices, and farmers would suffer the loss. Much of this is, or has been, true, and such considerations may be accepted as a sufficient explanation or apology for the errors of the companies in once adopting the practice to rid themselves of an inconvenience; but they are not sufficient to maintain it, after it has been found to deprive the producers whom they were created to serve, of the competition among buyers which ought everywhere to exist, because it is the natural and only means to maintain just grades and fair prices. The duty of the railroad companies as common carriers is to transport for all alike, with reasonable dispatch and at reasonable rates. What are reasonable rates and reasonable dispatch depends on the circumstances of the case, but the obligation to carry for all alike is absolute under all circumstances. No increased dispatch, no reduced rate to some, will justify any practice which works discrimination or a restriction of his free right to any [illegible].

The people look to you to adopt laws which shall interdict and terminate all these practices. The details of the legislation which will accomplish it, will be yours to elaborate. It is my duty to recommend that you aim to secure, at every station, an open and unrestricted market, the right of shipment for any and all, without partiality or preference, and transportation for all without discrimination at equal and reasonable rates, to any desired destination. The prosperity of the companies depends largely upon the prosperity of the people along their lines. You will not, therefore, evince hostility to the roads by releasing the people from the shackles of monopoly, which fetter their prosperity.

FREIGHT TARIFF.

The producers of our state have been greatly disappointed by the failure of the railroad companies to adjust their tariffs the past year to conform to the changed conditions in the general business of the country. They justly complain that charges for transportation are out of proportion to the value of the commodities transported. While the prices of grain have declined to a point that affords no profit to the farmer under the most favorable conditions for marketing his crop, the charges for transportation prevailing in former years have been substantially maintained. A slight reduction may have been made in some instances, as a grudging concession to popular clamor, yet it has not been sufficient to afford appreciable relief in this regard. From many points in the state, one-half the value of a bushel of wheat is taken for its transportation to Chicago, while from remote stations the freight and accompanying charges upon certain kinds and grades of grain, amount almost to a confiscation of the property. The gross injustice of this policy does not require illustration. In times of general depression there should be, so far as may be practicable, an equitable distribution of burdens. When values of agricultural products prove remunerative to the farmer, he willingly pays liberal rates for their transportation; but, when prices barely pay the cost of production, he certainly should not be compelled to pay the full tribute necessary to enable these corporations to declare regular dividends upon their exaggerated issues of stock.

The report of the railroad commissioner shows continued prosperity to have prevailed in the railroad business of the state. The total number of miles of completed road reported within the state, Dec. 1, 1882, was 3,749.13. The total number Dec. 1, 1884, was 4,162.22, of which 256.84 miles were constructed within the last twelve months. The total earnings of these roads within the state was, for the year ending June 30, 1882, $18,805,193.10. The total earnings for the year ending June 30, 1884, was $23,243,466.22. The total operating expenses, which amounted to $10,221,783.69 in 1882, were $11,784,253.59 for the year ending June 30, 1884. The average earnings per mile had increased from $5,642.24 to $5,924.77 in two years; while the average operating expenses had been reduced from $3,066.90 to $3,004.28. The average cost of construction of the roads in this state, including equipment, as represented by their issues of bonds and stock, is given by the commissioner at $40,994.56 per mile. The average earnings of the same for the last twelve months' report exceed the average of operating expenses by $2,920.49 per mile. The taxes paid to the state on the gross earnings of the railroads in this state during the past year were $645,735.18. This large amount will be steadily increased from the increase of business upon these roads and from the new lines, of which a number of important ones are soon to be completed.

CONCLUSION.

Confident that the influence controlling your deliberations here will be a desire to serve the best interests of your constituents, and trusting that the people of the state may not be disappointed in their expectation of such practical remedial legislation at your hands as shall best promote their prosperity and happiness, I commend the subjects of this communication to your considerate attention.

L. F. HUBBARD,
Governor.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
ST. PAUL, Jan. 7, 1885.

The British Franchise Bill.

London Correspondence New York Nation: The bill goes further than anybody expected six months ago, or than could have been divined from Mr. Gladstone's earlier statements. It is not a reform, but a revolution. It takes away 160 seats from the smaller boroughs, depriving some of separate representation, (i. e., merging their voters in the general mass of county voters,) and taking away one member from others which till now have returned two members. The lower limit for separate borough representation is fixed at a population of 15,000, and of boroughs with two members at about 50,000. Of these 160 seats a few are given to new boroughs, a much larger number are added to the great cities with a population exceeding 165,000, and a still larger number to the counties, becaue these last are having their voters far more than doubled in number by the extension to them of the household suffrage which has hitherto been confined to the boroughs. The magnitude of the change may be measured by the fact that the great reform bill of 1832 reallotted only 143 seats, 17 less than this bill. However, this change is not that which has excited the most interest. Something of the sort was foreseen, was indeed inevitable, though few people expected the disfranchisement to be so bold. A point on which far greater uncertainty existed was as to the arrangements for representing the big cities and the counties. Hitherto no city (except the ancient city of London, with its four members) has had more than three members, and those with three (Liverpool, Manchester, Birmingham, Leeds, Glasgow) have returned their members en bloc, not by districts, although each voter has been alowed to vote for two only, so as to give the inferior party, where it is considerable, one member and the dominant party two. Now these large cities receive several additional members. Liverpool is to have nine in all, Manchester six, Glasgow and Birmingham seven each, Leeds and Sheffield five each, and so-forth, while the ten parliamentary boroughs which now make up London, and which, taken together, return 22 members, are in the future to be represented by 45. The bill proposes to cut up these cities into equal electoral divisions, each of which is to return one member only; and the same treatment is meted out to the English counties and county divisions, which, from having had usually two—in some cases three—members each, are now to be arranged into divisions with one member each. These are sweeping changes, which disturb all our old ideas and habits, and affect the large majority of members of the house of commons, displacing some, altering the constituencies of others. The third notable feature of the scheme is the proposal to add eighteen members to the house of commons, bringing its number up to 670. Six of these are allotted to England and twelve to Scotland, which has been much under-represented. The motive is the wish to avoid the resistance of the Irish and Welsh members to a reduction of the representation of each of those countries—greater in proportion to its population than that of England and Scotland.

ILLEGAL LIQUOR SHIPMENTS.

The report of collections of internal revenue in the Third district of Iowa, compiled in December for submission to the chief of the department, by Internal Revenue Collector Simpson, shows the figures to be $203,801.25. A year ago the figures were about $260,000. Collector Simpson has received a letter from Hon. Mr. Rogers, deputy commissioner of internal revenue, in which he says: "It is represented to this office that parties in your district advertise to ship packages of distilled spirits incased in outside coverings, and bill the same as merchandise, etc., in order to conceal the nature of the goods with a view of avoiding seizure by the local authorities where rigid prohibitory laws prevail." In view of this you will strictly enforce the instructions on this subject, and also call the attention of parties interested to the fact that a penalty is provided for the shipment of any spirituous or fermented liquors or wines, under any other than the proper names or brand known to the trade." The liquors in question are understood to be shipped mainly in Iowa, but considerable quantities go to other states and towns where their sale is prohibited. The business is growing quite extensive, and efforts will be made to break it up.

The Tower of Babel.

Paris Cable: One of the most striking features of the exhibition in 1889 will be the great tower of Babel, which is now in course of erection. It will be 1,000 feet high (nearly the fifth of a mile), 330 feet wide at the base, and gradually tapering to 30 feet at the summit. The whole structure will be surmounted by a glass pavilion, serving for an electric lighthouse and observatory. The enormous height of this structure can be better appreciated by comparison. The Milan cathedral, to the top of the statue of the Madonna, is 353 feet; St. Paul's, London, to the top of the cross, 404 feet; St. Peter's, Rome, to the top of the cross, 448 feet, and Strasburg cathedral, to the top of its wonderful fret-work spire, 468 feet, or not one-half as high as the projected tower.

PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.—Among the bills introduced was one by Mr. Allison, relating to fees of pension claim agents and attorneys. He said he did not want to be responsible for all the provisions, but they were identical with the provisions of the pension bill recently passed by the house. It was general legislation, he said, and repealed all legislative provisions contained in the pension appropriation bill of last year. There was now great complaint that the legislation of last year was hasty and unjust to the soldiers of the country, and it has been indirectly charged that the senate was responsible for that legislation. The fact was that the legislation of last year came from the house in a regular bill. Under the rules of the senate there was no possibility of having well considered legislation in an appropriation bill, because an amendment should not be offered nor debate had with respect to it. He introduced the bill in order that it might be referred to the committee on pensions and carefully considered in the committee and in the senate. It was said that under the legislation of last year claim agents were oppressing pension applicants. If so, the fact should be ascertained at the earliest moment and a remedy applied. Other senators spoke on the subject.

The senate in executive session decided, forty to twelve, not to make the text of the Nicaragua treaty public in advance of the action of the senate. Senator Edmunds was the chief speaker in opposition to the proposition, and based his argument upon the constitutional right and power of the senate to deal with treaties unincumbered by advice or influences from any source, and quoted extensively from authorities upon the constitutional powers of the senate in this respect.

HOUSE.—The house Thursday, by a vote of 158 to 75, passed the Reagan inter-state commerce bill. The opponents of this measure made a determined effort to inject a provision providing for the appointment of a board of commissioners, with authority to decide all controversies that might arise between shippers of freight and the railroad companies, but were defeated by a decisive vote. Subsequently an effort was made to recommit the bill, with instructions to report back the measure originally reported by the committee on commerce, but this also met with signal defeat. Except the O'Hara amendment, providing against discrimination in carrying passengers, the bill passed substantially as presented by Mr. Reagan, and now goes to the senate for action by that body. All the Minnesota delegation voted for the bill except Mr. Washburn.

In the contested election case of Craig (Republican) against Shelley (Democrat), Fourth district of Alabama, the house awarded the seat to Craig, who took the oath of office.

SENATE.—A bill was passed directing the transfer of one of the vessels of the Greely relief expedition to the treasury department for a revenue cutter for use in the waters of Alaska, and authorizing the retention of the other two for use in the navy as surveying vessels or otherwise.

Mr. Cockrell, introduced a bill to amend the act placing colored troops on the same footing as to bounty as other soldiers by making it apply to the heirs of all colored soldiers who may have died and were killed while in the military service of the United States.

The following nominations were received: Samuel P. McCormick, collector internal revenue district of Virginia; postmaster, John J. Gutter, Parke, Dak.

Confirmations—John M. Morton, surveyor of Customs, San Francisco; L. S. Howlett, receiver of public moneys, Yakima, Wash.; T. F. Johnson, collector of customs, Savannah, Ga.; rear admirals in the navy, S. P. Quackenbush, Earl English and J. H. Upshur; H. M. Dennison, pay director of the navy; W. S. Schley, chief of the bureau of equipment and recruiting of the navy. Senate adjourned for two days.

HOUSE.—Mr. Curtin, from the committee on foreign affairs, reported a resolution calling for information from the executive relative to the arrest of T. R. Moynahan, an American citizen, by the government of Mexico. Adopted. Mr. Curtin also reported a resolution calling on the president for information relating to the Congo conference. Adopted. Also a resolution calling on the president for copies of the correspondence between this government and France in regard to the French and American claims commission since the 23d of November, 1881. Adopted. Also a resolution calling on the secretary of state for a detailed statement of the expenditure of the amount appropriated for the expenses of the French and American claims commission. Adopted.

On Saturday, the senate was not in session, but the house did a good day's work. Mr. Randall directed the attention of the house to the importance of proceeding with the appropriation bills, and warned the house that unless the measures were speedily disposed of there was danger of an extra session of the Forty-ninth congress. This admonition seemed to have the desired effect, as the house refused to take up the public buildings bill, and proceeded with the navy appropriation bill. This measure was passed with very little discussion.

The naval appropriation bill makes provision for the naval service for the six months ending June 30, 1885, on the basis of the bill which passed the house the first session of this congress, giving for each item of expenditure just one-half the amount contained in the said bill, with the following exceptions: For current expenses of the bureau of yards and docks, in lieu of one-half, or $100,000, there is given $90,000; the current expenses of the bureau of construction and repairs, in lieu of one-half, or $500,000 there is given $450,000; for current expenses of the bureau of steam engineering, in lieu of one-half, or $375,000, there is given $280,000, together with the unexpended balance of $140,000 from the appropriation in 1884 for monitors; for the pay of the navy and marine corps there is given in lieu of one-half the amount contained in the said bill, a sum equal to the balance remaining after deducting the appropriations for the first six months from the whole sum proposed in the said bill. There is nothing in the bill for steel cruisers, appropriations to complete them having already been made. The bill appropriates in all $6,120,155, which, added to the sum appropriated for the first six months ended Dec. 31, 1884, $8,860,317, makes the total appropriations for the navy for the entire fiscal year of 1885, $14,670,472, or $913,071 less than appropriated for the fiscal year of 1884.

SENATE.—There was a sharp discussion in the senate on the resolution of Senator Hawley, calling upon the secretary of war for letters and documents bearing upon the controversy between Gen. Sherman and Jeff Davis. Mr. Vest objected to the resolution and made a speech of unusual earnestness, during which he said the passage of the resolution was as unnecessary as pockets to a shroud, and spoke of Jeff Davis as an old man who was broken down and seeking rest from such controversies as was involved in the question the senate was asked to consider. Senator Ingalls stirred up the Democratic senators by some peppery remarks which called out Morgan, George and Lamar, the latter gentleman making a defense of Mr. Davis against the charge of being a traitor. The discussion continued for about an hour and was perhaps the most heated that has occurred during the past two years.

Senators Wilson and Mitchell introduced bills to increase the pensions of widows or minor children of deceased soldiers and sailors of the United States in the late war, from $8 to $12 per month. The bill of Senator Mitchell also provides that the fact that a soldier or sailor was regularly mustered into the service shall be prime facie evidence of his soundness at that time.

Senator Conger introduced a bill authorizing the secretary of war to negotiate for and purchase the Portage Lake & River Improvement Company canal and Portage lake and Lake Superior ship canal, the two canals together to form a water way across Keweenaw point from Keweenaw bay to Lake Superior. The bill also provides that the canals shall be a free water way after their purchase by the United States.

HOUSE.—A bill passed authorizing the Chicago, St. Paul & St. Louis Railroad company to construct bridges across the Mississippi in Minnesota and Wisconsin. A bill was introduced for the better protection of the Northern and Northwestern frontiers and to facilitate commerce among the states. It contemplates the building of a canal through the State of New York, of sufficient size to allow the passage of vessels of war. District of Columbia business was disposed of, and the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill considered.

Gen. Crocker says only two persons living know where Guiteau was buried. Gen. Crocker discounts the story that Guiteau's curse has hurt anybody, citing the case of Col. Corkhill, who has lately fallen heir to $100,000.

Minnesota Legislature.

The Twenty-Fourth Legislature of Minnesota assembled at St. Paul on the 6th "the first Tuesday after the first Monday" in January. The senate was called to order by Lieut. Gov. Gilman, and prayer was offered by Rev. Josiah Marvin. Roll call showed all the senators present except C. D. Gilfillan, J. B. Gilfillan, R. B. Langdon, Clarke and Bilsen.

Then came the election of officers. The vote was strictly on party lines, and the Republican caucus nominees received 29 votes, and those of the Democrats 11, in every case. The officers chosen are as follows:

Secretary—J. D. Jones.
Assistant Secretary—J. L. Helm.
Enrolling Clerk—J. P. Jacobson.
Engrossing Clerk—A. H. Bertram.
Sergeant-at-Arms—J. H. Westby.
Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms—J. P. Spencer.
Chaplain—N. Hobart.

The democrats voted for: Secretary, J. D. Wood of Ramsey; assistant secretary, N. E. Dorsble of Houston; second assistant secretary, Z. S. Gault of Nicollet; enrolling clerk, D. McLoughlin of Waseca; engrossing clerk, J. A. Coller of Scott; sergeant-at-arms, Mathias Shortall of Washington; assistant sergeant-at-arms, James Greeley of Renville; chaplain, Rev. George B. Whipple of Faribault.

The House and the governor were notified of the organization of the senate, and after the transaction of routine business the senate adjourned.

The house was called to order by secretary of state von Baumbach. The members were sworn in by Judge Vanderburg. The vote for speaker stood John L. Gibbs, 79; E. W. Durant, (dem.) 21.

The formality was then gone through with of electing the Republican caucus nominees, Mr. Daniels presenting the names of the Republican nominees and Mr. Hendrickson the Democratic nominees. The officers elected were:

Chief Clerk—John R. Howard, Stearns.
First Assistant Clerk—Fred L. Warner of Redwood.
Second Assistant Clerk—W. B. Berkdahl of Pipe Stone.
Enrolling Clerk—Carl R. Lein of Goodhue.
Engrossing Clerk—James Morrison of Blue Earth.
Sergeant-at-arms—Ward F. Grey of Hennepin. Assistant Sergeant-at-arms—John R. Bean of Anoka.
Postmaster—Henry Anderson of Chippewa.
Chaplain—W. H. Harrington of Washington.

The speaker announced as pages William Sundbladt of Douglas, Charles Hamilton of Ramsey, William H. Bertram of Wright, Bert F. Case of Fillmore.

After drawing seats the house adjourned.

SENATE.—Bills introduced on the second day, by Senator Pillsbury, to merge the surplus in the state institutions and the forestry fund in the general revenue fund; by Senator Wilson, to tax railroad lands to which the title has been passed, and by Senator O'Brien, to prohibit prizefighting, sparring, boxing and wrestling contests. The bill includes all who publish challenges or accounts of prize fights or ring exhibitions of cognate sort, and provides as a punishment a fine of not more than $500 or less than $100, or imprisonment of not more than one year or less than three months. All persons giving, conveying or originating a challenge shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and liable to punishment as above. Persons leaving the state to evade the law are made liable; also all who lease, rent or grant ground or the use of any building for such contests, the penalty in the latter case being not less than $25, nor more than $100. All policemen or constabulary officers having reason to believe any of the prohibited contests about to come off is made guilty of misdemeanor if he fails to report it. Much time was taken in perfecting organizations, by additional door-keepers, and minor officers, etc.

HOUSE.—Mr. Drake opened business by offering a resolution for the appointment of a doorkeeper and person to hoist the flag on the capitol, and of parties to take charge of each of the cloak rooms. This went through without the usual opposition. Mr. Thompson of Fillmore offered a resolution providing for the appointment of an assistant postmaster, and this was adopted, and then Mr. Daniels proposed a resolution providing that the chief clerk subscribe for seven daily papers, or their equivalent in weeklies, for the use of members of the house. This went through also without debate.

Mr. Cornish, from the committee appointed to wait upon the governor, reported that the governor had signified his readiness to read his message at 3:30 p. m., to which hour it was agreed that the house take a recess.

During the afternoon the senate came into the house, and in joint convention both houses listened to the governor's message.

SENATE.—The senate passed the bill merging the excess of the several funds (excepting the internal improvement fund) in the general revenue fund, and also passed the bill appropriating $60,000 for current expenses of this legislature. Bills were introduced to legalize the incorporation of sundry villages; to change the interest rate from 7 to 5 per cent. on sales of public lands; to require railroad corporations to perform their duties as common carriers in the transportation of grain and to regulate the price of freight; to provide for a change of county seats on petition; regulating the issue of storage tickets from warehouses; providing a fund for sick and disabled firemen, and providing for an additional judge in the Eleventh judicial district. President Gilman announced the standing committees for the present session. There are not many changes from two years ago. In the committee on federal relations Truax was given the chairmanship. He suffered last session through a clerical error, and did not have any prominence in committees. This is stoned for this year. Clarke is ill and unlikely to do much work. Hickman takes his place as chairman of the enrollment committee, Clarke replacing Hickman as chairman of geological and natural history survey. Goodrich makes way for Blake as chairman of the committee on corporations, and gets Blake's place as chairman of towns and counties. Three of the St. Paul and Minneapolis Republican senators have the most important chairmanships—J. B. Gilfillan, judiciary; C. D. Gilfillan, railways, and C. A. Pillsbury, finance. Langdon is chairman of the committee on deaf, dumb and blind, and has third place on railroads. Griggs is on the committees on finance, military affairs, state reform school and public buildings. Adjourned from Thursday noon until 8 p. m. Monday, the 12th inst., which means Tuesday morning as a quorum will be difficult to get on Monday evening.

HOUSE.—The speaker announced the appointment of a committee on rules and extra officers.

Two bills proposing to regulate the grain traffic came into the house—Mr. Reese's, the Kandiyohi county bill, and the second by Mr. Meyers.

They provide, with suitable penalties for the violation of their requirements, that railroads shall furnish facilities to every person desiring to ship grain, and shall transport the same wherever desired at a reasonable rate of compensation (fixed in one bill at five mills per hundred pounds for each five miles), without discrimination between persons and places, and without deductions, delays or changes of route.

The rules of last session were adopted without material change, except increasing the committee on grain and grain inspection, from seven to fifteen members. The senate bills for the merging of funds in the general revenue fund and appropriating $60,000 for legislative expenses were passed. The mileage of the various members was reported. Adjourned from Thursday until Monday the 12th inst., at 8 p. m.

Mr. Marion Crawford, the novelist, tells a characteristic story about Carlyle, which he observes impartially, may be true. It was at a dinner party and Carlyle sat silent listening to the talk of lesser men. A young politician was talking theory to a beef-old conservative who despised youth and reason in an equal degree. "The British people, sir," said he of the beef, "can afford to laugh at theories." "Sir," said Carlyle, speaking for the first time during dinner, "the French nobility of a hundred years ago said they could afford to laugh at theories. Then came a man and wrote a book called 'The Social Contract.' The man was Jean Jacques Rousseau, and his book was a theory and nothing but a theory. The nobles could laugh at his theory, but their skins went to bind the second edition of his book." After which tremendous sentence the old sage seems to have relapsed into silence. The allusion, of course, was to the famous tannery at Meudon.

Why Apprentices are Scarce.

A contemporary writer says it is principally because of the conceit of weak and foolish parents who could not think of allowing their boys to soil their hands with manual labor or tarnish their pedigree by associating with common workmen. Many and many a young man have I known whose aptitudes called to him with all the imperious demands of instinct to learn a trade, but he was prevented from doing so by his parents, who preferred to see him filling the more important and dignified position of clerk, often working fifteen hours a day for $15 per month, and sometimes yielding to the small temptation to leave unpaid his tailor's and washerwoman's bills. Or, if he escaped the clerkship, he was almost sure to be found among the luckless ninety-and-nine professional men who stand off and eye with green envy the one in the round hundred who has made a success. It is not the lack of attention to the new workman that is lowering the standard in mechanical trades, but the folly of parents in closing the doors of the trades in the face of their sons, and in the absence of good material we get bad. It is very often the case that we get hold of a boy who has few or no qualifications, natural or acquired, for a trade, but he can probably make more money at that than at common labor, and, as we can get no better, we have to do the best we can. There is no doubt we are getting poorer subjects every year for apprentices for this very reason. But we can reach a point so low that it is impossible to get any lower, and I believe we have about reached that point in some lines of business. Some parents, and boys too, are at last getting their eyes opened. They are learning that they cannot plant dudes and raise men. Many bubbles have been pricked, and much gilding has worn through. Labor is becoming more dignified, because more than ever before it is wedded to thought. The manual training-schools which are springing up in nearly all of our large cities are giving instruction to many boys whose parents, perhaps, would not at first consent to them entering the shops. These schools are doing a good work in teaching the principles of trades, in fostering a genuine love for mechanics, and in pointing out the way to the special field where the young man can labor with the assurance of receiving his highest reward. With such brightening prospects as the work of the manual training school warrants we see no reason for fearing that the race of good workmen in any trade will soon die out. On the contrary, we believe we will see mechanics increasing in numbers and skill from year to year.—Scientific American.

In the Lagoons of the Congo.

"A rustling in the vegetation, and a large varanus lizard slips into the water, or on some trampled bank a crocodile lies asleep in the warm sun, with a fixed smirk hanging about his grim muzzle. These lagoons are places that are seething with life—life that is ever stirring, striving and active—and when you suddenly arrive, slipping and splashing in the watery footholds, the sudden silence that greets you is the frightened, expectant hush of a thousand apprehensive creatures. Beyond the lagoons and this strip of mud and water rises an almost impenetrable barrier of forest, nearly impossible to pass by land, but which is fortunately pierced by many little arms or natural canals of the congo, that intersect it and penetrate to the firm, dry land beyond. As you paddle gently in a native canoe through the watery valleys of the vegetable Venice, the majestic trees, firmly interlaced above and overarching the canal, shrouding all in pale-green gloom, the glympses and vistas through the forest that you get reveal many beautiful forms of bird and insect life. Barbets, with red forehead and large, notched bills, are sitting in stupid meditation on the twigs, giving a harsh and mechanical squeak, if the too near approach of the canoe disturbs their reverie. Little African woodpeckers are creeping up the branches, deftly turning round towards the unseen side when they observe you; large, green mantises, or 'praying insects,' are chasing small flies with their great, pouncing forelegs, and every now and then a blue roller-bird snaps up a mantis, in spite of its wonderful assimilation to its leafy sourroundings. Farther into the forest, the canal, a blind alley of water, stops, the soil becomes solid and well raised, and a native path is discernible, leading through the now more park-like and formal clumps of forest to a distant village, whence the crowing of cocks and the occasional shouts of the inhabitants can be heard. But the birds do not lessen because we are approaching the abode of men. Out of the bosky trees little troops of black and white hornbills suddenly start, and flap their loose, irregular flight to another refuge. Violet plantain-eaters gleam out in their beauty from time to time; golden cuckoos, yellow-vented bulbuls, green fruit pigeons, gray parrots, parrots that are gray and blue and yellow-shouldered, green love-birds, a multitude of little wax-bills, a medley of diverse and beautiful birds, enliven this walk through the forest, along the black, peat path, with their loud cries, their lovely plumage and their rapid movements."—From H. H. Johnston's book on the Congo.

A Northwestern Bishop.

Bishop Paddock, (Episcopal) of Washington Territory, will return to his missionary diocese at the close of this month. He has been occupied during the winter in raising money for a second school at Tacoma. Mr. Wright, of Philadelphia, offered two years ago to give the land and an endowment fund of $50,000 for each of two church schools, one for girls and the other for boys, provided the Bishop would furnish a building fund of $25,000 in each instance. The corner-stone for one of the schools was laid last year, the building fund having been secured. The Bishop has succeeded in raising $2[illegible],000 for the second school, and is confident that the remainder will be in hand in time to secure the second endowment of $50,000. He has also opened a hospital on the coast, and placed a third school at Walla Walla on a self-supporting basis. These four institutions will give the religious body which he represents great influence in the rapidly growing Territory, soon to become a State. The Bishop's daughter, who was married in Brooklyn last October to Lieutenant Mills, U. S. A., is now at Fort Cœur d'Alene, on the border of her father's diocese.

Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Publisher.

CROOKSTON, - MINNESOTA.

THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

What Gov. Hubbard Has to Say Concerning the Past Two Years in Minnesota.

What Has Been Received and What Spent, with Estimates for the Next Two Years.

Matters Concerning Education, State Institutions, Public Health, Militia, the Public Examiner, Etc., Discussed.

The Necessity That Something Be Done Regarding a System of State Inspection of Grain.

Also That Some Action Be Taken for Relie Against the Oppression of Railroad Management.

The Message.

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives: The two years that have elapsed since the legislature was in session have been marked by a large increase in the population of our state, and a corresponding accession to the aggregate wealth of our people. The national census of 1880 gave Minnesota a population of 780,806. A comparison of the vote cast at the presidential election of that year with the poll in November last assures us beyond question of a present population of over one million, an increase of 30 per cent, much the larger part of which has been realized within the past two years. The increase in the assessed valuation of real and personal property has been about 25 per cent within two years, and 50 per cent since 1880, as appears from the following statement of property valuation as fixed by the state board of equalization:

Valuation for 1880	$268,517,736
Valuation for 1881	283,277,386
Valuation for 1882	322,157,615
Valuation for 1883	348,603,486
Valuation for 1884	401,028,587

This showing will be accepted as evidence that our state is making substantial progress toward the realization of those possibilities of empire and independence which great natural resources and an intelligent and vigorous people promise for her future.

The information furnished by the various department reports that are before you show that, as a rule, the varied interests of our people have kept pace in their development with our growth in population and wealth. During the year just closed Minnesota has been blessed with harvests of surpassing abundance. In no period of her history has her soil yielded more bountifully of all its products. Under the conditions ordinarily prevailing this would assure to our people great prosperity, but the experience of all grain growing countries of the world has been so like our own in this respect that, as a consequence, the great distributing markets, unable to absorb the rapid accumulations, have now such a plethora of all cereal products that values have declined till they barely return to the grower the cost of production. In the older sections of the state, where our agricultural industry has demonstrated the adaptibility of our soil and climate to the employment of the most advanced methods of husbandry, there have rapidly developed in recent years large interests in stock raising and extensive establishments for the manufacture of dairy products, from which the farmer realizes handsomely upon his investment and labor. As a result those localities are eminently prosperous and are accumulating wealth. The fluctuations and contingencies of the grain markets lose much of their significance to the farmer who has other resources than his crop of wheat. I think we may safely assume that the people will profit by the teachings of our own experience, and that we shall continue to note in the future the tendency of agriculturists in all sections of the state, to more diversified methods in their industry.

THE FINANCES.

The auditor's and treasurer's reports give in detail the transactions of the treasury and the present status of the public funds. To conform to the changes in the fiscal year made by the last legislature, the reports of the current period cover eight months, ending July 31, 1883, and the year ending July 31, 1884. The more important summaries of these reports, somewhat condensed, are as follows:

RECEIPTS.

	1883. (8 Months)	1884.
Cash balance Dec. 1, 1882	$143,098 58
Cash balance July 31, 1883	....	$303,586 44
State taxes	306,995 61	553,946 13
Counties, for school text books	19,255 79	21,438 81
Counties, for seed grain loans of 1877-78	6,721 57	4,379 49
Taxes on gross receipts of railroad companies	479,698 28	622,606 46
Taxes on telegraph companies	4,530 60	5,643 00
Taxes and fees of insurance companies	55,304 81	67,167 38
Sale of pine timber on state lands	40,491 73	108,363 50
Principal on school land contracts	266,445 67	212,523 69
Principal on university land contracts	16,937 08	15,128 39
Principal on internal improvement land cont'ts	46,341 85	65,074 14
Interest on school land contracts	171,818 62	199,656 24
Interest on university land contracts	18,854 09	19,866 68
Interest on internal improvement land cont'ts	39,413 54	60,097 87
Interest on invested school funds	114,054 07	157,057 22
Interest on invested university funds	10,845 09	12,465 00
Counties, for reform schoo'l inmates	15,601 50	7,127 23
Premiums in exchange of 98,000 Missouri 6s for 98,000 Minnesota railroad adjustment bonds		6,340 00
Bonds redeemed	48,000 00	46,000 00
Sale of 671,000 Missouri 6s		712,135 69
Sale of 190,000 Minnesota revenue bonds of 1883	190,000 00
Sale of 299,000 United States registered bonds		359,784 76
Interest on deposit of State funds	3,218 16	10,039 40
Refunded by regents of university	12,000 00	20,000 00
Five per cent on United States land		31,607 08
Miscellaneous	5,771 02	14,215 79
Totals	$2,018,297 57	$3,666,149 18

DISBURSEMENTS.

	1883.	1884.
Legislative expenses	$72,884 41	$93 54
Impeachment court deficiency	12,532 90
Executive expenses	46,283 31	66,956 36
Judicial expenses	62,983 54	82,982 83
Public printing	34,838 42	12,744 94
Paper and stationery	9,561 87	3,619 25
Printing laws in newspapers	26,832 40
Support of first hospital for insane	89,122 48	127,744 79
Support of second hospital for insane	87,611 18	84,575 07
Support of deaf and dumb, blind and imbecile school	34,648 23	58,955 64
Support of normal shools	33,981 71	59,204 37
Support of prison	37,806 05	62,636 87
Support of reform school	24,877 71	35,000 00
First hospital insane, building, etc.	43,000 00	34,000 00
Second hospital insane, building, etc.	27,453 40	56,235 30
First hospital insane, land		8,400 00
Second hospital insane, land		8,600 00
Deaf and dumb, blind and imbecile building, etc.	8,000 00	36,318 18
Prison improvement and shops	14,218 18	58,130 35
Finishing and furnishing capitol	183,027 68	11,847 63
Enlarging university gr'ds	12,000 00	8,000 00
University building		30,000 00
Prison wall and grading	19,972 97	1,045 69
Interest on state debt	186,176 83	193,102 28
Redemption of state b'ds	80,000 00	46,000 00
Bonds for invested school fund	404,000 00	....
Apportioned school fund	91,643 16	299,232 86
$578,000 Minnesota railroad adjustment bonds	....	578,000 00
$395,000 U. S. 4s for permanent school fund	....	460,958 77
$30,000 U. S. 4½s for permanent school fund	....	31,989 75
Accrued interest on bonds bought for permanent school fund	....	18,371 70
Support of university	46,091 67	59,706 83
Regents of university	21,000 00	6,000 00
$36,000 Minnesota railroad adjustment bonds for university	....	36,000 00
School text books	20,236 97	21,953 08
Minnesota national guard	10,368 21	14,506 30
Fish commission	5,000 00	5,000 00
Agricultural societies	4,162 16	6,000 00
High schools	554 22	20,810 46
Institutes	2,916 66	5,000 00
Historical society	2,759 31	4,987 18
Horse thief bounties	2,600 00	3,600 00
Wolf bounties	8,815 00	10,130 00
Select'g and selling state lands	8,260 26	9,154 54
Roads and bridges	10,653 83	31,788 02
Bounties for tree plant'ng	2,402 61	6,367 75
Miscellaneous	57,534 49	51,364 13
Totals	$1,714,711 12	2,729,354 12
Balance in treasury July 31	$303,586 44	$936,795 04

The balance July 31, 1884, stands to the credit of—

State institutions fund	$184,863 01
Permanent school fund	434,803 90
General school fund	253,576 57
Forestry fund	63,435 34
Perm't university fund	28,752 51
General university fund	6,473 61
Int'l improvement fund	119 04
Redemption fund	5,474 61
Int. improvm't land fund	16,135 11
Int. improvm't land fund—interest	52,996 52
School text book fund	367 87
Swamp land fund	2,836 02
	$1,039,234 11
Revenue fund overdrawn	102,439 07

Balance July 31, 1884 .... $936,795 04

The estimated receipts and expenditures for 1885, 1886 and 1887 are as follows:

Revenue Fund.

RECEIPTS.

Fiscal years ending July 31—

	1885.	1886.	1887.
State taxes	$386,000	$400,000	$430,000
Ins. Cos.' taxes and fees	67,000	70,000	75,000
Counties for inmates of reform school	6,500	6,500	6,500
Interest on deposits	7,500	5,000	5,000
Transfer forestry fund surplus	33,000	15,000	20,000
Transfer from state institutions fund	....	125,000	75,000
Totals	$500,000	$621,500	$611,500

DISBURSEMENTS.

	1885.	1886.	1887.
Overdraft, July 31, 1884	$102,439 07
Unpaid appropriat'ns, July 31, 1884	165,000 00	....	....
Executive expenses	68,490 00	68,490	68,500
Judicial expenses	84,900 00	84,900	84,900
Printing and paper	33,000 00	14,000	40,000
University building	30,000 00	30,000	....
Prison improvements	36,000 00	30,000	30,000
Miscellaneous	113,000 00	113,000	120,000
Legislative expenses	80,000 00	....	80,000
Printing laws in newspapers	26,000 00	....	30,000
Census	....	25,000	....
Transfer to school text book fund	....	....	60,000
Totals	$737,829 07	$366,390	$502,900

RECAPITULATION.

	Receipts.	Disbursements.
Year ending July 31, 1885	$500,000	$737,829 07
Year ending July 31, 1886	621,500	366,390 00
Year ending July 31, 1887	611,500	502,900 00
Totals for three years	$1,733,000	$1,607,119 07

Estimated excess of receipts, July 31, 1887 .... $125,880 93

State Institutions Fund.

RECEIPTS.

	1885.	1886.	1887.
R. R. companies' taxes	$645,000	$650,000	$660,000
Telegraph and telephone companies' taxes	6,000	6,000	6,000
Balance July 31, 1884	184,000
Totals	$835,000	$656,000	$666,000

DISBURSEMENTS.

	1885.	1886.	1887.
Support 1st hos'l insane	$141,375	$136,020	$150,280
Support 2d hos'l insane	72,800	97,240	106,080
Support deaf and dumb, blind and imbecile schools	60,000	70,000	70,000
Support of prison	65,000	70,000	75,000
Support of reform school	35,000	35,000	40,000
Support of normal schools	39,000	39,000	39,000
Support of historical soc'y	6,000	6,000	6,000
Interest on railroad adjustment bonds	100,000	100,000	100,000
Transfer to revenue fund	....	125,000	75,000
Totals	$519,175	$678,260	$661,360

RECAPITULATION.

	Receipts.	Disbursements.
Year ending July 31, 1885	$835,000	$519,175
Year ending July 31, 1886	656,000	678,260
Year ending July 31, 1887	666,000	661,360
Totals	$2,157,000	$1,858,795

Estimated excess receipts July 31, 1887 .... $298,205

Redemption Fund—Revenue Bonds of 1883.

RECEIPTS.

Year ending July 31—	1885.	1886.	1887.
Balance July 31, 1884	$5,474 61
State taxes	77,200 00	$80,000	$86,000
Totals	$82,674 61	$80,000	$86,000

DISBURSEMENTS.

	1885.	1886.	1887.
Redempt'n of coupons	$9,000 00	$5,850	$2,700
Redemption of bonds	70,000 00	70,000	60,000
Totals	$79,000 00	$75,850	$62,700

RECAPITULATION.

	Receipts.	Disbursements.
Year end'g July 31, 1885	$82,674 61	$79,000
Year end'g July 31, 1886	80,000 00	70,000
Year end'g July 31, 1887	86,000 00	62,700
Totals	$248,674 61	211,700

Estimated excess of rec'pts, July 31, 1887 $36,974 61

AN ANALYSIS.

An analysis of these statements shows that there has been disbursed during the twenty months covered by these transactions of the treasury $778,416.55 for the maintainance of our state institutions, $612,022.59 in the construction of new buildings for public use, $378,278.82 for interest on the state debt, and $650,158.99 for the general expense of government; all of which has been met by the ordinary revenues of the state, except a part of the interest charge which is paid from the income of the internal improvement land fund. This interest account, almost wholly due to the railroad adjustment bonds, is a burden recently imposed upon the treasury, and a large part of the expenditure for public buildings has been required to replace structures destroyed by fire. These items, with a considerable increase in the cost of maintaining the public institutions the past two years, have made an aggregate of extraordinary demands that would have required material additions to the tax levy but for the rapid increase of the assessable property and the miscellaneous resources of the state. The one mill tax to which the levy has been reduced, with the other revenues of the state, have, however, been sufficient to provide for this unusual outlay, and leave a balance in the treasury at the end of the last fiscal year. The estimates of "receipts and disbursements" for the fiscal years for which you will make appropriations promise a continued healthy condition of the treasury, provided such appropriations are restricted within reasonable limits. In years past the practice has obtained to some extent of making appropriations without regard to the revenues from which they were to be met. As a consequence, it has sometimes been impossible for the treasurer to meet requisitions promptly as presented, particularly against the revenue fund. I trust that you will carefully scrutinize all propositions involving an expenditure of money, and that you will not make appropriations beyond the limit of the probable revenues of the state. While providing adequately for the increased requirements of our public institutions and the several departments of the state government made necessary by our rapid growth in population, care and discrimination in making appropriations may save unnecessary and perhaps wasteful drafts upon the revenues.

PERMANENT TRUST FUNDS.

In 1872 all receipts for taxes on railroad and telegraph companies were set apart as a special fund for the support of the state institutions. At that time the amount realized from these sources was but $57,087.14. It has now become the principal source of revenue the state enjoys, amounting the past year to $651,378.18, largely in excess of the demands made upon it. If there was once a sufficient reason for reserving this resource for special use, it does not now exist, and I recommend that the law relating thereto be repealed. While there has been, for years, a surplus in this fund, the revenue fund, from which all general expenses of the state are paid, is constantly overdrawn, and a borrower from it. The two funds should be merged into one, and relieve the treasury from the anomalous condition of plethora and stringency, at the same time, as regards its different funds. It will be necessary to do this before the treasurer can meet the pay rolls of the legislature, as the "overdraft" of the revenue fund has reached the limit allowed by law. The surplus of the forestry fund should also be transferred to the revenue fund, as recommended by the auditor.

The additions to the permanent trust funds of the state have been as follows:

Permanent school fund	$883,306 15
Permanent university fund	37,663 64
Internal improvement land fund	189,528 93
Total	$1,110,498 72

The aggregate accumulations of these funds amount to $8,219,026.39, divided and invested as follows:

PERMANENT SCHOOL FUND.

Cash	$434,803 90
Land contracts bearing 7 per cent interest	3,126,318 08
Unpaid drafts drawn prior to Dec. 1, 1882	5,851 98
$1,923,000 Minnesota railroad adjustment bonds	1,922,025 00
$200,000 Minnesota revenue bonds	200,000 00
$395,000 United States registered 4 per cent bonds	460,958 77
$30,000 United States registered 4½ per cent bonds	31,989 75
$81,000 Missouri 6 per cent bonds	73,689 90
Total	$6,255,632 38

PERMANENT UNIVERSITY FUND.

Cash	$28,752 51
Land contracts bearing 7 per cent interest	347,226 69
$277,000 Minnesota railroad adjustment bonds	277,000 00
Fruit farm	1,309 10
Experimental farm	8,500 00
	$662,788 30

INTERNAL IMPROVEMENT LAND FUND.

Cash	$16,135 11
Land contracts bearing 7 per cent interest	962,470 60
$322,000 Minnesota railroad adjustment bonds	322,000 00
	$1,300,605 71

The congressional grant of land for the use of schools, it is estimated, will amount to about 3,000,000 acres when the surveys of the state are completed; 908,145 acres of this have been sold at an average of $6.02 per acre. Estimated upon this basis, the common school fund will ultimately realize over $18,000,000 from this source. This will probably be increased to $20,000,000 by sale of swamp lands inuring to this fund after prior grants are satisfied. The permanent university grant has 93,081 acres yet to be disposed of, which will swell the accumulations of its fund to fully $1,000,000, and ultimately constitute an endowment for our state university that will assure its future financial stability. The internal improvement land fund has 274,833 acres of its grant yet unsold. Its final accumulations should be nearly $3,000,000. This may properly be denominated a sinking fund for the redemption of the state railroad adjustment bonds, as it has been provided by constitutional amendment that all the revenues of this fund shall be applied to the payment of the principal and interest of those bonds.

STATE DEBT.

The present indebtedness of the state is represented by the following issue of bonds:

Railroad adjustment bonds, issue of 1881, due in twenty and redeemable in ten years, 4½ per cent	$4,283,000
Revenue bonds, issue of 1883, redeemable at the pleasure of the state, 4½ per cent	200,000
Total	$4,483,000

These revenue bonds will be redeemed within the next three years, provision having been made therefor. The trust funds of the state hold $2,523,000 of the adjustment bonds, $322,000 of which are in the internal improvement or "sinking fund." These latter might properly be canceled, and the indebtedness of the state reduced by that amount. There is also nearly $1,000,000 of land contracts in the sinking fund, which will be increased from time to time by further sales of land. Whenever it is deemed advisable, these contracts might be transferred to the permanent school fund, and adjustment bonds to an equal amount held by that fund redeemed and canceled. It may not be desirable to do this at the present time, but I would recommend that authority be granted the board of investment to cancel the bonds now in the land or "sinking fund," and any further bonds of like character it may acquire in the future. As opportunity has been presented to purchase our state bonds the board of investment have converted other securities and invested in them; the advantage of these transactions being a net gain to the trust funds of $105,000. The auditor makes some practical suggestions relative to the future investment of the trust funds of the state, which merit your attention. The state has expended over half a million dollars within the last four years in replacing structures destroyed by fire. Comparatively little insurance was upon the buildings destroyed, and even that was placed without direct authority therefor, by the board of management suffering the loss, the premiums being paid from their current expense funds. In view of this experience and as a simple business proposition, I submit that the policy heretofore prevailing of refusing appropriations to pay premiums should be reconsidered and the boards in charge of the several state institutions be authorized to procure reasonable indemnity against fire on such buildings as are exposed to danger from that source. The structures recently erected are practically fireproof and will not need to be insured.

EDUCATION.

The report of the superintendent of public instruction presents an exhaustive review of the educational interests of the state; their development during the past two years, the improvements noted, and the defects still existing in our system of popular education. Due attention to the criticisms and suggestions of the superintendent will discover wherein that system may be much improved and its advantages more generally realized by the people of the state. There is no question of state policy that interests or affects our people to a greater degree than the means adopted for the development of popular intelligence. With its admirable plan of organization and its munificent endowment, supplemented by a large tribute of annual taxes, our common school system should be made a model of its kind. Assuming that it is your desire to contribute your efforts to secure that end, I commend the recommendations of the superintendent to your favorable consideration. The enrollment in our public school the past year was 223,209, an increase of 26,566 since the last biennial report. Three hundred and ninety-two new school buildings have been erected at a cost of $1,085,170. There has been raised for educational support during the past two years $4,808,931.70. The permanent fund for the support of common schools has been increased in the sum of $883,306.15, making its present aggregate $6,255,632.38. The estimate of $20,000,000 as the probable amount of this fund when its grants of lands are disposed of, seems likely to be realized. A personal inspection of the three normal schools the past season has confirmed my judgment previously expressed of the valuable work these institutions are accomplishing. Their organization and administration are in a high state of efficiency, and in results accomplished as well as prospectively promised, justify the liberal provision made for their maintenance. The normal board report the following enrollment for the past year:

At Winona	503
At Mankato	502
At St. Cloud	370
Total	1,375

Showing an increase of 347 in two years. Of the total enrollment 672 are in the normal department proper, 300 in the preparatory and 403 in the model. The number of teachers graduated to date in all the schools is 1,053. The growth of these schools inevitably involves an increase in their current expenses, mostly required for the pay of the additional teaching force employed. The board asks for an increase at Winona of $3,000, Mankato $4,000 and St. Cloud of $4,000 in their permanent annual appropriation for current expenses. With this increase the appropriations would be: Winona, $18,000; Mankato, $16,000; St. Cloud, $16,000. The local directors also estimate that future appropriations are needed as follows:

Winona, for Ladies' home	$35,000
Winona, for repairs	1,500
Mankato, for an addition to building	40,000
St. Cloud, for apparatus, charts, etc.	1,500
St. Cloud, for completion and furnishing home	18,500
Total	$96,500

While I do not doubt the desirability of the improvements asked for, and the probable greater efficiency of the schools thereby to be secured, yet I am not prepared to recommend that these appropriations be made at this time, further than may be necessary to effect such repairs as the condition of the buildings demand, and provide such additions to the faculty as the increased enrollment requires.

NORMAL SCHOOLS.

The expenditures for account of normal schools the past year were:

	Current expenses.	Improvements.
Winona	$19,423 95
Mankato	15,747 32	$3,723 57
St. Cloud	14,693 57	10,000 00
Total	$49,865 84	$13,723 57

The disbursements for the same account in 1883, were $33,981.71.

The number of high schools to which the state aid of $400 each has been apportioned was forty-nine in 1883, and fifty-three in 1884; an increase of fifteen since 1882. Number of pupils enrolled, 2,613. The superintendent expresses satisfaction with the progress of the work in this department of his charge. These schools being of academic grade, furnish the facilities for a thorough business course, or prepare the pupil for college or the university. Though the law under which these schools were established has been in operation but three years, yet it already receives the thorough endorsement of popular approval, induced by the manifest good results accomplished. The high school board indulge the hope that every considerable community of the state may avail itself of the privileges conferred by the law. The president of the university assures us that "the period of two years covered by his report has been one of steady growth" in that institution. The applicants admitted were sixty-three in 1883, and eighty-seven in 1884. The attendance was two hundred and twenty-three and two hundred and seventy-nine, and the graduates twenty-five and twenty-six, for the same years respectively. There have been some changes in the faculty, and the new department of medicine organized, which promises to become a useful auxiliary to the general work of the institution. Prof. W. W. Folwell, LL. D., after fourteen years of faithful and efficient work as president of the university, resigned the position in March, 1883, but continued to serve until his successor, Prof. Cyrus Northrop of Yale college, relieved him, at the beginning of the current scholastic year. The affairs of the university are generally in a very prosperous condition. The expenditures for two years were $112,478.25 for current account, and $50,995.85 for permanent improvements. In this connection may be mentioned the publication of the first volume of the final report of the geological and natural history survey of the state, made under the direction of the board of regents. This is the beginning of the end of a work begun in 1872 by Prof. N. H. Winchell, who still remains in charge. The volume proves of a very general as well as scientific interest.

HOSPITALS FOR THE INSANE.

During the twenty months ending July 31, 1884, there was an increase of 330 in the population of the two state hospitals for the insane. The number receiving care at the date of the trustees' report was 1,193—806 at St. Peter and 387 at Rochester. In addition there are 72 out on parole, most of whom are liable to be returned at any time. The capacity of the hospitals during the past two years has been increased by an additional wing at Rochester, nearly completed, and a detached ward at St. Peter, sufficient together to accommodate 375 patients; making the present aggregate capacity of the hospitals 1,275. The added capacity has but little more than met the increase of population of this class. To meet the demands of the future, additional structures will be required. Undoubtedly the most economical provision for immediate requirements will be the addition of detached wards to the present hospitals. The one recently constructed at St. Peter cost about $25,000, and will accommodate comfortably 125 patients. The erection of two of these wards at St. Peter in 1885, and one at St. Peter and two at Rochester in 1886, as recommended by the trustees, would provide for 625 additional patients at a cost of $125,000, and would probably meet the requirements of the next three years. Desiring to obtain the benefit of the best judgment in the state upon this subject, I recently convened a joint conference of the trustees and superintendents of the hospitals, the state board of corrections and charities and state lunacy commission, to consider the general question of the future care of the insane of our state. It was the unanimous expression of that conference, formulated by resolution, that the detached wards to the present hospitals be added as recommended by the trustees, and that "we recommend to the legislature at the approaching session to appoint a commission to report to the legislature of 1887 a location and plans for a third hospital." My judgment accords with the recommendation of this conference. It may seem best, two years hence, to defer the construction of the third hospital, yet it is likely, I think, to prove a wise foresight to take this initial step in that direction. The trustees also recommend the reconstruction of the center building at Rochester, at an estimated cost of $72,000. The part of the structure referred to is the old inebriate asylum, which has proven illy adapted to its present use. While the force of the presentation the trustees make in this matter must perhaps be admitted, and the desirability of replacing the old asylum with a more substantial and convenient structure conceded, yet the evident inability of the finances of the state to meet the expenditure at this time, offers a substantial reason adverse to its present undertaking.

The expenditures for account of the insane the past two years have been as follows:

	First Hospital.	Second Hospital.
B'ld'g and furnishing and purchase of land	$84,510 93	$92,926 16
Current expenses, 1883 (8 months)	90,294 35	42,771 30
Current exp'n's, 1884	132,046 49	62,699 97
Total	$306,851 77	$198,397 43

The estimated current expenses for the next two years are:

	First Hospital.	Second Hospital.
1885-6	$136,020 00	$97,240 00
1886-7	150,280 00	106,080 00
Repairs, etc.	12,500 00	8,200 00

The average weekly cost per capita has been $3.54 at St. Peter, and $3.44 at Rochester, for the past year.

INSTITUTE FOR THE DEAF AND DUMB AND THE BLIND, AND SCHOOL FOR IDIOTS AND IMBECILES.

The third biennial report of the directors and superintendents of the institute for the deaf and dumb and the blind, and school for idiots and imbeciles, exhibits in detail the affairs of these institutions. The same ability and success continue to characterize the management of these schools, that have given them the high standing they occupy among institutions of their class throughout the country. Minnesota occupies an advanced position in her work in behalf of the beneficent charity dispensed through the agency of these schools. I have no doubt they will secure such recognition at your hands as may be required for their future best interests and usefulness. There has been a moderate increase in the pupils of each department, the proportion being largest in the school for the feeble minded. Two hundred and fifty-three pupils were in attendance the past year, divided as follows: Deaf and dumb, 151; blind, 42; and feeble minded, 60. A substantial structure has been added to the blind institute at a cost of $36,578.31, which provides all needed accommodations for years to come. The building for imbeciles has also been enlarged to nearly double its capacity, at a cost of about $24,000. The superintendent of this school reports that while the new building will accommodate fifty children, the "admittance applications" are already eighty-five, and that further accommodations are imperatively demanded. The board are of the opinion that two custodial buildings should be added to the present structure, at an estimated cost of $50,000. I am persuaded that the work of this school could be organized upon a basis that would produce better results as regards one class of its pupils, if a separate building could be provided for them, and I therefore recommend an appropriation of $25,000 for that purpose. If due regard to the condition of the treasury and the wants of other institutions and interests, for which the state must provide, would permit, I would be inclined to indorse the full recommendations of the board. You cannot, however, respond to all requests for appropriations without increasing the tax levy, and, in my view, nothing but an overshadowing emergency would warrant you in doing that at this time. In May, 1883, the shops attached to the deaf and dumb institute were burned, and the board asks for an appropriation of $10,000 to replace them. The industrial training, which is an essential part of the education provided by this school, requires proper shops for the purpose, and I therefore recommend that the burned building be replaced. Though no reference to the matter is made in the report of the directors, I recommend that authority be granted them to expend a sum sufficient to make more secure the deaf and dumb building from fire. The dividing stone walls that separate the structure into divisions should be extended through the roof, and iron doors placed in all openings communicating through them. A precaution of this character saved the St. Peter hospital from total destruction at the time of the fire in 1880. The estimate for current expenses for all the schools will require $74,500 for 1886, and $77,500 for 1887. The expenditures the past two years were as follows:

	Deaf and Dumb.	Blind.	Imbecile
1883	21,068 16	7,314 15	6,917 80
1884	33,151 26	15,677 98	12,481 42

STATE PRISON.

The report of the inspectors and warden of the state prison fully informs you of the catastrophe that nearly destroyed that institution last winter and the measures that were adopted for its reconstruction. During the night of the 8th of January last a portion of the shops in which the convicts were employed was burned, and on the 25th of the same month another fire reduced to ruins the building of the prison proper, with nearly all its contents. The affairs of the prison were, in consequence, necessarily reduced to much confusion. All provision for the security and the employment of the convicts was destroyed or rendered useless for the time. The only barrier between the convicts and their liberty was the prison wall and the prison guard. These must have soon yielded to a determined effort of 350 desperate men had it been made, but for the coolness and exceeding good management of Warden Reed and his aids, speedily reinforced by a detachment of the state militia. A portion of the convicts were at once removed to the jails of Ramsey, Hennepin, Washington, Dakota and Winona counties, and such provision made for the remainder within the prison walls as was practicable. Though the weather was severe, very little discomfort was suffered by the convicts, not as much, indeed, as was endured by the militia in guarding them. That portion of the prison building containing the cells had lost its roof, but was otherwise not much injured, there being but little combustible material in its construction. A temporary roof was soon in place, and within a week the male convicts were returned to their cells, and the work of reconstruction commenced. One of the shops destroyed by the first fire was the property of the state; the others had been built by the contractors for the convict labor. It was determined by the board of inspectors, after consultation with the attorney general and myself, to rebuild the shop that had belonged to the state, and also to restore the prison building upon an improved plan as to its interior arrangement and construction. This has been done, and the structure are completed and now in use. Respecting the new prison the inspectors say, "the building as it now stands is a vast improvement on the old one, a good, solid, substantial structure, all covered with heavy iron roof, with iron rafters, and we regard it as almost absolutely fire-proof." For further details respecting the condition and progress of affairs following the fires, and also the work of rebuilding, I refer you to the report of the inspectors and warden of the prison.

WHAT IT COST.

The cost of the new prison building, including the iron roof of the cell room, is about $48,000. The new shop was contracted for at $23,000, and $2,700 was expended in restoring the engine and boiler room, making a total of $73,700 as the cost of replacing the structures destroyed by fire. The loss on furniture and supplies destroyed with the buildings was $4,738.58. The inspectors had placed $21,043.81 insurance upon the property, which has been collected, and to that amount has met the loss sustained by the fires. As existing appropriations did not contemplate such an extraordinary emergency, the financial problem involved in the restoration of the prison was somewhat embarrassing, but was to some extent relieved by an offer on the part of a few public-spirited citizens of the city of Stillwater to advance $25,000 to aid in the work. The offer was accepted conditionally, and was held in reserve as a resource if required. I did not, however, use any part of it. The standing appropriations, together with the insurance and the prison earnings, have been sufficient to meet the cost of rebuilding within about $18,000, which amount is now due the contractors, and for which an appropriation will be required. The inspectors were not authorized under the statute to absolutely appropriate the prison earnings for the new buildings, but in their report they say:

> We conferred with the governor, and with his advice and consent the money received from insurance companies was used in rebuilding, and also the earnings of the convicts since the fires have been allowed to stand as an offset to an equal amount each month against the bills of the contractors. This action was taken to enable us to meet the extraordinary emergency caused by the burning of the prison buildings, and the absolute necessity of their prompt reconstruction. We trust the legislature will approve the action thus taken, and that such legislation may be had as may be deemed necessary to confirm what has been done in this regard.

In addition to the restored buildings there has just been completed a new cell building containing 150 cells, adjoining the old one, at a cost of $49,935, which has been paid from the standing appropriations for permanent improvements. The prison now has a capacity for 426 convicts, and at the date of the warden's report, the close of the fiscal year, it contained 356—an increase of 78 in two years. The warden estimates the current expenses of the prison to be $70,000 for 1885, and $75,000 for 1886, and that the earnings will be $45,000 and $50,000 for the same years. The expenses for the past two years were $39,595.64 for 1883, and $59,989.98 for 1884; earnings, $22,913.09 and $33,732.30 for the same period. The counties named to which convicts were taken for care during the time the prison affairs were in disorder are clearly entitled to reimbursement for the expense they thereby incurred, and an appropriation will be asked for that purpose. The constitution clothes the executive with authority to grant "reprieves and pardons after conviction, for offenses against the state, except in cases of impeachment." Chapter 119 of the General Statutes provides that the governor may "grant a pardon upon such conditions and with such restrictions and under such limitations as he may think proper." Cases are sometimes presented wherein an exercise of executive clemency would seem to be recommended by the best interests of the convict, and without prejudice to public justice, if wholesome conditions could be imposed. But to make the provisions of the chapter quoted practically effective, an adequate remedy should be provided in case the conditions upon which a pardon is granted are violated. To that end I recommend an enactment to the effect that in case a convict conditionally pardoned shall fail to observe the conditions imposed, he shall be deemed to have escaped from the prison and become subject to arrest and return to confinement, under the operation of his original sentence. The decisions of courts upon this subject assert the authority of the executive to enforce this penalty in the absence of a statute, but doubtless an effort to do so would be contested. Doubts may therefore be settled in advance by a legislative enactment upon the subject. The existence of such a statute would have a restraining influence upon the person affected, by the information thus conveyed that he could not ignore the conditions upon which he received and accepted his pardon.

REFORM SCHOOL.

This model institution maintains its record for efficiency in the important work for which it was established. Unlike some of the reformatories for youths existing elsewhere, its name is significant and expressive of its work. Without walls or guards to restrain the youth in its charge, the management succeeds, by the moral influence it commands, in exercising the needed control over them, and with rare exceptions effects their reform. Since its establishment in 1868 it has "graduated" over five hundred boys and girls, most of whom have become or give promise of becoming useful members of the community, instead of recruits for the criminal classes, which would probably have been their fate under the influences of their early life. The results accomplished by this institution commend its management to public confidence, and should command for its work such recognition and support as its continued efficiency requires. The report of the managers shows 120 inmates at the end of the last fiscal year. The expense for maintenance for the twenty months ending July 31, 1884, was $47,700.95, of which sum $23,728.73 has been reimbursed by the counties contributing to its population. Appropriations are asked for current expenses for 1885 and 1886 of $35,000 per year, and for insurance and repairs $6,000. The report also recommends an appropriation of $25,000 for a new building for a female department. I doubt if the probable revenues of the state will authorize this expenditure within the next two years; but, aside from that consideration, the question of the expediency of a permanent female department in connection with the present institution deserves deliberate examination. The few females that are likely to become inmates of the school in the near future may be properly cared for under existing arrangements; but before steps are taken for a permanent reformatory for girls, I believe we may avail ourselves profitably of the experience and judgment of communities that have dealt with the question more fully.

STATE PUBLIC SCHOOL.

The treatment and control of the pauper and criminal classes give rise to questions among the most important with which the public has to deal; and the excessive rate of the increase of these evils, as compared with the growth of population throughout the country, has become a subject of grave concern. Statistics show that the increase of pauperism and crime in the United States has been 100 per cent greater than its increase in population within the last quarter of a century. Measures that may prove effective to check this growing evil have long been the subject of earnest inquisition among philanthropists and legislators. Considerations of economy and public security, as well as those of humanity and morality, suggest the adoption of whatever means may promise to lessen these great evils that prey upon society. As it is a law of nature that every species shall produce its kind, so in every community it is observed that the ranks of the pauper and criminal classes are largely recruited from their neglected and abused progeny. The environment of idleness, ignorance and vice in which the children of such parents are reared, must, in the natural order of things, give direction and character to their future course of life. As a matter of economy, a mere question of public expense, is it not the wiser policy to rescue, if possible, these youths from their apparently inevitable fate, rather than to provide expensive almshouses and reformatories to be maintained at great cost for them while young, and prisons for their restraint when they come to man's estate? An intelligent and effective method to deal with this question would be the establishment of a state public school, in which the young children of dependent parents, of criminals, and the orphaned waifs of society may be gathered and reared under influences that will develop the better elements of their natures, and make them good citizens to contribute to the benefits rather than the burdens of society. This is by no means an experiment. Such institutions have existed for years past in some of the states, and their work shows most gratifying results. Detailed information can be furnished by our state board of charities and corrections, regarding the organization, the work and the results accomplished in schools of this character as established elsewhere. I commend the subject to your thoughtful consideration. If there should be hesitation to act upon it by reason of the expense of establishing another public institution, I repeat, that, in my judgment, it is recommended by considerations of public economy, though the proposition also appeals to you upon the vastly broader basis of humanity and the general public good. The cost of maintaining and educating these children in such an institution until they arrive at an age when they could be apprenticed or indentured to their advantage, would be less than the present average cost of their maintenance in the poor houses, or through the usual methods of distribution of poor aid, in many of the counties of the state. A requirement such as now applies to a class of the inmates of the reform school, which provides for the maintenance by each county of the children respectively send to the institution, could properly be made a feature of its organization.

BOARD OF CORRECTIONS AND CHARITIES.

Chapter 127 of the General Laws, 1883, provides for the appointment by the governor of six persons, not more than three of whom shall be from the same political party, who shall constitute, with the governor, a state board of corrections and charities. The duties of such board, as defined by the act, are to "investigate the whole system of public charities and correctional institutions of the state, examine into the condition and management thereof, especially of prisons, jails, infirmaries, public hospitals and asylums," and to examine and "criticise all plans for new jails and infirmaries" before their adoption by county authorities. The board is also empowered, upon the order of the governor, to "investigate the management of any penal, reformatory or charitable institution of the state." Though the act creating the board provides for the employment of a secretary at an annual salary of $1,200, and the necessary personal expenses of the members in the discharge of their duties, yet, by an evident oversight, the legislature neglected to make an appropriation from which to pay them. Believing the work of the board as contemplated by the act would prove of great public benefit, I was reluctant to have the experiment fail for lack of means to meet the expense. I therefore appealed to the boards of management of the hospitals for the insane and the state prison, for such sums as they could conveniently spare from their appropriations for current expenses, to aid in maintaining the board. My request was responded to in a manner that commands acknowledgement of the public spirit of the gentlemen appealed to. I received $1,000 from the trustees of the insane, and $1,694.66 from the inspectors of the state prison. These sums, reinforced by a moderate draft upon the executive contingent fund, have nearly sufficed to defray the expenses of the board to the present time. The board was organized in April, 1883, by the appointment of Hon. C. H. Berry of Winona, Hon. H. R. Wells of Preston, Rev. M. McG. Dana of St. Paul, D. C. Bell, Esq., of Minneapolis, Hon. William M. Campbell of Litchfield, and Judge Reuben Reynolds of Crookston, and the subsequent selection of Rev. H. H. Hart of Worthington as secretary. Quarterly meetings have been held and frequent visits of inspection made by the full board or its committees and secretary to the several public institutions and most of the county jails, poorhouses and reformatories of the state. The character and extent of the work accomplished by the board is indicated in its report which is before you. I believe I hazard nothing in saying that the results thus far accomplished fully justify the judgment of those who early advocated the organization of the board. It is already recognized as an authoritative agency through which the people in different counties are becoming informed as to important details regarding the condition and management of their county affairs, the manner and cost of care and maintenance of their county poor and other dependents, and, by the correction of errors and abuses of administration, to which attention is thus directed, they will be enabled to save large sums in the adoption of more discriminating and economical methods of expenditure, while bringing more humanizing influences to pervade the management of county institutions. In the exercise of its advisory functions it has rendered material aid to the several boards in charge of the state institutions, with whom the most cordial co-operative relations have been maintained. The board have attended the national conferences of charities and corrections annually held, and through the secretary or individual members, spent much time in the inspection and study of the systems and methods controlling the charitable and reformatory institutions of other states. They have sought in every way to qualify themselves thoroughly for the duties imposed upon them, in which they have taken great interest, and given their time freely to their discharge. The character of the gentlemen constituting the board is a guarantee of its future usefulness, and will command for its work the confidence and co-operation of the people of the state. Secretary Hart has manifested much aptitude for the delicate and intricate duties of his position, and in their prosecution he has shown great industry and much enthusiasm.

PUBLIC HEALTH.

The state board of health is proving a most efficient agency in promoting the public health. In the treatment of epidemic diseases and the supervision and direction of general sanitary work throughout the state, the board has rendered invaluable service within the past two years. They have had to deal with seventeen distinct outbreaks of small pox, some of which, being in lumber camps and unorganized counties, could not have been controlled by local authority. In every instance, by prompt and peremptory action, they have isolated and subdued the disease. Several aggravated outbreaks of diphtheria which threatened the decimation of entire communities, have, by a rigid system of quarantine and disinfection, been checked and brought under control. A few cases of contagious diseases of domestic animals have received the attention of the board, and valuable counsel and assistance have been rendered in the treatment of the diseased animals, and the protection of herds exposed to the infection. All sanitary authorities agree as to the probability of the appearance of cholera in this country the present year. Our state board of health should be clothed with authority and given command of resources sufficient to deal with this dreaded scourge, in the event of its appearance among us. This will contemplate legislation looking to a thorough sanitary inspection and an improved sanitary organization throughout the state. The duties of local health officers, measures to be adopted for the disposal of filth, protection of the water supply and the control of offensive trades, and all questions involved in the general subject, should be met by clear and explicit enactments, with sufficient penalties for the violation of their provisions. To make this work effective a special appropriation will be required, to be used under proper restrictions and limitations as suggested by the board in their report. The rapid increase of the stock interest of the state suggests some legislation for the protection of our numerous and valuable herds from the infectious diseases that have wrought havoc the past year in other states. The board of health is the proper agency through which to operate in this matter. Authority should be given them to employ competent veterinary surgeons when necessary, and to take the other steps required to prevent or suppress such diseases. The vital statistics of the state as now collected are imperfect and unsatisfactory. I believe they could be made more complete and useful if collected under a system devised and controlled by the state board of health. Important investigations relative to the character of illuminating oils brought into the state have been made the past year by the secretary of the board, which are fully detailed in his report, accompanied with practical recommendations for the protection of the public against the importation of inferior goods. The increased labors imposed upon the board by the growth of the state, and the enlarged scope of its duties, calls for a moderate increase in the annual appropriation for its use. The recommendations in this regard and upon those matters relating to sanitary questions in which our entire people are interested, have my approval.

MILITIA.

The legislature of 1883 enacted a militia code which provided for the organization of two regiments of infantry and one battery of artillery, to constitute the national guard of the state. It required seven companies of infantry in addition to the then existing organization to complete the quota authorized by the act. Within the year following this was made up, giving an aggregate enlistment of 1,263 officers and men, and the entire force has been provided with the most improved arms and equipments in use by the general government. Annual encampments have been held as contemplated by the code, the details of which are furnished in the report of the adjutant general. I am pleased to be able to report that the guard is in a satisfactory state of discipline and efficiency. The value to the state of a moderate military establishment was demonstrated on the occasion of the fires at the prison last January. Detachments from the First regiment rendered invaluable aid in preserving order and preventing any attempt of the convicts to escape during the progress of and subsequent to the fires. The presence of a considerable force of armed men doubtless had a salutary moral effect upon the inmates of the prison; certainly no such efficient force could have been organized from among our citizens as the militia furnished, to guard the convicts while the affairs of the prison were in confusion. For nearly a week of very severe weather they creditably discharged the most exacting duties that soldiers are called upon to perform. The subsistence and per diem of the men for this service, and also the cost of their transportation, amounting in the aggregate to $3,457.46, was paid from the national guard fund. As no such extraordinary expenses are properly chargeable to that fund, it should be reimbursed by a special appropriation, as recommended by the adjutant general. On the 27th of July last I was requested by the mayor of Minneapolis and the sheriff of Hennepin county to furnish troops to aid the civil authorities in preventing a threatened attack by a mob upon the jail of that county. Those companies of the First regiment whose headquarters are in Minneapolis were ordered under arms and moved to the vicinity of the jail. Their presence probably deterred the mob from the execution of the threatened violence, and certainly had a reassuring effect upon peaceable citizens of the city. Such occurrences, likely to transpire at any time, demonstrate the usefulness of an effective military organization. The returns of the several companies show that aside from the encampment expenses, the guard have expended the past year $22,726.63, in maintaining their organization, in excess of the allowance made them by the state. The adjutant general's report will inform you as to all the details of the guard organization, and also the transactions of his department relative to the prosecution of soldier claims for pensions. He has procured the allowance of $200,501 the past two years, and has 1,702 cases of that character yet in his charge.

PUBLIC EXAMINER.

The act creating the office of public examiner and prescribing his duties, provides, among other things, that "he shall order and enforce a correct, and as far as practicable, uniform system of bookkeeping by state and county treasurers and auditors, so as to afford a suitable check upon their mutual action, and insure the thorough supervision and safety of state and county funds." In the prosecution of his duties under this requirement of the law, the examiner encounters much embarrassment on account of the incongruous provisions of the statutes relating to the administration of the public revenues. What these embarrassments are, and their evident remedy, are made known to you in the examiner's report, and are familiar to those who have examined his reports for recent years. In the matter of enforcing a uniform system of bookkeeping by county auditors and treasurers, he has met with reasonable success, but this does not "afford a suitable check upon their mutual action," because the laws, as they now stand, "have taken what only can prove to be an adequate check out of the hands of any co-ordinate and independent officer, and placed it solely in the hands of the very officer in regard to whose account the check is necessary to be devised." The theory of our system relative to the collection and distribution of public funds is, that the county auditor shall act as a check upon all transactions of the county treasurer. In practice he is in no sense any check whatever, as he can audit the treasurer's accounts "only by means of data furnished by that officer himself." A remedy for this is so apparent and so urgently demanded by the simplest principles applicable to all business methods, that it would seem only necessary to call attention to this defect in the system to have the remedy promptly applied. I trust that this will be done at this session, as recommended by the examiner, even though it may involve some innovations in the tax law of the state. Your attention is directed to the flagrant instances cited by the examiner, of misappropriation of public funds by boards of county commissioners. Though these cases are rare, their existence should suggest some security by legislation, against their possible recurrence in the future. The examiner's statement of county finances shows receipts for 1884 of $9,381,126.99, including balance on hand, and disbursements of $7,369,703.59.

BANKING STATISTICS

are summarized as follows:

		Increase since 1882
Number of banks	214	36
Cap. stock (149 banks)	$15,904,754	$6,553,53
Surplus fund (84 b'nks)	2,300,144	699,10
Deposits (86 banks)	27,284,117	4,573,81
Loans and discounts (86 banks)	37,572,756	10,425,43

Of the above banks, 48 are national, 32 state, 6 savings, and 128 private. The figures given being for less than one-half the banks of the state, are not very satisfactory as showing the resources and liabilities of these institutions. The increase in the several items will indicate to some extent, however, their growth in business.

INSURANCE STATISTICS.

The growth of the insurance business of the state furnishes cumulative evidence of our rapid material development. The report of the insurance commissioner furnishes the following comparative statement:

	Risks written.	Premiums received.	Losses incurred.
1883	$188,063,000	$2,457,825	$1,920,19
1881	122,070,500	1,596,353	914,95
Increase	$65,992,500	$861,472	$1,005,24

The increase, as indicated by this statement, is greater than the entire insurance business of the state seven years ago. A striking and not altogether pleasant feature of this showing is the great disproportion of losses to premiums and risks; from which the commissioner demonstrates that the business in Minnesota has not of late been remunerative to the companies. His conclusions as to the cause of such excessive fire losses, and suggestions as to their prevention, present a subject for serious reflection. The revenues of the state have been augmented by taxes and fees collected through the commissioner's department the past two years, as follows:

	Fees.	Taxes.	Total.
1883	$7,352	$47,952 81	$55,194 4
1884	7,557	59,590 38	67,167 3

HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

The historical society has measurably recovered from the disaster it met in the burning of the capitol in 1881. Many of the archæological and historical specimens destroyed could not be replaced, as their duplicates do not exist. Other valuable contributions have been made to its museum, however, to an extent sufficient to restore the variety and attractiveness of its collections. Its loss of publications has been substantially made good, and further valuable addi-

Schuyler Colfax Dead.

Ex-Vice President Schuyler Colfax died suddenly in a depot at Mankato at about 11 a. m., on Thursday Jan. 13th, 1885. He had arrived at 10:35 on the C. M. & St. P. road, walked over to the Omaha depot and sat down to await the train on that road. In a few moments he fell to the floor and expired immediately. The physicians pronounce the cause to be heart disease.

The House committees have not been announced as yet. In the Senate Chas. A. Pillsbury is chairman of the committee on grading and inspection of grain and Comstock is on the railroad committee. If the House makes as wise a choice on grading, (choosing the boss of the Millers Association) we may expect no relief this session. We trust that Farmer Gibbs will make a wiser selection.

The City on Wheels.

We have been dissipating. At the request of Mr. Filatrault we just dropped in to the Fashion rink last evening to see the city on wheels. And it was there. Those that were not on wheels had just that second sat down upon the floor to get a better view—and catch their breath. And the Italian band played. It was amusing to watch the intense confidence depicted upon each countenance and the less the skater knew about the business the more confidence he displayed. He had to. If he hadn't had confidence he wouldn't have had anything. He had no skill. He was obliged to have something as he had paid for it. We sat down in a corner to be out of the way. We would have been out of the way fast enough only we forgot to notice when we sat down that a great big fellow on wheels had paid for that very corner to skate on. Pretty soon he came for it. Just at that particular minute we were watching a long slab-sided son of Adam whose off foot was trying to reach the brewery while his nigh foot lingered in the neighborhood of Glyndon. We never found out what luck he had for just at this moment (unfortunately for the interests of science) the fellow who had rented our corner, came for it. We attempted to vacate but didn't attempt suddenly enough. We both changed our minds and sat down very lively to talk it over amicably. If we had not done so we might have come to a very serious misunderstanding. It is always best in such cases to sit down and talk it over. Thus you always arrive at an understanding. After we had socially mixed up ourselves together we arose to skate. He did the skating and we watched. It's lots of fun to skate. We made up our mind to this effect last night. It's lots of fun to skate but we believe it will bear as much knowing how as any business there is. But we know it is fun for everybody enjoyed it and what everybody enjoys is always fun. The Italian band furnished some excellent music and somehow we seemed to understand and enjoy this part better than the other. Besides it is safer.

THE NOVELIST.

"The Novelist" is the characteristic title of a new paper just started in New York, by John B. Alden, the "Literary Revolutionist." The price, also, is characteristic,—only $1.00 a year. It is not intended to enter into competition with the high-priced, but low-character, story papers which darken the country like a pestilence, but will be devoted almost entirely to high-class fiction, such as finds place and welcome in the best magazines of the day and the purest homes of the land; making the paper an unrivaled (as to cost, certainly,) source of mental recreation for the weary, and of entertainment for all. During the year there are promised serial stories by William Black, Mrs. Oliphant, James Payn, Hugh Conway, B. L. Farjeon, and others—certainly a good variety, as well as good quantity for the dollar. It is printed in large type, and is a handsome paper. For free specimen copies address the publisher, John B. Alden, 393 Pearl street, New York.

Better Stock and More of It.

This is one of the demands of this country and the winter time is the best time to consider it. From the day that the first furrow was turned in this great Red River Valley, less than fourteen years the great staple production has been wheat. While we do not deny that this country is caple of raising and does raise the best quality of spring wheat grown in the world yet we think that the experience of all farmers here shows that something else is needed besides all wheat. We can put our finger upon cases where farmers have made so much money since they came here that they have been loaning it to less thrifty neighbors at 10 per cent. interest. We were talking with one of these, this week, a thrifty Canadian farmer and we asked him what he thought of the future prospect of wheat, if he was at all discouraged in raising it? "No," said he, "I am not discouraged at all and I shall do just as I ever have done, RAISE JUST AS MUCH AS IS FOR THE BEST INTERESTS OF MY FARM, that is I shall sow no land to wheat not well fitted and I shall sow all that I have that is." "Now," said he, I have never sold a bushel of wheat less than 85 cents and oats 60 while I have got $1.25 for wheat and $1.00 for oats and the way I do it is by raising only the best and purest of grains and taking particular pains with it all throughout so as to have choicest of seed grains and sell it for seed." "Do you pin your faith wholly to wheat?" we asked. "No sir, by no means," said he, "I raise good cows and good hogs all that I need and some to sell and I apply the same method to them as to my cereals. I GET THE BEST I CAN AND BREED UP. I take a deep interest in my business and study it closely. I love to do it and I find it pays to do it!" There is a whole sermon in this farmer's methods and we should hear less, far less complaints here if every farmer was as thorough in his work. While some have sunk thousands in big wheat farms every year this honest granger has been making money every year, and every one can get valuable hints from his experience. Every farmer is not in shape to change at once from wheat to stock nor is this necessary. We have seen the time since we have been in this country when it would be impossible for a man of limited means to get a start in stock but that time has gone for ever. There is now within this county to be found as fine specimens of thoroughbred animals as exist anywhere and if a farmer is too poor to secure one of these he can at least secure their services at figures within his reach and he can soon grow into stock and that of the very best breeds. Many must continue to raise wheat right along but they can at the same time be growing into good stock. There are in this county good thoroughbred Shorthorns, Galloways, Polled Angus, Jerseys and Holsteins and before next fall there will be one or more Herefords and the man who can't be suited is indeed hard to suit. As to other stock there is no reason why a farmer should not raise his own horses, hogs and sheep and pursue his farming operations the same as they do in other parts of the country. One thing is certain. It pays to raise the very best of everything, as our Canadian friend says, there is money in that kind of farming and one cannot get too good an article. There are breeds of cattle, for instance that with the very same kind of treatment required by natives will yield twice as much beef, and more than twice as much milk as will the native, while the cost of procuring these animals does not begin to be in proportion to their greater value. If it will pay well to keep stock it will pay better to keep good stock. It costs no more to keep the cow that gives from 40 to 60 pounds of milk per day than it does the one that gives from 10 to 20 and just as soon as farmers all fully appreciate these facts and put them to a practical test just so soon will they begin to make big money on the farms where now they are playing a losing game. Get more stock and that of the best.

GRACE GREENWOOD'S NEW BOOK.

"Stories for Home-Folks, Young and Old," is the attractive title of a pretty volume by this famous author, just published. It starts out with "A True Story of President Lincoln," which with the other war reminiscences that follow will waken a patriotic glow in the hearts of readers both young and old; there are stories of travel in this and other lands, stories of famous people, of "My First Love Letter," "Almost a Ghost Story"—in all twenty-nine stories, which being written by Grace Greenwood, who is so well known as one of the most graceful and captivating writers, will find joyful listeners everywhere. The volume is equivalent in size and appearance to the authors other works heretofore sold at $1.25, but being published by the "Literary Revolution," John B. Alden, 393 Pearl Street, New York, it is sold for 50 cents. Mr. Alden sends a 100-page catalogue, descriptive of his immense list of standard and popular works, free to any applicant.

The Breeder's Journal Chromo, Success.

We have received from T. L. Miller, Esq., editor of the Breeder's Journal, at Beecher, Will Co., Ill., a beautiful oil chromo size 21x28 inches representing the famous Hereford bull, "Success" the property of the T. L. Miller Co. Success is now nearly thirteen years old and has made one of the best records of any bull in America. He and his progeny have always been prize animals wherever exhibited and this picture shows up his fine points in an excellent degree. We have sent the chromo down to Paul Bataglia with orders to give the old fellow a fine frame and in a day or so we will have the picture hung up in our office so that all lovers of good stock may have the opportunity to feast their eyes on a really noble animal. The Breeder's Journal is a monthly magazine published at Beecher, Will Co., Ill., only one dollar per year and while it has something to say once in a while in relation to the good points of the Hereford breed it is also indispensable to every breeder of thoroughbred stock being always full of valuable hints. We will ever take pleasure in showing our patrons samples of the Journal and from an acquaintance of several years we are prepared to recommend it highly. A sample copy will be sent direct from the office of publication by sending 10 cents to The Breeder's Journal, Beecher, Will Co.,

Frank M. Brown,

COMMISSION

STORE,

Main Street, - Crookston.

TWO DOORS NORTH OF MERCHANTS' BANK.

Consignments of Goods for

QUICK CASH SALES

SOLICITED.

☞ Auction every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon.

Hack & Gallasch

ARE SELLING THEIR GOODDS

AT COST

For 30 days only. For Bargains Call Early.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Polk, } ss.

The State of Minnesota, to Ed. Garceau Defendant:

You are hereby summoned to be and appear before the undersigned, one of the Justices of the Peace in and for said County, on the eighteenth day of February 1885, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at my office in the Crookston in said County, to answer to John Moser & Ernest Moeckel co-partners as Moser & Moeckel in a civil action. Should you fail to appear at the time and place aforesaid, judgment will be rendered against you upon the evidence adduced by said Moser & Moeckel for such sum as they shall show themselves entitled to.

Given under my hand this 11th day of January 1884.

G. W. LEWIS,
Justice of the Peace.

[28-31]

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Polk, } ss. In Probate Court.
Special Term. January 9th 1885.

In the matter of the estate of Henry Witty deceased.

Whereas, an instrument in writing, purporting to be the last will and testament of Henry Witty deceased, late of said county, has been delivered to this Court.

And whereas, Christ Olson has filed therewith his petition, representing among other things that said Henry Witty died in said county on the sixth day of December 1884, testate and that said petitioner is one of the executors named in said last will and testament, and praying that the said instrument may be admitted to probate, and that letters testamentary be to him and to Andrew Olson issued thereon.

It is ordered, that the proofs of said instrument, and the said petition, be heard before this Court, at the Probate office in said county, on the ninth day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, when all concerned may appear and contest the probate of said instrument.

And it is further ordered, that public notice of the time and place of said hearing be given to all persons interested, by publication of these orders for three weeks successively previous to said day of hearing, in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL a newspaper printed and published at the City of Crookston in said county.

By the Court.
ROBERT J. MONTAGUE,
Judge of Probate.

[28-31]

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Polk. } ss. In Probate Court.
Special Term, December 1884.

In the matter of the estate of Oride Laplante deceased.

Whereas, an instrument in writing, purporting to be the last will and testament of Oride Laplante deceased, late of said county, has been delivered to this Court.

And whereas Rose Laplante has filed therewith her petition, representing among other things that said Oride Laplante died in said county on the fifteenth day of December 1884, testate, and that said petitioner is the sole executrix named in said last will and testament, and praying that the said instrument may be admitted to probate, and that letters testamentary be to her issued thereon.

It is ordered, that the proofs of said instrument, and the said petition, be heard before this Court, at the Probate office in said county, on the ninth day of February A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock in afternoon, when all concerned may appear and contest the probate of said instrument.

And it is further ordered, that public notice of the time and place of said hearing be given to all persons interested, by publication of these orders for three weeks successively previous to said day of hearing, in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL a newspaper printed and published at the City of Crookston in said county.

By the Court.
ROBERT J. MONTAGUE,
Judge of Probate.

28-30

Christening and Wedding Cakes Made upon Shortest Notice in the Best Style.

A Choice and Well Selected Stock of Confectionery Always on hand.

John Crawford & Son,

Proprietors of

Crawford's

Bakery,

SECOND STREET,

Crookston, Minn

CONFECTIONERY

Fresh Bread, Buns, Cakes and Biscuits. All Articles in the Fancy Baking Line.

BERG & OLSON,

PRACTICAL WATCHMAKERS

AND DEALERS IN

CLOCKS,

WATCHES,

JEWELRY,

—ROBERT STREET,—

CROOKSTON MINNESOTA.

Fortier's Place,

Corner Broadway and Robert Street

EVERYTHING NEW, NEAT —AND NOBBY.—

Billiards, Pool, and the Choicest Wines, Liquor and Cigars. The purest High Proof Whiskies at wholesale prices.

PURE IMPORTED GOODS ON DROUGHT.

Crookston City Bakery,

Peter Lorge, Prop,

Keeps constantly on hand a full line of all goods usually found in a

First-Class Bakery

Cigars and Tobacco, Nuts, Fruits, Candies, Pies, Cakes, Bread,

And everything to fill out a hungry man, constantly on hand.

Money to Give Away

IN BARGAINS,

AT MARKHAM'S,

THE LEADING GROCERY HOUSE

AND THE LARGEST BOOT AND SHOE STORE

IN CROOKSTON.

Goods Delivered to any Part of the City

FREE OF CHARGE.

E. D. CHILDS & CO.,

Proprietors of

CARMAN TOWNSITE,

—AND—

Dealers in Real Estate!

AMERICAN FARMER

FREE

To Journal Subscribers!

Who will pay up their subscription account to THE JOURNAL in full and one year in advance at our regular rates, we will present with one year's subscription to

The "American Farmer,"

A sixteen-page Agricultural Magazine, published by E. A. K. Hackett, at Fort Wayne, Indiana, and which is rapidly taking rank as one of the leading Agricultural publications of the country. It is devoted exclusively to the interests of the Farmer, Stock Breeder, Dairyman, Gardener, and their household, and every species of industry connected with that great portion of the people of the world, the Farmers. The subscription price is ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR. Farmers cannot well get along without it. It puts new ideas into their minds. It teaches them how to farm with profit to themselves. It makes the home happy, the young folks cheerful, the growler contented, the downcast happy, and the demagogue honest.

FARMERS, FARMERS,

WE ARE

Selling Lower Than Ever!

You will always find it to your advantage to

Trade with Us!

We Sell the Best for the LOWEST LIVING PRICES. Remember the place,

Broadway, bet. 2d and Robert Sts.

D. BUCHANAN.

DENTISTRY!

J. H. THOMAS, D. D. S.,

ROBERT STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.

Artificial Teeth from one to an entire set inserted. Gold, Silver or Artificial Filling used as desired. Regulating Children's Teeth a specialty. ALL WORK WARRANTED.

A. H. DUNLOP M. D.,

Graduate McGill University, Montreal.

LICENSED COLLEGE PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON QUEBEC.

Office on Robert Street, Crookston.

JOHN N. IVES,

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.

Collection and Land Office Business made a specialty. Money secured for final proofs on short notice.

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

W. L. Sargeant

Veterinary Surgeon.

CROOKSTON, - - - - MINN.

Diseases of horses and cattle a specialty.

19-tf

EIKEN BROS,

Corner of Fletcher and Main Street, Crookston, Minn.

Dealers in

HARDWARE, TIWARE,

STOVES,

—AND—

SHELFWARE.

WE KEEP A

FULL & COMPLETE

STOCK,

—AND—

Invite the Patronage

OF ALL.

Bigham & Olafson

(Successors to Juve & Bergland.)

THE POPULAR MERCHANTS ON MAIN STREET, CROOKSTON

Have on hand and are constantly receiving full lines of

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES,

CROCKERY,

CLOTHING,

BOOTS AND SHOES,

HATS AND CAPS

In fact everything usually found in first-class general store.

☞ Our goods are bought with great care and will be sold at

LOW PRICES

☞ FOR CASH. ☜

Crookston Nurseries

ESTABLISHED IN 1870.

Tree Claim Stock.

I desire to inform my customers and others that I shall make a great reduction from former prices on forest trees and seeds for tree-claims. I have good thrifty two year old trees, such as Box Elder, Ash and Cottonwood to sell by the thousand. I also furnish the hardier varieties of

SMALL FRUITS,

Such as Currants, Gooseberries, Raspberries and Strawberry plants, and young, thrifty Transcendent and Hislop Crab Apple trees. The firm of Haseltine Bros. having dissolved, I still continue business on the

—OLD NURSERY GROUNDS—

in Crookston. Hoping by fair dealing and promptness with my customers to merit their patronage.

Don't fail to write for Catalogue and Prices.

☞ ALL COMMUNICATIONS PROMPTLY ANSWERED.

F. T. HASELTINE,

Proprietor of the Crookston Nurseries, Crookston, Minn.

NEW

DRUG STORE

IN GARFIELD

DR. A NELSON, Prop.

The citizens of this town and vicinity are respectfully invited to call at my new Drug Store in the town of Garfield and examine my stock of

DRUGS, MEDICINES, PAINTS, OILS AND YANKEE NOTIONS.

It is no longer necessary to go 40 or 55 miles for anything in this line, as I have a full supply at prices as reasonable as any town in the Northwest. Call and see

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON

I am also ready to answer all calls day or night, for the practice of my profession. Call, or leave orders at my Drug Store in Garfield, Polk Co., Minn

DR. A. NELSON.

First National Bank

OF CROOKSTON.

PAID IN CAPITAL, - - $100,000

SURPLUS, - - 1,400

Money to loan on long or short time on approved security

Interest on time deposits. Faithful attention to Collections and prompt remittance.

GEO. O. ERSKINE, President.

K. D. CHASE, Vice President.

ANSEL BATES, Cashier

Crookston Tonsorial

PARLORS.

PROF. THOMPSON, Proprietor.

Robert Street, - - - - Crookston, Minn.

Shaving, hair dressing and all work in my line promptly attended to the latest style of the art. Give me a call.

The Toledo Blade

(NASBY'S PAPER.)

Circulation 191,000.

The Largest Circulation of any weekly paper in the United States.

The Largest Paper published in the United States at One Dollar per year.

The Best Paper and the Cheapest Paper.

The Only Paper publishing the Nasby Letters.

The Blade alone $1.00 per year; with Waterbury Watch, $3.50; with steel Engraving of Pilgrim's Progress (a fine engraving) $2.00.

Special terms to club raisers made known on application. Any week's issue of the Blade announces our bargains in cheap books, pictures, etc.

We want everybody to send postal card to us for a specimen copy.

It will tell its own story. A column advertisement would not afford room to describe its various departments and our announcements for the coming year. Write for a specimen, and also send the address of all your friends.

THE BLADE,
TOLEDO, OHIO.

A PURELY

National Paper

Circulating in Every State.

E. D. Schreader

LIVERY,

Feed and Sale Stable.

BEST TURNOUTS

IN THE CITY.

Single or Double Rigs, with or without driver or

SADDLE HORSES

Always ready at a moments notice by day or night. If you want a Nobby Turnout, call at the Red Barn, Corner Main and Third Streets,

CROOKSTON. - - MINNESOTA.

A. Yvernault,

Dealer in

General

Merchandise,

—MAIN STREET,—

Crookston, - Minn.

All my friends, both old and new, are cordially invited to call and examine my stoc and get prices.

LEO & STEENERSON.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW

Room 3., U.S. Land Office Building,

CROOKSTON. - - MINNESOTA.

P. A. DUFOUR,

Attorney and Counselor at Law,

—MAIN STREET,—

CROOKSTON, - - MINN.

SECOND STREET

MEAT MARKET

STANTON & CO., Proprietors.

Choice meats of every description. Fish and game in their season. Everything of the very best quality and lowest prices. Call and see us.

STANTON & CO.,
Dobson's Block, Second Street.

MERCHANTS'

BILLIARD HALL,

FRED ANDERSON, Proprietor.

CROOKSTON, - - MINNESOTA

The choicest Wines, Liquors and Cigars constantly on hand.

DR. M. WATTS,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

OFFICE ON ROBERT STREET.

Professional calls by day or night attended to with promptness.

THE PIONEER

HARNESS SHOP,

M. RAUENBUEHLER, Proprietor,

CORNER OAK AND THIRD STS., CROOKSTON MINN

ready for the Spring trade with a full supply Work and Light Harness. Single and Double, Saddles, Bridles, Whips, Blankets, etc. Give me a call before you purchase.

Furniture Store.

BROADWAY, CROOKSTON MINNESOTA.

P. BATAGLIA, Prop.

Keeps constantly on hand a well selected stock of Wardrobes, Bureaus, Sofas, Lounges, Bedsteads, Bed Springs, Tables, Chairs, Rocking Chairs, Stands, Ornaments, Picture Mouldings, and Picture Frames. REPAIRING DONE TO ORDER. Coffins of all kinds kept constantly on hand.

Schuyler Colfax Dead.

Ex-Vice President Schuyler Colfax died suddenly in a depot at Mankato at about 11 a. m., on Thursday Jan. 18th, 1885. He had arrived at 10:35 on the C. M. & St P. road, walked over to the Omaha depot and sat down to await the train on that road. In a few moments he fell to the floor and expired immediately. The physicians pronounce the cause to be heart disease.

The House committees have not been announced as yet. In the Senate Chas. A. Pillsbury is chairman of the committee on grading and inspection of grain and Comstock is on the railroad committee. If the House makes as wise a choice on grading, (choosing the boss of the Millers Association) we may expect no relief this session. We trust that Farmer Gibbs will make a wiser selection.

The City on Wheels.

We have been dissipating. At the request of Mr. Filatrault we just dropped in to the Fashion rink last evening to see the city on wheels. And it was there. Those that were not on wheels had just that second sat down upon the floor to get a better view—and catch their breath. And the Italian band played. It was amusing to watch the intense confidence depicted upon each countenance and the less the skater knew about the business the more confidence he displayed. He had to. If he hadn't had confidence he wouldn't have had anything. He had no skill. He was obliged to have something as he had paid for it. We sat down in a corner to be out of the way. We would have been out of the way fast enough only we forgot to notice when we sat down that a great big fellow on wheels had paid for that very corner to skate on. Pretty soon he came for it. Just at that particular minute we were watching a long, slab-sided son of Adam whose off foot was trying to reach the brewery while his nigh foot lingered in the neighborhood of Glyndon. We never found out what luck he had for just at this moment (unfortunately for the interests of science) the fellow who had rented our corner, came for it. We attempted to vacate, but didn't attempt suddenly enough. We both changed our minds and sat down very lively to talk it over amicably. If we had not done so we might have come to a very serious misunderstanding. It is always best in such cases to sit down and talk it over. Thus you always arrive at an understanding. After we had socially mixed up ourselves together we arose to skate. He did the skating and we watched. It's lots of fun to skate. We made up our mind to this effect last night. It's lots of fun to skate but we believe it will bear as much knowing how as any business there is. But we know it is fun for everybody enjoyed it and what everybody enjoys is always fun. The Italian band furnished some excellent music and somehow we seemed to understand and enjoy this part better than the other. Besides it is safer.

THE NOVELIST.

"The Novelist" is the characteristic title of a new paper just started in New York, by John B. Alden, the "Literary Revolutionist." The price, also, is characteristic,—only $1.00 a year. It is not intended to enter into competition with the high-priced, but low-character, story papers which darken the country like a pestilence, but will be devoted almost entirely to high-class fiction, such as finds place and welcome in the best magazines of the day and the purest homes of the land; making the paper an unrivaled (as to cost, certainly,) source of mental recreation for the weary, and of entertainment for all. During the year there are promised serial stories by William Black, Mrs. Oliphant, James Payn, Hugh Conway, B. L. Farjeon, and others—certainly a good variety, as well as good quantity for the dollar. It is printed in large type, and is a handsome paper. For free specimen copies address the publisher, John B. Alden, 393 Pearl street, New York.

Better Stock and More of It.

This is one of the demands of this country and the winter time is the best time to consider it. From the day that the first furrow was turned in this great Red River Valley, less than fourteen years the great staple production has been wheat. While we do not deny that this country is caple of raising and does raise the best quality of spring wheat grown in the world yet we think that the experience of all farmers here shows that something else is needed besides all wheat. We can put our finger upon cases where farmers have made so much money since they came here that they have been loaning it to less thrifty neighbors at 10 per cent interest. We were talking with one of these, this week, a thrifty Canadian farmer, and we asked him what he thought of the future prospect of wheat, if he was at all discouraged in raising it? "No," said he, "I am not discouraged at all and I shall do just as I ever have done, RAISE JUST AS MUCH AS IS FOR THE BEST INTERESTS OF MY FARM, that is I shall sow no land to wheat not well fitted and I shall sow all that I have that is." "Now," said he, "I have never sold a bushel of wheat less than 85 cents and oats 60, while I have got $1.25 for wheat and $1.00 for oats and the way I do it is by raising only the best and purest of grains and taking particular pains with it all throughout so as to have choicest of seed grains and sell it for seed." "Do you pin your faith wholly to wheat?" we asked. "No sir, by no means," said he, "I raise good cows and good hogs all that I need and some to sell, and I apply the same method to them as to my cereals. I GET THE BEST I CAN AND BREED UP. I take a deep interest in my business and study it closely. I love to do it and I find it pays to do it." There is a whole sermon in this farmer's methods and we should hear less, far less complaints here if every farmer was as thorough in his work. While some have sunk thousands in big wheat farms every year this honest granger has been making money every year, and every one can get valuable hints from his experience. Every farmer is not in shape to change at once from wheat to stock nor is this necessary. We have seen the time since we have been in this country when it would be impossible for a man of limited means to get a start in stock but that time has gone for ever. There is now within this county to be found as fine specimens of thoroughbred animals as exist anywhere and if a farmer is too poor to secure one of these he can at least secure their services at figures within his reach and he can soon grow into stock and that of the very best breeds. Many must continue to raise wheat right along but they can at the same time be growing into good stock. There are in this county good thoroughbred Shorthorns, Galloways, Polled Angus, Jerseys and Holsteins and before next fall there will be one or more Herefords and the man who can't be suited is indeed hard to suit. As to other stock there is no reason why a farmer should not raise his own horses, hogs and sheep and pursue his farming operations the same as they do in other parts of the country. One thing is certain. It pays to raise the very best of everything, as our Canadian friend says, there is money in that kind of farming and one cannot get too good an article. There are breeds of cattle, for instance, that with the very same kind of treatment required by natives will yield twice as much beef, and more than twice as much milk as will the native, while the cost of procuring these animals does not begin to be in proportion to their greater value. If it will pay well to keep stock it will pay better to keep good stock. It costs no more to keep the cow that gives from 40 to 80 pounds of milk per day than it does the one that gives from 10 to 20 and just as soon as farmers all fully appreciate these facts and put them to a practical test just so soon will they begin to make big money on the farms where now they are playing a losing game. Get more stock and that of the best.

GRACE GREENWOOD'S NEW BOOK.

"Stories for Home Folks, Young and Old," is the attractive title of a pretty volume by this famous author, just published. It starts out with "A True Story of President Lincoln," which with the other war reminiscences that follow will waken a patriotic glow in the hearts of readers both young and old; there are stories of travel in this and other lands, stories of famous people, of "My First Love Letter," "Almost a Ghost Story"—in all twenty-nine stories, which being written by Grace Greenwood, who is so well known as one of the most graceful and captivating writers, will find joyful listeners everywhere. The volume is equivalent in size and appearance to the authors other works heretofore sold at $1.25, but being published by the "Literary Revolution," John B. Alden, 393 Pearl Street, New York, it is sold for 50 cents. Mr. Alden sends a 100-page catalogue, descriptive of his immense list of standard and popular works, free to any applicant.

The Breeder's Journal Chromo, Success.

We have received from T. L. Miller, Esq., editor of the Breeder's Journal at Beecher, Will Co., Ill., a beautiful oil chromo size 21x28 inches representing the famous Hereford bull, "Success" the property of the T. L. Miller Co. Success is now nearly thirteen years old and has made one of the best records of any bull in America. He and his progeny have always been prize animals wherever exhibited and this picture shows up his fine points in an excellent degree. We have sent the chromo down to Paul Bataglia with orders to give the old fellow a fine frame, and in a day or so we will have the picture hung up in our office so that all lovers of good stock may have the opportunity to feast their eyes on a really noble animal. The Breeder's Journal is a monthly magazine published at Beecher, Will Co., Ill., only one dollar per year and while it has something to say once in a while in relation to the good points of the Hereford breed it is also indispensable to every breeder of thoroughbred stock being always full of valuable hints. We will ever take pleasure in showing our patrons samples of the Journal and from an acquaintance of several years we are prepared to recommend it highly. A sample copy will be sent direct from the office of publication by sending 10 cents to The Breeder's Journal, Beecher, Will Co.

Frank M. Brown,

COMMISSION

STORE,

Main Street, Crookston.

TWO DOORS NORTH OF MERCHANTS' BANK.

Consignments of Goods for

QUICK CASH SALES

SOLICITED.

[illegible] Auction every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon.

Hack & Galasch

ARE SELLING THEIR GOODS

AT COST.

For 30 days only. For Bargains Call Early.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, }
County of Polk. } ss.

The State of Minnesota, to Ed. Garceau Defendant:

You are hereby summoned to be and appear before the undersigned, one of the Justices of the Peace in and for said County, on the eighteenth day of February 1885, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at my office in the Crookston in said County, to answer to John Moser & Ernest Moeckel co-partners as Moser & Moeckel in a civil action. Should you fail to appear at the time and place aforesaid, judgment will be rendered against you upon the evidence adduced by said Moser & Moeckel for such sum as they shall show themselves entitled to.

Given under my hand this 14th day of January 1884.

G. W. LEWIS,
Justice of the Peace.

[28-11]

STATE OF MINNESOTA, }
County of Polk. } ss. In Probate Court.

Special Term. January 9th 1885.

In the matter of the estate of Henry Witty deceased:

Whereas, an instrument in writing, purporting to be the last will and testament of Henry Witty deceased, late of said county, has been delivered to this Court.

And whereas, Christ Olson has filed therewith his petition, representing among other things that said Henry Witty died in said county on the sixth day of December 1884, testate and that said petitioner is one of the executors named in said last will and testament, and praying that the said instrument may be admitted to probate, and that letters testamentary be to him and to Andrew Olson issued thereon.

It is ordered, that the proofs of said instrument, and the said petition, be heard before this Court, at the Probate office in said county, on the ninth day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, when all concerned may appear and contest the probate of said instrument.

And it is further ordered, that public notice of the time and place of said hearing be given to all persons interested, by publication of these orders for three weeks successively previous to said day of hearing, in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL a newspaper printed and published at the City of Crookston in said county.

By the Court.
ROBERT J. MONTAGUE,
Judge of Probate.

[33-41]

STATE OF MINNESOTA, }
County of Polk. } ss. In Probate Court.

Special Term, December 1884.

In the matter of the estate of Oride Laplante deceased:

Whereas, an instrument in writing, purporting to be the last will and testament of Oride Laplante deceased, late of said county, has been delivered to this Court.

And whereas Rosi Laplante has filed therewith her petition, representing among other things that said Oride Laplante died in said county on the fifteenth day of December 1884, testate, and that said petitioner is the sole executrix named in said last will and testament and praying that the said instrument may be admitted to probate, and that letters testamentary be to her issued thereon.

It is ordered, that the proofs of said instrument, and the said petition, be heard before this Court, at the Probate office in said county, on the ninth day of February A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock in afternoon, when all concerned may appear and contest the probate of said instrument.

And it is further ordered, that public notice of the time and place of said hearing be given to all persons interested, by publication of these orders for three weeks successively previous to said day of hearing, in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL a newspaper printed and published at the City of Crookston in said county.

By the Court.
ROBERT J. MONTAGUE,
Judge of Probate.

33-40]

Christening and Wedding Cakes Made upon Shortest Notice in the Best Style.

A Choice and Well Selected Stock of Confectionery Always on hand.

John Crawford & Son,

Proprietors of

Crawford's

Bakery,

SECOND STREET,

Crookston, Minn.

CONFECTIONERY

Fresh Bread, Buns, Cakes and Biscuits. All Articles in the Fancy Baking Line.

BERG & OLSON,

PRACTICAL WATCHMAKERS

AND DEALERS IN

CLOCKS,

WATCHES,

JEWELRY.

—ROBERT STREET,—

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

Fortier's Place,

Corner Broadway and Robert Street

EVERYTHING NEW, NEAT

AND NOBBY.

Billiards, Pool and the Choicest Wines, Liquors and Cigars. The purest High Proof [illegible] Whiskies at wholesale prices.

PURE IMPORTED GOODS ON DROUGHT.

Crookston City Bakery,

Peter Lorge, Prop.

Keeps constantly on hand a full line of all goods usually found in a

First-Class Bakery.

Cigars and Tobacco, Nuts, Fruits, Candies, Pies, Cakes, Bread,

And everything to fill out a hungry man, constantly on hand.

Money to Give Away

IN BARGAINS,

AT MARKHAM'S,

THE LEADING GROCERY HOUSE

AND THE LARGEST BOOT AND SHOE STORE

IN CROOKSTON.

Goods Delivered to any Part of the City

FREE OF CHARGE.

E. D. CHILDS & CO.,

Proprietors of

CARMAN TOWNSITE,

AND

Dealers in Real Estate!

AMERICAN FARMER

FREE

To Journal Subscribers!

Who will pay up their subscription account to THE JOURNAL in full and one year in advance at our regular rates, we will present with one year's subscription to

The "American Farmer,"

A sixteen-page Agricultural Magazine, published by E. A. K. Hackett, at Fort Wayne, Indiana, and which is rapidly taking rank as one of the leading Agricultural publications of the country. It is devoted exclusively to the interests of the Farmer, Stock Breeder, Dairyman, Gardener, and their household, and every species of industry connected with that great portion of the people of the world, the Farmers. The subscription price is ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR. Farmers cannot well get along without it. It puts new ideas into their minds. It teaches them how to farm with profit to themselves. It makes the home happy, the young folks cheerful, the growler contented, the downcast happy, and the demagogue honest.

FARMERS, FARMERS,

WE ARE

Selling Lower Than Ever!

You will always find it to your advantage to

Trade with Us!

We Sell the Best for the LOWEST LIVING PRICES. Remember the place,

Broadway, bet. 2d and Robert Sts.

D. BUCHANAN.

DENTISTRY!

J. H. THOMAS, D. D. S.,

ROBERT STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.

Artificial Teeth from one to an entire set inserted. Gold, Silver or Artificial Filling used as desired. Regulating Children's Teeth a specialty. ALL WORK WARRANTED.

JOHN N. IVES.

ATTORNEY AT LAW.

Collection and Land Office Business made a specialty. Money secured for final proofs on short notice.

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

A. H. DUNLOP, M. D.,

Graduate McGill University, Montreal. [illegible]

LICENSED COLLEGE PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON [illegible] QUEBEC.

[illegible]

Office on Robert Street, Crookston.

W. L. Sargeant

Veterinary Surgeon,

CROOKSTON, MINN.

Diseases of horses and cattle a specialty.

ELKEN BROS.,

Corner of Fletcher and Main Street, Crookston, Minn.,

Dealers in

HARDWARE, TIWARE,

STOVES,

—AND—

SHELFWARE,

WE KEEP A

FULL & COMPLETE

STOCK,

—AND—

Invite the Patronage

OF ALL.

Bigham & Olafson

(Successors to Juve & Bergland.)

THE POPULAR MERCHANTS ON

MAIN STREET, CROOKSTON

Have on hand and are constantly receiving full lines of

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES,

CROCKERY,

CLOTHING,

BOOTS AND SHOES,

HATS AND CAPS

In fact everything usually found in first-class general store.

☞ Our goods are bought with great care and will be sold at

LOW PRICES

☞ FOR CASH. ☜

Crookston Nurseries

ESTABLISHED IN 1870.

Tree Claim Stock.

I desire to inform my customers and others that I shall make a great reduction from former prices on forest trees and seeds for tree-claims. I have good thrifty two year old trees, such as Box Elder, Ash and Cottonwood to sell by the thousand. I also furnish the hardier varieties of

SMALL FRUITS,

Such as Currants, Gooseberries, Raspberries and Strawberry plants, and young, thrifty Transcendent and Hislop Crab Apple trees. The firm of Haseltine Bros. having dissolved, I still continue business on the

—OLD NURSERY GROUNDS—

in Crookston. Hoping by fair dealing and promptness with my customers to merit their patronage.

Don't fail to write for Catalogue and Prices.

☞ ALL COMMUNICATIONS PROMPTLY ANSWERED.

F. T. HASELTINE,

Proprietor of the Crookston Nurseries, Crookston, Minn.

NEW

DRUG STORE

IN GARFIELD

DR. A NELSON, Prop.

The citizens of this town and vicinity are respectfully invited to call at my new Drug Store in the town of Garfield and examine my stock of

DRUGS, MEDICINES, PAINTS, OILS AND YANKEE NOTIONS.

It is no longer necessary to go 40 or 55 miles for anything in this line, as I have a full supply at prices as reasonable as any town in the Northwest. Call and see

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON

I am also ready to answer all calls day or night, for the practice of my profession. Call, or leave orders at my Drug Store in Garfield, Polk Co., Minn

DR. A. NELSON.

First National Bank

OF CROOKSTON.

PAID IN CAPITAL, $100,000
SURPLUS, 1,400

Money to loan on long or short time on approved security.

Interest on time deposits. Faithful attention to Collections and prompt remittance.

GEO. O. ERSKINE, President.
K. D. CHASE, Vice President.
ANSEL BATES, Cashier.

Crookston Tonsorial

PARLORS.

PROF. THOMPSON, Proprietor,

Robert Street, Crookston, Minn.

Shaving, hair dressing and all work in my line promptly attended to the latest style of the art. Give me a call.

The Toledo Blade

(NASBY'S PAPER.)

Circulation 191,000.

The Largest Circulation of any weekly paper in the United States.

The Largest Paper published in the United States at One Dollar per year.

The Best Paper and the Cheapest Paper.

The Only Paper publishing the Nasby Letters.

The Blade alone $1.00 per year; with Waterbury Watch, $3.50; with steel Engraving of Pilgrim's Progress (a fine engraving) $2.00.

Special terms to club raisers made known on application. Any week's issue of the Blade announces our bargains in cheap books, pictures, etc.

We want everybody to send postal card to us for a specimen copy.

It will tell its own story. A column advertisement would not afford room to describe its various departments and our announcements for the coming year. Write for a specimen, and also send the address of all your friends.

THE BLADE,
TOLEDO, OHIO.

A PURELY

National Paper

Circulating in Every State.

E. D. Schreader

LIVERY,

Feed and Sale Stable.

BEST TURNOUTS

IN THE CITY.

Single or Double Rigs, with or withou driver or

SADDLE HORSES

Always ready at a moments notice by day or night. If you want a Nobby Turnout call at the Red Barn, Corner Main and Third Streets,

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

A. Yvernault,

Dealer in

General

Merchandise,

—MAIN STREET,—

Crookston, Minn.

All my friends, both old and new, are cordially invited to call and examine my stoc and get prices.

LEO & STEENERSON.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW

Room 3., U. S. Land Office Building,

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

P. A. DUFOUR,

Attorney and Counselor at Law,

—MAIN STREET,—

CROOKSTON, MINN.

SECOND STREET

MEAT MARKET

STANTON & CO., Proprietors.

Choice meats of every description. Fish and game in their season. Everything of the very best quality and lowest prices. Call and see us.

STANTON & CO.,
Dobson's Block, Second Street.

MERCHANTS'

BILLIARD HALL,

FRED ANDERSON, Proprietor,

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA

The choicest Wines, Liquors and Cigars constantly on hand.

DR. M. WATTS,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.

OFFICE ON ROBERT STREET.

Professional calls by day or night attended to with promptness.

THE PIONEER

HARNESS SHOP,

M. RAUENBUEHLER, Proprietor,

CORNER OAK AND THIRD STS., CROOKSTON MINN

ready for the Spring trade with a full supply Work and Light Harness, Single and Double, Saddles, Bridles, Whips, Blankets, etc. Give me a call before you purchase.

Furniture Store.

BROADWAY, CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

P. BATAGLIA, Prop.

Keeps constantly on hand a well selected stock of Wardrobes, Bureaus, Sofas, Lounges, Bedsteads, Bed Springs, Tables, Chairs, Rocking Chairs, Stands, Ornaments, Picture Mouldings and Picture Frames. REPAIRING DONE TO ORDER. Coffins of all kinds kept constantly on hand.

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, January 15, 1885.

RAILROAD TIME TABLE.

GOING NORTH.

		ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
1	Passenger	10:45 p. m.	10 55 p. m
" 9	Passenger	10:30 a. m.
" 19	Freight	12:20 a. m.
" 15	Freight	4:00 p. m.
" 23	Freight		10:20 a. m.

GOING SOUTH.

		ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
No. 2	Passenger	4:00 a. m.	4:00 a. m.
" 10	Passenger		5:30 p. m.
" 20	Freight		7:00 a. m
" 22	Freight		6:15 p. m
" 21	Freight	5:00 p. m.

DEVIL'S LAKE LINE.

		ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
No. 9	Passenger		10:20 a. m.
" 10	Passenger	5:30 p. m.
" 45	Freight		6:00 a. m.
" 46	Freight	7:00 p. m.

ST. HILAIRE BRANCH.

Trains leave Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 10:15 a. m., and arrive same days at 4:00 p. m

☞ Passenger Trains No's 1 and 2, Main Line, run daily except Sunday. No's 3 and 4 run daily. Devil's Lake Passenger runs daily. Freights No's 23, 20 and 21 run daily. Freights No's 15 and 22, and Freights on Devil's Lake Line run daily except Sunday.

All who wish to avail themselves of the offer we made Dec. 1st, may do so if they will pay up arreages on subscription and one year in advance before Feb. 1st. This offer made till Jan. 1st, now extended to Feb 1st, is this: To all who will pay up arreages in full and one year in advance before Feb. 1st, 1885, we will allow the usual rebate given for subscriptions paid in advance, i. e, we will accept $1,65 per annum for papers sent outside of Polk County, or $1,50 inside of the County. Everybody should make an effort to avail themselves of this good opportunity to catch up.

COUNTY NEWS.

East Grand Forks Courier.

Sheriff Zwickey spent a few hours in town yesterday.

The market seems fairly glutted with hay and wood, though the demand for both at fair prices keeps up.

Richard Hussey, of Crookston, has been in this vicinity for a few days past spotting railroad timber thieves. We would rather have Old Nick after us than Richard.

J. W. Howe and A. C. Rhinehart have taken the contract for supplying the Indians on the Reservation near Red Lake with supplies while getting out several million feet of logs. Their teams leave for Crookston to-day.

THIEF RIVER FALLS,
January 5th, 1885.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—As you have often extended an invitation to your patrons to send in items of interest for publication, I avail myself of the invitation and send you the following, hoping that it may prove of interest to some, at least. The heading of this communication is comparatively a new name and some may be led to inquire where it is. For the information of such I will say it is a very large city (principally on paper and in the minds of the proprietors) and is about eight miles northeast of St. Hilaire. The enterprising proprietors in their big advertisement have a railroad and busses running to and from a very large hotel. The large hotel is the only part of the programme that really exists. Speaking of the hotel we would say there is nothing small about it. The other business interests are presided over as follows: Drug store by Chas. Huxhold & Son, saloon and trading post by one of Polk County's old timers in the person of J. B. LaBree. Mr. Wallin, the good looking P. M., is putting in a general stock, which will supply a long-felt want, as the country is settled for twenty-five miles north of here, and St. Hilaire is the nearest point. Mr. Wallin is sure to do well from the start. The settlers living in and around this place are a sociable and generous class of people, as is evidenced by the numerous gatherings and the ample repasts, participated in and partaken of by old and young generally. One of the pleasantest of these affairs took place at the residence of Mr. Cook on the evening of January 2d. It was an old folks party, and the way the old folks danced the double shuffle and kept time to the "Fishers' Hornpipe" would have done honor to younger folks. About 12 o'clock supper was announced and the whole party sat down to a very elegant supper which had been prepared by Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Maxfield, both experts in the culinary art. The music was furnished by Knutson Bros. On the whole it was the pleasantest affair it has been our good fortune to attend for a long time. We are all living in hopes of Nelson's bill passing, for we then would have one of the best points on the river. For fear of wearying your patience with a long letter I reserve some items for another time.

S. Q. Mo.

Euclid Items.

From the Olive Leaf.

Euclid is one of the pleasantest places we have ever seen in winter time.

On the 26th ult. Joseph Laurent, of Badger Creek, found a bear's den. He soon drove out the bear and after following him a quarter of a mile put a bullet through his head. The bear was a fine fat young fellow, weighing about 200 pounds. Just a year ago Mr. L. killed a bear in the same place.

Nicholas Hardie is wintering in the Thirteen Towns, hunting and making baskets. Other Euclid boys joined him a short time ago.

Our teacher has been up to Hill River town, holding down his claim. He reports the weather fine and much warmer than on the prairie. He says it is a land of venison, partridges and Indians, with plenty of good wood and water.

It is about time that Euclid considered the project of sinking an artesian well for town purposes.

A party of Euclidites invaded the hospitable farm house at Keystone farm on New Year's, and were hospitably entertained by Mrs. Davidson, in the absence of Mr. D. At midnight an elegant repast was partaken of and heartily enjoyed by all. The party broke up about six next morning, returning well pleased with the trip.

We did not know until lately that Simmons was related to John Miller, but he must be, for we heard him say "ANTE," Miller!

W. J. Bailey, of Crookston, spent a couple of days here, and attended the Keystone party on the 1st. He promised to be here to attend the dance on Friday night and a few of the fair sex are in a flutter of anticipation.

The campaign between Pete and William promises to be very interesting. Pete appears to be the favorite, but our money is on William.

Any person taking offence at my Olive Leaflets should not labor under the delusion that they can get even by attempting to pulverize the editor. The better way would be to bring in a box of cigars—thus heaping coals of fire (as it were) thus securing a large piece of taffy in the next issue.

Poverty camp is played out. The correspondent has sought greener fields journalistic.

A short time ago we applied to Allen Manvel for a life pass over his road, promising him in return the support of the Olive Leaf. His reply was brief, cold, but very comprehensive and now we propose to show up the workings of this road to such an extent the St. P., M. & M. stock won't be worth 10 cents a share next spring.

Since the Keystone party Wells Misner is quite undecided about going south. He may decide to go west instead.

Chase Misner and Doc Chapin took in the Favorite skating rink at Crookston, last Monday. They doubtless tried to put on some extra flourishes with the wheels and Chase became very sick, so much so that his wife was summoned post haste. Chase recovered sufficiently to return alive, but is still weak and shaky.

The Legislature should not pass the Willmar bill. If that bill passes the elevator men will be enabled to fix things so that no law can control their business.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred eighty-one and 38-100 dollars, ($181.38-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Sophia Busch and Henry Busch, her husband, to Henry Hammond, bearing date the 13th day of December A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 29th day of December A. D. 1883, at 10:30 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 352, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lots numbered twenty-two (22) twenty-three (23,) and twenty-four (24) in block No. three (3) of Bottineau's addition to the Townsite of Red Lake Falls, County of Polk and State of Minnesota, according to the certified plat of said addition recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Polk County, Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMOND,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred seventy-five and 8-100 dollars, ($175.08-100,) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Moise Thiebert, a single man, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 10th day of April A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 11th day of April A. D. 1883, at 11 o'clock a. m., in book "L" of mortgages, on pages 381, 382 and 383, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The fractional lot No. two (2) on Elm Street having a frontage of one hundred and seventy-five (175) feet on Elm Street, ninety-five (95) feet on Sixth Street, and one hundred and ninety-five (195) feet on the quarter section line, Townsite of Crookston, Polk County, Minnesota, according to the recorded plat thereof now on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said Polk County and forming a triangular lot, the lot hereby conveyed being the same property conveyed by E. H. Bly and wife, to Newton K. Hubbard by warranty deed, dated Sept. 18th 1881, in Polk County and State of Minnesota with the hereditaments and appurtenances which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE conditions of a certain mortgage made, executed and delivered by Walter R. Moore and Mary A. Moore his wife, mortgagors to James McLaughlin mortgagee, by the failure on the part of said Walter R. Moore and Mary A. Moore to pay the interest which became due and payable on said mortgage on the 1st day of November 1883, the sum of fifty ($50) dollars, and on the 1st day of November 1884, the sum of fifty ($50) dollars, amounting to the sum of one hundred ($100) dollars, and said mortgage containing a clause whereby the failure on the part of the mortgagors to pay said interest when the same became due empowered the said mortgagee or his assigns to declare the whole sum of principal and interest due and payable by such default at his or their election. Said mortgage being dated the 8th day of November 1881 and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, on the 8th day of November 1881 at 4:25 o'clock p. m. in book "E" of mortgage deeds on pages 445 and 446, and said mortgage was duly assigned by Selina McLaughlin executrix of said James McLaughlin mortgagee, to George McLaughlin by an instrument in writing, dated the 21st day of April 1883 and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said Polk County, on the 27th day of October 1883, at 12:10 o'clock p. m. in book "M" of mortgages on pages 471 and 472, and said mortgage was duly assigned by said George McLaughlin to Etta S. Brown by an instrument in writing dated the 8th day of May 1883 and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said Polk County, on the 27th day of October 1883 at 12:10 o'clock p. m. in book "M" of mortgages on pages 471 and 472. And said Etta S. Brown, assignee of said mortgage, having exercised said option does hereby declare the whole sum of principal and interest secured by said mortgage now due and payable by reason of such default, and there being now due and unpaid on said mortgage the sum of five hundred ($500) dollars principal and interest amounting at this date to the sum of one hundred and five 81-100 dollars, amounting in all to the sum of six hundred and five and 81-100 dollars ($605.81-100,) and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise for the recovery of said debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, THEREFORE, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, which by reason of the defaults above stated became operative, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the mortgaged premises therein described, which sale will be made at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, by the Sheriff of said county, on Thursday the 22d day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, to satisfy the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage and interest, and taxes if any, and costs and disbursements allowed by law, together with the sum of twenty-five dollars lawful attorney's fees, as stipulated in said mortgage, to be paid in case of foreclosure.

The premises described in said mortgage and to be sold are described as follows, to-wit: The northeast quarter (ne¼) of Section No. four (4) in Township No. one hundred and fifty (150) north, of Range No. forty-six (46) west, containing one hundred and fifty-eight 43-100 acres according to the government survey thereof, situate in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota.

Dated December 1st A. D. 1884.

ETTA S. BROWN,
Assignee of Mortgage.

E. ST. JULIEN COX AND W. A. SELBY,
Attorneys for Assignee, of Mortgage.
[33-38]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred eighty and 32-100 dollars, ($280.32-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph E. Daoust and Herminie Daoust, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 16th day of June A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 28th day of June A. D. 1883, at 10 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 65, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Beginning at a point fifty (50) feet west of the northeast corner of the block or parcel of land in lot seven (7) in Section thirty-six (36) Township one hundred and fifty (150) of Range forty-seven (47) bounded on the north by the street running west from the county bridge across the Red Lake River to the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railroad track, and on the east by the county road running south from said bridge, thence south one hundred (100) feet, thence west about one hundred and fifty (150) feet to the said railroad track, thence northerly one hundred (100) feet along said railroad track, and thence east about one hundred and fifty (150) feet to the place of beginning, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred eighty-one and 28-100 dollars, ($181.28-100,) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Sophie Busch and Henry Busch, her husband, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 24th day of July A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of November A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 278, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter (ne¼) of Section No. thirty-three (33) in Township No. one hundred and fifty (150) north, of Range No. forty-four (44) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres more or less in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred fifty-three dollars, ($253) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Tollef J. Farden and Julia Farden, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 23d day of November A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, on the 24th day of November A. D. 1883, at 10:40 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 277, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northwest quarter of Section twenty-four (24) in Township one hundred and fifty-nine (159) north, of Range No. forty-four (44) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres of land more or less, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred seventy-six and 93-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Elling Knudson and Ingebor Knudson his wife to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the fourteenth day of March A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 14th day of March A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 240 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for three hundred dollars, due October 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for sixty-six and 77-100 dollars due in eleven installments, as follows: Six and 77-100 dollars on October first 1883, and six dollars on the first day of April and October 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due April 1st, 1884, and of the interest due October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on April 1st, 1884, and of the installment due October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice three hundred seventy-six and 93-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The southeast quarter of Section twenty-eight (28) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149) of Range forty-five (45) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.

EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

(First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.)

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred twelve and 46-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Mary Knutson, an unmarried woman to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twenty-fourth day of April, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 28th day of April A. D. 1883, at 5 o'clock p. m., in book "L" of mortgages, on page 431, and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for two hundred and fifty dollars, due November 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for fifty-five and 33-100 dollars due in eleven installments, as follows: Five and 33-100 dollars on November first, 1883, and five dollars on the first day of May and November 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888 respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due May 1st, 1884, and of the interest due November 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on May 1st, 1884, and of the installment due November 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice three hundred twelve and 46-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The southwest quarter of Section twenty-eight (28) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149) of Range forty-five (45) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.

EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred eighty-two and 50-100 dollars which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph Derocher, an unmarried man, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the second day of March, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota on the 5th day of March, A. D. 1883, at 1:30 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages on page 234 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for two hundred and twenty-five dollars, due October 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for fifty and 55-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Five and 55-100 dollars on October first, 1883, and four and 50-100 dollars on the first day of April and October 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due April 1st, 1884, and of the interest due October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on April 1st, 1884, and of the installment due October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice two hundred eighty-two and 50-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: the west half of the north-east quarter, and the west half of the southeast quarter of section twelve (12) in township one hundred and fifty one (151) of range forty-five (45) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth (24th) day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, (Seal)
By Robert N. Jackson, President.

Edw'd B. Kennedy, Attorney. [33-39]

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., Dec. 8th, 1884.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Boyd P. Van Gordon against William R. Dunn for failure to comply with law as to Timber Culture Entry No. 1959, dated May 18th, 1881, upon the nw¼ S. 15, T. 149 N. R. 45, in Polk County, Minn., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; contestant alleging that the said William R. Dunn since date of said entry has failed to break upon said tract to exceed eight acres, or to plant upon said tract any trees, tree seeds or cuttings, and that there is not at the present time to exceed eight acres of land broken, nor any trees, tree seeds or cuttings planted or growing thereon, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 20th day of Jan. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged failure.

[33-38] JOHN CROMB, Register.

A. A. JUST, M. D.,

Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon,

Rooms corner Main street and Fletcher Avenue, over Eiken Bros. Hardware Store.

CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINN.

MORTGAGE SALE.

(First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.)

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of five hundred eleven and 23-100 dollars which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Louis Morisset, an unmarried man, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the eleventh day of August, A. D. 1882, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 11th day of August, A. D. 1882, at 3:30 o'clock p. m. in book "O" of mortgages, on page 177 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for four hundred dollars, due January 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for eighty-six and 23-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: six and 23-100 dollars on January first, 1883, and eight dollars on July first, 1883, and eight dollars on the first day of January and July, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and eight dollars on January 1st, 1884, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due January 1st, 1884 and of the interest due July 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on January 1st, 1884 and of the installment due July 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice five hundred, eleven and 23-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: the southwest quarter of Section twenty-four (24) in township one hundred and fifty-one (151) of range forty-seven (47), containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt, and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the city of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, (Seal)
By Robert N. Jackson, President.

EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of six hundred, twenty-eight and 19-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Simeon Patnode, an unmarried man, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twenty-third day of January, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 22d day of January, A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 185 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for five hundred dollars, due October 1st, 1887, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for one hundred and thirteen and 14-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Thirteen and 14-100 dollars on October 1st, 1883, and ten dollars on the first day of April and October 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888 respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due April 1st, 1884, and of the interest due October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on April 1st, 1884 and of the installment due October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums described in said notes should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice six hundred twenty-eight and 19-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section thirty-four (34) in Township one hundred and fifty-one (151), of Range forty-five (45), containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, (Seal)
By Robert N. Jackson, President.

EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred seventy-eight and 53-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Ole Anderson and Sarah Anderson, his wife, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twentieth day of March, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of March, A. D. 1883, at 9 o'clock a. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 256 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of three notes for one hundred dollars each, due October 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for sixty-six and 77-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Six and 77-100 dollars on October first, 1883, and six dollars on the first day of April, and October, 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due October 1st, 1884, and of the interest due April 1st and October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on October 1st, 1884, and of the installments due April 1st and October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice three hundred, seventy-eight and 53-100 dollars after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt, secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of section twenty-four (24), in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149), of Range forty-five (45), containing one hundred and sixty acres in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House in the City of Crookston, in said County, and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, (Seal.)
By Robert N. Jackson, President.

EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [32-39]

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston Minn., Dec. 15th, 1884.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., on Jan. 24th, 1885, viz: ELIE LARIVERE, for the ne¼ S. 14, T. 149, R. 47. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Charles Martelle, Charles Dewal, Clement Parent and William Dewal, all of Crookston, Polk Co., Minn.

[34-39] JOHN CROMB, Register.

Commercial Hotel,

NORTON & BENEDICT, Prop's.

SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.

First-class in all respects. Terms reasonable. A share of the public patronage solicited.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of four hundred ninety-nine and 24-100 dollars which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Philip Murphy and Mary Ann Murphy his wife to Middlesex Banking Company of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twenty-first day of April A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of April A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 271 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for four hundred dollars, due November 1st 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for eighty-eight and 78-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Eight and 78-100 dollars on November first, 1883, and eight dollars on the first day of May and November, 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due May 1st 1884, and of the interest due November 1st 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on May 1st, 1884, and of the installment due November 1st 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice four hundred ninety-nine and 24-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The southeast quarter of Section twenty-six (26) in Township one hundred and forty-eight (148) of Range forty-seven (47) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.

EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred sixty and 21-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Peter N. Olstad, an unmarried man to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown Connecticut, bearing date the second day of July A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the [illegible] day of July A. D. 1883, at 10 o'clock a. m., in book "M" of mortgages, on page [illegible] and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for two hundred dollars, due December 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for forty-four and 25-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Four and 25-100 dollars on December first, 1883, and four dollars on the first day of June and December 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due December 1st, 1883, and of the interest due June 1st and December 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on December 1st, 1883, and of the installments due June 1st and December 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice two hundred sixty and 21-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section fourteen (14) in Township one hundred and forty-eight (148) of Range forty-five (45) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.

EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of eleven hundred eighty-two and 11-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by George J. Cherbonneau, an unmarried man to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the first day of February A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 24 day of February A. D. 1883, at 2 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 151, and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for nine hundred dollars, due January 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for one hundred eighty-one and 10-100 dollars, due in five installments, as follows: Thirty-seven and 10-100 dollars on January first, 1884, and thirty-six dollars on the first day of January 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due January 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on January 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice eleven hundred eighty-two and 11-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The east half of the northwest quarter and lots one (1) and two (2) being the fractional northwest quarter of Section No. thirty (30) in Township No. one hundred and fifty-two (152) north, of Range No. forty-seven (47) west, containing one hundred and thirty-nine and [illegible] acres, according to the United States government survey thereof, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises and seventy-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.

EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MERCHANTS' HOTEL,

J. E. MITTON, Proprietor,

CORNER BROADWAY AND ROBERT STREET

CROOKSTON, MINN.

The new Merchants' Hotel, recently refitted and refurnished is now ready to accommodate the traveling public, who are cordially invited to stop at the Merchants' when in the city.

M. M. VAN DYKE,

Physician and Surgeon,

Corner of Main and Second Streets,

CROOKSTON, MINN.

Will attend to all professional calls promptly.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred seventy-[illegible] dollars, ($[illegible]) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Alcyn [illegible] and Emily [illegible] his wife to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 1st day of July A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 5th day of July A. D. 1883, at 3:20 o'clock p. m. in book "H" of mortgages, on page 227, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northwest quarter (nw¼) of section twenty-six (26) Township one hundred and fifty (150) north, of Range forty-four (44) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres more or less, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston in said County and State, on the 9th day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston Dec. 20th, A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [35-41]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Jan. 1st 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of [illegible] hundred eighty-[illegible] dollars, ($[illegible]) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Albert D. Berry and Corenthe Berry, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 21st day of April A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 22d day of April A. D. 1883, at [illegible] o'clock a. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page [illegible], and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

[illegible]

Dated Crookston, Dec. 29th, A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [36-42]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred forty-[illegible] dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by [illegible] and [illegible], his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the [illegible] day of August A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, [illegible]

[illegible]

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

SHERIFF'S SALE.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, }
County of Polk. } ss. District Court.
Morrison & Lederer vs. [illegible]

The Red Lake Falls Milling and Lumber Co. Def'ts.

Notice is hereby given, That by virtue of an Execution to me directed and delivered, and now in my hands, issued out of the District Court Eleventh Judicial District, State of Minnesota, in and for the County of Polk upon a judgment rendered in said Court in favor of Morrison & Lederer and against the Red Lake Falls Milling and Lumber Company, I have levied upon the following described real estate of said defendant, to-wit: The north portion of lot number eleven (11) Section fourteen, containing 12 50-100 acres, and lot number twelve (12) Section fourteen, containing 12 [illegible] acres, and the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of [illegible] quarter of the [illegible] half [illegible] of the northeast quarter of said section fourteen (14) Township one hundred and fifty-one (151) Range forty-four (44) in Polk County, Minnesota, and the above described property will be sold in lots or parcels, and that I shall, on Saturday the twenty-eighth day of February A. D. 1885, at the hour of ten o'clock a. m., of said day, at the west front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, proceed to sell all the right, title and interest of the above named Red Lake Falls Milling and Lumber Company in and to the above described property to satisfy said judgment and costs, amounting to six hundred dollars and ten cents, together with all accruing costs of sale, and interest on the same from the second day of January 1885, at the rate of seven per cent. per annum, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash.

PEASE & WILKINSON,
Plaintiff's Attorneys.

W. F. ZWICKEY,
Sheriff of Polk Co., Minn.

Dated Crookston, Polk Co., Minn., January 14th 1885. [37-42]

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., Jan. 7th, 1885.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Peter J. Wilson against Even Olson Enneberg for failure to comply with law as to Timber Culture Entry No. [illegible] dated July 5th, 1882, upon the sw¼ S. 17, T. 147, R. 45, in Polk Co., Minn., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; contestant alleging that the said Even Olson Enneberg failed to break or cause to be broken to trees, tree seeds or cuttings during the third or fourth year, and has failed to plant upon said land [illegible] failed in the year [illegible] the land which he claimed to [illegible] thereto, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the [illegible] day of March 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged failure.

[37-42] JOHN CROMB, Register.

NEW LIVERY,

Feed and Sale

STABLES.,

CORNER MAIN AND FOURTH STS.,

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA

TERRY & COLLINS, Prop's.

☞ Good Turnouts at all times at reasonable prices. Good Hearse and careful driver when needed.

Polk County Journal

Crookston, January 15, 1885.

RAILROAD TIME TABLE.

GOING NORTH.

	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
1 Passenger	10:45 p. m.	10:55 p. m.
9 Passenger	10:30 a. m.
19 Freight	12:30 a. m.
15 Freight	4:00 p. m.
23 Freight		10:30 a. m.

GOING SOUTH.

	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
No. 2 Passenger	4:00 a. m.	4:00 a. m.
10 Passenger		5:30 p. m.
20 Freight		7:00 a. m.
22 Freight		6:15 p. m.
24 Freight	5:00 p. m.

DEVIL'S LAKE LINE.

	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
No. 9 Passenger		10:30 a. m.
10 Passenger	5:30 p. m.
45 Freight		6:00 a. m.
46 Freight	7:00 p. m.

ST. HILAIRE BRANCH.

Trains leave Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 10:15 a. m., and arrive same days at 4:00 p. m.

☞ Passenger Trains No's 1 and 2, Main Line run daily except Sunday. No's 3 and 4 run daily. Devil's Lake Passenger runs daily. Freights No's 23, 20 and 24 run daily. Freights No's 15 and 22, and Freights on Devil's Lake Line run daily except Sunday.

All who wish to avail themselves of the offer we made Dec. 1st, may do so if they will pay up arreages on subscription and one year in advance before Feb. 1st. This offer made till Jan. 1st, now extended to Feb 1st, is this. To all who will pay up arreages in full and one year in advance before Feb. 1st, 1885, we will allow the usual rebate given for subscriptions paid in advance, i. e. we will accept $1,65 per annum for papers sent outside of Polk County, or $1,50 inside of the County. Everybody should make an effort to avail themselves of this good opportunity to catch up.

COUNTY NEWS.

East Grand Forks Courier.

Sheriff Zwickey spent a few hours in town yesterday.

The market seems fairly glutted with hay and wood, though the demand for both at fair prices keeps up.

Richard Hussey, of Crookston, has been in this vicinity for a few days past spotting railroad timber thieves. We would rather have Old Nick after us than Richard.

J. W. Howes and A. O. Rhinehart have taken the contract for supplying the Indians on the Reservation near Red Lake with supplies while getting out several million feet of logs. Their teams leave for Crookston to-day.

THIEF RIVER FALLS, }
January 6th, 1885. }

EDITOR JOURNAL: As you have often extended an invitation to your patrons to send in items of interest for publication, I avail myself of the invitation and send you the following, hoping that it may prove of interest to some, at least. The heading of this communication is comparatively a new name and some may be led to inquire where it is. For the information of such I will say it is a very large city (principally on paper and in the minds of the proprietors) and is about eight miles northeast of St. Hilaire. The enterprising proprietors in their big advertisement have a railroad and busses running to and from a very large hotel. The large hotel is the only part of the programme that really exists. Speaking of the hotel we would say there is nothing small about it. The other business interests are presided over as follows: Drug store by Chas. Huxhold & Son, saloon and trading post by one of Polk County's old timers, in the person of J. B. LaBree. Mr. Wallin, the good looking P. M., is putting in a general stock, which will supply a long-felt want, as the country is settled for twenty-five miles north of here, and St. Hilaire is the nearest point. Mr. Wallin is sure to do well from the start. The settlers living in and around this place are a sociable and generous class of people, as is evidenced by the numerous gatherings and the ample repasts, participated in and partaken of by old and young generally. One of the pleasantest of these affairs took place at the residence of Mr. Cook on the evening of January 2d. It was an old folks party, and the way the old folks danced the double shuffle and kept time to the "Fishers Hornpipe" would have done honor to younger folks. About 12 o'clock supper was announced and the whole party sat down to a very elegant supper, which had been prepared by Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Maxfield, both experts in the culinary art. The music was furnished by Knutson Bros. On the whole it was the pleasantest affair it has been our good fortune to attend for a long time. We are all living in hopes of Nelson's bill passing, for we then would have one of the best points on the river. For fear of wearying your patience with a long letter I reserve some items for another time.

[illegible] S. OAKLO[illegible]

Euclid Items.

From the Olive Leaf.

Euclid is one of the pleasantest places we have ever seen in winter time.

On the 24th ult. Joseph Laurent, of Badger Creek, found a bear den. He soon drove out the bear and after following him a quarter of a mile put a ball through his head. The bear was a fine young fellow weighing about 200 pounds. Just one year ago Mr. [illegible] killed a bear in the same place.

Nicholas Hanlon is wintering in the Thirteen Towns, hunting and making baskets. Other Euclid boys joined him a short time ago.

Our teacher has been up to Hill River town holding down his claim. He reports the weather fine and much warmer than on the prairie. He says it is a land of venison, partridges and Indians, with plenty of good wood and water.

It is about time that Euclid considered the project of sinking an artesian well for town purposes.

A party of Euclidites invaded the hospitable farm house at Keystone farm on New Year's, and were hospitably entertained by Mrs. Davidson, in the absence of Mr. D. At midnight an elegant repast was partaken of and heartily enjoyed by all. The party broke up about six next morning, returning well pleased with the trip.

We did not know until lately that Simmons was related to John Miller but he must be, for we heard him say "ANTS," Miller!

W. J. Bailey, of Crookston, spent a couple of days here, and attended the Keystone party on the 1st. He promised to be here to attend the dance on Friday night and a few of the fair sex are in a flutter of anticipation.

The campaign between Pete and William promises to be very interesting. Pete appears to be the favorite, but our money is on William.

Any person taking offence at my Olive Leaflets should not labor under the delusion that they can get even by attempting to pulverize the editor. The better way would be to bring in a box of cigars—thus heaping coals of fire (as it were) thus securing a large piece of taffy in the next issue.

Poverty camp is played out. The correspondent has sought greener fields journalistic.

A short time ago we applied to Allen Manvel for a life pass over his road, promising him in return the support of the Olive Leaf. His reply was brief, cold, but very comprehensive and now we propose to show up the workings of this road to such an extent the St. P. M. & M. stock won't be worth 10 cents a share next spring.

Since the Keystone party Wells Misner is quite undecided about going south. He may decide to go west instead.

Chase Misner and Doc Chapin took in the Favorite skating rink at Crookston, last Monday. They doubtless tried to put on some extra flourishes with the wheels and Chase became very sick, so much so that his wife was summoned post haste. Chase recovered sufficiently to return alive, but is still weak and shaky.

The Legislature should not pass the Willmar bill. If that bill passes the elevator men will be enabled to fix things so that no law can control their business.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred eighty-one and 33-100 dollars, ($181.33-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Sophia Busch and Henry Busch, her husband, to Henry Hammond, bearing date the 13th day of December A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 20th day of December A. D. 1883, at 10:20 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 382, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lots numbered twenty-two (22), twenty-three (23), and twenty-four (24), in block No. three (3) of Bottineau's addition to the Townsite of Red Lake Falls, County of Polk and State of Minnesota, according to the certified plat of said addition recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, of Polk County, Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMOND,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred seventy-five and 8-100 dollars, ($175.8-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Moses Thiebert, a single man, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 10th day of April A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 11th day of April A. D. 1883, at 11 o'clock a. m., in book "L" of mortgages, on pages 281, 282 and 283, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The fractional lot No. two (2) on Elm street, having a frontage of one hundred and seventy-five (175) feet on Elm street, ninety-five (95) feet on Sixth street, and one hundred and ninety-five (195) feet on the quarter section line, in the City of Crookston, Polk County, Minnesota, according to the recorded plat thereof now on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said Polk County, and forming a triangular lot, the lot hereby conveyed being the same property conveyed by [illegible] Hubbard by warranty deed dated Sept. [illegible] 1882 in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated [illegible] 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
[illegible]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE [illegible] executed and delivered by Walter [illegible] and Mary A. [illegible], his wife, to James McLaughlin, mortgagee, [illegible] the sum of fifty (50) dollars, and on the first day of November 1884, the sum of fifty (50) dollars, amounting to the sum of one hundred (100) dollars, and said mortgage containing a clause whereby the failure on the part of the mortgagors to pay said interest when the same became due empowered the said mortgagee or his assigns to declare the whole sum of principal and interest due and payable by such default at his or their election. Said mortgage being dated the 5th day of November 1881 and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, on the 5th day of November 1881 at 4:35 o'clock p. m. in book [illegible] of mortgage deeds on pages 445 and 446, and said mortgage was duly assigned by Celina McLaughlin, executrix of said James McLaughlin mortgagee, to George McLaughlin, by an instrument in writing dated the 21st day of April 1883 and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said Polk County on the 27th day of October 1883 at [illegible] o'clock p. m. in book [illegible] of mortgages on pages 471 and 472, and said mortgage was duly assigned by said George McLaughlin to Etta S. Brown by an instrument in writing dated the 5th day of May 1883 and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said Polk County on the 27th day of October 1883 at [illegible] o'clock p. m. in book [illegible] of mortgages on pages 471 and 472. And said Etta S. Brown, assignee of said mortgage, having exercised said option, does hereby declare the whole sum of principal and interest secured by said mortgage now due and payable by reason of such default, and there being now due and unpaid on said mortgage the sum of five hundred (500) dollars principal and interest amounting at this date to the sum of one hundred and five 31-100 dollars, amounting in all to the sum of six hundred and five and 31-100 dollars ($605.31-100) and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise for the recovery of said debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, which by reason of the defaults above stated, became operative, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the mortgaged premises therein described, which sale will be made at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, by the Sheriff of said county, on Thursday the 22d day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, to satisfy the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage and interest, and taxes if any, and costs and disbursements allowed by law, together with the sum of twenty-five dollars lawful attorney's fees, as stipulated in said mortgage, to be paid in case of foreclosure.

The premises described in said mortgage and to be sold are described as follows, to-wit: The northeast quarter (ne¼) of Section No. four (4) in Township No. one hundred and fifty (150) north, of Range No. forty-six (46) west, containing one hundred and fifty-eight 45-100 acres according to the government survey thereof, situate in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota.

Dated December 1st A. D. 1884.

ETTA S. BROWN,
Assignee of Mortgage.

E. ST. JULIEN COX AND W. A. SELBY,
Attorneys for Assignee of Mortgage.
[33-38]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred eighty and 32-100 dollars, ($280.32-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph L. Daoust and Hermina Daoust, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 16th day of June A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded, in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 20th day of June A. D. 1883, at 10 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 63, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Beginning at a point fifty (50) feet west of the northeast corner of the block or parcel of land in lot seven (7) in Section thirty-six (36), Township one hundred and fifty (150), of Range forty-seven (47), bounded on the north by the street running west from the county bridge across the Red Lake River to the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railroad track, and on the east by the county road running south from said bridge, thence south one hundred (100) feet, thence west about one hundred and fifty (150) feet to the said railroad track, thence northerly one hundred (100) feet along said railroad track, and thence east about one hundred and fifty (150) feet to the place of beginning, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 13th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred eighty-one and 88-100 dollars, ($181.88-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Sophie Busch and Henry Busch, her husband, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 24th day of July A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of November A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 278, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter (ne¼) of Section No. thirty-three (33) in Township No. one hundred and fifty (150) north of Range No. forty-four (44) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres more or less in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred fifty-three dollars, ($253) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Toller J. Farden and Julia Farden, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 2d day of November A. D. 1882, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of November A. D. 1882, at 10:40 o'clock a. m., in book "[illegible]" of mortgages, on page 277, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such [illegible]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred seventy-six and 35-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Ellingar Knudson and Ingebor Knudson, his wife, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the fourteenth day of March A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 14th day of March A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 340 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for three hundred dollars, due October 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for sixty-six and 77-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Six and 77-100 dollars on October first, 1883, and six dollars on the first day of April and October, 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due April 1st, 1884, and of the interest due October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on April 1st, 1884, and of the installment due October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice three hundred seventy-six and 35-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The southeast quarter of Section twenty-eight (28,) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149,) of Range forty-five (45,) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.

EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

(First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.)

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred twelve and 45-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Mary Knutson, an unmarried woman, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twenty-fourth day of April, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 28th day of April A. D. 1883, at 5 o'clock p. m., in book "L" of mortgages, on page 441, and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for two hundred and fifty dollars, due November 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum and one installment note for fifty-five and 30-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Five and 30-100 dollars on November first, 1883, and five dollars on the first day of May and November 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due May 1st, 1884, and of the interest due November 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on May 1st, 1884, and of the installment due November 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice three hundred twelve and 45-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The southwest quarter of Section twenty-eight (28,) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149) of Range forty-five (45,) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres, in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage, in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.

EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE

First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred eighty-two and 59-100 dollars which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph Derocher, an unmarried man, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the second day of March, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of March, A. D. 1883, at 1:10 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 216 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for two hundred and twenty-five dollars, due October 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for fifty and 50-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Five and 50-100 dollars on October first, 1883, and four and 50-100 dollars on the first day of April and October, 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due April 1st, 1884, and of the interest due October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on April 1st, 1884, and of the installment due October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice two hundred eighty-two and 59-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: the west half of the north-east quarter, and the west half of the southeast quarter of section twelve (12) in township one hundred and fifty one (151) of range forty-five (45) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth (24th) day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By Robert N. Jackson, President.

EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., Dec. [illegible] 1884.

Complaint having been entered at this office by [illegible] against William R. [illegible] for failure to comply with law as to Timber Culture Entry No. [illegible]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of five hundred, eleven and 95-100 dollars which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Louis Morissel, an unmarried man, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the eleventh day of August, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 11th day of August, A. D. 1883, at 2:30 o'clock p. m. in book "O" of mortgages, on page 177 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for four hundred dollars, due January 1st, 1889, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for eighty-six and 86-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Six and 86-100 dollars on January first, 1884, and eight dollars on July first, 1884, and eight dollars on the first day of January and July, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and eight dollars on January 1st, 1889, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due January 1st, 1884 and of the interest due July 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on January 1st, 1884 and of the installment due July 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice five hundred, eleven and 95-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: the southwest quarter of Section twenty-four (24) in township one hundred and fifty-one (151) of range forty-seven (47), containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt, and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the city of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, (Seal.)
By Robert N. Jackson, President.

EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of six hundred, twenty-eight and 10-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Simeon Patnode, an unmarried man, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twenty-third day of January, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 23d day of January, A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 138 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for five hundred dollars, due October 1st, 1887, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for one hundred and thirteen and 91-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Thirteen and 91-100 dollars on October 1st, 1883, and ten dollars on the first day of April and October 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888 respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due April 1st, 1884, and of the interest due October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on April 1st, 1884 and of the installment due October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice six hundred twenty-eight and 10-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise, having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section thirty-four (34) in Township one hundred and fifty-one (151), of Range forty-five (45), containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, (Seal.)
By Robert N. Jackson, President.

EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred seventy-eight and 98-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Ole Anderson and Sarah Anderson, his wife, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twentieth day of March, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 23d day of March, A. D. 1883, at 9 o'clock a. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 326 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of three notes for one hundred dollars each, due October 1st, 1888, with six per cent interest per annum, and one installment note for sixty-six and 77-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Six and 77-100 dollars on October first, 1883, and six dollars on the first day of April, and October, 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due October 1st, 1884, and of the interest due April 1st and October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on October 1st, 1884, and of the installments due April 1st and October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice three hundred, seventy-eight and 98-100 dollars after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of section twenty-four (24), in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149), of Range forty-five (45), containing one hundred and sixty acres in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [Seal.]
By Robert N. Jackson, President.

EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., Dec. 15th, 1884.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., on Jan. 24th, 1885, viz: FELIX LARIVERE, for the [illegible] He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Charles Martell, Charles Duval, Clement Pageant and William Duval, all of Crookston, Polk Co. [illegible]

JOHN CROMB, Register.

Commercial Hotel

NORTON & BENEDICT, Props.

SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.

First-class in all respects [illegible] a share of the public patronage solicited.

MORTGAGE SALE

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of four hundred ninety-nine and 73-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Philip Murphy and Mary Ann Murphy, his wife, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twenty-first day of April, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of April A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 571 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for four hundred dollars, due November 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for eighty-eight and 58-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Eight and 58-100 dollars on November first 1883, and eight dollars on the first day of May and November, 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due May 1st, 1884, and of the interest due November 1st 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on May 1st, 1884, and of the installment due November 1st 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice four hundred ninety-nine and 73-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The southeast quarter of Section twenty-six (26,) in Township one hundred and forty-eight (148) of Range forty-seven (47) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.

EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney.
[33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred sixty and 24-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Peter N. Olstad, an unmarried man to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the second day of July A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 7th day of July A. D. 1883, at 10 o'clock a. m., in book "M" of mortgages, on page 180 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for two hundred dollars, due December 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for forty-four and 20-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Four and 20-100 dollars on December first, 1883, and four dollars on the first day of June and December 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due December 1st, 1883, and of the interest due June 1st and December 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on December 1st, 1883, and of the installments due June 1st and December 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice two hundred sixty and 24-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section fourteen (14,) in Township one hundred and forty-eight (148,) of Range forty-five (45,) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.

EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of eleven hundred eighty-two and 14-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by George J. Charboneau, an unmarried man to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the first day of February A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1883, at 2 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 151, and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for nine hundred dollars, due January 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for one hundred eighty-one and 10-100 dollars, due in five installments, as follows: Thirty-seven and 10-100 dollars on January first, 1884, and thirty-six dollars on the first day of January 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due January 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on January 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice, eleven hundred eighty-two and 14-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The east half of the northwest quarter and lots one (1,) and two (2,) being the fractional northwest quarter of Section No. thirty (30,) in Township No. one hundred and fifty-two (152) north, of Range No. forty-seven (47) west, containing one hundred and thirty-nine and 1-100 (139 1-100) acres, according to the United States government survey thereof, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and [illegible] and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and seventy-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY. [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.

EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [32-39]

MERCHANTS' HOTEL,

J. E. MITTON, Proprietor.

CORNER BROADWAY AND ROBERT STREET,

CROOKSTON, MINN.

The new Merchants' Hotel recently re-fitted and re-furnished is now ready to accommodate the traveling public who are cordially invited to stop at the Merchants when in the city.

M. M. VAN DYKE,

Physician and Surgeon,

[illegible]

CROOKSTON, [illegible] MINN.

[illegible] calls promptly [illegible]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication [illegible] 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred seventy-two and [illegible] dollars [illegible] which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Aiken Dumas and Emilie Dumas, his wife to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 1st day of July A. D. 1882, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 8th day of July A. D. 1882, at [illegible] o'clock p. m. in book "H" of mortgages, on page 12[illegible], and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northwest quarter (nw¼) of section twenty-six (26) Township one hundred and fifty (150) north, of Range forty-four (44) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres more or less, in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston in said County and State, on the 9th day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

Dated Crookston Dec. 24th, A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [35-41]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Jan. 1st 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred eighty-four and 83-100 dollars ($384.83-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Albert D. Berry and Clorenthe Berry, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 21st day of April A. D. 1882, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 22d day of April A. D. 1882, at 1:15 o'clock p. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 2, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The Southeast quarter (se¼) of Section one (1,) Township one hundred and fifty-one (151,) Range forty-five (45,) in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House in the City of Crookston, in said County and State on the 14th day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston Dec. 27th, A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [36-42]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of five hundred forty-eight and 50-100 dollars, ($548.50-100) which is claimed to be due, at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and executed and delivered by Jacob Francis and Ellen Francis, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 21st day of August A. D. 1882, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 23d day of August A. D. 1882, at 8 o'clock a. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 216, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot eight (8) in block seven (7) of the Townsite of Crookston, according to the recorded plat thereof now on file in the office of the Register of Deeds, Polk County, Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

SHERIFF'S SALE.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, }
County of Polk. } ss. District Court.

Morrison & Ledeboer, Plff.
vs.
The Red Lake Falls Milling & Lumber Co. Defts.

Notice is hereby given, That by virtue of an Execution to me directed and delivered, and now in my hands, issued out of the District Court Eleventh Judicial District, State of Minnesota, in and for the County of Polk upon a Judgment rendered in said Court in favor of Morrison & Ledeboer and against The Red Lake Falls Milling and Lumber Company, I have levied upon the following described real estate of said defendant, to-wit: The north portion of lot number eleven (11) Section fourteen, containing 12 65-100 acres, and lot number twelve (12,) Section fourteen, containing 38 10-100 acres and the southeast quarter (se¼) of the northeast quarter (ne¼) and the northwest quarter (nw¼) of the southeast quarter (se¼) and west one-half (w½) of the northeast quarter (ne¼) of Section fourteen (14,) Township one hundred and fifty-one (151,) Range forty-four (44,) Polk County, Minnesota, the above described property will be sold in lots or parcels. And that I shall, on Saturday the twenty-eighth day of February, A. D. 1885, at the hour of ten o'clock a. m., of said day, at the west front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, proceed to sell all the right, title and interest of the above named Red Lake Falls Milling and Lumber Company in and to the above described property, to satisfy said judgment and costs, amounting to six hundred dollars and ten cents, together with all accruing costs of sale, and interest on the same from the second day of January 1885, at the rate of seven per cent. per annum, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash.

PUREY & WILKINSON,
Plaintiff's Attorneys.

W. F. ZWICKEY,
Sheriff of Polk Co., Minn.

Dated Crookston, Polk Co., Minn., January 12th 1885. [38-44]

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., Jan. 7th, 1885.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Peter J. Wilkeen against Even Olson Euneberg for failure to comply with law as to Timber Culture Entry No. 1311 dated July 8th, 1879, upon the nw¼ S. 10, T. 147, R. 45, in Polk Co. Minn., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; contestant alleging that said Even Olson Euneberg failed to plant five acres of said land to trees, tree seeds or cuttings during either the third or fourth year after making said entry and that he has not now ten acres of trees growing on said land; also that claimant wholly failed in the year 1883 to cultivate the land which he claimed to have planted to tree seeds prior thereto, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 5th day of March, 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged failure.

[17-41] JOHN CROMB, Register.

NEW LIVERY,

Feed and Sale

STABLES,

CORNER MAIN AND FOURTH STS.

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

TERRY & COLLINS, Props.

Good Turnouts at all times [illegible] reasonable prices. Good Hearse and careful driver when needed.

A. JUSTI, M. D.

The Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Proprietor. DEVOTED TO THE WELFARE OF POLK COUNTY. TERMS—$1.50 Per Annum.

VOL. VIII. CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINNESOTA, JANUARY 22, 1885. NO. 39

Polk County Journal.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

H. E. COOKE, Editor and Proprietor.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance, to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

ADVERTISING RATES.

SPACE.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 m.	2 m.	6 m.	1 year
½ inch	50	$1 00	$1 15	$1 50	$3 00	4 50	$ 6 00
1 inch	75	1 25	1 75	2 00	5 50	6 00	10 00
2 inches	1 50	2 25	3 00	3 50	6 50	9 50	15 00
3 inches	1 75	2 75	3 75	4 50	9 50	13 50	20 00
4 inches	2 50	3 50	4 50	5 50	10 00	10 00	25 00
5 inches	3 00	4 00	5 00	6 00	12 50	20 00	30 00
¼ column	3 50	5 50	5 50	6 50	15 00	25 00	35 00
½ column	6 00	7 50	10 00	12 00	20 00	35 00	50 00
1 column	9 50	12 50	15 00	18 00	35 00	60 00	100 00

Entered at the Post Office in Crookston as Second Class matter.

THE BRADFORD BILL.

The bill known as the Bradford bill is endorsed by the State Grange and while it is not perfect it is the best one yet presented so far as we are able to juedg by the following synopsis which we find in the Pioneer Press:

Section 1. Declares all elevators or store houses in which grain is stored in bulk to be warehouses.

Sec. 2. Provides that a license shall be procured by every lessee or owner of a warehouse of the judge of the circut court before commencing to transact business, the court to have power to revoke the license upon complaint in writing of any person setting forth the particular violation of the law, and upon satisfactory proof.

Sec. 3. Provides for a bond of $5,000 for warehouses of 25,000 bushels capacity, of $10,000 for warehouses of over 25,000 bushels and less than 50,000 bushels, and $20,000 for more than 50,000 bushels, providing that a common bond of $40,000 may be given by a corporation.

Sec. 4. Makes the offense of conducting a warehouse after Aug. 1, 1885, without a license punishable by a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $500.

Sec. 5. Makes it the duty of the warehouseman to receive for storage any grain, dry and in a suitable condition for warehousing, which shall be tendered him, no making any discrimination between persons, to be stored with grain of similar grade; but if the owner or consignee so requests, and the warehouseman consents, his grain may be kept in a bin by itself, apart from that of other owners, which bin shall be marked and kept as a special bin. If a receipt be issued, it shall state that it is in a special bin and the number of such bin; and all grain delivered from such warehouse shall be inspected on its delivery by a duly authorized inspector of grain nothing in this section shall be construed so as to require the receipt of any kind of grain into any warehouse in which there is not sufficient room to accommodate or to store it properly, or in cases where such warehouse is closed. The charges for inspection upon receipt and delivery shall be paid by the warehouseman, and may be added to the charge of the storage. The chief inspector may receive such charges of the warehouseman by an appropriate action in his name.

Sec. 6. Provides for the insurance of a receipt for the grain, stating the quantity and grade of the grain, the receipts issued to be consecutively numbered.

Sec. 7. Makes provision for cancelling the receipts when the wheat is delivered.

Sec. 8. No warehouse receipt shall be issued except upon the actual delivery of the grain into store, in the warehouse from which it is purported to be issued. Provision is made for the delivery of the grain in part and for receipts covering such a contingency.

Sec. 9. No warehouseman shall insert in any receipt issued by him any language in anywise limiting or modifying his responsibility or liability as imposed by the laws of the State.

Sec. 10. On return of the receipt properly endorsed, and the tender of all charges upon the grain represented in it, such grain shall be immediately delivered to the holder of such receipt and it shall not be subject to further charges for storage after demand for such delivery shall have been made.

11. Makes warehouse receipts transferable upon endorsement.

Sec. 12. Makes the issuance of any receipt for any grain not actually in store, or the removal of any grain from store, except to preserve it from fire or other sudden danger, without the return and cancellation of any and all outstanding receipts, a crime, punishable by imprisonment for not less than one year nor more than ten years.

Sec. 13. Makes it the duty of the owner or manager of any public warehouse to furnish in writing, under oath, to the warehouse commissioner, a statement of the condition and management of his business, and to make a report of the bushels of grain received by him after Aug. 1 of each year. Non-compliance is made punishable by forfeiture of license and fine of not less than $200 nor more than $1,000.

Sec. 14. Makes it the duty of the warehouse commissioners, at their first meeting, to establish the grade of grains in the State to be known as Minnesota grades, provided that no change shall be made without thirty days previous notice in the daily newspapers.

Sec. 15. Makes it the duty of the judge of each district court to appoint before June, 1885, and each fourth year thereafter, a suitable person residing in the district, who shall not be a member of any board of [illegible] organize in St. Paul on the first Tuesday in July, 1885.

Secs. 18 and 19. Prescribe rules for organization and the duties of the officers elected.

Sec. 20. Makes it the duty of the warehouse commissioners to assume and exercise a constant supervision over the grain interest of the State, to supervise the handling, inspection, weighing and storage of grain, to establish all necessary rules and regulations for the inspection, weighing and grading of grain, and for the management of public warehouses, etc, etc.

Sec. 21. Provides for the publication of the rules established.

Sec. 22. Makes the compensation of the commissioners $5 per day for the time spent in the discharge of their duties.

Sec. 23. Makes it their duty to biennially elect a chief inspector and a chief weighmaster.

Sec. 24. Makes it the duty of the chief inspector and chief weigher to nominate a sufficient number of assistants.

Sec. 25. The duties of the chief weighmaster shall be confined to the three great business points of this State, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth, in which cities he and his assistants shall supervise and have exclusive control of the weighing of grain, and the inspection of scales on which said grain is weighed.

Sec. 26. Empowers the warehouse commissioners to fix the fees for weighing grain.

Sec. 27. Prohibits the weighmaster and his assistants being members of any board of trade or institution of like character, and requires them to give bonds in the sum of $5,000 each.

Sec. 28. The commissioners may adopt rules and regulations for the weighing of grain.

Sec. 29. Any refusal to permit the weighmaster to perform these duties is made punishable by a fine of $100 for each offense.

Sec. 30. Requires the warehouseman to guarantee weights at terminal points, settlement for the storage, if any is found to exist on its arrival, to be paid for at the same price as received for the remainder of the consignment, and in case of refusal the recovery is made possible by action in double the value of the shortage.

Sec. 31. Gives the chief weighmasters authority to remove his assistants.

Sec. 32. Makes it the duty of the chief inspector of grain, by himself or his deputies, to inspect and determine the grade of all the grain received or delivered at any public warehouse, mills or receptacle of grain.

Sec. 33. Requires the chief inspector to take the oath of office and give a bond of $20,000, the deputy inspectors to take the oath and give a bond of $5,000 each.

Sec. 34. Gives the chief inspector authority to remove his deputies.

Sec. 35. Subjects the inspectors to government of rules fixed by the commissioners.

Sec. 36. Gives the commissioners the authority to fix the compensation of the inspector and his deputies.

Sec. 37. Makes it the duty of the chief inspector to assign a deputy inspector to any market where, in his judgment, it may be deemed necessary.

Sec. 38. Prohibits any inspector or deputy, during his term of service, being interested, directly or indirectly, in the purchase or sale of grain, but the chief inspector may appoint deputies who are in the employ of warehousemen where the amount of grain to be inspected will not afford sufficient compensation to support an inspector.

Sec. 39. Prescribes methods for removal of the chief inspector for incompetency or corruption in office.

Sec. 40. Makes carelessness, neglect of duty or the acceptance of money or other consideration on the part of a deputy inspector, or the improper influencing of any inspector of grain in the performance of his duty, punishable by a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $1,000, or imprisonment in the county jail not less than thirty days nor more than one year.

Sec. 41. Makes the charge for weighing and inspection a lien on the grain so inspected or weighed.

Sec. 42. The decision of the chief inspector or any deputy inspector on any grade shall be binding on all parties.

Sec. 43. Provides that in case any owner or consignee is aggrieved by the decision of the inspectors, appeal may be taken to the executive committee of the warehouse commissioners.

Sec. 44. Nothing in the act shall be construed to prevent the sale of grain by sample without regard to grade.

Sec. 45. Fines and penalties collected under the act shall be paid into the State treasury for the use and benefit of the inspection service.

Sec. 46. Makes it the duty of the State treasurer to recive the monies collected under this act and to pay them out on the order of the executive committee of the commissioners.

Sec. 47. Makes it the duty of the secretary of the commission to keep the books of the commission.

Sec. 48. Makes the maximum charge for the storage and handling of grain, including the cost of receiving and delivering, insuring against loss or damage by fire and storage for the first thirty days or part thereof, two cents per bushel, and for each fifteen days thereafter one half a cent a bushel. Damp grain may be subjected to a charge of two and a half cents for the first ten days and for each additional five days one half of 1 per cent.

Sec. 49. Makes it unlawful for any warehouseman to mix grains of different grades or to tamper with the grain while in his warehouse. [illegible] shall be authorized at all times during ordinary business hours to examine any and all grain stored in any public warehouse, to test and examine the scales, the expense of the tests of the scales to be paid by warehouse men if the scales are found to be incorrect.

Sec. 51. Any owner dissatisfied with the inspection of any lot of grain, who may desire to receive his property without its passage into store, shall be at liberty to have the same withheld by giving notice to the person or corporation in whose possession it may be at the time of giving such notice.

Sec. 52. Makes it unlawful for any warehouseman to enter into any contract, agreement, understanding or combination with any railroad company or other corporation by which the property of any person is to be delivered to any public warehouse for storage or for any purpose contrary to the direction of the owner, his agent or consignee.

Sec. 53. Makes it the duty of any railroad company, upon written application, to grant to any person, firm or corporation the free use of a suitable location upon their sidetracks at the station where such application is made, for the erection and maintenance of such a warehouse as they may wish to erect, and requires the railroad company to afford facilities for the shipment of grain from such warehouse.

Sec. 54. Makes it the duty of the State to prosecute offenders under the act, in the name of the State, upon the bond of the warehouseman; criminal prosecutions to be brought by the county attorney where the offense has been committed, and conviction to be punishable by fine of not less than $100, nor more than $1,000.

Sec. 55. Appropriates $10,000 to carry out the provisions of the act.

Skim-Milk Farming.

(Read by H. E. Hoard, Montevideo, Minn., before the N. W. Dairymen's Association, February 14th, 1884.)

My subject is skim-milk farming, and I desire to apply the term, as it used to be regarded, to the occupation as it is practiced by many to-day.

Modern skim-milk may carry with it very little of pathos, or color, but the skim-milk of our boyhood comes back to our minds as a vision of etheral nothingness, dressed in blue. A supper of rich bread and sweet milk may even now be regarded as sufficiently "filling" for a hungry boy's stomach, and hearty enough to go to bed on, but the supper of "samp and skim milk" of the olden time would scarcely be considered the proper compensation due to nature in the case of the hard worked farmer, and especially when it is determined in the interest of economy that not the morning's milk shall be skimmed for supper, but that of the day before.

Of all the saving that rigid economy ever suggested there is nothing that comes to my mind so utterly shorn of its goodness of heart, its strength and richness, as ancient milk—well skimmed—and as some of the methods and practices of the farmers of this day and generation are as utterly void of everything wholesome and profitable, I have likened them to it.

The recollection of a rough and hilly farm down East, where the soil is thin and the stones thick, the springs and brooks numerous, the fences and furrows crooked, the hills rugged and steep, and the valleys—like the poet's love—"so near and yet so far," where the roads are a weariness to the flesh, in mid-summer and mid-winter, and impassible all the rest of the year, where quack-grass and Canada thistles are as firmly established as the everlasting rocks, and diversified farming with a vengeance is the edict of nature and necessity—such a farm comes to my mind now as one of many from which the cream was taken long, long ago. And yet from these same hill farms have sprung some of the ablest, best cultured, and most prosperous farmers of this progressive age—men who have helped to formulate in theory and to crystallize in practice, the most intelligent and comprehensive system of farming of this or any other age. They are the men who have helped to dignify labor and to advance the occupation of farming to a most honorable and exalted profession; while surrounded by far different circumstances, there has arisen here in the West in the very infancy of its existence a class of men largely of the same blood, who are keeping perfect step with them in the grand march of progress, excelling them often in the quality and character, and especially in the quantity of their products. The most thorough-going and successful farmers of the West are those who served their apprenticeship in the East, and to all these clear sighted practical and enterprising men we ascribe the honor of being the full-cream farmers of the land. Through their intelligent and persistent effort the apparent obstacles of climate, soil and location have been transformed into elements of success, and the lesson their example teaches is one that should be most thoroughly studied and made use of by their less progressive and intelligent brethren. In view of their eminent success often in spite of the most trying obstacles, we are led to ask, why should any man of ordinary capacity fail especially here in the West where the circumstances and conditions are so habitually favorable [illegible] is no less true now than always before, that it is the brain as well as the brawn that is destined to work out the farmer's salvation, and also true that only where both are intelligently employed can he hope for reasonable success. It is true that we are creatures of circumstances, but no less true that circumstances are often under our control. There are few, if any, independent conditions in life, and reasoning intelligently upon the conditions that surround us, and their causes, we are often permitted to determine and profit by the results that follow. The circumstance of a general failure of the corn crop throughout the Northwest last year, although a calamity of itself, of no mean proportions, is, at the same time, an opportunity for profit to those who best comprehend it. As the skillful mariner can take advantage of any wind, whether blowing to or from the port he desires to enter, so the intelligent, practical farmer may adapt himself to the conditions about him, and prosper and progress when they are adverse as well as favorable.

In the section I live in the farmers are chiefly engaged in wheat raising, with a growing tendency in the direction of stock and dairy farming. Careful estimates have placed the cost of producing a bushel of wheat in this section at not far from sixty-five cents; this does not include depreciation in land nor cost of transportation by rail, or otherwise, to the markets of the world; these expenses aggregate at least twenty-five cents more, and when the wheat is placed in any market where it will bring $1 per bushel, the cost of production and transportation have run up to at least ninety cents. The crop of 1883 marketed in my town aggregated 550,000 bushels, worth in Chicago something like a half million dollars, on which the farmers have realized a profit of not more than 10 per cent, or $50,000, in this favorable wheat year. The freight tariff alone on this wheat amounts, however, to $115,000, and as the cost of transportation affects the price paid, this enormous tax really falls on the farmers. Their expenses for freight alone are therefore more than double their profits.

Now, assuming that stock and dairy farming are, of themselves, quite as profitable as wheat farming—in other words, that it costs no more to produce a given amount in butter or beef than the same amount in wheat (an assumption most favorable indeed to the wheat interest), it is easy to estimate the benefit the farmer might receive in this one item alone, by condensing his products.

Half a million dollars worth of live stock could be sent to the Chicago market at an expense not to exceed $35,000, and thus of this $115,000 freight expense incident to wheat raising, there would have been saved, to the farmers' profit, $80,000.

The same product in pork and beef would have gone to the same market at an expense of not to exceed $25,000, and thus another $10,000 of freight might have been saved—all clear profit. The same amount in cheese would have required the expenditure of but $15,000 in freight, instead of $155,000, and thus an even $100,000 of expense might have been saved to the farmers, just twice the amount of their profits on wheat, and on dividing it up among the 500 or more farmers each would have a balance of $200 to show for every $100 he realized on wheat.

In the production of butter the difference is still more to his advantage. To ship $500,000 worth of butter would cost not more than from $7,000 to $8,000 in place of the $115,000, and thus about 93 per cent. of the costs of wheat transportation would be saved, and the farmers supposed profit of 10 per cent would be increased to considerably over 80 per cent. of the gross receipts. Putting it in a different form, and we find that the Southwestern Minnesota farmer who produces good butter pays out for transportation to market but 2 per cent. of the value of his product. The cheese producer pays out from 3½ to 4 per cent. The pork and beef producer pays from 5 to 6 per cent., and the live stock shipper from 7 to 8 per cent, but the wheat farmer settles his little freight account by turning over from 23 to 25 per cent. of all the gross receipts of his crop, and a large share, if not all, of the balance goes for other expenses.

The wheat farmer is content to take his small pittance of gain in skim-milk, while the millers' association, the speculators, and the railroads take all the cream of his crop.

A few weeks ago, one of my subscribers, a wheat farmer, brought a load of 50 bushels of wheat to market, for which he received sixty-four cents—the price of No. 2—with a dockage of two pounds per bushel for dirt. Of the $31 he received for the load, a portion was immediately invested at a corner grocery in butter, eggs and pork—things that his farm should have produced in abundance. He had raised forty-five acres of wheat, he said, and expected to market 650 bushels, besides saving seed, etc. His crop at that rate would bring him $400, or about $9 per acre, and although the price was a little low, still he admitted that he had done as well as he had before for several years, and he should try and put in sixty acres next year. He lived 15 miles from town and had farmed it there for thirteen years, and yet he bought his butter, his eggs, and his pork and asked us to keep sending along his paper for another year, and he would try and settle up after [illegible] them, who reads and thinks, raised over 1,800 bushels of a choice variety of wheat year before last, from only thirty-six acres of land, and he sold all he could spare for seed, at $1.25 per bushel. Last year he raised about thirty-two bushels per acre from nearly double the ground, and sold his crop again for seed, at the same price. His gross receipts were $4,500 last year, and $4,000 this year, and the average of his neighbors possibly $1,200. His net profits were over $30 per acre each year while that of his neighbors amounted to perhaps one-twentieth of that sum. He took the inch of pure cream, and they were content with the bucket of skim-milk.

But it is not alone the wheat producer who is engaged in this practice of farming on the skim-milk plan.

It was asserted at a former meeting of this association that one-third of all the cows milked in this country were milked at an actual loss, and that another third were milked to no profit, and that all the profits of dairying come from the remaining third. Assuming that intelligent dairymen have weeded out from their herds all the unprofitable cows, and we are confronted with the statement that the great majority of those who make butter and cheese are dairying on the skim-milk plan, and that only the minority engaged in this cream-producing business succeed in getting the cream.

The intelligence that takes no thought of the principles of stock breeding and considers and acts only with reference to present convenince, yet looks forward to a greatly improved herd, is another illustration of this plan of farming; while the economy that stints the feed of cows and young stock, expecting no like reduction in the milk product of the one, or the growth of the other, or that habitually would sell the very best and keep or raise the poorest, is another familiar illustration. The impression that a 100 pounds of pork can be made with less feed, labor, and expense, in a year and a half or two years of economic feeding, than it can in three months of generous feeding and good care, is another instance. The policy that finds satisfaction in merely producing, without taking thought of the quality, character or condition of the thing produced, or that looks wholly to quantity or yield, rather than to value, is another illustration.

The philosophy that permits a farmer to confine himself, year after year, to a single product, taking from his land annually those elements so essential to its production, yet giving back to it, by way of fertilization, not so much even as the rotted straw, is another instance of bleak and barren skim-milk farming that disgraces our civilization, while on the same plane with it is the incomparable intellectuality of the farmer who cannot afford to keep himself well posted on the general news of the day and on matters of especial concern to the agriculturist, but stops his paper, buys no books or magazines, and starves his mind and the minds of his family, in the vain hope of economizing enough to get a good start in the world.

The wisdom that will consent to the housing of expensive tools and machinery in the open fields at all times when not in use, or that will shelter the growing stock behind a wire fence, with the expectation that the former will prove serviceable or the latter profitable, is of the skim-milk variety; while the practice of burning the straw stacks and stubble to get rid of a lot of rubbish, and the practice of plowing but skin deep and of cultivating but indifferently, are alike barren of profitable results.

Indifference to the kind or quality of seed sown, and especially to its adaptability to the conditions of soil and climate, and its profitableness in view of costs of transportation, and the probability of future demand may be also noted, while the neglect of any intelligent system of book-keeping by which the farmer may determine the cost, the yield, and the profit or loss of his enterprises, too frequent results in the continuation for years of most unprofitable undertakings, that otherwise would be averted.

The loose-jointed impression, too frequent in the West as well as elsewhere, that a farmer's obligation is essentially different from that of the tradesman or mechanic, and that he is not required to discharge it at maturity, unless, indeed, it is in the form of a secured note, is not only disgraceful to the good name and reputation of the calling, but invariably a most unprofitable practice, and the many petty devices and schemes attempted with the view to secure a benefit that is undeserved, or to avoid an honest debt, are equally unworthy the good name of farmer.

The highest type of intelligence, skill, integrity, patriotism, and broad-gauge public-spirited manhood are demanded in this grandest occupation of them all, and to such the welcome bidding is given, come up and possess the land.

Fargo Republican: Said a well known Cass County farmer and stock raiser to the writer yesterday: "I sold in the market today two 2-year-old steers, for which I received $104.80. The gross weight of the animals was 2,585 pounds. These steers stood at the straw stack last winter, and altogether have been stabled and fed only only one month. The actual cost of raising the animals did not exceed $20. Farmers, how does that compare with wheat raising at 50 or even 60 cents a bushel? It isn't necessary that you should abandon one to go into the other. Wheat growing in Dakota is profitable [illegible] as effectually as mixed farming will do it. Supposing laws are enacted cheapening rates of transportation—who derives the benefit?—Certainly not the farmers, but the men who handle their produce in the great markets. The farmers might as well make up their minds to this fact. Cheap transportation may bring them their supplies cheaper, but to the man engaged in mixed farming this is a matter of small importance. Three-fourths of what he uses in his family he will raise on his own farm. When the farmers of Dakota go systematically into mixed farming they will themselves solve the transportation problem in a manner more satisfactory than the most exacting legislation.

Grand Forks Herald: The monopolist department of the Pioneer Press of St. Paul, may deem itself wise in compiling tables of wheat prices in Dakota to show as an artful fallacy that wheat is higher in the Northwest than elsewhere, by comparison. To undeceive the unwary it needs only be stated that the railroad organ of St. Paul omitted to include Emerson, Manitoba, in the list, for if it had been included it would have shown wheat to be ten cents per bushel higher there than at Grand Forks, with only two grades at the former while there are about seven at the latter and 66⅔ per cent. only No. 1 hard in the finest crop of hard wheat which Providence ever permitted any land to grow to maturity. Besides, 60 cents has been rare, the ruling price being 45 to 50. The statistician of the P. P. may compile a set of figures to delude fools and knaves who want to be deluded; but it cannot prove thereby that the Red River Valley has not been robbed of a cool million of dollars on the past year's wheat crop. That it is impotent to do with all its stately and magnificent rhetorical illusions and disingenuous tabulated fallacies.

A. Yvernault,

Dealer in

General

Merchandise,

—MAIN STREET,—

Crookston, - Minn.

All my friends, both old and new, are cordially invited to call and examine my stoc and get prices.

Hack & Gallasch

ARE SELLING THEIR GOODS

AT COST

For 30 days only. For Bargains Call Early.

BERG & OLSON,

PRACTICAL WATCHMAKERS

AND DEALERS IN

CLOCKS,

WATCHES,

JEWELRY,

ROBERT STREET

Crookston, Minnesota.

Frank M. Brown,

COMMISSION

STORE,

Main Street, - Crookston.

TWO DOORS NORTH OF MERCHANTS' BANK.

Consignments of Goods for

QUICK CASH SALES

SOLICITED.

☞ Auction every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon.

NEW

DRUG STORE

IN GARFIELD

DR. A NELSON, Prop.

The citizens of this town and vicinity are respectfully invited to call at my new Drug Store in the town of Garfield and examine my stock of

DRUGS, MEDICINES, PAINTS, OILS AND YANKEE NOTIONS.

It is no longer necessary to go 40 or 55 miles for anything in this line, as I have a full supply at prices as reasonable as any town in the Northwest. Call and see

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.

I am also ready to answer all calls day or night, for the practice of my profession. Call, or leave orders at my Drug Store in Garfield, Polk Co., Minn

DR. A. NELSON.

MERCHANTS'

Bank of Crookston.

H. B. MONTGOMERY.........President, St. Paul, Minn.

M. R. BROWN,............Vice President, Crookston, Minn.

J. KELSO.........Second Vice President, Bellevue, Iowa.

Wm. ROSS..........................Cashier, Crookston, Minn.

CASH CAPITAL, $32,000

SURPLUS, $16,533.82.

Will receive deposits and allow interest by special contract.

Buy and Sell Foreign and Domestic Exchange, make collections, and do a strictly legitimate business.

Agents for foreign passage tickets.

De Skandinaviske Sprog tales her.

WM. ROSS, Cashier.

E. D. Schreader

LIVERY,

Feed and Sale Stable.

BEST TURNOUTS

IN THE CITY.

Single or Double Rigs, with or without driver or

SADDLE HORSES

Always ready at a moments notice by day or night. If you want a Nobby Turnout call at the Red Barn, Corner Main and Third Streets,

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

Bigham & Olafson

(Successors to Jove & Bergland,)

THE POPULAR MERCHANTS ON

MAIN STREET, CROOKSTON

Have on hand and are constantly receiving full lines of

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES,

CROCKERY,

CLOTHING,

BOOTS AND SHOES,

HATS AND CAPS.

In fact everything usually found in a first class general store.

☞ Our goods are bought with great care and will be sold at [illegible]

LOW PRICES

FOR CASH.

The Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Proprietor. DEVOTED TO THE WELFARE OF POLK COUNTY. TERMS---$1.50 Per Annum.

VOL. VIII. CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINNESOTA, JANUARY 22, 1885. NO. 39

Polk County Journal.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

H. E. COOKE, Editor and Proprietor

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Dollar and Fifty Cents if paid in advance, to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

ADVERTISING RATES.

SPACE.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 m.	2 m	6 m.	1 year
¼ inch	50	$1 00	$1 75	$1 50	$3 00	4 50	$6 00
1 inch	75	1 25	1 75	2 00	5 50	6 00	10 00
2 inches	1 50	2 25	3 00	3 50	6 50	9 50	15 00
3 inches	1 75	2 75	3 75	4 50	9 50	13 50	20 00
4 inches	2 50	3 50	4 50	5 50	10 00	10 00	25 00
inches	3 00	4 00	5 00	6 00	12 50	20 00	30 00
¼ column	3 50	5 50	5 50	6 50	15 00	25 00	35 00
½ column	6 00	7 50	10 00	12 00	20 00	35 00	50 00
1 column	9 50	12 50	15 00	18 00	35 00	60 00	100 00

Entered at the Post Office in Crookston as Second Class matter.

THE BRADFORD BILL.

The bill known as the Bradford bill is endorsed by the State Grange and while it is not perfect it is the best one yet presented so far as we are able to juedg by the following synopsis which we find in the Pioneer Press:

Section 1. Declares all elevators or store houses in which grain is stored in bulk to be warehouses.

Sec. 2. Provides that a license shall be procured by every lessee or owner of a warehouse of the judge of the circut court before commencing to transact business, the court to have power to revoke the license upon complaint in writing of any person setting forth the particular violation of the law, and upon satisfactory proof.

Sec. 3. Provides for a bond of $5,000 for warehouses of 25,000 bushels capacity, of $10,000 for warehouses of over 25,000 bushels and less than 50,000 bushels, and $20,000 for more than 50,000 bushels, providing that a common bond of $40,000 may be given by a corporation.

Sec. 4. Makes the offense of conducting a warehouse after Aug. 1, 1885, without a license punishable by a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $500.

Sec. 5. Makes it the duty of the warehouseman to receive for storage any grain, dry and in a suitable condition for warehousing, which shall be tendered him, not making any discrimination between persons, to be stored with grain of similar grade; but if the owner or consignee so requests, and the warehouseman consents, his grain may be kept in a bin by itself, apart from that of other owners, which bin shall be marked and kept as a special bin. If a receipt be issued, it shall state that it is in a special bin and the number of such bin; and all grain delivered from such warehouse shall be inspected on its delivery by a duly authorized inspector of grain nothing in this section shall be construed so as to require the receipt of any kind of grain into any warehouse in which there is not sufficient room to accommodate or to store it properly, or in cases where such warehouse is closed. The charges for inspection upon receipt and delivery shall be paid by the warehouseman, and may be added to the charge of the storage. The chief inspector may receive such charges of the warehouseman by an appropriate action in his name.

Sec. 6. Provides for the insurance of a receipt for the grain, stating the quantity and grade of the grain, the receipts issued to be consecutively numbered.

Sec. 7. Makes provision for cancelling the receipts when the wheat is delivered.

Sec. 8. No warehouse receipt shall be issued except upon the actual delivery of the grain into store, in the warehouse from which it is purported to be issued. Provision is made for the delivery of the grain in part and for receipts covering such a contingency.

Sec. 9. No warehouseman shall insert in any receipt issued by him any language in anywise limiting or modifying his responsibility or liability as imposed by the laws of the State.

Sec. 10. On return of the receipt properly endorsed and the tender of all charges upon the grain represented in it, such grain shall be immediately delivered to the holder of such receipt, and it shall not be subject to further charges for storage after demand for such delivery shall have been made.

11. Makes warehouse receipts transferable upon endorsement.

Sec. 12. Makes the issuance of any receipt for any grain not actually in store, or the removal of any grain from store, except to preserve it from fire or other sudden danger, without the return and cancellation of any and all outstanding receipts a crime, punishable by imprisonment for not less than one year nor more than ten years.

Sec. 13. Makes it the duty of the owner or manager of any public warehouse to furnish in writing, under oath, to the warehouse commissioner, a statement of the condition and management of his business, and to make a report of the bushels of grain received by him after Aug. 1 of each year. Non-compliance is made punishable by forfeiture of license and fine of not less than $500 nor more than $1,000.

Sec. 14. Makes it the duty of the warehouse commissioners, at their first meeting, to establish the grade of grains in the State, to be known as Minnesota grades, provided that no change shall be made without thirty days previous notice in the daily newspapers.

Sec. 15. Makes it the duty of the judge of each district court to appoint before June, 1885, and each fourth year thereafter, a suitable person residing in the district, who shall not be a member of any board of trade, to be a member of the State board of warehouse commissioners, the first term to be but two years in duration, after that four years in length.

Sec. 16. The persons so appointed shall constitute a State board of warehouse commissioners.

Sec. 17. Said board shall meet and organize in St. Paul on the first Tuesday in July, 1885.

Secs. 18 and 19. Prescribe rules for organization and the duties of the officers elected.

Sec. 20. Makes it the duty of the warehouse commissioners to assume and exercise a constant supervision over the grain interest of the State: to supervise the handling, inspection, weighing and storage of grain; to establish all necessary rules and regulations for the inspection, weighing and grading of grain, and for the management of public warehouses, etc., etc.

Sec. 21. Provides for the publication of the rules established.

Sec. 22. Makes the compensation of the commissioners $5 per day for the time spent in the discharge of their duties.

Sec. 23. Makes it their duty to biennially elect a chief inspector and a chief weighmaster.

Sec. 24. Makes it the duty of the chief inspector and chief weigher to nominate a sufficient number of assistants.

Sec. 25. The duties of the chief weighmaster shall be confined to the three great business points of this State, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth, in which cities he and his assistants shall supervise and have exclusive control of the weighing of grain, and the inspection of scales on which said grain is weighed.

Sec. 26. Empowers the warehouse commissioners to fix the fees for weighing grain.

Sec. 27. Prohibits the weighmaster and his assistants being members of any board of trade or institution of like character, and requires them to give bonds in the sum of $5,000 each.

Sec. 28. The commissioners may adopt rules and regulations for the weighing of grain.

Sec. 29. Any refusal to permit the weighmaster to perform these duties is made punishable by a fine of $100 for each offense.

Sec. 30. Requires the warehouseman to guarantee weights at terminal points, settlement for the storage, if any is found to exist on its arrival, to be paid for at the same price as received for the remainder of the consignment, and in case of refusal the recovery is made possible by action in double the value of the shortage.

Sec. 31. Gives the chief weighmasters authority to remove his assistants.

Sec. 32. Makes it the duty of the chief inspector of grain, by himself or his deputies, to inspect and determine the grade of all the grain received or delivered at any public warehouse, mills or receptacle of grain.

Sec. 33. Requires the chief inspector to take the oath of office and give a bond of $20,000, the deputy inspectors to take the oath and give a bond of $5,000 each.

Sec. 34. Gives the chief inspector authority to remove his deputies.

Sec. 35. Subjects the inspectors to government of rules fixed by the commissioners.

Sec. 36. Gives the commissioners the authority to fix the compensation of the inspecton and his deputies.

Sec. 37. Makes it the duty of the chief inspector to assign a deputy inspector to any market where, in his judgment, it may be deemed necessary.

Sec. 38. Prohibits any inspector or deputy, during his term of service, being interested, directly or indirectly, in the purchase or sale of grain, but the chief inspector may appoint deputies who are in the employ of warehousemen where the amount of grain to be inspected will not afford sufficient compensation to support an inspector.

Sec. 39. Prescribes methods for removal of the chief inspector for incompetency or corruption in office.

Sec. 40. Makes carelessness, neglect of duty or the acceptance of money or other consideration on the part of a deputy inspector, or the improper influencing of any inspector of grain in the performance of his duty, punishable by a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $1,000, or imprisonment in the county jail not less than thirty days nor more than one year.

Sec. 41. Makes the charge for weighing and inspection a lien on the grain so inspected or weighed.

Sec. 42. The decision of the chief inspector or any deputy inspector on any grade shall be binding on all parties.

Sec. 43. Provides that in case any owner or consignee is aggrieved by the decision of the inspectors, appeal may be taken to the executive committee of the warehouse commissioners.

Sec. 44. Nothing in the act shall be construed to prevent the sale of grain by sample without regard to grade.

Sec. 45. Fines and penalties collected under the act shall be paid into the State treasury for the use and benefit of the inspection service.

Sec. 46. Makes it the duty of the State treasurer to recive the monies collected under this act and to pay them out on the order of the executive committee of the commissioners.

Sec. 47. Makes it the duty of the secretary of the commission to keep the books of the commission.

Sec. 48. Makes the maximum charge for the storage and handling of grain, including the cost of receiving and delivering, insuring against loss or damage by fire and storage for the first thirty days or part thereof, two cents per bushel, and for each fifteen days thereafter one-half cent per bushel. Damp grain may be subjected to a charge of two and a half cents for the first ten days and for each additional five days, one-half of 1 per cent.

Sec. 49. Makes it unlawful for any warehouseman to mix grades of different grades or to tamper with the grain while in his warehouse. He may, on request of the owner where wheat is stored in a special bin—dry, clean or otherwise—improve the condition, value and grade of any such grain, and provision is made for receiving and cleaning wheat denominated machine dirty.

Sec. 50. Provides that all persons owning grain, or who may be intrusted in the same, or any public inspector shall be authorized at all times during ordinary business hours to examine any and all grain stored in any public warehouse; to test and examine the scales, the expense of the tests of the scales to be paid by warehouse men if the scales are found to be incorrect.

Sec. 51. Any owner dissatisfied with the inspection of any lot of grain, who may desire to receive his property without its passage into store, shall be at liberty to have the same withheld by giving notice to the person or corporation in whose possession it may be at the time of giving such notice.

Sec. 52. Makes it unlawful for any warehouseman to enter into any contract, agreement, understanding or combination with any railroad company or other corporation by which the property of any person is to be delivered to any public warehouse for storage or for any purpose contrary to the direction of the owner, his agent or consignee.

Sec. 53. Makes it the duty of any railroad company, upon written application, to grant to any person, firm or corporation the free use of a suitable location upon their sidetracks at the station where such application is made, for the erection and maintenance of such a warehouse as they may wish to erect, and requires the railroad company to afford facilities for the shipment of grain from such warehouse.

Sec. 54. Makes it the duty of the State to prosecute offenders under the act, in the name of the State, upon the bond of the warehouseman; criminal prosecutions to be brought by the county attorney where the offense has been committed, and conviction to be punishable by fine of not less than $100, nor more than $1,000.

Sec. 55. Appropriates $10,000 to carry out the provisions of the act.

Skim-Milk Farming.

(Read by H. E. Hoard, Montevideo, Minn., before the N. W. Dairymen's Association, February 14th, 1881.)

My subject is skim-milk farming, and I desire to apply the term, as it used to be regarded, to the occupation as it is practiced by many to-day.

Modern skim-milk may carry with it very little of pathos, or color, but the skim-milk of our boyhood comes back to our minds as a vision of etheral nothingness, dressed in blue. A supper of rich bread and sweet milk may even now be regarded as sufficiently "filling" for a hungry boy's stomach, and hearty enough to go to bed on, but the supper of "samp and skim milk" of the olden time would scarcely be considered the proper compensation due to nature in the case of the hard worked farmer, and especially when it is determined in the interest of economy that not the morning's milk shall be skimmed for supper, but that of the day before.

Of all the saving that rigid economy ever suggested there is nothing that comes to my mind so utterly shorn of its goodness of heart, its strength and richness, as ancient milk—well skimmed—and as some of the methods and practices of the farmers of this day and generation are as utterly void of everything wholesome and profitable, I have likened them to it.

The recollection of a rough and hilly farm down East, where the soil is thin and the stones thick; the springs and brooks numerous; the fences and furrows crooked; the hills rugged and steep, and the valleys—like the poet's love—"so near and yet so far," where the roads are a weariness to the flesh, in mid-summer and mid-winter, and impassible all the rest of the year; where quack-grass and Canada thistles are as firmly established as the everlasting rocks, and diversified farming, with a vengeance, is the edict of nature and necessity—such a farm comes to my mind now as one of many from which the cream was taken long, long ago. And yet from these same hill farms have sprung some of the ablest, best cultured, and most prosperous farmers of this progressive age—men who have helped to formulate in theory and to crystallize in practice, the most intelligent and comprehensive system of farming of this or any other age. They are the men who have helped to dignify labor and to advance the occupation of farming to a most honorable and exalted profession; while surrounded by far different circumstances, there has arisen, here in the West, in the very infancy of its existence, a class of men largely of the same blood, who are keeping perfect step with them in the grand march of progress; excelling them often in the quality and character, and especially in the quantity of their products. The most thorough-going and successful farmers of the West are those who served their apprenticeship in the East, and to all these clear-sighted, practical, and enterprising men we ascribe the honor of being the full-cream farmers of the land. Through their intelligent and persistent effort the apparent obstacles of climate, soil and location have been transformed into elements of success, and the lesson their example teaches is one that should be most thoroughly studied and made use of by their less progressive and intelligent brethren. In view of their eminent success, often in spite of the most trying obstacles, we are led to ask, why should any man of ordinary capacity fail? especially here, in the West where the circumstances and conditions are so habitually favorable. The only answer I can find is, that they utterly fail to comprehend the first principles of success, neither do they manifest a sufficient desire to become informed. They are the farmers who do not think, or, thinking, do not think aright, and while they grope along, unthinking and irresolute, the very circumstances that might prove to their advantage take on the nature of insurmountable difficulties. While they fail to comprehend these conditions of success or failure, the other class comprehend and take advantage, and by this measure alone, rather than by the circumstances of climate or soil, location or luck, may the success of the one and failure of the other be determined. It is no less true now than always before, that it is the brain as well as the brawn that is destined to work out the farmer's salvation, and also true that only where both are intelligently employed can he hope for reasonable success. It is true that we are creatures of circumstances, but no less true that circumstances are often under our control. There are few, if any, independent conditions in life, and reasoning intelligently upon the conditions that surround us, and their causes, we are often permitted to determine and profit by the results that follow. The circumstance of a general failure of the corn crop throughout the Northwest last year, although a calamity of itself, of no mean proportions, is, at the same time, an opportunity for profit to those who best comprehend it. As the skillful mariner can take advantage of any wind, whether blowing to or from the port he desires to enter, so the intelligent, practical farmer may adapt himself to the conditions about him, and prosper and progress when they are adverse as well as favorable.

In the section I live in the farmers are chiefly engaged in wheat raising, with a growing tendency in the direction of stock and dairy farming. Careful estimates have placed the cost of producing a bushel of wheat in this section at not far from sixty-five cents; this does not include depreciation in land nor cost of transportation by rail, or otherwise, to the markets of the world; these expenses aggregate at least twenty-five cents more, and when the wheat is placed in any market where it will bring $1 per bushel, the cost of production and transportation have run up to at least ninety cents. The crop of 1883 marketed in my town aggregated 550,000 bushels, worth in Chicago something like a half million dollars, on which the farmers have realized a profit of not more than 10 per cent, or $50,000, in this favorable wheat year. The freight tariff alone on this wheat amounts, however, to $115,000, and as the cost of transportation affects the price paid, this enormous tax really falls on the farmers. Their expenses for freight alone are therefore more than double their profits.

Now, assuming that stock and dairy farming are, of themselves, quite as profitable as wheat farming—in other words, that it costs no more to produce a given amount in butter or beef than the same amount in wheat (an assumption most favorable indeed to the wheat interest), it is easy to estimate the benefit the farmer might receive in this one item alone, by condensing his products.

Half a million dollars worth of live stock could be sent to the Chicago market at an expense not to exceed $35,000, and thus of this $115,000 freight expense incident to wheat raising, there would have been saved, to the farmers' profit, $80,000.

The same product in pork and beef would have gone to the same market at an expense of not to exceed $25,000, and thus another $10,000 of freight might have been saved—all clear profit. The same amount in cheese would have required the expenditure of but $15,000 in freight, instead of $155,000, and thus an even $100,000 of expense might have been saved to the farmers, just twice the amount of their profits on wheat; and on dividing it up among the 500 or more farmers each would have a balance of $200 to show for every $100 he realized on wheat.

In the production of butter the difference is still more to his advantage. To ship $500,000 worth of butter would cost not more than from $7,000 to $8,000 in place of the $115,000, and thus about 93 per cent. of the costs of wheat transportation would be saved, and the farmers' supposed profit of 10 per cent, would be increased to considerably over 30 per cent. of the gross receipts. Putting it in a different form and we find that the Southwestern Minnesota farmer who produces good butter pays out for transportation to market but 2 per cent. of the value of his product. The cheese producer pays out from 3½ to 4 per cent. The pork and beef producer pays from 5 to 5 per cent., and the live stock shipper, from 7 to 8 per cent; but the wheat farmer settles his little freight account by turning over from 23 to 25 per cent. of all the gross receipts of his crop, and a large share, if not all, of the balance goes for other expenses.

The wheat farmer is content to take his small pittance of gain in skim-milk, while the millers' association, the speculators, and the railroads take all the cream of his crop.

A few weeks ago, one of my subscribers, a wheat farmer, brought a load of 50 bushels of wheat to market, for which he received sixty-four cents—the price of No. 2—with a dockage of two pounds per bushel for dirt. Of the $31 he received for the load, a portion was immediately invested at a corner grocery in butter, eggs, and pork, things that his farm should have produced in abundance. He had raised forty-five acres of wheat, he said, and expected to market 650 bushels, besides saving seed, etc. His crop, at that rate, would bring him $400, or about $9 per acre, and, although the price was a little low, still he admitted that he had done as well as he had before for several years, and he should try and put in sixty acres next year. He lived 15 miles from town and had farmed it there for thirteen years, and yet he bought his butter, his eggs, and his pork, and asked us to keep sending along his paper for another year, and he would try and settle up "after next harvest." Verily, indeed, we thought as we erased his name from the list, how completely does his practice illustrate the idea of skim-milk farming.

And yet the climate and soil in that section are remarkably well adapted to the production of wheat and the industry ought to be one of the most profitable ones engaged in by our farmers. That it is not so, is not wholly due to the oppressive corporations and monopolies, but the instance I cite illustrates the real cause of failure with many. Still, we have farmers who are getting rich raising wheat, but they are the ones who study closely the situation and learned how to make this generally profitless industry profitable. One of them, who reads and thinks, raised over 1,800 bushels of a choice variety of wheat year before last, from only thirty-six acres of land, and he sold all he could spare for seed, at $1.25 per bushel. Last year he raised about thirty-two bushels per acre from nearly double the ground, and sold his crop again for seed, at the same price. His gross receipts were $4,500 last year, and $4,000 this year, and the average of his neighbors possibly $1,200. His net profits were over $30 per acre each year while that of his neighbors amounted to perhaps one-twentieth of that sum. He took the inch of pure cream, and they were content with the bucket of skim-milk.

But it is not alone the wheat producer who is engaged in this practice of farming on the skim-milk plan.

It was asserted at a former meeting of this association that one-third of all the cows milked in this country were milked at an actual loss; and that another third were milked to no profit, and that all the profits of dairying come from the remaining third. Assuming that intelligent dairymen have weeded out from their herds all the unprofitable cows, and we are confronted with the statement that the great majority of those who make butter and cheese are dairying on the skim-milk plan, and that only the minority engaged in this cream-producing business succeed in getting the cream.

The intelligence that takes no thought of the principles of stock breeding and considers and acts only with reference to present convenience, yet looks forward to a greatly improved herd, is another illustration of this plan of farming; while the economy that stints the feed of cows and young stock, expecting no like reduction in the milk product of the one, or the growth of the other, or that habitually would sell the very best and keep or raise the poorest, is another familiar illustration. The impression that a 100 pounds of pork can be made with less feed, labor, and expense, in a year and a half or two years of economic feeding, than it can in three months of generous feeding and good care, is another instance. The policy that finds satisfaction in merely producing, without taking thought of the quality, character or condition of the thing produced, or that looks wholly to quantity or yield, rather than to value, is another illustration.

The philosophy that permits a farmer to confine himself, year after year, to a single product, taking from his land annually those elements so essential to its production, yet giving back to it, by way of fertilization, not so much even as the rotted straw, is another instance of bleak and barren skim-milk farming that disgraces our civilization, while on the same plane with it is the incomparable intellectuality of the farmer who cannot afford to keep himself well posted on the general news of the day and on matters of especial concern to the agriculturist, but stops his paper, buys no books or magazines, and starves his mind and the minds of his family, in the vain hope of economizing enough to get a good start in the world.

The wisdom that will consent to the housing of expensive tools and machinery in the open fields at all times when not in use, or that will shelter the growing stock behind a wire fence, with the expectation that the former will prove serviceable or the latter profitable, is of the skim-milk variety; while the practice of burning the straw stacks and stubble to get rid of a lot of rubbish, and the practice of plowing but skin deep and of cultivating but indifferently, are alike barren of profitable results.

Indifference to the kind or quality of seed sown, and especially to its adaptability to the conditions of soil and climate, and its profitableness in view of costs of transportation, and the probability of future demand may be also noted, while the neglect of any intelligent system of book-keeping, by which the farmer may determine the cost, the yield, and the profit or loss of his enterprises, too frequent results in the continuation for years of most unprofitable undertakings, that otherwise would be averted.

The loose-jointed impression, too frequent in the West as well as elsewhere, that a farmer's obligation is essentially different from that of the tradesman or mechanic, and that he is not required to discharge it at maturity, unless, indeed, it is in the form of a secured note, is not only disgraceful to the good name and reputation of the calling, but invariably a most unprofitable practice, and the many petty devices and schemes attempted with the view to secure a benefit that is undeserved, or to avoid an honest debt, are equally unworthy the good name of farmer.

The highest type of intelligence, skill, integrity, patriotism, and broad-gauge public-spirited manhood are demanded in this grandest occupation of them all, and to such the welcome bidding is given, come up and possess the land.

Fargo Republican: Said a well known Cass County farmer and stock raiser to the writer yesterday: "I sold in the market today two 2-year-old steers, for which I received $104.80. The gross weight of the animals was 2,585 pounds. These steers stood at the straw stack last winter, and altogether have been stabled and fed only only one month. The actual cost of raising the animals did not exceed $20." Farmers, how does that compare with wheat raising at 50 or even 60 cents a bushel? It isn't necessary that you should stop one to get into the other. Wheat growing in Dakota is profitable. The present has been an exceptional year, the world over, and as much money was made from wheat grown in Dakota as from that grown on any portion of the globe. Keep on growing wheat, but raise stock as well, and pigs and poultry. Poultry is always profitable on any farm where grain is grown. They are natural scavengers. The same is true of hogs. All the legislation in the world won't solve the problem for the farmers of Dakota as effectually as mixed farming will do it. Supposing laws are enacted cheapening rates of transportation—who derives the benefit? Certainly not the farmers, but the men who handle their produce in the great markets. The farmers might as well make up their minds to this fact. Cheap transportation may bring them their supplies cheaper, but to the man engaged in mixed farming this is a matter of small importance. Three-fourths of what he uses in his family he will raise on his own farm. When the farmers of Dakota go systematically into mixed farming they will themselves solve the transportation problem in a manner more satisfactory than the most exacting legislation.

Grand Forks Herald: The monopolist department of the Pioneer Press of St. Paul, may deem itself wise in compiling tables of wheat prices in Dakota to show as an artful fallacy that wheat is higher in the Northwest than elsewhere, by comparison. To undeceive the unwary it needs only be stated that the railroad organ of St. Paul omitted to include Emerson, Manitoba, in the list, for if it had been included it would have shown wheat to be ten cents per bushel higher there than at Grand Forks, with only two grades at the former while there are about seven at the latter and 66⅔ per cent. only No. 1 hard in the finest crop of hard wheat which Providence ever permitted any land to grow to maturity. Besides, 60 cents has been rare, the ruling price being 45 to 50. The statistician of the P. P. may compile a set of figures to delude fools and knaves who want to be deluded; but it cannot prove thereby that the Red River Valley has not been robbed of a cool million of dollars on the past year's wheat crop. That it is impotent to do with all its stately and magnificent rhetorical illusions and disingenuous tabulated fallacies.

A. Yvernault,

Dealer in

General

Merchandise,

—MAIN STREET,—

Crookston, - Minn.

All my friends, both old and new, are cordially invited to call and examine my stoc and get prices.

Hack & Gallasch

ARE SELLING THEIR GOODDS

AT COST

For 30 days only. For Bargains Call Early.

BERG & OLSON,

PRACTICAL WATCHMAKERS

AND DEALERS IN

CLOCKS,

WATCHES,

JEWELRY,

—ROBERT STREET,—

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

Frank M. Brown,

COMMISSION

STORE,

Main Street, - Crookston.

TWO DOORS NORTH OF MERCHANTS' BANK.

Consignments of Goods for

QUICK CASH SALES

SOLICITED.

☞ Auction every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon.

NEW

DRUG STORE

IN GARFIELD

DR. A NELSON, Prop.

The citizens of this town and vicinity are respectfully invited to call at my new Drug Store in the town of Garfield and examine my stock of

DRUGS, MEDICINES, PAINTS, OILS AND YANKEE NOTIONS.

It is no longer necessary to go 40 or 55 miles for anything in this line, as I have a full supply at prices as reasonable as any town in the Northwest. Call and see

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON

I am also ready to answer all calls day or night, for the practice of my profession. Call, or leave orders at my Drug Store in Garfield, Polk Co., Minn

DR. A. NELSON.

MERCHANTS'

Bank of Crookston.

H. B. MONTGOMERY.........President, St. Paul, Minn.

M. R. BROWN,............Vice President, Crookston, Minn.

J. KELSO.........Second Vice President, Bellevue, Iowa.

Wm. ROSS.............................Cashier, Crookston, Minn.

CASH CAPITAL, $32,000

SURPLUS, $16,533.82.

Will receive deposits and allow interest by special contract.

Buy and Sell Foreign and Domestic Exchange, make collections, and do a strictly legitimate business.

Agents for foreign passage tickets.

De Skandinaviske Sprog tales her.

WM. ROSS, Cashier.

E. D. Schreader

LIVERY,

Feed and Sale Stable.

BEST TURNOUTS

IN THE CITY.

Single or Double Rigs, with or withou driver or

SADDLE HORSES

Always ready at a moments notice by day or night. If you want a Nobby Turnout call at the Red Barn, Corner Main and Third Streets,

CROOKSTON, - - - MINNESOTA.

Bigham & Olafson

(Successors to Juve & Bergland.)

THE POPULAR MERCHANTS ON

MAIN STREET, - - CROOKSTON.

Have on hand and are constantly receiving full lines of

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES,

CROCKERY,

CLOTHING,

BOOTS AND SHOES,

HATS AND CAPS

In fact everything usually found in first-class general store.

☞ Our goods are bought with great care and will be sold at

LOW PRICES

☞ FOR CASH. ☜

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, January 22, 1885.

'ROUND HOME.

Tuesday was somewhat windy, it is said.

W. H. Topping was greeting his many friends in the city this week.

Table linens from 20 cents to 90 censt at the New York store.

Senator Steenerson spent the Sabbath in the city with his friends.

Peter Cornelius is suffering from the ffects of a severe cold on the lungs.

The Baptists are holding a series of evening meetings this week in their chapel.

You can buy one pair kid gloves for 50 cents; reduced from $1.50, at the New York store.

Wednesday was one of those clear, calm days for which Minnesota winter is noted. The cold is not intense and the weather beautiful.

The best five cent cigars is at the Red Star Grocery, Broadway. [51-tf]

Mayor Walsh intends to go to New Orleans next month, and may extend his trip to California.

Rumor says we are going to have another skating rink. Common sense says we have plenty of 'em now.

You can buy gents' wool underwear at less than wholesale cost, at the Ne York store.

Berthiaume Bros. will occupy their new business place on or about Feb. 1st. Look out for their announcement

Hack & Gallasch are selling at cost to make room for spring stock. For bar gains call on them. 33tf

The French Band concert last Thursday evening was well attended and a success financially as well as otherwise, we are told.

At the New York store they are bound to do business even in dull times if prices can do any.

You can buy a good colored blanket or 95 cents, at the New York store.

Adolph Gallasch has gone below on a visit to his old home of a few weeks duration. He may take in the World's Fair before he returns.

A company of Red Lake Falls gentlemen were in last week agitating county division. We did not learn what kind of success they had.

A room in Dobson's new brick block is being finished up to be occupied, it is said, as a private bank. An institution of this kind, properly managed, will coin wealth and be a benefit.

The Terrebonne flouring mill was destroyed by fire on Friday last. We learn that the proprietors, Messrs. Ames & Smith, had little or no insurance upon the property, which will be a severe loss as it will also prove to that vicinity.

When you hear that dog barking violently and a little clatter behind it you may know that Dave Robinson is coming with his dog harnessed to a hand sled. Dave has the animal so well broken that he will go anywhere but always under protest.

The P. & H. elevator at Kittson was burned to the ground on Friday night of last week. The flames lighted up the prairie for miles in every direction. This is the elevator that had settled so badly last fall that wheat could not be correctly weighed therein.

Every farmer should keep some stock and that of the very best. It costs no more to raise a good animal, worth twice as much as a scrub, than it does to raise the scrub. There is no excuse for not having good stock as there is getting to be an abundance of it in the county.

A. D. Tice, one of Maple Lake's enterprising farmers came in on Tuesday. Mr. Tice contemplates changing from all wheat to diversified farming, and will get a few cattle of the very best breeds and a few sheep and try that method for awhile. That plan is sure to win in the long run.

We call attention to an article upon "skim-milk farming" elsewhere in this issue. The writer, H. E. Hoard, Esq., was an intelligent granger before he drifted into journalism (they do get badly warped sometimes) and he evidently understood his business. The article will pay a careful perusing.

If Senator Steenerson's seven per cent. bill becomes a law good-bye to all hopes for obtaining money in this State for the future. It is easy to legislate the limit to be charged for money, but it is quite another thing to legislate that capital shall accept the limit. That bill is too premature, to draw it mildly.

To-night the ladies of the Congregational church will take charge of the Favorite skating rink, the entire proceeds, for skating and all, to be for the benefit of the Congregational church. There will be skating, supper, the broom brigade and lots else too numerous to mention. Plenty of fun and everybody invited.

On Friday evening last a gay party of ladies and gentlemen of Grand Forks came over by special train to visit the Favorite skating rink and enjoy a pleasant evening, which was passed in skating and dancing. The race between Jud Carruth, of this city, and young Griggs, of Grand Forks, was hotly contested and won by Carruth. We learn that the third race between these two will come off at the Grand Forks rink to-morrow (Friday) evening.

Wheat dropped to 64 cents early in the week. It will climb up again soon, doubtless.

The place to buy remnants is at the New York store.

Dr. A. Nelson was up from Aldal last week. The doctor is having a vast deal of business this winter which keeps him on the road very much of the time. He says that J. S. LaDue, who sold out last fall and went to Iowa has returned and will reside in Polk Co., permanently. He prefers our fine climate to Iowa storms and mud. So say they all of them.

You can buy a large surge white bed spread for 85 cents, at the New York store.

Grand Forks Herald, Jan. 15th: Last evening a very happy ceremony was performed at the Richardson House by Rev. Dorin of the M. E. church, it being the union of hearts and hands of Robert N. Wells and Miss Anna B. Miller of Crookston, Minn. The ceremony was witnessed by a number of friends from Crookston and this city. The bride is a niece of Mrs. Topping of the Richardson House and the groom a well-known and esteemed young man, both deserving the good wishes which follow them.

Flannels, 54 and 56 inches wide, in all the new shades, reduced from $1.00 and $1.20 to 75 cents, at the New York store. The nett cost on these good was 85 cents.

Euclid Items.

From the Olive Leaf.

School prosperous. Every seat occupied.

Mr. Davis is hauling the wood of a tree that contains 206 rings. That tree must be nearly 200 years old.

Mr. Geo. Harris and family expect to remove to Warren about the 15th. Mr. H. is to take charge of the railroad station at that point. He has been agent at Euclid for the past two years and the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. H. will be sorry to see them remove.

A dance will be given in the drug store next Friday evening for the benefit of E. J. Haseltine and H. Biver. The managers propose making this dance THE event of the season. All are cordially invited.

Mr. Davidson reports seeing Wells Misner in St. Paul on Monday. He also saw Mr. Darlas, late of Euclid. Reports Mr. D. happy and nearly recovered from his fear of cyclones.

Mr. M. E. Kitsch has placed all his property with the wide awake Minneapolis agency and intends to leave here as soon as his property can be disposed of.

Geo. Harris says that owing to his removal he will sell his famous grinding machine and graduates at a great sacrifice for cash!

Wm. Davidson has arrived with a carload of fine cows, which he purchased at Granite Falls for the Keystone farm. They had been thirty hours on the road when they arrived and were almost unmanagable owing to the extreme cold. They were driven directly to the farm.

Evrybody says that Charlie Misner is heavy on alligator stories.

Caught on the Streets.

John McLean: "Well, we are going to build a railroad, for one thing, next spring. The Crookston and Southwestern railroad company has made arrangements for placing their bonds and the road will be built to Tower City or Fargo next summer sure!"

Johnnie Hack: "Dot leetle dog? You bet, he's the smartest leetle fellow in the business and only five months old. Just watch him sit up once and he only five months old! Fred Reynolds brought him from Duluth intending to keep him, but the leetle rascal got into disgrace and so I fell heir to him and he only five months (the dog!")

Said a prominent citizen on Wednesday: "Yes, Adolph Gallasch left last night for his old home accompanied by the deputy sheriff, but you may assure your readers that Gallasch can make it all right just as soon as he can get a chance to explain. There's nothing in it!"

D. Jacobus: "Your'e right, roller skating is getting to be all the rage but I guess I can do all of that that is necessary for my family. I'm going to have a rink put in right here where my house stands; move the house back on Ash street. Have lots of trouble with the electric lights. Don't get power enough."

E. J. George: "No cause to complain fortunately. The firm of Lee & George are doing a good business, though John is somewhat inclined to be sleepy a little during business hours."

Mayor Walsh: "I shall take a trip to Chicago, Washington, New Orleans and, probably, California, to be gone six weeks or so, about the middle of February. Whether I shall be a candidate for re-election depends very much on circumstances."

J. G. McGrew: "What I don't know about roller rink attractions aint worth mentionin'. If those rink fellers would take my advice they would know something."

Notice.

I desire to call the attention of the public to the fact that I have opened a Jewelry and Watchmaking business in the store formerly occupied by James McKenzie, Second Street, Crookston. I purpose to run a first-class jewelry store and shall adhere to the rule of promptness all the time. I would respectfully for a friendly patronage by the generous public.

C. H. SAAKE,
Fine watchmaker and jeweler, Crookston, Minn.

EUCLID STATION, Jan. 11, 1885.

EDITOR POLK COUNTY JOURNAL: Please inform your readers that the Olive Leaf is not a printed paper. We have received several exchanges and can only exchange with one.

Yours fraternally,
F. B. McDONALD, Ed.

[The above letter explains itself. By some means it was overlooked last week and only discovered in time for this issue. It contains a moral which is: "If you wish to catch the public attention advertise in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL." ED. JOURNAL.]

County Printing.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE,
Polk County, Jan 6th, 1885.

The Board of County Commissioners of said county will be pleased to receive sealed bids for publishing list of delinquent real estate tax of 1885, proceedings of the Board of County Commissioners Legal Notices, &c.; also for furnishing Stationery, Court Calendars, &c. Bids will be opened at a special session of said Board to be held at their office in the city of Crookston, on Tuesday, February 3d, 1885. Separate bids are requested for each item.

P. J. McGUIRE, Clerk.

Taxpayers.

Of Polk County are hereby notified that I will be at the following places at the dates specified herein for the purpose of collecting current taxes, to-wit:

Angus, Monday afternoon, Jan. 26.
Euclid, Tuesday, Jan. 27.
East Grand Fork, Wednesday afternoon and Thursday, Jan. 28 and 29.
Mallory, Friday, Jan. 30.
Fisher, Saturday, Jan. 31.
St. Hilaire, Thursday afternoon and Friday, Feb. 5 and 6.
Red Lake Falls, Saturday, Feb. 7.
Terrebonne, Monday, Feb. 9.
Maple Bay, Saturday, Feb. 14.
Mentor, P. O., Monday, Feb. 16.
Aldal, Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday, Feb. 17 and 18.
Edna, Thursday afternoon, Feb. 19.

O. H. LUCKEN,
County Treasurer, Polk County.
[39-41]

Red flannels, plain and twilled, guaranteed all wool, from 22 cents to 50 cents, at the New York store.

Notice of Dissolution.

Notice is hereby given that the firm of Harry G. Proud and George G. McDonell, doing business as Proud & McMonell, is hereby dissolved by mutual consent. The debts of said firm will be paid, and all accounts owing said firm collected by George G. McDonell.

Crookston, Minn., Jan 2d, 1885.
HARRY G. PROUD.
[38-40] GEORGE G. McDONELL.

The business of the above firm will be continued at the old stand by Geo. G. Macdonell, who invites a continuation of the patronage of the many old customers and friends of the old firm.

GEO. G. MACDONELL.

John Knuppe.

General Agent in the Red River Valley of the Netherlands American Land Company of Amsterdam, Holland.

Money to loan on good real estate security, on time to suit the borrower. Office over Merchant's Bank. [1-tf]

Notice to Farmers.

C. Kretzschmar's Grist Mill, at Red Lake Falls, is again open for business. Flour will be exchanged for wheat, or your wheat will be ground on shares. A good feed mill is run in connection with the mill and satisfaction in all cases is guaranteed. Flour and feed on hand at all times and sold at lowest market rates.

[16-tf] C. KRETZSCHMAR.

At Seely's

You can find some extra fine crab-apple cider; old bourbon whisky, eight years old, Maryland Club, pure rye; Jules and G. H. Mum's extra dry champagne; imported Scotch ales and porters for medicinal purposes; also a fine stock of imported cigars. Call and sample. [22-tf]

Money to Loan.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS to loan on improved farms from THREE to FIVE years time at very reasonable rates. Apply at my office on Broadway, in U. S. Land Office building.

[14tf]. H. STEENERSON.

PIANO TUNING.

Any parties having pianos or organs that need tuning or repairing, can have their work satisfactorily done by leaving orders at the Linton House. Satisfaction guaranteed.

[9-tf.] E. F. WHEELDEN.

The United States Internal Revenue Special Tax is due May 1st. Any information and a full line of blanks can be had by calling on or addressing

JOHN McLEAN,
Attorney at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

Hogs! Hogs!! Hogs!!!

A Polk County granger wants to buy a few good shotes, from six months to a year old, sows prefered. The highest market price in cash will be paid. For further particulars call on or address JOURNAL office, Crookston, Minn. [37-tf]

They are selling goods at Fontaine & Anglim's cheaper than they can be bought by the cargo in Boston.
Prints 4 and 5 cents.
Ginghams 8 and 10 cents.
Ladies fine shoes $3.50, worth $6.00.
Men's suits $10.00, worth $15.00.
12 pounds granulated sugar $1.00.
14 pounds C sugar for $1.00.

To Country Merchants:

If you are compelled to keep School Books for sale, we can furnish them to you at the WHOLESALE PRICE without any additional cost for FREIGHT. If you want Pens, Pencils, Slates, Copy Books, &c., you will do well to buy them of us at BOTTOM PRICES, for we have got the goods.

☞ Wholesale orders for Drugs, Medicines, &c., promptly shipped.

Respectfully,
POTTER & GEORGE,
Medical Hall,
Wholesale and Retail Druggists, Crookston.

IF YOU
WANT A FINE JOB OF ANY KIND DONE IN THE Watch or Jewelry Line
GO TO
C. H. SAAKE, - SECOND STREET.
You will get in deed and in fact,
Not simply in name, but in truth.
FINE WATCH REPAIRING A SPECIALTY.
C. H. SAAKE,
Practical Watchmaker. Jeweler and Optician, Crookston.

Strayed.

From my premises at East Grand Forks, on Friday night Dec. 19th 1884, one team brown mares; one branded "T. S." on right hip. Ten dollars reward will be paid for information leading to their recovery.

GUST MELIN,
[36-38] East Grand Forks.

LOST!

$100 REWARD!

Lost in the Village of Euclid, on Wednesday, November 12th, 188 , a black leather pocket-book containing $910 in bills. A reward of one hundred dollars will be paid on the return of the pocket-book and money.

R. CASMEY.
Euclid, Minn. [30-tf]

Fine stationery a specialty at M. Van Dyke & Co's.

NOTICE.

As I have established a Nursery in Crookston and propose to continue the business, I will announce to our former customers and all that are desirous of obtaining trees and Plants the coming spring that I will sell said stock at prices below any competition. Call and see me before making purchase elsewhere. Residence on second block north of Court House, or address P. O. Box 754.

Most Respectfully,
[38-tf] E. W. HASELTINE.

LIST OF LETTERS

Remaining uncalled for in the Crookston Post Office, for the week ending Jan. 19th, 1885. Persons calling for these letters will please say "advertised."

Erikson, Caroline	Pettersson, A G
Estenson, Austin T
Gulbranson, Ed	Rueb, Peter
Hauseland, H H
Haugen, M O	Ryggen, Marie J
Hasel, Johan
Johnson, Oddur	Sexsmith, Alexander
Laugood, Anders M	Shaalvold, Marritt K

D. JACOBUS, P. M.

Crookston Nurseries.
Established in 1879.
Tree Claim Stock.

I will furnish my customers and others, trees and seeds for Tree Claims at reduced figures in the spring of 1885 Also all the hardier varieties of small fruits, such as Currants, Gooseberries, and Raspberries. Also good thrifty Transcendent and Hislop Crab Apple trees, Cottonwood and Box Elder trees. Box Elder and Ash seed, and Willow cuttings. Also garden seeds. The firm of Haseltine Bros. was dissolved in June, 1883. E. W Haseltine has no interest or share in the old Crookston Nurseries. I continue business on the old grounds in Crookston. Don't fail to to send for catalogue of prices

FRANK T. HASELTINE, Prop.
Crookston, Minn.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., Jan. 20th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., on Feb. 27th, 1885, viz: KNUDT H. BERG, Pre. D. S., No. 6007, for the sw¼ S. 24, T. 148, R. 45. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: O. P. Onsted, L. P. Oldsted, C. Tharaldson and J. Nelson, all of Aldal, Polk Co., Minn.

[32-44] JOHN CROMB, Register.

Fortier's Place,
Corner Broadway and Robert Street
EVERYTHING NEW, NEAT
AND NOBBY
Billiards, Pool, and the Choicest Wines, Liquor and Cigars. The purest High Proof Whiskies at wholesale prices
PURE IMPORTED GOODS ON DROUGHT.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Jan. 22d, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of six hundred forty-five and 50-100 dollars which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by J. Anderson Foord, an unmarried man, mortgagor to Fredrick Peterson and John Peterson, mortgagees bearing date the 31st day of May A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 29th day of May A. D. 1883, at 3:10 o'clock p. m., in book "R" of mortgages, on page 22, and whereas the undivided one-half interest in the said mortgage and the debt secured thereby was by the said Fredrick Peterson, one of said mortgagees, duly assigned in writing under his hand and seal to Harold Swenson and Peter Broberg "copartners" by assignment, dated July 31st 1884, which assignment was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of August 1884, at 1:30 o'clock p. m., in book "R" of mortgages on page 349, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The north one-half (n½) of the southeast one-fourth (se¼) and the east one-half (e½) of the southwest one-fourth (sw¼) of Section twenty-eight (28,) of Township one hundred and fifty-three (153,) Range forty-three (43,) containing one hundred and sixty acres according to government survey, said lot, piece, or parcel of land being situatee in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disburzements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the seventh day of March A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated, January 22d, A. D. 1885.

JOHN PETERSON,
Mortgagee.
HAROLD SWENSON AND PETER BROBERG,
Assignees of Fredrick Peterson.
D. F. JENNESS, Attorney. [32-45]

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss. District Court, 11th
County of Polk: } Judicial District.

In the matter of the assignment of Charles A. Chiniquy and Joseph Rudolph Chiniquy, copartners as C. A. & J. R. Chiniquy, for benefit of creditors to Morris R. Brown.

On reading the petition of the above named assignee and other records, papers and files in the above mentioned matter, ordered: That all persons interested in the assigned estate herein, show cause, if any there be, before this court, at special term, at the Court House, in the Village of Duluth, in the County of St. Louis, and State of Minnesota, on Thursday the 26th day of February A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m., of that day, why the accounts of the aforesaid assignee shall not be allowed, why all his acts and proceedings in the above entitled matter shall not be ratified and confirmed, why said assignee shall not receive a reasonable compensation for his services in said matter, why the amount of each creditor who has filed proof of claims and the release provided by law is entitled to receive out of said estate should not be ascertained and the petitioner directed to pay the same, and why after this has been done, the said assignee should not be fully, completely and forever discharged from the duties of his trust herein and from all liabilities thereunder, and why the bond of said assignee shall not be forever discharged and cancelled, and why each other and further or different order as the court shall deem just and proper shall not be granted.

Ordered that this order be published in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL a newspaper printed and published in the City of Crookston, in the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, once each week for three successive weeks and that at least twenty days before said return day a copy of this order be mailed to each and all of the creditors of said assignor, and also to said assignors, addressed to each at his reputed place of residence.

Dated January 14th A. D. 1885.

O. P. STEARNS,
District Judge.
W. & J. WATTS,
Att'ys for Assignee, Crookston, Minn. [39-41]

WM. WATTS,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND DEALER IN
REAL ESTATE:
OFFICE OVER MERCHANTS' BANK.

$100,000

To Loan on improved claims in sums of $250 to $2,000. Cash paid for school bonds. Call on or address,

JOHN McLEAN, Att'y at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

Crookston Tonsorial
PARLORS,
PROF. THOMPSON, Proprietor.
Robert Street, Crookston, Minn.
Shaving, hair dressing and all work in my line promptly attended to the latest style of the art. Give me a

STEWART & LAWRENCE,
SUCCESSORS TO E. M. WALSH,
Hardware Merchants,
CARRY A FULL LINE OF
Iron, Steel, Nails, Tinware, Guns,
REVOLVER, AMMUNITION, BUILDING PAPER,
Sash, Doors, &c.

McKINNON BRO'S
CARRIAGE WORKS!
Robert Street,
Crookston, - Minn.
AGENTS FOR THE
J. I. CASE THRESHING MACHINES!
And Manufacurers of Carriages, Wagons,
BUGGIES,
Cutters, Sleds, &c.
Axles, Springs and all Repairs kept in stock,
DEALERS IN
FARM MACHINERY.

In Farm Machinery we have the Champion Seeder, Fargo Diamond Tooth Harrow, Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow, Davenport and Grand Detour Sulky and Walking Plows, Buford Gang Plows, Field Rollers of all sizes, Warrior Mowers, the leading Hay Rake and first-class Harvesters and Binders, the Webber Wagon and McKinnon Bros. Wagon. In fact we have everything in machinery, from

A Wheelbarrow to a Threshing Machine!
EXTRAS
For all Machines constantly on hand

THE
J. I. CASE
THRESHING MACHINE COMPANY
The Dennet or Beloit
HARVESTING MACHINE COMPANY!
And the Van Brunt & Davis
SEEDER COMPANY,
Are Represented
BY
STEENERSON BROS.,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

HOW TO BE HEALTHY!
Drink LePage's
35c Tea and 35c pure Java Coffee
AND SMOKE MY NICKEL PILGRIM CIGAR.
HOW TO BE WEALTHY!
COME TO THE RED STAR GROCERY
And Save Money on everything you buy.
AND IF YOU ARE WISE

You will buy only Pure and Fresh Groceries. THE RED STAR GROCERY is the place to get them and there you will find Prices the Lowest. Farmers and others bring in your Butter and Eggs and get highest prices for them. Remember the RED STAR, one door south of Montreal House.

E. LEPAGE, Broadway, Crookston, Minn.

PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.—The bill to repeal the pre-emption, desert lands and timber culture laws, and to amend the homestead law, passed the senate. The first section provides for the repeal of the pre-emption law, this repeal, however, not to affect the rights of any person which are accruing on the passage of the act. It further provides that any person who has not heretofore had the benefit of the pre-emption law, and who has failed from any cause to perfect the title on land heretofore entered by him under the homestead laws, may make a second homestead entry in lieu of the pre-emption privilege which is repealed. Section 2 repeals the timber culture law, with the proviso that it shall not interfere with existing rights. Second 3 amends the revised statutes so that persons who have availed themselves of the homestead laws may pay a minimum price for lands, after eighteen months from date of entry, provided they file a preliminary notice six months before. Section 4 repeals the desert land act, except as to claims which exist at the date of the passage of the act. Section 5 provides that no public lands except abandoned military or other reservations, mineral lands and other lands, the sale of which has been authorized by a special act of congress, shall be sold at public auction, or by special or private entry; all offered public lands are withdrawn from market, and shall be disposed of as unoffered public lands. Mr. Edmunds introduced a bill authorizing the president to appoint and place on the retired list of the army one person from among those who had been generals commanding the armies of the United States, or a general-in-chief of said army. Mr. Edmunds expressed the hope that unanimous consent would be given for immediate consideration of the bill. It would authorize the president to appoint Gen. Grant to the retired list. In its form it obviated the difficulty observed in the Fitz John Porter case.

HOUSE.—The following bills passed: Creating a United States judicial district in Southern California; limiting the time for presentation of bounty and back pay claims to three years from the passage of this act, and all other claims except pensions to six years, and providing claims hereafter arising must be presented within six years from the time they originated; authorizing the service of civil and criminal processes issued by territorial courts within military and Indian reservations and the Yellowstone Park; amending session 1883, revised statutes, so as to prohibit territorial legislatures from granting private charters; regulating appeals from the supreme court of the District of Columbia and supreme courts of territories.

SENATE.—The senate, with only nine dissenting votes, passed the bill presented by Senator Edmunds, providing for the placing of Gen. Grant on the retired list of the army, with the rank held by him when elected president of the United States. Senators Maxey of Texas, Jones and Gibson of Louisiana, George of Mississippi, and Jones of Florida spoke briefly in favor of the bill, and paid neat tributes to the character and public services of Gen. Grant. The remarks of these gentlemen, as being senators from states that have actively participated in the rebellion, made a very favorable impression. Senator Voorhees also made an earnest and feeling speech in favor of the bill. The bill was sent to the house during the afternoon and laid upon the speaker's table. It will be necessary to obtain unanimous consent to take it up for consideration in advance of the measures which precede it on the table, and, as there is believed to be some opposition to the bill, it is not likely to obtain such consent. The bill passed the Senate—yeas 49, nays 9. The nays were Messrs. Bock, Cockrell, Coke, Harris, Pendleton, Saulsbury, Slater, Vance, and Walker.

The bill repealing the pre-emption and desert land acts, etc., favorably reported to the senate, is the house bill amended by the senate committee. It awaits action by the senate, and, if passed, goes back to the house. The statement that it passed was a mistake. It was only reported favorably from the committee on public lands.

The naval appropriation bill passed. The interstate commerce bill was debated. Eulogies upon the late Hon. Schuyler Colfax were spoken, and the senate adjourned in respect to his memory.

HOUSE.—Mr. Randall sent to the clerk's desk and had read a letter received from the secretary of state informing the house that one of the certificates of the electoral vote of Oregon and one of the certificates of the electoral vote of Iowa, not having been received by the president pro tem of the senate, it became incumbent on him to send a special messenger to each of these states, as required by law. The secretary requests that an appropriation be made to pay the expenses and compensations of these messengers.

The speaker laid before the house a message from the president on the same subject. The missing certificates are the duplicates required to be sent by mail. Their non-receipt will not affect the counting of the electoral vote, as certificates have already been received from Oregon and Iowa by messenger, but the law under which the secretary of state has acted is mandatory.

Both houses passed a bill making an appropriation for the payment of messengers to be sent for the electoral votes of Iowa and Oregon, those which the law requires to be sent by mail not having been received.

A bill was introduced to refund the bounded debt of the United States at 2½ per cent. interest and for other purposes. The senate French spoliation claim bill passed, as did also the Chinese indemnity fund bill.

SENATE.—Mr. Miller (Cal.) introduced a bill to increase the pension of the widow of Gen. H. Thomas, $500, to $1,000 a year, the same as the pension already granted the widow of Admiral Farragut. Referred.

In executive session the following nominations were sent in by the President: William A. Richardson, judge of the court of claims to be chief justice of the court of claims; John Davies, District of Columbia, to be judge of the court of claims. Mr. Davies is present assistant secretary of state. Richardson takes the place of Chief Justice Drake, retired.

Confirmations—A. W. Hall, collector of customs, Milwaukee. Postmaster; J. J. Cutter, Parker, Dak.

Senator Morgan made a speech in executive session in favor of the Nicaraguan treaty. There were no other speeches. An amendment was offered by Sherman looking to negotiations with Great Britain for the abrogation or amendment of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty before the Nicaraguan treaty shall take effect.

HOUSE—The house proceeded to consider the McPherson bill, providing for the issue of circulating notes to national banks to the par value of bonds deposited by the banks with the treasurer of the United States for security. An earnest discussion of three hours followed, the principal opponents to the measure being Potter and Hewitt of New York and Yaple of Michigan.

Mr. Potter had a carefully drawn bill which he desired to have substituted for the McPherson bill, and had the support of Mr. Hewitt. It provided among other things for the exchange 4 and 4½ per cent. bonds, for bonds bearing 2½ per cent, payable at the pleasure of the government, at the same time the higher rate bonds are payable and in like manner. The failure to pass the bill to-day may be regarded as fatal, as the chances to get it before the house for consideration are very slim.

SENATE.—Mr. Sabin introduced a bill for the relief of settlers under the homestead law. Senator Sabin's bill, provides that settlers on public lands under the homestead laws shall be entitled to one year from date of entry of lands within which to establish actual residence upon the lands. Mr. Hoar offered a resolution, which was agreed to, directing the architect of the capitol to place in the room of the senate wing, in which Vice President Henry Wilson died, a marble tablet recording the fact and date of his death. The committee on pensions reported adversely the bill to grant a pension of $50 per month to Emma DeLong widow of the late Commander DeLong, of Jeannette fame. The interstate commerce bill was debated and Mr. Van Wyck spoke with his accustomed vigor in support of the principle of legislative control of railroads.

HOUSE.—A conference disagreement was reported to the senate (Morgan), amendment to the Atlantic & Pacific land grant forfeiture bill, and a motion that the house recede from its disagreement was lost. The senate amendments to the Oregon Central forfeiture bill were non-concurred in. The rest of the day was devoted to the private calender, and an evening session was held for the consideration of private pension bills.

The remarks of Gladstone's son at Hawarden recently are understood to indicate that his father will retire from party politics at the end of the present parliament.

Only A Line.

Young beginners in wrong-doing never look at the end—as they might a thousand times in the example of others' ruin whose first step downward was the very one they are taking. The despair which inevitably closes the unchecked career of those who throw their talents and the promise of their youth away, has seldom been more affectingly presented than we find it in the following little life-sketch:

Less than three months ago a wreck of a man staggered into the office of a weekly paper in eastern Michigan and asked for money to buy whiskey. Strangely enough the publisher was an old school-mate. They were apprentices in the same town. They worked side by side as finished compositors. One had sobriety and thrift—the other had a good heart and an open hand. Twenty years made the one rich and influential—the other a drunkard who often slept in the gutter. The one had made use of what God had given him, but the other had deliberately made himself a wreck.

The meeting called up a host of recollections, and the contrast between their situations was so great that the old drunkard was sobered as he realized it. He was offered work, but he had become too broken. The stick and the rule were no longer for him. He was offered a temporary home, but he looked at his rags and felt his shame for the first time in months. When money was handed him he waved it back and said,—

"I shall not want it. I ask in the name of olden days and as a fellow craftsman, one little favor."

"It shall be granted."

"When you know that I am dead then turn a rule for me and give me a single line."

The promise was made and the old wreck floated out again on the current of life, borne here and there, and feeling that death was to be the end. Yesterday a copy of the weekly reached the Free Press with proof that the editor had fulfilled his promise. He had turned a rule for the poor wreck, and had given him a line:

"Died, September 27, 1882, George White."

That was all, but in that line was such a sermon as no man on earth could deliver. For every word there was a year of woe and degradation. For every letter there were tears and heartaches and promises and failures.—Detroit Free Press.

New Story of Garfield.

A gentleman who knew Garfield well tells a story which has never before been published of that remarkable man. "We were sitting," said this gentleman, "in the office of the Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Thompson of Indiana, waiting to be heard on some matter of routine business, when Garfield took his seat at a vacant desk near by and commenced writing with both hands upon scratch pads on either side of him. He seemed to write with one hand as freely as with the other. Both hands, in fact, appeared to move automatically. The only difference was that the lines on the tablet written with the left hand, were reversed from the usual order. The consequence was that the writing on the left hand tablet could not be read except by an expert, or by holding up to a light or before a mirror. I looked at the one written with the left hand on its upper side, and while the lines seemed remarkably uniform they conveyed no meaning, but holding the thin paper up at the light I saw not only that the words written were the same as those on the tablet written with the right hand. but that every peculiarity in the formation of a letter which was found on the tablet was exactly reproduced on the left hand. The achievement was a marvel to me, as I had never heard of it before, although I have since heard that many people do it. Garfield said that he often wrote that way, whenever he wished to preserve an exact copy of what he was writing without having a copy made by letter press, and that in this manner he saved a great deal of time without any more appreciable fatigue. I asked him how he got into that habit. He said that while teaching school once he had occasion to use his right hand to point out something and that unconsciously he kept on writing upon the black-board with his left. Upon turning to the black-board to look at what he had written, he observed that the writing was reversed, but that he had full use of his left hand for writing, and from that time he made use of both hands. He was, in fact, completely ambi-dextrous."

The Wise Mother-in-Law

From the Burlington Hawkeye.

She meeteth her son-in-law at the door when the new clock tolleth fourteen, and he essayeth to let himself into the hall by unlocking the front gate with his watch key. And for this oftimes he feareth her.

She knoweth his ways and his tricks are not now to her. She is up to all his excuses, and when he sayeth he was detained down at the bank until the next morning;

Or, that the last car had gone, and he had to walk;

Or, that he was sitting up with a sick friend;

Or, that he was looking for his collar button;

Or, that he was drawn on the jury;

Or, that he had joined the astronomy class;

Or, that his books wouldn't balance;

Then doth she get onto him with both feet, for she sayeth within herself: "All these things hath his father-in-law said unto me, for lo, these many years. Lo, this is also vanity and vexation of spirit."

And for this he feareth her yet more and more.

The Faro Passion.

Speaking of faro and other wicked games, a Virginian, after remarking that in the better days of the republic when everybody played faro, a gentleman was distinguished by the comment "He plays with red checks" from the poor white-chip trash, dwelt upon the passionate love for the game which possesses men who get into its clutches. "Years ago," he said, "two of the finest lawyers in New Orleans on their way to New York stopped at Charlottesville, Va., because they heard there was a man there who dealt faro. They found the man and played all night. About midnight one lawyer whispered to the other: 'He's cheating.' 'Hush!' said the other; 'I've known that for two hours; but there isn't another faro game within fifty miles.'"—Philadelphia Record.

The Modern "Engaged" Girl.

In the old times a betrothal ring had a good deal of significance. It was the first ring that a maiden wore. At present, when every young lady wears one or more rings, and may wear as many as she pleases, a girl's engagement ring is no conspicuous adornment, and is not remarked by one in every hundred of her beholders, unless it is a handsome diamond, and attracts attention by its beauty. But a betrothal ring was almost as sacred as a wedding ring, and the girl who wore it was as good as married. The maiden of the present day enjoys a much larger liberty, and often makes good use of it. She may retract as many matrimonial promises as she makes; may jilt six lovers and return their rings, marry a seventh, and invite the six jilted lovers to the marriage feast. The ancient engaged girl had to walk a rather narrow path; but the modern engaged girl—well, she is a trump, and I rather like her. She lives in "liberty hall," and "does as she pleases."—Chicago Herald.

From a single grain of wheat planted in 1881, says the Grass Valley (Cal.) Record, grew twenty-two stalks, each bearing a full head. These yielded 860 grains, 760 of which were planted the next year, producing one-fifth of a bushel of splendid wheat. This was planted last spring, yielding seventeen bushels, making 1,020 pounds of wheat from one grain in three years.

ST. JACOBS OIL
TRADE MARK
THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY
FOR PAIN.
CURES
Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica,
Lumbago, Backache, Headache, Toothache,
Sore Throat, Swellings, Sprains, Bruises,
Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites,
AND ALL OTHER BODILY PAINS AND ACHES.
Sold by Druggists and Dealers everywhere. Fifty Cents a bottle. Directions in 11 Languages.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO.
(Successors to A. VOGELER & CO.) Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

A Good Family Remedy
STRICTLY PURE.
Harmless to the Most Delicate
WORLD
ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM
RENOWN
THE REMEDY FOR CURING
CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS.
NEW EVIDENCE.
Read the following:

ADDISON, PA., April 7, 1883.
I took a violent cold and it settled on my lungs, so much so, that at times I spit blood. ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM was recommended to me as a good remedy. I took it, and am now sound and well. Yours respectfully,
A. J. HILEMAN.

ADDISON, PA., April, 1883.
A. J. COLBOM, Esq., Editor of the Somerset Herald, writes: I can recommend ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM as being the best remedy for Colds and Coughs I ever used.

ASTORIA, ILLS., April, 6, 1883.
Gentlemen:—I can cheerfully say your ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM, which I have sold for the past fifteen years, sells better than any cough remedy, and gives general satisfaction. 'Tis frequently recommended by the medical profession here. Yours Truly,
H. C. MOONEY, Druggist.

LA FAYETTE, R. I., October, 12, 1884.
Gentlemen:—Allow me to say that after using three bottles of ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM for a bad attack of Bronchitis, I am entirely cured. I send this voluntarily, that those afflicted may be benefited. Yours respectfully,
BURRILL H. DAVIS.

J. N. HARRIS & CO., Limited, Proprietors,
CINCINNATI, OHIO.

TUTT'S
PILLS
25 YEARS IN USE.
The Greatest Medical Triumph of the Age!
SYMPTOMS OF A
TORPID LIVER.
Loss of appetite, Bowels costive, Pain in the head, with a dull sensation in the back part, Pain under the shoulder-blade, Fullness after eating, with a disinclination to exertion of body or mind, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, with a feeling of having neglected some duty, Weariness, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, Headache over the right eye, Restlessness, with fitful dreams, Highly colored Urine, and
CONSTIPATION.
TUTT'S PILLS are especially adapted to such cases, one dose effects such a change of feeling as to astonish the sufferer. They Increase the Appetite, and cause the body to Take on Flesh, thus the system is nourished, and by their Tonic Action on the Digestive Organs, Regular Stools are produced. Price 25c. 44 Murray St., N.Y.
TUTT'S HAIR DYE.
GRAY HAIR or WHISKERS changed to a GLOSSY BLACK by a single application of this DYE. It imparts a natural color, acts instantaneously. Sold by Druggists, or sent by express on receipt of $1.
Office, 44 Murray St., New York.

HOPS & MALT
TRADE MARK
BITTERS
DOES WONDERFUL CURES
—OF—
LIVER COMPLAINTS
AND KIDNEY DISEASES.
They cleanse the system of the poisonous humors that develop in Kidney and Urinary Diseases, Biliousness, Constipation, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Disorders and all
FEMALE COMPLAINTS.
They prevent the growth to serious illness of a dangerous class of diseases that begin in mere trivial ailments, and are too apt to be neglected as such. They cause free action of all the organs and functions, thereby CLEANSING THE BLOOD, restoring the normal powers to throw off disease
THOUSANDS OF CASES
of the worst forms of these terrible diseases have been quickly relieved, and in short time perfectly cured, by the use of Hops and Malt Bitters. All druggists keep them. Recommended by physicians, ministers, and nurses; and in fact by everybody who has given them a good trial. They never fail to bring relief. HOPS & MALT BITTERS CO., Detroit, Mich.
NOYES BROS. & CUTLER, St. Paul.
MERELL & RYAN, St. Paul.
LYMAN ELIEL DRUG CO., Minneapolis.
Wholesale Agents.

Reform is Necessary.

When a newly married pair receive among their wedding presents six varieties of salad spoons, ten card stands and card baskets, seven coffee sets, four clocks, and duplicates of nearly every other article given, as a Providence couple did recently, it is evident, as Samuel J. Tilden would say, that "reform is necessary." Indiscriminate present making to people just entering matrimony has become a colossal nuisance, not only to the giver but to the receiver, also. It is impossible to imagine any burden more intolerable than being saddled with a great mass of gifts selected by persons of all sorts of taste, and often of no taste at all, making it necessary to turn the newly established home into a bric-a-brac shop. The custom has become so common as to be devoid of all meaning, and it may be well to consider if it is not best to restrict it to the relatives and a few personal friends of the interested pair.

Special Agent Yorke, who was sent to Montana by Attorney Gen. Brewster to take evidence in the matter of charges filed against United States Marshal Botkin of that territory has returned and made his report. He finds all the charges made by Gov. Crosby in relation to the lax management of Deer Lodge penitentiary fully sustained. Other charges made by C. A. Broadwater and others were not sustained, except the one alleging drunkenness habitual and sufficient to interfere with a proper performance of official duties. The report has received the indorsement of the attorney general and goes to the president this week.

New Zealand Songstress.

Madame Marie Carandini, Musical Artist, Wellington, N. Z., writes to the Christchurch, New Zealand Telegraph: "I have used St. Jacobs Oil, and find much relief in case of rheumatism, and for all neuralgic pains."

Titles to Land in the Northwest.

Washington Special to the Boston Herald: Last October Secretary Teller decided that a great number of cash entries of public lands in Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin and other Western states and territories were void. These entries were made upon lands withdrawn from the public domain as railroad land, and subsequently restored. Secretary Teller held that as the lands thus restored, were never offered for sale at public auction, they cannot be entered by settlers under the law until they have been so offered. The decision created a great deal of consternation among cash entry men, and it is said that thousands of acres of their lands have been squatted upon by homesteaders. For several days a delegation representing the cash entries in the northern peninsula of Michigan have been here to consult with members and senators as to the best method of legalizing the sales. As a result Senator Palmer introduced a bill in the senate to confirm the titles of all who purchased in good faith. The Michigan delegation in the house will hold a meeting to devise ways and means for passing favorable legislation through that end of the capitol. It is expected that other states will be represented here.

Pile Tumors

when neglected or improperly treated often degenerate into cancer. By our new and improved treatment without knife, caustic or salve, we cure the worst cases in ten to thirty days. Pamphlet, reference and terms, three letter stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

A dynamite factory, with 500 pounds of explosives, blew up at Somerset, Pa.

It Should be Generally Known that the multitude of diseases of a scrofulous nature generally proceed from a torpid condition of the liver. The blood becomes impure because the liver does not act properly and work off the poison from the system, and the certain results are blotches, pimples, eruptions swellings, tumors, ulcers, and kindred affections, or settling upon the lungs and poisoning their delicate tissues, until ulceration, breaking down, and consumption is established. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" will, by acting upon the liver and purifying the blood, cure all these diseases.

Gov. Porter of Indiana has just pardoned Henry Thornton, a colored miscegenationist.

Don't hawk, and blow, and spit, but use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

A solid silver model of the famous bells of Shandon goes to New Orleans for exhibition.

THE THROAT.—"Brown's Bronchial Troches" act directly on the organs of the voice. They have an extraordinary effect in all disorders of the throat.

To restore sense of taste, smell or hearing use Ely's Cream Balm. It cures all cases of Catarrh, Hay Fever, Colds in the Head, Headache and Deafness. It is doing wonderful work. Do not fail to procure a bottle, as in it lies the relief you seek. It is easily applied with the finger. Price 50 cents at druggists. 60 cents by mail. Ely Bros., Oswego, N. Y.

I had a severe attack of catarrh over a year ago, and became so deaf I could not hear common conversation. I suffered terribly from roaring in my head. I procured a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm, and in three weeks could hear as well as I ever could, and now I can cheerfully say to all who are afflicted with the worst of diseases, catarrh and deafness, take one bottle of Ely's Cream Balm and be cured. It is worth $1,000 per bottle to any man, woman or child suffering from catarrh.—A. E. Newman, Grayling, Campbell Co., Mich.

J. P. Fuller was nominated postmaster of Cumberland, Wis.

Prominent Butter Makers.

There is no dissent from the decision of candid and capable dairymen, that the Improved Butter Color of Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt., is the best in the world. Such men as A. W. Cheever of Massachusetts, E. D. Mason, Vermont, Francis A. Hoffman, Wisconsin. Use it, and recommend it as superior to all others.

Lieut. Emory, of the Greely relief party, is to command the United States steamer Dispatch.

I Have Tried it.

DEAR DOCTOR.—I have tried your medicine, and believe that any one who is troubled with Cough, Hoarseness or Lameness about the chest or lungs cannot well afford to be without the White Wine of Tar Syrup.

Your thankful friend,
REV. G. W. PATTISON,
Pastor St. Charles M. E. Church.
St. Charles, Iowa.

Carbolines.

The gray and bad no more shall grieve,
The sighs of coming age,
For Carboline can both retrieve
And fullest griefs assuage.

I have used Dr. Grove's Heart regulator and can truly say it has done me much good, gives me entire relief from a distressing palpitation of the heart, says a lady in Haverhill, Mass. Free pamphlet of F. E. Ingalls, Cambridge, Mass. $1.00 per bottle.

For a tonic medicine take Allen's Iron Tonic Bitters. All genuine bear the signature of J. P. Allen, Druggist, St. Paul, Minn.

The citizens of Bismarck gave the legislature a big reception.

Faithfulness is necessary in all kinds of work. Especially is it necessary, in treating a cold, to procure the best remedy, which is Allen's Lung Balsam, and take it faithfully, according to directions, and it will cure a cold every time and prevent fatal results. Sold by all druggists.

PURE COD LIVER OIL made from selected livers, on the sea-shore, by CASWELL, HAZARD & CO., New York. It is absolutely pure and sweet. Patients who have once taken it prefer it to all others. Physicians have decided it superior to any of the other oils in market.

CHAPPED HANDS, FACE, PIMPLES, and rough Skin cured by using JUNIPER TAR SOAP, made by CASWELL, HAZARD & CO., New York.

PILES Itching or Bleeding, relieved and permanently cured by Cole's Carbolisalve. Get the Genuine. 25 cents and 50 cents at druggists or by mail. J. W. COLE & CO., Prop's, Black River Falls, Wis.

UNLIMITED TEXAS.

What a Lone Star State is Capable of Doing.

A letter from J. J. Knox, in the Western World, a new publication for the benefit of those seeking homes or investments in the United States, a paper gotten up in fine style, and which merits good support, gives a bird's eye view of Texas which all will be interested in. He says: Figures do not lie. Let me surprise you with some. If the kingdoms of Belgium, Denmark, Great Britain and Ireland, Greece, Netherlands, and the states of New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, New York and Maryland, were laid down in Texas—not on top of each other, but side by side—there would be enough of the surface of the great state of Texas uncovered, on which could be raised all the cotton, say 12,000,000 bales, that is at present grown in the world. "Can't believe it," you say? Well, take a pencil and the back of an envelope, and you can easily figure out that I am telling the truth.

Here are some more figures. There are raised in the whole United States, in round numbers, about 6,000,000 bales cotton; 500,000,000 bushels wheat; 1,600,000,000 bushels corn; 500,000,000 bushels oats; 150,000,000 bushels potatoes; 45,000,000 bushels barley, 45,000,000 tons hay.

There is, within the boundary of Texas enough land on which to raise all the cotton, wheat, corn, oats, potatoes, barley and hay now raised in the United States; and then there would be enough land left over to make seven states, each as large as Connecticut.

If Texas was populated in the same ratio as the countries above mentioned, it would have 55,000,000 inhabitants, and no one who knows Texas would question the fact that it could support as much population to the square mile as could any of the countries named.

Efforts are making to get at the Winnebago reservation in Dakota.

DISFIGURING HUMORS HUMILIATING
ERUPTIONS
ITCHING
AND BURNING TORTURES

AND EVERY SPECIES of Itching, Scaly, Pimply, Scrofulous, and Infantile Humors cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new blood purifier, cleanses the blood and perspiration of impurities and poisonous elements, and thus removes the cause.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, instantly allays Itching and Inflammation, clears the Skin and Scalp, heals Ulcers and Sores, and restores the Hair.

CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier and Toilet Requisite, prepared from CUTICURA, is indispensable in treating Skin Diseases, Baby Humors, Skin Blemishes, Chapped and Oily Skin.

Sold everywhere. Price, Cuticura, 50 cents; Soap, 25 cents; Resolvent, $1. POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., BOSTON, MASS.

Send for "HOW TO CURE SKIN DISEASES."

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH
BITTERS

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the article for you, it stimulates the failing energies, invigorates the body and cheers the mind. It enables the system to throw off the debilitating effects of undue fatigue, gives renewed vigor to the organs of digestion, arouses the liver when inactive, renews the jaded appetite, and encourages healthful repose. Its ingredients are safe, and its credentials, which consist in the hearty endorsement of persons of every class of society, are most convincing. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

SEEDS.
CHEAPEST,
Pure & Best.
Gardeners trade a specialty. Packets only 3c. Cheap as dirt by oz. & lb. Postage or Exp. paid.
50000 Guides
FREE. Send your address for my most Beautiful Illustrated Garden Guide ever printed. R. H. SHUMWAY, Rockford Ill.

LAUGH
AND KEEP TIME.
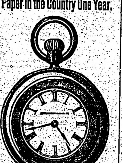
$3.50
For an ELEGANT WATCH and the Best
HUMOROUS and STORY
Paper in the Country One Year.



To any one who remits us $3.50 by registered letter, express or postoffice money order, or bank draft, we will send by registered mail an elegant Waterbury stem-winding watch with nickel-plated chain and charm, and will mail to his address every week for one year The Chicago Ledger FREE. These watches are first-class time-keepers, seldom get out of order, and are substantially and handsomely made.

The Chicago Ledger is now in its thirteenth year and the best story and humorous paper in the country. Each issue contains at least a page of original humorous articles, from the pen of one of the most racy writers of the present day, which feature alone is worth more than the price charged for the watch above described.

Every twenty-fifth yearly subscriber to The Ledger received before the 1st of March, 1885, will get a special premium, worth from $3.50 to $100.00, and all who send orders for watches will be classed as yearly subscribers to the paper, and therefore receive a special premium if they are entitled to it.

If you wish to see a really handsome and decidedly interesting paper, send a 2-cent stamp for a sample copy. You cannot fail to be pleased with the investment.

Write the name, town, county and State plainly, and address your letter to The Chicago Ledger, 271 Franklin street, Chicago, Ill.

RAW FURS WANTED. Ship by express in sacks to London, Leipzig & Paris Agency, A. Moore, Mgr., 283 Jackson st., St. Paul, Minn.

LOST MANHOOD RESTORED, cures guaranteed; Sample remedy 2 dimes Address, Dr. Wood, 401 Fourth St., Sioux City, Iowa

For old maids and widows only. Fun, Fun. Name paper, and send two dimes and letter stamp for sample. Address RUBBER Co., Box 57, Rock Falls, Ia.

LEARN TELEGRAPHY, or SHORT-HAND and TYPE WRITING HERE. Situations furnished. Address Valentine Bros., Janesville, Wis.

FIRE THE BIG BOSTON, Minneapolis, Minn., was destroyed by fire CHRISTMAS. Many goods were saved in a wet condition and are being sold at their new location, Morrison's Block, corner Washington and Second avenue South.

RUPTURE Positively cured in 60 days by Dr. Horne's Electro-Magnetic Belt-Truss, combined. Guaranteed the only one in the world generating a continuous Electric & Magnetic current. Scientific, Powerful, Durable, Comfortable and Effective in curing Rupture. 500 cured in '83. Send Stamp for pamphlet. ELECTRO-MAGNETIC TRUSS CO., 191 WABASH AVE., CHICAGO

CONSUMPTION. I have a positive remedy for the above disease; by its use thousands of cases of the worst kind and of long standing have been cured. Indeed, so strong is my faith in its efficacy, that I will send TWO BOTTLES FREE, together with a VALUABLE TREATISE on this disease to any sufferer. Give express and P. O. address. DR. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl St., New York.

DR. LINQUIST'S
Spinal Misses' Waist, $1 75
Spinal Corset, 2 00
Spinal Nursing Corset, 2 25
Spinal Abdominal Corset, 2 75
Recommended by leading physicians, delivered free anywhere in the U. S. on receipt of price. Lady Agents Wanted. Dr. Linquist's Spinal Corset Co., 412 B'way, New York.

AGENTS WANTED for the MISSOURI STEAM WASHER! It will pay any intelligent man or woman seeking profitable employment to write for Illustrated Circular and terms of Agency for this Celebrated Washer, which by reason of its intrinsic merit is meeting with such wonderful success. J. WORTH, CHICAGO, ILL., or ST. LOUIS, MO.

R. U. AWARE THAT Lorillard's Climax Plug bearing a red tin tag; that Lorillard's Rose Leaf fine cut; that Lorillard's Navy Clippings, and that Lorillard's Snuffs, are the best and cheapest, quality considered?

DISEASE BANISHED
Health Gained,
Long Life Secured,
BY USING
KIDNEY-WORT
It Purifies the Blood,
It Cleanses the Liver,
It Strengthens the Kidneys,
It Regulates the Bowels.
TRUTHFUL TESTIMONY.
KIDNEY DISEASES.
"I suffered day and night with Kidney troubles, my water was chalky and bloody, I could get no relief from doctors. Kidney-Wort cured me. I am as well as ever. FRANK WILSON, Peabody, Mass.
LIVER COMPLAINT.
I would not be without Kidney-Wort if it cost $10. It cured my Liver and Kidney troubles after I had lost all hope. SAM'L HODGES, Williamstown, W. Va.
PILES! PILES!!
I suffered for 12 years from Piles, as none but those that have been afflicted can realize. Kidney-Wort quickly cured me. LYMAN T. ABELL, Georgia, Vt.
CONSTIPATION.
I was a great sufferer from diseased Kidneys and was terribly constipated for years. I am now at seventy as well as ever I was in my life and it is due alone to Kidney-Wort. C. P. BROWN, Westport, N. Y.
RHEUMATISM.
"After suffering for thirty years from Rheumatism and kidney trouble, Kidney-Wort has entirely cured me." ELBRIDGE MALCOLM, West Bath, Me.
FEMALE COMPLAINTS.
"Kidney-Wort has cured my wife after two years suffering and weakness, brought on by use of a Sewing Machine." DR. C. M. SUMMERLIN, Sun Hill, Ga.
FOR THE BLOOD.
"The past year I have used Kidney-Wort more than ever, and with the best results. Take it all in all, it is the most successful remedy I have ever used." PHILLIP C. BALLOU, M. D., Monkton, Vt.
MALARIA.
"Chronic Malaria for years, with liver disease made me wish for death. A European trip, doctors and medicine did no good, until I used Kidney-Wort—that CURED me." HENRY WARD, Late Col. 69th Reg., N. G. S. N. Y., Jersey City, N. J.
It acts at the same time on the KIDNEYS, LIVER and BOWELS stimulating them to healthy action and keeping them in perfect order. Sold by all Druggists, Price $1.00 Liquid or Dry. The latter can be sent by mail.
WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO.,
BURLINGTON, VERMONT, U. S. A.
Montreal, P. Q., and London, England.
KIDNEY-WORT

"Maryland, My Maryland."

* * * "Pretty Wives,
Lovely daughters and noble men."
"My farm lies in a rather low and miasmatic situation, and
"My wife!"
"Who?"
"Was a very pretty blonde!"
Twenty years ago, became
"Sallow!"
"Hollow-eyed!"
"Withered and aged!"
Before her time, from
"Malarial vapors, though she made no particular complaint, not being of the grumpy kind, yet causing me great uneasiness.

"A short time ago I purchased your remedy for one of the children, who had a very severe attack of biliousness, and it occurred to me that the remedy might help my wife, as I found that our little girl, upon recovery had
"Lost!"

"Her sallowness, and looked as fresh as a new blown daisy. Well the story is soon told. My wife, to-day, has gained her old-timed beauty with compound interest, and is now as handsome a matron (if I do say it myself) as can be found in this county, which is noted for pretty women. And I have only Hop Bitters to thank for it.

"The dear creature just looked over my shoulder, and says 'I can flatter equal to the days of our courtship,' and that reminds me there might be more pretty wives if my brother farmers would do as I have done."

Hoping you may long be spared to do good, I thankfully remain.

C. L. JAMES.
BELTSVILLE, Prince George Co., Md., May 26th, 1883.

☞ None genuine without a bunch of green Hops on the white label. Shun all the vile, poisonous stuff with "Hop" or "Hops" in their name.

BUY SALZER'S (La Crosse, Wis.) SEEDS.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till Cured. DR. J. STEPHENS, Lebanon, Ohio.

CANCER A SUCCESSFUL TREATMENT. No knife! No Plaster! No pain! W. C. Payne, M. D., Marshalltown, Iowa.

Send stamp for my circular, "$700 a year, How I Manage Poultry." How to build cheap poultry-houses, prevent diseases, cure cholera, make hens lay, &c. A new book. C. G. Doney, Abilene, Kansas. Breeder P. R. Fowls and P. C. Swine. Swine circulars free.

DYKE'S BEARD ELIXIR Forces Luxuriant Mustache, Whiskers, or hair on bald heads in 20 to 30 days. No injury. Easily used. Beats the world. Price 25c. per package, or 3 for 50c. Sent by mail. L. A. L. SMITH & CO., Agents, Palatine, Ills.

BUY NORTHERN CROWN SEEDS. Catalog free. J. A. SALZER, Seed Grower, La Crosse, Wis.

A BIG OFFER. To introduce them, we will GIVE AWAY 1,000 Self-Operating Washing Machines. If you want one send us your name, address and express office at once. THE NATIONAL CO., 23 DEY STREET, N. Y.

WANTED Ladies and Gentlemen in City or County to take light work at their own homes. $3 to $4 a day easily made. Work sent by mail. No canvassing. We have good demand for our work, and furnish steady employment. Address with stamp CROWN M'F'G. Co., 294 Vine St., Cin'ti, O.

RUSSIAN FLAX SEED.
We have FOR SALE GENUINE RUSSIAN SEED FLAX. Experience has proven that Russian seed yields fully FIFTY PER CENT better than any other variety ever sown in this country. Sow only the genuine Russian. We guarantee ours. Write for prices. MANKATO LINSEED OIL CO., MANKATO, MINN.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S
VEGETABLE COMPOUND
IS A POSITIVE CURE FOR
All those painful Complaints and Weaknesses so common to our best
FEMALE POPULATION.
Price $1 in liquid, pill or lozenge form.
Its purpose is solely for the legitimate healing of disease and the relief of pain, and that it does all it claims to do, thousands of ladies can gladly testify.
It will cure entirely all Ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, and consequent Spinal Weakness, and is particularly adapted to the change of life.
It removes Faintness, Flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves Weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, and backache, is always permanently cured by its use.
Send stamp to Lynn, Mass., for pamphlet. Letters of inquiry confidentially answered. For sale at druggists.

SWEET GUM & MULLEIN
The sweet gum taken from the tree of the Southern swamps contains a stimulating expectorant principle which loosens the phlegm, and cuts the false membrane, relieving the early morning cough in Consumption, curing Coughs, Croup, and Whooping Cough. This, combined with the mucilaginous healing and flesh producing principle in the Mullein Plant of the old field, presents in Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein, the finest known remedy for Coughs, Croup, Whooping Cough, Colds, and Consumption. For full information send a 2c. stamp for "Taylor's Riddle Book" for the welfare of home and amusement of the little ones.
WALTER A. TAYLOR, Atlanta, Ga.

BUY NORTHERN CROWN SEEDS. No Seeds produce finer Flowers, Vegetables and Crops, than our reliable Northern Grown Seeds. All tested. Don't buy worthless Seeds when for less money ours are delivered FREE BY MAIL at your door. Catalogue free. JOHN A. SALZER, La Crosse, Wis.

100,000 ROYAL PRESENTS!!
AND A
Long Loan at 4 Per Cent.

THE publisher of the ILLINOIS AGRICULTURIST desires to secure 100,000 more subscribers. For 50 cents we will mail you our paper 6 months on trial, and immediately send you a numbered Receipt, which will entitle the holder to one of the following presents. Its circulation is now 55,000. Only 45,000 more needed before the Distribution takes place, March 15, 1885. All these presents will be given to these new 100,000 subscribers.

PARTIAL LIST OF PRESENTS TO BE GIVEN AWAY:
10 Cash presents of $1,000 each; 10 U. S. Bonds, $500 each; 10 U. S. Greenbacks, $100 each; 100 U. S. Greenbacks, $10 each; 1,000 cash Presents of $1 each; 1 Grand Square Piano; 1 Grand Cabinet Organ; 100 Ladies' Gold Watches, $40 each; 100 Silver Hunting-Case Watches, $20 each; 100 Stem-Winding Nickel-Case Watches, $9 each; 50 Ladies' Chatelaine Watches, $10 each; 50 Boys' Silver Watches, $10 each; 300 Waterbury Watches, $3.50 each; 50 Ladies' Gold Neck Chains, $15 each; 50 Gents' Gold Chains, $25 each; 25 Ladies' Gold Bracelets, $15 each; 10 Silver Dinner Services, $100 each; 10 Silver Tea Sets, $50 each; 10 Sets Parlor Furniture, $100 each; 500 Solid Gold Rings, $3 each; 500 Sets Solid Silver Teaspoons, 6 to a set; 5 Bicycles, $90 each; 1 matched pair Trotting Horses, $1,000; 500 pairs Ladies' Roller Skates; 500 pairs Boys' Roller Skates; and hundreds of other useful and valuable presents, which we can not enumerate here. All the above presents will be awarded in a fair and impartial manner. Presents will be sent to any part of the United States or Canada. Every person sending us 50 cents for a 6-months' trial subscription to our paper is also privileged to apply for a loan, to be made out of advertising profits, the amount borrowed being permitted to remain unpaid as long as the borrower remains a subscriber and keeps the interest paid.

With 100,000 circulation (which will probably be doubled) our profits will approximate as follows: RECEIPTS:—100,000 yearly subscribers, $100,000; 1,000 inches advertising, $1 per line, $14 per inch, 12 issues, $168,000; total, $268,000. EXPENSES:—For paper and press work, 100,000 copies, 12 issues, $30,000; editorial work, office, repairs, etc., $20,000; 100,000 Presents, $40,000; total, $130,000; leaving a net profit of $138,000. For this enormous profit for sale of advertising space the ILLINOIS AGRICULTURIST depends on its 200,000 subscribers, for advertisers pay for space in proportion to circulation. With but 25,000 circulation the profits would be but a tenth of the amount. Therefore as subscribers are doing us a favor when they send us their names, we desire to return favor for favor. Any subscriber who desires to borrow from $100 to $500 at 4 per cent., the principal to stand if desired, as long as the borrower remains a subscriber, should so state when he sends us 50 cents for a 6-months' trial subscription to our paper.

CONDITIONS: Loans made pro rata, not less than $100 nor more than $500. First year's interest at 4 per cent. to be deducted from amount loaned. Your individual note is all the security asked, provided you will send the names of several of your neighbors to whom we can refer—not as to the amount of property you are worth but as to your good character. Every subscriber must positively agree to show the paper and present to his friends and neighbors. When a loan is made, the adjoining form of note will be sent with the money to the subscriber's nearest bank or express office, and no note need be signed until the money is paid over. Send the names of several references, and immediate inquiry will be made. If no loan is desired, no references need be sent.

One year after date, for value received, I promise to pay to the order of the publisher of Illinois Agriculturist the sum of ...... dollars, with interest at 4 per cent. per annum after maturity. It is understood and agreed that no part of the principal of this note will be demanded or become payable (except at my pleasure), as long as I remain a paid-up subscriber to the above named paper.
(Signed)

900 GOLD WATCHES FREE!
WHO WILL SEND THE QUICKEST!
In making up the above list of presents, we decided to reserve $9,000 to be divided equally among the first 900 subscribers received. If you send 50 cents you will be entitled to one receipt good for one present, and if your letter is among the first 900 received you will also be entitled to a beautiful gold watch. The watch is one-third larger than the picture. We will send a printed list of the awards, free, and all presents will be forwarded to holders of receipts as they may direct. A list of watch winners will be published in our paper. The 50 cents you send us is the regular price for 6 months, therefore you pay nothing for the present. Subscribe at once. Don't wait a day. We will send you the paper one year and 3 numbered receipts good for 3 presents, if you send us $1. Get five friends to join you, and send $2.50, and we will send the paper 6 months and 1 numbered receipt for each of your subscribers and 1 extra for your trouble. No postponement. Send 10 subscribers, with $5, and we will send you 12 subscriptions and 12 receipts. This offer is good only until March 15, 1885. We have 55,000 subscribers already, and only require 45,000 more to have the desired number. Our old patrons and subscribers, whom we number by thousands, should go to work at once and help us increase our list by this grand and generous offer.

ONLY 50 CENTS Secures our paper 6 months on trial and one receipt good for one present. As to our reliability, we refer to any Bank or Mercantile Agency. Remember these are presents to our subscribers, given to them absolutely free. This is a chance of a lifetime, the true pathway to your future fortune. Every subscriber gets a prize. A fortune may be yours if you will but stretch forth your hand to receive it. It costs only 50 cents to try—is it possible you will let it pass? Postage stamps taken from places where a Postal Note can not be obtained. Remit by Postal Note, plain envelope or express.

Address ILLINOIS AGRICULTURIST, (B) 162 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

You can get this Gold Watch for 50 Cents, If you send at once.

MY FOREIGN ANTAGONIST.

"And you are going home?"

"Yes, I am going home."

The happiness within me that found utterance in a laugh was reflected but dismally from the brown-bearded face opposite me. But then Gurney was down on his luck, and that was hardly to be wondered at, when a young ne'er-do-well like me could realize in two brief years the wealth that he had toiled for patiently during half-a-score in vain.

"And you'll settle down in that old country and be a steady practical man for the future?" he said, looking at me wistfully.

"Yes, and I'll marry Janie, and make her happy and proud of me; and you'll visit us, Gurney, won't you, to see how I have taken all your good counsel and my own good luck to heart?"

"Maybe, maybe; I don't promise," smiling thoughtfully and stroking his silken beard as he spoke; "but you have had rare fortune, young one; and you do well to sit down now, and consider how to do the very best with yourself. It is not everyone who finds himself at twenty-five with a University education and a realised fortune, and a sweet faithful girl waiting for him at home. But that is the way of things; chance gives you that because you were a bad boy to begin with, while I, who was as steady always as Rhadamanthus and the remaining judges, have a handful of nuggets for my whole capital and a grave under the wattletrees to mark the end of my love-story. Hardly fair, is it, young one?"

"Horribly unfair," I answered warmly, "but your turn will come; it always does to the deserving and patient. And as to me, why my end is not seen yet. 'Call no man happy till he is dead,' and know."

A faint smile broke over his face.

"Do you think I envy you or grudge you anything? Oh no, I am not such a bad fellow as that. I would not take from you one gleam of your contentment if I could. I am satisfied both for you and for myself. Prosperity is the pabulum you will thrive on, while I should be the same under any fortune."

We were on our way together down the main street of Tarrangower, he coming from the store where he had been disposing of some gold-dust to an agent who paid three-pense an ounce more for it than the bank price, I from the New South Wales Bank, whence I had been drawing my fortune in the bulk of one hundred pound British notes.

"It is scarcely safe to carry all that around here," an acquaintance ventured warningly, as I was buttoning the money into the pocket of my moleskin trousers.

"I shall take the number of the notes by-and-by," I answered carelessly. "You know I shall sail for England next week."

"And why not have that money transferred to the bank there for safety, and your own comfort in travelling, and a hundred reasons?" the man asked in surprise.

"I like it this way; I like the feel of it about me, and convenience is altogether a matter of opinion."

Then I went out whistling not through dearth, but through abundance of thought. That bulky roll represented love and triumph, and reconciliation with the family at home, who had feigned to despair of me once.

"Oh, Janie, Janie, how fond and faithful you have been!" I thought tumultuously. "Heaven helping me, my future will be worthier of you than my past has been."

And then I had encountered Gurney, and, linking my arm in his, we had walked down the street together while I dilated to him on my prospects.

"You go to Europe next week, and I start up the country to-morrow, and it may be we shall never meet again," he said regretfully.

"Then let us drink a stirrup-cup at parting," I said, drawing him towards the open door of The Kangaroo.

"A stirrup-cup of water, if you will."

"Preaching again!" I said pettishly.

"No, not preaching; only urging you, by our friendship, to make me happy."

"What is it to you?"

"I like you; I want to know you safe befor you leave me."

I twisted myself away from him impatiently.

"No man has ever called me a drunkard," I said.

"No, certainly not, and I want to make sure no man ever will."

I hesitated, looking at him doubtfully.

"Surely it is in the hour of our greatest triumph that we should most readily bring our sacrifice to the altar."

"All right," I said, blushing. "I promise."

"Promise what?"

"To abstain from intoxicating drinks as beverages for ever," laughing uncomfortably.

He stretched out his big hand and grasped mine.

"I am satisfied about you now, young one, I never was before. Heaven bless you!" And then we sauntered into the saloon together, and drank a glass of ginger-beer, amicably chatting in a desultory way.

Groups of two and three were scattered here and there about the bar, chatting noisly for the most part, though a few drank deeply in sullen silence; but except the lounger by the door, who stood with his hands plunged deeply in his pockets, and his slouch-hat drawn low over his restless eyes, each man had some mate to reflect his humor or contradict it.

"That is the Italian fellow," I whispered nodding towards him.

"Yes; cleaned out or thereabouts," Gurney answered in a low tone, and then we turned to leave together.

As we passed out some impulse prompted me to turn towards the stranger, and extending a sovereign on my open palm, I said curtly:

"Have it, mate?"

"I did not beg," he answered coldly, speaking with a distant foreign accent.

"Of course not, but it will bring you luck. Money from the pockets of a successful digger always does," I said lightly.

"Thank you." He took the coin from me, but held it doubtfully in the hand while he followed me with his eyes.

"That fellow is desperate. I should have said nothing to him, on the principle of letting sleeping dogs lie," Gurney remarked.

"It is always well to do a kind action when one has the chance," I said carelessly. "That may stave off suicide another week;" and then Gurney and I shook hands and parted, with some vague hope of meeting somewhere, some time, if we could.

It was a dark night, and when once I had left the lights of Tarrangower behind me, the blackness seemed to close around me with a sense of discomfort. After all, had I been wise to carry all that money on my person, and to take my way, alone and unarmed—for an unloaded pistol was a mere toy—through a district so familiar in those adventurous days with deeds of violence? Several men saw the money at the bank, and others knew that I meant to draw out my investments that day. Why had I not told Gurney and let him come home with me? Why had I not——?

But, pshaw! What was the good of shrinking like a child before a dark night? There was no danger—none in the world; the men who had seen the money were as honest as I was, and once I had reach my hut I would load my revolver and be ready for attack.

To keep up my heart I fell to humming one of Janie's old songs, while I strove to concentrate all my attention on the path before me. I had proceeded thus half way home, and my first terrors were fading away, when, just where the uncertain roadway dipped into a thicket of eucalyptus, a hand was laid on my shoulder, and a vibrant voice said tremulously:

"Your money or your life!"

"Ha, it is you, scoundrel, whom I helped!" I said, wheeling round suddenly on my unseen assailant. "Dog of an Italian, would you dare!"

It was furious indignation and scorn of such a base return for my kindness that animated me at the moment. Battling for existence or for my treasure had not occured to me yet.

"Yes I would dare, because I am mad," the man panted forth. "You must give me the gold; you are young, you can gain more. You have hope, I have nothing—give it me!"

"Yes, I shall give you—that," I said, striking in the direction of the voice, and then we closed with each other.

After that neither of us spoke, but we wrestled like giants, while each clutched the other by the throat.

My money was safe still, secured by a flap and button over the pocket, according to a fashion prevailing in the colony at the time, and my chance of life lay in the endurance of my thews and sinews, for I knew I was confronted by a desperate man.

Round and round, backwards and forwards, circling restlessly, and grappling each other furiously, we went, while the sense of strangulation due to his grip on my throat increased as he strove to throw me.

"Ten seconds more, and I shall be choked," I thought; and then I loosened one hand from its hold of him, and struck out with my clenched fist towards the regions of the heart.

The blow told; he fell like a log, being apparently paralyzed for the moment; but in falling he dragged me with him, and his grasp of my throat never relaxed.

"I am dying," I thought, striving with all my remaining strength to loosen his hold of me, and then my thoughts wandered confusedly towards my mother and Janie, and the home I had meant to make for my darling; and then I remember no more. I had either fainted or been suffocated into insensibility.

How long I remained thus I cannot tell. When I recovered consciousness the murderous pressure had fallen off, but my assailant still lay beneath me, breathing heavily.

Simultaneously we seemed to recover consciousness, and in unsion we rose to our feet. I was trembling in every nerve; my aching eyeballs seemed starting from my head, my parched throat refused to utter a sound, and my assailant seemed in no better case.

For an instant we stood apart, glaring at each other through the darkness; then, as though at a given signal, we closed with each other again, instinctively, neither knowing why. I believe he had no more thought of taking the money than I had of defending it. There seemed nothing awake in us but mere animal fury; brute force opposed brute force, demanding victory at any cost.

Again we wrestled and strove, white face close to white face in the gloom, and again the contest was so equal that no spectator would have known on which side to promise victory. For many minutes we wrestled silently, and then we fell again, and at this time I was undermost. And then ensued a struggle such as I had no idea men were capable of. We rolled over each other, we strained every nerve, each to kill the other, we dealt each other desperate blows at random, and then, when exhaustion forbade another movement mechanically we desisted, and, and as mechanically rose and drew a few labored, gasping breaths, and rushed to the contest again.

Whether or not my opponent was armed, I know not; at any rate he made no attempt to draw any weapon. As for me, I carried my useless pistol but even had it been loaded, I question if I would have used it after the first five minutes; the contest was so terribly close and equal that a thought of any extraneous aid did not occur to me.

Our action was wonderfully concerted; as though governed by a double mechanism we struggled, fell, rose, and resumed the fight, and that after each had grown so weak that a child could have vanquished either.

And through all my terrible craving for his life there crept, by-and-by, a slow consciousness of respect for him. He was tough as leather, and he fought well, taking his punishment with an endurance that hitherto I had deemed exclusively British.

When I look back on that incident now I have no knowledge of time, no memory of anything but pain and effort, and blinding blows. I cannot tell how long the struggle lasted, or how it terminated, I only know that at last the end came somehow, and that, after a period of oblivion, I returned to consciousness, and found myself alone.

How I reached home I cannot tell, for I walked the distance doubtless as somnambulists do, for next day, when a neighbor came to look me up, I was tossing on my bed in a raging fever, and the money that had so nearly been the price of a life, was safely buttoned in my pocket.

Of course the Great Britain sailed without me, and of course the friends awaiting me at home grew sick of the silence which no explanation came to break, for what message could any one send who expected hourly to see me die?

But the turn in my long illness came at last, and then I turned slowly and reluctantly towards improvement. I had fought a hard battle for life beneath the shadow of the eucalyptus; that which disease waged against my youth later, was as deadly, and more prolodged. But youth triumphed at last, and I rose a shadow of my old self, likely to be debarred from existence on the old glad, free, triumphant terms of many a day.

It was years before the memento of my encounter with that desperate ruffian had passed out of my system, but now, after half a lifetime, I can look back from my fair, happy English home on that incident of my career as contentedly as on any other of my colonial experiences.

As to my enemy his body had been found in the creek while I lay at the point of death, but wheather fallen there by accident or flung in through despair, I never knew.

Gurney's affairs brightened after I left him and the last time I looked on his honest face, as he sat beside my Janie's sister, with my youngest boy on his knee, I decided conclusively that life was not so nearly over for him by a long way as he had imagined when good luck and he stood on opposite sides.—Household Words.

BELLICOSE CONGRESSMEN.

A Memorial Scene in the House Nearly Thirty Years Ago.

From Ben: Perley Poore's Recollections.

The scrimmage in the House of Representatives early on Saturday morning, February 9, 1858, was an exciting affair as seen from the reporter's gallery. It was inaugurated by Keitt, of South Carolina, who rushed belligerently at Grow of Pennsylvania, when he received—not from Grow, however—a blow that knocked him down. A dozen Southern men at once left their seats and rushed to the spot while as many anti-Lecompton men came to the rescue. Foremost came Mr. Potter, of Wisconsin, a very athletic, compact man who bounded into the center of the excited group, striking right and left with tremendous vigor. Washburne, of Illinois, and his brother of Wisconsin, also were prominent, and for a minute or two it seemed as though we were to have a Kilkenny fight on a magnificent scale. Barksdale had hold of Grow, when Potter struck him a severe blow, supposing that he was hurting that gentleman. Barksdale, turning around and supposing it was Elihu Washburne who struck him, dropped Grow and struck out at the gentleman from Illinois. Cadwallader Washburne, perceiving the attack upon his brother, also made a dash at Mr Barksdale, and seized him by the hair, apparently for the purpose of drawing him "into chancery" and pummelling him to greater satisfaction. Horrible to relate, Mr. Barksdale's wig came off in Cadwallader's left hand, and his right fist expended itself with tremendous force against the unresisting air.

This ludicrous incident unquestionably did much toward restoring good nature subsequently, and its effect was heightened not a little by the fact that in the excitement of the occasion Barksdale restored his wig wrong side foremost.

The Speaker yelled and rapped for order, without effect. The Sergeant-at Arms stalked to the scene of battle, mace in hand, but his "American eagle" had no more effect than the Speaker's gravel. Owen Lovejoy and Lamar, of Mississippi, were pawing each other at one point—each probably trying to persuade the other to be still. Mr. Mott, the gray-haired Quaker Representative from Ohio, was seen going here and there in the crowd. Davis, of Mississippi, got a severe, but accidental, blow from Mr. Grow, and various gentleman sustained slight bruises and scratches. A Virginia Representative, who thought Montgomery, of Pennsylvania, was about to "pitch in," laid his hand upon his arm to restrain him, and was peremptorily ordered to desist or be knocked down. Mr. Covode, of Pennsylvania, caught up a heavy stoneware spittoon, with which to "brain" whoever might seem to deserve it, but, fortunately, did not get far enough into the excited crowd to find an appropriate subject for his vengeance, and all over the hall everybody was excited for the time.

Fortunately, it did not last long, and no weapons were openly displayed. When order was restored, several gentlemen were found to present an excessively tumbled and disordered appearance, but there remained little else to recall the excitement. Gentlemen of opposite parties crossed over to each other to explain their pacific dispositions, and that they got into a fight where their only purpose was to prevent a fight. Mutual explanations and a hearty laugh at the ludicrous side of the drama were followed by quiet and a return to business.

Cremation in Italy.

Brooklin Eagle: Cremation is slowly making its way in Europe. In Italy the advance it has made in seven or eight years is considerable. At Milan, Udine, Lodi, Rome, Cremona, Brescia, Padua, and Varese temples of cremation have been already created, and Spezia has a crematory ready for opening, while Novara, Venice, Florence, Pisa, Leghorn and Turin are taking action. There have been 427 bodies cremated since 1877. In Germany the movement progresses. At Gotha, since 1878, there have been 200 bodies cremated. The last case recorded is that of Dr. Duke, of Stuttgart. Associations for the promotion of cremation exist in Italy numbering 6,000 members. In this country there is still a large amount of objection to this primitive method of disposing of the dead, but nevertheless the idea is being received with increasing favor among medical men and sanitarians. Possibly a serious epidemic of cholera or some other virulent disease would lead to more general discussion of this infallible method of destroying the germs of infection.

In 1873 the State of Pennsylvania adopted a constitutional provision that no discrimination in charges or facilities for transportation shall be made between railroad companies and individuals by abatement, drawback or any other device, or by making preference in furnishing cars or motive powers. It was adopted with great unanimity, but hitherto it has remained almost a dead letter. Now it is proposed that legislation shall be adopted to give it life and vigor. The people, irrespective of party, demand that the constitution shall be observed, in its letter and spirit.

WHAT IS A WOMAN LIKE?

A woman is like to—but stay—
What a woman is like who can say?
There is no living with or without one.
Love bites like a fly
Now an ear, now an eye,
Buz, buz, always buzzing about one.
When she's tender and kind
She is like to my mind—
(And Fanny was so, I remember,)
She is like to— O, dear,
She's as good, very near,
As a ripe, mellow peach in September.
If she laugh, and she chat,
Play a joke and all that,
And with smiles and good humor she meet me;
She's like a rich dish
Of venison or fish,
That cries from the table, come eat me!
But she'll plague you and vex you,
Distract and perplex you;
False-hearted and ranging,
Unsettled and changing;
What then do you think she is like?
Like a sand? like a rock?
Like a wheel? like a clock?
Ay, a clock that is always at strike.
Her head's like the island folks tell on
Which nothing but monkeys can dwell on;
Her heart's like a lemon—so nice
She carves for each lover a slice;
In truth, she's to me
Like the wind, like the sea,
Whose raging will hearken to no man;
Like a mill, like a pill,
Like a flail, like a whale,
Like an ass, like a glass,
Whose image is constant to no man;
Like a shower, like a flower,
Like a fly, like a pie,
Like a pea, like a flea,
Like a thief, like—in brief,
She's like nothing on earth—but a woman!

A CURIOUS OVERSIGHT.

"Price!"

"Yes, Major."

"Where's Mr. Douglas?"

"Gone to the Priory, sir. Back at 10 o'clock."

"You've put the whiskey out?"

"Yessir."

"And the cigars?"

"Yessir."

"And you've put the kettle on?"

"Yessir."

"That's all, I think. You may turn in, Price, if you like.

"Thank you, Major. Good night." And Price, with a stoniness of visage and a setness of figure when under examination by his superior officer strongly suggestive of pipe-clay in the present or the past, stalked from the room and left the major alone. The latter walked to the window and looked across the landscape to where, seen through a gap in the encircling woods, the spires and pinnacles of Oakenham Priory bulked black against the last few fading gleams of sunset color in the west.

"Gone to the Priory—eh? Where else should he have gone? Why didn't he go there six months ago, and stay there? She wouldn't object. And it would be a better bivouac than this, I think. The boy used to have pluck enough. What's gone with it all."

"This" was Oakenham Cottage, a small two storied edifice, standing in its own strip of garden. It had been a pretty place not so long ago, and perhaps was so still, though its every detail showed neglect. The garden was flowerless and its trees looked ragged and forlorn—sympathizing, as vegetation has a knack of doing, with the decay about them.

The room in which the major sat showed signs kindred to those which marked the exterior of the house. Its furniture was battered and rheumatic, but the books, papers whips, foils, fishing rods and heterogenous lumber of a bachelor menage scattered carelessly about it, gave it something of the air of cheerfulness which every constantly-used haunt of humanity is sure to acquire. Over the mantel hung a water-color sketch of a girl's head, flanked by two pen and ink sketches. The first of these represented the present tenant of the room, planted in a frantically theatrical attitude on a bastion, waving on his followers, who were omitted for want of space. The second represented a young man, clad in wig and gown, haranguing, with an ineffable, daindified air of self-complacency, a sleeping jury, and a judge, who held a trumphet to his ear with one hand and an opera glass to his eye with the other. The first of these efforts bore the inscription, "My Friend the Majah," and was signed "R. D.," and under the second was inscribed "Dick Douglas a doing of it," and the initials "J. M."

The major shook his head at the center-piece of this decoration, lit the lamp and a cigar, and betook himself to the study of a chart which lay upon the table. He was a small fat man with a ridiculous likeness to the conventional cherub, a likeness which a bald head, an eye-glass and a pair of mustaches of military pattern, uncherubic as are those accessories, failed to destroy. His nose had the tinge of red which, as an acute and learned physiognomist of the present day has observed, is just sufficient to impart benevolence of aspect. He remained absorbed in the examination of the chart until his study was interrupted by the arrival of the original of the second caricature over the mantel.

"Well, Dick," said the major.

Dick nodded with a countenance of gloom and took his seat beside the fireless grate, contemplating the portrait at which the major had shook his head half an hour before. Then he began a whispering whistle, and finally lighting his pipe, went over to the table and sat upon it.

"Tell me something more about Upopo," he said.

The major smiled a smile of doubtful meaning, and with a finger on the chart began:

"The nearest port is Sydney, which is 500 miles away—call it a three days' run; lovely climate, beautiful soil. Coasts rich in coral and beche de mer. Forests—oak and teak principally—alive with game—boar, deer and birds. Rivers swarming with fish. I'm sure there's gold, and I'm more than half inclined to think that there's oil. It's a perfect little paradise, my boy, and there isn't a snake nor an alligator, nor a white man, nor any other kind of vermin within 100 miles."

"Natives?"

"Yes, quiet and peaceable and beautifully ignorant."

"What's the size of the place?"

"About as large as England, omitting Wales."

"Why don't we take it?"

"We? Meaning England—the government?"

"Yes."

"My dear boy, England never takes anything. Never did."

"Oh? What about America, for instance? Or India?"

"If you will read history, you will see that America was positively forced upon us for years before we took it. Had Spain and Portugal allowed our men to do all they wanted to do, namely, to trade with the settlements there, they might have been masters of America till this day, barring, perhaps, a few insignificant colonies. But like the greedy fools they were, they wouldn't and we had to fight.

For a long time we simply fought for freedom of trade, and when we found that would be too long a job, we kicked the Spaniards out altogether and took the country."

"And India?"

"The same story rather different in detail. I believe, in spite of the awful name we've got, that England is really the least predatory nation in the world."

"That's a novel view at least."

"And a true one. Why, look, at our conduct in Egypt now! Germany actually wants us to take it, France can't prevent us and we won't. We shall at last, of course; we always do ultimately; but it will have to be crammed down our throats before we swallow it. And as for this little scheme of mine, the foreign office would stop it in a twinkling if they knew; but they don't, and what's more, they shan't till I'm there."

"And then?"

"And then—we'll see,

"Annexation, once begun,
Bequeathed by pirate sire to son,
Though baffled oft, is ever won."

And the major smiled, well pleased with his impromptu parody.

"Is it piracy?" asked Dick.

"Don't know. Perhaps. We must take the risks.

"Yes," echoed Dick, "we must take the risks."

The major looked at him inquiringly.

"I am coming with you," said Dick simply. After which they were both silent for a while. "Yes," said Dick again presently "I'll go with you. It will be work and excitement, and change of scene, and it will be better, at all events, than eating my heart out here. And look here, Morton, you might give me some work to do, connected with the expedition in town or somewhere. I want to get away. I think I shall sell this place. It won't fetch much; but it's no use now. Yes, I'll go over to-morrow, and say—say good-bye to—to her, and then I'll go up to town. Dockett will find me a purchaser, or, perhaps, buy it himself."

He brightened up a little under the idea of active work; but his face saddened again as he ceased speaking, and his chin dropped on his breast.

The major smoked on in silent sympathy, and presently rising, patted his friend soothingly on the shoulder once or twice.

"It's hard lines, Morton," said Dick, with a break in his voice; "it's hard lines."

"I know, my boy—I know," said the major, still with that soothing hand upon his shoulder. "But you'll get over it, like the rest of us. I had it myself once, real bad."

"You?" said Dick. He had never thought of connecting such a confirmed old bachelor with the hot hopes and sick despairs under which he suffered.

"Being mortal, I have made a fool of myself in many ways," responded the major, "and in that, among others. You know her, too."

"I know her? Who was it, major?"

Microscopic investigation might have discovered something like a blush under the deep tan of the major's face.

"It was Mrs. Frump?" he said.

"Mrs. Frump?" shrieked Dick, indignant. "Why, she's 55, and has a figure like a kitchen poker."

"Yes. But she was twenty-five and thirty years ago, and so was I," said the major. "And she had the figure of Diana then. My case was worse than yours, Dick. We were actually engaged, and she threw me over for old Frump and his yellow boys. I got over it better than she did. Frump used to allow her fifty pounds a year for dress, and swore if she had a candle to go to bed. Told me so herself. Poor little Kitty!" The major sighed, and blew his nose thoughtfully.

"Was that the only attack you ever had?"

"Yes, I am sorry to say. Ah, Dick, my boy, it' better be in love, even hopelessly, than out of it. You think you're preciously ill-used, don't you, now? And when you're my age you'd give all you've got to be able to go through it again. I would, though that isn't saying much begad!" he added, with a rueful grope in his pockets.

"Good night!" growled Dick, as disgusted as any hopeless lover would be at being told that he was a happy man, and the major echoing him placidly, they parted for the night.

Next morning, after a silent and scarcely tasted breakfast, through which Dick sat with a countenance as of a condemned criminal resolved to face the inevitable with all possible calm, he betook himself to Okenham Priory. The major watched his diminishing figure from the window till he was lost in the gloom of the encircling trees, and shook his head as he returned to his beloved chart.

"Poor beggar!" said the major.

Dick passed the lodge of the Priory with gloomy nod, addressed to the venerable rustic who guarded it and strode along the avenue, feeling his courage oozing from him faster at every step, and at a sudden turn of the drive he came across a spectacle at which it evaporated all at once, and left him limp and shamefaced. It was nothing very terrible after all, only a young lady in a plain white morning-dress, with a thread of scarlet at the throat, and a broader band of the same color at the waist. If she was not as lovely as Dick thought her, it was only because that would have been beyond the power of any mortal woman. She was tall, and straight and lithe, and, seen though the halo of lover's fancies with which he surrounded her, she seemed majestic. But Dick was a singular young man for the nineteenth century, and all petticoated things were sacred and mysterious in his eyes, and this especial girl a thousandfold more than any other. She had a basket on her arm, and a severely business-like aspect of face, which changed to one of patient suffering as she beheld the approaching Dick.

"Why will you come at this time?" she demanded, with the raised eyebrows of hopeless remonstrance one wears in addressing an incorrigible child. "You know I'm always busy in the morning."

"I always do come at the wrong time," groaned Dick.

"Then why do you?" asked the lady.

"Don't know," replied the hopeless one; "my luck, I suppose."

"I really can't talk to you now," said the pitiless girl. "I've got all these things to distribute, and I've got to call on Mr. Reredos about the sick club, and——"

"Can't they wait?" asked Dick with an inward aspiration—that is hardly the word I fear—regarding the reverend gentleman, whom he had hitherto respected as a mighty oar and a slashing batsman.

"No, indeed, they can't. The idea of keeping a clergyman waiting while you talk nonsense. His time is valuable if yours isn't. He takes a great interest in the poor."

"I've no doubt he does," said Dick, grown bilious at this reiterated mention of the cleric.

"It's a great deal better than taking interest in nothing, and mooning about as other people do."

"Don't be too hard on a fellow, Nelly,' said Dick, plaintively. "Reredos is a very clever fellow, I know; but I didn't come to talk about him. I've come to say good-by. I'm going to—to London.

He tried to get out "Upopo," but, like Macbeth's "Amen," it stuck to his throat.

"Oh, good-by," she answered, holding out her hand.

"Is that all you have to say to an old friend who's going—"

"All the way to London," she broke in with a smile unbearable in its brilliance and its mockery.

"All the way to Upopo," said Dick. It was out at last, and he went on quickly as if fearing that he might recall the word. "To the other side of the world, Nelly, and perhaps I may never see your face again. Say something more than 'Good-by,' Nelly—say a little more than that."

"What can I say?" she asked. Her face was pale, and all the scorn had left it now; but Dick, blinded by love and the moisture in his eyes, saw no change in her.

"Oh, Nelly, if you don't know, how can I tell you?" he broke out, passionately. Then, with sudden weariness: "Good-by will do, Nelly—there, we've said it now—good-by."

And with that word he was turning from her, when, by no conscious will of her own, her hand tightened on his, and all unwittingly she asked:

"Is that all you have to say, Dick?"

He turned swiftly. Not even his loveblinded wits could fail to read the meaning of the blush which crimsoned her from throat to forehead. He caught both her hands in his.

"No!" he panted. And then the floodgates of his lips were open, and he spoke. And I am afraid that that excellent man and clergyman, Mr. Reredos, must have grown very tired indeed in waiting for the promised interview about the sick club.

As Dick entered his little sitting-room three hours later the major looked at him with so peculiar a regard that the fluent burst upon his lips remained unspoken, and he looked almost as sheepish as he had already looked once before that morning.

"Ah," said the major, you won't go to Upopo, young man."

"No," said Dick. And then followed the narrative of the events of the morning.

"And to think," said the beaming lover in conclusion, "to think that I might have had her for asking six months ago! And I never dared ask her—I never even thought of it."

"Yes," said the major. "It was a curious oversight."

Things in General.

After the battle of Gettysburg one of the Union burial parties buried 80 Federal soldiers in one trench. They were all from a New York regiment, and all had seemingly been killed by one volley. They were almost in line, taking up but little more room than live men. All of them were shot above the hips, and not one of them apparently lived 10 minutes after being hit.

The invention of wooden toothpicks is now claimed for a Maine man, one Charles Foster of Bucksfield, who began the manufacture 25 years ago. The trade has increased 25 per cent. during the last three years and now amounts in round numbers to 3,000,000,000 toothpicks annually.

The report of purchases by Americans at the Paris Salon at prices aggregating millions of dollars are pronounced false and absurd by a prominent dealer who makes yearly purchases at the Salon. The gentleman says that $100,000 would be a generous estimate for purchases from the Salon of 1884. The most expensive picture bought in Paris by an American during the year is Meissonier's "Arrival at the Chateau," for which Mr. Vanderbilt paid the artist $40,000, and some $13,000 in duties.

A capital bull is related in the life of Dr. Sims, of a countryman of his own, for whom he perscribed an emetic, who said, with great simplicity: "My dear doctor, it is of no use your giving me an emetic; I tried it twice in Dublin, and it would not stay on my stomach either time." This calls to mind the story about a singer who, being rapturously encored, repeated her songs. A stranger who had been at the opera was asked how he had been pleased with her. "Not at all," said he. "Not at all! why she is the first singer in Europe." "That may be," replied the man, "but she sung so bad last night that they made her sing her songs all over again."

The life of the modern actor, says the Chicago Herald, is one of almost incessant shift. He lives upon the stage, in the dressing-room, the carriage, the hotel, the railway car. Back and forth across he flits, a night here, and another there, a week in one city, sometimes two weeks in another. The shadows that come across the mind of the most prominent actors of the day have made him a silhouette typical of his kind. Unable to act, and yet all the time thinking his engagement begins somewhere on the morrow, he is constantly journeying to meet it. By one train to Chicago, by another to St. Louis, then back to New York, again to Philadelphia to Cincinnati, he is continually going and coming. His uneasy spirit seems doomed to walk the earth.

Every Person a Lunatic Now and Then.

Prof David Swing says: The fact that a druggist of this city has ended a human life by putting up the wrong medicine awakens much indignation. He says many customers were in the store; he was in a hurry; he put up morphine instead of some similar drug. The inquiry arises whether the clerk is able to fill an order only when he has no customers in the shop? How empty must be the shop in order to secure safety? Must the street in front of the drug store also be empty? What if a fire engine goes by? What if a dog fight occurs while the druggist is reaching for quinine? Is he justified in taking down strychnia? What if his mother-in-law has come to visit him?

Such questions come up and properly; but there is another side to the fact of erring druggists, and that is, that most persons are crazy part of the time. The exceptions are rare. Each one is now and then a fool of the most complete order of species. All the law and penalties in the world will not avail to make a druggist or anybody else have his full senses through all his life. Crazy moments or seconds will come. A wise man will step backwards off a porch or into a mud-puddle, a great philosopher will hunt for the specs that are in his hand or on his forehead, a hunter will sometimes shoot himself or his dog, a barber will sometimes forget his job and slice off a piece of a chin or an ear or the nose. A girl at work at Marshal Field's had been feeding a great clothing knife for 10 years. Last week she watched the knife come down slowly upon her hand. Too late she woke out of her stupor with one hand gone. For a few seconds her mind had failed and she sat by her machine a temporary lunatic and had watched the knife approach her own hand.

The man recently murdered on North Clark street, of Chicago, saw the enemy come up with murder on his face, saw him draw a revolver, and, instead of making a lightning spring at the man, he stood bewildered and thus fell dead. His reason left him in the second of his greatest need

One of the most distinguished professors in one of our collegs was teaching near a canal. Walking along one evening in summer he walked as deliberately into the canal as he had been walking along the patch a second before. He was brought to his senses by the water and mud and the absurdity of the situation. He had on a new suit of clothes and a new silk hat, but though the damage was thus great he still laughs over his adventure.

Our mail collectors find in the iron boxes along the streets all sorts of papers and articles which have been put in by some hand from whose motions the mind has become detached for a second. A glove, a pair of spectacles, a deed, a mortgage, a theater ticket goes in and on goes the person holding on to the regular letter which should have been deposited. This is called absent-mindedness, but this is a brief lunacy. A lunatic is a person whose mind is habitually out of balance.

Various Short Things.

The desertions in the British army in 1883 were 3,717 altogether. Desertion is prevalent almost exclusively among the very young soldiers. Of the 4,317 cases reported last year only 617, or just one-sixth, were those of men having over three years' service.

Lieutenant Abercrombie will next month leave Portland, Ore., with an expedition to investigate the resources of Alaska. He expects to travel about five thousands miles by November, making a collection of furs and minerals, and taking photographs of the country.

Taxas forty years ago was practically a desert and the handful of settlers lived entirely on game. To-day there are more than 10,000 000 cattle, sheep horses, mules, and swine in the state, and the cotton crop last year was worth more than the cotton crop of the entire United States in 1843.

The Rev. Dr. Wright, a distinguished A. M. of Trinity College, Dublin, has created some sensation by an article in which he says that many of the Fellows of that University do not believe in devine revelation or the existence of a personal God. Several are, at the best, agnostics, if not atheists. There is no way for disciplining a Fellow or Professor for erroneous views, and so it is a propaganda of skepticism.

Major Burke, Manager of the New Orleans exhibition, has chartered the Great Eastern, to be used as a hotel. It will leave Liverpool in September. loaded with exhibits. After they have been landed the vessel will be thoroughly cleaned and will be used as a hotel, under the charge of a skillful caterer. It has 350 state-rooms, and it will be located almost within the exposition grounds.

According to the new code in Mexico divorce is made possible. It being a Roman Catholic country, and divorce is not sanctioned by the church, but as the church has been completely separated from the state, and only civil marriage is recognized, it is only a logical consequence that divorce should have a place in the statutes. The divorce law defines that a divorce shall not absolutely annul the marriage tie, but shall suspend some of its features; it provides for separation, alimony and care of children.

A strange case, which puzzled the inhabitants of Pawtucket, R. I., was the finding of a large quantity of little eels in a street puddle, made by a heavy shower the other day. There were nearly a hundred of them, squirming lively, and from an inch to three inches in length. The prevailing theory is that they came down with the rain.

Most bells were originally feminine. Now the two or three called by Christian names in England are masculine. The most celebrated, Great Tom, at Oxford, was originally named Mary. Tresham, the Vice Chancelor of the period, writes: "Oh, beautiful Mary, how musically she sounds." She has done little to belie this reputation since she became Tom. Once only, in the year 1800, Tom got into disgrace by a series of incontinent strikings, which greatly alarmed the undergraduates, who divided in opinion as to "whether there was an earthquake, the Dean was dead, or the college on fire."

HO! WINTER.

I.

Ha! winter, ho! Winter,
King of the northern blast!
You meet us all, you greet us all,
With grip that freezes fast,
In regal pomp you've gathered up
Your royal robes of snow,
And by their trailing men shall trace
Whatever ways you go.
Your grim retainers all, alack!
Make but a cruel train
Of biting sleet and stinging winds
And ice and frozen rain.
The rich with furs and blazing hearths
Your carnival may scorn,
While Mirth and Cheer may reign supreme
From wassail eve till morn.

II.

But ha! Winter, ho! Winter,
What about the Poor?
Who've no stronghold against the cold,
No bribe or sinecure
To set at bay the stinging day,
Or soften down the night,—
Who note the thickening window-panes
With sinking hearts affright,—
Who draw their babies close and sing
Their shivering lullabys,
Then sleep and dream of steaming feasts
That hunger-sleep supplies,—
To wake at morn with shuddering sense
Of lengthened fast and cold,
And find that gaunt-eyed Want hath wrought
Its trace within the fold.
Ha! Winter, ho! Winter,
Hard your reign on these;
God pity such! and send warm hearts
To all who starve and freeze.
—Maria Barrett Butler, in The Current.

JEAN.

"Ah, how pretty she is!" he said. "Was there ever such a pretty lass, d'ye think, Jean?"

"Perhaps not," said Jean; and she took her milking pails, and followed Hulda going on before with a light step and a gay song toward the meadow where the cows browsed. But when she was quite out of hearing of Ned Welton, sitting perched upon the stile, she muttered to herself, "Pretty! pretty! pretty! Ah, they ring the changes upon that, these men! as the old bell-ringer that knew but his one tune used to, down in the church tower. Pretty! pretty! pretty! It's never 'good;' it's never 'honest;' it's never 'true.' It's always 'pretty.'" Then she stopped and looked up, and said, with a quiver of passionate grief in her voice: "Oh, I'd give the world—I'd give half the shortest life that I could have—I'd give half an hour, if that was all I had to live, just to hear Ned Welton call me pretty! What a fool I am! what a fool I am! what a fool I am!" and she went on with her pails toward the cows—Brown Bess and Lily White and Pretty Polly.

Certainly she was not pretty; and what there was in her face the man on the stile would have been the last to see. Had she been a queen, many would have seen something strangely fair and regular in her face. Had she been only a rich gentleman's daughter, some one might have dreamed of those deep eyes and that pure brow of hers; but red and white, and fat and dimples were the recognized beauties there, as indeed they are all over the world, to such folks as her lot was cast among, and she was spoken of as "plain." Two years before she had taken into her foolish head to like Ned Wilton very much; and he, the farmer's son, had thought well enough of the dairy-maid to say some very pleasant things to her. She had had a sweet dream, but Hulda Britton's coming broke it. Her beauty was very bright and rare, and Ned forgot the nice girl he had been so fond of chatting with, for the pretty one who smiled and glance at him.

She was not so good as Jean; she had not half her earnestness and constancy; but the face was all to Ned. So Hulda Britton wore a little plain gold ring that he had given her, and had promised to be his wife in midsummer; and Jean knew it, and outwardly gave no sign that she suffered—only now and then, as at this moment when Ned bade her notice Hulda's beauty—as at the moment when she paused, meadow midst, and said to herself that she would give half of her life, were it but an hour, to hear Ned Wilton call her pretty.

They lived upon the coast of Lincolnshire, and it was years ago. None of them knew how to write more than their names. The farmer's deepest lore was the market price of grain. Outside of them, the great world of letters—great, at that day, as perhaps it never has been at any other time—rolled on without giving them any sign of its existence. And none of them had ever read a novel or a poem, or seen a play. But they acted out the drama just as well, and Ned loved Hulda and cared nothing for Jean, and Jean loved Ned and hated Hulda. And Hulda knew the whole, and triumphed over Jean, and cared a little for Ned, because of his broad shoulders and bronze curls, but not over-much; and many a novelist would have given much to have had the little plot of their daily lives, to touch up and make pretty with his pen.

The girls slept together in an upper room of the house, and on her wedding eve Hulda spread out gown and shoes and cheap white veil, and dancing about them, boasted that when the morrow's sun set she should be mistress of the house, and Jean her servant. And Jean, thinking of the old grandmother who had begged her not to lose so good a place, said nothing, but stood silent, white-faced and wan, and felt a bitter hate rising in her heart. Ned was away at the town, and would not be back until next morning, the morning of his wedding. The old folks were asleep below. How easy it would be, in the dead of night, to do this beautiful boasting creature some harm—to mar her beauty, or even end her life.

The thoughts grew so, and were so horrible, that she could not be sure of relief. Hulda, watching her, saw only a deadly whiteness creep over her lips, and with the first touch of pity in her heart, folded her veil away, and said, unwisely enough, but meaning it kindly:

"No doubt, the next wedding will be yours, Jean."

Then Jean, without a look, turned from her and left the room. She sought to be safe from herself, for fiendish thoughts possessed her; and longing for solitude and quiet, she climbed a ladder that led to the tiled roof, and seeking the shelter of the great chimney, sat down in its shadow and looked up at the sky. It was calm and full of stars. Its peacefulness had an instant influence on her. Repentent tears began to flow. She prayed as simple children pray; "Please make me good!" And all the hate for Hulda left her breast, and her love for Ned—her yearning, aching love for him—softened into a sort of tender memory. She was still sad. A painful humility crushed her heart; a longing for love oppressed her; but when she had prayed for herself, when she had striven with herself, the evil spirit had departed. Soon, with her white, well-developed milk-maid's arms under her head, she slept upon the mossy roof, under the canopy of the stars.

At last she began to dream. They were going to church—Hulda and Ned—and she heard the wedding bells but going in at the door she saw, instead of gayly dressed guests, mourners all in black and a coffin before the altar, and gave a scream and wakened. Bells were ringing, but not wedding bells—the bells that tolled if there were any need of the men of the place—if fire broke out, or robbers were heard of, or there were any rioting in the town. What could it mean?

Jean listened. A strange sobbing, surging sound fell upon her ears. Lights gleamed in all the houses of the town. The truth flashed upon her. Years before, her old grandmother had told her how the old seawall had been washed away, and a tide had risen and swept in upon them on that wild coast of Lincolnshire, carrying with it, as it went out, kine and flocks and little dwellings, and even land itself; and how there was mourning throughout the land for those that it had done to death—men and women and children, young and old—so that many a household long remembered it with woe. This had happened again. The sea wall was down, the floods were sweeping in. The bells were ringing as they had rung before in the ears of those who lay in their graves—ringing to tell the same tale to those who were then unborn.

The house in which she dwelt was old, and near the sea; far from all human aid too; and its occupants very two very old people and two girls. The only one who could have aided them was far away. But for this Jean could have thanked Heaven, for he was safe, and the waters were rising even now above the windows of the lower rooms. She could see the starlight reflected in it in gleams and sparkles, and she knew that the old people must be drowned in their beds if she did not waken them. She went down into the room where they slept, and cried out, as she shook them, "The tide has risen again! The tide has risen again! Hear the bells!"

Then she led them, trembling and weeping in their helpless old-age, to the roof, and found Hulda already crouched there. She was crying also, and she turned to Jean and clutched her arm.

"Will the water rise so far?" she asked. "Will I be drowned? I who was to be married to-morrow? Oh, it can't be, Jean!"

"Others will go with you, if you are," said Jean. "There are four of us."

"But no other besides I would have been so happy and so proud to-morrow," said Hulda, and bemoaned herself. The old people shook and prayed, and cried softly.

Jean, calm and silent, kept watch. The lights floating about told that boats were out. Help might come even yet, but the water was creeping up. It filled the house. It lapped the very eaves. Still it rose, higher and higher and higher. Those upon the roof climbed to the very apex of its slope, and clung there, but the water reached their feet, and Hulda was quite mad with terror, when a light glimmered close before them, and a voice cried:

"Good folks, there's room for some here. How many of you are there?"

"Four," said Jean.

"We've room for three," said the voice. "Is it Welton's folk?"

"Yes," said Jean.

Then a stout fellow strode over the roof and carried away the old woman, and then the old man, and came back.

"We'll return for the other as soon as we can," said he; "keep up courage;" and seized Jean's arm. "In with you, he cried, "There's little time to spare."

And Hulda gave a scream, and cried, "Don't leave me! don't leave me!"

Then Jean, in whose heart jealousy had lighted the fires of hell but an hour or so before, felt that the angels had quenched it with the waters of love. She wrenched her strong, white arm from the grasp of the man who held it.

"Leave me, and take her," she said, "I'm not afraid. I'm able to bear more. And she is to be Ned Welton's wife to-morrow. Save her for his sake."

She commanded; she did not implore, or seem to speak from duty. The man who listened hardly thought of her sacrifice. He obeyed. Hulda was in the boat.

"Keep courage until we come back," he shouted, and rowed away.

Jean clung to the chimney side, and kept her feet firm on the roof; but they were ankle deep now.

The water was rising still. She knew that there was little hope, but she was very happy.

"O, dear old fellow—dear, dear Ned," she said aloud, for there were none to hear her, "there'll be no blight, for you know you'll have your love safe and sound to-morrow. What's plain Jean to any one? Who'll miss her but a poor old woman who'll follow her soon? But she, Hulda, is half your life, Ned. Oh, God be thanked that I can give myself for Hulda, for your sake!"

And in the starlight her face shown calm and sweet and happy, with more then martyr's happiness, as the water arose toward it.

And at last her feet lost their hold, and her strength was gone. She was lifted and whirled away; the long brown hair, unloosened, swept far behind her; the marble face gleamed through rings of water that the starlight made a halo of. A voice sobbing through it, said: "Ned! Ned! darling Ned, good-bye!" and there was nothing to be seen but the flood still rising, and the sky spread out above it.

On the morrow Jean Abbot's body was found lying close to the old church, whence by that time the water had retreated. And Ned and Hulda, among others, came to see it. Hulda wept. Ned stood quiet, but with a strange regret in his blue eyes. The story of her sacrifice had thrilled his heart. He looked down at her face, on which the beauty of her beautiful love and unselfishness had rested in her dying moments, leaving an angelic smile upon the marble lips, and said in a dreamy way:

"Hulda, she was pretty. I never knew Jean Abbott was pretty before."

And then he kissed her.

A Hamilton, Cal., paper says a Chinaman has devoted the whole summer and fall to gathering horned toads, which are very numerous on the red hills, and are as much dreaded as rattlesnakes. Recently he made a shipment of two thousand of the toads to San Francisco, from which place they will be sent to China. The toads are there converted into various kinds of medicines, which sell very high. For the cure of chills and fever they are said to be the finest things known. A toad is placed in a flask of whisky for several weeks, and then the stuff is sold as a tonic.

MEN OF LETTERS AS PREACHERS.

The Habitual Tendency of Certain Authors to Moralize.

Our own age differs from those that preceded it not least in the peculiar character of its moralists. In former times the minister of religion was usually the sole recognized moralist. Here and there scientific moralists have had considerable influence upon the moral practice of small groups of educated men. Both these classes of moralists we still have with us, although at present under an eclipse. Neither the clergy nor those whom they address are quite clear as to the bias of theological doctrine presupposed in all moralizing from the pulpit. The scientific moralist can not directly address a public so enormous, so ill-educated, so scant of leisure, and so eager for excitement as the public of modern Europe. Nevertheless, mankind continue to have an appetite for that moral exhortation which they denounce by rote as dry and insipid, while consuming it in great quantities, and with little regard to quality. They have found new preachers among the people who write essays, novels, and poems, who have long been accustomed to make remarks upon life and conduct, but have been esteemed not very successful in the conduct of their own lives. By common consent these gentlemen have been inducted into the vacant cure of souls. The literary man has become the one universal and impressive moralist, so that it is well worth while to trace the effect of literary modes of thought upon ethics, as well as the effect of constant ethical purpose upon literature.

Our literary moralists have naturally imparted to modern morals a literary tinge. The most fashionable virtues are the virtues of the literary spirit. Thus tolerance is pre-eminently a literary virtue; and our age is very tolerant, tolerant not only in the domain of thought, but also, if in a less degree, in the domain of action. Another literary virtue is humor, a quick and scornful perception of what is ugly, exaggerated, and insincere. This virtue has passed from books into our con-cience, has made us feel the vices that cling to our very virtues, and has made the best of us almost weakly shy of avowing their own goodness. The openness and flexibility of mind, the delicacy in discriminating, the patience in hearing all sides, the indulgent kindness in judging which, above all other good qualities, complete a finished literary character, can never indeed be of much account in popular morality; but they are of more account now than they ever were before. All this, of course, is due to many causes, such as the social changes of the last hundred years; but it is in part due to the literary influence upon conduct, the influence of such writers as Thackeray and Carlyle, Victor Hugo and George Sand.

On the other hand, some of the most notable weaknesses of our generation are literary weaknesses. Morality as taught by literary men has lost as much in definiteness as it has gained in expansion. Being practical, it should speak forcibly, unless it speaks clearly. It may speak clearly in one or two ways. It may lay down in dogmatic fashion a series of short, sharp rules, apparently without vital connection or ground in reason—rules which are not to be questioned simply because the questioner will be punished. Again, it may express the net result of serious and scientific thought about the universe and man's place in it—that is to say, it may be definite because it is philosophic. Now, the literary moralist is usually not definite either in the one way or in the other. His wisdom flashes out from time to time in brilliant intuitions, in the intervals too often emitting nothing but unsavory smoke. His teaching is a series of acute observations, searching parables, or moving pictures. Such teaching exactly suits the palate of an age too critical for dogma, too impatient for philosophy; but it wants unity, it wants consistency, it wants force—wants very ill-supplied by passion of feeling and glow of imagination. So that when we read the literary moralist for anything beyond literary pleasure we commonly end in downright bewilderment.

Thus every serious reader of Carlyle's writings must be a good deal perplexed by his presentation of virtue, now as purity and now as power. Is the great man always the good man? In what sense can it be honestly said that might is right? Carlyle nowhere clearly answers these embarrassing questions, or, at most, gives us in equally positive terms two answers which seem to contradict one another, and are really very dificult to harmonize. Turn and twist the matter as we may, the ideas of Calvin are not the ideas of Goethe, nor can the modern scholar look upon this world with the eyes of one of the apostles. Carlyle would no doubt have admitted this; and yet he would have gone on exhorting us to do the thing the most angrily and righteously denounced, to close our eyes to facts and masquerade in the old clothes of the Cromwellian republic.

Or, listen to Thackeray's perpetual denunciation of worldliness. On every other page he exhorts men and women to marry without much consideration of ways and means. On every other page he twits them with their base greed, with their anxiety to get on, to make money, and to rise in the world. He might as well exhort the wolf to have cubs and not prey for them. For the stupidest reader who reflects can see that all this tugging and lugging, all this shoving and scrambling to get a subsistence, comes from the difficulty of subsisting, and all the difficulty of subsisting from the multitude of those who compete with us and of those who depend upon us. How often do men and women bow the proud neck and silence every generous beating of the heart in order that those whom they love and who will despise them may be spared the long-suffering and humiliation that have filled their own lives? Ah, it is because so many lives are starved and shriveled up that here and there a few have space to bloom and spread themselves in the sun. It is the degradation of most that makes possible the self-respect of some. It is the score of niggards who make possible the one generous man.

The moralist who declines to face facts may denounce sentiment, but is sentimental still. His doctrine, being sentimental, can be reduced to no plain or intelligible principle; and as it does now consist with itself, it would fain make amends by being angry like an illogical man or tearful like an illogical woman. But no tears or curses tell so much as a lucid indication of facts. All of us feel the mystery of our situation, and all would like to have even the least light thrown upon it. Merely to show us an enormous specter of the Brocken which mimics all our struggles is not showing us the way over the hill. Anybody who is good for anything has quite enough fermenting in his inside. It is wisdom, not excitement, that he wants from a teacher.

Sentimental moralizing always tends to paradox, and the moralizing done by men of letters is no exception to the rule. Like other preachers, they must live; they must live by moving their hearers, and they can best move their hearers by means of the fresh and wonderful to which their own eager and mercurial temperament inclines. Thus the new priesthood is not less sorely tempted than was the old; and less than the old, if less be conceivable, is the new priesthood expected to practice what it preaches. How often of late have we seen men, themselves the artificial luxuries of a most luxurious and artificial society, advocate innovations which would make all Britain a less comfortable place than any Benedictine monastery! As these men do not lack imagination, they must needs lack seriousness. Nor is it a light matter that we should read their discourses merely as we would listen to a prima donna. Nothing more demoralizes than a sermon delivered by a man who is sure that it will not be acted upon to men who do not mean to act upon it, and know that, if they did, the person most confounded would be the preacher himself.—Pall Mall Gazette.

The Kroomen.

And now something about my fellow-passengers, the Kroomen, whose presence on the Nile at this juncture forms an interesting episode in this expedition, writes a correspondent of The Liverpool Post. The day before we were to start, Maj. Smyth, the senior officer in charge of the men, had gone on to Wady Halfa with 809 of them leaving Maj. Tyndale to bring up the men remaining at Shellal to aid in getting up the Nile boats, or "wharvers," as they are technically called. The major part of our lot were on a barge towed by the Fayum, and one man in each of the twenty-four whalers we took in tow. In getting the latter together and past three steamers before they were made fast to the stern of the barge we were to tow up, these black-skinned boatmen gave me an exhibition of their skill. The twenty-four whalers were lashed two together, and a tow-line was passed down six of the pairs of boats, and up the other six, each line being made fast to the barge. This brought the squadron four abreast. Awkward as such a string of boats must have been to manage in a strong current it was piloted outside the three steamers named without a jolt or bruise, and in the quietest manner. The agility and experience thus shown by the Kroomen augured well for their usefulness in the work they had come so far to do. A number of men occupied the forward deck of the steamer, giving me an opportunity of observing the men more closely.

I obtained from Maj. Tyndale many interesting facts relative to getting the men on the west coast of Africa, and his and Maj. Smythe's early experience with them. The president of the republic of Liberia refused permission to recruit in his territory, as the policy of the republic was against warlike expeditions. The men obtained came from Sierra Leone, Monrovia, Grand Bassa, Bereby, Half Bereby, Taboo river, and Grand Taboo. The men were engaged for six months or longer, for boat service only, their pay being, head man, 2s. 6d. per day; second head man, 2 shillings, and privates 1 shilling per day. When first engaged, saving a cloth around their loins, they were naked. The first day out each man was supplied with a naval rig-out, one jumper, one jersey, two flannel shirts, two pairs of trousers and cloth cap, all dark blue. The men wore their clothes as if they had been used to them all their days, and when they got them they were particular to have them properly marked. Whether in the garments of the white man they were desirous of acquiring his color also I did not ascertain, but, if washing could accomplish it, they ran every chance of success. I never went forward among them without finding some two or three of them stark naked, lathering themselves all over and scrubbing away most earnestly. The funniest thing, however, was their names. It was necessary for them to sign an agreement, and also for their names to be entered on the pay-list. Their own outlandish names were almost unpronounceable, as Maj. Tyndale told me. As an illustration, he called aft several of the men and made them repeat to me their African cognomens. One said he was called something which sounded like "Oolah" and "Wadah," and the rest "Kakana," "Dwa," "Dabwa," and so forth. Many of the men had already either adopted names or been given them by sailors of the vessels trading on their coasts. These were used but others had to be invented for the occasion. Looking over the list I found among the names the following: Teapot, Tom, Peter, Jim, George, Jack, Everyday Jack, Ropeyarn, Pea Soup, Tom Two-Glass, Sea-Breeze, Bottle Beer, Ginger Beer, Jack Go Ashore, Jack Never Fear, Flying Jib, Upside Down, Jack Smart, All Day, Black Man's Trouble, Spy Glass Jack, Bay of Rice, etc. One was called John Bright and another John Wesley. There was a prince among the lot, the son of the king of Grand Bereby, bearing the name of Bob Ridley. Both king and prince signed with a cross, as did also King George, of Monarch. The signature or countersign of these monarchs was necessary to make the engagement binding on the men.

The officers in charge, after the men were clad, endeavored to drill them in something like order, and considering that they had been together only a fortnight, their success was marvelous. An amusing difficulty occurred in teaching them to distinguish right from left. It was got over, however, not like the Irish drill sergeant did by "hay-foot," "straw-foot," but "small-pox arm" for left, as the men had all been vaccinated on that arm, and "slash-arm" for right—the one used for their knives. Toward the close of the journey some of the men evidently had become somewhat homesick.

The Chinese and Hygiene.

The Chinese Consul in New York states that, despite the apparent neglect by the Chinese of most laws that to our way of thinking are absolutely essential to the preservation of health, it is rare that one of the race dies of a zymotic disease. He says his people have been studying the laws of health for the last thousand years, and that his people have, to this extent, mastered those laws is proved, to his mind, by the circumstances that contagious disease is seldom found among them.

SOUTHERN CONVICT SYSTEMS.

How the Convicts Are Worked and Treated—A Field for the Humanitarian—Criminal Laws Made Only for Negroes.

"The Shooting of Penitentiary Convicts," was the heading of a dispatch in a newspaper which I read on last Friday, and which gave the details of the shooting of three hired convicts, who were at work in the Coal creek mines in East Tennessee, writes an Indianapolis correspondent of The Cincinnati Enquirer. To-day I read another paragraph which stated that the convicts in Arkansas are hired out to farmers at $3 per month. Within the past ten years, and often during that time, I have had opportunities to see every phrase of the system of leasing convict labor in various states, but have given special attention to those states which allow the convicts to be worked out of doors. What I shall write on this subject will be unvarnished facts, and I will try to make them so distinct that no one can dispute one statement which I will make.

The states which I know lease their convict labor to be worked outside of the penitentiaries are Arkansas, Texas, Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, and Kentucky. Most of the states lease their prison labor, but in the north the convicts are worked within the prison walls; the tasks are regulated by the state, through its own officers; the state feeds the convicts, treats them when sick, attend to their sanitary condition, has them bathed and their clothing properly washed and mended. I shall not make comparisons, they are unnecessary, for the intelligent reader can do that when he has the facts. I only want to call attention at the outset to the fact that the constitutions of all the states, following the eighth amendment to the national constitution, provide that "excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted." It may be that I do not know what constitutes "cruel and unusual punishments," so that those who read the facts will have to be their own judges.

During the years 1875, 1876, and 1877 the convicts of the state of Arkansas were leased to Mr. Zeb Ward, of Kentucky. Mr. Ward had been a prison-labor contractor in Tennessee when I first knew him. His lease of the penitentiary of Arkansas and of the convicts was for the term of ten years. One of the conditions of the lease was that Mr. Ward should not be hampered with the presence of a warden or any state officer who could stand between the cupidity or passionate cruelty of the lessee. During the term for which the persons were sentenced the state had no control whatever over the criminals. The contractor fed, clothed, and cared for them as he saw fit. About 1875, perhaps 1876, Mr. Ward found that he could not work all the convicts in and about the penitentiary, so he opened a large cotton plantation and penal farm up the Arkansas river, and in what is known as the river bottoms. There the soil is very rich, but the malaria is general, and if not fatal, produced the result which was fatal in the end. I visited this prison farm twice during the summer of 1877, once at the invitation of Mr. Ward, and once at the request of citizens of the little town on the Little Rock and Fort Smith railroad. During my first visit I saw that the convicts were fed on corn-bread and fat meat; that they were huddeled together in the vilest, filthiest dens of cabins within a stockade; that they were not half-clothed, and no regard was paid to their sanitary condition; and, worse, that there were no bathing facilities within the blockade. There was not a white prisoner among the three hundred then on this prison farm, and I do not think there was a white man in the penitentiary at Little Rock who was subject to the contractor. Several white men, who in gentlemanly bouts had killed other white men, and who feared lynching or assassination if kept in the jails of the counties where the crimes were committed, were confined on their own request in the penitentiary until the courts could go through the form of releasing them. They, of course, were not convicts, and when they felt like it came down town and had a good time with the special guards who looked after them. It seemed to me that the criminal laws applied only to negroes except where the crime was horse-stealing. This observation applied to all the states, in a general way, where convicts were leased out to contractors, and it appeared to me that the arrest of a negro for any offence seemed accepted as proof positive that he was guilty. I gave especial attention to this subject, and noticed that conviction almost always followed arrest. I do not know that the negro is always a thief; perhaps he is, which would account for his almost universal conviction when charged with a crime. The treatment of leased convicts has been discussed through the newspapers, and in Kentucky and in Georgia I have heard of legislative investigations, but I am not aware that any legislation has ever followed which was intended to mitigate or change the methods of treatment to which the victims were subject. I once talked to Mr Ward on this subject, and he told me some of the methods by which he controlled refractory convicts. In one case a man refused to leave his cell to work in a brickyard. Mr. Ward went to the blacksmith shop and had two long iron hooks made, which were heated red-hot, and then taking two guards, who covered the man with shot-guns, he told the man to come out in one minute or he would have him dragget out with the hot irons. The man marched out and was bound and given one hundred lashes. I asked Mr. Ward what he would have done had the man refused to obey the order, and he replied that he would have dragged him out with the irons, and if he had attempted to assault any of them the guards would have killed him. He said that one guard could watch eight men, and then, with a significant look, added that sometimes it took eight men to control one desperate man, but that such fellows usually attempted to escape and were killed by the guards. But I never regarded Mr. Ward as a brutal man; on the contrary, I thought he desired to find the average under which, at the least expense, he could get the greatest amount of labor out of the convits. But I remember that one day in 1877 I came up to a gang of convicts who were working on a Texas railroad, and where one of them had been killed by a guard. I asked one of the guards how it came about, and he told me that the man was an unruly fellow, who gave them a great deal of trouble, and that it was cheaper and safer to give him a chance to attempt to escape, which was done, and the man was killed as he ran.

The leasing system, in Arkansas was inaugurated while Mr. Garland was governor. Senator Garland is regarded as a just and humane man, with more than average friendly bias in favor of the negro, but in this matter he drifted with the general sentiment of his state. The Georgia convicts were hired out to a number of people, and were employed in a variety of pursuits. Senator Joseph E. Browne has a large number of them employed in his Dade coal mines, while other gentlemen with political influence have contracts for large numbers of them. In the northern states, and notably in Ohio, political parties abolished the convict contract system inside of the penitentiary because the workingmen, who were voters, demanded that such competition with them be ended, but in the south, the negroes being the working class, the system is allowed to flourish in the most extended form. But the evils of the system are overlooked in the profits resulting from it to the contractors, who usually represent or combine with themselves the strongest political influences. It amounts to a system of limited slavery, in which the master has but one interest, and that is to get the largest profit out of the slave, losing sight of his physical wants or the preservation of his health for that matter, for the courts are actively engaged in keeping his quota full, no matter how short-lived the convicts may be. That convicts are short-lived anyone will admit who gives the subject any attention, because under the methods of treatment they could not live long. Of course, the contractors always reply that such statements are false, and dare the writer to come down where they are to prove them. That they are backed by public sentiment goes without saying, for if they were not the leasing system to contractors outside of prisons would be ended at once. Legislative committees have visited prison pens in Alabama, Georgia, and East Tennessee, and found nothing in them to condemn.

A Senator's Monkey Story.

Senator Ransom tells this story: An Italian organ-grinder came to his section of the state. He brought the traditional and inevitable monkey along. After some mournful melodies the beast, in a sadly comical way, hopped around among the crowd soliciting money. A big countryman upset the tin cup, and cuffed the money. The enraged Italian, in his peculiar lingo, bet the man that his monkey could whip him. The wager was $50, and the man was to encounter the missing link with a stick. Armed with a heavy bludgeon, the bully professed his readiness for the fray. The Italian danced his animal up and down, and, in broken English, said: "Gentlemen, my monkey is little, but he is worse than a tiger. I have taught him some tricks that a tiger does not know. He has whipped many a big man. If my monkey shall bite off the nose of his enemy, or scratch out his eyes, or cut his throat, no blame must attach to me. So we will begin." The man with the club was visibly affected by this speech. He instinctively put his hand over his nose, half shaded his eyes, while a great gulp came into his throat. To the astonishment of the crowd, greedy for a novel rumpus and careless of the consequences, he tossed aside his stick and blustered out: "Take off your confounded devil of a monkey and I'll pay the $50?" The wily Italian, by a bold stroke of diplomacy, not unworthy of a Cavour, filled his purse and saved his monkey, whose skull would have been split at the first pass.—Washington Cor. Augusta, (Ga.) Chronicle.

Just the Leg for Arctic Climate.

All Smith Sound explorers have something to say of the Esquimaux with the wooden leg. Everybody knows, of course, that timber does grow in that part of the world, and the man with the wooden leg must be quite a curiosity to the Ellesmere Land Esquimaux, who occasionally visit their friends on the Greenland coast. His name is Arrowtah. One day, when he was quite a boy, he was out on a hill hunting birds, when a great stone rolled on his foot and crushed it. His mother to save his life, cut off his leg about six inches below the kneen with a knife made of bone. Arrowtah survived the rude surgery, and grew up a stout young man, but was almost entirely helpless to his tribe, because he could only hop around on one leg. In 1849, the surgeon of the North Star, one of the Franklin search vessels, made him a wooden leg, which was repaired and renewed by Dr. Hayes, eleven years later. Twenty-four years after he first put it on the Polaris party found him still stumping around on his good, stout oaken leg, and he could hunt auks with the pest of his tribe, though the difficulty of traveling over the rough ice made him useless as a walrus hunter. Arrowtah at last accounts was very anxious to cross over to Ellesmere Land in search of a wife. He said none of the ladies in his own tribe suited him.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Mental Phenomena Reduced to Figures.

Any physician, we apprehend, will consider it quite within the bounds of probability that 1 per cent. of the population of the country is subject to remarkably vivid dreams, illusions, visions, etc. This will make half a million people in the United States. Each of these persons may be supposed to have fifty friends or relations, of whom 1 per annum dies. If they are subject to a dream or vision once a week, there is one chance out of seven that they have one on the same day that the friend dies. Let us suppose that it takes a combination of eight separate and indepentent points of resemblance, between the vision and the circumstance attending the death of the friend, to constitute a remarkable coincidence, and that each of these has a probability of one-half. We shall have, in one case out of 256, a remarkable combination of coincidences. Putting these results together, we may infer that, as a matter of fact, some extraordinary coincidence between the circumstances of death and the dream or vision by a friend of the dying person does occur somewhere in the country nearly every day in the year.—Science.

Changed His Mind About Her.

"I shall never call on Mrs. Smith again," said Mrs. Jones. "I never want to see her any more."

"You women are very foolish to quarrel over trifles," said Mr. Jones. "Mrs. Smith is a very pleasant person, a little talkative, perhaps, but on the whole a very estimatble woman. You shouldn't attach any importance to what she says. What was the trouble?"

"She said you weren't very prompt in paying your debts."

"Well, by thunder!" shouted Jones, jumping to his feet, "I would give $25 if she were a man for just ten minutes."—New York Star.

INDUSTRIAL BREVITIES.

In dyeing feathers animal and vegetable pigments are used, and also anasline and its derivatives. At present they are employed quite extensively on account of their brilliancy and luster, and have therefore diminished the application of the former; analine colors are more fugitive and subject to fading, especially when exposed to the action of direct rays. The feathers to be dyed are wa-hed with water and Venetian soap, then steeped in tepid water and wrapped in linen cloth. Sulphur is then used to finish the feathers, giving them whiteness and luster; for this purpose flower of sulphur being thrown on glowing charcoal, and the feathers exposed to the vapor of sulphurous acid; they are then dried by application of heat.

According to English papers, the sheep industry in Australia has brought out a variety of the sheep dog remarkable for sagacity, but differing in many other particulars from those of other countries. It is related of them that they will hunt for stragglers miles away from the hut, and either drive them in or watch them, if they happen to be exhausted, until they gather sufficient strength to walk. It is a common thing in traversing the grazing country to come upon one of the sagagious dogs on guard over a strayed or broken-down sheep, and while placable and gentle to a remarkable degree, as a rule, are then resentful of interference with their charge and fierce in the extreme.

Joseph Harris, in his treatise on the pig, quotes the experience of Lawes and Gilbert, who found that 401 pounds of Indian corn meal and bran produced 100 pounds of pork, live weight, but the particular kind of management given is not stated. Success depends on the observance of several particulars, and among others on a favorable temperature. Prof. Sanborn's experiments showing that exposure to cold reduced the gain from feeding to less than one-half the amount obtained under the comfort of shelter. Cleanliness, regularity in feeding, and other requisites are important.

The jute industry is carried on at present in Germany by 23 establishments, with more than 50,000 spindles and 2,240 looms. New establishments have lately been opened at Hamburg, Harburg, and Stralau, and it is calculated that next year another 10,000 spindles and 600 looms will be working. According to the official statistics the import of jute into Germany amounted to 236,013 double hundred-weights in 1882, against 334,365 in 1883, and the production of the German jute-spinning establishments has risen from about 224,212 double hundred-weights in 1882 to 317,647 in 1883.

Trade-marks are nearly as old as the history of the human race. Ancient Babylon had property symbols, and the Chinese claim to have had trade-marks one thousand years before Christ. Gutenberg, the inventor of printing, had a lawsuit about a trade-mark, and won it. As early as 1300 the English parliament authorized trade-marks, and the laws of America have also protected them. Extraordinary means have been required at all times to guard against the fraudulent use of marks of manufacturers.

A sale of 218 sheep, which took place recently near Cardiff, England, resulted in throwing some great bargains onto the market. Two Cotswold rams, for which the owner, Mr. G. W. G. Thomas, had paid $365 and $310, respectively, were sold for $70 and $60. Ewe lambs went for $12 60 to $15, while wether lambs brought $9 to $10. Cross-bred Cotswold and Down sheep fetched a trifle less. The prices throughout this sale ruled low on all live stock.

It is proposed to hold an international bee-keepers' congress on the World's exposition grounds at New Orleans, Feb. 24, 25, and 26, 1885. An interesting programme of subjects of great importance to every bee-keeper in America will be presented and discussed. The disposition of our honey product, with a view to secure better prices will be fully considered. At the same time there will be an exhibit of bees and aparian supplies.

A method invented by Isaac Reese, Pittsburgh, Pa., for the manufacture of highly refractory silica brick, consists in mixing the silica with a small proportion of lime and alumina; secondly, burning the molded shapes in an air-tight kiln; and thirdly, maintaining the temperature in the airtight kiln for one hundred and thirty to one hundred and ninety hours at such an elevation as will melt an ordinary fire-brick.

In the lead production of different countries Spain holds the first place, the amount reaching some 120,000 tons in one year, or one-sixth more than America, which comes next on the list, while Germany follows with 90,000. Of Spain's total production, some 67,000 tons are derived from one district, that of Linares, in which more than 800 mines are registered.

An even climate is desirable for producing healthy and productive pear trees. Great and sudden changes in the temperature produce most of the diseases that injure pear trees. In portions of France pear trees are found in a good state of preservation that are more than two centuries old.

The Kansas State Horticural society now has a membership of over 250 persons, including honary, life, and annual members, and is composed of forty-three county societies and three district societies, as follows: The Northwestern at Beloit, Southwestern at Lyons, and Southeastern at Chanute.

The average price of milch cows in Indiana is $35, in Illinois $35, in Ohio $36.50, in New Jersey $39.33, in New York $30.33, in California $38, and in Colorado $40.60. The average for the United States is $31.37 per head. There are 13,501,206 milch cows in all the states.

One of the most remarkable yields of honey ever heard of was recently generated by H. C. Parks from his apiary near Riverside, Col. The yield for the season from thirty-five hives was seven and a quarter tons, an average of 414 pounds to the hive.

Col. Edward Richardson, who is connected with the New Orleans exposition, runs twenty-three cotton plantations, each between one and two thousand acres, with one laborer to every ten acres.

A Kansas farmer, who raised three hunhred bushels of excellent wheat this season, found that it required the entire amount to pay for his harvesting machine.

The city of Cleveland is now enjoying 3,700 hours' light, a year, which is an increase of 400 over the old schedule.

Already there are twenty-four paupers in Yellowstone county, Montana.

Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Publisher.

CROOKSTON, - - MINNESOTA.

MME. RISTORI is proud of a necklace that was worn at the court of good Queen Bess.

ELLEN TERRY ran a foot race with her son in the long corridor of a Pittsburgh hotel.

A FINE monument will be unveiled over Edward Lasker's grave Jan. 5, the anniversary of his death.

HENRY GEORGE, who has been lecturing in the Isle of Skye, intends to sail for America by the steamer Alaska on Jan. 24.

MR. RUSKIN will build his museum at Bewdley of marble brought for the purpose from the Isle of Paros, "the most beautiful," he says, "which the world can produce."

MR. NICHOLS, the man whom Charlotte Bronte married, is now living at Bannagher, Ireland. He is married again, and is a gentleman farmer, having relinquished the clergyman's calling.

MISS MARY TALMAGE, daughter of the famous Brooklyn divine, is of a pale, classic, blonde type of beauty, petite in stature, very vivacious in manner, and stylish in dress and appearance, beside being a finished scholar and a great favorite in young society.

THERE is a legend to the effect that on the one evening passed at Craigenputtock by Emerson, in 1853, Carlyle gave him a pipe, and, taking one himself, the two sat silent until midnight and then parted, shaking hands with congratulations on the pleasant evening they had passed.

GIORDANO BRUNE, the Italian philosopher who was burned as a heretic in 1600, is to have a bronze statue in the Piazza Campo di Fiori, Rome, and Pope Leo is said to be highly indignant about it. Charles Bradlaugh, the English atheist, is at the head of the committee that is collecting funds for the statue.

THE venerable Thomas Harrison, anciently known as the "boy preacher," has been in Toronto ten weeks. In that time he has "converted" just one thousand souls, and the collections have aggregated $1,100. These figures are exclusive of the closing meeting, at which "quite a sum" was collected and one woman went crazy.

ADMIRAL LYNCH, the Chilian conqueror of Peru, has gone as minister to Madrid, in order to have the benefit of the best European surgical skill for his left eye and right hand, the use of which he lost in the war. He is, by the way, the first Chilian minister to Spain after nearly twenty years of suspended diplomatic relations.

CHAUNCEY DEPEW said in the Nineteenth Century club, at New York, the other evening, that he once asked a Knickerbocker club man which he would prefer, to be a Washington, a Wellington, a Shakspeare, or to be invited to the cotillon, and the club man answered: "To be invited to the cotillion, of course—it gets one into society."

DR. SCHLIEMANN's new work, giving an account of his excavations at Tiryns, is now in the press, and will be published next March simultaneously in England, America, Germany, and France. When the work is more advanced the learned doctor will proceed to Crete, where he expects his excavations will be crowned with his usual success.

AH TI, of La Porte, Cal., is the wealthiest Chinaman in America, having a modest $2,000,000 to his credit. His family consists of a wife and six children, and he has sent them back to the Celestial kingdom to live permanently, whither Ti will follow them as soon as he settles up his business. He made his money in the mines and in trade, and is going home to enjoy it.

LORD COLERIDGE's only daughter wears spectacles, and is not a beauty, but is exceedingly clever and learned in classics. Her best friends have always deemed her a "very odd" person. When she left home she advertised for pupils. Her brother Bernard is not generally liked, and his father has tried to push his son's interest at the bar in a manner which has excited very unfavorable comment.

AN interesting character has lately died near London at the age of 85, whose name and intimacy with Charles Dickens led to the belief that his patronymic suggested that of one of the novelist's most noted personages. This was Capt. Charles Weller, whose granddaughter, Miss Elizabeth Thompson, now Mrs. Butler, has become so famous as a military painter. Dickens' intimacy with Capt. Weller did not begin till after the publication of "Pickwick," and was induced by the fact that he bore a name identified with such a prominent character in that novel.

WHEN Lord Selborne, the present chancellor, read the letter Miss Fortescue wrote to Lord Garmoyle, begging him to buy her no more jewels, and written in such a tender, womanly, sensible way, he used, it is said, some unusually strong expressions. The ex-chancellor, Lord Cairns, would have been very unhappy if he had heard them. "If I had a son," said he, "and he had the good sense and good luck to secure a girl like that, I should be almost as proud of him as a son as I should be of her as a daughter." It cost Lord Cairns much bitterness to part with the $50,000, for even the religious mind is sometimes not indifferent to money.

NEWS OF THE WEEK SUMMARIZED.

Will of the Maine Millionaire.

The Boston Journal publishes the will of the late Gov. Abner Coburn of Maine, by which the following bequests are made: To Maine insane hospital, at Augusta, $50,000, the income only to be expended annually; Maine general hospital, Portland, $100,000; Maine State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, $100,000, the income only to be expended annually; Colby university, $200,000, of which $150,000 to be funded and the income only expended annually; American Baptist Home Missionary society, $200,000, one-half of which to be applied in aid of freedmen's schools, other than Wayland seminary; to Wayland seminary, Washington, D. C., in memory of a deceased sister, Fedelia C. Brooks, late missionary to Africa, and Mary A. How, late teacher in seminary, $50,000.

Northwestern Inventors.

The following are the patents granted during the past week to inventors of the northwest as reported for this paper by Amasa C. Paul, Patent Attorney, Minneapolis, Minn.

Minnesota. Sack-holder, C. D. Wood, Alexandria.

Wisconsin. Paper-box, C. M. Arthur, Evansville. Water-closet, M. Fox, Eau Claire. Cultivator and Seeder, H. C. Lewis, Portage. Wooden-shoe machine, Ferdinand Meinecke, Milwaukee. Harness and neck-yoke, R. R. Noyes, Darlington. Sash-holder, Chas. H. Paul, Mill Centre. Billiard-cue, O. F. Mitchell, Merrill. Well-reamer, Frank M. Gray, Milwaukee.

Iowa. Truck, F. L. Bestor, Knoxville. Wagon-brake, B. Bosch, Burlington. Roller-bearing, H. H. Clay and M. D. Philleo, Cedar Falls. Gate, Gideon Gibson, Union. Weather-strip, S. J. Gard and J. Zarnia, Goshen. Incrustation-preventive, H. Girard, Dubuque. Music-leaf turner, Edwin G. Hastings, Nevada. Furnace-grate, Fred. V. Medynski, Des Moines.

Dakota. Attachment for Grain Separators, James Forrest, Grand Forks.

James G. Blaine Jr. will enter the Yale class of 1889.

Ludwig Bohnsteidt, the distinguished German architect, is dead.

The Hudson river is free from ice to within twenty miles of Albany.

Miss Mackey's dowry as Princess Colonna, it is said, is to be 1,500,000 francs.

John Russell Young, backed by John Mackay, is said to hanker for the New York Times.

Fire in No. 59 West Fifty-third street, owned by C. Van Vechten, caused a loss of $40,000.

A Verdict of $3,500 was obtained in New York against the Central Railroad of Minnesota.

The agricultural appropriation bill will recommend the expenditure of $100,000 less than last year.

The Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific are fighting for the control of the south shore of the St. Lawrence.

At Koukouna, the Twin City hall and two buildings adjoining were burned. Loss, $8,000; insurance, $4,200.

The body of Jerome, a well-known merchant of Lincoln, Neb., has just been found on a dissecting table in that city.

The will of Clarissa Rindge of Cambridge, Mass., disposes of property worth $3,000,000, most of it going to her son.

Sanford S. Voorhees, convicted of wrecking a train near Hubbell, Neb., has been sentenced to fifty years in the penitentiary.

Mrs. Mary Howitt, the famous wife of a man also famous in literature, still lives, at the age of eighty-five years, in her Tyrolese home.

T. D. Welldone and wife, a young couple from South Carolina, were drowned while fishing on Lake Mineola, near Altoona, Ala.

A. B. Campbell, claiming to be a nephew of Sir Alex. Campbell of Canada, is under arrest at Chicago, charged with thieving from dominion mails.

Benjamin P. Tait, clerk of the Cincinnati police department, was arrested on a warrant charging him with embezzling $4,000 of the city's funds.

Miss Emma Bond, of Milwaukee, who never fully recovered from the horrible outrage of two years ago, is now in a dying condition from the effects of a fall.

Fire broke out in the store of F. W. Thornton, Fayetteville, N. C. Loss, $115,000; insurance, $45,000. Warren Prior's jewelry store was also burned.

The total amount of the Harvard college fund is $4,803,933; income for the year, $680,850; against expenditures, $707,894; receipts for the year $258,433.

Samuel L. Williams, a farmer, near Red Key, Ind., has been murdered. The presumption is that he was killed for a large sum of money he was bringing from Buffalo.

Sarah Bernhardt will petition for a divorce, having had an offer of marriage from an Englishman under circumstances so strange and romantic as to be almost incredible.

Damasi Desarmicos, the Catholic priest from Canada who two weeks ago attempted to outrage three young girls in Milwaukee, had his trial, and was found guilty by the jury.

Frank Van Amburg, a deaf and dumb man, committed suicide at Anamosa, Iowa, recently by throwing himself before a Chicago & Northwestern freight engine, while switching.

A charivari party was fired into by some one in the house of Joseph A. Dibble, a farmer and fruit tree agent of Osceola, Mich. Ed Mann was killed and three others were wounded.

Rev. Kennedy Kreighton, pastor of a Toronto church, was preaching on Paul's conversion and had just finished reading the words, "and he fell to the earth" when he fell, stricken with paralysis.

Hirrm Richardson, one of the oldest citizens of Rockford, Ill., died recently. A year ago he arranged the details of his funeral, selecting his pall-bearers; but three of them, old settlers, died before him.

Prof. Benjamin Silliman, of Yale college, died at New Haven. He retained consciousness almost to the last. His death was caused by heart disease, which induced dropsy and uraemic poisoning.

At Durand, Ill., half a dozen young men engaged in a drunken row in a billiard hall. Cues, balls, pistols and knives were freely used. John Van Valkenburg and Matthew Doyle cannot recover.

Frank Hawk, who skipped from Letcher, Dak., last fall, with $500 belonging to Basset, Hunting & Co., was lodged in jail at Mitchell. He was arrested in Minneapolis recently, by G. C. Weed of Sioux Falls.

A man named Henry Wurst, the agency barber at Standing Rock, Dak., was found recently by some Indians, with his hands, face and feet frozen. He was unconscious all day, and is considered to be past recovery.

The strike of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne, & Chicago brakemen, which was inaugurated recently, still continues, the strikers being reinforced to some extent by the arrival of the brakemen who were on the road when the strike began.

Allen Brewer, a farmer residing about two and a half miles south of Richland Center, Wis., not having been seen since he left his home on the 6th inst., to go to Muscoda, search was instituted, which finally led to the finding of his body in a slough near Muscoda.

The oldest and most extensive stock bell factory in the United States, at Collinsville, Ill., was burned. Fifteen thousand dozen bells were destroyed. The loss is $60,000, with no insurance. The factory was known as the I. C. Moore factory, but owned by O. B. Wilson.

Lieut. John S. Parke, of the Twenty-first United States infantry, stationed at Sydney Barracks, Neb., was married Thursday to Miss Henrietta B. Brooks. The bride is the only daughter of Hon. Lloyd Brooks, a very prominent pioneer of Portland, Oregon.

The Democratic caucus in Connecticut legislature nominated William H. Barnum for United States senator. The Republican caucus nominated Orville H. Platt. The Republican majority in the legislature on joint ballot is eighty-two, making Platt's re-election certain.

Francois Elie Roudaire, the French hydrographer, is dead. He was the originator of the project to create a sea in the Sahara desert by cutting canals through the low sand hills which separate the desert from the Mediterranean sea. He was forty-eight years of age and an officer of the Legion of Honor.

The nephew of Sir Alexander Campbell of Canada, arrested at Chicago on a charge of being concerned in a conspiracy to rob the postoffice department in Canada, was taken back to Canada.

At Birmingham, England, recently, 5,000 persons out of employment adopted a resolution asking the corporation to furnish employment. A procession later, marched through the streets and halted before a bakery. An artisan stole a loaf of bread, and was promptly arrested. Violence is feared.

George Stickney, the defalcating treasurer of Union county, Dak., has turned over about $1,500 worth of personal property at Elk Point, to his bondsmen, but has as yet failed to fulfill his promise to transfer the real estate held in the name of his wife and son. Stickney's shortages are now found to be nearly $12,700.

The suspension of Oliver Brothers & Phillips, the largest iron firm, in Pittsburg, appears to have been due rather to a desire on the part of the firm to force an extension of credit than to any irremediable financial embarrassment. The assets are generally thought to be considerably in excess of the liabilities.

According to the terms of peace agreed upon between Corea and Japan, Corea is to pay Japan an indemnity of $710,000 for the massacre of Japanese subjects and the burning of the Japanese embassy. A Japanese garrison of fifteen hundred men is to be permanently maintained at Seoul on Kin Ki Tao, capital of Corea.

The Union Insurance company of Philadelphia, at the annual meeting reduced its capital to the extent of $200,000. This action was made necessary by losses through fraudulent transactions of one of its agents, Lorenzo Dimick, of the firm of Crosby & Dimick, Buffalo, who defrauded the company of upwards of $200,000.

Postoffices established: Dakota—De Groot, Ramsey county; Westbore, McPherson county. Postoffices Discontinued—Briggs Lake, Sherburne county, moved to Clear Lake. Postmasters Commissioned—Emily Rowell, Antioch, Dak., George Sites, Moorhead, Iowa; G. B. De Groot, De Groot, Ramsey county, Dak.; G. J. Boltes, Westboro, Dak.

It is understood that Lieut. Garlington sent the secretary of war formal charges against Gen. Hazen, founded upon statements recently made by the latter to Lieut. Garlington's discredit. The charges, it is said, are conduct unbecoming an officer and gentleman, and the specifications set forth instances of alleged lying and slander.

The report of the embarrassment of Oliver Bros. & Phillips, the greatest iron firm in the city of Pittsburg when all its connections are considered, flew about like wild fire and set the town wild with excitement, as such an event was recognized as a catastrophe unequaled by any previous failure. It is impossible to guess at the liabilities of the firm. They are reported at from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000.

Postoffices established: Iowa—Conroy, Iowa county. Montana—Rimini, Lewis and Clark county. Postmasters commissioned—Henry C. Hansbrough, Devil's Lake, Dak.; William H. Kephart, Miller, Dak.; J. D. Hunter, Webster City, Iowa; Mary Demling, Virginia City, Mont. John M. Hibbard, Houghton, Wis; Archie Douglas, Hickory, Iowa; C. S. Douglas, Fontana, Wis.; J. C. Englebert, Conroy, Iowa; B. Wilson, Rimini, Mont.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox, not long ago Meriden's poetess-bride, thus expresses herself under the shadow of a coming event, desired by the sex feminine: "I want her to be fine-looking, healthy, tender, brainy and capable of attracting men without loving them. Women should be in love with the world and be able to meet its responsibilities, to find a charm in the society of many instead of in the companionship of any one man."

In the criminal court at Milwaukee, Dailere Desarmiers, the alleged Catholic Missionary from Canada, who was convicted during the present term of criminally assaulting a little girl, was up for sentence. Desarmiers asked the privilege of making a statement, which the court granted. After mumbling over a few inaudible remarks, however, he broke down, and was thereupon sentenced to two years of hard labor at the house of correction.

Secretary Teller has caused a thorough examination of the complicated question of titles to the lands upon which the Irish immigrant colonies are situated in Minnesota. The matter was brought to his attention by Bishop Ireland and has been looked after carefully by Maj. Strait. The land office finds that the titles to those lands are inextricably confused, and nothing can be done by the interior department to settle them. Legislation will be necessary by congress.

A shocking crime occurred at Frankford-on-the-Main recently. A police commissioner named Rumpff, who has been active in the prosecution of socialists, was found dead in front of his own house, stabbed in two places. The assassin is unknown. A reward of $750 is offered for the discovery of the murderer. The dagger with which the deed was committed twice penetrated the heart. As there was no robbery, it is presumed that vengeance was the motive of the crime.

At a dance at Sand Creek, Black Hills, Jack Curry, Alex Black and Troy Mitchell began to have fun by shooting out the lights, when Jim Davis got his Winchester and winged two of them. Curry got away, but next morning went to Davis, armed with a Winchester, to kill Jim. Both men drew down and fired, but missed. Curry's gun would not discharge the shell, and he turned and ran, Davis firing after him till a ball crashed through his right sholder. Mitchell's wound will prove fatal.

In the reichstag, during the discussion of a bill for a law for the protection of workingmen, Bismarck declared it was impossible to establish a normal working day, and askes how workingmen could be indemnified for hours of labor thus lost. He said employers would be unable to indemnify their men without conducting their business at a loss. A normal working day would, he said, involve a reduction of wages, and even if feasible, it would be necessary to erect a Chinese wall around Germany to prevent the importation of foreign productions.

The river and harbor committee had an all-day session, with decidedly unforeseen and gratifying results for the Northwest. The committee appropriated $35,000 of the $50,000 asked to complete the Winnebagoshish dams, $200,000 for the improvement of the Mississippi, from St. Paul down to the Des Moines rapids, and $300,000 for the Hennepin canal. For the latter object $500,000 was asked, and the committee, after neglecting the item for a year, was expected, from current expressions of opinions to refuse its admission into the bill.

At West Side, Iowa, the sheriff demanded of the assignee of the Exchange bank and assistant cashier that they open the vault door in the bank, that he might obtain some papers he had attached, and, on their refusal, the sheriff, assisted by a blacksmith, dug a hole through the side of the vault, got in and secured the assets of the bank, which consisted of a few basketfuls of paper and worthless notes to the amount of about $8,000, and a lot of notes left there for collection. The prospects are that the creditors of the bank will get about 10 cents on the dollar.

The house committee on military affairs has authorized Gen. Slocum to move to take from the speaker's table the bill passed last year by the senate providing for the retirement of Gen. Grant. This is the bill which is almost identical in terms with that passed for the retirement of Fitz John Porter, which the president vetoed. Gen. Rosecrans is opposed to the bill, and will speak against it should it be taken up. The sentiment of the house, however, has changed greatly since the latest developments in Grant's misfortunes, and there seems now to be some chance of the bill getting through the house as it passed the senate.

It is understood that the senate judiciary committee have practically agreed upon a bill to refund the bonds issued by the government to aid in the construction of the Union and Central Pacific railroads and telegraph lines. The bill being considered by the committee is a measure drawn by Senator Edmunds, which provides for refunding the bonds now outstanding, principal and interest, redeemable sixty years from the date of the issue and interest at the rate of 3 per cent per annum. The bill further provides that the aggregate of the indebtness thus refunded shall be divided into 120 parts, and that one of these parts shall be paid every six months, the payments thus made to form a sinking fund for the ultimate payment and cancellation of the debt.

THE MINNESOTA LEGISLATURE.

Both houses of the legislature met Monday evening—having adjourned from Thursday preceding—but there was no quorum in either house, and consequently no business was transacted.

SENATE.—It was agreed that all bills relating to transportation or grain inspection should be printed as soon as possible. Bills were introduced: By Senator Pillsbury, for additional aldermen in Minneapolis; by Senator Sergeant, appointing a board of railroad commissioners and dividing roads into three classes according to gross earnings per mile; by Senator Waite, for an additional judge in the Seventh judicial district; Senator Crosby's bill on chattel mortgages provides for filing the same with the register of deeds instead of with the town clerk as heretofore. His bill for the redemption of real property is to provide for the protection of holders of mortgages against any who may secure a judgment, pending foreclosure, upon the deposit of a suitable sum of money.

Senator Sergeant's bill prohibits the loan as well as the exposure to view or sale of obscene literature, and specifies the Police Gazette, Police News and Weeks Doings as such literature. The penalty is imprisonment in the county jail for not more than three months or a fine of not more than $100.

By Senator Comstock, memorial to congress for an adequate appropriation for the improvement of the Red River of the North; by Senator Crosby, appropriating $28,000 for expenses of state exhibit at New Orleans. A large petition was received praying the passage of Senator Morrison's bill, providing a fund for sick and disabled firemen.

The Crosby bill for the maintenance of the state's exhibit at New Orleans, to reimburse those who have advanced money and to pay for the return of the exhibits to the state, appropriates $28,000 in all.

Following is an abstract of the railroad bill introduced by Senator Sergeant, and taken, as he says, "some from Illinois, some from New York, some from Massachusetts, and some original:"

Section 1. The governor, with the advice and consent of the senate, shall, before March 6, 1885, appoint two competent persons—one, if practicable, to be a civil engineer—to hold office for two and four years, respectively, from April 1, 1885. These persons, with the railroad commissioner, shall constitute a board of railroad commissioners. The governor shall fill vacancies. No one owning railroad stocks or bonds or in the employment of any railroad company shall be eligible.

Sec. 2. These commissioners shall have general supervision of all railroads in the state, investigate complaints, examine roads, report on bridges semi-annually, shall inform railroad companies of needed improvements, and report upon the same yearly. The railroad companies are not relieved of reponsibility or liability.

Sec. 3. The commissioners shall make annual reports to the governor on or before July 31, each year, containing all information procurable and of interest. [Instructions as to the report are such as now obtain.]

Sec. 4. Provides that railway officers shall give the commissioners, in such form as the latter may prescribe, all information required, under penalty of $100.

Sec. 5. Commissioners shall have their offices in the capitol, and receive a salary of $3,000 each.

Sec. 6. Provides for oaths of office by commissioners and secretary.

Sec. 7. Commissioners shall have power to examine books, papers and documents, any one interfering to be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Sec. 8. Makes it the duty of any railroad, when within its power or on reasonable notice, to furnish suitable cars to any person applying for transportation for freight, and to receive and transport such freight with all reasonable dispatch, and provide suitable facilities for receiving and handling the same; also to receive and transfer the empty or loaded cars of any connecting road, not to demand any greater compensation than that asked by such connecting road.

Sec. 9. Provides against discrimination in charges, and makes all commissions, rebates and specials open to all the same rate per ton per mile, unless by reason of extra cost of transportation to do so would be inequitable; and shall charge no more for freightage from any point on its line than a fair and just proportion of the price it charges for the same kind of freight from any other point.

Sec. 10. Provides that no railroad company shall charge an unreasonable price for the transportation of persons or property, or for the handling or storing of freight, or for use of cars. To determine the just and equitable charges, all railroad companies, prior to May 1st, and thereafter as the board of railroad commissioners shall demand, must make a thorough classification of freight and schedule of freight charges, the same to be approved by the board within thirty days; or, if not so approved, the railroad company to be notified, and within ten days a new classification and schedule to be made by the commissioners themselves, the latter to be adopted by the railroad company in ten days. Such schedule must be kept at all stations on the line of the road adopting it, and be open to view of all shippers or others interested.

Sec. 11. Prohibits railroad companies from pooling their freight business.

Sec. 12. Provides that railroad companies shall make rates to the state line or the nearest point thereto at which they connect with other lines; also, prohibits the grading of wheat and other grain in transit unless the shipper so desires and notifies the railroad company. The freight on any shipment, when shipped through to its destination, shall be fixed as low as it would be if ground in transit; provided, no railroad company shall deny the right to build suitable elevators or warehouses for receiving and storing grain. The railroad company shall not charge more to one person than another for purchase or lease of ground upon which to erect such elevators or warehouses. The elevators, etc., must be acceptable to the board of railroad commissioners.

Sec. 13. All railroads shall be classified according to the gross amount of annual earnings within the state, per mile, for the preceding year, as follows: Class A, includes all roads with gross earnings of $4,000 or more per mile; Class B, $3,000 to $4,000; Class C, less than $3,000.

Sec. 14. The limit of compensation for passenger traffic (baggage fixed at 100 pounds for each person), according to class, shall be: Class A, 3 cents per mile; Class B, 3½ cents; Class C, 4 cents; children under twelve years, half-price, and 10 cents additional when tickets are not purchased and could have been.

Sec. 15. Railroad companies must make sworn reports of gross receipts to the board of commissioners during the month of June each year; penalty, $100 per day each day after expiration of time for such report. The board shall notify roads of any changes of classification. The report made last year (1884) to Railroad Commissioner Baker shall determine the first passenger rate classification.

Sec. 16. Forbids the exposure or offer for sale on trains of obscene literature; penalty not less than $50 nor more than $100.

Sec. 17. Provides for the removal, reappointment, etc., of commissioners.

Sec. 18. Fixes the penalty of violation by the railroad company at three times the amount of actual damage sustained, or overcharges paid, by the party aggrieved, together with costs of suit and reasonable attorney's fees. If unreasonable charge is made, the board of commissioners shall fix a reasonable one, and in their next report shall publish an account of the overcharge or extortion.

Sec. 19. Requires railroad companies to give immediate notice to the commissioners of any accident on respective lines which causes personal injury or loss of life, the commissioners to investigate such accident and report in full to the governor, especially as to cause of accident and responsibility therefor, this investigation not to serve as evidence or to be referred to in any case in court.

Sec. 20. In case of failure to comply with law on the part of any railroad company, twenty-five citizens of any city, town or village may petition to the mayor or trustees, and they shall lay the complaint before the board of commissioners, who shall examine into the complaint and redress grievances.

Sec. 21. Gives the district courts of the state jurisdiction in all cases arising under this law, the attorney general to conduct the cases in behalf of the prosecution, he to engage reasonable assistance.

Sec. 22. Defines the meaning of the word "railroad" and the meaning of the phrase "railroad corporations," as occurring in the act.

Sec. 23. Nothing in the act shall be construed to stop persons or corporations from bringing suit against any railroad company for violating any of the existing laws governing such companies.

HOUSE.—A joint memorial, transmitted by the governor from the Mississippi river improvement commission to congress, was passed. A petition of citizens of Minneapolis for a constitutional amendment giving suffrage to women was presented, and a joint resolution for committee on joint action with Dakota on the grading of grain laid over one day. Mr. Lineau presented resolutions endorsing Reagen bill, which went over. Bills were introduced; Restoring the railroad law of 1884; permitting St. Paul Fire and Marine to insure against hail and cyclone; changing time of holding court in Seventh district; legalizing the incorporation of villages; authorizing St. Paul to bond herself in sum of $500,000 for a bridge between Randolph and Sherman streets, and another increasing the limit of the cost of the Robert street bridge from $200,000 to $400,000; amending law relating to the duties of sheriffs; recommending the election of members to a convention to revise the constitution of the state.

The bill introduced by Mr. Burlingame, proposing legislation for the government of railroads, simply proposes to restore the law which was on the statute books following the granger legislation of 1874, when a board of three commissioners, at a salary of $3,000 each, was provided for, to whom all matters affecting the railroads shall be referred. The only change in the law proposed is a stipulation that of the three commissioners one shall be taken from the northern part of the state, one from the central and one from the southern.

Mr. Sadley's bill fixing the time for holding court in the Seventh judicial district, provides for the holding of courts in the district as follows: Benton county, second Monday in January; Douglas county first Monday in May and October; Grant, second Monday in September; Mille Lacs, fourth Monday in January; Morrison, fourth Monday in March and the third Monday in September; Otter Tail, the first Monday in May and second Monday of November; Pope, third Monday in October; Sherburne, first Monday in February; Stearns, Second Monday in June and Second Monday in December; Todd, third Monday in February. The bill may be accepted as no more than a proposition calculated to pave the way for a new judge.

SENATE.—Bills were introduced making the legal rate of interest 7 per cent; fixing the rate of passenger fare at three cents per mile; amending the laws relating to incorporation of towns and villages, so as to give the powers of the district court to county commissioners; providing for challenges in jury trials; enlarging the powers of cemetery associations; repealing the permanent appropriations for the state's prison made in 1883, and fixing the salary of county attorney at $2,000 instead of $1,500 as provided in title 3, chap. 7, General Statutes of 1878; Senator Fletcher's resolution, calling for a report from the state auditor as to the status of swamp lands granted state institutions in 1865, was adopted. Adjourned until 10 a. m. to-day.

MILEAGE REPORT.

Senator Truax, from the committee on mileage, presented the following report:

Ackerman	100	Morrison	230
Billson	310	O'Brien	340
Blake	380	Peck	70
Buckman	232	Peterson	220
Castle	40	Pillsbury	20
Christiansen	206	Rice	208
Clarke	268	Sackett	150
Clement	110	Sergeant	236
Compton	372	Severance	196
Comstock	460	Shalleen	80
Craig	204	Steenerson	600
Crosby	430	Truax	40
Fletcher	172	Van Hoesen	284
Gilfilian, J. B.	20	Vollmar	126
Goodrich	272	Waite	150
Greenleaf	156	Ward	280
Hall	80	Welch	116
Hickman	136	Wells	320
Houlton	80	Wheat	400
Johnson	120	Wilkins	206
Knudson	244	Wilson	208
Langdon	20	President Gillman	150
Lawrence	144

Senator Vollmar's bill for the incorporation of towns and villages so amends the laws as to give the powers vested in the district courts to county commissioners. This change, it is believed, would be constitutional, as it delegates powers to a municipal body, but it is not likely the Vollmar bill will pass—certainly not without decided amendment. The question is regarded as one of the most delicate to come before the judiciary committee.

Senator Christiansen's bill to regulate the fare of passengers on railroads is very short and pointed. Under penalty of from $100 to $500, to be paid to the party aggrieved, it prohibits any railroad company doing business in the states from charging more than three cents per mile or fraction of a mile, over any of its lines in the state.

Senator Sergeant's bill amending the cemetery laws allows absent owners of lots to vote by proxy, and clothes the trustees of the cemetery with authority to compel floral or other improvements, recalcitrant owners to be liable to have their lots sold to pay for the improvements made.

Senator O'Brien, by his bill, fixes the number of challenges in jury trials which involve capital punishment at seven each for defendant and state, and in other trials at three each.

HOUSE—The standing committees were announced; bills were introduced declaring the municipal court of Stillwater legally created; appropriating $1,000 a year for five years, for the support of the Mississippi river commission; amending the law relating to assignments; increasing the saloon license in country towns and villages to from $100 to $500; appropriating $28,000 for the state exhibit at New Orleans; for the establishment of township high schools; giving railroad employes the right of action against railroads for damages; providing for the numbering of irregular pieces of land; to regulate the handling of grain; amending laws relating to appeals from the probate to the district court; to organize religious corporations; relating to the taking of depositions in the state; authorizing the county commissioners and town supervisors to offer premiums for the killing of blackbirds; detaching Aitkin county from Crow Wing for judicial purposes; increasing the exemption from taxation to $300; prescribing that no foreign corporation shall transfer actions from the state to the federal courts; prohibiting the killing of prairie chickens before Sept. 1

THE STANDING COMMITTEES.

The chair announced his standing committees as follows:

Finance—Drake, Snider, Knox, Warner, Lee, Smith, J., Durant.

Judiciary—Collester, Cornish, Griffin, Burlingame, Thompson, McKusick, Potter, Valentine, Gorman, Hendrickson.

Railroads—Stordock, Burlingame, Snider, Peterson, J. W., Thacker, Carson, Sadley, Bjorge, Drake, Brown, Reese, Knox, Durant, Warner, Martin.

Public Accounts and Expenditure—Hush, Wall, Bean, Daniels, Thacker, Fiddes, Smith, R. A.

Public Lands—Snider, Holmstrom, Wigley, Bradford, McLaren, McMillan, Erickson, Hample, Iltis, Canning, Maguire, Maland, Delke, Martin, Byrne.

Federal Relations—Peterson, J. W., Byorum, Haroldson, Case, Holmstrom, Murphy, Caniff.

Education—Burlingame, Carson, Dyer, Morse, Bradford, Lienau, Downs, D.

Towns and Counties—Fiddes, Caine, Howes, Snow, Plaisance, Lightley, Felzer.

Military Affairs—Gorman, Muzzy, Maland, McKinney, Peterson, P., Baumgarten, Felzer.

Incorporations—Thompson, Plaisance, Mason, Naeseth, Olson, Sheehan, Casper.

Agriculture and Manufactures—Snow, Mason, Saettree, Coulter, Holland, Skinner.

State Prison—Wall, Pratt, Byorum, Smith, J., Leland, Reinhard, Skinner.

Claims—Turrell, Blackman, Coulter, Hampel, Spaulding, Tinnes, Simpson.

Insurance—Griffin, Warner, Myers, Webster, Wendel, Schaffer, Johnson, Durant.

Immigration—Erickson, Tinnes, Delke, Byorum, Hampel, Caniff, Casper.

State Normal Schools—Spaulding, Downs, H., Dyer, Meyers, Stephen, Terrell, Simpson.

Hospital for Insane—Daniels, Webster, Evans, Howes, Bruce, Byrne, Sheehan.

Deaf, Dumb and Blind—Howes, Pratt, Sweetser, Batchelder, Downs, D.

State Reform School—Murphy, Lightley, McLaren, Martin, Baumgarten.

Roads, Bridges and Navigable Streams—Knox, Lewis, McKinney, Wear, Johnson.

Banks—Lee, Blackman, Leland, Turrell, Smith, R. A.

Printing—Bean, Michner, Myers, Lienau, Reinhard.

Elections—Morse, Edmond, Murphy, Holmstrom, Becker.

Commerce—Smith, J., McLaren, Drake, Case, Holland.

Public Buildings—Porter, Downs, H., Bjorge, Brown, Teubert.

Rules and Joint Rules—Carson, Dyer, Bean Ende, Lineau.

State Library—Pratt, Stordock, Evans, Hendrickson, Becker.

Mines and Minerals—Sadley, Wigley, McKinney, Simpson, Becker.

Engrossment—Batchelder, Case, Morse, Nachbar, Pattoe.

Grain Inspection—Reese, Canning, Oleson, Edmond, Maguire, Haroldson, Muzzy, Caine, Wear, Hush, Peterson, P., Teubert, Smith, R. A., Flynn and Nachbar.

Temperance—Leland, Collester, Peterson, J. W., Iltis, Ende, Smith, R. A., Skinner.

JOINT STANDING COMMITTEES.

Taxes and Tax Laws—Cornish, Porter, McKusick, Stephen, Valentine.

University—Evans, Warner, Wendelshaffer, Henkrickson, Flynn.

Forestry—Blackman, Bruce, Coulter, Erickson, Lewis, Caniff, Saetre.

Mr. Leland's bill providing for the paying of a premium for the killing of blackbirds leaves the amount and method of paying the same to the county commissioners and supervisors, with whom the payment is made optional.

The bill introduced by Mr. Bjorge in the house to amend the game law proposes to change the earliest date at which prairie chickens may be shot from Aug. 15 to Sept. 1, and extend the time to Nov. 1.

It is a very dull day now in the legislature when one or more bills proposing to correct the evils believed to exist in the conduct of the grain business are not presented. One of these numerous bills was presented in the house yesterday by Mr. Bradford, and an endorsement of the same by the officers of the state grange indicates that the bill is the one which has been considered in that organization and which will be favored by it. The bill is very voluminous and differs but little in essential particulars from others.

A number of bills of peculiar interest to the legal fraternity were presented in the house yesterday. One of these was introduced by Mr. Griffin, and provides for the assignee and bondsmen being relieved from liability in case an assignment is set aside. Mr. Collester introduced a bill for a general law empowering religious corporations to hold property of all kinds, amending the practice in the matter of appeals from the probate to the district court, and still another, providing for the taking of depositions in the state. Mr. Collester says that the taking of depositions outside of the state is an easy matter, but inside the state it is a matter of some difficulty. The law proposes to remedy this difficulty.

SENATE.—A long discussion as to the hiring of additional help resulted in a decision not to employ any more. Bills were introduced—To amend the game law; relative to the drawing of juries; concerning the transportation, loading and shipping of grain; forbidding removal of suits to federal courts by foreign insurance companies; authorizing Rock county to issue $30,000 bonds for a court house; to establish the Thirteenth judicial district; to prevent conspiracy for affecting the price of grain. House bills passed—Allowing Wilkin county to issue $30,000 in bonds; allowing Fillmore county to issue $80,000 in bonds for improvement of court house. Senate bills passed—Joint resolution relative to appropriations for the Red River of the North.

The title of senator Greenleaf's bill is a comprehensive one, and reads: "An act regulating and receiving, transportation and delivery of grain by railroad corporations, and defining the duties of such corporations in relation thereto." The bill, abstracted, is as follows:

Section 1. A railroad company, when desired by any person wishing to ship any grain over its road, shall receive and transport such grain in bulk within a reasonable time and load the same either on its track at its depot or at any warehouse adjoining its track or side track, without distinction, discrimination or favor between one shipper and another, and without distinction or discrimination as to the manner in which such grain is offered for its transportation or as to person, warehouse, elevator or place to where or to which it may be consigned. Every railroad company shall permit connection to be made and maintained in a reasonable manner with its track to and from any warehouse or elevator, without reference to its size or capacity, where grain is or may be stored.

Sec. 2. Neglect or refusal to comply with the requirements of this act shall be reported to the railroad commissioner, who shall investigate; if the commissioner is unable to adjust the matter, he shall report the facts of the case to the legislature.

Sec. 3. Railroad companies are liable to the parties injured for all damages which may accrue under neglect or refusal to comply with the provisions of the act, whether such damages result in the depreciation of the value of property or in loss to the proprietor of any elevator or warehouse to which such grain is ordered to be delivered. For a second offense the railroad company is made liable to a fine of $5,000, to go to common schools of the state. The usual provisions are made for the recovery in civil courts, payment of costs and attorney's fees.

GRAIN CONSPIRACIES.

Senator Doran's bill to prevent combinations and conspiracies, entered into with a view to controlling or diminishing the market price of grain, is short and reads as follows:

Section 1. That every person who shall contrive, confederate or conspire with any other person or persons with view in whole or in part, by any arrangement, agreement, plan, device or contrivance to control, limit or diminish the market price of wheat, corn or other grain, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof before any court of competent jurisdiction, shall be fined not less than $1,000, nor more than $10,000.

Sec. 2. That the provisions of this act shall extend and apply to every person and corporation, as well as to every officer, agent and servant thereof.

HOUSE—Petitions were presented for the extension of the right of suffrage to women and for the enactment of a law regulating the railroads. A joint resolution was passed for the appointment of a joint committee to act with like committee from the Dakota legislature for the regulation of the grain trade; also, a joint resolution concerning the death of Schuyler Colfax. The house declined to order the printing of the message in a number of languages. A special committee was ordered appointed on the census. The judiciary committee was directed to draw up a general law for the incorporation of towns and villages. Bills were introduced—To establish a board of railroad commissioners; amending the grant of lands to the Cannon River Improvement company; relating to matters of practice in justice courts; proposing to amend the constitution, removing the sixty-days limit to the legislative session; providing for the assessment of incumbered property; proposing constitutional amendment giving the right of suffrage to women; extending the term of the municipal judge in Stillwater. Adjourned until 10 a. m.

Mr. Warner presented yesterday's bill in the house for the regulation of the railroads which contains features of the laws of Massachusetts and Illinois. Its principal provisions can be briefly epitomized. It provides for a board of three railroad commissioners, who shall be elected by a vote of the people, and who shall not be interested in any way, directly or indirectly, in the ownership of a railroad or shall not have been in the employ of a railroad. Provision is made for one of the three commissioners remaining in office, so that the commission shall not be made up entirely of new members. The commissioners are given general supervision of the rates, but no arbitrary rates are fixed in the bill. If the commissioners find that wrong or injustice has been or is being done, they can recommend to the attorney general methods of procedure. The commissioners are given power to investigate all accidents. The bill provides for free transportation and elevator rights, and amends all the present laws so as to transfer the powers now bestowed on the railroad commissioner to the commissioners. The bill makes transit rates elective with the shipper, prohibits the use of intoxicating liquors by railroad employes, and amends the law so as to put dining cars on the same footing as sleeping cars for purposes of taxation.

Mr. Drake offered the following joint resolution, which was adopted without opposition:

Whereas, It is for the best interests of the people of the Territory of Dakota and State of Minnesota that laws should be enacted by each establishing uniformity of grades in grain and rules for the inspection thereof, and for regulating warehouses and transportation alike in both state and territory, therefore

Resolved, by the senate and house of representatives of the State of Minnesota, That any committee or commissions on railroads, grain inspection and warehouses of the legislature of the Territory of Dakota, now in session, be invited to confer with the similar committees of the legislature of Minnesota, with the purpose of uniform legislation as far as practicable.

Resolved, That nothing herein shall be construed to encourage or to justify delay in legislative action by either of the legislatures.

Resolved, That the governor be requested to send a copy of the foregoing preamble and resolutions to the governor of Dakota, requesting that the same be communicated to the territorial legislature.

SENATE.—The house joint resolution in respect to the memory of Schuyler Colfax passed; also the senate bill authorizing Swift county to take care of its own poor. Bills were introduced by Senators Clarke, Van Hoesen, and Doran, regulating the receiving and shipping of wheat, and in the Van Hoesen bill providing for a board of warehouse commissioners, a chief and deputy inspectors; by Senator Knudson, changing the date of school meetings from December to August; by Senator Craig, amending the roads highways and bridges law; by Senator Hall, changing the time of holding court in Goodhue county; by Senator Sackett, to prevent the abandonment of insane persons en route to an asylum.

Senator Van Hoesen's bill to establish a board of railroad commissioners and to regulate the inspection and handling of grain, according to his own statement, embraces the main features of the plan proposed editorially by the Pioneer Press some weeks ago. It is a lengthy document; includes thirty-nine sections, and both houses are deluged with grain, elevator and railroad bills, which immediately go to the committees on those subjects. When they have been digested the reports of the respective committees will possess vastly more interest than the bills, many of which are for home consumption.

HOUSE—The bill appropriating $28,000 for the Minnesota exhibit at New Orleans was passed. Bills were introduced—fixing the rate of interest on land sales from 6 to 5 per cent; proposing an additional article to the constitution, declaring all grain warehouses public warehouses; extending the time normal school graduates must teach in Minnesota to four years and prescribing a penalty for failure to comply with the requirements; in reference to summons in justice's courts; amending the game law; regulating the charges for the transportation of freight and passengers by railroads; providing for the taxation of railroads, sleeping car lines, telephone lines, etc.; providing for the appointment of an assistant attorney for Hennepin county; changing the law regarding the appointment of notaries; regulating the inspection of grain. The principal committees were given clerks.

Capt. Joseph E. Osborne has been appointed clerk of the house committee on finance, and E. F. Lane clerk of the senate judiciary committee.

Mr. Turrell does not get discouraged. He introduced the bill proposing to reduce the rate of interest on the sales of state lands from 6 to 5 per cent, which was before the legislature two years ago. It proposes to cover sales already made or which may be made.

DEATH OF SCHUYLER COLFAX

Expressions of Regret from the President and Congress—Reminiscences of Old-Time Friends.

MANKATO, Minn., Special Jan. 13.—This morning, when the 10 a. m. train on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road arrived, an elderly gentleman of noble-looking physique stepped from the coach, and, with satchel in hand, walked to the Omaha depot, as it is supposed for the purpose of taking the 11 a. m. train on that road west. He walked up to a gentleman outside of the depot and inquired for the gentlemen's waiting room, and was directed thereto. After stepping inside he walked up to a map on the wall, and after perusing it awhile walked across the room to a window and looked out for a short time. He sat down with his overcoat on his lap. There were at the time three persons in the depot. These parties observed the stranger growing pale, and they hastened to him with water, supposing him to be in a faint. He settled back in the seat and gave one gasp for breath, which was the last evidence of life he manifested. The fact was telephoned to the business part of the city that a stranger had dropped dead at the depot, and in a few minutes it was reported that the deceased was supposed to be Hon. Schuyler Colfax, ex-vice president of the United States, as letters and other papers were found on his person bearing his address at South Bend, Ind. Parties who have seen Mr. Colfax in life were hastily summoned to substantiate the fact, which was only too true. The members of the Odd Fellows' lodge took charge of the body of their illustrious brother, and through the kind thoughtfulness of Dr. G. G. Harrington and lady, the remains were taken to that gentleman's residence and cared for by the undertaker, and laid in a fitting casket. The spacious residence of the doctor was thronged with visitors until the hour of departure for the depot, all anxious to get a glance at the illustrious face. Steps were taken early in the afternoon for a proper disposal, and the telegrams were received from relatives at South Bend, Ind., to have the remains taken on at once. The lodge of I. O. O. F. at this city instructed the same brotherhood here to detail a committee from the lodge in this city to accompany the body to Chicago, and the services of L. P. Hunt, Esq., and L. Patterson were secured for that duty. Leading citizens assisted in their efforts to make this last tribute to the illustrious dead every way becoming the distinguished reputation of the deceased. A special meeting of the lodge of I. O. O. F. was called to make preparations for a proper conveyance of the remains to the depot.

NOTIFYING THE PRESIDENT.

As soon as the identity of the deceased was established, Mr. L. P. Hunt, postmaster at this city, sent the following dispatch to President Arthur:

To the President of the United States, Washington, D. C.: Ex-Vice President Schuyler Colfax dropped dead in the city of Mankato, Minn., at 10:35 this morning, when about to take a train. He arrived in the city on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul at 10 o'clock and walked to the Chicago, St. Paul & Omaha depot, a distance of three-fourths of a mile. The thermometer was at 30 deg. below zero. He entered a warm room and expired within three minutes thereafter. His remains now lie in state at Dr. Harrington's residence, under charge of Odd Fellows assisted by prominent citizens. Every attention will be paid to the remains until advices from the family are received.

[Signed]
L. P. HUNT, P. M.,
P. ZIMMERMAN,
CARL DICK,
And Citizens Generally.

The president made acknowledgment of the message as follows:

Executive Mansion, Washington, D. C., Jan. 13, 1885.—Mr. L. P. Hunt, Postmaster, and others, Mankato: The president has received with deep sorrow your dispatch announcing the sudden death to-day at Mankato of ex-Vice President Colfax.

[Signed] FRED J. PHILLIPS, Private Secretary.

This afternoon Coroner Paddock summoned a jury and held an inquest over the remains, the verdict being in substance that the deceased came to his death suddenly from some cause to the jury unknown. Several theories are advanced as to the cause of the death of Mr. Colfax. It is thought by some that the walk in the cold atmosphere, the thermometer being at 30 deg. below, after remaining so long in a heated car, produced the sad result, while others maintain that apoplexy was the cause. The old theory of heart disease, of course, was advanced. No one here knows where the deceased was en route for, and there were papers on his person indicating that he was in South Bend, Ind., Monday morning at 7 o'clock. The remains, as they lay in a beautiful casket, clothed in a suit of black, were the picture of quiet repose. There was not the least resemblance of a corpse about them.

THE NEWS AT SOUTH BEND.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan. 13.—The news of the death of Mr. Colfax created the greatest consternation in this city, where he passed his life from boyhood, and where he was so highly honored and respected. He left here yesterday morning at 7 o'clock. A note to the editor of the Tribune from him said he was compelled to leave that morning to fill engagements in Northern Iowa made months ago. He concluded his note as follows:

I feel regretful that I have to be away from the funeral of my life-long friend, Mr. Burroughs, for there has been the warmest friendship between us for over forty years.

It would seem that Mr. Colfax had a premonition of death. On Saturday, in the Tribune editorial room, he said: "I have appointed George W. Matthews my executor." When asked if he expected to pass away soon, he replied: "I am liable to drop dead at any moment." His remains will reach here Thursday morning at 2 o'clock. A delegation of citizens will go from here to Chicago to receive them. Mrs. Colfax is completely prostrated at the terrible news. Telegrams of condolence are pouring in upon her from every part of the country.

INDIANAPOLIS, Special Telegram, Jan. 13.—News of the death of Hon. Schuyler Colfax was received with sincere regret by political and personal friends here, and both bodies of the legislature adjourned until to-morrow out of respect to his memory, when the announcement was made to them. Mr. Colfax was here about two weeks ago on business, and purchased $30,000 worth of stock in the Indianapolis National bank. He also at the same time made a will disposing of his property to his wife and children. His estate, it is thought, will amount to $150,000, the greater part of which he has earned by lecturing since he left political life. For many years he had been one of the leading members and officers of the order of Odd Fellows, and an active participant in all the deliberations of the grand lodge. Ex-Gov. Porter, who for years was his warm personal friend, the state and federal officers, and a large number of private citizens are arranging to attend the funeral.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT IN WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Special Telegram, Jan. 13.—The announcement of the sudden death of Schuyler Colfax was received here late this evening, while preparations were being made by senators and members to attend the reception given to-night at the White House to the diplomatic corps. There are comparatively few now in congress who served in that body with Mr. Colfax; and these few, whatever may be their opinions as to the misfortune which overtook him in the Credit Mobilier investigation, speak of him as a man who possessed ability of a high order, and whose kindly nature drew to him in friendly intimacy even his political opponents.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—In the house of representatives, Mr. Browne of Indiana, arising, said:

I perform the sad duty of announcing to the house the death of Schuyler Colfax, at one time speaker of this house and late vice president of the United States. A telegram was received from the associated press this afternoon about 2 o'clock announcing this sad event. I offer the following resolution:

WHEREAS, Intelligence has just reached this house that Schuyler Colfax, for many years a member of this body and its speaker, and late vice president of the United States, died this day at Mankato, Minn., and

WHEREAS, Deceased was a distinguished citizen of the republic and a conspicuous figure in its history; and

WHEREAS, It is fit that this house, in which he so long served and over which he presided as speaker, should give expression to its sorrow for his loss, its regard for his memory, and its sympathy for his bereaved family; therefore be it

Resolved, That this house do now adjourn.

The resolution was unanimously adopted, and the house adjourned.

Hunters are already slaying the deer at a great rate in the vicinity of Kettle river. It is estimated that there are from 200 to 300 carcasses hung up in the woods near that place, awaiting shipment as the time arrives when the laws of the state will permit deer to be killed.

Bismarck is all torn up over a scheme to remove the capitol. It won't work, we fancy.

Wm. M. Evarts is the Senator elect from New York. The caucus vote stood: Evarts 61, Morton 28, DePew 4. Mr. Evarts is said to be Blaine's choice which shows that Mr. Blaine has not quite lost his grip. Mr. Evarts is one of the leading statesmen of the Empire State and the best man for the position named. When this practice becomes universal of putting the best foot forward then will the councils of the nation be governed by wisdom and prudence.

Relief Bills.

Time wanes: And as it passes it brings in its flight yet nearer the closing hours of the Legislature, the limit of hope for any relief to farmers for this year unless some measure of relief is passed before the close of the session. Of all the bills we have seen none strikes us as favorably as does the one known as the Bradford bill. While this bill does not seem to be absolutely perfect it is the best one we have seen and is certainly the safest one to trust, and we believe it should become a law. In the multiplicity of bills before the Legislature the great danger is that the time will all be frittered away and none will pass—nothing be done. We believe that our legislators are all fully impressed with the importance of this question, and they should consider the danger that exists in delay, should agree upon some measure and pass it. It would be impossible to entertain every measure suggested and impracticable to enforce some of them if they should become laws. The Bradford bill is endorsed by the State Grange and leading farmers and business men everywhere, so far as we have seen, and it should be passed with no serious objection. We hope and trust that it will.

Farming as an Art.

There is an old saw (and every farmer should have it on file) that says: "What is worth doing at all is worth well doing!" There's millions in it if judiciously acted upon, and the successful farmer always applies it whether he thinks so or not. Cultivate only as much land as you can do well. Sow only the best and purest of seeds and take care to keep it so. Farming as an art does not mean a specialty. It does not mean wheat-raising alone, but it embraces stock-raising as well. It is surprising what a vast improvement an intelligent farmer can make in his flocks and herds, his horses, his sheep, his pigs, his chickens and his cattle in a few years' time. If his plans are begun at once the average can score a grand success in his life-time. He can soon surround himself with the best flocks and herds in the country. If beef is his object his steers could soon be the best in the world. If his object is milk he could soon have the best dairy cows in the world. His reputation would soon be so firmly established that those wanting good stock would pay him double what common stock will bring. It is never too late to commence to learn to improve. If the farm is fully stocked improve the quality of the stock on hand. Make them pay two dollars where they now pay one. Do not be contented with simply doing as well as your neighbors do, but strive to lead. If your object be beef, breed the best. If milk, get the best you can and breed up. The same with hogs and other stock. Whatever you undertake make a plan and work up to it and don't forget that whatever is worth doing at all is worth well doing.

THE SENATE CHAMBER,
St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 20, 1885.

John McLean, Esq., Secretary Chamber of Commerce, Crookston, Minn.:

MY DEAR SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of resolutions of your body regarding the so-called Bradford bill regulating the grain business, and I have this day presented the same to the Senate and it was properly referred to committee on grain inspection. As I have not had the opportunity to examine the bill referred to I cannot commit myself to its support in advance of thorough examination, but you will please convey to the Chamber of Commerce my thanks for their interest and assistance in matters of this nature and assure that body that its opinion will have great weight with me in the matter. Yours,

H. STEENERSON.

The above letter was received in reply to the Chamber of Commerce resolutions on the Bradford bill.

Woodside Items.

WOODSIDE, Jan. 19, 1885.

We, of Woodside, still live and move and have a biscuit, and the monotony of our rural life was broken by a visit, on the 8th inst., from Dr. A. A. Just and Mr. Churchill and lady. Mr. and Mrs. Churchill will be our neighbors for the next six months. The road is kept well traveled by the tote teams which are supplying Walker's lumber camp. Uncle Daniel Cameron has now started his saw mill in earnest for the winter. Mr. G. Goodrich is now in Crookston on business. Burt Wells is holding down his claim for a few days. We had a visit from Mr. Allen, of Fergus Falls. Our Norwegian store, Movaid & Son, proprietors, has been moved to Fosston. Mr. Fred Redlon was in on his claim for a few days last month.

T. J. W.

[Our Woodside letter went estray somehow, reaching our office on the evening of Saturday, Jan. 17th. Hence this tardiness. ED. JOURNAL.]

Red Lake Falls Messenger: Buse & Co. have earned the thanks of the farmers of this vicinity, while making a business venture that must prove highly profitable to them. It is well understood that all our farmers have too much neglected the most profitable branch of farming—stock raising, and the little stock there is, is mostly of an inferior breed. While it costs as much, or more, to raise to maturity a common cow, sheep or hog, as one of choice breeding, the value when ready for market and the profit at any time bears no proportion to that of good stock. Realizing this, Buse & Co. have purchased and now have at their mill stables, (where they will be glad to show them) a thoroughbred Berkshire boar and 21 high grade Berkshire and Poland China sows. They offer farmers the use of their boar at moderate rates and in the spring will sell a limited number of high grade pigs. The reputation that the Berkshires have for quick and early maturing and fine quality of meat, should ensure a liberal call from those farmers who are shrewd to see where money is to be made.

The Breeder's Gazette of Chicago is by almost universal consent voted the leading live-stock paper of America. It is a large, handsomely-printed and beautifully-illustrated weekly paper, of from 36 to 44 pages, full of information of great value to every farmer who makes stock-raising a leading feature of his business. Hon. Fitch B. Stacy, who for ten years past has been secretary of the Iowa Improved Stock-Breeders Association, says of it: "In its general appearance, makeup, literary ability, absolute fairness to all classes, freedom from personalities, and as an educator of the people, it is unsurpassed in the world. I feel proud of it as an American production." And Hon. John Landrigan, president Illinois State Board of Agriculture, says: "It is beyond question the very best live-stock publication in America." This is high praise, but we believe it is merited. It is published by J. H. Sanders & Co., Chicago, Ill., at $3.00 a year, or in clubs of ten at $2.00.

The American Agriculturist for February, 1885, is, in fulness of contents and beauty of illustrations, superior to any previous issue of this long recognized authority upon all subjects pertaining to the farm, garden and household. From beginning to end it is replete with valuable instruction for every one, containing one hundred engravings and one hundred and fifty original articles by able editors and contributors. Dr. George Thurber, the Editor-in-Chief for over twenty years, discusses upon a variety of Horticultural and other subjects. Joseph Harris, whose writings have given him a world-wide reputation, describes what he saw in his recent tour through the Far West, and continues his "Walks and Talks." Andrew S. Fuller, author of Small Fruit Culture and Practical Foresty, has an interesting paper on the Cultivation of Chestnuts. Col. M. C. Weld writes from the New Orleans Exposition. Byron D. Halsted, David W. Judd, "Tim Bunker," Doctor D. Slade, J. M. Stahl, F. D. Curtis, B. W. Jones, and numerous other writers discourse upon topics relating to their respective departments. The Household and Youths' departments are more than usually full, while the humbug exposures will be read with pleasure and profit. Unusual inducements are presented to all for securing this standard, sterling periodical. Yearly subscriptions $1.50; single numbers 15 cents. 751 Broadway, N. Y.

BAD FOR WHEAT.

Winter Wheat in a Very Discouraging Condition in Nearly all the States—Great Decrease in Acreage—Minnesota, Dakota and Iowa to Show a Large Falling off in Area Sown in the Spring.

From the Pioneer Press.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 18.—S. W. Tallmadge of this city has late and important information from many of the winter wheat growing States. The complaint seems general, that owing to the unreasonable fall and winter the condition of winter wheat is most unfavorable and the promise for even a fair outcome not very flattering. Michigan, Illinois, Kansas, Missouri and Kansas report a large decrease in acreage, and owing to the severity of the winter has been unusually cold and many of the principal wheat counties have been bare of snow up to within the past week, and the wheat is wholly frozen out, which will necessitate plowing up in the spring and the sowing or planting of other cereals. The damage in these States is variously estimated at from 10 to 25 per cent. Kansas, Missouri and Kentucky being the principal sufferers. The Southern States, especially the Southeast, complain of extended drought in the fall, which resulted in severe damage to the early sown wheat. Consequently, the area in these States is reduced to nearly one-half that of last year. Mr. Tallmadge has official advices from all the agricultural department of statistical agents of the principal winter wheat raising States, giving the area sown to wheat as compared with last year. The figures show a large decrease, ranging from 10 to 38 per cent. Many of the large producing States, including Kansas, Illinois, Missouri and Indiana, show a large decrease. Mr. Tallmadge has made an average in shortage in acreage as compared with last year, and it shows the shortage to be fully 20 per cent. The agricultural departments and statistical agent of the spring wheat States, say their agents report that there will probably be a large falling off in the area sown to wheat this coming spring. This applies more especially to Iowa, Minnesota and Dakota. Farmers in these sections say wheat raising has not been profitable for the past three years and they will give more attention to raising flax and other products, which they think will result more profitable to them.

RED RIVER MILLERS.

An Organization to be Perfected for the Protection of Their Interests.

St. Paul Globe.

MOORHEAD, Minn., Jan. 18. There was an informal meeting of a number of Red River Valley millers held yesterday at the Grand Pacific, who talked over the advisability of calling a convention at an early date, of the millers throughout the valley from Brainerd on the east and Jamestown on the west along the line of the Northern Pacific, and Fergus Falls and Alexandria on the south to Pembina on the north, along the line of the Manitoba road. The object of the convention will be to form an association of Red River Valley millers who will exert a united effort to protect their common interest, and especially to make a market in the east as well as nearer home for the Red River brand of flour to be kept distinct and unadulterated. Among other subjects that will be discussed will be insurance rates, freight transit and shipment. At to-day's meeting there were present Messrs. F. Viets, of Minto; W. O. Leistekow, Grafton; J. E. Dow, Grand Forks; J. W. Horning, Fergus Falls; and H. A. Burns, of this city. The convention will be held at the Grand Pacific, January 31st. This is an important step in the right direction. There is no good reason why with proper efforts the excellence of the Red River Valley flour cannot be made known to the customers and when once learned there can be not the slightest doubt that it will hold its own in competition with the flour of the world. The advantage of water power enjoyed by Minneapolis is offset by the mills in the Red River Valley being where the wheat is grown, and can be bought direct from the producer without having to pay elevator or warehouse charges, and flour can be shipped at the same rate per ton as wheat. Red River Valley men are awakening to the realization that they are not owned body and soul by Minneapolis millers, St. Paul jobbers and railroad corporations.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss. District Court, 11th
County of Polk. } Judicial District.

In the matter of the assignment of Ferdinand E. LePage and Joseph S. Papin copartners as LePage & Papin for benefit of creditors to Frank Jerome.

On reading the petition of the above named assignee and other records, papers and files in the above mentioned matter, ordered: That all persons interested in the assigned estate herein, show cause if any there be, before this court at special term, at the Court House, in the Village of Duluth, in the County of St. Louis, in the State of Minnesota, on the 26th day of February A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of that day, why the accounts of the aforesaid assignee shall not be allowed, why all his acts and proceedings in the above entitled matter shall not be ratified and confirmed, why said assignee shall not receive a reasonable compensation for his services in said matter, why the submitted claim of Eddy Harvey & Co. (assigned) shall not be paid from said estate, why the amount each creditor is entitled to receive out of said estate should not be ascertained and the petitioner directed to pay the same, and why after this has been done, the said assignee should not be fully, completely and forever discharged from the duties of his trust herein and from all liabilities thereunder, and why the bond of said assignee shall not be forever discharged and cancelled, and why such other and further or different order as the court shall deem just and proper shall not be granted.

Ordered that this order be published in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL a newspaper printed and published in the City of Crookston, in the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, once each week for three successive weeks and that at least twenty days before said return day a copy of this order be mailed to each and all of the creditors of said assignor and also to said assignors addressed to each at his or their place of residence.

Dated January 14th A. D. 1885.

O. P. STEARNS,
District Judge.

W. & J. WATTS,
Att'ys for Assignee, Crookston, Minn. [39-41]

MORTGAGE SALE,

[First Publication Jan. 22d, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of eighteen hundred and eighty seven 65-100 dollars ($1887.65-100,) which is claimed to be due, and is due, at the date of this notice, upon two certain promissory notes secured by a mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Polina Angeliso McIntyre and H. D. McIntyre, to Morris R. Brown, bearing date the eleventh day of November, A. D. 1882, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 27th day of November, A. D. 1882, at 11 o'clock a. m., in book "H" of mortgages on page 430, which mortgage was for a good and valuable consideration on the 22d day of February, A. D. 1883 duly assigned to Joseph Kelso, and said assignment duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for said County on the 27th day of February A. D. 1883, in book "K" of mortgages on pages 260 and 261, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: Lot number nineteen (19) block number sixteen (16) in the original Townsite of Crookston according to a plat of said Townsite, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars ($50) attorney's fee as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, which sale will be made by Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 12th day of March A. D. 1885, at 10:30 o'clock a. m., of said day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated January 22th, 1885.

JOSEPH KELSO, Assignee.
[39-45] Pro Se

AIME GABOURY,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Graduate Doctor in Medicine Laval University Canada. Licensed Coll. Phy. Surg., Quebec. Late of Michigan University, U. S.
Office over Barber's store, Second St.
CROOKSTON MINN

Wentzel & Rauch,
Sample Rooms.
MAIN STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.
For a fine mixed or straight drink call on the boys. The choicest liquors and cigars in stock. [9-17]

Commercial Hotel,
NORTON & BENEDICT, Prop's.
SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON MINN
First-class in all respects. Terms reasonable. A share of the public patronage solicited.

NO SURPRISE!
THE GOVERNMENT ENDORSES
The American Agriculturist.
FROM THE TENTH CENSUS, VOL. 8, JUST PUBLISHED:
"The American Agriculturist is especially worthy of mention, because of the remarkable success that has attended the unique and untiring efforts of its proprietors to increase and extend its circulation. Its contents are duplicated every month for a German edition, which also circulates widely."
This tribute is a pleasing incident in the marvellous nearly
HALF A CENTURY
career of this recognized leading Agricultural Journal of the world.
What it is To-Day.
Six months ago the American Agriculturist entered upon a NEW CAREER OF PROSPERITY, and to-day it is far superior to any similar periodical ever produced in this or any other country. Richer in editorial strength; richer engravings; printed on finer paper, and presenting in every issue 100 columns of original reading matter from the ablest writers, and nearly 100 illustrations. Dr. George Thurber, for nearly a quarter of a century the editor-in-chief of the American Agriculturist, Joseph Harris, Byron D. Halsted, Col. M. C. Weld and Andrew S. Fuller, the other long time editors, together with the other writers who have made the American Agriculturist what it is to-day, ARE STILL AT THEIR POSTS.
WHAT, FREE?
Every subscriber, whose subscription is IMMEDIATELY forwarded us with the price, $1.50 per year, and 15 cents extra for postage on Cyclopedia—making $1.65 in all—will receive the American Agriculturist for Dec. 1884, and all of 1885, and will be presented with the AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST FAMILY CYCLOPÆDIA, (just out.) 700 Pages and over 1,000 Engravings. Strongly bound in cloth, black and gold.
This entirely new volume is a remarkable storehouse and book of reference for every department of human knowledge, including an Agricultural supplement by Dr. Thurber.
Send three 2-cent stamps for mailing you specimen copy American Agriculturist, an elegant 40-page Premium List, with 200 illustrations, and specimen pages of our Family Cyclopædia. Canvassers wanted everywhere.
Address PUBLISHERS AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST.
DAVID W. JUDD, Pres't. SAM'L BURNHAM, Sec.
751 Broadway, New York. [35-96]

Christening and Wedding Cakes Made upon Shortest Notice in the Best Style.
A Choice and Well Selected Stock of Confectionery Always on hand,
John Crawford & Son,
Proprietors of
Crawford's
Bakery,
SECOND STREET,
Crookston, Minn
CONFECTIONERY
Fresh Bread, Buns, Cakes and Biscuits. All Articles in the Fancy Baking Line.

THE
St. Paul,
Minneapolis
—AND—
Manitoba
RAILWAY,
WITH ITS
1,400 Miles of Road
Is the only line extending through the
Park Region of Minnesota,
To all principal points in
Red River Valley,
Northern Minnesota,
Northern Dakota,
And to Devil's Lake and Turtle Mour. Districts.
—CONTAINING OVER—
9,000,000 Acres
GOVERNMENT LANDS!
The Land department of the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway has exclusive charge of the Company's Lands in Minnesota, and all correspondence relative to the purchase of lands, terms, description or price of any particular tract should be addressed to that department.
Maps and pamphlets describing the country and giving rates of fare to settlers, etc., mailed FREE on application
JAS. B. POWER,
Land and Immigration Commissioner.
C. H. WARREN,
General Passenger Agent,
St. P., M. & M. R'y., St. Paul, Minn.

MERCHANTS' HOTEL,
J. E. MITTON, Proprietor,
CORNER BROADWAY AND ROBERT STREET
CROOKSTON, MINN.
The new Merchants' Hotel, recently re-fitted and re-furnished is now ready to accommodate the traveling public, who are cordially invited to stop at the Merchants' when in the city.

M. M. VAN DYKE,
Physician and Surgeon,
Corner of Main and Second Streets,
CROOKSTON, MINN.
Will attend to all professional calls promptly.

Crookston City Bakery,
Peter Lorge, Prop,
Keeps constantly on hand a full line of all goods usually found in a
First-Class Bakery
Cigars and Tobacco, Nuts, Fruits,
Candies, Pies, Cakes, Bread,
And everything to fill out a hungry man, constantly on hand.

Monev to Give Away
IN BARGAINS,
AT MARKHAM'S,
THE LEADING GROCERY HOUSE
AND THE LARGEST BOOT AND SHOE STORE
IN CROOKSTON.
Goods Delivered to any Part of the City
FREE OF CHARGE.

E. D. CHILDS & CO.,
Proprietors of
CARMAN TOWNSITE,
AND
Dealers in Real Estate!

AMERICAN FARMER
FREE
To Journal Subscribers!
Who will pay up their subscription account to THE JOURNAL in full and one year in advance at our regular rates, we will present with one year's subscription to
The "American Farmer,"
A sixteen-page Agricultural Magazine, published by E. A. K. Hackett, at Fort Wayne, Indiana, and which is rapidly taking rank as one of the leading Agricultural publications of the country. It is devoted exclusively to the interests of the Farmer, Stock Breeder, Dairyman, Gardener, and their household, and every species of industry connected with that great portion of the people of the world, the Farmers. The subscription price is ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR. Farmers cannot well get along without it. It puts new ideas into their minds. It teaches them how to farm with profit to themselves. It makes the home happy, the young folks cheerful, the growler contented, the downcast happy, and the demagogue honest.

FARMERS, FARMERS,
WE ARE
Selling Lower Than Ever!
You will always find it to your advantage to
Trade with Us!
We Sell the Best for the LOWEST LIVING PRICES. Remember the place,
Broadway, bet. 2d and Robert Sts.
D. BUCHANAN.

DENTISTRY!
J. H. THOMAS, D. D. S.,
ROBERT STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.
Artificial Teeth from one to an entire set inserted. Gold, Silver or Artificial Filling used as desired. Regulating Children's Teeth a specialty. ALL WORK WARRANTED.

A. H. DUNLOP M. D.,
Graduate McGill University, Montreal,
LICENSED COLLEGE PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON QUEBEC.
Office on Robert Street, Crookston.

JOHN N. IVES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Collection and Land Office Business made a specialty. Money secured for final proofs on short notice.
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

W. L. Sargeant
Veterinary Surgeon,
CROOKSTON, MINN.
Diseases of horses and cattle a specialty.
10-tf

The Toledo Blade
(NASBY'S PAPER.)
Circulation 191,000,
The Largest Circulation of any weekly paper in the United States.
The Largest Paper published in the United States at One Dollar per year.
The Best Paper and the Cheapest Paper.
The Only Paper publishing the Nasby Letters.
The Blade alone $1.00 per year; with Waterbury Watch, $3.50; with steel Engraving of Pilgrim's Progress (a fine engraving) $2.00.
Special terms to club raisers made known on application. Any week's issue of the Blade announces our bargains in cheap books, pictures, etc.
We want everybody to send postal card to us for a specimen copy.
It will tell its own story. A column advertisement would not afford room to describe its various departments and our announcements for the coming year. Write for a specimen, and also send the address of all your friends.
THE BLADE,
TOLEDO, OHIO.
A PURELY
National Paper
Circulating in Every State.

EIKEN BROS.,
Corner of Fletcher and Main Street, Crookston, Minn.
Dealers in
HARDWARE, TIWARE,
STOVES,
—AND—
SHELFWARE.
WE KEEP A
FULL & COMPLETE
STOCK,
—AND—
Invite the Patronage
OF ALL.

First National Bank
OF CROOKSTON.
PAID IN CAPITAL, $100,000
SURPLUS, 1,400
Money to loan on long or short time on approved security
Interest on time deposits. Faithful attention to Collections and prompt remittance.
GEO. O. ERSKINE, President.
K. D. CHASE, Vice President.
CHAS. E. SAWYER, Cashier.

LEO & STEENERSON.
ATTORNEYS AT LAW
Room 3, U. S. Land Office Building,
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

P. A. DUFOUR,
Attorney and Counselor at Law,
—MAIN STREET,—
CROOKSTON, MINN.

SECOND STREET
MEAT MARKET
STANTON & CO., Proprietors.
Choice meats of every description. Fish and game in their season. Everything of the very best quality and lowest prices. Call and see us.
STANTON & CO.,
Dobson's Block, Second Street.

MERCHANTS'
BILLIARD HALL,
FRED ANDERSON, Proprietor.
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA
The choicest Wines, Liquors and Cigars constantly on hand.

DR. M. WATTS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
OFFICE ON ROBERT SRREET.
Professional calls by day or night attended to with promptness.

THE PIONEER
HARNESS SHOP,
M. RAUENBUEHLER, Proprietor,
CORNER OAK AND THIRD STS., CROOKSTON MINN
ready for the Spring trade with a full supply Work and Light Harness, Single and Double, Saddles, Bridles, Whips, Blankets, etc. Give me call before you purchase.

Furniture Store.
BROADWAY, CROOKSTON MINNESOTA.
P. BATAGLIA, Prop.
Keeps constantly on hand a well selected stock of Wardrobes, Bureaus, Sofas, Lounges, Bedsteads, Bed Springs, Tables, Chairs, Rocking Chairs, Stands, Ornaments, Picture Mouldings and Picture Frames. REPAIRING DONE TO ORDER. Coffins of all kinds kept constantly on hand.

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, January 22, 1885.

RAILROAD TIME TABLE.

GOING NORTH.

	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
No. 1 Passenger	10:45 p. m.	10:55 p. m.
" 9 Passenger	10:30 a. m.
" 19 Freight	12:30 a. m.
" 15 Freight	4:00 p. m.
" 23 Freight		10:20 a. m.

GOING SOUTH.

	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
No. 2 Passenger	4:00 a. m.	4:30 a. m.
" 10 Passenger		5:00 p. m.
" 20 Freight		7:00 a. m.
" 22 Freight		6:15 p. m.
" 21 Freight	5:00 p. m.

DEVIL'S LAKE LINE.

	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
No. 9 Passenger		10:20 a. m.
" 10 Passenger	5:30 p. m.	6:00 a. m.
" 45 Freight
" 46 Freight	7:00 p. m.

ST. HILAIRE BRANCH.

Trains leave Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 10:15 a. m., and arrive same days at 4:00 p. m.

☞ Passenger Trains No's 1 and 2, Main Line, run daily except Sunday. No's 3 and 4 run daily. Devil's Lake Passenger runs daily. Freights No's 23, 20 and 21 run daily. Freights No's 15 and 22, and Freights on Devil's Lake Line run daily except Sunday.

All who wish to avail themselves of the offer we made Dec. 1st, may do so if they will pay up arreages on subscription and one year in advance before Feb. 1st. This offer made till Jan. 1st, now extended to Feb 1st, is this: To all who will pay up arreages in full and one year in advance before Feb. 1st, 1885, we will allow the usual rebate given for subscriptions paid in advance, i. e, we will accept $1,65 per annum for papers sent outside of Polk County, or $1,50 inside of the County. Everybody should make an effort to avail themselves of this good opportunity to catch up.

Daily Telegram: Unless our information is incorrect Fergus Falls has a milling capacity greater than any place north or west of Minneapolis. With the completion of the Page mill it can turn out 1,500 barrels daily. There is every probability that another mill will be built next season larger than any of those now in operation. Slowly but surely Fergus is becoming the great milling center of the new northwest.

CARMAN GRANGE, NO. 54, OF THE PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY, TO THE MEMBERS OF THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES IN SESSION ASSEMBLED—GREETING:

At the last meeting of the above named Grange of the Patrons of Husbandry, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted, viz:

WHEREAS, We believe the bill introduced in the House by Hon. A. L. Bradford, entitled "A Bill to regulate the business of Public Warehouses and the Inspection and Handling of Grain," and endorsed by the Executive Committee of the State Grange, provides a much needed remedy for a large part of the existing evils which burden the agricultural interests of the State in general, and the Red River Valley in particular. And

WHEREAS, We believe the passage of this bill INTACT, without alteration of any of its essential provisions, will operate greatly to the benefit of every wheat producer in our State, without imposing upon any other business or interest any unjust burden or hardship by simply placing such producer on a basis of equality with the warehouse and milling interests which they do not now occupy. And

WHEREAS, We greatly fear strong opposition will be brought to bear against said bill by designing parties. either directly and openly, or by attempting to so modify it by amendments and riders as to render it futile and ineffective in its operation, if possed. And

WHEREAS, We are firmly convinced that such a result would be a disaster of serious magnitude which would perpetuate for an indefinite time gigantic evils which it is now in the power of the present Legislature to correct. Therefore it is herby

Resolved, That said bill receive our most hearty and unqualified endorsement in each and every one of its provisions, and that the Secretary and is hereby instructed to express to both Houses of the Legislature such endorsement by sending to each of said Houses a copy of these preambles and resolutions with the earnest request that said bill be passed without alteration or amendment. And be it further

Resolved, That to this end we earnestly solicit the co-operation of every friend of the wheat producing interest, in both of said Houses, and the influence of every friend of the farmer throughout the State.

Dated Carman, Minn., Jan. 10, 1885.

A. M. CHILDS, Secretary.

J. C. MILNE, Master.

Beautiful Dictionary and Paper for $1.

That excellent farm and home paper, the Farm Journal and Live Stock Review, filled with splendid family and household reading, stock notes, interesting stories, etc., one year, and a grand 600-page Dictionary, both for $1. Send to-day, addressing the Journal Publishing Company, Box 67, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. [37-39]

TO PARTIES DESIRING INSURANCE

We represent the following old and reliable Fire Insurance Companies:

	Assets.
Ætna	$9,182,644
American	1,804,519
Fire Association	4,279,676
Underwriters	3,699,794
Orient	1,411,894
Phœnix	5,919,403
Lancashire	6,787,983
Milwaukee Mech	1,129,375
Germania	2,700,729

Having represented nearly all of the above companies for 14 years we have acquainted ourselves with the business, and think that we can justly claim the patronage of the public, who can depend upon having insurance written correctly and losses adjusted promptly.

MOSER & MOECKEL.

For Sale Cheap,

A complete set of bar fixtures. Call on August Wentzel for particulars. [19-tf]

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Polk. } ss.

The State of Minnesota, to Ed. Gareau Defendant:

You are hereby summoned to be and appear before the undersigned, one of the Justices of the Peace in and for said County, on the eighteenth day of February 1885, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at my office in the Crookston in said County, to answer to John Moser & Ernest Moeckel co-partners as Moser & Moeckel in a civil action. Should you fail to appear at the time and place aforesaid, judgment will be rendered against you upon the evidence adduced by said Moser & Moeckel for such sum as they shall show themselves entitled to.

Given under my hand this 14th day of January 1884.

G. W. LEWIS.
Justice of the Peace.
[38-41]

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Polk. } ss. In Probate Court.
Special Term. January 9th 1885.

In the matter of the estate of Henry Witty deceased.

Whereas, an instrument in writing, purporting to be the last will and testament of Henry Witty deceased, late of said county, has been delivered to this Court.

And whereas, Christ Olson has filed therewith his petition, representing among other things that said Henry Witty died in said county on the sixth day of December 1884, testate, and that said petitioner is one of the executors named in said last will and testament, and praying that the said instrument may be admitted to probate, and that letters testamentary be to him and to Andrew Olson issued thereon,

It is ordered, that the proofs of said instrument, and the said petition, be heard before this Court, at the Probate office in said county, on the ninth day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, when all concerned may appear and contest the probate of said instrument.

And it is further ordered, that public notice of the time and place of said hearing be given to all persons interested, by publication of these orders for three weeks successively previous to said day of hearing, in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL a newspaper printed and published at the City of Crookston in said county.

By the Court.
ROBERT J. MONTAGUE,
Judge of Probate.
[38-40]

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Polk. } ss. In Probate Court.
Special Term, December 1884.

In the matter of the estate of Oride Laplante deceased.

Whereas, an instrument in writing, purporting to be the last will and testament of Oride Laplante deceased, late of said county, has been delivered to this Court.

And whereas Rosa Laplante has filed therewith her petition, representing among other things that said Oride Laplante died in said county on the fifteenth day of December 1884, testate, and that said petitioner is the sole executrix named in said last will and testament and praying that the said instrument may be admitted to probate, and that letters testamentary be to her issued thereon.

It is ordered, that the proofs of said instrument, and the said petition, be heard before this Court, at the Probate office in said county, on the ninth day of February A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock in afternoon, when all concerned may appear and contest the probate of said instrument.

And it is further ordered, that public notice of the time and place of said hearing be given to all persons interested, by publication of these orders for three weeks successively previous to said day of hearing, in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL a newspaper printed and published at the City of Crookston in said county.

By the Court.
ROBERT J. MONTAGUE,
Judge of Probate.
[38-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 13th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred eighty-one and 34-100 dollars, ($181.34-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Sophia Busch and Henry Busch, her husband, to Henry Hammond, bearing date the 13th day of December A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 20th day of December A. D. 1883, at 10:20 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 332, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lots numbered twenty-two (22,) twenty-three (23,) and twenty-four (24.) in block No. three (3) of Bottineau's addition to the Townsite of Red Lake Falls, County of Polk and State of Minnesota, according to the certified plat of said addition recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Polk County, Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMOND,
Mortgagee.
JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 12th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred seventy-five and 8-100 dollars, ($175.08-100,) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Moise Thiebert, a single man, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 10th day of April A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 11th day of April A. D. 1883, at 11 o'clock a. m., in book "L" of mortgages, on pages 381, 382 and 383, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The fractional lot No. two (2) on Elm Street having a frontage of one hundred and seventy-five (175) feet on Elm Street, ninety-five (95) feet on Sixth Street, and one hundred and ninety-five (195) feet on the quarter section line, Townsite of Crookston, Polk County, Minnesota, according to the recorded plat thereof now on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for [illegible] Polk County [illegible] at 10 o'clock a. m. [illegible]

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.
JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First Publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE conditions of a certain mortgage made, executed and delivered by Walter B. Moore and Mary A. Moore his wife, mortgagors to James McLaughlin mortgagee, by the failure on the part of said Walter B. Moore and Mary A. Moore to pay the interest which became due and payable on said mortgage, on the 1st day of November 1883, the sum of fifty ($50) dollars, and on the 1st day of November 1884, the sum of fifty ($50) dollars, amounting to the sum of one hundred ($100) dollars, and said mortgage containing a clause whereby the failure on the part of the mortgagors to pay said interest when the same became due empowered the said mortgagee or his assigns to declare the whole sum of principal and interest due and payable by such default at his or their election. Said mortgage being dated the 5th day of November 1881 and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, on the 5th day of November 1881 at 4:35 o'clock p. m. in book "E" of mortgage deeds on pages 445 and 446, and said mortgage was duly assigned by Selina McLaughlin executrix of said James McLaughlin mortgagee, to George McLaughlin, by an instrument in writing, dated the 21st day of April 1883 and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said Polk County, on the 27th day of October 1883, at 12:10 o'clock p. m. in book "M" of mortgages on pages 470 and 471, and said mortgage was duly assigned by said George McLaughlin to Etta S. Brown by an instrument in writing dated the 5th day of May 1883 and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said Polk County, on the 27th day of October 1883 at 12:10 o'clock p. m. in book "M" of mortgages on pages 471 and 472. And said Etta S. Brown, assignee of said mortgage, having exercised said option does hereby declare the whole sum of principal and interest secured by said mortgage now due and payable by reason of such default, and there being now due and unpaid on said mortgage the sum of five hundred ($500) dollars principal and interest amounting at this date to the sum of one hundred and five 84-100 dollars, amounting in all to the sum of six hundred and five and 84-100 dollars ($605.84-100,) and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise for the recovery of said debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, THEREFORE, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, which by reason of the defaults above stated became operative, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the mortgaged premises therein described, which sale will be mad at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, by the Sheriff of said county, on Thursday the 22d day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, to satisfy the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage and interest, and taxes if any, and costs and disbursements allowed by law, together with the sum of twenty-five dollars lawful attorney's fees, as stipulated in said mortgage, to be paid in case of foreclosure.

The premises described in said mortgage and to be sold are described as follows, to-wit: The northeast quarter (ne¼) of Section No. four (4,) in Township No. one hundred and fifty (150) north, of Range No. forty-six (46) west, containing one hundred and fifty-eight 45-100 acres according to the government survey thereof, situate in the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota.

Dated December 1st A. D. 1884.

ETTA S. BROWN,
Assignee of Mortgage.
E. ST. JULIEN COX AND W. A. SELBY,
Attorneys for Assignee, of Mortgage.
[33-38]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred eighty and 32-100 dollars, ($280.32-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph L. Daoust and Hermina Daoust, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 16th day of June A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 20th day of June A. D. 1883, at 10 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 63, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Beginning at a point fifty (50) feet west of the northeast corner, of the block or parcel of land in lot seven (7,) in Section thirty-six (36,) Township one hundred and fifty (150) of Range forty-seven (47,) bounded on the north by the street running west from the county bridge across the Red Lake River to the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railroad track, and on the east by the county road running south from said bridge, thence south one hundred (100) feet, thence west about one hundred and fifty (150) feet to the said railroad track, thence northerly one hundred (100) feet along said railroad track, and thence east about one hundred and fifty (150) feet to the place of beginning, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances: which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.
JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 15th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred eighty-one and 38-100 dollars, ($181.38-10,) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Sophie Busch, and Henry Busch, her husband, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 24th day of July A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, on the 23d day of November A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 278, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter (ne¼) of Section No. thirty-three (33) in Township No. one hundred and fifty (153) north, of Range No. forty-four (44) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres more or less in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.
JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred fifty-three dollars, ($253) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Tollef J. Farden, and Julia Farden, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 2d day of November A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of November A. D. 1883, at 10:40 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 277, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: [illegible]

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.
JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred seventy-six and 95-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Elling Knudson and Ingebor Knudson his wife to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the fourteenth day of March A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 14th day of March A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 340 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for three hundred dollars, due October 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for sixty-six and 77-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Six and 77-100 dollars on October first 1883, and six dollars on the first day of April and October 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due April 1st, 1884, and of the interest due October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on April 1st, 1884, and of the installment due October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice three hundred seventy-six and 95-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The southeast quarter of Section twenty-eight (28,) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149,) of Range forty-five (45,) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

(First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.)

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred twelve and 46-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Mary Knutson, an unmarried woman to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twenty-fourth day of April A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 24th day of April A. D. 1883, at 5 o'clock p. m., in book "L" of mortgages, on page 481, and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for two hundred and fifty dollars, due November 1st 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for fifty-five and 30-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Five and 30-100 dollars on November first, 1883, and five dollars on the first day of May and November 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due May 1st, 1884, and of the interest due November 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on May 1st, 1884, and of the installment due November 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice three hundred twelve and 46-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage viz: The southwest quarter of Section twenty-eight (28,) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149) of Range forty-five (45,) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres, in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County; at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred eighty-two and 59-100 dollars which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph Durocher, an unmarried man, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the second day of March, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 3d day of March, A. D. 1883, at 1:40 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 334 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for two hundred and twenty-five dollars, due October 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for fifty and 85-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Five and 85-100 dollars on October first, 1883, and four and 50-100 dollars on the first day of April and October 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due April 1st, 1884, and of the interest due October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on April 1st, 1884, and of the installment due October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice two hundred eighty-two and 59-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: the west half of the north-east quarter, and the west half of the southeast quarter of section twelve (12) in township one hundred and fifty-one (151) of range forty-five (45) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth (24th) day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, (Seal.)
By Robert N. Jackson, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Crookston, Minn., Dec. 8th, 1884.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Boyd P. Van Gordon against William B. Dunn for failure to comply with law as to Timber Culture Entry No. 1023, dated May 10th, 1881, upon the nw¼ S. 13, T. 140 n, R. 45, in Polk County, Minn., with a view to the cancellation of said entry [illegible]

JOHN CROMB, Register.

A. A. JUST, M. D.,

Homeopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Rooms [illegible] Main street and Fletcher Avenue, over Elkin Bros.' Hardware Store,

CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINN.

MORTGAGE SALE.

(First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.)

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of five hundred, eleven and 93-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Louis Morisset, an unmarried man, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the eleventh day of August, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 11th day of August, A. D. 1883, at 3:20 o'clock p. m. in book "O" of mortgages, on page 177 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for four hundred dollars, due January 1st, 1889, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for eighty-six and 32-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: six and 32-100 dollars on January first, 1884, and eight dollars on July first, 1884, and eight dollars on the first day of January and July, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and eight dollars on January 1st, 1889, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due January 1st, 1884 and of the interest due July 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on January 1st, 1884 and of the installment due July 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due, at the date of this notice five hundred, eleven and 93-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: the southwest quarter of Section twenty-four (24) in township one hundred and fifty-one (151), of range forty-seven (47), containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the city of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, (Seal.)
By Robert N. Jackson, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of six hundred, twenty-eight and 19-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Simeon Patnode, an unmarried man, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twenty-third day of January, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 23d day of January, A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 128 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for five hundred dollars, due October 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for one hundred and thirteen and 24-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Thirteen and 24-100 dollars on October 1st, 1883, and ten dollars on the first day of April and October 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888 respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due April 1st, 1884, and of the interest due October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on April 1st, 1884 and of the installment due October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice six hundred twenty-eight and 19-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section thirty-four (34) in Township one hundred and fifty-one (151), of Range forty-five (45), containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises; and fifty dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, (Seal.)
By Robert N. Jackson, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred seventy-eight and 95-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Ole Anderson and Sarah Anderson, his wife, to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twentieth day of March, A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 22d day of March, A. D. 1883, at 9 o'clock a. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 330 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of three notes for one hundred dollars each, due October 1st, 1888, with six per cent interest per annum, and one installment note for sixty-six and 77-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Six and 77-100 dollars on October first, 1883, and six dollars on the first day of April, and October, 1884, 1885, 1886 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due October 1st, 1883, and of the interest due April 1st and October 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on October 1st, 1883, and of the installments due April 1st and October 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice three hundred, seventy-eight and 95-100 dollars after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute, in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section twenty-four (24), in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149), of Range forty-five (45), containing one hundred and sixty acres in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, (Seal.)
By Robert N. Jackson, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Crookston Minn., Dec. 13th, 1884.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., on Jan. 24th, 1885, viz: ELIE LARIVERE, for the [illegible] S. 14, T. 148, R. 47. He names the following [illegible]

JOHN CROMB, Register.

Commercial Hotel,

NORTON & BENEDICT, Prop's.

SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.

First-class in all respects. Terms reasonable. A share of the public patronage solicited.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum four hundred ninety-nine and 73-100 dollars which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Philip Murphy and Mary Ann Murphy his wife to Middlesex Banking Company of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the twenty-first day of April A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of April A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 571 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for four hundred dollars, due November 1st 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for eighty-eight and 58-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Eight and 58-100 dollars on November first, 1883, and eight dollars on the first day of May and November, 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due May 1st 1884, and of the interest due November 1st 1884 and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on May 1st, 1884, and of the installment due November 1st 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same; there being due at the date of this notice, four hundred ninety-nine and 73-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The southeast quarter of Section twenty-six (26,) in Township one hundred and forty-eight (148) of range forty-seven (47,) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney.
[33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred sixty and 21-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Peter N. Olstad, an unmarried man to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the second day of July A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 7th day of July A. D. 1883, at 10 o'clock a. m., in book "M" of mortgages, on page 159 and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for two hundred dollars, due December 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for forty-four and 26-100 dollars, due in eleven installments, as follows: Four and 26-100 dollars on December first, 1883, and four dollars on the first day of June and December 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due December 1st, 1883, and of the interest due June 1st and December 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on December 1st, 1883, and of the installments due June 1st and December 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of, the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice two hundred sixty and 21-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section fourteen (14,) in Township one hundred and forty-eight (148,) of Range forty-five (45,) containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage, in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 11th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of eleven hundred eighty-two and 14-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by George J. Charbonneau, an unmarried man to Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Connecticut, bearing date the first day of February A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1883, at 2 o'clock p. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 154, and post. Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one note for nine hundred dollars, due January 1st, 1888, with six per cent. interest per annum, and one installment note for one hundred eighty-one and 10-100 dollars, due in five installments, as follows: Thirty-seven and 10-100 dollars on January first, 1884 and thirty-six dollars on the first day of January 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, and default having been made in the payment of the interest due January 1st, 1884, and in the payment of the installment due on said second described note on January 1st, 1884, the said mortgagee thereupon elected that all of said sums, described in said notes, should be immediately due and payable, according to the provisions of said notes and of the mortgage securing the same, there being due at the date of this notice eleven hundred eighty-two and 14-100 dollars, after deducting the legal rebate of seven per cent. on the installments of said second described note not yet mature, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The east half of the northwest quarter and lots one (1,) and two (2,) being the fractional northwest quarter of Section No. thirty (30,) in Township No. one hundred and fifty-two (152) north, of Range No. forty-seven (47) west, containing one hundred and thirty-nine and 1-100 (139 1-100) acres, according to the United States government survey thereof, in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and seventy-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage, in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the twenty-fourth day of January A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1884.

MIDDLESEX BANKING COMPANY, [SEAL.]
By ROBERT N. JACKSON, President.
EDW'D B. KENNEDY, Attorney. [33-39]

MERCHANTS' HOTEL,

J. E. MITTON, Proprietor.

CORNER BROADWAY AND ROBERT STREET

CROOKSTON, MINN.

The new Merchants' Hotel, recently refitted and [illegible] to stop at the Merchants' when in the city.

M. M. VAN DYKE,

Physician and Surgeon,

Corner of Main and Second Streets,

CROOKSTON, MINN.

Will attend to all professional calls promptly.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 25th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred seventy-two and 24-100 dollars, ($372.24-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Alkon Dumas and Emily Dumas his wife to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 1st day of July A. D. 1882, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 5th day of July A. D. 1882, at 4:30 o'clock p. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 122, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northwest quarter (nw¼) of section twenty-six (26) Township one hundred and fifty (150) north, of Range forty-four (44) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres more or less, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston in said County and State, on the 9th day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston Dec. 24th, A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.
JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [35-41]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Jan. 1st 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred eighty-four and 83-100 dollars, ($384.83-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Albert D. Berry and Clorenthe Berry, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 21st day of April A. D. 1882, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 22d day of April A. D. 1882, at 4:15 o'clock p. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 2, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The Southeast quarter (se¼) of Section one (1,) Township one hundred and fifty-one (151,) Range forty-five (45,) in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 16th day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston Dec. 27th, A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.
JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [36-42]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of five hundred forty-eight and 59-100 dollars, ($548.59-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Jacob Francis and Ellen Francis, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 21st day of August A. D. 1882, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 22d day of August A. D. 1882, at 8 o'clock a. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 216, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot eight (8) in block seven (7) of the Townsite of Crookston, according to the recorded plat thereof now on file in the office of the Register of Deeds, Polk County, Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.
JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

SHERIFF'S SALE.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss. District Court.
County of Polk.

Morrison & Ledeboer, Plff.
vs.
The Red Lake Falls Milling & Lumber Co. Defts.

Notice is hereby given, That by virtue of an Execution to me directed and delivered, and now in my hands, issued out of the District Court Eleventh Judicial District, State of Minnesota, in and for the County of Polk upon a Judgment rendered in said Court in favor of Morrison & Ledeboer and against The Red Lake Falls Milling and Lumber Company, I have levied upon the following described real estate of said defendant, to-wit: The north portion of lot number eleven (11) Section fourteen, containing 12 52-100 acres, and lot number twelve (12,) Sec ion fourteen, containing 38 80-100 acres and the southeast quarter (se¼) of the northeast quarter (ne¼) and the northwest quarter (nw¼) of the southeast quarter (se¼) and the west one-half (w½) of the northeast quarter (ne¼) of Section fourteen (14,) Township one hundred and fifty-one (151,) Range forty-four (44,) Polk County, Minnesota, in which the above described property will be sold in lots or parcels. And that I shall, on Saturday the twenty eight day of February A. D. 1885, at the hour of ten o'clock a. m. of said day, at the west front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, proceed to sell all the right, title and interest of the above named Red Lake Falls Milling and Lumber Company in and to the above described property, to satisfy said judgment and costs, amounting to six hundred dollars and [illegible] together with all accruing costs of sale, and interest on the same from the second day of January 1885, at the rate of seven per cent. per annum, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash.

PIERCE & WILKINSON,
Plaintiff's Attorneys.
W. F. ZWICKEY,
Sheriff of Polk Co., Minn.

Dated Crookston, Polk Co., Minn., January 13th 1885. [38-44]

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Crookston, Minn., Jan. 7th, 1885.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Peter J. Wilcom against Even Olson Enneberg for failure to comply with law as to Timber Culture Entry No. 1311 dated July 8th, 1879, upon the nw¼ S. 10, T. 147, R. 45, in Polk Co., Minn., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; contestant alleging that the said Even Olson Enneberg failed to plant five acres of said land to trees, tree seeds or cuttings during either the third or fourth year after making said entry and that he has not planted any trees, tree seeds or cuttings on said land, also that claimant wholly failed in the year 1883 to cultivate the land which he claimed thereto, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 5th day of March 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged failure.

[37-42] JOHN CROMB, Register.

NEW LIVERY,

Feed and Sale

STABLES,

CORNER MAIN AND FOURTH STS.

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA

TERRY & COLLINS, Prop's.

☞ Good Turnouts at all times at reasonable prices. Good Hearse and careful driver when needed.

The Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Proprietor. DEVOTED TO THE WELFARE OF POLK COUNTY. TERMS—$1.50 Per Annum.

VOL. VIII. CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINNESOTA, JANUARY 29, 1885. NO. 40

Polk County Journal.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

H. E. COOKE, Editor and Proprietor

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance, to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

ADVERTISING RATES.

SPACE.	1 w	2 w.	3 w.	1 m.	2 m	6 m.	1 year
½ inch	50	$1 00	$1 25	$1 50	$3 00	4 50	$ 6 00
1 inch	75	1 25	1 75	2 00	5 00	6 00	10 00
2 inches	1 50	2 25	3 00	3 50	6 50	9 50	15 00
3 inches	1 75	2 75	3 75	4 50	9 50	13 50	20 00
4 inches	2 50	3 50	4 50	5 50	10 00	20 00	25 00
5 inches	3 00	4 00	5 00	6 00	12 00	20 00	30 00
¼ column	3 00	5 00	5 00	6 50	15 00	25 00	35 00
½ column	6 00	7 50	10 00	12 00	25 00	35 00	50 00
1 column	9 50	12 50	15 00	18 00	25 00	60 00	100 00

Entered at the Post Office in Crookston as Second Class matter.

Woodside Wonders.

WOODSIDE, Jan. 18, 1885.

We wonder who wrote that Woodside letter, dated Dec. 30th, and signed J. W.? We wonder where the shooting match took place? We wonder where the race track was, as we who live within 60 rods of D. Cameron's saw mill have no knowledge of it? We wonder where those horses are which were represented as running on Christmas day. It is well known that there is not a horse in the woods that could, if put to his best speed, catch a lame steer in a lane. As to that trotting match which was won in 3:04, that is, or may be all right. The writer, we suppose, means three hours and four minutes, as any of the horses mentioned would trot a long time in the shade of a common sized tree. We wonder where the dance was, and we all wonder where that good music was, as all the music we have in the woods is a mouth organ, or French harp, which is played over the mouth of a glass tumbler and sometimes the music is worse than others. Now, Mr. Editor, that December letter was a cool fabrication of imagination. But we know some men are cool; and some are cooler; some are fool, and some are fooler. But we will not write poetry as we have not heard of your being ill, and do not suppose you need medicine, even in small doses. But we must let you know of the news of Woodside: Miss Helen Stodard's school closed on Friday with appropriate exercises. The teacher and scholars edited a very interesting paper which was read by Miss Mirty Stoddard with credit to herself and school. Mr. Charles Foster has returned from Walker's lumber camp with a very severe cold. The saw mills, owned by Messrs. Goodrich and Cameron, are not running regular now owing to a scarcity of logs, yet both mills are in good running order and will do good work and give satisfaction to their patrons. There is strong talk of a telephone line from Crookston to Fosston.

T. J. W.

FARMING AND GETTING RICH.

Farmers Have the Requisite Resources of Wealth in Their Own Hands.

Massachusetts Ploughman.

It may be wholly idle to attempt to stem the tide that is rising with such a force in this country in favor of mere riches, but in the case of farmers it is as well to lay the simple truth before them as to withhold. Without in the least presuming to dictate motives or aims to any class of men, we may nevertheless say with perfect truth and respect for their status and privileges, that farmers of all men are the very last ones who need trouble themselves about riches as other people do. Possessing and living upon their own productive acres, they have all the requisite resources of wealth constantly in their own hands. They are sure of shelter, of food and of needful clothing; to toil and moil, pitch and screw, starve and deny, merely to be accounted worthy a certain amount of money, is only wasting the precious term of life which might be used to far better purpose.

We will indulge in no moralizing on the subject further than to say that to go without in order to scrape together a certain sum of money, and then to leave it behind without ever having the productive and enjoyable use of it, is the folly of childishness itself. To provide, with prudence and industry, against the accidents of life and the infirmities of possible old age, is of course every man's duty, and should supply the healthful stimulus to exertion, but to become a slave, to starve the higher and better nature, and to deny rational enjoyment to one's self and family merely to be reckoned worth so many dollars, is folly indefensible.

A man on his own farm, well cultivated and kept, well stocked, with good modern dwellings and barns and outbuildings, master of both time and acres, tied to no hours by the call of bells or whistles, free to come and go according to the necessities of none but himself, mostly in his own fields and performing his healthful labors within sight of the smoke of his own chimneys, is surely as rich in the genuine sense of that word as any man can be. He has nothing to fear and nobody to envy. Of one thing he is sure all his days, and that is a sufficient living; and that is what other men are never sure of without a single pang of doubt or apprehension. There is his land; there is his home; there is all the animate and inanimate machinery of his establishment; and for the rest he looks in profound trust to the bounty of heaven.

Instead of this unworthy demoralizing anxiety to get rich, if the average farmer, once being solidly established, would resolve to enlarge and exalt his life as it is, to make more out of that, to enjoy as much as possible of what there is to be enjoyed, to adorn and beautify his home—that only paradise on earth—within and without, he would find all his daily tasks far easier even to the extent of being delightful, he would feel rich where now with more money he feels all the time poor, and he would rid himself of a false tyrant in the form of increasing parsimony that holds his nose to the grindstone till he is flung into his grave. If farmers only knew it, they could easily be the richest men on earth.

Farmers' Butter in Winter.

Chicago Weekly News.

It is more convenient for most small farmers to have the largest flow of milk during the season when cows can get fresh grass in the pasture. The great majority of farmers' cows drop their calves in the spring, and are nearly dry the following winter as to give only milk enough for the family supply. Yet it is during the winter season, when the milk yield is smallest, and probably because of this fact, that butter and all dairy products bring the highest prices. For those who can do so conveniently, it is a good plan to have a part of their dairy drop their calves in the fall, and continue butter making during the winter.

Many suppose it is not possible to make the best butter in winter. With hay and stalks as the chief food of cows it is not possible. In all small dairies it is difficult, but the extra care required, as is always the case, is well repaid. The thing that many can do—making fair butter from fresh cows giving plenty of milk on June grass—is necessarily poorly paid. To make as good butter, and have it fresh, in the middle of the winter is much more remunerative. There will not be so much of it, for with the warmest quarters and green food there will be some shrinkage in milk. And this will not be entirely offset by its superior richness in the material for butter-making.

Where only one or two cows are kept in winter, especially if nearly dry and fed on hay, cream accumulates slowly and is liable to spoil before it can be churned. The bitter taste sometimes found in winter butter may be the result of rag weed or other weeds in the hay. Cornstalks are better feed for cows than the best of hay. Clover in nutritive value is richer than the grasses, but even when green it is not good for butter and milk. Turn a herd of cows into the best red-clover pasture, and they will eat the natural grasses growing in fence corners close to the ground before they will touch the clover. When forced to eat the green clover herbage, both the yield and quality of milk will be poorer. For winter feed the hay made from the fine second growth clover is much better than the larger first cuttings.

Corn in any shape is excellent feed for milch cows, especially when butter is the object. The oil, sugar and starch it contains are all carbonaceous compounds, and chemically identical with butter. A ration of corn meal twice a day, with other feed, will make the milk much richer, and with most cows will make the butter of better color. Winter butter, at its best, is apt to be too white. It is not a fraud on consumers to use coloring matter on well-made, sweet winter butter. The improvement in appearance makes the butter really more palatable. Good farmers use artificial coloring in winter butter when they only make what they use on their own tables. If properly made, winter butter is as good as the best grass butter. There is no fraud in making it appear as good, provided it is not sold for what it is not.

The orange carrot is sometimes used for coloring butter by farmers, but it is inferior to the artificial colors, which are cheap enough and less difficult to manage. The juice of the carrot impairs the keeping quality of the butter, which other coloring matter does not. If the carrot is grated and mixed with cream before churning, to give the butter higher color, the consumer should know the fact. Such butter will be apt to turn rancid sooner than that on which no coloring matter was used. The true way to use carrots for coloring winter butter is to feed them to cows. Carrots are more easily grown than most farmers suppose. Their general cultivation and use will make winter butter much better in quality.

The advantage of ensilage for cows is more in producing milk than butter. This method of preserving green herbage in a succulent state undoubtedly makes a large quantity of milk, but unless it is supplemented with cornmeal or grain the milk is not proportionally rich. It is yet a mooted question with practical farmers whether for making winter butter a field of corn, ripened with the grain and the stalks well secured dry, is not equal to the same corn cut before maturity and preserved in the silo. For the latter method, however, the corn is sown more thickly and yields a much greater weight of feed per acre, and this is perhaps the greatest advantage of the ensilage system of feeding.

Cows that are being dried off and that are to be turned over to the butcher in the spring will often pay a considerable portion of their keep in their yield of milk. Fattening cows, especially when fed on cornmeal, give extra rich milk, and it will pay to turn it into butter while enough is given to make a churning of cream per week. But the milking should be stopped at least two or three months before the fattening process is completed.

Grand Forks Daily Herald.

The Manitoba papers and immigrationists are busy quoting as fact against Dakota that while wheat was but 50 cents at Pembina, it was 71 cents at Emerson, and Dakota farmers by the hundred paid the duty of 15 cents and sold their wheat in a foreign land, making 6 cents per bushel and contributing 15 cents per bushel taxes. This does not prove that Manitoba is any richer or more desirable country. It only proves that we have a patient and long suffering people that permit a monopoly to exist which deliberately robs them of that amount of money. There is no reason in God's world why they should permit it to exist another month longer. The legislatures are in session and if their representatives do not promptly and efficiently remedy this matter, it would be in order to serve notice upon them never to return to their constituents unless they wish to be pointed out as the bought and perjured tools of the monopoly. There is great public emergency for instant action. The Illinois railroad law has tried and found valid and lasting. Let it be enacted at once, if necessary, under the suspension of the rules. If anything better can be hatched out by the combined wisdom of Minnesota and Dakota it can afterwards be passed as an amendment or substitute.

IMPORTANT TO FARMERS.

It is said "good fortune comes to us all sooner or later." It now appears the farmers' time has come. Col. John H. Stevens, the pioneer agriculturist of the Northwest, and one of the most successful farmers Minnesota has ever known, a man whose writings are familiar to every farmer in the Northwest, and whose experience as a general farmer, entitles him to the throne of authority in every detail that appertains to farmers' pursuits, has decided that hereafter his entire writings, aid and support shall go to Farm, Stock and Home, published at Minneapolis, Minn., which enables the farmers to receive the benefits of his experience at a cost to them of only fifty cents a year. This beautiful sixteen page journal, printed upon the best calendered paper, ably edited and contributed to in every department, viz: Farm, Cattle, Horses, Poultry, Swine, Sheep, Gardening, Dairying, Horticulture, Bees and the Home, will be sent for one year, by calling at this office and leaving fifty cents, or we will furnish it and the JOURNAL for one year for $2.00. Call and see sample copies. This is the best paper for the money ever published upon the American continent.

FARM NOTES.

From the American Agriculturist for February.

PROFITABLE GARDEN CROPS.

Wherever there are manufacturing villages, early cabbages are always in demand and bring good prices. Spinach is another salable vegetable. Beets, parsnips, carrots, turnips, onions, etc., as well as spinach, may be sown in rows far enough apart to be worked by horse implements. The distance between the rows is to be governed by the width of the horse-hoe or cultivator, which should close up as narrow as twenty inches. A market gardener sows such crops twelve or fifteen inches apart, but the farm gardener has cheaper land, and can give more space if he can save labor, and substitute horses for hands. Those who propose to undertake farm-gardening, will do well to begin with sweet corn and early potatoes, and not undertake the other garden crops until the land has been in cultivation with these one season. Another way to prepare the land for garden crops is, to plow, harrow, and sow it to buckwheat. When this is in flower, plow it under, and sow it again to buckwheat. Turn this under at the proper time, and in September, or at the usual time, sow the land with rye, to be plowed in next spring. The object should be to bring the land, a few acres at a time, into condition to raise any garden crops. The rapidity with which this can be done will depend upon the amount of manure at command for the purpose. It will be worth while for all farmers who are within easy reach of a market to give this subject proper thought, and be ready to commence the coming spring to make a farm-garden.

LIVE STOCK NOTES.

The result of neglect in the stable and stall will be apparent now. All who have failed to keep their animals clean, warm and well fed, will need to take more than ordinary care in bringing them through the winter. Liberal feeding is the only true economy in wintering stock. Induce animals to eat, keep their appetites keen with frequent changes of food, and feel satisfied, when spring comes, that all the fodder has been consumed in keeping the live stock plump and healthy. Every barnyard should have an abundant supply of pure water. Animals that are well wintered are half summered. Steady work does no harm to a mature horse. If well fed, carefully groomed and kept from undue exposure, a team may labor the winter through with profit both to the owner and the animals. Horses when confined to a close, warm stable, become tender and subject to colds, etc. Incoming cows should have a limited diet of dry hay, with a little bran, for a few weeks previous to calving. The young stock, and all others infested with lice, should have the skin rubbed with a mixture of sweet oil and kerosene in equal parts; Sheep need, besides abundant wholesome food, plenty of pure air, a dry yard and sleeping place. The porkers should already gone to the market. Store pigs will make a profitable growth if well housed and fed during winter. Light and frequent meals are best. Eggs can only be expected from fowls that are "at home" in a warm, dry house, provided with abundant food, both green and dry, lime, gravel and pure water.

PROFITABLE FEEDING OF COWS.

Where milk is sold at high prices near cities, it may pay dairymen to overfeed his cows with brewer's grain and articles of the kind, to stimulate milk production, without regard to their health: but for the general farmer, it is important, not only to have a good cow, but to keep her in health for a number of years. At present prices of dairy products, I do not see what profit the ordinary farmer can make without, by close management, he can turn every function of his cow to account. First, of course, in importance is her milk production, but of almost equal value are her calves for veal or to raise, and finally her carcass for beef, when her milking days are over. While admitting that the excessive milk or butter production of individuals may be so profitable that the other elements above named may be dismissed as of relatively little importance, I feel called upon to lay down as a proposition, the truth of which extensive observation and the experience of many years devoted to the breeding of animals of various kinds has convinced me. To wit: excessive or abnormal development in any one direction destroys the balance of the system, and unless kept within proper bounds, results in acute disease or constitutional deterioration. No one believes more firmly than I do that the average yield of our domestic animals of every kind can be largely increased in every direction, but the improvement must be sought in improved animals, both in breed and general individual quality, and not in an over-development of one organ or set of organs at the expense of the rest.

All who wish to avail themselves of the offer we made Dec. 1st, may do so if they will pay up arreages on subscription and one year in advance before Feb. 1st. This offer made till Jan. 1st, now extended to Feb 1st, is this: To all who will pay up arreages in full and one year in advance before Feb. 1st, 1885, we will allow the usual rebate given for subscriptions paid in advance, i. e., we will accept $1,65 per annum for papers sent outside of Polk County, or $1,50 inside of the County. Everybody should make an effort to avail themselves of this good opportunity to catch up.

A. Yvernault,

Dealer in

General

Merchandise,

—MAIN STREET,—

Crookston, - Minn.

All my friends, both old and new, are cordially invited to call and examine my stoc and get prices.

EIKEN BROS.,

Corner of Fletcher and Main Street, Crookston, Minn.

Dealers in

HARDWARE, TIWARE,

STOVES,

—AND—

SHELFWARE.

WE KEEP A

FULL & COMPLETE

STOCK,

—AND—

Invite the Patronage

OF ALL.

First National Bank

OF CROOKSTON.

PAID IN CAPITAL, $100,000
SURPLUS, 1,100

Money to loan on long or short time on approved security

Interest on time deposits. Faithful attention to Collections and prompt remittance.

GEO. O. ERSKINE, President.
K. D. CHASE, Vice President.
CHAS. E. SAWYER, Cashier.

Crookston Nurseries.

Established in 1879.

Tree Claim Stock.

I will furnish my customers and others, trees and seeds for Tree Claims at reduced figures in the spring of 1885. Also all the hardier varieties of small fruits, such as Currants, Gooseberries, and Raspberries. Also good thrifty Transcendent and Hislop Crab-Apple trees, Cottonwood and Box Elder trees. Box Elder and Ash seed, and Willow cuttings. Also garden seeds. The firm of Haseltine Bros. was dissolved in June, 1884. E. W. Haseltine has no interest or share in the old Crookston Nurseries. I continue business on the old grounds in Crookston. Don't fail to send for catalogue of prices.

FRANK T. HASELTINE, Prop., Crookston, Minn.

Commercial Hotel,

NORTON & BENEDICT, Prop's.

SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON MINN

First-class in all respects. Terms reasonable. A share of the public patronage solicited.

LEO & STEENERSON.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW

Room 8, U. S. Land Office Building,
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

THE

St. Paul,

Minneapolis

—AND—

Manitoba

RAILWAY,

WITH ITS

1,400 Miles of Road

Is the only line extending through the

Park Region of Minnesota,

To all principal points in
Red River Valley,
Northern Minnesota,
Northern Dakota,
And to Devil's Lake and Turtle Mour- Districts.

—CONTAINING OVER—

9,000,000 Acres

GOVERNMENT LANDS!

The Land department of the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway has exclusive charge of the Company's Lands in Minnesota, and all correspondence relative to the purchase of lands, terms, description of price of any particular tract should be addressed to that department. Maps and pamphlets describing the country and giving rates of fare to settlers, etc. mailed FREE on application

JAS. B. POWER,
Land and Immigration Commissioner
C. H. WARREN,
General Passenger Agent,
St. P., M. & M. R'y., St. Paul, Minn.

P. A. DUFOUR,

Attorney and Counselor at Law,

—MAIN STREET,—

CROOKSTON, MINN.

SECOND STREET

MEAT MARKET

STANTON & CO., Proprietors.

Choice meats of every description. Fish and game in their season. Everything of the very best quality and lowest prices. Call and see us at STANTON & CO., Dobson's Block, Second Street.

MERCHANTS'

BILLIARD HALL,

FRED ANDERSON, Proprietor.

CROOKSTON, - - - MINNESOTA

The choicest Wines, Liquors and Cigars constantly on hand.

DR. M. WATTS,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.

OFFICE ON ROBERT STREET.

Professional calls by day or night attended to with promptness.

John Crawford & Son,

Proprietors of

Crawford's

Bakery,

SECOND STREET,

Crookston, Minn

CONFECTIONERY

Fresh Bread, Buns, Cakes and Biscuits, All Articles in the Fancy Baking Line.

WM. WATTS,

ATTORNEY AT LAW

AND DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE.

OFFICE OVER MERCHANTS' BANK.

$100,000

To Loan on improved claims in sums of $250 to $2,000. Cash paid for school bonds. Call on or address,

JOHN MCLEAN, Att'y at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

Frank M. Brown,

COMMISSION

STORE,

Main Street, - Crookston.

TWO DOORS NORTH OF MERCHANTS' BANK.

Consignments of Goods for

QUICK CASH SALES

SOLICITED.

☞ Auction every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon.

NEW

DRUG STORE

IN GARFIELD

DR. A NELSON, Prop.

The citizens of this town and vicinity are respectfully invited to call at my new Drug Store in the town of Garfield and examine my stock of

DRUGS, MEDICINES, PAINTS, OILS AND YANKEE NOTIONS.

It is no longer necessary to go 40 or 55 miles for anything in this line, as I have a full supply at prices as reasonable as any town in the Northwest. Call and see

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON

I am also ready to answer all calls day or night, for the practice of my profession. Call, or leave orders at my Drug Store in Garfield, Polk Co., Minn

DR. A. NELSON.

MERCHANTS'

Bank of Crookston.

H. B. MONTGOMERY.........President,
St. Paul, Minn.
M. R. BROWN,.............Vice President,
Crookston, Minn.
J. KELSO.........Second Vice President,
Bellevue, Iowa.
Wm. ROSS.........................Cashier,
Crookston, Minn.

CASH CAPITAL, $32,000

SURPLUS, $16,533.82.

Will receive deposits and allow interest by special contract.

Buy and Sell Foreign and Domestic Exchange, make collections, and do a strictly legitimate business.

Agents for foreign passage tickets.

De Skandinaviske Sprog tales her.

WM. ROSS, Cashier.

E. D. Schreader

LIVERY,

Feed and Sale Stable.

BEST TURNOUTS

IN THE CITY.

Single or Double Rigs, with or without driver or

SADDLE HORSES

Always ready at a moments notice by day or night. If you want a Nobby Turnout call at the Red Barn, Corner Main and Third Streets,

CROOKSTON. - - - - MINNESOTA.

Bigham & Olafson

(Successors to Jure & Bergland.)

THE POPULAR MERCHANTS ON

MAIN STREET, - - - CROOKSTON

Have on hand and are constantly receiving full lines of

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES,
CROCKERY,
CLOTHING,
BOOTS AND SHOES,
HATS AND CAPS

In fact everything usually found in first-class general store.

☞ Our goods are bought with great care and will be sold at

LOW PRICES

☞ FOR CASH. ☜

The Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Proprietor. DEVOTED TO THE WELFARE OF POLK COUNTY. TERMS—$1.50 Per Annum.

VOL. VIII. CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINNESOTA, JANUARY 29, 1885. NO. 40

Polk County Journal.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

H. E. COOKE, Editor and Proprietor.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance, to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

ADVERTISING RATES.

SPACE.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 m.	2 m.	6 m.	1 year
½ inch	.50	$1.00	$1.15	$1.50	$3.00	$4.50	$6.00
1 inch	.75	1.25	1.75	2.00	5.50	6.00	10.00
2 inches	1.50	2.25	3.50	4.50	6.50	9.50	15.00
3 inches	1.75	2.75	3.75	4.50	9.50	13.50	20.00
4 inches	2.50	3.50	4.50	5.50	10.00	10.00	25.00
inches	3.00	4.00	5.00	6.00	12.50	20.00	30.00
¼ column	3.50	5.50	6.50	6.50	15.00	25.00	35.00
½ column	6.00	7.50	10.00	12.00	20.00	35.00	60.00
1 column	9.50	12.50	15.00	18.00	25.00	60.00	100.00

Entered at the Post Office in Crookston as Second Class matter.

Woodside Wonders.

WOODSIDE, Jan. 18, 1885.

We wonder who wrote that Woodside letter, dated Dec. 30th, and signed J. W.? We wonder where the shooting match took place? We wonder where the race track was, as we who live within 60 rods of D. Cameron's saw mill have no knowledge of it? We wonder where those horses are which were represented as running on Christmas day. It is well known that there is not a horse in the woods that could, if put to his best speed, catch a lame steer in a lane. As to that trotting match which was won in 3:04, that is, or may be all right. The writer, we suppose, means three hours and four minutes, as any of the horses mentioned would trot a long time in the shade of a common sized tree. We wonder where the dance was, and we all wonder where that good music was, as all the music we have in the woods is a mouth organ, or French harp, which is played over the mouth of a glass tumbler and sometimes the music is worse than others. Now, Mr. Editor, that December letter was a cool fabrication of imagination. But we know some men are cool, and some are cooler; some are fool, and some are fooler. But we will not write poetry as we have not heard of your being ill, and do not suppose you need medicine, even in small doses. But we must let you know of the news of Woodside. Miss Helen Stoddard's school closed on Friday with appropriate exercises. The teacher and scholars edited a very interesting paper, which was read by Miss Mirty Stoddard with credit to herself and school. Mr. Charles Foster has returned from Walker's lumber camp with a very severe cold. The saw mills, owned by Messrs. Goodrich and Cameron, are not running regular now owing to a scarcity of logs, yet both mills are in good running order and will do good work and give satisfaction to their patrons. There is strong talk of a telephone line from Crookston to Fosston.

T. J. W.

FARMING AND GETTING RICH.

Farmers Have the Requisite Resources of Wealth in Their Own Hands.

Massachusetts Ploughman.

It may be wholly idle to attempt to stem the tide that is rising with such a force in this country in favor of mere riches, but in the case of farmers it is as well to lay the simple truth before them as to withhold. Without in the least presuming to dictate motives or aims to any class of men, we may nevertheless say with perfect truth and respect for their status and privileges, that farmers of all men are the very last ones who need trouble themselves about riches as other people do. Possessing and living upon their own productive acres, they have all the requisite resources of wealth constantly in their own hands. They are sure of shelter, of food and of needful clothing; to toil and moil, pinch and screw, starve and deny merely to be accounted worthy a certain amount of money, is only wasting the precious term of life which might be used to far better purpose. We will indulge in no moralizing on the subject further than to say that to go without in order to scrape together a certain sum of money, and then to leave it behind without ever having the productive and enjoyable use of it, is the folly of childishness itself. To provide with prudence and industry against the accidents of life and the infirmities of possible old age is of course every man's duty, and a man may supply [illegible] [illegible] and better [illegible] enjoyment [illegible] [illegible] his healthful labors within sight of the smoke of his own chimneys, is surely as rich in the genuine sense of that word as any man can be. He has nothing to fear and nobody to envy. Of one thing he is sure all his days, and that is a sufficient living, and that is what other men are never sure of without a single pang of doubt or apprehension. There is his land, there is his home, there is all the animate and inanimate machinery of his establishment, and for the rest he looks in profound trust to the bounty of heaven.

A man on his own farm, well cultivated and well stocked, [illegible] modern dwelling and [illegible] buildings [illegible] [illegible]

Instead of this unworthy, demoralizing anxiety to get rich, if the average farmer, once being solidly established, would resolve to enlarge and exalt his life as it is, to make more out of that, to enjoy as much as possible of what there is to be enjoyed, to adorn and beautify his home—that only paradise on earth—within and without, he would find all his daily tasks far easier even to the extent of being delightful, he would feel rich where now with more money he feels all the time poor, and he would rid himself of a false tyrant in the form of increasing parsimony that holds his nose to the grindstone till he is flung into his grave. If farmers only knew it, they could easily be the richest men on earth.

Farmers' Dairies in Winter.

Chicago Weekly News.

It is more convenient for most small farmers to have the largest flow of milk during the season when cows can get fresh grass in the pasture. The great majority of farmers' cows drop their calves in the spring, and are nearly dry the following winter as to give only milk enough for the family supply. Yet it is during the winter season, when the milk yield is smallest, and probably because of this fact, that butter and all dairy products bring the highest prices. For those who can do so conveniently it is a good plan to have a part of their dairy drop their calves in the fall, and continue butter making during the winter.

Many suppose it is not possible to make the best butter in winter. With hay and stalks as the chief food of cows it is not possible. In all small dairies it is difficult, but the extra care required, as is always the case, is well repaid. The thing that many call doing—making fair butter from fresh cows giving plenty of milk on June grass—is necessarily poorly paid. To make as good butter, and have it fresh, in the middle of the winter is much more remunerative. There will not be so much of it, for with the warmest quarters and green food there will be some shrinkage in milk. And this will not be entirely offset by its superior richness in the material for butter making.

Where only one or two cows are kept in winter, especially if nearly dry and fed on hay, cream accumulates slowly and is liable to spoil before it can be churned. The bitter taste sometimes found in winter butter may be the result of this weed or other weeds in the hay. Cornstalks are better feed for cows than the best of hay. Clover in nutritive value is richer than the grasses, but even when green it is not good for butter and milk. Turn a herd of cows into the best red clover pasture, and they will eat the natural grasses growing in fence corners close to the ground before they will touch the clover. When forced to eat the green clover herbage, both the yield and quality of milk will be poorer. For winter feed the hay made from the fine second growth clover is much better than the larger first cutting.

Corn in any shape is excellent feed for milch cows, especially when butter is the object. The oil, sugar and starch it contains are all carbonaceous compounds, and chemically identical with butter. A ration of corn meal twice a day, with other feed, will make the milk much richer, and with most cows will make the butter of better color. Winter butter is apt to be too white. [illegible] to use coloring [illegible] sweet winter butter. The improvement in appearance makes the butter really more palatable. [illegible] when they only [illegible] their own table. [illegible] properly made winter butter [illegible] [illegible] butter is to feed them to cows. Carrots are more easily grown than most farmers suppose. Their general cultivation and use will make winter butter much better in quality.

The advantage of ensilage for cows is more in producing milk than butter. This method of preserving green herbage in a succulent state undoubtedly makes a large quantity of milk, but unless it is supplemented with corn meal or grain the milk is not proportionally rich. It is yet a mooted question with practical farmers whether for making winter butter a field of corn, ripened with the grain and the stalks well secured dry, is not equal to the same corn cut before maturity and preserved in the silo. For the latter method, however, the corn is sown more thickly and yields a much greater weight of feed per acre, and this is perhaps the greatest advantage of the ensilage system of feeding.

Cows that are being dried off and that are to be turned over to the butcher in the spring will often pay a considerable portion of their keep in their yield of milk. Fattening cows, especially when fed on cornmeal, give extra rich milk, and it will pay to turn it into butter while enough is given to make a churning of cream per week. But the milking should be stopped at least two or three months before the fattening process is completed.

Grand Forks Daily Herald.

The Manitoba papers and immigrationists are busy quoting as fact against Dakota that while wheat was but 50 cents at Pembina, it was 71 cents at Emerson, and Dakota farmers by the hundred paid the duty of 15 cents and sold their wheat in a foreign land, making 6 cents per bushel and contributing 15 cents per bushel taxes. This does not prove that Manitoba is any richer or more desirable country. It only proves that we have a patient and long suffering people that permit a monopoly to exist which deliberately robs them of that amount of money. There is no reason in God's world why they should permit it to exist another month longer. The legislatures are in session and, if their representatives do not promptly and efficiently remedy this matter, it would be in order to serve notice upon them never to return to their constituents unless they wish to be pointed out as the bought and perjured tools of the monopoly. There is great public emergency for instant action. The Illinois railroad law has tried, and found valid and lasting. Let it be enacted at once, if necessary, under the suspension of the rules. If anything better can be hatched out by the combined wisdom of Minnesota and Dakota it can afterwards be passed as an amendment or substitute.

IMPORTANT TO FARMERS.

It is said good fortune comes to us all sooner or later. It now appears the farmers' time has come. Col. John H. Stevens, the pioneer agriculturist of the Northwest, and one of the most successful farmers Minnesota has ever known, a man whose writings are familiar to every farmer in the Northwest, and whose experience as a general farmer entitles him to the throne of authority in every detail that appertains to farmers' pursuits, has decided that hereafter his entire writings and support shall go to Farm, Stock and Home, published at Minneapolis, Minn., which enables the farmers to receive the benefits of his experience at a cost to them of only fifty cents a year. This beautiful sixteen page Journal, printed upon the best calendered paper, ably edited and contributed to in every department, viz: Farm, Cattle, Horse, Poultry, Swine, Sheep, Gardening, Dairying, Horticulture, Bees and the Home, will be sent for one year by calling at this office and leaving the cash, or we will furnish it and the JOURNAL for one year for $2.00. Call and see sample copy. This is the best paper for the money ever published upon the American continent.

FARM NOTES.

[illegible]

the land has been in cultivation with these one season. Another way to prepare the land for garden crops is, to plow, harrow, and sow it to buckwheat. When this is in flower, plow it under, and sow it again to buckwheat. Turn this under at the proper time, and in September, or at the usual time, sow the land with rye, to be plowed in next spring. The object should be to bring the land, a few acres at a time, into condition to raise any garden crops. The rapidity with which this can be done will depend upon the amount of manure at command for the purpose. It will be worth while for all farmers who are within easy reach of a market to give this subject proper thought, and be ready to commence the coming spring to make a farm-garden.

LIVE STOCK NOTES.

The result of neglect in the stable and stall will be apparent now. All who have failed to keep their animals clean, warm and well fed, will need to take more than ordinary care in bringing them through the winter. Liberal feeding is the only true economy in wintering stock. Induce animals to eat, keep their appetites keen with frequent changes of food, and feel satisfied, when spring comes, that all the fodder has been consumed in keeping the live stock plump and healthy. Every barnyard should have an abundant supply of pure water. Animals that are well wintered are half summered. Steady work does no harm to a mature horse. If well fed, carefully groomed and kept from undue exposure, a team may labor the winter through with profit both to the owner and the animals. Horses when confined to a close, warm stable, become tender and subject to colds, etc. Incoming cows should have a limited diet of dry hay, with a little bran, for a few weeks previous to calving. The young stock, and all others infested with lice, should have the skin rubbed with a mixture of sweet oil and kerosene in equal parts. Sheep need, besides abundant wholesome food, plenty of pure air, a dry yard and sleeping place. The porkers should already gone to the market. Store pigs will make a profitable growth if well housed and fed during winter. Light and frequent meals are best. Eggs can only be expected from fowls that are "at home" in a warm, dry house, provided with abundant food, both green and dry, lime, gravel and pure water.

PROFITABLE FEEDING OF COWS.

Where milk is sold at high prices near cities, it may pay dairymen to overfeed his cows with brewers' grain and articles of the kind, to stimulate milk production, without regard to their health, but for the general farmer, it is important not only to have a good cow, but to keep her in health for a number of years. At present prices of dairy products, I do not see what profit the ordinary farmer can make without, by close management, he can turn every function of his cow to account. First, of course, in importance is her milk production, but of almost equal value are her calves for veal or to raise, and finally her carcass for beef, when her milking days are over. While admitting that the excessive milk or butter production of individuals may be so profitable that the other elements above named may be dismissed as of relatively little importance, I feel called upon to lay down as a proposition, the truth of which extensive observation and the experience of many years devoted to the breeding of animals of various kinds has convinced me, that any excessive or abnormal development in any one direction destroys the balance of the system and unless kept within proper bounds, results in acute disease or constitutional deterioration. No one believes more firmly than I do that the average yield of our domestic animals of every kind can be raised or [illegible] in every direction, but the improvement must be sought in improved animals both in breed and general individuality, and not in an over development of one organ or set of organs at the expense of the [illegible]

All who wish to avail themselves of the offer we made Dec. 1st, may do so if they will pay up arrearages on subscription and one year in advance before Feb. 1st. This offer made till Jan. 1st, now extended to Feb. 1st, is this: To all who will pay up arrearages in full and one year in advance before Feb. 1st, 1885, we will allow the usual rebate given for subscriptions paid in advance, i. e., we will accept $1.65 per annum for papers sent outside of Polk County, or $1.50 inside of the [illegible]

A. Yvernault,

Dealer in

General Merchandise,

—MAIN STREET,—

Crookston, - Minn.

All my friends, both old and new, are cordially invited to call and examine my stoc and get prices.

EIKEN BROS.,

Corner of Fletcher and Main Street, Crookston, Minn.

Dealers in

HARDWARE, TIWARE, STOVES,

—AND—

SHELFWARE.

WE KEEP A

FULL & COMPLETE STOCK,

—AND—

Invite the Patronage

OF ALL.

First National Bank

OF CROOKSTON.

PAID IN CAPITAL $100,000

SURPLUS, 1,400

Money to loan on long or short time on approved security.

Interest on time deposits. Faithful attention to Collections and prompt remittance.

GEO. O. ERSKINE, President.

K. D. CHASE, Vice President.

CHAS. E. SAWYER, Cashier.

Crookston Nurseries.

Established in 1879.

Tree Claim Stock.

I will furnish my customers and others, trees and seeds for Tree Claims at reduced figures in the spring of 1885. Also all the hardier varieties of small fruits [illegible] Currants, Gooseberries, and Raspberries [illegible] Crab Apple trees, Cottonwood and Box Elder [illegible] and Ash, seed and Willow cuttings [illegible] [illegible]

Commercial Hotel,

NORTON & BENEDICT, Props.

[illegible]

[illegible]

ATTORNEYS AT LAW

[illegible]

THE

St. Paul,

Minneapolis

—AND—

Manitoba

RAILWAY,

WITH ITS

1,400 Miles of Road

Is the only line extending through the

Park Region of Minnesota,

To all principal points in

Red River Valley,

Northern Minnesota,

Northern Dakota,

And to Devil's Lake and Turtle Moun- Districts.

—CONTAINING OVER—

9,000,000 Acres

GOVERNMENT LANDS!

The Land department of the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway has exclusive charge of the Company's Lands in Minnesota, and all correspondence relative to the purchase of lands, terms, description or price of any particular tract should be addressed to that department.

Maps and pamphlets describing the country and giving rates of fare to settlers, etc., mailed FREE on application.

JAS. B. POWER,
Land and Immigration Commissioner

C. H. WARREN,
General Passenger Agent,
St. P., M. & M. R'y., St. Paul, Minn.

P. A. DUFOUR,

Attorney and Counselor at Law,

—MAIN STREET,—

CROOKSTON, MINN.

SECOND STREET

MEAT MARKET

STANTON & CO., Proprietors.

Choice meats of every description. Fish and game in their season. Everything of the very best quality and lowest prices. Call and see us.

STANTON & CO.

[illegible]son's Block, Second Street.

MERCHANTS' BILLIARD HALL,

FRED ANDERSON, Proprietor.

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

The choicest Wines, Liquors and Cigars constantly on hand.

DR. M. WATTS,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.

OFFICE ON ROBERT SREET.

Professional calls by day or night attended to with promptness.

John Crawford & Son,

Proprietors of

Crawford's Bakery,

SECOND STREET,

Crookston, Minn.

CONFECTIONERY

Fresh Bread, Buns, Cakes and Biscuits. All Articles in the Fancy Baking Line.

WM. WATTS,

ATTORNEY AT LAW

AND DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE.

OFFICE OVER MERCHANTS' BANK.

$100,000

To Loan on improved claims in sums of $250 to $2,000. Cash paid for school bonds. Call on or address

John McLean, Att'y at Law,

147-[illegible] Crookston, Minn.

Frank M. Brown,

COMMISSION STORE,

Main Street, - Crookston.

TWO DOORS NORTH OF MERCHANTS' BANK.

Consignments of Goods for

QUICK CASH SALES

SOLICITED.

☞ Auction every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon.

NEW

DRUG STORE

IN GARFIELD

DR. A. NELSON, Prop.

The citizens of this town and vicinity are respectfully invited to call at my new Drug Store in the town of Garfield and examine my stock of

DRUGS, MEDICINES, PAINTS, OILS AND YANKEE NOTIONS.

It is no longer necessary to go 40 or 55 miles for anything in this line, as I have a full supply at prices as reasonable as any town in the Northwest. Call and see

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON

I am also ready to answer all calls day or night, for the practice of my profession. Call, or leave orders at my Drug Store in Garfield, Polk Co., Minn.

DR. A. NELSON.

MERCHANTS' Bank of Crookston.

H. B. MONTGOMERY.........President, St. Paul, Minn.

M. R. BROWN,............Vice President, Crookston, Minn.

J. KELSO.........Second Vice President, Bellevue, Iowa.

Wm. ROSS...........................Cashier, Crookston, Minn.

CASH CAPITAL, $32,000

SURPLUS, $16,533.82.

Will receive deposits and allow interest by special contract.

Buy and Sell Foreign and Domestic Exchange, make collections, and do a strictly legitimate business.

Agents for foreign passage tickets.

De Skandinaviske Sprog tales her.

WM. ROSS, Cashier.

E. D. Schreader

LIVERY,

Feed and Sale Stable.

BEST TURNOUTS

IN THE CITY.

Single or Double Rigs, with or without driver or

SADDLE HORSES

Always ready at a moments notice by day or night. If you want a Nobby Turnout call at the Red Barn, Corner Main and Third Streets,

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

Bigham & Olafson

(Successors to Jure & Bergland,)

THE POPULAR MERCHANTS ON

MAIN STREET, CROOKSTON.

Have on hand and are constantly receiving full lines of

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES,

CROCKERY,

CLOTHING,

BOOTS AND SHOES,

HATS AND CAPS

In fact everything usually found in a first-class general store.

☞ Our goods are bought with great care and will be sold at [illegible]

LOW PRICES

FOR CASH.

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, January 29, 1885.

'ROUND HOME.

W. F. Zwickey has gone to St. Paul on a flying trip.

Table linens from 20 cents to 90 censt at the New York store.

Wm. Ross struck flowing water at a depth of about 150 feet. The well flows about 50 barrels per day.

You can buy one pair kid gloves for 50 cents; reduced from $1.50, at the New York store.

The Ada Index had one Foote in the city on Wednesday. The JOURNAL acknowledges a pleasant call.

Geo. Tripp and Mr. Hayes came in from Maple Lake on Wednesday to enjoy civilization at the skating rinks.

The best five cent cigars is at the Red Star Grocery, Broadway. [51-tf]

Very pleasant weather this week; not too cold nor too warm. Wheat sold at 68 for No. 1 Hard, but very little coming in.

The Congregational benefit at the rink on Thursday evening last was a "big thing on wheels." The net receipts we learn are $50.

You can buy gents' wool underwear at less than wholesale cost, at the Ne York store.

Postmaster Jacobus has tendered his resignation, recommending George McLean as his successor. Mac will make a good postmaster.

Dr. Thomas has a fine dug well on his farm. He got discouraged at the prospect of getting a flowing well and put men at work digging. The well cost $40 and furnishes an abundance of nice, soft water.

Hack & Gallasch are selling at cost to make room for spring stock. For bargains call on them. 38tf

A. D. Stephens has been appointed, by the Marsh Harvester company, general collecting agent for Polk, Norman, Marshall and Kittson Counties, which position he is well calculated to fill with grace and dignity.

W. N. Godfrey came down from Maple Lake on Monday and says that it was cold, some, but not so dog-goned. He reports everybody as happy up there—having dead loads of good health which is said to rank among the choicest blessings to man. Owing to the atmosphere the ozone is immense!

At the New York store they are bound to do business even in dull times if prices can do any.

The Fargo Argus Annual is at hand and is a beauty. The Argus reaches us on its day of publication brimful of the news of the day. It reaches us twelve hours sooner than St. Paul or Minneapolis papers which makes it of more value. We can recommend the Argus to any of our readers who wish to get the latest news as early as it can be obtained.

You can buy a good colored blanket or 95 cents, at the New York store.

Senator Steenerson informs the JOURNAL that he is not parent of the 7 per cent. bill as he is falsely reported in the Pioneer Press. He says he has sins enough of his own to answer for without being made to bear the sins of the whole Senate and very naturally feels indignant that the P. P. does not make any attempt to correct its error though he notified that paper of its mistake

Fine watchmaker and jeweler, Crookston, Minn.

The Breeder's Gazette, of Chicago, now comes regularly to our table. It is one of the best stock papers we know of and invaluable to the stock breeder and lover of good stock. Our readers would consult their best interests by procuring a sample copy to examine. We will take pleasure in aiding all who would like to see a copy or they can address J. H. Sanders, Breeder's Gazette, Chicago, Ill.

Charles Vance had a call to go to Rockstad to educate the natives last fall. After completing his job he has returned and is now giving a few lessons on the fiddle—i. e. enough to keep himself in fire wood. He succeeded so well as a pedagogue that he now has calls from all over the world and is now considering a proposition to go and educate the 13 towns—(P. S. We don't mean Kaiser's paper, though that might join the infant class with profit.)

Harry Attix, one of the pioneer settlers of the Maple Lake Country, (if not THE pioneer) was in the city on Monday. Harry is one of your grangers whose brains supplement their hands and he is, of course, making a success of farming. He has some choice stock, raises some grain and in fact does not place his eggs all in one basket. He says the little church up there has a fine Meneely bell awaiting transportation to its belfry. All well and happy.

Our boys do say that the Grand Forks Herald's report of the races in that city last Friday night was unjust and unfair. The report was rather jug-handled and represented Carruth as fouling Griggs and throwing him, thus winning the race. It is said that when Griggs fell Carruth stopped and waited for him to get up and regain his place. The Herald says nothing of this but accuses McIntyre of trying the same tactics, in the next race. The polo game was a draw. The Herald is generally very fair and impartial but hardly seems to be so in this case.

Hon. B. Sampson is taking in the Saintly city.

Senator Steenerson spent the Sabbath with his family in the city.

Wm. Ross is building a new flowing well at his city residence these hot days.

Alex McKinnon went down to St. Paul last week to see how they run the old masheen.

Offers were made for barley in carload lots at 35 cents on car this week and wheat still goes up.

Pete Cornelius has had quite a seige of sickness but is now around again. Nothing more serious than a severe cold.

J. E. Dabler, collector for the Reliance folks, was in the city this week. He has gone to St. Thomas for awhile.

R. B. (that stands for Boomer) Mumford the Glyndon boomer passed through the city on Friday en-route for Red Lake Falls where he has some real estate interests.

Ed Greenhalgh and Leslie Maley tried conclusions at the rink on Tuesday evening. Maley was declared the winner, but it was so very close that Greenhalgh's friends are not satisfied.

There is a bill under consideration for building another insane asylum and it is said that Fergus Falls, Moorhead and Crookston are putting their best foot forward to get it. What-ever Crookston wants of another we fail to comprehend. She already has TWO—well-patronized skating-rinks.

Chris Houston has returned from a visit to friends east and is glad to get back to steady weather and civilization once more. He says that while he enjoyed his visit very much he would not like to be obliged to live in such a various climate. Chris is now hauling in his No. 1 Hard for 68 cents and is happy.

Edward Columbus was in from Lake Pleasant on Tuesday. He says the farmers' club still flourishes and that its members can see wherein they have been greatly benefitted by being members. When every town in the county finds out this important fact then can farmers begin to expect to accomplish something.

Knute Steenerson, the mayor elect of St. Hilaire shook hands with his many friends in the city this week. His election by a rousing majority has added about six-inches to the length of him. (and that's needless) He expects to see the village organization business legalized soon and to grasp the reins of power at an early day. He will be an easy driver we predict.

The event of the season was the 2:09 trot at the Favorite rink last week between Earnest Moeckel and P. A. Dufour. Time: Just as quick as P. A. could strike the floor. Won by Moeckel who stood up while P. A, was reaching the floor. The decision we regard as entirely wrong because Dufour "got there first." Neither had ever been on wheels before which made the race more interesting. They strapped on the wheels and Earnest rolled about 6⅝ inches; while Dufour, having discovered a fly upon the wall that might bother him after he had warmed up, attempted to kick the hind sight off that fly first, but changed his mind and tabled the resolution with a "thud" that might have been heard in Carman or might not according to the "dryness of the atmosphere." He yelled when he struck, some said in pain, but he stoutly avers he said "time!" (instead of—— as others say.) Be that as it may he made a few remarks and would have thrown up the sponge if he had had any. He had eaten nothing so light before (or since.) At all events he intimated that he had had enough and the judges decided Earnest the winner. We don't agree with their judgment.

Well! Well!! Well!!!

It seems to be well all 'round for cashier Ross. Yesterday he got a 50 barrel flowing well and this morning he is on change with a genial smile a rod long or thereabouts. Cause—a bouncing baby boy who came to his house last night. He contracted the well for $150.

Notice to Bankers,

STATE OF MINNESOTA, }
Norman County, } ss.

Pursuant to an act of the Legislature approved March 3d, 1881, entitled "An Act relating to the duties of County Treasurers and the care of the public funds," (being chapter 124, G. L. for 1881) notice is hereby given that proposals for the deposit of the funds of this county for the ensuing two years will be received by the undersigned, Board of Auditors, at the office of the County Auditor, until the 13th day of February, 1885. Such proposals shall state what security will be given to the county for such funds so deposited and what interest will be allowed on monthly balances of the amounts deposited.

Conditioned that the said funds with accrued interest, shall be held subject to draft and payment at all times on demand.

We reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

Dated at Ada, Norman County, Minn., this 27th day of Jan., 1885.

NELS O. HENDERSON,
Chairman Board County Com's.
J. C. NORBY,
Clerk of District Court.
JOHN SHELY,
County Auditor.

Euclid Items.

From the Olive Leaf.

News items awful scarce this week.

No. 1 Hard 65 cents.

Sleighing good.

Dance in drug hall Friday night.

S. Currie was in town Monday.

O. H. Lucken was in town on Tuesday collecting personal property taxes. He reports money awful scarce and says that if the people are pushed for their taxes it will cause lots of suffering.

East side wood is again offered for sale on our streets.

We can report twelve births for this town for 1884.

Taxes very high in our town this year.

Ed Charboneau was in town to-day.

Mrs. McArthur is reported as dangerous again.

Birthday parties still continue to be the leading social events. The latest was given by Wm. Cronkhite, a celebration of his 54th birthday.

Doc Chapin kicks up his heels and sings: "I'll tell them all I'm single!"

The R. R. U. Elevator Co. intend to put an engine and feed mill, also a cleaning machine, in their Euclid elevator next season.

Several unoccupied farm houses in this vicinity have been broken into and their contents overhauled and the doors and windows taken from some houses.

Mr. Davis will do blacksmithing at Murney's old stand during the absence of Mr. Murney.

Wm. Davidson, of the Keystone farm goes to Granite Falls this week to purchase a carload of beef cattle for the farm use.

A general store with capital enough to carry a large stock of goods and carry some of the farmers over till next fall would do a large business here and be certain of success.

Mr. Tracy McCracken, of Warren, succeeds Mr. Geo. Harris, as station agent at Euclid. Mr. McCracken is one of the pioneer railroad men of this county, having been employed by this company for the past nine years. [We add our emphatic endorsement of Mac, than whom no better exists, and heartily congratulate Euclid on securing him. ED. JOURNAL.]

John Stevens thought he was doing a smart thing when he got Bi Chapin away from home and then invited a host of folks out to Bi's home to clean out the ranch. Bi says seeing it was his birth day he didn't care so much, but any other time he would have tuned up his old fiddle and murdered the whole party.

Next Monday Mr. E. C. Murney starts for his old home in Canada, intending to be gone the balance of the winter. Mrs. Dr. Chapin starts on the same train on a visit to her friends at Coldwater, Michigan. Doc has kindly volunteered to look after the balance of the Murney's during the absence of E. C.

W. H. Graver intends to sell off all of his stock and machinery and rent his place next season. Mr. G. intends to return east next summer.

Our elevator men assert that there will be 60,000 bushels of wheat marketed at this point before next harvest. Notwithstanding the fact that a large amount has already been sold in time to take advantage of the low prices.

A few days ago it was discovered that the residence of Mr. T. H. Perkins, on Sec. 20, had been broken into during his absence. It is not known whether anything was taken or not, but the house showed evidence of having been thoroughly ransacked.

Mr. M. P. Losey has plugged gunpowder into his wood-pile, on the side nearest the blacksmith shop. A word to the wise is sufficient.

Some of our friends intimate that the effects of being a good journalist has already begun to show itself on the editorial nose.

While the farmers are trying to pass laws to govern the workings of the Railroad and Elevator companies would it not be better for them if they made a law making it a penitentiary offense to mortgage their crops? The bulk of the wheat in the Red River Valley has been sold at from 48 to 50 cents for No. 1 Hard because the farmers were obliged to sell to pay their mortgages, when only for that the wheat could have been sold for 68?

Among our numerous exchanges we have a paper called the "Red Lake Falls Gazette." We received this paper with an intimation from its editor that they would like to exchange with the Olive Leaf. Well, that editor has got nerve! May be he would like to swap a balky mule for a good farm!

There will not be over two-thirds as much wheat raised in this vicinity this year as heretofore, partly owing to the discouraging results of last year and partly because everybody says he has been farming too much land and will try one year farming a smaller area and doing that well.

We understand from good authority that the elevator companies are instructing their agents to hold all the wheat their houses will accommodate and only ship when then can get no more into their houses. The elevator companies are buying this wheat for future sale; a sure sign that wheat will advance again before long.

The treasurer of this society will bring an action against the editor to secure the sum of 30 cents unpaid fines imposed by the society upon the editor. This case promises to be a very interesting one as both parties have made extensive arrangements and secured eminent legal talent. Supreme Judge, J. S. Chapin, presides, and Judges Kirsch and Grover prosecute. A silver-tongued senator, from Michigan, and Prof. Southmayd, defend.

COMMUNICATED.

ED. OLIVE LEAF: Thinking that some of your readers might be interested in the local events transpiring at Put-in-Bay, that favorite winter resort, here they are:

Our winter has been very cold but pleasant.

Social events are increasing; birth-day parties having been added to the list.

Our schools have been closed for two days—young men must do a certain amount of courting.

Elmer and Harry's party last Friday added one more to the list of joyous events. Big turnout, big time and heartily enjoyed by all.

Mr. Southmayd was unexpectedly subpoenaed to Crookston Monday night on some law business. This is the cause: The effect was—no school on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Quite a number of friends met at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Chapin on the 16th to celebrate his 26th birthday and to get something good to eat.

Wells Misner must be having a good time among old Wisconsin friends. He has not even taken time to send back word of his safe arrival.

In a letter from C. E. Ricker, he states that he is located at Stephen, has a good position and pleasant surroundings. We will all be pleased to learn that our old friend "Rick" is happy and doing well.

Our fellow townsman, Charlie Harrington sends up a cry from Bellevue, Iowa. He says that he would like a copy of the Olive Leaf so that he can follow our little society in its weekly doings.

We suppose that the ladies will be busy building calico dresses and neck ties for the next two weeks. A grand time is expected.

Our young people, of the Sunday school got up a "bee" at the church, the boys sawing up the wood and the girls furnishing eatables for the occasion. The boys say the most enjoyable part of the occasion was the refreshments—and taking the girls home.

X. Y. Z.

The place to buy remnants is at the New York store.

The St. P. B. & N. R. R.

The St. Paul, Brainerd and Northwestern Railroad Company, in its corporate capacity, hereby makes to Polk County, in its corporate capacity, as a municipal corporation the following proposition, to-wit: If said County by an election duly held accoording to law, shall agree to issue to said R. R. Co., as a bonus in aid of said company, bonds of said County of the par value of $300,000, said bonds to draw interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, payable annually. The principal sum of aid bonds to mature in thirty years from the date of issue thereof, said Railroad Company agrees to build and complete ready for the passage of cars by or before July 1st, 1886, a standard gauge railroad from Brainerd, Minn., to some point in Polk County east of range 41, and thence by way of Red Lake Falls and Crookston to East Grand Forks. Said bonds to be issued to said Railroad Company when said Railroad as above agreed, shall have been completed to the points named ready for the passage of cars.

Dated at Brainerd, Minn., this 5th day of January, 1885.

ED. E. WEBSTER, President.
T. B. THOMPSON, Secretary,
of said R. R. Co.

The above was filed with the County Auditor, and after taking legal advice on the same, the Auditor declines to call an election for such purpose. It seems the proposition does not conform to the statutes.

You can buy a large surge white bed spread for 85 cents, at the New York store.

Notice.

I desire to call the attention of the public to the fact that I have opened a Jewelry and Watchmaking business in the store formerly occupied by James McKenzie, Second Street, Crookston. I purpose to run a first-class jewelry store and shall adhere to the rule of promptness all the time. I would also respectfully for a friendly patronage of the generous public.

C. H. SAAKE,

The United States Internal Revenue Special Tax is due May 1st. Any information and a full line of blanks can be had by calling on or addressing.

JOHN McLEAN,
Attorney at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

Hogs! Hogs!! Hogs!!!

A Polk County granger wants to buy a few good shotes, from six months to a year old, sows preferd. The highes market price in cash will be paid. For further particulars call on or address JOURNAL office, Crookston, Minn.

[37-tf]

Flannels, 54 and 56 inches wide, in all the new shades, reduced from $1.00 and $1.20 to 75 cents, at the New York store. The nett cost on these good was 85 cents.

County Printing.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE, }
Polk County, Jan 6th, 1885. }

The Board of County Commissioners of said county will be pleased to receive sealed bids for publishing list of delinquent real estate tax of 1885, proceedings of the Board of County Commissioners Legal Notices, &c.; also for furnishing Stationery, Court Calendars, &c. Bids will be opened at a special session of said Board to be held at their office in the city of Crookston, on Tuesday, February 3d, 1885. Separate bids are requested for each item.

P. J. McGUIRE, Clerk.

Fine stationery a specialty at M. Van Dyke & Co's.

NOTICE.

As I have established a Nursery in Crookston and propose to continue the business, I will announce to our former customers and all that are desirous of obtaining trees and Plants the coming spring that I will sell said stock at prices below any competition. Call and see me before making purchase elsewhere. Residence on second block north of Court House, or address P. O. Box 754.

Most Respectfully,
[38-tf] E. W. HASELTINE.

Notice to Farmers.

C. Kretzschmar's Grist Mill, at Red Lake Falls, is again open for business. Flour will be exchanged for wheat, or your wheat will be ground on shares. A good feed mill is run in connection with the mill and satisfaction in all cases is guaranteed. Flour and feed on hand at all times and sold at lowest market rates.

[16-tf] C. KRETZSCHMAR.

At Seely's

You can find some extra fine crab-apple cider; old bourbon whisky, eight years old. Maryland Club, pure rye; Jules and G. H. Mum's extra dry champagne; imported Scotch ales and porters for medicinal purposes; also a fine stock of imported cigars. Call and sample. [22-tf]

Money to Loan.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS to loan on improved farms from THREE to FIVE years time at very reasonable rates. Apply at my office on Broadway, in U. S. Land Office building.

[14tf] H. STEENERSON.

PIANO TUNING.

Any parties having pianos or organs that need tuning or repairing can have their work satisfactorily done by leaving orders at the Linton House. Satisfaction guaranteed.

[9-tf] E. F. WHEELDEN.

MARRIED.

CHRISTENSON—DAUSER.—In this city, Jan. 25th, 1885, at the residence of the bride's parents, by the Rev. H. L. House, Mr. P. L. Christenson to Miss Josephene Dauser, all of Crookston.

LIST OF LETTERS

Remaining uncalled for in the Crookston Post Office, for the week ending Jan. 25th, 1885. Persons calling for these letters will please say "advertised."

Bailey, W G
Bottem, Gu L
Gilbertson, Hendre
Hamilton, Chas E
Hansen, Miss Me A
Larson, Sophia
Lexvold, Ambjor K
Martinson, Anna
Reel, Mrs Chas
Rubo, Peter
Semb, S E
Swensen, Ernst
Vallor, Anna Hanson
Valsta, Bernt Marta
Valan, Anne Olson
Valdnes, Peder A

D. JACOBUS, P. M.

E. D. Schreader

LIVERY,

Feed and Sale Stable.

BEST TURNOUTS
IN THE CITY.

Single or Double Rigs, with or withou driver or

SADDLE HORSES

Always ready at a moments notice by day or night. If you want a Nobby Turnout call at the Red Barn, Corner Main and Third Streets,

CROOKSTON. MINNESOTA

Crookston Nurseries.

Established in 1879.

Tree Claim Stock.

I will furnish my customers and others, trees and seeds for Tree Claims at reduced figures in the spring of 1885 Also all the hardier varieties of small fruits, such as Currants, Gooseberries, and Raspberries. Also good thrifty Transcendent and Hislop Crab-Apple trees, Cottonwood and Box Elder trees. Box Elder and Ash seed, and Willow cuttings. Also garden seeds. The firm of Haseltine Bros. was dissolved in June, 1884. E. W Haseltine has no interest or share in the old Crookston Nurseries. I continue business on the old grounds in Crookston. Don't fail to to send for catalogue of prices

FRANK T. HASELTINE, Prop.
Crookston, Minn.

Commercial Hotel,

NORTON & BENEDICT, Prop's.

SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON MINN

First-class in all respects. Terms reasonable. A share of the public patronage solicited.

WM. WATTS,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND DEALER IN
REAL ESTATE:
OFFICE OVER MERCHANTS' BANK.

STEWART & LAWRENCE,

SUCCESSORS TO E. M. WALSH,

Hardware Merchants,

CARRY A FULL LINE OF

Iron, Steel, Nails, Tinware, Guns,

REVOLVER, AMMUNITION, BUILDING PAPER,

Sash, Doors, &c.

McKINNON BRO'S

CARRIAGE WORKS!

Robert Street,

Crookston, - Minn.

AGENTS FOR THE

J. I. CASE THRESHING MACHINES!

And Manufacturers of

Carriages, Wagons,

BUGGIES,

Cutters, Sleds, &c.

Axles, Springs, and all Repairs kept in stock,

DEALERS IN

FARM MACHINERY:

In Farm Machinery we have the Champion Seeder, Fargo Diamond Tooth Harrow, Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow, Davenport and Grand Detour Sulky and Walking Plows, Buford Gang Plows, Field Rollers of all sizes, Warrior Mowers, the leading Hay Rake and first-class Harvesters and Binders, the Webber Wagon and McKinnon Bros. Wagon, In fact we have everything in machinery, from

A Wheelbarrow to a Threshing Machine!

—EXTRAS—

For all Machines constantly on hand

THE

J. I. CASE

THRESHING MACHINE COMPANY

The Dennet or Beloit

HARVESTING MACHINE COMPANY

And the Van Brunt & Davis

SEEDER COMPANY,

Are Represented

BY

STEENERSON BROS.,

CROOKSTON, MINN.

HOW TO BE HEALTHY!

Drink LePage's

35c Tea and 35c pure Java Coffee

AND SMOKE MY NICKEL PILGRIM CIGAR.

HOW TO BE WEALTHY!

COME TO THE RED STAR GROCERY

And Save Money on everything you buy.

AND IF YOU ARE WISE

You will buy only Pure and Fresh Groceries. THE RED STAR GROCERY is the place to get them and there you will find Prices the Lowest. Farmers and others bring in your Butter and Eggs and get highest prices for them. Remember the RED STAR, one door south of Montreal House.

E. LEPAGE, Broadway, Crookston, Minn

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, January 29, 1885.

'ROUND HOME.

W. F. Zwickey has gone to St. Paul on a flying trip.

Table linens from 20 cents to 90 censt at the New York store.

Wm. Ross struck flowing water at a depth of about 150 feet. The well flows about 50 barrels per day.

You can buy one pair kid gloves for 50 cents; reduced from $1.50, at the New York store.

The Ada Index had one Foote in the city on Wednesday. The JOURNAL acknowledges a pleasant call.

Geo. Tripp and Mr. Hayes came in from Maple Lake on Wednesday to enjoy civilization at the skating rinks.

The best five cent cigars is at the Red Star Grocery, Broadway. [51-tf]

Very pleasant weather this week; not too cold nor too warm. Wheat sold at 68 for No. 1 Hard, but very little coming in.

The Congregational benefit at the rink on Thursday evening last was a "big thing on wheels." The net receipts we learn are $50.

You can buy gents' wool underwear at less than wholesale cost, at the New York store.

Postmaster Jacobus has tendered his resignation, recommending George McLean as his successor. Mac will make a good postmaster.

Dr. Thomas has a fine dug well on his farm. He got discouraged at the prospect of getting a flowing well and put men at work digging. The well cost $40 and furnishes an abundance of nice, soft water.

Hack & Gallasch are selling at cost to make room for spring stock. For bargains call on them. 38tf

A. D. Stephens has been appointed, by the Marsh Harvester company, general collecting agent for Polk, Norman, Marshall and Kittson Counties, which position he is well calculated to fill with grace and dignity.

W. N. Godfrey came down from Maple Lake on Monday and says that it was cold, some, but not so dog-goned. He reports everybody as happy up there—having dead loads of good health which is said to rank among the choicest blessings to man. Owing to the atmosphere the ozone is immense!

At the New York store they are bound to do business even in dull times if prices can do any.

The Fargo Argus Annual is at hand and is a beauty. The Argus reaches us on its day of publication brimful of the news of the day. It reaches us twelve hours sooner than St. Paul or Minneapolis papers which makes it of more value. We can recommend the Argus to any of our readers who wish to get the latest news as early as it can be obtained.

You can buy a good-colored blanket or 95 cents, at the New York store.

Senator Steenerson informs the JOURNAL that he is not parent of the 7 per cent. bill as he is falsely reported in the Pioneer Press. He says he has sins enough of his own to answer for without being made to bear the sins of the whole Senate and very naturally feels indignant that the P. P. does not make any attempt to correct its error though he notified that paper of its mistake.

Fine watchmaker and jeweler, Crookston, Minn.

The Breeder's Gazette, of Chicago, now comes regularly to our table. It is one of the best stock papers we know of and invaluable to the stock breeder and lover of good stock. Our readers would consult their best interests by procuring a sample copy to examine. We will take pleasure in aiding all who would like to see a copy or they can address J. H. Sanders, Breeder's Gazette, Chicago, Ill.

Charles Vance had a call to go to Rockstad to educate the natives last fall. After completing his job he has returned and is now giving a few lessons on the fiddle—i. e. enough to keep himself in fire wood. He succeeded so well as a pedagogue that he now has calls from all over the world and is now considering a proposition to go and educate the 18 towns—(P. S. We don't mean Kaiser's paper, though that might join the infant class with profit.)

Harry Altix, one of the pioneer settlers of the Maple Lake Country (if not THE pioneer) was in the city on Monday. Harry is one of your grangers whose brains supplement their hands and he is, of course, making a success of farming. He has some choice stock, raises some grain and in fact does not place his eggs all in one basket. He says the little church up there has a fine Meneely bell awaiting transportation to its belfry. All well, and happy.

Our boys do say that the Grand Forks Herald's report of the races in that city last Friday night was unjust and unfair. The report was rather jug-handled and represented Carruth as fouling Griggs and throwing him, thus winning the race. It is said that when Griggs fell Carruth stopped and waited for him to get up and regain his place. The Herald says nothing of this but accuses McIntyre of trying the same tactics in the next race. The polo game was a draw. The Herald is generally very fair and impartial but hardly seems to be so in this case.

Hon. B. Sampson is taking in the Saintly city.

Senator Steenerson spent the Sabbath with his family in the city.

Wm. Ross is building a new flowing well at his city residence these hot days.

Alex McKinnon went down to St. Paul last week to see how they run the old masheen.

Offers were made for barley in carload lots at 35 cents on car this week and wheat still goes up.

Pete Cornelius has had quite a seige of sickness but is now around again. Nothing more serious than a severe cold.

J. E. Dabler, collector for the Reliance folks, was in the city this week. He has gone to St. Thomas for awhile.

R. B. (that stands for Boomer) Mumford the Glyndon boomer passed through the city on Friday en-route for Red Lake Falls where he has some real estate interests.

Ed Greenhalgh and Leslie Maley tried conclusions at the rink on Tuesday evening. Maley was declared the winner, but it was so very close that Greenhalgh's friends are not satisfied.

There is a bill under consideration for building another insane asylum and it is said that Fergus Falls, Moorhead and Crookston are putting their best foot forward to get it. What-ever Crookston wants of another we fail to comprehend. She already has TWO—well-patronized skating-rinks.

Chris Houston has returned from a visit to friends east and is glad to get back to steady weather and civilization once more. He says that while he enjoyed his visit very much he would not like to be obliged to live in such a various climate. Chris is now hauling in his No. 1 Hard for 68 cents and is happy.

Edward Columbus was in from Lake Pleasant on Tuesday. He says the farmers' club still flourishes and that its members can see wherein they have been greatly benefitted by being members. When every town in the county finds out this important fact then can farmers begin to expect to accomplish something.

Knute Steenerson, the mayor elect of St. Hilaire shook hands with his many friends in the city this week. His election by a rousing majority has added about six inches to the length of him. (and that's needless) He expects to see the village organization business legalized soon and to grasp the reins of power at an early day. He will be an easy driver we predict.

The event of the season was the 2:09 trot at the Favorite rink last week between Earnest Moeckel and P. A. Dufour. Time: Just as quick as P. A. could strike the floor. Won by Moeckel who stood up while P. A. was reaching the floor. The decision we regard as entirely wrong because Dufour "got there first." Neither had ever been on wheels before which made the race more interesting. They strapped on the wheels and Earnest rolled about 6½ inches, while Dufour, having discovered a fly upon the wall that might bother him after he had warmed up, attempted to kick the hind sight off that fly first, but changed his mind and tabled the resolution with a "thud" that might have been heard in Carman or might not according to the "dryness of the atmosphere." He yelled when he struck, some said in pain, but he stoutly avers he said "time!" (instead of—— as others say.) Be that as it may he made a few remarks and would have thrown up the sponge if he had had any. He had eaten nothing so light before (or since.) At all events he intimated that he had had enough and the judges decided Earnest the winner. We don't agree with their judgment.

Well! Well!! Well!!!

It seems to be well all round for cashier Ross. Yesterday he got a 50 barrel flowing well and this morning he is on change with a genial smile a rod long or thereabouts. Cause—a bouncing baby boy who came to his house last night. He contracted the well for $150.

Notice to Bankers.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, }
Norman County, } ss.

Pursuant to an act of the Legislature approved March 3d, 1881, entitled "An Act relating to the duties of County Treasurers and the care of the public funds," (being chapter 124, G. L. for 1881) notice is hereby given, that proposals for the deposit of the funds of this county for the ensuing two years will be received by the undersigned, Board of Auditors, at the office of the County Auditor, until the 18th day of February, 1885. Such proposals shall state what security will be given to the county for such funds so deposited and what interest will be allowed on monthly balances of the amounts deposited.

Conditioned that the said funds with accrued interest shall be held subject to draft and payment at all times on demand.

We reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

Dated at Ada, Norman County, Minn., this 27th day of Jan., 1885.

NELS O. [illegible],
Chairman Board County Com's.
J. O. NORBY,
Clerk of District Court.
JOHN [illegible],
County Auditor.

Euclid Items.

From the Olive Leaf.

News items awful scarce this week.

No. 1 Hard 65 cents.

Sleighing good.

Dance in drug hall Friday night.

S. Currie was in town Monday.

O. H. Lucken was in town on Tuesday collecting personal property taxes. He reports money awful scarce, and says that if the people are pushed for their taxes it will cause lots of suffering.

East side wood is again offered for sale on our streets.

We can report twelve births for this town for 1884.

Taxes very high in our town this year.

Ed Charboneau was in town to-day.

Mrs. McArthur is reported as dangerous again.

Birthday parties still continue to be the leading social events. The latest was given by Wm. Cronkhite, a celebration of his 54th birthday.

Doc Chapin kicks up his heels and sings: "I'll tell them all I'm single!"

The R. R. U. Elevator Co. intend to put an engine and feed mill, also a cleaning machine, in their Euclid elevator next season.

Several unoccupied farm houses in this vicinity have been broken into and their contents overhauled and the doors and windows taken from some houses.

Mr. Davis will do blacksmithing at Murney's old stand during the absence of Mr. Murney.

Wm. Davidson, of the Keystone farm goes to Granite Falls this week to purchase a carload of beef cattle for the farm use.

A general store with capital enough to carry a large stock of goods and carry some of the farmers over till next fall would do a large business here and be certain of success.

Mr. Tracy McCracken, of Warren, succeeds Mr. Geo. Harris, as station agent at Euclid. Mr. McCracken is one of the pioneer railroad men of this county, having been employed by this company for the past nine years. [We add our emphatic endorsement of Mac, than whom no better exists, and heartily congratulate Euclid on securing him. ED. JOURNAL.]

John Stevens thought he was doing a smart thing when he got Bi Chapin away from home and then invited a host of folks out to Bi's home to clean out the ranch. Bi says seeing it was his birth day he didn't care so much, but any other time he would have tuned up his old fiddle and murdered the whole party.

Next Monday Mr. E. C. Murney starts for his old home in Canada, intending to be gone the balance of the winter. Mrs. Dr. Chapin starts on the same train on a visit to her friends at Coldwater, Michigan. Doc has kindly volunteered to look after the balance of the Murney's during the absence of E. C.

W. H. Graver intends to sell off all of his stock and machinery and rent his place next season. Mr. G. intends to return east next summer.

Our elevator men assert that there will be 60,000 bushels of wheat marketed at this point before next harvest. Notwithstanding the fact that a large amount has already been sold in time to take advantage of the low prices.

A few days ago it was discovered that the residence of Mr. T. H. Perkins, on Sec. 20, had been broken into during his absence. It is not known whether anything was taken or not, but the house showed evidence of having been thoroughly ransacked.

Mr. M. P. Losey has plugged gunpowder into his wood-pile, on the side nearest the blacksmith shop. A word to the wise is sufficient.

Some of our friends intimate that the effects of being a good journalist has already begun to show itself on the editorial nose.

While the farmers are trying to pass laws to govern the workings of the Railroad and Elevator companies would it not be better for them if they made a law making it a penitentiary offense to mortgage their crops? The bulk of the wheat in the Red River Valley has been sold at from 48 to 50 cents for No. 1 Hard because the farmers were obliged to sell to pay their mortgages, when only for that the wheat could have been sold for 68?

Among our numerous exchanges we have a paper called the "Red Lake Falls Gazette." We received this paper with an intimation from its editor that they would like to exchange with the Olive Leaf. Well, that editor has got nerve. May be he would like to swap a balky mule for a good farm.

There will not be over two-thirds as much wheat raised in this vicinity this year as heretofore, partly owing to the discouraging results of last year and partly because everybody says he has been farming too much land and will try one year farming a smaller area and doing that well.

We understand from good authority that the elevator companies are instructing their agents to hold all the wheat their houses will accommodate and only ship when they can get no more into their houses. The elevator companies are buying this wheat for future sale, a sure sign that wheat will advance again before long.

The treasurer of this society will bring an action against the editor to secure the sum of 80 cents unpaid fines, imposed by the society, upon the editor. This case promises to be a very interesting one as both parties have made extensive arrangements and secured eminent legal talent. Supreme Judge J. S. Chapin, presides, and Judges Kirsch and Grover prosecute. A silver-tongued senator, from Michigan, and Prof. Southmayd, defend.

COMMUNICATED.

ED. OLIVE LEAF: Thinking that some of your readers might be interested in the local events transpiring at Put-in-Bay, that favorite winter resort, here they are.

Our winter has been very cold but pleasant.

Social events are increasing; birth-day parties having been added to the list.

Our schools have been closed for two days—young men must do a certain amount of courting.

Elmer and Harry's party last Friday added one more to the list of joyous events. Big turnout, big time and heartily enjoyed by all.

Mr. Southmayd was unexpectedly subpœnaed to Crookston Monday night on some law business. This is the cause. The effect was—no school on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Quite a number of friends met at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Chapin on the 16th to celebrate his 26th birthday and to get something good to eat.

Wells Misner must be having a good time among old Wisconsin friends. He has not even taken time to send back word of his safe arrival.

In a letter from C. E. Ricker, he states that he is located at Stephen, has a good position and pleasant surroundings. We will all be pleased to learn that our old friend "Rick" is happy and doing well.

Our fellow townsman, Charlie Harrington sends up a cry from Bellevue, Iowa. He says that he would like a copy of the Olive Leaf so that he can follow our little society in its weekly doings.

We suppose that the ladies will be busy building calico dresses and neck ties for the next two weeks. A grand time is expected.

Our young people, of the Sunday school got up a "bee" at the church, the boys sawing up the wood and the girls furnishing eatables for the occasion. The boys say the most enjoyable part of the occasion was the refreshments—and taking the girls home.

X. Y. Z.

The place to buy remnants is at the New York store.

The St. P. B. & N. R. R.

The St. Paul, Brainerd and Northwestern Railroad Company, in its corporate capacity, hereby makes to Polk County, in its corporate capacity, as a municipal corporation the following proposition, to-wit: If said County by an election duly held accoording to law, shall agree to issue to said R. R. Co., as a bonus in aid of said company, bonds of said County of the par value of $300,000, said bonds to draw interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, payable annually. The principal sum of aid bonds to mature in thirty years from the date of issue thereof, said Railroad Company agrees to build and complete ready for the passage of cars by or before July 1st, 1886, a standard gauge railroad from Brainerd, Minn., to some point in Polk County east of range 41, and thence by way of Red Lake Falls and Crookston to East Grand Forks. Said bonds to be issued to said Railroad Company when said Railroad as above agreed, shall have been completed to the points named ready for the passage of cars.

Dated at Brainerd, Minn., this 5th day of January, 1885.

ED. F. WEBSTER, President.
T. B. THOMPSON, Secretary,
of said R. R. Co.

The above was filed with the County Auditor, and after taking legal advice on the same, the Auditor declines to call an election for such purpose. It seems the proposition does not conform to the statutes.

You can buy a large surge white bed spread for 85 cents, at the New York store.

Notice.

I desire to call the attention of the public to the fact that I have opened a Jewelry and Watchmaking business in the store formerly occupied by James McKenzie, Second Street, Crookston. I purpose to run a first-class jewelry store and shall adhere to the rule of promptness all the time. I would also respectfully for a friendly patronage of the generous public.

O. H. SAAKE.

The United States Internal Revenue Special Tax is due May 1st. Any information and a full line of blanks can be had by calling on or addressing

JOHN McLEAN,
Attorney at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

Hogs! Hogs!! Hogs!!!

A Polk County granger wants to buy a few good shotes, from six months to a year old, sows preferred. The highest market price in cash will be paid. For further particulars call on or address JOURNAL office, Crookston, Minn. [87-1t]

[illegible] flannels, 54 and 56 inches wide, in all the new shades, reduced from $1.00 and $1.20 to 75 cents at the New York store. The net cost on these goods [illegible]

County Printing.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE, }
Polk County, Jan. 6th, 1885. }

The Board of County Commissioners of said county will be pleased to receive sealed bids for publishing list of delinquent real estate tax of 1885, proceedings of the Board of County Commissioners Legal Notices, &c., also for furnishing Stationery, Court Calendars, &c. Bids will be opened at a special session of said Board to be held at their office in the city of Crookston, on Tuesday, February 3d, 1885. Separate bids are requested for each item.

P. J. McGUIRE, Clerk.

Fine stationery a specialty at M. Van Dyke & Co's.

NOTICE.

As I have established a Nursery in Crookston and propose to continue the business, I will annouce to our former customers and all that are desirous of obtaining trees and Plants the coming spring that I will sell said stock at prices below any competition. Call and see me before making purchase elsewhere. Residence on second block north of Court House, or address P. O. Box 754.

Most Respectfully,
[38-tf] E. W. HASELTINE.

Notice to Farmers.

C. Kretzschmar's Grist Mill, at Red Lake Falls, is again open for business. Flour will be exchanged for wheat, or your wheat will be ground on shares. A good feed mill is run in connection with the mill and satisfaction in all cases is guaranteed. Flour and feed on hand at all times and sold at lowest market rates.

[16-tf] C. KRETZSCHMAR.

At Seely's

You can find some extra fine crab-apple cider; old bourbon whisky, eight years old. Maryland Club, pure rye; Jules and G. H. Mum's extra dry champagne; imported Scotch ales and porters for medicinal purposes; also a fine stock of imported cigars. Call and sample. [22-tf]

Money to loan.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS to loan on improved farms from THREE to FIVE years time at very reasonable rates. Apply at my office on Broadway, in U. S. Land Office building.

[14tf] R. STEENERSON.

PIANO TUNING.

Any parties having pianos or organs that need tuning or repairing can have their work satisfactorily done by leaving orders at the Linton House. Satisfaction guaranteed.

[9-tf] E. F. WHEELDEN.

MARRIED.

CHRISTENSON—DAUSER.—In this city, Jan. 25th, 1885, at the residence of the bride's parents, by the Rev. H. L. House, Mr. P. L. Christenson to Miss Josepheng Dauser, all of Crookston.

LIST OF LETTERS

Remaining uncalled for in the Crookston Post Office, for the week ending Jan. 26th, 1885. Persons calling for these letters will please say "advertised."

Bailey, W G
Bottem, Gu L
Gilbertson, Hendre
Hamilton, Chas E
Hansen, Miss Me A
Larson, Sophia
Loxvold, Ambjor K
Martinson, Anna
Reel, Mrs Chas
Rube, Peter
Semb, S E
Swensen, Ernst
Vallor, Anna Hanson
Valsta, Bernt Marta
Valan, Anne Olson
Yaldnes, Peder A

D. JACOBUS, P. M.

E. D. Schreader
LIVERY,
Feed and Sale Stable.
BEST TURNOUTS
IN THE CITY.
Single or Double Rigs, with or withou driver or
SADDLE HORSES
Always ready at a moments notice by day or night. If you want a Nobby Turnout call at the Red Barn, Corner Main and Third Streets,
CROOKSTON. MINNESOTA.

Crookston Nurseries.
Established in 1879.
Tree Claim Stock.
I will furnish my customers and others, trees and seeds for Tree Claims at reduced figures in the spring of 1885. Also all the hardier varieties of small fruits, such as Currants, Gooseberries, and Raspberries. Also good thrifty Transcendent and Hislop Crab-Apple trees, Cottonwood and Box Elder trees. Box Elder and Ash seed, and Willow cuttings. Also garden seeds. The firm of Haseltine Bros. was dissolved in June, 1884. E. W. Haseltine has no interest or share in the old Crookston Nurseries. I continue business on the old grounds in Crookston. Don't fail to send for catalogue of prices.
FRANK T. HASELTINE, Prop.
Crookston, Minn.

Commercial Hotel,
NORTON & BENEDICT, Prop's.
SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.
First-class in all respects. Terms reasonable. A share of the public patronage solicited.

WM. WATTS,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
AND DEALER IN
REAL ESTATE.
OFFICE OVER MERCHANTS BANK.

STEWART & LAWRENCE,
SUCCESSORS TO E. M. WALSH,
Hardware Merchants,
CARRY A FULL LINE OF
Iron, Steel, Nails, Tinware, Guns,
REVOLVER, AMMUNITION, BUILDING PAPER,
Sash, Doors, &c.

McKINNON BRO'S
CARRIAGE WORKS!
Robert Street,
Crookston, - Minn.
AGENTS FOR THE
J. I. CASE THRESHING MACHINES!
And Manufacturers of
Carriages, Wagons,
BUGGIES,
Cutters, Sleds, &c.
Axles, Springs, and all Repairs kept in stock,
DEALERS IN
FARM MACHINERY.
In Farm Machinery we have the Champion Seeder, Fargo Diamond Tooth Harrow, Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow, Davenport and Grand Detour Sulky and Walking Plows, Buford Gang Plows, Field Rollers of all sizes, Warrior Mowers, the leading Hay Rake and first-class Harvesters and Binders, the Webber Wagon and McKinnon Bros. Wagon, In fact we have everything in machinery, from
A Wheelbarrow to a Threshing Machine!
EXTRAS
For all Machines constantly on hand

THE
J. I. CASE
THRESHING MACHINE COMPANY
The Dennet or Beloit
HARVESTING MACHINE COMPANY
And the Van Brunt & Davis
SEEDER COMPANY,
Are Represented
BY
STEENERSON BROS.,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

HOW TO BE HEALTHY!
Drink LePage's
35c Tea and 35c pure Java Coffee
AND SMOKE MY NICKEL PILGRIM CIGAR.
HOW TO BE WEALTHY!
COME TO THE RED STAR GROCERY
And Save Money on everything you buy.
AND IF YOU ARE WISE
You will buy only Pure and Fresh Groceries. THE RED STAR GROCERY is the place to get them and there you will find Prices the Lowest. Farmers and others bring in your Butter and Eggs and get highest prices for them. Remember the RED STAR, one door south of Montreal House.
E. LEPAGE, Broadway, Crookston, Minn.

THE MINNESOTA LEGISLATURE.

SENATE—Two bills reducing the rate of interest on sales of public lands from 7 to 5 per cent were passed—one bill being retroactive after June 1, 1885. Bills were introduced providing for the location of a second state's prison by a board of commissioners; amending the act relative to inspection of steamboat boilers on inland waters; to prevent deception in the sale of dairy products; providing penalties for minors who obtain liquor under pretense of majority; appropriating $4,000 for repairs on state capitol. The concurrent resolution relative to the acquirement of the Keweenaw canal by the United States passed; also the Peck bill providing for hearing of demurrers in civil actions and the judiciary committee's bill as to the drawing of jurors.

Senator Pillsbury's bill amending the act entitled "An act to provide for the inspection of steam boilers and licensing steam engineers in Minnesota," approved March 8, 1881, provides for one inspector instead of three, to be appointed by the governor for a term of four years unless removed for incompetency, neglect, etc.

Ackerman's bill provides against the sale of any article of food made from unclean, impure, unhealthy, adulterated or unwholesome milk, and excepts cheese made from milk that has been skimmed. Violation is punishable by a fine of not less than $20 nor more than $100, or imprisonment for not less than one nor more than six months. The second section prohibits the manufacture from any oleaginous substance or any compound thereof, other than unadulterated milk or cream, of any article designed to take the place of butter or cheese as an article of food. Cheese made from skimmed milk is here also excepted. The maximum penalties are $500 fine and one year's imprisonment. The third section is reiterative, and forbids the manufacture or sale of any oleaginous substance intended to take the place of butter.

Senator Goodrich's bill to secure the location of a second states prison provides that J. S. Pillsbury, Hennepin; William Crooks, Ramsey; Andrew McCrea, Otter Tail; Henry Poehler, Sibley; and F. W. Temple, Sibley county, shall be the commissioners to select such location.

The commissioners are authorized to inspect the stone quarries of the state, and make tests with a view to determine the quality and value of the stone and its desirability for and adaptability to convict labor, and for such purpose may employ experts. The commissioners shall receive $5 per day of work and their necessary expenses, the sum of $6,000 being appropriated for such expenses and for the purchase of suitable ground for the prison, the tract so purchased to comprise not less than forty acres. When the commissioners have determined upon a suitable location they shall so report to the governor, and their decision is final.

HOUSE—Citizens of Moe, Douglas county, petitioned for relief from elevator and railroad oppression. Bills were introduced to transfer lands granted to the Duluth & Winnipeg road to the St. Paul, Brainerd & Northwestern; to amend the insolvent debtor act; to provide for the payment of judgments against cities; making the term of town officers two years instead of one; appropriating $5,000 for the state board of immigration; making real estate mortgages taxable; permitting townships to have a voice with villages on the local option law; authorizing Brainerd to bond itself in the sum of $50,000 for a dam across the Mississippi; restricting the killing of deer, elk, fawn, etc.; the amendments to the divorce law suggested by Judge Brill; permitting publication of the annual insurance statements in any daily of 5,000 circulation in the state. Adjourned until 10 a. m.

Mr. Haroldson presented a bill which is designed to make the non-resident owners of mortgages pay a tax on the same. The bill proposes to make the tax on mortgages a lien upon the mortgage, and in case of non-resident mortgagees, where no property can be found to satisfy the claim for taxes, the county auditor may sell an interest in the mortgage.

Another game law amendment was presented in the house by Mr. Muzzy. This one proposes to prevent the hunting of deer, elk, fawn, etc., with dogs and hounds, and to prohibit the catching of deer, etc., in traps or with snares, and fixes the time in which deer may be shot between Nov. 15, and Dec. 15.

Mr. Pattee offered an important amendment to the insolvent debtor law. Under the existing law complaints may be filed in one county and the levy on the execution be taken out in another. The amendment proposes that the complaint shall be filed where the property to be levied upon is located.

SENATE—Bills were introduced providing for an amendment to sec. 2, art. 8 of the state constitution, and allowing the investment of school funds in school district and in county bonds; providing for locating and preparing plans and estimates of cost for a third hospital for the insane north of the south line of Stearns county; appropriating $2,000 per annum to aid the public examiner in securing more frequent examinations under the provisions of chap. 83, General Statutes 1878; providing for a new surveyor general of logs and lumber, and a new surveyor's district—to be known as the Seventh district—with headquarters at Crookston; to allow manufacturers, bottlers and sellers of beer to copyright and protect their trade marks on bottles, kegs, barrels, etc. The bill allowing women to vote for county superintendents of schools was recommitted to Senator Crosby for amendment. Ansel Oppenheim was confirmed as a member of the state board of equalization, vice William Dawson, who declines to serve.

Senator Sackett's bill for a third hospital for the insane is somewhat more elaborate than that of Senator Morrison, but has the same end in view. It appoints Messrs. C. K. Bartlett, St. Peter; M. J. Daniels, Rochester; H. H. Hart, St. Paul; Dr. Hewitt, Hastings; Dr. Leonard, Minneapolis, as commissioners to locate the hospital (north of the south line of Stearns county) to prepare plans of a fireproof structure, visit asylums in other states if necessary, and report to the legislature. The sum of $4,000 is appropriated for expenses of the commissioners.

Senator Gilfillan, of the judiciary committee, in reporting indefinite postponement for Senator Crosby's bill allowing women to vote for county superintendents, said it did not provide methods to prevent great confusion. The law provides that all voters at a general election shall be registered, and that the names of all candidates shall be on one ballot. Judges of election could not tell whether the folded ballot presented by a woman contained only the name of the candidate for county superintendent or not. No provision was made in the bill for registration of women, and if they voted, the tally sheets and the ballots would not agree. The bill was referred back to Senator Crosby for amendment, but it will meet with opposition from the judiciary committee, and it is not likely to pass, howsoever amended.

Senator Stoenerson's bills relating to surveyors general of logs and lumber provide for a new district to be known as the Seventh, the headquarters of which shall be at Crookston, and the territory include the Red river, Lake of the Woods, Rainy lake, etc.

HOUSE—Petitions were presented for an amendment to the Knife Falls Boom company charter, and extension of suffrage to women. A concurrent resolution for an appropriation to improve the Red River of the North was adopted. The house agreed to receive no railroad and warehouse bills after Feb. 2. Bills were introduced providing for uniformity in collection of taxes and filing of bonds; providing a way for the sale of railroad rolling stock; amending the charter of the Knife Falls Boom company; making insurance companies liable for the amount named in the policy; authorizing insurance companies to insure against hail, tornado and lightning; amending laws relating to the draining of meandered lakes; providing for compensation in case of the change of grade in streets; authorizing Lincoln county to issue bonds; amending the election law.

The speaker appointed Messrs. Muzzy, McMillan, Haroldson, Batchelder and Nachbar a committee on woman's suffrage. The judiciary committee reported back the bill proposing a constitutional amendment extending the right of suffrage to women, without recommendation.

Mr. Knox recently introduced the following amendment to the general election law:

Section 1. That sec. 67, chap. 1, General Statutes of Minnesota of 1878, be, and the same is, amended so as to read as follows: Whosoever shall furnish or cause to be furnished to any elector a ticket of ballot informing him personally, or by any artifice or device whatsoever contained in or on such ticket or ballot in respect to the name thereof, or the arrangement of the name or names of the candidates or office, attempting thereby to induce him to believe that such ticket or ballot contains names different from those which appear thereon as candidates for office representing other or different political principles or parties from those which they really do represent, with intent to deceive, thereby inducing him to vote contrary to his inclinations, is guilty of felony. The finding of such ticket or ballot in his possession shall be deemed conclusive evidence; and, upon conviction thereof he shall be punished by a fine in the sum of not less than $100 nor more than $500, shall be imprisoned in the state prison not less than sixty days, nor more than one year. Said fine shall go to the general school fund of the county wherein such felony is committed.

SENATE—The concurrent resolution memorializing congress for money to improve the Red River of the North, the bill appropriating $28,000 for the Minnesota exhibit at New Orleans, and the house bill providing for a joint committee on census passed; also the St. Paul bills for the issue of $800,000 water work bonds, and consolidating and amending the acts relative to the board of water commissioners. Bills were introduced, amending the charter of Fairbault; creating a commission to care for the timbered lands belonging to the state; providing for storage of baggage, merchandise and freight, and its public sale when unclaimed; providing for compulsory education of children between the age of eight and sixteen; preventing the sale or exposure of indecent or obscene publications, pictures, etc., and a memorial against the repudiation of harbor bonds by Duluth.

Senator J. B. Gilfillan, by request, introduced two bills of especial interest to the lumbermen. One of these makes all the records now kept in the surveyor general's office at Minneappolis legal records, and requires the surveyor general to keep the same, and proposes to reduce the price of scaling from five cents per thousand to three cents.

The compulsory education bill, introduced by Senator Knutson, enacts that all healthy children between the ages of eight and sixteen shall attend a public or private school for twelve weeks during the year, at least six of which shall be consecutive. The only valid excuses on the part of parents or guardians are poverty, lack of school facilities within two miles of residence, or proof that the child has the necessary education.

Senator Fletcher's bill providing for storage of personal baggage, merchandise and freight by common carries is closely modeled after the existing laws affecting express companies. The Fletcher bill provides that the carriers shall provide suitable storage houses and shall have a lien on baggage and goods for charges. Personal baggage shall be held thirty days and merchandise or freight sixty days, at the expiration of which notice shall be sent the owner or consignee.

HOUSE—Bills were indefinitely posponed, relating to sommons of justices' courts; relating to the pardoning of convicts; and extending the term of township supervisors. Bills were introduced for a state park, amending statutes relating to pardons; entitling women to vote for presidential electors; providing for the testimony before coroner's juries, amending general statutes relating to assignments and judgments in civil actions; amending statutes relating to the satisfaction of judgments; giving townships the right to vote on local option; increasing the bounty for the killing of wolves to $8; amending the statutes fixing the time for the killing of trout. Senate bills were passed, memorializing congress for an appropriation for the improvement of the upper Mississippi, and several local bills.

Mr. Collester introduced an exceedingly good bill in the house—requiring coroners to keep a transcript of the testimony taken before them. In most counties the office of coroner is little better than a farce, and nothing is made of record. That condition of affairs existed in Ramsey and Hennepin counties until very recently.

Mr. Muzzy, who was appointed chairman of the suffrage committee, reported a bill proposing to give the right of suffrage on the question of presidential elections to women. It was sent to the judiciary committee, which will report it back as unconstitutional, since an amendment to the constitution is necessary to accomplish the object desired.

SENATE.—Judge Wilson, of Winona re-introduced the bill for an amendment to the constitution to be known at sec. 35, art. 4 of that document. The amendment reads:

No county, city, town, township or other municipality or subdivision of this state shall ever subscribe to the capital stock of any railroad company or of any private corporation, or make any donation or loan its credit in favor of any such corporation.

Senator Hickman called up his resolution that no bills should be introduced after February 22. Senator Clarke moved to indefinitely postpone, which motion prevailed by a vote of 16 ayes to 8 noes.

Bills were passed providing for the commitment of judges of probate to a hospital for the insane; increasing the limit of salary for county attorneys to $2,600; providing that persons ordered committed to an insane hospital shall not be abandoned en route; amending the charter of Moorhead. Bills were introduced to regulate the drinking and selling of intoxicating liquors by the issue of permits; reimbursing Dakota, Wynona, Whasington and Hennepin counties for care of state prisoners; providing for condemnation of overflowed lands to create water power.

HOUSE.—Bills for the taxation of real estate mortgages and requiring all foreclosures under chattel mortgages to be done by the sheriff were indefinitely postponed. A bill was introduced to prohibit the sale of dime novels. Dr. Evans moved to suspend the rules and put the bill through, but Mr. Turrell said the state had got along twenty-seven years with dime novels and thought it could stand it another year. Mr. Myers was about to say something, when Dr. Evans raised the point that his motion had not been seconded. Mr. Daniels, who was in the chair, said the point was well sustained, and sent the bill to the committee on insane.

The house reached general orders for the first time this session, and went into committee, with Mr. Turrell in the chair. There were twenty-one bills for consideration, nearly all of which were recommended to favorable consideration. Mr. Burlingame's bill for a constitutional convention was deemed to be of so much importance that it was temporarily laid aside, and there was a good deal of good-natured debate upon Mr. Batchelder's bill to submit to the people a constitutional amendment extending the right of suffrage to women.

PASSING EVENTS.

A New Mexican recently came upon the body of a Pueblo Indian strapped to a tree, in Valencia county. An examination showed that the Indian had been fastened to the tree alive and left there to starve.

Robbery has become so common in Cheyenne, Wyoming, after night-fall that it is dangerous to traverse the streets. A number of vicious elements have been notified by the authorities to leave the place.

The president of a Hartford fire insurance company, being impressed by the evils of over insurance, ask for legislation to forbid the payment, in any case, of more than three-fourths the amount of the loss.

By order of the city authorities, every saloon in Abilene, Kas., was closed a few Sundays ago. The saloon-keepers promptly gave expression to the general feeling of woe by hanging heavy folds of crape on their closed doors.

A shark measuring fifteen feet four and three-quarter inches was captured by an Itallian fisherman in San Francisco bay. Upon being cut open it was discovered that its stomach contained a boot, an old hat, and a number of bones.

A hog was recently killed at Blooming Grove, Sullivan county, New York, and when dressed a thick wire fourteen inches long was found in the lights and pressed against the heart. Though twisted and coiled in different shapes and forced into the vitals, the hog was apparently as hearty as ever.

According to the United States surgeon general's annual report, the death rate for colored troops has, for the first time since their organization, fallen below that for white troops. Their mortality from respiratory affections—usually pneumonia—is more than four times as great as that of white troops.

The Indiana Pharmacist says, that a woman, who has her letters directed to the New York post office, claims to cure cancer by means of a direct revelation from her "dear Lord." Her circular winds up with: "Praise God, from whom all blessings flow; four-ounce bottles, $5; eight-ounce, $8." The editor says: "It will be seen that the financial part of the business is the big end of the log."

Personal Matter.

The most juvenile divorce suit yet reported has been instituted in Philadelphia. Melissa Amelia Evens, who is only 14 years old, wants to be released from her marriage with Smith R. Rhodes, not yet 21, on the ground that she does not know what she married him for, that he deceived her in stating that he owned a brick house, whereas he was a bricklayer's apprentice, receiving only $6 a week, and that since the ceremony he has cruelly treated her and not given her enough to eat. It is too bad that she has found that the blessed institution known as matrimony is such a sham and fraud.

Mr. Gladstone generally dresses plainly, but, like the aloe, blooms once in the hundred years or so. When that event occurs the splendor of his blossoming calls for detailed record. On his first drive into Edinburg from Dalmany—the morning was bright and sunny—he flashed upon the town like a ray of light, and sat among his sombre companions like a bird of paradise in an aviary of jackdaws, clothed, like Tennyson's party in the pool, "in white samite," or what might have been a coat of that material; his waistcoat was also white, his trousers a lovely lavender, his tie the hue of the pale primrose, while in his buttonhole he sported a rose larger than a cauliflower, but less in size than a drumhead cabbage. Add to this a hat of veritable white, not the dubious drab which is the common wear, but as white as whitewash, and you have the figure which showed in the Scotch capital as the sun in Turner's sea pieces shows from surrounding clouds.

Carlyle's portrait of Webster has been printed already, but the following version of it is somewhat new: "I will warrant him one of the stiffest logic buffers and parliamentary athletes anywhere to be met with in our world at present—a grim, tall, broad-bottomed, yellow-skinned man, with brows like precipitous cliffs, and huge, black, dull, wearied, yet unweariable-looking eyes under them; amorphous projecting nose, and the angriest shut mouth I have anywhere seen. A droop on the sides of the upper-lip is quite mastiff-like—magnificent to look upon; it is so quiet withal. I guess I should like ill to be that man's nigger. However, he is a right clever man in his way, and has a husky sort of fun in him too; drawls in a handfast didactic manner about 'our republic institutions,' &c., and so plays his part."

In view of Arthur Orton's release, October 24, one of his friends has settled upon him a life annuity of £100, in hopes of keeping him from exhibiting himself on the stage, as he has threatened.—Exchange. If some of the friends of the numerous ambitious lady operatic and theatrical amateurs would do the same for those stage-crazed females, a grateful public will hold them in kind remembrance.

Many of the principalcities of France sent workmen out to America to visit the Boston exposition. Marseilles among the number voted 6,000f to divide amongst three delegates. It now appears that the latter group, instead of embarking for America, stayed in Paris as a more preferable alternative than crossing the Atlantic and making excursions to Boston. One of the delegates, it is assured, is so charmed with the capital that he still remains within its boundaries.

There are rumors of hard feeling among the principals of the Emma Abbott opera company, because the management will not allow them to sing in Italian. Sig Campobello (who is a Mr. Campbell) Sig Fabrini (who is a Mr. Smythe), and Mlle. Laura Bellini (who is Miss Woolwine) are particularly out of sorts, and are said to seriously contemplate leaving the Abbott organization and setting up a grand Italian opera company of their own. Mr. Charles Pratt, one of the managers of the opera company, tells us that the craze to sing in Italian is not confined to the principals of the troupe, but extends to the chorus singers. "We have," says he, "a Miss Dusenberry, from Pelham, Mass., a Mr. Swartwout, from Meriden, Conn., a Mr. Beanbloom, from Bainbridge N. Y., and a Mr. Checkerbury, from Walpole, Vt., who had never been outside their native villages and never sang in anything but Sabbath-school concerts and cantatas before they joined us this season, yet they bother us continually with their importunities to be allowed to sing in Italian.

A Wrecked Church.

The Madison Avenue Congregational Church, New York, of Which General Grant's old pastor, Rev. Dr. John M. Newman, is pastor, is financially wrecked. It owes interest on a $20,000 mortgage for six months, together with a portion of interest for the preceding six months. Dr. Newman's salary is $500 a month, and he has received only $200 since last May. The running expenses of the church are $20,000 a year, and where this money is to come from the church officers do not know. At present the society owes $10,000, exclusive of the mortgage, which is held by the Mutual Life Insurance Company, and notice has been given that unless the interest is paid promptly foreclosure proceedings will be instituted. There is a report that Dr. Newman, who is in California, will not return to New York.

Runaway Matches.

Apropos of runaway matches, the New York Journal of Commerce remarks: "Parents who have acquired large wealth and high social position are oftenest disappointed in the disposition of their daughters, because of the ideal they insist upon and by which they measure all application for the alliance. The daughter who recently married the coachman, it is said, was denied by her father the attention of worthier men because they were not possessed of the fortune and social rank he had fixed as the standard. We know an only daughter, now over two score years of age, and unmarried, because her father, possessed of considerable means, has driven away all suitors, lest they come wooing for his wealth. The difficulty increased as the years went on, for the girl became less attractive, and an ardent lover might well have his motive suspected."

Herr Most's Prescriptions.

From the Philadelphia Press.

About 100 men wearing red ribbon streamers from a button-hole in their coats, assembled at Dramatic hall, 5th and Gaskill streets, on Sunday afternoon, and listened to a bloodthirsty speech from Johann Most, the anarchist. He eulogized Reinsdorf, now condemned to death for the attempt to blow up the Emperor Wilhelm and his royal companions, and characterized his work as a grand example of heroism. In this connection he prescribes "a rope for traitors, the knife for the police, poison for the ministers, cold lead for the rich and a bomb for princes." Herr Most recommended that riots be started from time to time in different places, as he considered them very beneficial, and said that dynamite was a very good weapon with which to meet the militia. He further gave a recipe for an Indian poison by which the militia could be destroyed at long or short range. Petroleum was considered a good thing to be used in firing the houses of landlords. The man of blood concluded with the prediction that it would be but a short time before the red flag would wave from the tower of Independence hall.

Paris Cable to New York Herald: An extraordinary scandal occurred recently in the well known church of St. Roch, in the very heart of Paris. While the vicar general of St. Roch was celebrating divine service the congregation was astonished by the sudden apparition in the nave of the church of a woman with disheveled hair and garments, shouting, Help, help! He will murder me! He will murder me!" The woman was pursued by a man with a heavy black beard, brandishing a stout cane. The beadles and doorkeepers of the church came to the rescue. The would-be-assassin managed to escape, but the woman, panic-stricken with fright and rage, climbed over the balustrade of the nave, tearing from it a heavy bar of iron, which she waved over her head, threatening death to all who should approach. The congregation in consternation at this unexpected drama, left the church. The police arrived, and after a short but very noisy struggle captured the woman, whom they were obliged to bind tightly with cords, before they could remove her. Her exasperated lover had attempted to assassinate her. She had managed to escape from an apartment situated near the St. Roch and sought refuge in the church.

At Des Moines, Iowa, F. N. Hossack, a dry goods man, filed two mortgages on his stock, one for $16,549 in favor of his wife, and one for $2,000 in favor of his mother and sister. Immediately upon this becoming known attorneys representing claims for $3,600 garnisheed the manager representing Mr. Hossack, who had taken possession under his mortgage, and also attached a branch store at Perry. The mortgage to Mrs. Hossack was made to secure her against loss for money she had put in the business and for endorsements made by her on his paper to the Citizens' National bank. It is supposed the liabilities will aggregate $30,000. About $24,000 are already filed.

The residence of Lewis Baker at Elm Grove, near Wheeling, W. Va., was burned. Loss $15,000; insured for $10,000. Baker was recently proprietor of the Wheeling Register. On Feb. 1 he takes charge of the St. Paul Globe of which he has bought a controlling interest.

Joyfully Astonished.

Mr. James Brunt, Deputy Sheriff, Baltimore, Maryland, writes: In an experience of thirty years I have become acquainted with numerous so-called specifics for coughs and colds, but never before experienced such surprising efficacy as was obtained from the Red Star Cough Cure. I was attacked with a severe deep-seated cold and cough. I suffered for some time, and tried this valuable remedy. I was completely cured by the use of one bottle.

Richards Wagner's trustee has decided that no festival preformances of wagner's work be given at Bayruth in 1885 but "Parsifal," and "Tristan and Isolde" will be given in 1886.

At Rockford, Ill., William Larson were arrested on a charge of complicity in the murder of Marshal S. Pritchard, collector of taxes, in January, 1878. The arrests were made on information furnished by James Rants, a forger in the state penitentiary, where he confessed to the judge of the circuit court and claims to have been an eyewitness to the murder. His testimony implicates two other persons and is very explicit. The murder was for money and heretofore there has been no clue.

Gen. Grant has quite recovered from the trouble with his tongue, and Dr. Baker says, has not looked so well for years. He is at work finishing his recollections of the war, which will be completed in about three months, and make a large volume.

A Valuable Discovery.

A graduate of Yale College, Dr. Samuel K. Cox, D. D., Practical and Analytical Chemist, Washington, D. C., makes the following official statement: "To the thousands whose systems instinctively shrink from the use of Morphia and Opium, and especially to mothers, who justly dread the evil, and at times, fatal effects of those dangerous drugs, the Red Star Cough Cure must prove a boon. It is not only entirely free from all opiates, poisons, and emetics (a thing which not one cough preparation in ten can boast), but it is altogether an original and most happy combination of the best remedial agents, and is as harmless as it is effective. I base this assertion on careful analyses and numerous practical tests—the latter in every case resulting in a speedy cure."

The Charles A. Vogeler Company, Baltimore, Maryland, are the Sole Owners and Manufacturers of this valuable remedy. The Head of Baltimore Health Department, Dr. James A. Steuart, one of the most eminent physicans in America, says: "It supplants the objectionable and harmful features of other cough mixtures."

All the London morning papers contain columns of descriptions and comment regarding Gen. Stewart's battle. The papers unanimously extrol in glowing terms the heroism of the troops, and unite in eulogizing Col Burnaby, who is described as dying, like a true English "bulldog," with his hand clinched in death about the throat of the Arab whose spear was thurst through the colonel's neck. The papers while praising the gallantry of the English at Abu-Klea, consider Gen. Stewart's hurried advance to Metemmeh indicates further heavy fighting, and they fear the loss of Omdurman will enable the Mahdi to prevent the passage of Gordon's steamers; but they all admit the bravery of the English augurs well for the ultimate success of the expedition.

It is thought that John O'Leary will cast his lot with the Parnellites, and that Fenianism is dead.

Farmers' Folly.

Some farmers adhere, even against the full light of fact and discovery, to the old fashioned folly of coloring butter with carrots, annatto, and inferior substances, notwithstanding the splendid record made by the Improved Butter Color, prepared by Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt. At scores of the best agricultural Fairs it has received the highest award over all competitors.

Thomas Barbour, the well-known thread manufacturer, died at Lisburn, Ireland, recently, aged fifty-three. His estate is worth over $3,000,000.

Decorative Art. Explicit directions for every use are given with the Diamond Dyes. For dyeing Mosses, Grasses, Eggs, Ivory, Hair, &c. 10c. Druggists keep them. Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt.

There are 2,080 co-operative societies in Germany, with a membership of over 1,000,000, and last year they purchased over $375,000,000 of goods.

Paper wheel-spokes are coming into use. The paper pulp is forced into iron molds under heavy pressure, where it dries and hardens.

A Venezuelan gold mine is said to have yielded $1,850,000 to its American owners in the last six months.

Word has been received at Montreal from Rome that the sacred relics brought from Rome by Mgr. Fabre in 1880 as bones of St. Claudius and St. Julians are spurious.

FOR A GENERAL SYSTEM REJUVENATOR and Blood purifier take Allen's Iron Tonic Bitters. All genuine bear the signature of J. P. Allen, Druggist, St. Paul, Minn.

FOR DYSPEPSIA, Indigestion, Depression of Spirits and General Debility, in their various forms, also as a preventive against Fever and Ague, and other Intermittent Fevers, the "FERRO-PHOSPHORATED ELIXIR OF CALISAYA" made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, and sold by all Druggists, is the best tonic, and for patients recovering from Fever or other sickness, it has no equal.

Barbed Wire.

If you have barbed wire fences, keep Veterinary Carbolisalve in your stables. It is the best remedy for wounds of all kinds. 50c, and 1.00 cans at druggists or by mail. J. W. COLE & CO., Props., Black River Falls, Wis.

RED STAR
TRADE MARK
COUGH CURE
Absolutely Free from Opiates, Emetics and Poisons.
A PROMPT, SAFE, SURE CURE
For Coughs, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, Influenza, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Quinsy, Pains in Chest, and other affections of the Throat and Lungs.
Price 50 cents a bottle. Sold by Druggists and Dealers. Parties unable to induce their dealer to promptly get it for them will receive two bottles, Express charges paid, by sending one dollar to
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER COMPANY,
Sole Owners and Manufacturers,
Baltimore, Maryland, U. S. A.

A Good Family Remedy
STRICTLY PURE.
Harmless to the Most Delicate
ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM
THE REMEDY FOR CURING
CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS.
NEW EVIDENCE.
Read the following:

ADDISON, PA., April 7, 1883.
I took a violent cold and it settled on my lungs, so much so, that at times I spit blood. ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM was recommended to me as a good remedy. I took it, and am now sound and well. Yours respectfully,
A. J. HILEMAN.

ADDISON, PA., April, 1883.
A. J. COLBOM, Esq., Editor of the Somerset Herald, writes: I can recommend ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM as being the best remedy for Colds and Coughs I ever used.

ASTORIA, ILLS., April 6, 1883.
Gentlemen:—I can cheerfully say your ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM, which I have sold for the past fifteen years, sells better than any cough remedy, and gives general satisfaction. 'Tis frequently recommended by the medical profession here. Yours Truly,
H. C. MOONEY, Druggist.

LA FAYETTE, R. I., October, 12, 1884.
Gentlemen:—Allow me to say that after using three bottles of ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM for a bad attack of Bronchitis, I am entirely cured. I send this voluntarily, that those afflicted may be benefited.
Yours respectfully, BURRILL H. DAVIS.
J. N. HARRIS & CO., Limited, Proprietors.
CINCINNATI, OHIO.

TUTT'S
PILLS
25 YEARS IN USE.
The Greatest Medical Triumph of the Age!
SYMPTOMS OF A
TORPID LIVER.
Loss of appetite, Bowels costive, Pain in the head, with a dull sensation in the back part, Pain under the shoulder-blade, Fullness after eating, with a disinclination to exertion of body or mind, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, with a feeling of having neglected some duty, Weariness, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, Headache over the right eye, Restlessness, with fitful dreams, Highly colored Urine, and
CONSTIPATION.
TUTT'S PILLS are especially adapted to such cases, one dose effects such a change of feeling as to astonish the sufferer. They Increase the Appetite, and cause the body to Take on Flesh, thus the system is nourished, and by their Tonic Action on the Digestive Organs, Regular Stools are produced. Price 25c. 44 Murray St., N.Y.
TUTT'S HAIR DYE.
GRAY HAIR or WHISKERS changed to a GLOSSY BLACK by a single application of this DYE. It imparts a natural color, acts instantaneously. Sold by Druggists, or sent by express on receipt of $1.
Office, 44 Murray St., New York.

ARE YOU DISCOURAGED
Has your physician failed to arrest the disease from which you are suffering? Are you losing faith in medicines, and growing alarmed at your condition? If so, take HOPS AND MALT
BITTERS,
The Great Blood Purifier,
Compounded from the well-known curatives Hops, Malt, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, Sarsaparilla, Cascara Sagrada, etc. They are never known to fail in all cases of
LIVER AND KIDNEY
Troubles. They cure Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Rheumatism and all urinary troubles. They invigorate, nourish, strengthen and quiet the nervous system.
As a tonic they have no equal. They are a rational cathartic and a superb anti-bilious specific.
CAUTION
Should be exercised by persons when purchasing Hops and MALT Bitters. Do not get them confounded with other inferior articles of a similar name. For sale by all druggists and dealers. See that every label bears the name HOPS & MALT BITTERS CO., Detroit, Mich.
NOYES BROS. & CUTLER, St. Paul.
MERELL & RYAN, St. Paul.
LYMAN ELIEL DRUG CO., Minneapolis.
Wholesale Agents.

ROCKFORD WATCHES
Are unequalled in EXACTING SERVICE.

Used by the Chief Mechanician of the U. S. Coast Survey; by the Admiral commanding in the U. S. Naval Observatory, for Astronomical work; and by Locomotive Engineers, Conductors and Railway men. They are recognized as THE BEST for all uses in which close time and durability are requisites. Sold in principal cities and towns by the COMPANY'S exclusive Agents (leading jewelers,) who give a Full Warranty.

Don't disgust everybody by hawking, blowing and spitting, but use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and be cured.

Mrs. Mary A. Matthews, wife of Stanley Matthews, associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, died recently.

"I Feel So Well."

"I want to thank you for telling me of Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," writes a lady to her friend. "For a long time I was unfit to attend to the work of my household. I kept about but I felt thoroughly miserable. I had terrible backaches, and bearing-down sensations across me and was quite weak and discouraged. I sent and got some of the medicine after receiving your letter, and it has cured me. I hardly know myself. I feel so well."

By direction of the president Capt. William C. Shannon, assistant surgeon, is detailed member of the retiring board at Omaha, Neb., vice Col. John E. Summers, relieved.

All "Played Out."

"Don't know what ails me lately. Can't eat well,—can't sleep well. Can't work, and don't enjoy doing anything. Ain't really sick and really ain't well. Feel all kind o' played out someway." That is what scores of men say every day. If they would take Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" they would have no occasion to say it. It purifies the blood, tones up the system and fortifies it against disease. It is a great anti-bilious remedy as well.

Work on an artesian well has been stopped at New Haven after going down 2,400 feet and spending $25,000 without striking water.

Brown's Bronchial Troches for Coughs and colds: "I do not see how it is possible for a public man to be himself in winter without this admirable aid."—Rev. R. M. Devens, Pocasset, Mass.

The bill in the Dakota legislature for removing the capital from Bismarck to Pierre, still hangs fire.

Many medicines now on the market owe what virtue they possess to the presence of powerful and poisonous drugs. HUNT'S [Kidney and Liver] REMEDY is purely vegetable and will not injure the feeblest and most delicate person.

The Republican caucus at Madison nominated Col. Spooner, giving him fifty-four votes to Fairchild's twenty-five.

Carbolines.

The gray and bad no more shall grieve,
The sighs of coming age,
For Carboline can both retrieve
And fullest griefs assuage.

Haynes resigned the speakership of the Illinois house, and Cronkrite was placed temporarily in the chair, after a free fight.

Faithfulness is necessary in all kinds of work. Especially is it necessary, in treating a cold, to procure the best remedy, which is Allen's Lung Balsam, and take it faithfully, according to directions, and it will cure a cold every time and prevent fatal results. Sold by all druggists.

The Pope recently received 1,000 seminarians 22 cardinals and many bishops. The scene was impressive. The pope made a long nonpolitical speech in Latin.

DO IT NOW and don't delay. Heart disease should not be trifled with but cured; use Dr. Graves' Heart Regulator and you will not be disappointed in its effects which are immediate, $1.

Paddy Ryan's share of the receipts from the brief glove-fight in New York is $3,700.

Young Men!—Read This.

THE VOLTAIC BELT CO., of Marshall, Mich., offer to send their celebrated ELECTRO-VOLTAIC BELT and other ELECTRIC APPLIANCES on trial for thirty days, to men (young or old) afflicted with nervous debility, loss of vitality and all kindred troubles. Also for rheumatism, neuralgia, paralysis, and many other diseases. Complete restoration to health, vigor and manhood guaranteed. No risk is incurred as thirty days trial is allowed. Write them at once for illustrated pamphlet free.

Two colored men were refused skates in a Boston rink, and propose to test the matter under the civil rights bill.

Officeholders.

The office held by the Kidneys is one of importance. They act as natures sluice-way to carry off the extra liquids from the system and with them the impurities both those that are taken into the stomach and those that are formed in the blood. Any clogging or inaction of these organs is therefore important. Kidney-Wort is Nature's efficient assistant in keeping the kidneys in good working order, strengthening them and inducing healthy action. If you would get well and keep well, take Kidney-Wort.

Morgan O'Connell, second son of the late Daniel O'Connell, the great Irish agitator is dead.

A Conscientious Minister.

DEAR SIR:—Having tried your White Wine of Tar Syrup, I believe it to be an excellent medicine, and can conscientiously recommend it to others. Respectfully yours,
Kingsville, Mo. REV. WM. STEVENSON.

BUY SALZER'S (La Crosse, Wis.) SEEDS.

BUY NORTHERN GROWN SEEDS. Catalog free. J. A. SALZER, Seed Grower, La Crosse, Wis.

CARDS Sample Book, Premium List, Price List sent free. U. S. CARD CO., Centerbrook, Conn.

CANCER A SUCCESSFUL TREATMENT. No knife! No Plaster! No pain! W. C. Payne, M. D., Marshalltown, Iowa.

RAW FURS WANTED. Ship by express in sacks to London, Leipzig & Paris Agency, A. Moore, Mgr., 283 Jackson st., St. Paul, Minn.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till Cured. DR. J. STEPHENS, Lebanon, Ohio.

50 Satin Finished Embossed Cards 10c., Rolled Gold Ring, Com. Masonic Pocket Knife, 2 French Dolls with Wardrobe, and agt's Card Outfit, 20c., 5 pks. and your choice of either, 50c., or 10 pks. and all 3 premiums $1.00. HAMDEN CARD CO., Hamden, Conn.

WANTED Ladies and Gentlemen in City or County to take light work at their own homes. $3 to $4 a day easily made. Work sent by mail. No canvassing. We have good demand for our work, and furnish steady employment. Address with stamp CROWN M'F'G. CO., 294 Vine St., Cin'ti, O.

FIRE! FLOOD! THE BIG BOSTON. The goods saved from the Fire and Flood on Christmas are now offered; and are being sold at prices never heard of before in the Northwest. Merchant Tailoring at less money than others will charge for Ready-Made Clothing. Satisfaction guaranteed. Send your orders to BIG BOSTON, Minneapolis, Minn. New Quarters, Washington & 2d aves S.

DR. LINQUIST'S
Spinal Misses' Waist......$1 75
Spinal Corset.......... 2 00
Spinal Nursing Corset.... 2 25
Spinal Abdominal Corset, 2 75
Recommended by leading physicians, delivered free anywhere in the U. S. on receipt of price. Lady Agents Wanted.
Dr. Linquist's Spinal Corset Co., 412 B'way, New York.

RUSSIAN FLAX SEED.
We have FOR SALE GENUINE RUSSIAN SEED FLAX. Experience has proven that Russian seed yields fully FIFTY PER CENT better than any other variety ever sown in this country. Sow only the genuine Russian. We guarantee ours. Write for prices. MANKATO LINSEED OIL CO., MANKATO, MINN.

PREPARED
FERTILIZING SALT.
Send for "Salt Sayings." Write for Prices.
Car lots, on Car at Your Railway Station.
E. S. FITCH, Bay City, Mich.

HUMILIATING ERUPTIONS ITCHING AND BURNING TORTURES
AND EVERY SPECIES OF ITCHING, Scaly, Pimply, Inherited, Scrofulous, and Contagious Diseases of the Blood, Skin, and Scalp, with Loss of Hair, from infancy to old age, are positively cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES.
CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new blood purifier, cleanses the blood and perspiration of impurities and poisonous elements, and thus removes the cause.
CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, instantly allays Itching and Inflammation, clears the Skin and Scalp, heals Ulcers and Sores, and restores the Hair.
CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier and Toilet Requisite, prepared from CUTICURA, is indispensable in treating Skin Diseases, Baby Humors, Skin Blemishes, Chapped and Oily Skin.
Sold everywhere. Price: CUTICURA, 50c.; RESOLVENT, $1; SOAP, 25c. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., BOSTON, MASS.
Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS
Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the article for you, it stimulates the failing energies, invigorates the body and cheers the mind. It enables the system to throw off the debilitating effects of undue fatigue, gives renewed vigor to the organs of digestion, arouses the liver when inactive, renews the jaded appetite, and encourages healthful repose. Its ingredients are safe, and its credentials, which consist in the hearty endorsement of persons of every class of society, are most convincing. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

ELY'S
CREAM BALM
CATARRH
CURES COLD IN HEAD
ROSE-COLD
HAY-FEVER
DEAFNESS
HEADACHE
PRICE 50 CENTS
ELY BRO'S
OWEGO N.Y. U.S.A.

CATARRH ... HAY-FEVER
ELY'S CREAM BALM
Cleanses the Head. Allays Inflammation. Heals the Sores. Restores the Senses of Taste & Smell. A quick & positive Cure. 50 cents at Druggists. 60 cents by mail registered. Send for circular. Sample by mail 10 cts. ELY BROTHERS, Druggists Owego, N. Y.

RUPTURE
Positively cured in 60 days by Dr. Horne's Electro-Magnetic Belt-Truss, combined. Guaranteed the only one in the world generating a continuous Electric & Magnetic current. Scientific, Powerful, Durable, Comfortable and Effective in curing Rupture. 500 cured in '83. Send Stamp for pamphlet.
ELECTRO-MAGNETIC TRUSS CO., 191 WABASH AVE., CHICAGO

R. U. AWARE
THAT
Lorillard's Climax Plug
bearing a red tin tag; that Lorillard's Rose Leaf fine cut; that Lorillard's Navy Clippings, and that Lorillard's Snuffs, are the best and cheapest, quality considered?

CONSUMPTION.
I have a positive remedy for the above disease; by its use thousands of cases of the worst kind and of long standing have been cured. Indeed, so strong is my faith in its efficacy, that I will send TWO BOTTLES FREE, together with a VALUABLE TREATISE on this disease to any sufferer. Give express and P. O. address.
DR. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl St., New York.

40 Hidden Name, Embossed and New Chromo Cards, name in new type, an Elegant 48 page Gilt bound Floral Autograph Album with quotations, 12 page Illustrated Premium and Price List and Agent's Canvassing Outfit, all for 15 cts. SNOW & CO., Yalesville, Conn.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S
STEEL PENS
SOLD BY ALL DEALERS THROUGHOUT THE WORLD
GOLD MEDAL PARIS EXPOSITION—1878.

The Single Men's Endowment Association.
The Single Men's Endowment Association, now in its fourth year, more prosperous and stronger than ever. Young man, consider your ways, save your money, become a member, and receive a cash endowment at marriage of from $1,000 to $2,000. For full information address Single Men's Endowment Association, Minneapolis, Minn.

SWEET GUM & MULLEIN
The sweet gum taken from the tree of the Southern swamps contains a stimulating expectorant principle which loosens the phlegm, and cuts the false membrane, relieving the early morning cough in Consumption, curing Coughs, Croup, and Whooping Cough. This, combined with the mucilaginous healing and flesh producing principle in the Mullein Plant of the old field, presents in Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein, the finest known remedy for Coughs, Croup, Whooping Cough, Colds, and Consumption. For full information send 2ct. stamp for "Taylor's Riddle Book" for the welfare of home and amusement of the little ones.
WALTER A. TAYLOR, Atlanta, Ga.

STROWBRIDGE
BROAD CAST
SOWER
BEST! CHEAPEST! SIMPLEST!
Sows all grains, grass seeds, plaster, salt, ashes, commercial fertilizers — everything requiring broadcasting—any quantity per acre, better and faster than any other method. SAVES SEED by sowing perfectly even. Not affected by wind, as seed is not thrown upwards. Sows half or full cast, on either or both sides of wagon. Readily attached to any wagon or cart without injury, and used wherever they can be driven. Lasts a lifetime. Sows 80 acres wheat per day. Crop one-fourth larger than when drilled. Only perfect Broadcaster made; most accurate agricultural implement in the world. Endorsed and recommended by Agricultural colleges and best farmers in U. S. Fully warranted—perfectly simple. Do not be put off with any other. Send at once for new free illustrated catalogue with full information and hundreds of testimonials.
C. W. DORR, Manager
RACINE SEEDER CO.,
258 FOURTH ST., DES MOINES, IOWA

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S
VEGETABLE COMPOUND
IS A POSITIVE CURE FOR
All those painful Complaints and Weaknesses so common to our best
FEMALE POPULATION.
Price $1 in liquid, pill or lozenge form.
Its purpose is solely for the legitimate healing of disease and the relief of pain, and that it does all it claims to do, thousands of ladies can gladly testify.
It will cure entirely all Ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, and consequent Spinal Weakness, and is particularly adapted to the change of life.
It removes Faintness, Flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves Weakness of the Stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, and backache, is always permanently cured by its use.
Send stamp to Lynn, Mass., for pamphlet. Letters of inquiry confidentially answered. For sale at druggists.

N. W. N. U. 1885. No. 5.

SNOW WHITE FAMILY MADE FROM SALZER NEW WHEAT

BUY NORTHERN GROWN SEEDS.
No seeds produce finer Flowers, better Vegetables, larger Crops, than our reliable Northern Grown Seeds. Don't buy worthless Seeds when for less money ours are delivered FREE BY MAIL at your door. Try them.
THE FARM! New tested Wheat (6 sorts), among these Saskatchewan Fife, Imperial French, etc. NEW EARLY DAKOTA WHITE OATS, POTATOES, BARLEY, ETC. SEEDS grown 300 miles north of here! Everything for farm. Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa and other States will return to old time yield if our Seed grain is used. Try it.
Send for Catalogue. JOHN A. SALZER, La Crosse, Wis. Catalogue free.
Plants and Roses By the 100,000. Largest Greenhouses In the West.

Destructive Dynamite.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—An explosion occurred at 2 p. m. in the White Tower, and ten minutes later two explosions took place in the parliament houses. The houses of parliament and government offices were severely shaken and considerable damage done. The second came about three minutes after the first. One was near the house of commons; the other near Westminster hall. A quantity of explosive matter had been placed inside the great ornamental gates leading to the crypt under Westminster hall. These gates were blown off the hinges and thrown to the ground. All the windows on the north and south sides of the immense building were blown to atoms. The concussion shook down from the grand oak roof of the hall the accumulated soot of centuries. This, in its downward movement, made a dense cloud, so heavy that the officers on guard became alarmed and dared not enter the room in the lobby. The splinters were four times as thick as the flakes in a blinding snow, and were propelled with dangerous force. They cut and ripped the leather coverings and tore out and scattered the horsehair from the seats all over the house. Immediately before the first explosion a lady visitor, who was alone and about to enter the building, beckoned to a policeman named Cole and called his attention to a package lying upon the steps outside the crypt. The policeman picked up the package carelessly, not suspecting anything, and went with it out into Westminster hall. He had no sooner reached the hall than the package exploded. This explosion knocked the policeman down and injured him so seriously that little hope of his recovery is entertained. Its force also knocked down two other policemen standing in the vicinity and stunned them. A lady and gentleman standing near the officer who had the package were also prostrated. The great window over the entrance to Westminster hall was smashed to atoms, and the side windows were blown out. Those who were in the house of commons fled precipitately, and many ladies were bruised in the crush. The second explosion was far more destructive than the first. The lobby of the house of commons is completely demolished. The western extremity of the house is a total wreck. All the woodwork on the government side of the house is shattered, and a wide hole blown through the floor. The gallery was displaced, and even the solid stone work of the doorway was either pulverized or shifted from position. Every pane of glass in the house was

SMASHED TO ATOMS,

and the gallery benches were overturned and broken. The gallery generally is dismantled. Immense damage was done in the lobby. The masonry, decorations and sculpture were utterly destroyed. The place is described as literally blown to pieces. Sixteen persons were injured, but none mortally, by the explosion at the Tower. This outrage was the most successful yet made upon any public building since the inauguration of the present era of dynamite warfare. The attack was made on that portion of the building known as the "White Tower." It was fairly filled with visitors at the time, and most, if not all of those hurt, were moving about in the Tower at the time of the explosion. The roof was blown clear off the structure. All the persons known to have been injured were visitors. The police, the moment they realized the nature of the explosion, effectually barred all egress from the Tower and grounds, and are now subjecting every person detained to the most rigid search, upon the theory that the attack was perpetrated by some person or persons inside the premises. The investigations so far made led to the conclusion that the explosives used in the attack on the Tower were handled by persons who gained access to the structure as sight-seers. The ruins also show that the explosives operated from a point somewhere in the inner bastion or in the esplanade nearest the Thames tower. There was a large number of children among the visitors. Many of these ones had their faces and hands badly torn by broken glass and flying splinters. The most piteous sight in the large crowd of innocent prisoners temporarily detained within the Tower walls was afforded by these little ones, with their pale faces and bleeding heads. The scenes in and around the Tower were indescribable. The pale faces, bloody heads, and broken limbs of the wounded children roused the great crowd congregated in the vicinity to frenzy. Yells were heard on every side to "Lynch the Villains!" "Roast the Fiends!" Hundreds of rifles were damaged in the Tower, which was ignited, and the fire was

SUPPRESSED WITH GREAT DIFFICULTY.

The ancient armory was destroyed. The explosion occurred on the second floor of the White Tower. All the authorities agree that dynamite was used. Three floors were thoroughly wrecked, and the explosion damaged hundreds of stands of arms. The favorite theory of the police is that the dynamite used was carried to the place in each case concealed under the long cloak of a woman, whose appearance was thus made to resemble that of a woman about to become a mother. A woman in whom this appearance was very noticeable was seen among the visitors at the tower this afternoon, shortly before the explosion occurred. She was escorted by a tall man with a military air. Neither of them could be found after the gates were closed after the explosion, and when the visitors came to be searched. It is supposed the woman and her escort escaped during the rush that occurred just after the explosion, and before the gates were closed. The impotent action of the police is generally ridiculed. The number of those injured by the explosions is as follows:

At the Tower—Six injured seriously, fourteen slightly.

At the Parliament Buildings—Four seriously, ten slightly.

The worst injuries were received by Constables Cox and Cole, both of whom will die, and a civil engineer named Edwin Green, visiting the parliament buildings. Several persons were arrested on suspicion but all were released, as there was no evidence against them.

Aside from recognition that in the past our national policy of avoidance of entangling alliances with foreign powers has been wise, there are in sight to-day many facts which tend to strengthen the belief that the people of the United States will be happier and richer, both in the near future and in all time to come, if no departure from our traditional policy of national independence is now countenanced, either by the people or their representatives. There is undoubtedly a strong desire in the minds of many to have this nation take a more prominent part in the councils of nations, but this desire should be checked rather than encouraged. The doctrine of Washington's farewell address to his countrymen is just as sound now and just as applicable to the present situation of affairs as it was nearly a hundred years ago.

An Indian named Crooked Foot sold some wood from his island in the Missouri river, twenty miles below Chamberlain, Dakota. While John Bader and Frank Phelps with their teams, in company with the Indian of whom the wood was purchased, were coming from the island with a load of wood, another Indian tried to stop them from taking the wood, and shot at them three or four times, when John Bader, who had a Winchester rifle with him, shot the Indian and killed him. Mr. Bader came up to town and gave himself up to the authorities, but as yet nothing has been done. A large number of Indians were in town, but all seem to be friendly to Mr. Bader, and say the Indian killed was a bad one.

Private advices from Korti assert that the rebels have surrounded Gen. Stewart in the desert, where he has taken up an entrenched position to await reinforcements from Gen. Wolseley. Deserters from the rebel lines state the Mahdi's officers consider the affair at Abu-Klea wells a drawn battle. The Arabs were neither routed nor pursued, and fell back in an orderly manner, not in the least demoralized by the outcome of the engagement.

The house in which Gen. Sherman lived while in Washington has been purchased by Wash O. McLean for $16,000. The house is now occupied by Gen. Slocum, and his next door neighbor is Gen. Van Vliet, who was a class-mate of Sherman at West Point.

Maj. Strait has succeeded in securing the amendment of the Indian appropriation bill so as to leave it to the discretion of the secretary of the interior, to disburse the $10,000 appropriation for the Medowakanton Indians of Minnesota.

QUITS.

Indeed, they have not grieved me sore,
Your faithlessness and your deceit:
The truth is, I was troubled more
How I should make a good retreat:
Another way my heart now tends;
We can cry quits, and be good friends.

I found you far more lovable,
Because your fickleness I saw,
For I myself am changeable,
And like, you know, to like doth draw:
Thus neither needs to make amends;
We can cry quits, and be good friends.

While I was monarch of your heart,
My heart from you did never range;
But from my vassal did I part,
When you your lady-love did change.
No penalty the change attends;
We can cry quits, and be good friends.

Farewell! We'll meet again some day,
And all our fortunes we'll relate;
Of love let's have no more to say,
'Tis clear we're not each other's fate.
Our game is pleasant fashion ends;
We can cry quits, and be good friends.

—Chamber's Journal.

HOW MR. NICHOLSON MISLAID BABY.

CHAPTER I.

Mrs. Nicholson was standing in a dubious attitude, with the study door half open, and her eyes turning from the quiet figure in the armchair by the table to another open door in the passage behind her, through which she could see a flood of sunshine and in the sunshine a cradle.

"I don't feel quite easy," she said; "I am so afraid she should cry and no one hear her. I wish I had not let nurse go out; but all you have to do," coming into the room and speaking impressively, "all you have to do is to ring the bell violently—violently, remember—for cook. For Heaven's sake, John," leaning on the table and stretching out a pretty hand to attract her husband's attention, "look up, or speak, or answer me, or you will drive me mad!"

"What is it all about, Agatha?" The calm, placid, intelligent face opposite was lifted gently, and the thin finger was slipped on to the page to mark a pause.

"It is baby, John," said Mrs. Nicholson, in a faltering voice, and with idle, angry tears rolling down her cheeks. "Here have I, for the last ten minutes, been begging and imploring of you to remember baby; not to nurse her, I wouldn't trust you, but only to ring the bell if she cries."

"Does that stop her? It seems simple enough. I think even I can do that."

But Mrs. Nicholson shook her head, still weeping.

"You may laugh at me or sneer if you like. If it were my own baby I would say nothing, I would bear it all; but Emmy's!"

With a patient sigh the gentleman at the writing table pushed the book away and lost his place. He looked at her in a bewildered way.

"What is it, Agatha! a baby! O, Emmy's baby, of course."

"And not one-half, one-hundredth part, one thousandth part, as valuable in your eyes," broke in Agatha, with impetuosity, "as the smallest, the most unknown, the most undiscovered star! You need not tell me; I know it."

"Of course," frowning gently, "every one knows that a star, however small—stars are not famous according to their size, my dear, is of infinitely more value than one hair of a baby's head. I mean"—hastily—"speaking from the entirely scientific point of view; but as you were saying—you were saying, were you not"—a little doubtfully—"something about that unfortunate babe of Emmy's?"

Mrs. Nicholson had dried her eyes, and was confronting him in all the cool splendor of her pretty Summer dress, and with all the calm determination of a woman who has made up her mind.

"Yes, I was, she said; "only, once for all, John, if you call it a babe I will leave your house at once and never, never come back; and if you call it unfortunate I shall take that hateful manuscript with me and burn it at the kitchen fire. If it were yours"—with impassioned irony—"it might indeed be described as unfortunate; but Charles is the best of fathers, and he has always been the best of husbands."

"Yes, yes, of course, my dear. I said nothing against Charles, I did not know we were talking about him. We can finish him up to-night," cheerfully. "If that is all you had better go out now, while it is fine," turning his eyes to the dazzling sunlight for an instant and then back to his blotted page. "You can tell me about Charles, you know, when you come in. The best of husbands! I don't know much about them, I fear, but I know a little about the best of wives."

He rose and laid his hand on the long slender, soft gray glove that was leaning with determination on his neat manuscript. The gray glove closed round his hand gently and clung to him, almost as if it were loth to leave the thin worn fingers; but he patted it gently and laid it aside. Mrs. Nicholson gave a faint sigh, but when she spoke again she spoke with less decision and more pleading.

"It is not Charles, indeed it is not; it is the baby. Nurse has gone out, and I have put her cradle in the morning room by the window. "John," suddenly, "are you listening? What did I say last?"

"The morning room, Agatha."

"Well," with a sigh of relief, "I see you are taking it in and forgetting those horrible stars; and how you can compare a star to a baby," parenthetically "is past me."

"I am sure I never did," he said gently.

"Well, don't interrupt me, John, or I shall never get out. What was I saying? Oh, baby is in the morning room, and if she cries—makes one sound—you are to ring your bell—this bell, John—for cook; do you understand?"

"Yes, I believe so. I am to ring the bell—this bell—for cook."

"Oh, I hope you will," after a pause. "Fancy," her eyes filling with tears again, "if she cried, and no one heard her! O John, you will not deceive me? You will try—and—ring?"

"My dear," speaking with some dignity, "surely I am not utterly destitute of common humanity or common sense. I have interesting work here," pointing to the manuscript and the books of reference heaped around him; "but I suppose, after all, I am human."

"O, I hope so, I think so," cried Agatha, clasping her hands; "only you might not hear her, that was all I meant."

"Then I think," he said, with a gentle sarcastic smile, "that you may dismiss your fears; they are quite groundless."

"Very well," said Agatha, moving in a hesitating way to the door. "I am satisfied, I am trying to be satisfied; don't forget."

"No," cheerfully, "I will take a leaf from Charles's book, the best of husbands."

"Oh"—the gray glove had closed on the handle of the door, but released it again—"the Paynters are coming to-night, so you must not go out star gazing."

"All right," obediently; "good-bye."

"Good-bye." The bright face, that had almost disappeared round the door, came back again, and leaned against the worn velveteen of the astronomer's coat; for a minute the lips were pressed to it, then lifted. "Kiss me, John; you are a dear old fellow after all, and I am a fiend."

The sunshine seemed to leave the room with the sweet bright presence and hover over the pretty cradle, among the sounds and scents of the midsummer day. In the library there was only one shaft of light that came through the high windows and fell across the old velveteen coat, and the tidy manuscripts, and the open books, and left the handsome, clever, refined face in shadow.

CHAPTER II.

It might have been two hours afterward—painful after events created a confusion in Mr. Nicholson's mind, and the two hours might have been two days—when he became aware of a laugh in the passage by the door. His hand had grown tired with writing, but the pen traveled steadily on; his eyes had grown a little tired; and it was a relief to raise them for a minute to the locked door, behind which he heard the laugh. He rose, with a half smile on his grave face, and paused, struck by a sudden presentiment. Something came back to him, as he stood in the dull light of the dull room; was it a dream or a memory, or was it—the baby. He pushed his papers hurriedly away and walked over to the door and unlocked it, throwing it wide open. There was nothing in the passage but the yellow sunlight now upon the walls and on the old prints, and Mrs. Nicholson standing in her pretty gray dress, with her slim hands stretched out and the laugh that had disturbed him still upon her lips.

In the room beyond there was more sunlight and the cradle.

"John," cried Mrs. Nicholson, laughing again as if she could not help it, "what have you done with her? Give her to me. You are earning your title to the best of husbands!"

He looked up in quick perplexity. "What is it, Agatha? What do you want? I have nothing to give you."

"Oh don't, John!" she cried, impatiently; "don't tease! I want baby."

"Well!"—the same perplexed look creeping over his face, and softening its sternness—"take her," stretching out his hand to the cradle in the sunlight.

Agatha's eyes were turned on him for a minute with a look of contempt before which he positively quailed. Then she swept over to the cradle, and tossed out the little pillow, and the sheets with their lace edges, and the pale-blue satin coverlet on the floor in a soft heap, and stood looking down upon the empty cradle as if she would conjure up the pink face and the flaxen head into their accustomed place.

Mr. Nicholson had followed her on itip-toe and was stirring the softly shining heap on the floor with his patent leather shoes, as if he had imagined hat she had tossed the baby out among them.

"Well?" said Agatha sharply.

"Well?" he echoed feebly.

"Do you mean to say," she said, putting aside her angry vehemence and speaking tearfully, with her gray eyes turned up to his—"Oh, John, do you mean to say that you have lost her?"

"I never touched her," he cried hastily. "I never—" heard her, he would have added, but again that faint memory—that dream—stirred him. "Upon my honor, Agatha," he said abruptly, leaning down into the cradle, and poking at the mattres with his thin fingers, "upon my honor I can't remember."

"You can't remember!" said Agatha, with slow scorn. "Why, John, she roared! Cook heard her in the kitchen. She came rushing up, and found the cradle empty and baby gone. She thought you had taken her into the study; she told me so; but oh, John, it was somebody else, and they have stolen her."

"My dear," he said, shaking himself together, and speaking more lightly, "who would steal her?—a baby roaring, as you say!" He shuddered. "Why, surely no one in his senses would do such a thing!"

"Emmy's baby!" cried Agatha tearfully, "and that is how you speak of her! O John, dear John, think again: didn't you hear her? Perhaps you have forgotten—perhaps you have put her somewhere, and she has gone to sleep. Sit down, John, and think—perhaps you have put her somewhere and forgotten."

Mr. Nicholson sat down on the window sill and covered his face with his hands. He tried to think, but whenever he concentrated his mind on the baby, he was dimly conscious of that fading fancy that he could not grasp—that dream of a cry. It had disturbed him, he remembered, that loud, painful, jarring cry, but it had died away; surely it had died into peace without his interference? "Agatha" he said, lifting up his face, sharpened with the effect of thought, "I do remember something—somebody crying; it must have been the babe."

"Yes," said Agatha eagerly, "go on! You heard her! That is right. Cook says you must have heard her, she roared so. Well, and then? You—"

"I—I can't remember, Agatha. I may have gone on writing; that seems the most likely, I think; but I may have gone to the door. No" shaking his head, "I can't get beyond the cry. I do remember that now distinctly."

"Perhaps," said Agatha hopefully, through her tears, "you have put her somewhere in the library. What have you been doing or using this afternoon?"

Mr. Nicholson followed humbly as she swept in before him, and flung open the great curtains, so that the light rushed in on to his table strewed with plans and manuscript. Even then he spread out his hands, almost unconsciously, to defend his precious papers from her light scornful touch; but she stood in the centre of the room, looking into every corner with her quick soft eyes.

"What have you used, John—this chair? You have not been to the cupboard? No," peeping into a dark recess, musty with papers. "What else?"

"Nothing else, Agatha, here, except," with a quick smile, "the waste-paper basket, and that is empty. You can see for yourself."

"Ah," said Agatha, "here is cook," as a heavy breathing became audible in the passage. "Cook," her voice trembling at sight of the sympathetic face, "your master has not seen the baby—at least, he thinks not. He was very busy, but he heard her cry, and he may have taken her up and forgotten. We are looking for her."

"Which you won't never find her, then," said cook, in a broken voice. "In my last place but one, where I was general cleaner in Mrs. 'All's family, there was a child disappeared, as it might be this, and it was never found—gypsies or not, it was never come across again."

"Oh don't, cook!" cried Agatha, plaintively. "And Emmy coming this evening! Your master thinks he may have put her somewhere and forgotten. He remembers hearing her."

"Which he might," said cook, not being deaf. Which I don't mean no disrespect, Sir, but she was roaring awful, and I says to Mary, says I, 'Master'll never know 'ow to quiet that child, so I'll run up and bring her down a bit and I stops to change my apron, and I ups, as it might be here, and the cradle, as it might be there, and no sound, and the cradle as empty as it is this minute."

Cook turned dramatically, and pointed one stout arm to the little cradle in the sunlight. Mrs. Nicholson's tearful eyes followed the hand, and her husband stood uneasily in the centre of the group, with an anxious frown upon his face.

"Which," added cook scornfully, I think a baby—and such a one, bless her!—is more vally than all this rubbish." She waved her hand over the table on which lay the neat manuscript and the rows of mended pens; and Mr. Nichloson moved instinctively a step backward, as if she had an evil eye and his writing would shrivel up at her scornful gesture.

"Cook," said Mrs. Nicholson with dignity, marred a little by the quiver of her voice, "you don't understand. Your master is very clever, and his writings are of great value. Of course," with a pleading look upward, "baby is our first thought just now. There are no wild beasts here so she cannot be eaten. But she has gone, and before Emmy comes this evening she must be found."

"Of course she must," said her husband, plucking up courage from her exceeding gentleness. "We will begin systematically, and go through every room in the house."

So the search began, that ended an hour later, in the great hall, with three perplexed faces meeting each other at the foot of the stairs, in a silence that Mrs. Nicholson broke.

"It's no use John; I cannot bear it any longer. She is lost!"

She flung out her empty hands with a despairing gesture, but her husband caught and held them.

"Don't give up, Agatha; it will all come right. If I search the world through, I will find her."

"Or the body," said cook.

Mrs. Nicholson shuddered.

The minute's silence was broken by a sound of merry laughter and the trampling of feet. For a minute Agatha raised her head, listening intently, and then she dropped it with a sigh.

"It is only the rectory boys, John," she said; "they have been in the hay field all day, and I asked them to tea. I can't speak to them, I am too anxious."

She would have moved away, but the noise and laughter were in the hall already, and the boys stumbling up toward her in the darkness, over the rugs and skins. Something white was being shoved from one to the other, and was pushed into Agatha's arms at last, and held there by a pair of rough sunburned hands.

"What is it? Oh, Jack, what is it?" she cried, bending down and kissing, to their owner's surprise, the boy's rough hands.

"Don't I say," said Jack, drawing them away with a curious, shamefaced look. "It's only the baby, Mrs. Nicholson. She was crying in the cradle, so I just got into the room and bagged her. She's been playing in the hay; she nearly got jabbed with a rake, but Jim got it instead. She's a jolly little thing. Did you miss her?"

"Yes, I thought she was lost," said Agatha gently.

"Lost!" with a roar of laughter. "Well that is good! May we wash our hands for tea? I'm not so dirty, I've been holding her; but Jim's simply mud all over. Here, have you got her? it's so dark I can't see."

The turbulent tide swept away into the dim distance of stairs and passages, leaving a little group in the twilight of the hall; a tall, dark figure, against which a golden head was leaning, and two arms with a white bundle folded in them.

"Kiss her, John," came a soft voice out of the darkness. "I know you would rather not, she's only a baby, not a star; but just as a punishment, because you were so stupid."

The tall figure stooped and laid a dark mustache against the little bundle.

"She's very soft," said another voice; "I don't think I ever knew so much about a baby before."

There was, after a moment's silence, a movement on the man's part, as though he were drawing himself up to his full height, with a view to reasserting his dignity. He cleared his throat.

"After all, Agatha," he said stiffly, "I did not lose the baby."

"I never said you did," said Agatha; "I only asked you and you couldn't remember."

"Another time," with an evident effort, "I suppose I shall be condemned unheard."

"Another time," scornfully. "You may set your mind at rest. Neither I nor Emmy is in the least likely to trust you again, at least not with anything of value."

"Then how about the baby?" with a laugh.

"That," said Agatha firmly, "includes the baby."—London Society.

Wanted to Know the Motive.

From the Chicago News.

"Now sir," said the prosecuting attorney pompously, "you are a railroad man, you say. Now, sir, let's see how much you know about your business, sir. What motive, sir, has your company for running its trains through the city faster than the ordinances decree?"

"What motive?"

"Yes, sir; what motive? Come sir!"

"Why, locomotive, I should say."

The witness was fined for contempt of court.

John R. McLean of Cincinnati, who purchased the Holmeade cemetery tract in Washington, gave the district commissiners in payment his certified check for $53,000, the price agreed upon. He is believed to have sold a few extra copies of the Enquirer lately.

A LITTLE DOUBTFUL.

From the Evansville Journal.

When a pair of red lips are upturned to your own,
With no one to gossip about it,
Do you pray for endurance to let them alone?
Well, maybe you do—but I doubt it.

When a sly little hand you're premitted to seize,
With a velvety softness about it,
Do you think you can drop it with never a squeeze?
Well, maybe you can—but I doubt it.

When a tapering waist is in reach of your arm,
With a wonderful plumpness about it,
Do you argue the point 'twixt the good and the harm?
Well, maybe you do—but I doubt it.

And if by these tricks you should capture a heart,
With a womanly sweetness about it,
Will you guard it and keep it, and act the good part?
Well, maybe you will—but I doubt it.

JACK'S LESSON.

"He positively neglects you, Nannie; I wonder you stand it."

"I love him so, Lena!"

Lena Blair touched the light-brown hair of her brother's betrothed very tenderly; but a shade of annoyance crossed her fine, haughty face.

"You love him far too well, little one," she said, rapidly. "If you were not so willing to accept any sort of treatment from him, I'm sure he'd not act as he does. Now, last night at the hop I saw your pretty eyes turning toward him wherever he was—and he wasn't very near you often; I noticed that, too—full of the most transparent devotion. Why didn't you do as he was doing? He was deep in a flirtation with Nell Glynn. Why didn't you try the same amusement? You might find it as pleasant as he did, or seemed to; and when Roy Lexon tried to be civil to you, you actually snubbed him! Oh, you little goose! So long as you submit to this sort of thing, so long will you find it continue. You are too patient, dear. I am sure you never say a word to Jack about all his flirtations, do you, Nannie?"

The pretty gray eyes fell, and a flickering color, sweet as that of the wild primrose, came and went in Nannie May's cheek. It was a very dainty and flower-like face that Lena watched so closely, yet with a touch of impatience in her own dark eyes.

"I couldn't say anything unpleasant to him, Lena," she said, softly; "and I am sure he loves me best always."

"Of course he does; but his conduct sometimes pains you. I know it does."

There was a slight contraction of the low, white forhead, and a sudden quiver of the girlish lips, as they said, simply:

"Sometimes." Then they added, hastily: "I know he doesn't mean to make me miserable. He dees it all in thoughtlessness, Lena, dear."

"Then it's about time you taught him to consider a little. Your patience will make a confirmed flirt of him."

"What can I do? I never could quarrel with Jack. It would kill me, Lena, if I spoke to him at all on this subject, I know I would cry."

"And then he would kiss you, and call you silly and jealous without reason; and you would ask his pardon; and he would flirt more than ever."

"Well, what is there for me to do?"

"Make him jealous."

"I never could; I am no flirt, and I love Jack too well to make him miserable."

"And Jack ought to love you too well to want to make you miserable."

"He doesn't think."

"Then teach him to think!" impatiently; "I have a plan, Nannie, which will work splendidly, if you will put it in execution. Sandy Anderson comes here to-morrow. You know him?"

Oh, very well indeed! He is an old friend, in fact."

"Well, a secret: He is—is my lover. We are betrothed."

"Lena dear!" with girlish delight. "I never even suspected! Let me kiss you! Does Jack know?"

"No, you child! Do you forget the old feud beoween them, since one—I forget which—gave the other a good drubbing at college? And Jack isn't to know just yet, either. I told you Sandy comes to-morrow. Let me lay my plan before you, and see if there isn't more of the comic than tragic in my plot."

They were walking slowly along the beach, within sight of the hotel at which both were guests; both were with their parents at Atlantic City, spending a very delightful summer by "the sad sea waves."

Jack Blair had joined the party two weeks before, and still had four weeks left of the vacation given him generously by his senior partner in their Baltimore bank.

The two girls talked for some time, and when they had finished, both were laughing heartily. While their faces were yet dimpling with mirth, they came suddenly upon a couple sitting on the sands, in the very agreeable—to them, depths of an animated conversation. They had a huge light sunshade over them; and the young man—none other than Jack Blair himself—was quite pronounced in his desire to protect his companion's complexion from the sun; while he was industriously swaying a great fan to and fro, quite near, in fact almost tenderly near the pretty, petulant, pink and white face of Nell Glynn, said to be one of the most unscrupulous and industrious of flirts, and certainly enjoying her sojourn beside the ocean.

Lena and Nannie nodded to them and passed on. Lena laughed mischievously.

"Strike such an attitude some time for his benefit," she said, and Nannie blushed a deep red, but smiled a little also.

The next evening there was to be a pleasant hop at a neighboring hotel, and Jack had promised to escort Lena and Nannie.

He was waiting for them, as he had promised on the terrace, when his sister approached him alone.

"Isn't Nannie ready?" he asked. "Everybody has gone; Miss Glynn and her mother went half an hour ago."

"And Nannie has been gone more than half an hour." Lena responded easily.

"With her mother? I understood that Mrs. May was not going."

"She is in the parlor. Nannie went with Mr. Anderson."

Jack stared.

"She was to go with us."

"I told you so, but I was mistaken, you see. We will be late, Jack!"

Jack offered his arm, and led his sister across the terrace and along the sands, looking a trifle grave.

"Nannie will be the belle to-night, I'm positive," Lena continued, cheerfully. "She looked beautiful in a thin, white dress, with pearls on her arms. If I were you, Jack, I'd be a little bit afraid. You see, Sandy Anderson has admired Nannie a long time, and he is so very agreeable and so handsome—rather handsomer than you are, my dear brother."

"A fop and a fool! Jack exclaimed disgustedly; and Lena only smiled.

They were late, and found the floor filled with waltzers.

While they stood watching the circling couplets, Nannie floated by, light as a zephyr, fair as a flower—held by Sandy Anderson, whose head was bent—rather too tenderly, it seemed to Jack—over the fair one of the girl.

She was smiling shyly, and, as her eyes met those of her betrothed, she flushed, in what struck him as being a very guilty manner.

Then the other waltzers hid them, and Jack, with a most unaccountable sense of injury upon him, stood moodily near the doorway, although Miss Glynn had sent a signal across the room to him.

As the hours went on, he found it impossible to get near enough to Nannie to say even a word to her; and this was so unusual that he felt confused, injured, indignant and angry altogether.

Miss May had certainly been a belle that night, and Sandy Anderson had been her constant attendant.

When Jack walked back to their hotel with Lena he was perfectly silent; and his sister asked him at last how he had liked the hop.

"It was a beastly bore!" he said, half savagely.

"Didn't Nannie look lovely?" she pursued.

"Ask Anderson," was the civil answer. "He never took his eyes off her all night."

"I don't think he ever cared for anybody else," Lena said, unblushingly. "I pity the poor fellow!"

And Jack tugged very savagely at his mustache.

The following morning, directly after breakfast, he was standing on the terrace, when Nannie and Mr. Anderson crossed it, on their way to the beach.

They did not return until lunch-hour, and he noticed how bright and pretty the girl looked, in her white flannel dress and broad sun-hat; and he had been no more particular about the preservation of Miss Glynn's complexion than seemed Sandy about his companion's.

In the afternoon they—Nannie and Anderson—went driving on the sands; in the evening they sang duets in the parlor; and when they finished, Jack heard a picnic planned for the following day, to which Sandy asked Miss May if he might be her escort, and she smilingly assented.

Then Jack became blindly, insanely jealous, and he sent Lena to induce his betrothed to go for a turn on the terrace.

He followed Lena, and then, when Jack had drawn her arm through his, Lena left them and went in; and Jack commenced upbraiding his pretty love, until he melted her to tears.

Surely Nannie May would never have become a queen of tragedy; for she owned to everything then and there, and dried her tears on Jack's broad bosom; and she even informed him of his sister's engagement, in her excited confusion.

"Lena thought you neglected me, and that I took it too meekly; so she arranged it all," she sobbed. "She thought you might not spend so much of your time with Miss Glynn, if you knew how badly I felt about your doing so; and she made me try to make you jealous. But you're not angry, Jack? You're not angry at me?"

His anger did not seem very terrible, for he kissed ner.

"Lena ought to be ashamed of herself," he declared; "and I think I'll forgive Anderson all old scores. He'll not find life full of flowers if he becomes my brother-in-law. But, my pet, you ought not to think of being jealous of Miss Glynn, nor of anybody else. there is no girl in the whole world so sweet and lovable as yourself; and even Lena shall not say I neglect you hereafter."

"And you're not jealous?"

"Of a fellow like Anderson? Nonsense, dear!"

But he had been, very jealous.

THE GRAND CROSS OF BATH.

An Order Supposed to Have Originated About the Time of the First Crusade.

Sir John A. Macdonald the Canadian premier, having just been invested with the Grand Cross of Bath, an honor never before conferred on any colonial minister, a history of the institution of this coveted distinction is timely. The knights of the Bath are a military order, supposed to have originated at the time of the first crusade, but first distinctly mentioned in the reign of Henry IV. Froissart says that at the coronation of that king in the tower of London in 1399 forty-six esquires were made knights, and were called knights of the Bath, because they had watched and bathed during the night preceding, and they wore on the occasion long coats trimmed with white fur, and had white laces hung about their shoulders. From that time it was usual for kings to create knights of the Bath at the coronation of themselves or their queens, the birth or marriage of princes or princesses, upon the eve of starting upon foreign military expeditions, and after gaining a battle or taking a town. At the coronation of Charles II. sixty-eight knights of the Bath were made; but the order was then neglected and discontinued, till in 1725 George I. revived it by letters patent. He gave a book of statutes for its government, by which it was decreed that the order should consist of a sovereign, a grand master and thirty-six companions. Its badge, of pure gold, was to be a scepter of three united imperial crowns, from which grew the rose, the thistle, and the shamrock, and around which was inscribed the ancient motto, "Tria Juncta in Uno." It was to be hung by a red ribon from the collar obliquely over the right shoulder. The collar should contain thirty ounces, troy weight of gold, and be a complicated arrangement of nine crowns and eight roses, thistles, and shamrocks, the latter being enameled in their proper colors are attached to the crowns by gold knots enameled white. A silver also made to resemble the badge, and with a glory of rays proceeding from its center, should adorn the left shoulder of the knight, being embroidered upon the left side of his mantle. The apparel of a knight of the Bath was ordered to be a red surcoat, lined and edged with white and encircled by a white girdle, a crimson mantle lined with white and fastened about the neck with a cordon of white silk, a white silk hat surmounted by plumes of white feathers, white boots, red stockings and breeches, and a sword in a white leather scabbard. In 1815 the number of the knights of the Bath was enlarged. Three denominations and ranks were then ordained in the order, the first consisting of knights' grand crosses, to be conferred only upon officers who had reached the rank of major-general in the army of rear admiral in the navy, excepting that twelve of the number might be appointed for eminent civil services. The grand crosses were distinguished by wearing over their badge and star a wreath of laurel winding about an escrol, on which was inscribed, "Ich dien." The second class, consisting of knights commanders, take precedence of all knights bachelors in the kingdom, and no one is eligible to this dignity till he has reached the rank of major-general in the army or rear admiral in the navy, and no one is eligible to a grand cross till he has first been a commander. The third class, consisting of knights companions, takes precedence of all esquries in the kingdom, and no officer is admissible to this dignity who has not received a medal in reward for valor, or been especially mentioned as of signal merit in the dispatches of his superior office.

LEGS TO ORDER.

Interesting Items About the Army of Crippled Soldiers.

"We have the names of about eighteen thousand veterans who have applied for repairs," said Mr. Ramsey, who has charge of the artificial limb department of the surgeon-general's office, to a Washington Star reporter. "You know we fit them out with new sets of legs, arms or other apparatus every five years. It is now getting toward the close of one of those periods, and we have repaired 14,000 veterans."

"Aren't the one-legged men dying off?" asked the reporter.

"Now that's an interesting question. I guess they are. I presume many of those whose names we have have since died, but I can't tell certainly. Now, as I've said, every five years we reconstruct the mained veterans of the army, but they have their choice to take the repairs or the money. The allowance for a leg is $75, for anything less than a leg is $50. From one period to another many old veterans drop out. Some of them make one or two applications, and then we never hear from them again. Naturally, we conclude when they don't send for their money or legs, they must be dead and have no more use for them. But we don't limit ourselves to men who have actually lost their limbs. A man who has simply lost the use of his limbs is entitled to a wooden leg or arm, as the case may be, though he can't wear them. So you see we can't keep a record of all the one-legged men, but I guess there aren't as many as there used to be. Yet there are lots of them, and many who haven't any legs at all, and some with neither legs nor arms. Then there are many who have not lost their limbs, but who have no power to move. There is one man who gets two arms and two legs allowance, who cannot move any part of his body except the little finger on the left hand, which he can bend the least little bit. There is another, a New England soldier, whose arms and legs are dead, and who is blind in both eyes. Not long ago a man came in here with no arms and sat down at one of the desks and wrote with his teeth. It was not particularly fine writing, but you could read it. I know of another man —he was in the sharpshooter's service—who can't be stood on his feet because he is bent in the back so that his head would strike the floor first. Think how many years these men have suffered, and many of them are still living! Why there's hardly enough left of some of them to hold together."

But you asked if they were dying off. Now, here's a roll we are just completing," and he laid several immense tally sheets out on his desk. "You can see how they run. This is the fourth period, and here's a man who has gotten four legs—quite a number for one man, if he used them all at once. And here's another who has gotten four legs and four arms. No, we don't furnish heads, but we supply parts of heads, jaws, and sections of skulls and eyes. Now, here's a man who got one leg in the first period and has never gotten any since; he is probably dead. But here is another, who came in for repairs just after the close of the war and was never heard from again until now, when he comes up again. He didn't wear out very fast. Some men wear well and don't bother about getting repaired so often. Here's another man, he added, pointing to another name on the list, "here's a man who comes up now for the first time, having done without his limb all these years. It runs this way, you see, all the way through. Those men who have not applied for their fourth leg, or whatever it is they want, we conclude must be dead. Some, I presume, will live to get five or six legs, or as many arms."

Walter O. Allen, three years confidential clerk of B. Altman & Co., of New York, was arraigned on a charge of forging orders on the cashier for goods he had pretended to buy and received money for the same. His salary was less than $2,000 a year, yet he kept three horses and lived in good style.

One out of every three persons in middle life do not hear so well with one ear as the other.

Church bells are said to be going out of use in every American city.

PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.—A bill was reported favorably from the committee on public lands, to provide that whenever lands had been withdrawn from sale because of grants made to aid internal improvements, and such withdrawals had been afterward terminated, or where the lands were reduced in price to $1.25 per acre, and such lands had been purchased in good faith, and patents obtained therefor, without having first been proclaimed by the president, such patent shall be valid, "whereon, on the 25th day of January, there are no conflicting claims." The senate proceeded to the consideration of bills upon the calendar. Among the bills passed was one authorizing the president to appoint a commission consisting of one or more army officers, to act in conjunction with the State of Texas to ascertain and mark the point where the 100th meridian of longitude crossed the Red river, and appropriating $10,000 for the necessary expenses of the commission.

The house bill, the "Reagan bill," so called having been already read twice by the title and placed upon the calendar, was taken from the calender and read in full. The question before the senate was the motion of Mr. Cullom to strike out all after the enacting clause in the house bill and insert instead several provisions of the commission bill already debated and agreed to in the senate.

The president sent the following nominations to the senate:

Carrol D. Wright, Massachusetts, commissioner of labor statistics; Warren Truitt, Oregon, register of land office at Lake View, Or.; S. O. Swackhamer, Oregon, register of land office at La Grande, Or.; Emory Spear, Georgia, United States district judge of the southern district of Georgia; collectors of customs, David McLaughlin, district of Michigan, and Vespasian Smith, district of Duluth; pension agent, Jacob Rich, Iowa, Des Moines; postmaster, John A. Post, Boise City, Idaho.

Confirmations—John Davis, District of Columbia, judge of the United States court of claims; William A. Richardson, chief justice of the United States court of claims.

HOUSE.—A bill was reported providing for a drawback on certain imported articles. The Indian appropriation bill was considered.

Pending further debate the committee rose and public business being suspended, the house proceeded to pay fitting tribute to the memory of the late Representative John H. Evins of South Carolina.

Eulogistic addresses were made by Messrs. Bratton, Dibble, Tillman Browne, (Ind.), Hardeman, George, Dowd and Dunham, and then as a further mark of respect to the memory of the deceased the house adjourned.

SENATE.—The interstate commerce bill was resumed.

Mr. Coke opposed the bill. He severely criticized Charles Francis Adams, Jr., who he said after having asserted that railroads were "establishing a despotism that no spasmodic popular action could shake off," was now advocating the federation of all the railroads in the country under one head. A message was received from the house, announcing the death of Hon. John Hamilton Evins, late representative in congress from South Carolina.

On motion of Mr. Hampton, the message was at once taken up, and Mr. Hampton offered a resolution fittingly expressing the sense of the senate on the decease of Evins.

Messrs. Hampton, Frye and Butler spoke in eulogy of the deceased.

Senator Cameron has reported favorably from the committee on claims the bill to provide all claims for back pay on bounty due for services in the late war or any previous war, shall be presented for adjustment and payment within three years from the passage of the act.

HOUSE.—A bill was reported allowing drawbacks on imported articles used in the manufacture of exported tobacco. The Indian appropriation bill was considered, after which the late Senator Anthony was eulogized.

The agricultural bill reported recently provides the commission of agriculture may use such part of the appropriation for the bureau of animal industry as he may deem necessary and in such way he may think best to prevent the spread of pleuro-pneumonia. The new authority vested in the commission is, however, not to conflict with existing law.

The Oklahoma resolutions of Messrs. Plumb and Vest were placed before the senate. Mr. Vest withdrew his resolution, and in doing so took occasion to say that there could be no doubt whatever that as the laws stood the Oklahoma lands were not at this time subject to settlement by white people, and the president, therefore, was unable to do otherwise than as he had done. After a long discussion, Mr. Plumb's resolution calling on the president for his views on the present status of the Oklahoma lands was agreed to.

In executive session the Senate confirmed: Carroll D. Wright of Boston commissioner of labor; W. C. Emmett, secretary of legation, Constantinople; collector of customs, Vespasian Smith, Duluth; pension agent, Jacob Rich, Des Moines, Iowa; postmasters, D. S. Sweet, Pipe Stone, Minn.; John A. Post, Boise City, Idaho; H. C. Colbaugh, Hamburg, Iowa.

The senate remained in secret session two hours discussing the Nicaraguan treaty. Senator Morgan finished his speech and Senator Edmunds consumed the remainder of the session. Both gentlemen were in favor of the treaty.

HOUSE.—A conference report on the Oregon Central forfeiture bill was made and agreed to; the house receding from its disagreement to the senate amendments. The Indian appropriation bill passed, after a long debate in which Mr. Reagan said it struck him as a curious fact that the government could always find means to appropriate money to feed a lot of lazy and vagabond Indians, but could never find means of putting them to work. He read a letter he had received from Bishop Whipple of Minnesota, who is now living on the banks of the Mediterranean, imploring his good offices for Indians, and asking him to request the president-elect to be deeply careful in the selection of a commissioner of Indian affairs. "No position," says the bishop, "in the gift of the president can bring to his party greater honor or greater fame."

SENATE.—The chair laid before the senate Mr. Vest's resolution, heretofore offered, to authorize the secretary of the interior to ascertain upon what terms the Creek and Seminole Indians would surrender their remaining interest in the Oklahoma lands.

Mr. Plumb offered a substitute requesting the president to enter as speedily as possible into negotiation with such Indian tribes as may be in possession of more lands than enough to give each head of a family 160 acres, with a view to using such surplus lands for actual settlers only. The substitute also requests the president to act in the matter as speedily as possible, and report to congress such propositions as he may receive.

After further debate, the resolutions of Messrs. Vest & Plumb were referred to the committee on Indian affairs. The senate went into executive session, and reviewed the following nominations: Stanford E. Challe, Louisiana, member of the national board of health; Lucius H. Foote, minister resident, and consul general of the United States at Corea; Nelson A. Dunning, Michigan, consul of the United States, Auckland; Capt. Almon Rockwell, assistant quartermaster, to be major and quartermaster; Andrew S. Draper, New York, judge of the court of commissioners of Alabama claims; John F. Hartranft, collector of customs, district of Philadelphia; William S. Steele, Pennsylvania, coiner of the mint, Philadelphia.

The senate in secret session, continued the discussion of the Nicaraguan treaty. Senator Edmunds concluded a speech in favor of ratification commenced several days ago, and so far as surface indications are visible the final conclusion of this question remains in the distant future.

HOUSE.—Mr. Hurd, as a privileged question, offered a preamble and resolution reciting that certain bills, appropriating money from the treasury, originating in the senate are now on the speaker's table, together with the Blair educational bill and many others, and that it is asserted that these bills are in violation of the privilege of the house to exclusively originate bills for the raising of revenue, and directing the judiciary committee to inquire into the power of the senate to originate a bill appropriating revenue and to report to the house at any time. Laid on the table. An evening session was held for the consideration of pension bills.

Each house received as a present from the Silk Culture Association of the United States an American flag made of silk grown in this country, and adopted a resolution accepting the gift.

Hunters are already slaying the deer at a great rate in the vicinity of Kettle river. It is estimated that there are from 200 to 300 carcasses hung up in the woods near that place, awaiting shipment as the time arrives when the laws of the state will permit deer to be killed.

BARTENDERS' BIG SECRETS.

Over 100 Per Cent. Profit Realized by the Sale of Bad Whisky.

From the New York Star.

"How is it," inquired a reporter of a wellknown druggist on the Bowery, "that I have to pay ten cents for a glass of sodawater in your drug store and only three cents in a dive? What is the reason for the difference?"

The druggist's eye twinkled merrily as he answered: "That's easily explained. The soda-water sold here is properly charged with carbonic acid, scientifically prepared. The soda-water sold in the dive is not soda at all, as druggists understand it, but is simply a villainous compound made of health-destroying materials. Why do you wish to know?"

"Because I am desirous of giving the public some idea of the composition of the class of drinks sold to the public at these places."

"Very well, then, in such a cause I am only too glad to be of service. Let us commence with whisky, which is most appropriately termed 'rotgut,' for such in reality it is. It seems to be generally understood that the ordinary form which the adulteration of whisky takes is in the quantity of water that is put into it. But this is only partly true. Its strength, having been first destroyed by water, is restored by adding the lye of ashes prepared especially for the purpose. The whisky-water mixture compared to this addition is comparatively harmless, while the form in which it is given to the customer is a practically and doubly-distilled lye. However, that class of customers are not, as a rule, judges of what good liquor really is, because their taste becomes so vitiated that were a glass of good quality of whisky given to them they would invariably prefer the bad."

"Is brandy similarly treated?"

"No, it varies—in what is called 'French brandy,' especially. Here the ingredients are spirits obtained from molasses, beer-root and potatoes, with the addition of burnt sugar as a coloring material. The flavor is obtained by adding essential oils of various kinds to suit the palate. To the trade there is known what is called 'distilled murk,' which is simply the refuse skins of the grape. This mixture is expressly made for the class of trade you refer to."

"How about gin?"

"Gin adulteration also prevails largely, and it is even worse in its effect than the commonest grade of brandy or whisky. Water being the largest element used, which makes it a whitish color, other ingredients are added to give it back its strength. These are the poisonous acetate of lead, alum and carbonate of potash. Tincture of capsicum gives it a pungent flavor, and the flavoring is made of various materials, as almond cake, sulphuric acid, angelica root, liquorice powder, corriander seeds and juniper berries."

"Do you mean to say these additions are made after they get into the dive-keeper's hands?"

"No I don't exactly mean that, but those are the ingredients of which the vilest gins are composed. They pay for the gin and ask no questions."

"Now having disposed of brandy, whisky and gin, can you tell me anything about flavoring extracts?"

"This is where the 'key'—so to speak of the whole situation comes in. Flavoring extracts contain the commonest form of adulteration. Their exact analysis I am not familiar with. I know one fact, however, in relation to them. They are put up in small ounce vials and are very expensive. It is quite a common thing for the person using them to make gin, brandy or whisky out of the same barrel by pouring in a drop or two of this flavoring extract. Now, in order not to be misunderstood, I do not assume that dive proprietors adulterate their liquors themselves, but as they pay a low price for what they do buy I maintain that they are quite aware of the nature and quality of the vile stuff they sell. They know perfectly well it is 'doctored.'"

In order to ascertain the opposite side of the question, the reporter visited a saloon whose proprietor makes a specialty of five and ten cent drinks, who utterly repudiated the idea of adulterating his whiskey with any foreign mixture—save water.

He took three glasses filled with whisky and placed them on the counter. Alongside he placed a half-pint liquor flask.

"Here are three qualities of liquor. Quality No. 1 is sold for seven cents a half pint. It consists of one-half of plain spirits and one-half of water. The rest is coloring matter. The spirits are from forty to fifty below proof. This liquor costs me about one dollar a gallon, and selling it in this way I make over 100 per cent. profit. Quality No. 2 contains about three-fourths spirits and one-fourth water. Out of this I make seventy-five per cent. Quality No. 3 contains proof liquor, and costs me $1.65 per gallon. It is the best I keep, and four glasses of it would make a man drunk. The coloring material is simply made out of burnt granulated sugar. In a five-cent business a man cannot afford to be very liberal with his whiskey."

"Do you use much alcohol?"

"I don't use any. Alcohol costs $2.29 a gallon; plain proof spirits cost $1.28 per gallon."

"Is there any other material that is used?"

"Yes. French spirits, which cost $1.32 per gallon, and cologne water, costing $1.37. The latter is used in modifying gin—two gallons of cologne water to one gallon of gin. The reason cologne water is used is to correct the the effect of the fusil oil in the gin, which could not be drunk under ordinary circumstances. Cologne water, in its natural state, is just like water itself to the taste. Gin of fair quality costs $3.50."

"Do you use flavoring extracts?"

"I have two kinds of gum and two kinds of bitters."

"Of what are bitters made?"

He declined to say.

Taking the above statement on its own merits and supposing it to be absolutely correct, it will evidently be seen by the reader how great is the profit derived by the consumption of five-cent whisky.

The reporter, however, determined to find, if possible, of what compound the narcotic element was composed.

A gentleman who had given the matter some attention said: "I am told on credible authority that ether enters more or less extensively into the composition of these flavoring extracts, and it is to that cause I attribute in a larger degree than to any other the stupefying influences produced by these cheap drinks. It is quite possible, however, that some form of ether is kept separately and administered to the customer as the occasion serves. It is very much to be regretted that we have no official bureau in this city for the analysis of liquors. An efficient department of the kind would go far in suppressing the dive nuisance."

Franklin and Adams.

Some time during the revolutionary period, or a little after, John Adams and Benjamin Franklin were dispatched from Philadelphia, I believe, to Massachusetts, on a public errand. Adams had a mortal antipathy, shared by him along with the majority of mankind at that day, against the night air. He believed that if he kept his bedroom window open even a crack at night he would surely die. Franklin, on the other hand, was a disbeliever in the theory of danger in the night air, and he had many arguments with Adams thereon. Circumstances and the crowded condition of many of the taverns they stopped at on their journey eastward compelled them frequently to occupy the same room, and often the same bed. Adams always opposed raising the window, and poor Ben nearly suffocated and reviled Adams on waking for his wretched theory of the deadly effects of nature's universal medium of breath. One night Ben slyly raised a window in their common chamber, but Adams, on the alert for his friend's little games, insisted that it should be closed at once. Said crafty Ben: "Now, Mr. Adams we'll go to bed with the window up, and I will show you why it will not be harmful to us to permit it to stay open. If I cannot convince you of the reasonableness of my theory, I will myself get up and close the window." Adams weakly consented and Ben began to reason with him. Finally poor Adams was talked to sleep, and Ben tranquilly resigned himself to slumber. Next morning great was Adams' horror at finding the window up, but not having died through the night, and feeling no ill effects from having breathed the night air, he became a convert to sly Benjamin's night-air theory. The author of a history of America during the colonial epoch told me this anecdote as something amusing, which had hitherto escaped type.

Story of Butler's Nerve.

By the way, speaking of duels reminds me that Ben Butler, who is here now, is descended in part from the old Cilley stock, and was hence related to the Jonathon Cilley who fell in the noted Graves-Cilley duel. Butler would have made a duelist himself had he been born in a state and at a time when the code of honor held good. But bean-eating Massachusetts never fights duels, and Butler's nerve had to be expended in other ways. A notable instance of this occurred in 1856, when Ben Butler was a young practitioner at Lowell. The Buchanan campaign was in full progress and a great meeting was being held in the largest hall of the city. Rufus Choate, the great lawyer, was addressing the meeting and his eloquence had thrown them into the wildest enthusiasm, when a jar was felt and a crash was heard. The cry went forth, "The floor is sinking." Every one turned pale and the audience rose for a stampede, when Ben Butler came to the front of the platform beside Mr. Choate, and calling the audience to halt, said there was no danger; that the architect of the building was present and that he would go with him and examine the building and report to allay their fears. This quieted the audience. Butler and the architect made an immediate examination of the hall and found the danger very great. Butler at once returned and smilingly assured the audience there was no present danger, but as the hall was overcrowded he advised them to quietly adjourn to the public square and there Mr. Choate would finish his speech. The crowd went quietly out and the catastrophe was averted. As Butler stepped on the platform he had whispered to Mr. Choate with a half laugh in order to deceive the audience. "This what he said, "Mr. Choate I must clear this house or we shall all be in hell in five minutes."—Washington Letter."

Spurgeon's Popularity.

Mr. Spurgeon, the great London preacher, will attain his jubilee in June next, having been born at Kelvedon, Essex, on June 19, 1834. He was settled at Waterbeach when only 17, and in London, over the church now meeting in the Metropolitan tabernacle, at the early age of 19. His jubilee has already begun to excite considerable interest. It is an event in which most of the Nonconformist churches are likely in some way to take some part in commemorating. The silver wedding of his pastorate was celebrated a year or two since by the collection of £6,000, which was presented to Mr. Spurgeon, and which he forthwith handed over for the benefit of institutions connected with his ministerial work. A second fund, in recognition of his jubilee, is now in contemplation, through the exact object toward which it will be devoted is not yet announced. A building, to be called "Jubilee House," has just been commenced at the rear of the tabernacle. It is to form a residence for the chapel-keeper, and a suite of offices for the church officers. The church at present under Mr. Spurgeon's pastoral charge numbers 5,800 persons, and overtaxes the sitting accommodations of the tabernacle.

A Japanese Wedding.

A Japanese wedding must be a very melancholy affair. In Japan it is not good form for the bride to admit that she enjoys the prospect of getting married, and therefore when she is told about it three or four days before the event she is expected to set up a loud bellowing and keep it up day and night as nearly as she can until the ceremony comes on. After she has been richly dressed for the occasion she is expected to hang back and shriek and make a show of resisting her attendants' efforts to lead her to the bridegroom. This hollow farce is kept up by one of the brides' maids finally throwing a veil over the bride's face, while an old hag takes her on her back and carries her to a sedan chair waiting at the door to take her to the bridegroom's mansion. When she arrives there she is a wife, the simple ride in a flowery chair having the mysterious power of transforming her into a married woman. From that time forward she begins to brighten up, and in a few days may be caught smiling. In modern civilization this order of things is simply reversed.

FARM, FIELD AND FIRESIDE.

Miscellaneous Farming Notes.

An experienced breeder of farm horses gives as his opinion that the best animal for the farm is that produced by crossing the thoroughbred (the running horse) on large, coarse mares. If the mares are partly Norman or Clydesdale, so much the better; but the use of the thoroughbred insures stamina, endurance, and vigor. The small but hard bones of the thoroughbred are heavily covered with muscle, and the horses of that breed are famous for speed, courage, and power. The cross produces a horse very similar to the Clevelands, and such horses are not only well adapted for nearly all purposes on the farm, but do not fail till well advanced in years.

Dr. R. Bayley of Derby, Vt., writes: "There are many who have not learned that it is not the feed which makes the stock do well, but the relish with which they eat that which is fed them. A good appetite gives clean mangers and clean mangers give a good appetite. I never like to feed anything, either hay, straw or corn fodder so poor that my stock will not clean their mangers in at least one and one-half hours."

Professor Browne, of the Canadian School of Agriculture, says Dr. Hoskins, asserts, on the strongest possible grounds—by evidence indisputable, again and again proved by actual trial in various temperatures, with a variety of the same animals, variously conducted—that for fast and cheap production of pork, raw peas are fifty per cent. cheaper than cooked peas or Indian corn in any shape. This seems to corroborate the experience of quite a number of persons.

A vote was reached on the 15th inst., on the resolution advising the governor to pardon Finis Allen, and resulted in its passage by 20 to 9. No other business was transacted in the house. The state veterinary surgeon bill provoked a lengthy discussion, resulting in its reference to the committee on agriculture. A bill levying a special half mill tax for the ensuing two years passed. This will make the state tax exactly what it has been the past two years.

There is no reason why, on the majority of farms, the kitchen and the small fruit gardens should not be large enough to allow of planting sufficiently far apart to permit of horse cultivation. This would do away with one of the greatest objections to a garden in the minds of many farmers.

It is said that 15,000,000 of horses are now owned in America and more than 1,000,000 a year must be fed annually to keep us the supply. The largest portion of these are used for agricultural and heavy draft purposes, and such horses bring from $175 to $250 each.

Carbolic acid is death to all insects in every stage of their growth. A fruit grower in Duchess County, N. Y., whose quince trees were being destroyed by borers, used a mixture of one gallon of soap to two of water and a gill of carbolic acid. This he applied to his trees with complete success, the millers refusing to deposit their eggs on the trees. On another occasion he applied the mixture, which was washed off by frequent rains, when the pests annoyed him seriously. He thinks repeated applications very effectual, and recommends the mixture to all who have orchards.

It is estimated that there are now in the United States 15,000,000 milch cows; and that there are made annually 1,500,000 pounds of butter and 450,000 pounds of cheese. In 1880, as shown by the census, 772,204,000 pounds of butter were made on farms and 29,451,000 pounds in factories, and a total of 243,145,000 pounds of cheese. Besides this, over 17,000,000 pounds of oleomargarine were also manufactured.

The watermelon, the muskmelon and cantaloupe, though of distinct genera, are so similar in their habits that they are generally treated under the same head—melons. They are supposed to come from the East, and some cantaloupes are yet called Persian. They are certainly of semi-tropical habits, and the temperate climes and sandy plains of the South are the most favorable to their culture, though they may, with care, be raised in all these States.

Household Notes.

Oatmeal porridge is one of the best things to begin the day with. Those who dislike it should take it as a medicine.

Coarse brown paper soaked in vinegar and placed on the forehead is good for sick headache. If the eyelids are gently bathed in cool water the pain in the head is generally allayed.

A good way to remove dust from a carpet is to fasten a damp cloth over the broom; with this the dust may be literally taken up. This will be found useful in the sick room, and also in any room where there are many small articles to catch dust. It brightens a carpet to wipe it off in this way even after the usual sweeping has been done.

When silk is used for working on cloth a succession of slender leaves of picturesque tints of red and brown should be employed. For this purpose, the native Indian Tussore embroidery silk is best. For working on merino or cashmere, nothing else does so well, for it is as light as a feather and has no tendency to draw the material. For embroidery on satin there is no kind of silk so pleasant to use as the shiny and beautiful filofloss, in which charming results can be obtained.

CONCERNING TOWELS.—Huckaback towels of the finest qualities are now chosen in preference to the smooth damask towels that are objectionable by reason of their smoothness, Harper's Bazar says. These old fashioned huckaback towels now come of great size, with diaper figure quite small, yet well raised to make the towel pleasantly rough. Those in plain white are again most liked, but the fanciful colored borders are still seen upon them in Persian patterns and in figures like those of tapestries. The damask towels may also be had with either white or colored borders. For the large Russian bath towels those of cotton are preferred to the rougher linen, and these have new broche borders that imitate Persian embroidery in dark colors. The honeycomb and oatmeal towels for the bath are most durable when bought unbleached.

Home Hints.

Never wash in warm water before going out in the cold air. Such a practice will roughen the skin. Warm water should be used only before retiring.

TO KEEP LEMONS.—When lemons are cheap, it is prudent to lay in a good store of them, as they will keep well by running a fine string through the nib at the end and hanging them up in a dry place, taking care that they do not touch each other.

PAINTING WOODWORK.—Here is a suggestion which should be borne in mind: When you have the woodwork in a room painted it is a good plan to have about two inches of the floor painted also; have the paint the same color as that of the baseboard; then if, when changing carpets, the carpet will not come close to the wall, the little space left will not be so unsightly.

If your windows are narrow, or even if they are of the usual width, and you feel that you cannot afford double curtains, single ones may be draped so gracefully that they will answer admirably. They should not be looped back with ribbons, but be pinned or tacked back in several places. Begin to tack or pin back quite high, or you cannot prevent a drawing and awkward appearance lower down.

Malaria, in 99 cases out of 100 is a synonym for disordered liver. A treatment, the efficacy of which has been proven, is to take a dose of catbartic medicine before indulging in quinine. A goblet of hot (not lukewarm) water, drunk every morning before breakfast, is a potent preventive of shakes and intermittent fever. This simple perscription will be found worth a dollar a line to the victims of malaria.

To make fancy mats or tidies, cut out the required shape in coarse net; obtain a paper pattern of a flower and leaves for wool work, and small piece of canvas not too fine. Lay the canvas and tack it on to the net; work the pattern on in colored silk, or all in gold color; then pull away all the threads of the canvas and leave the worked design on the net. The effect is very pretty and the work easy. The embroidery is of course done in cross-stitch. The net may be edged with delicate lace or white silk fringe. This work is Russian, and small table mats made thus are much used. They are also pretty, made of soft white or colored muslin or satin.

Hints About Raising Turkeys.

Correspondent Farm and Home.

The one thing that has paid the past year is turkeys. They had a quick sale at Thanksgiving for 20 cents a pound, and at Christmas for 21 to 23 cents., and the farmers could have had 25 cents., at the last season if they had known as much about the market three days before Christmas as they did three days after. And this price is not exceptional. The average for good New England turkeys for the last twenty years, I believe, will exceed 18 cents a pound, if it does not reach 20 cents.

If a farmer has reasonable "luck"—that is, if he has as good luck as generally comes of intelligent care—he can make 1000 pounds of turkey meat for $100 easy, and sell the same for $200, or, putting it better: A flock of 100 turkeys will not cost him grain fed out, over $75, if they are killed before Thanksgiving, and they ought to average twelve pounds each, which makes 1200 pounds in all, and to sell for 20 cents a pound, or $240. I have raised turkeys for many years, most years with fair success, and, whatever the success, they have always been the best paying production of the farm.

This is my plan: Keep over ten hens and a tom; the hens the best birds in the fall flock; part old and part young. Old hens of good habits are to be preferred. Feed lightly all winter. About March 1 increase the feed and provide places for their nests near the house. When they begin to lay be careful that the eggs do not get chilled. Do all you can to get your turkeys to setting as early as possible. Early turkeys are twice as likely to live as late ones. When the young come off put them in little board pens in a warm place for a week or more, feeding them six or eight times a day with coarse meal and chopped hard-boiled eggs, mixed with water, or, what is better, sour milk. As soon as they are strong enough give them a pasture range at first, then turn them into a meadow, but by all means feed them at noon, and to this end drive them up to the house. This will get them accuztomed to coming up for their dinner, and so they will not go far away from home. See that they are always fully fed and safely housed at night, so that foxes and skunks will not and cannot destroy them. Make it a matter of thought to see that your turkeys are safe all summer. Begin to fatten in September and kill for Thanksgiving, and you will be able to put a few dollars in some near savings bank which you may honestly call pay for your care and work and profit in the grain fed. This business cannot be overdone, and I advise farmers to put a few dollars into turkeys for next season (if they can find them) at once.

The Choice of a Sire.

National Live Stock Journal.

If, on careful and sufficient trial, your bull proves a poor breeder, or even a very irregular breeder, "why there's an end o' it," and the only course open to a wideawake breeder is to discard him forthwith, without ceremony, or regard to pedigree. Don't hesitate till he has done irreparable damage to your herd. Actions of this sort to be worth anything, must be prompt. On the other hand, don't be too easily influenced by a few cases of extreme bad produce from particular cows. I doubt if any herd could be gotten together in which some cows would not breed peculiarly badly to any given bull; cows, too, whose produce by other sires would be fine. Never breed such cows back to that bull, if after a fair trial you obtain that result, and another bull can be reached. Your sire again may possess the power of stamping his own image on his get to a very marked extent. This prepotency is, of course, a very valuable quality, one without which you can scarcely have a great sire. But, at the same time, you not infrequently had a sire quite as useful in a herd that only enables the dam to reproduce herself. These are the two extremes, the normal being the the admixture of the qualities of sire and dam. No doubt this, too, is the most desirable, but either of the other cases may be made to prove equally or even more valuable in a herd, it being the simpler case; just as an equation of one unknown quantity is easier of solution than one containing two. I have only considered the cases in which the peculiar power of the animal is exercised with good results; of course each instance has its parallel, where some evil feature is reproduced. In such cases one can best say, "enough," and cease to use the bull.

Another Penitent Thief.

The most persuasive of the "Evidences of Christianity" is the fact that it makes good men out of bad men. What reply can the honest doubter make to this fact? There is now working in New York City a successful philanthropist, who, five years ago, was one of the most expert thieves in the country. He was made what he is by the Christian religion.

His mother was an abandoned woman and his father a thief. Born in the atmosphere of crime, he took in the art of stealing with his mother's milk.

Training and an acute mind made him a place among the most successful thieves. This so gratified his depraved ambition, that during forty-six years he devoted himself to crime. Thirty-six years he lived in prison. He was an old acquaintance to the wardens of Blackwell's Island and Sing-Sing.

"We'll keep your cell warm for you, Mike, for six weeks. You'll be back by that time," said the warden of Sing-Sing prison to him, as he left it, five years ago.

The discharged convict smiled, as he tossed back an "All right, sir!" and hastened to his old haunts in the city.

But one day the Master met him, in the person of an earnest Christian man, and through his teachings the old jail-bird found out that he was not only a bad man to his fellows, but a sinful man before God. Then he discovered that the Master had come into the world to seek and save such reckless, outlawed men as himself.

The two facts germinated in his heart until they made him a new man. He abandoned his old crimes, but his heart went out towards his old "pals." The active brain, hitherto used to plan robberies, begun to devise a way in which he might save those who should be turned out of prison, homeless and friendless.

He laid hold of two controlling ideas. "I must," he said he said to himself, "have a home to which I can take the men I would save. A discharged convict turned loose into New York City must steal to live. And every man I help must earn what he eats."

When this ex-convict laid out his plan for saving his "pals," he had not a cent in his pocket. But he pawned his coat, and with the proceeds hired a room in that part of the city where thieves resort. Entering this little asylum, he locked the door, knelt down, and laid the constitution and by-laws of his society before God.

"No discharged prisoner," ran his vow, "shall be turned from this room so long as there is space to shelter him.

"No man shall eat a second meal in this room till he has earned it."

The beginning was small and the plan simple. Yet Mike has sheltered eleven hundred discharged convicts, many of whom he has led into a new life by persuading them to become servants of his Master.

The little room has given way to a building that cost forty thousand dollars. All prisoners know "Michael Dunn's House of Industry." They also know that when discharged from prison they will find there a welcome, a home, and aid wherewith to begin a better life.

But they must earn what they eat, for Mike believes that industry is the first step to honesty. Such are the legitimate effects of Christianity on heart and life.—Youth's Companion.

Useful Precepts.

catch your lover.

—— him when you have him.

Don't let go of him to catch every new one that comes along.

Try to get very well acquainted with him before you take him for life.

Unless you intend to support him, find out whether he earns enough to support you.

Don't make up your mind he is an angel. Don't palm yourself off on him for one either.

Don't let him spend his salary on you; that right should be reserved until after marriage.

If you have any conscientious scruples against marrying a man with a mother, say so in time that he may either get rid of her to oblige you, or get rid of you to oblige her, as he thinks best.

If you object to secret societies and tobacco, it is better to come with your objections now than reserve them for curtain lectures hereafter.

If your adorer happens to fancy a certain shade of hair, don't color or bleach yours to oblige him. Remember your hair belongs to you and he doesn't.

Be very sure it is the man you are in love with, and not the clothes he wears. Fortune and fashion are both so fickle it is foolish to take a stylish suit for better or worse.

If you intend to keep three servants after marriage, settle the matter beforehand. The man who is making love to you may expect you to do your own washing.

Don't try to hurry up a proposal by carrying on a flirtation with some other fellow. Different men are made of different material, and the one you want might go off in a fit of jealously and forget to come back.

If you have a love letter to write, do not copy it out of a "Letter Writer." If your young man ever happened to consult the same book he would know your sentiments were borrowed.

Don't marry a man to oblige any third person in existence. It is your right to suit yourself in the matter. But remember at the same time that love is blind, and a little family advice from one whose advice is worth having may insure you a life-time of happiness, or prevent one of misery.

In love affairs always keep your eyes wide open, so that when the right man comes along you may see him.

When you see him you will recognize him, and the recognition will be mutual.

If you have no fault to find with him personally, financially, conscientiously, socially, morally, politically, religiously, or any other way, he is probably perfect enough to suit you, and you can afford to—

Believe in him;
Hope in him;
Love him;
Marry him!

Absent-Minded People.

"Can you—ah-er—tell me the number of my room?"

"Yes, sir—95."

"Ah! thank you—guess—ah—I'll go and get ready for dinner," and the absent-minded man lounged away toward the elevator. The hotel clerk looked after the slowly vanishing guest, and then turning to a Star reporter, who was standing near, said:

"I've seen all kinds of men since I've been in this business, but he is the great original forgetter. He has been here now for three days, and I have to watch him like a baby. I'll bet he'll either forget his way to his room, or when he gets there he won't know why he went there.

"What is he—a genius?" asked the reporter.

"I suppose so; he's an inventor, and he don't know anything but cogs and wheels. He ate too breakfasts this morning; he ordered his lunch sent to his room yesterday, forgot about it, came down to the office, bought a New-York paper, and read until 5 o'clock p. m. He then came up to my desk and inquired calmly of me what it was he had asked for a little while before. I didn't know, and he could give no idea, so I was in hot water until I questioned the waiters and found out about the lunch. It's laughable to you, but it's not so funny for me, because if I don't take care of him he will surely attack the reputation of the house as soon as he gets away."

"Do you have many of those characters to look after?" inquired the listener.

"Never had one like him," said the clerk. "He's the worst; but we have a great many guests who exhibit signs of preoccupation. Perhaps the commonest example of absentmindess which I see is in regard to door keys. In the winter, when business is rushing, a dozen or more keys will have to be replaced every two days. A guest going away will frequently forget to leave the key in the door of his room or at the desk, and will put it in his pocket, so we have to replace it. The house carpenter is about as good a locksmith as any in the city; he has had so many locks to pick and keys to make. Then people leave articles of wearing apparel, books, memoranda, all sorts of things in their rooms when they vacate. Well, if they are registered correctly there is no difficulty in returning them their property, even if they forget to write for it; but where a man registers inaccurately or indefinitely it may sometimes be hard work to find him.

"There was an Englishman here last winter," continued the clerk, who deposited nearly £900 in Bank of England notes with me. The next day he was called to New York by a telegram, and having plenty of American money in his wallet, he hurried to the cars, without paying his hotel bill, and never thought about his money or anything but his dispatch until he reached New York. I have often seen careful people going over a written list and checking the articles off as they pack them away preparatory to continuing their journey. We have more or less amusement with newly married couples, as frequently the bridegroom forgets to write 'and wife' after his name. When he has to correct his error he always looks sheepish and his explanations are very lame.

"A laughable incident happened here about a year ago," continued the clerk. "One day, in the early winter, a tall, fine looking gentleman registered as Dr. John so and so and wife, from C——, one of the largest cities in the country. The doctor was on his bridal tour. He was about to turn away from the desk when he felt a slap on his back, and, looking up, saw the face of a college friend. 'Hello, Jack!' 'How are you, Sam?' and began a rapid conversation, when suddenly Sam saw the register and exclaimed: 'Been getting married, have you? Well, here are my congratulations. What's your wife's name?'"

"'Jennie,' responded the bridegroom.

"'No, no; I mean who was she?' exclaimed his friend.

"'Why, her name was Jennie—Jennie—Oh, ——it?' shouted the perplexed man.

"'What, Jennie O. Damit?' was the laughing rejoiner.

"'I've forgotten,' at last exclaimed the bridegroom, in dispair. 'Come up in the parlor and I'll ask her what it was.'

"Forgetting his wife's name," resumed the clerk, "cost him a number of bottles of champagne."

"Oh, Lord, here he is again," he groaned, and the absented-minded man came up to enquire what time the train left for—"for that place in Virginia, you know," which the clerk interpreted to mean Richmond.

The Lime-Kiln Club.

Detroit Free Press.—There was great general satisfaction among the large number present as Brother Gardner took his accustomed seat at the opening of the meeting. Since the accident mentioned at the last meeting several wild rumors had been flying around. One was to the effect that he had made his will and resigned in favor of Sir Walpole; another that the doctors had held a council and found that his liver had been pressed two feet out of plumb; a third that the heavy weight resting upon him so long had given him such a crook to his legs that a wheelbarrow could be run between them with plenty of room to spare.

"Gem'len," began the old man as he smiled benignly down upon the shining pates of the first row, "de Presumdenshul 'leckshun am a thing of de past. It am gone forebber. It am gathered into de archives of de forgotten, dar' to be kivered wid de cobwebs of decay. It am well. Dar' am some things we doan' want too much of.

Let us now turn ober a new leaf. If political bigotry has fur de pas' three months prevented us from borrowin' coffee of a Democratic naybur, it need no longer stan' in de way. If the bias of our feelings has made us hesitate to lend our flat-irons to a Republican, we mus' now offer him our wheelbarrer as well. It has been a long, dark night. We hev called each other liars, horse thieves, cheats, swindlers, robbers, nabobs, tyrants, an' corrupshunists. We has sot each odder's houses on fiah, an' burned each odder's hay stacks. We has pizened each odder's dogs an' shot each odder's cats. We has stood an' glared at each odder wid murder in our hearts, an' we has skulked along de alleys wid clubs an' brick-bats in our hands.

"De long night am ober, an' daylight has broken. Let us forgive an' forgit. De kentry am all heah yit, an' sich of us as hev survived de struggle mus' purge our hearts of rancor an' bank up de house agin cold weather."

Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Publisher.

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

New York wholesale merchants report collections good, stocks low throughout the country, and the demand for commodities increasing.

Last year was not a particularly bright one for business in New York but according to the figures of the tax commissioners there was an increase of nearly $60,000,000 in the value of real estate. Not a bad showing, is it, for a year that played so much mischief in Wall street, and among speculators in general.

Missouri is sometimes set down as a backward State, yet its permanent school fund amounts to over ten millions of dollars, and in all other respects the State is in a highly prosperous condition. The State last year expended from the interest of this fund and taxation $5,738,000 for school purposes, and has school property valued at nearly nine millions of dollars.

An article in Bradstreet's from the pen of D. L. B. Johnston, of St. Paul, shows that five times during the past twenty-seven years the price of wheat at St. Paul was lower than present quotations; that December 31, 1878, it was only 3 cents a bushel higher; that in three of the years above mentioned it ranged from 50c. to 60c., a bushel and that the fourth year it rose only to 68 cents a bushel.

Women ought to be satisfied with the record recently made by their sex in Georgia. A few weeks ago the Legislature in that State authorized the employment of women in clerical work. After a fair trial of the system, experts say that the work has been done fifty per cent. better than when it was done by men, and Governor McDaniel declares that he has never examined an equal number of bills so free from errors and defects

Justin S. Morrill of Vermont is the oldest United States senator. He will be 75 years of age next April. He has had as long continuous service in Congress as either Clay or Benton and longer than any one at present in public life. He has been in Congress since 1855. He was a member of the house from that period until 1867. He has been in the senate ever since. He has been recently re-elected for another senatorial term. If he should live to the end of that term he would be 81 years old. This would give him a record of 35 years in Congress. This is a longer record of continuous service than any one has yet made in our history.

From recent cable despatches the limit of taxation has been reached in Russia. The ordinary and extraordinary expenditure for 1883 reached the sum of $400,000,000, which is an enormous sum when the wealth of the population is taken into consideration. This sum is mainly laid out for military purposes. The peasants are unable to pay the personal and land taxes, the customs duties are yielding less, though most of the duties have been increased, and general discontent reigns throughout the empire. The national debt at the close of the year aggregates $2,172,500,000 and what is worse, it is increasing rather than decreasing.

Cocaine chloride, the new anaesthetic, which produces unconsciousness only in the locality of the body to which it is applied, is coming into active use. The swelling on General Grant's tongue, which it is feared may be cancerous, has been greatly reduced by the use of this new remedy. A physician of Vienna, Dr. Fleischl, declares that it will cure rapidly and painlessly the effects of bad habits in the excessive use of morphine and alcohol. The "patient" is deprived of the drug or the liquor, and the terrible nervous prostration which has always followed the abandonment of these stimulants is prevented by hypodermic injections of cocaine chloride. A cure is effected in ten days. The drug, however is very expensive.

Mr. D. L. B. Johnston of St. Paul, who has devoted his time for ten years in placing farm mortgages in the northwest, refutes in Bradstreet's journal, some statements of Mr. Frank Wilkeson in regard to farming and farm mortgages in this section, particularly in Dakota, where Wilkeson says "it is only a question of a little time when they (farmers) will become impoverished under the burden of these mortgages." After stating that Wilkeson must know that Minnesota also extends north to the British line, and is, therefore, within the same lines of latitude and must of necessity be subject to like climatic conditions. Mr. Johnston makes this remarkable statement: At present we have nearly five thousand of these mortgages on our books. The average of all the loans we have made in Minnesota and Iowa is less than $3 an acre. Of those we have placed in Dakota, the average is but little over $2 an acre. Now mark our experience in this business. We carried our loans through the depression following 1874, and the loss of crops in the northwest occasioned by grasshoppers in 1876-77 and '78, and up to this time have never lost one dollar. But this is not all. Our interest, as a whole, has not been paid so promptly in ten years as it has been paid this winter."

NEWS OF THE WEEK SUMMARIZED

BATTLE IN THE DESERT.

The British Troops Under Gen. Stewart Defeat the Soudanese Rebels After a Long, Hard Contest.

A dispatch has been received at the British war office from Gen. Wolseley dated Korti, Jan. 21, 8 p. m., which reads substantially as follows:

Gen. Stewart has had a heavy engagement with a portion of the mahdi's forces near Abu-Klea wells, about twenty-three miles this side of Metemneh. Rebels had collected from Berber, Metemneh and Omduraman. This last place, I regret to say, prisoners report, was recently captured by the mahdi, and thus men were released from there to fight Gen. Stewart. On the afternoon of Jan. 16, Gen. Stewart's cavalry reported the enemy were in position some few miles this side of the wells. As it was too late in the day to allow an advance to a successful encounter, Gen. Stewart bivouacked where he was for the night. The enemy kept up fire all night and erected works on Gen. Stewart's right flank. Saturday, Gen. Stewart endeavored to draw the enemy on to make an attack, but the rebels hesitated. In consequence, Gen. Stewart left all his impediments, also camels, with a guard of the Sussex regiment and some mounted infantry, and moved forward, keeping his forces in the form of a square. All the men were on foot. The British army passed round the enemy's left flank, forcing them to make an attack or be subject to an enfilade fire. The enemy wheeled to the left and made a well organized charge under a withering fire from our men. The square was unfortunately penetrated about its left rear, where a heavy cavalry and camel regiment were in position, by SHEER WEIGHT OF NUMBERS.

The admirable steadiness of our men enabled them to maintain a hand-to-hand fight with the opposite force, while severe punishment was being inflicted upon the enemy by all other parts of the square. The enemy were finally driven back under a heavy fire from all sides. The Nineteenth Hussars then pushed forward to the wells, which were in our possession by 5 in the evening. The enemy left not less than 800 slain around the square. Prisoners taken while the enemy were retiring report the number of enemy wounded quite exceptional. One immediate effect of the battle is that many of the rebels are submitting. It was necessary for the army to remain at the wells many hours to obtain water. As soon as practicable, the intention was to push on with all expedition to Metemneh. The English wounded are doing well.

Gen. Wolseley says Gen. Stewart concludes his report as follows:

It has been my duty to command a force from which exceptional work, exceptional hardship and exceptional fighting have been called for. It would be impossible to adequately describe the admirable support given to me by every officer and man of the force. I regret to say that our loss was severe, but our success has been so complete that it may dishearten the enemy to such an extent that all their future fighting may be of a less obstinate character.

Gen. Lord Wolseley says:

Gen. Stewart's operations have been most creditable to him as a commander, and the nation has every reason to be proud of the gallantry and splendid spirit of her majesty's soldiers on this occasion. Our losses were one commissioned officer killed and nine wounded, and sixty-five non-commissioned officers and men killed and eighty-five wounded. Gen. Stewart's force consists of about fifteen hundred men, all told.

AN ILLUSTRIOUS VICTIM.

Among those who fell was Col. Burnaby, who made the famous "ride to Khiva." Besides Col. Burnaby the following were killed: Maj. Carmichael, Fifth lancers; Maj. Atherton Fifth dragoons; Maj. Gough, Royal dragoons; Capt. Darley and Lieut. Law, Fourth dragoons; Lieut. Wolfe, Scots Greys, and Lieutenants Pigott and De Lisle, navy brigade. Lord St. Vincent and Lord Airlie wounded.

Evarts Senator from New York.

At the caucus of the republican members of the Legislature of Albany, Walter Howe nominated William Maxwell Evarts as the choice of the great majority of the Republican members of the legislature—a man who would do honor to the state and one who would heal up divisions in the party. The nomination of Evarts was seconded by Senators Arkell, Barker and Dansing, and Assemblymen Hubbell and Livingston. Gen. Barnum named Levi P. Morton, and the nomination was seconded by Assemblyman Williams. Gen. Husted named Chauncey M. Depew. Lansing transferred Judge Russel's support to Evarts, and spoke in favor of the latter. Arkell and Hubbell also spoke in favor of Evarts. The ballot resulted as follows: Evarts, 61, Morton, 28, Depew, 8.

On motion of Gen. Barnum, seconded by Gen. Husted, the nomination of Evarts was made unanimous, and the caucus adjourned. The nomination gives great satisfaction in all quarters.

William Maxwell Evarts was born in Boston, Feb. 6, 1818. He was the son of Jeremiah Evarts, treasurer and corresponding secretary of the American board of commissioners for foreign missions. He graduated at Yale college in 1837, studied in the Harvard law school under Judge Story and Prof. Greenleaf, and was admitted to the bar in New York in 1841. In 1849 he was appointed deputy United States district attorney in New York city, which position he held four years. In the impeachment trial of President Andrew Johnson, in the spring of 1868, Mr. Evarts was principal counsel for the defendant. From July 15, 1868, to the close of Johnson's administration he was attorney-general of the United States. In 1872 he was counsel for the United States before the tribunal of arbitration on the Alabama claims at Geneva. He was the senior counsel retained by Henry Ward Beecher in the action brought by Theodore Tilton, the trial of which lasted six months. The most important case in which Mr. Evarts has since appeared as an advocate was that of the Republican party before the electoral commission in the early part of 1877. Mr. Evarts is also widely known as an orator. President Hayes promptly appointed him secretary of state, which office he retained until the close of the administration. Since then he has held no public office.

Cheap Passage to Europe.

New York Special: The war among the continental companies was waged with new vigor, and assumed a more threatening aspect than ever. The Hamburg American packet company, which is the one against which the war is waged by the other companies, in order to compel it to enter the combination, has sent out a circular thus offering second cabin accommodations to those purchasing steerage tickets for $10. The steerage is to be used for freight. The Carr Hamburg line, the direct competitor of the Packet company, has reduced its steerage rate to $9, and when the $4 commission to agents is deducted, the company only receives $5 for the transportation and maintenance of an adult for at least eighteen days. The Red Star (Antwerp) line has issued a circular saying that its rates from New York to Antwerp, or from Antwerp to New York, had been reduced to $10, with $4 commission. Although the North German Lloyd has reduced its rates to $10, with $4 commission, no effort is being made to secure passengers as freight pays much better.

Mr. Mirckle, editor of the London Times, has married Alice, daughter of James Payn.

Joseph Anderson, Mary's brother, is one of the popular young men in London society this winter.

Gov. Pattison of Pennsylvania will enter the Episcopal ministry at the close of his gubernatorial term.

The nomination of ex-Naval Cadet Wright to a second lieutenancy in the infantry is opposed on the ground of illegality.

The New Orleans cotton exchange will loan Maj. Burke $60,000 with which to get the exposition out of its financial hole.

Mrs. Clark Hopkins says her new house in Great Barrington, Mass., is to cost but $1,000,000, not $5,000,000, as published.

Postmasters Commissioned—John H. Russell, Royalton, Minn.; H. P. Fountain, Minguaville, Mont.; William Creaser, Downsville, Wis.

British troops had a hard fight with the forces of the Mahdi, winning a victory and loosing several officers, among whome was Col. Burnaby, of "Ride to Khiva" fame.

Capt. T. D. Marcum, editor of the Kentucky Democrat of Catlettsburg, Ky., was assaulted by an unknown person and left for dead in the street. His injuries are not fatal.

Hon. Church Howe of Nebraska, positively denies the report that he received $25,000 as a member of the national Republican committee for the campaign in Tennessee. The amount was only $1,000.

In Washington, in the case of Edward C. Lockwood, indicted for presenting a fradulent voucher for iron bedsteads to the bureau of medicine and surgery, navy department, the jury tendered a verdict of guilty.

The United States diplomatic representative in Roumania, in a communication to the state department, calls the attention of American flour producers to the inviting market now presenting itself in South America.

Capt. George W. Davis, U. S. A., assistant engineer in the construction of the Washington monument, has been appointed by the secretary of state as a messenger to proceed to Iowa for the electoral vote of that state.

Parnell, in a speech at Cork, said he believed the oligarchy of the city would never again contest a parliamentary seat. The Irish party would oppose every government that refused to concede Ireland her just rights.

The recent arrest of three men at Odessa, Mo., for robbing freight cars of the Chicago & Alton railroad has revealed the existence of a large gang of men which has been systematically plundering the company's cars.

The steamer White Eagle, of the St. Louis & St. Paul Packet company, lying in winter quarters at the floating dock in St. Louis, took fire recently. All her upper works were destroyed. Damage about $4,000; no insurance.

Sheriff Jenks of Grand Forks, Dak., has arrived at Newburg, N. Y., with a requisition for George Upright. Last fall Upright stole a check for $200 from his employer, Albert N. Collins, a wheat grower of Dakota, forged the name, got the check cashed, went East and spent the stolen money.

Judge Stewart, of the circuit court, Madison, Wis., sentenced Nels Pearson, alias George W. Wilson; William Needham, alias William Farrell; and Henry Lutz, alias "Slim Jim," to two years each in the state prison for burglarizing, on Oct 8, Hudson's store at Waunakee and the postoffice contained therein.

The president of the Pictou (N. S.) bank, Senator R. P. Grant, charges that Logan, a tanner of Pictou, secured an advance of $125,000 on bogus drafts from the cashier of the bank, unknown to the directors. The cashier after making good $12,000 of the amount, was dismissed. The bank will suffer a loss of at least $90,000.

George A. Blakslee, proprietor of the Boston grocery store, Watertown, Dak., has made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors, of whom Reid, Murdock and Fisher, a wholesale house in Chicago, are understood to be the heaviest. The amount of liabilities has not yet been disclosed, but is probably between $4,000 and $5,000.

Funeral services over the remains of Edmund About, the distinguished author, were celebrated at the Cemetery Pere la Chaise, Paris, Monday, the 20th. Jules Ferry, prime minister, and many other men of political and litery note were present. A deputation of the French academy appointed to act as pall bearers, refused to act because there were no religious services.

A military investigation is in progress at Halifax regarding a charge made by Mrs. Talbot, wife of Sergeant Talbot, against Rev. William Lough, assistant garrison chaplain. Mrs Talbot declared that during her husband's absence the chaplain, who had been drinking, made indecent overtures to her and finished by exposing himself.

Col. Miromondi, the French officer who was sent in pursuit of the insurrectionists in Cambodia, surprised and attacked the camp of Swatha, leader of the revolt. After a sharp fight the rebels dispersed. Twenty insurrectionits were killed and the baggage of the band was captured. Swatha received a wound in the encounter. The troops are in pursuit of him.

Gen. Hatch has surrounded the Oklahoma boomers at Stillwater, with the intention of starving them out. He allows no one to approach them, but lets any one leave who desires. A courier, just in reports several leaving already, as provisions are running short. The Oklahomites have been trying to raise money here for relief, but without success. No firing has been done.

After several weeks' discussion Dr. Rankin's old church here, the Congregational, has decided to extend a call to Rev. S. M. Newman of Ripon, Wis. A considerable number in the congregation were desirous of securing Dr. Dana of Plymouth church, St. Paul, and some correspondence was held looking to his invitation to this pulpit. A call had previously been given to Dr. Goodell of St. Louis, which he was obliged to decline.

The Northern Pacific will in a few days issue a new tariff showing reduction in rates on emigrant movables, in car loads, from St. Paul and Minneapolis to all points on the main line in Washington Territory and Oregon, amounting to 33 1-3 per cent. This per cent will equal a reduction of $100 per car load to some points. This is claimed to be one of the results of the efforts of Messrs. Oakes and Hannaford at the meetings of the Transcontinental association.

The argument in the Swaim case ended a few days ago and the court adjourned. When it convenes again it will consider the case with closed doors. The findings of the court, when reached, will be transmitted through the war department to the president. It is understood that he will submit them to the attorney general for a review. Until they are reviewed and approved by the president they will not be made public.

Some time during the last campaign the Council Bluffs Globe charged S. D. Street, the county clerk and candidate for re-election on the Republican ticket, with being a defaulter in the sum of $9,000. This was only a day or so before election, but it was used so vigorously by the Democrats that Street was defeated. Experts have examined the books and find he is nearly $10,000 short in his accounts. Street was arrested on the charge of embezzlement.

The treasury available balance was on the 22d nearly $182,000,000—a gain of $10,000,000 since the first of the month. The receipts thus far for January shows a marked increase over those for the preceding months, both in customs and internal revenue; the increase in the latter being mainly attributed to the semi-annual taxes from banks. The available cash balance on Feb. 1 gives promise of exceeding $145,000,000, a surplus sufficiently large to warrant the secretary of the treasury to issue a call for 3 per cent bonds.

The Weekly Pioneer Press of Jan. 29th, presents in its "Galaxy of Genius" series papers on "The Future of the Arctic Exploration," by Lieut. Greely of the recent Franklin Bay expedition; on Chinese Gordon, now besieged by the Mahdi's forces at Khartoum, by Charles Chaille Long, his former chief of staff, and on the neglected but important battle of Sailor's creek, at the close of the campaign a out Richmond, by ex-Speaker Keifer. The installment excels in current and permanent interest any yet printed in the series which has attracted so much attention.

John L. Sullivan of Boston is laid up with a broken head and bad bruises received while on a spree. He continues to keep more or less drunk most of the time, and on his return from New York he indulged in an uproarious debauch. He visited several saloons during the morning, and Patrolman Underwood reports that in the afternoon he hired a span of horses for a drive. While on Beacon street the horses became frightened, and as he was not in a fit condition to manage them they ran away, throwing him from the vehicle. He was severely cut about the head, and received other injuries. The vehicle was smashed long before the horses were stopped.

A young man whose real name is Otto Funk was arrested at Chicago, having in his possession a large number of books stolen from the public library. The books were seized at his residence and were found to be in large boxes. These boxes were removed to the new city hall building, when the discovery was made that among them were five or six infernal machines containing dynamite, any one of which was sufficient to blow up the entire building. Consternation reigned at the police headquarters when the discovery was made. The statement is made by the police that if one of the machines had exploded, its force would have certainly demolished the city hall building and occasioned frightful loss of life.

Personal Paragraphs.

Englishmen eat at much shorter intervals than Americans are accustomed to. The farm laborer eats four meals a day, and in some of the baronial halls in England the tables are spread for meals during intervals of four hours during the day and evening.

David Dudley Field, the eminent New York lawyer, will be eighty years of age on the 13th of February next, and has an income from his law practice and inventions of over $100,000.

The agricultural classes of France have $200,000,000 on deposit in the Government Savings Bank, on which they are paid four per cent. interest. They are also, in the aggrigate among the largest investors in Government bonds.

The late Dr. Maccadam used to tell of a typsy Scotchman making his way home upon a bright Sunday morning when the good folk were wending their way to the kirk. A little dog pulled a ribbon from the hands of a lady who was leading it, and as it ran from her she appealed to the first passer-by, who happened to be the inebriate, asking him to whistle for her poodle. "Woman!" he retorted, with that solemnity of visage which only a Scotchman can assume, "woman, this is no day for whustlin'."—Philadelphia Record.

Robert Bonner, writing of the groom who takes care of Maud S., says: "He sleeps on a cot in her stall, and one night recently, when the weather was warm, but threatened to turn cold, he purposely went to bed with very little clothing on himself, knowing that if it turned cold during the night he would feel it, and would wake up, when he could put additional clothing on the mare. If the men who figure in divorce suits would treat their wives half as kindly as this, our courts would not have so much to do."

An aeronaut named Price was half a mile high when his baloon burst, at Nevada, Mo., and for most of the distance he fell with awful velocity; but the bag happened to fill with air in such a manner that the decent was retarded the rest of the distance, and the man was not fatally injured.

The Prince of Wales is thus hit off by a Kentuckian who writes from London to the Courier-Journal: "He mixes a good deal with the masses, and is very democratic in his manner. He remembers names and faces so well and is so pleasant that if he were living in Kentucky he would be elected to the Legislature. He knows which side his bread is buttered on. He seems to have sown his wild oats, and has been behaving himself first-rate for five years."

The salary of Mr. James G. Lathrop, the new trainer for athletics at Harvard, will be $2,000 a year. The salary of a regular college tutor is generally from $800 to $1,200. Muscle before mind.

Mr. Ruskin touched a sympathetic chord when he remarked in one of his recent lectures: "I do not speak of the Celtic race because I should now be expected to say Keltic, and I don't mean to, if only for fear that I should next be required to say St. Kekilia."

Lord Randolph Churchill has been dealing with one of the London news agencies which professes to collect and supply anybody with newspaper cuttings of any and every kind. He arranged with one concern to supply him with cuttings of everything said against him. "At the end of a month," said the Lord, "I found that I owned them about 30 guineas, 100 cuttings a week being a fair average of abuse. It would have been much cheaper and pleasanter if I had arranged with them for only the good things said about me."

Harry Moss, a well-known journalist, of Pascagoula, Fla., died lately, leaving a will, in which was the following: "I desire that my body be dressed in seasonable apparel and placed on its back with a pillow under its head, etc., etc., in a sapling pen sufficiently close to keep out a mink and with a good roof standing but one way; bottle of water on each side tightly corked, a door in the pen fastened on the inside with a latch without any string to it. There I wish to be left for forty days and nights. If, after that time, any one chooses to bury me they can do so if they are certain I am dead, beside my father or in the graveyard at Bermuda, but I don't enjoin it upon any one to bury me at all." It is evident that the testator wished every precaution to be taken against burying him alive.

The duke of Hamilton's library sale is declared to be the greatest book sale on record. It continued over about forty days, and realized a total of $850,000. The Sunderland collection brought only a little more than one-fourth as much, and the Gosford only $45,000. The American demand for rare books in London is constantly increasing.

A Satisfied Oregonian.

From the Portland Oregonian.

Hon. A. J. Dufur and wife, who have just returned from a visit to their old home in Orange county, Vt., after an absence of thirty years, report having had a very pleasant trip. They traveled extensively in Wisconsin and Southern Ilinois, but saw no place which suited them as well as Oregon. Mr. Dufur gives rather a discouraging account of the agricultural prospects of Vermont. He says that he thought he was getting to be quite an old man till he went back there and saw men of from 80 to 90 years toddling around and running farms. The land is worn out and the young men are all "going West." The old farmers there would not allow Mr. Dufur to give their boys any favorable account of the West, saying that they were all going off, and the land was passing into the hands of their hired help of foreign birth. Some one said of Vermont a long time ago, that "it was a good place to emigrate from," and Mr. Dufur appears to have thought so thirty years ago, and now thinks so more than ever. The farm that he sold for $8,400 has since been sold for $1,600, and would not bring that amount now. In one night passed in Wisconsin Mr. Dufur says he heard more thunder and saw more lightning than during his twenty-five years residence in Oregon.

Restless Emigrants.

A correspondent of the Tribune thus describes the class of settlers of the new territories, who never are contented to remain in one place: The farmer himself is the most fascinating adjunct of a Kansas farm. It is here that the contented steadfastness of the population of the far Eastern States has met halfway the disorder and turbulence of the far West, and the meeting has resulted in a type of character which I believe has not its counterpart elsewhere in the world. His history has usually been somewhat as follows:

He was born and "raised" in Ohio. When he reached man's estate—the estate, by the way, being lacking—he "struck out" for the West and settled perhaps in Indiana. Thence when "things got too thick" he migrated to Illinois, and after a sojourn of a few years in that State he swept on with the tide of emigration into Missouri, where as he wil tell you, "the rebels were to rank," and so he soon hitched up the family schooner, embarked the family goods and gods and crossed into Kansas.

On his travels he has somewhere picked up a companion to whom a certificate, carefully preserved in a frame, shows that he has been married by a Justice of the Peace, and of whom he invariably speaks as "his woman."

He and "his woman" have managed to accumulate a family more or less numerous, and hungry in the superlative degree.

The spirit of unrest that has controlled him hithertofore has yielded to the desire of middle life for quiet, and he feels as though he was settled now, and looks forward only very vaguely to to a claim in Colorado or a farm in Iowa when the tendencies of his earlier days have again gathered force to stimulate him to push on. There is no such thing, however, as contentment among a certain class of the younger men; they intend to pre-empt "that claim in Colorado before the land is all took up."

While waiting at a little way station on the Kansas Southern Railroad, recently, I noticed on the platform a young farmer, I took him to be, who with "his woman" and family of three children seemed to be also waiting for the train.

"Well," I said to him," are you off for Colorado?"

"No," said he, "Ioway."

"Going to settle there?" I inquired.

"Yes," he replied; "I was up there in September and I seed a nice little farm that I took a notion to, and so I thought that if I could sell out here for anything like what that farm would cost me, I would go and buy. Wall, a fellow came along and offered me ten dollars an acre for my eighty, and that eighty up thar' in Ioway wasn't but twelve dollars an acre, and so I invested."

"Well," said I, "is the Iowa farm a better farm?"

"I dunno as it is any better," he answered. "Maybe the builden's aint quite so good, but then me and my woman was sorter tired of Kansas, and then she had the shakes, she did, and so we thought that we'd move."

"How long have you been in Kansas?"

"Five years going on next April."

"Where did you came from before that?"

"Nepraska."

"Where were you raised?"

"Illinois,"

"Well, my friend," said I, "don't you know that you are moving out of the part of Kansas which Mr. Greeley called the Garden of Eden? According to your own showing, you won't better yourself any by going; your wife will be as likely to get the chills in Iowa as in Kansas; you are running in debt on your farm; you have all the trouble and expense of moving, and the probability is that it will be years before you will be as well off again as you are now."

"Wall," said this specimen of western go-a-head-ativeness, "my folks do tell me that a rolling stone don't gather no moss; but then I tell them that a settin' hen don't git fat." I had no answer this, for I had never reflected on the drawbacks which the setting hen may have to encounter.

This restlessness is the most characteristic feature of the Western native farmer of the middle and poorer classes. He is always uneasy never satisfied anywhere. He is always going to settle somewhere, but can't find the place where he is willing to admit that he means to live and die. He helps to develop an immense amount of the country, but can't bring himself to settle anywhere long enough to reap the full rewards of his labor.

A BOGUS GHOST.

The Tricks of a Medium Exposed.

Boston Advertiser.

There is no end to the folly of the credulous. Those who have watched the spread of the materializing spirit seances in this city during the last year have had proof enough of this. Last night Mrs. Bliss, of 39 East Newton street, began, as usual, by explaining that this seance was her religion, and then followed the usual jugglery. A figure in white appeared, and then "Little Billy," in dark nautical costume, and then another figure in white was very demonstratively affectionate to some of the sitters. After a time one of the audience grew impatient and threw his arms about the figure as she danced up to him, crying, "Stay, oh, stay!" The spirit (?) struggled violently in a very fleshy way, and half a dozen of the persons who were managing the performance threw themselves upon him and dragged him back. The spirit (?) ran back into the cabinet, followed closely by some of the observers. Matches were lighted and blown out by the confederates. The gas was stopped up, but still more matches were lighted and another burner found. One of the gentlemen was collared and dragged out, but he slipped back into the cabinet. The medium was then on the floor with a stalwart friend standing over her. Her shoes were in the corner and her stockinged feet were visible. Her arms and neck were entirely bare, but the muslin robe which she had worn as a ghost was wrapped round her waist and tucked under her. Her dark dress she had caught up and pinned round her shoulders. The cap and little blue skirt-front which she had worn as "Billy" where lying by her half-hidden, but these and the shoes were picked up and preserved by the investigating party. Meantime there was a regular tussle outside, ending in the turning of the little party out into the hall and locking the door. Before they left, the medium had succeeded in getting her dress partly on, but was afraid to rise to show her paraphernalia. "Altogether," says one who was present, "it was a complete exposeof a plain humbug." Doubtless some person will deny it. There is no end to fools. But half a dozen or more gentlemen saw the whole thing, and there can be no doubt about it.

An Exciting Scene in Court.

From the Macon, Ga., Telegraph and Messenger.

A singularly dramatic incident occurred Friday near midnight in the superior court room at Waynesboro, during the trial of the Rogers brothers for the killing of the Symses—father and son. The killing occurred at McBean's station in October last. Eminent counsel had been engaged by the prosecution and defense, for both parties were prominent and wealthy. The evidence closed and the speaking began Friday morning, continuing all during the day. When the court assembled after tea the seats and the aisles within the bar were crowded with ladies, while without a dense throng of men filled up the auditorium. It was before this assembly that Mr. Twiggs began his argument at 8 o'clock. Twiggs is an eloquent speaker, practiced in and noted for his oratorical graces. In the course of his three hours' address he at one time referred in the most feeling manner to the courage and devotion of woman. The hour, the occasion, the audience and the dim light, from which the rapt faces were bent upon him, all combined to form a surrounding well calculated to inspire the orator to his greatest effort. He closed his address upon the women as follows:

"At the battle of Gettysburg Gen. Pickett was ordered to begin the charge which was to make him famous. As he went into the terrible battle, his young bride on horseback followed him. When the hail of death was beating down men on all sides, and the plunging shot and shell mingled their fierce screams with the moans and cries of the mangled. Picket suddenly found himself in the presence of his wife. In an agony of fear for her safety, he cried out to her as she sat cool and collected as a veteran, 'Go back! Go back! For God's sake go back to the rear!' 'No,' replied the devoted woman, 'in the hour of danger a wife's place is at her husband's side.'"

At this moment through the courtroom there rang one wild thrilling cry, which nearly lifted the excited throng to its feet. It was the old rebel yell, heard upon a hundred battle fields and never to be forgotten. A deep silence followed. All eyes were turned toward the outer circle. Then Judge Roney's cold voice was heard bidding the sheriff to arrest the offender. A man was seen dodging through the crowd and the judge continued: "The man who is leaving is probably the one wanted."

"No, judge," exclaimed a voice slowly, "I am the man." The speaker stood in the aisle with folded arms, quietly contemplating the bench.

"I shall have to fine you $10, then, for disturbing the court."

"Very well, your honor, I will pay the money," said the man without moving, "but I meant no disrespect, I was a confederate soldier at Gettysburg and just could not help from hollering."

The ladies present sprang to their feet, and in an instant the money was made up and paid to the clerk. The involuntary yell of the old soldier, was an irresistible tribute to womanhood. Had the fine been ten times as large he would not have suffered.

ABOUT EGGS.

How it is That They Cost 50 Cents a Dozen—German Limed Eggs.

"It vas too pad I haf to sharge you feefty cent. I shoost make two cent on dot tozen of aigs," said an up-town grocer who was selling eggs yesterday.

"He told the truth. He paid 48 cents a dozen, wholesale, if he bought his eggs the first of the week," said W. S. Okie, a commission merchant, when asked if eggs had been selling at that price. "The warm weather early in the season started the hens, and eggs came in so freely that the market was very weak. A good many got frightened and sold out. Then the weather came around cold again, and stopped the supply. The stock in hand here was not large. Of course those who had held their stocks made some money. In fact eggs were so scarce the first of the week that I do not know how we would have lived if we had not received a supply by a couple of German steamers. The warm weather of to-day has reduced the price to 42 cents wholesale, but it will be cold to-morrow, and we will not sell any lower for some time. Limed eggs bring about 35 cents."

"How many eggs were brought in by the German steamers?"

"About 1,400 cases of say 80,000 dozen."

"Are they limed?"

"Yes, but the German process is better than the American. Here a bushel of lime is slacked with eight or nine pails of water; the water is drawn off, and the eggs are packed in it. The lime water closes the pores in the shell and excludes the air. The eggs will then keep two or three years. But the white of the egg gets watery, and, besides that, the limers do not pickle the eggs until they are afraid that they will spoil. Out of 1,000 barrels of limed eggs received here only 200 will be gilt edged. The German process leaves the white in such a natural condition that the imported eggs are frequently sold here as fresh ones by retailers. The only thing to prevent it is the fact that these preserved eggs cannot be boiled. They crack open every time, of course. In every other respect they are as good as nine-tenths of the fresh eggs sold."

"How much duty do you pay on them?"

"The American hen is wholly unprotected from the pauper labor of the Germans. There is a movement on foot, though, to get a duty on eggs, which will, perhaps, enable us to charge several cents more a dozen under extreme circumstances."

March options on eggs sold in the exchange yesterday at 18¼ cents a dozen.—[N. Y. Sun.

Fashions In Dancing.

"There has been a great improvement in the style of dancing in England during the last three or four years," says the London Graphic. "The fashion of mad gallops and waltzing which resembles the charges of foot-ball players, has temporarily gone out, and the valse a trois temps has come back into favor. Shall we ever see a resurrection of the old minuet, which so perfectly conveyed the poetry of motion? It is a rather ceremonious dance for these times, but a little cultivation of that courtliness of demeanor which first gave rise to the term "ball room manners" would perhaps do some of our English youth no harm. Beau Nash would have been scandalized at the style in which many of our young gentlemen bob their heads instead of bowing, and we doubt whether the curtesys of our best-trained young ladies would muster before his critical eye. There is a cubbishness in some youngsters which makes them ashamed to be graceful in deportment before ladies. They are graceful enough in their athletic sports, their riding, rowing and cricket, for in these pursuits grace is called "form;" but no form has yet been set up as a standard to be attained in ball rooms. So we see young fellows who are very Apollos with their zephyrs, on shrink up into slouching figures when they put on their dress-coats and shamble forward with awkward gaits to ask a girl to dance, just as if they were afraid of being laughed at. Yet we have never heard of a really well-mannered and graceful dancer being laughed at even by the most gawkish contemner of society pastimes. Perhaps if the fashion of slow dancing is kept up for a few years longer it will lead naturally to a revival of the grace which comes from carefully executed movements, and the result will be seen in a greater polish of manners outside the ball-rooms as well as in them."

McCullough and His Man "Bob."

"That is Bob Prichard, better known as 'McCullough's Bob.' He is the governors' dresser and has been with him for thirteen years. Bob has a weakness for the ardent, and sometimes gets a little too much on board, when the governor will discharge him. But he is always taken back, for he knows Mr. McCullough's ways so well, is so throughly familiar with his wardrobe, and is really such a valuable dresser that his occasional shortcomings are forgiven. An instance of his value was shown last year,

"You remember Mr. McCullough played 'Ingomar' at the Boston theater to Mary Anderson's 'Parthenia.' Well, the morning of the day on which the governor was to leave New York for the Hub Bob turned up rather the worse for wear; and the governor summarily dismissed him; told him to go off and never show his face again. Bob went away and immediately sought Billy Conner, to whom he related his misfortune. 'I'm fired for good now,' said he with tears in his eyes. 'The governor's awful mad.' Bonner knew better, and so he told Bob to go home and sleep until afternoon and then come back and see him.

"In the meantime the 'governor' had started for Boston, without taking a bit of wardrobe, and was in a horrible stew to know what he should do. Miss Anderson, who was on the train, suggested that the next day they could get up early and go to some costumer's in Boston, and get something that would do. This didn't please Mac much, for he is not an easy man to fit, you know, but he thought that was the best thing that could be done. He reached Boston in an unenviable frame of mind, and put up at the Trenton House."

"Where was Bob all this time?"

"Hold on and I'll tell you. Bob went home and slept, and went to see Conner in the afternoon all right. Connor told him to get together everything the 'governor' would want in 'Ingomar,' and to go to Boston on the night train, and go to the 'governor' at his hotel in the morning as though nothing had happened. Bob did so, and when the 'governor' came down early the next morning there was Bob sitting at the foot of the stairs. 'Hello, Bob,' said Mr. McCullough, 'have you got everything all right for "Ingomar?"'

"'Yes, sir,' replied he, 'just as you told me, sir.'

"You ought to hear the 'governor' tell the story. 'When I saw Bob sitting there that morning,' says he, 'I felt that I could have put my arms around him and hugged the Scotch cuss.'"—National Republican.

Wooden Railway Ties.

Wooden ties for railways are becoming more expensive every year, and the time is coming when possibly some substitute will have to be devised for them. The chief engineer of the Reading railroad is about to try some experiments with steel ties. They would be the same in size and shape as the present wooden ties, except that they would be hollow; and they would practically last until they rusted away, while the best oak ties last only about eight years. Some of the advantages claimed for the steel ties are that the expense of maintaining the track would be largely reduced, the road-bed would be firmer and smoother, and trains could run at much higher speed over them. The wear and tear on track and rolling stock would also be lessened, because the track is smoother. For these reasons trains could run faster without increasing the expense proportionately.

A Satire on Eulogies.

"Gem'len, in one respek Brudder Slawson was a fa'r to medium man. If he borryed half a dollor to go to de circus he'd pay it back outer money dat his wife airned at de washbo'd. De poo' neber turned away from his doah empty-handed. He pitied de sorrows of a big tramp and let his wife go bar'futted an' his chil'n hungry. He was kind-hearted, but allus behind on his pew rent. He was philanthropic, but he had to dodge his butcher. He was kind fadder, but he has got two of the wust boys in de State of Ohio. He was a lovin' husband, but he was content to sit aroun'de grocery an' let his wife suport de family. While we may say dat we am sory death has come to sever ties an bring changes, we have no occashun to remark dat the world will be any de wuss off."—Detroit Free Press.

Deputy United States [illegible] James W. Hathway of Helena received a message Sunday from X. Beidler of Benton, stating that William Jones was killed by Indians on the 27th, about fifteen miles above the mouth of Arrow creek. It was not known by what tribe. Arrow creek is about thirty miles from Benton, toward the Musselshell.

MORE LIGHT.

Is What the Wheat Producers Want on the Grain Question, and Some Correspondence is Here Given in That Interest.

Fargo Daily Argus Jan. 21st.

The following letters, the second a reply to the first, are thought of sufficient interest to be given in full, and contain much matter for the consideration of thoughtful farmers. The first part of Mr. Pillsbury's letter, referring to a purely business matter of no public interest, is omitted:

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 14, 1885.
Hon. C. A. Morton, Fargo, D. T.

DEAR SIR: Your favor of the thirteenth received.

* * * * * *

Permit me to make a personal suggestion to you in reference to legislation. We and the Northern Pacific and other elevator companies have built the finest line of elevators in the world up there. By our contracts with the railroad companies we are obliged to run them public and to keep them open all the year round and the only consideration we have against that is that they will not allow other elevators to be built unless they have a capacity of at least 30,000 bushels, which is about as small an elevator as can be run as a public elevator.

The idea of building sheds and warehouses along the track and running them as public elevators is perfectly ridiculous. We urged Mr. Manvel at the commencement of the year to modify our leases and let us run the elevators as strictly private elevators, and then he could let as many sheds be built as he chose.

The thing that prevents unlimited competition up in that country is the question of weights and grades. We are heartily in favor of State inspection and when the farmers decide what they want we shall go in and help them perfect their bill and get it through.

With State inspection the markets would be free as air but if coupled with permission for any one to build any sort of a rat trap along the track and go into the wheat business with a house that could not be called a public elevator because it would not have sufficient capacity or might be run by irresponsible parties whom the public would not deal with, such a thing would simply compel us to run our houses strictly as private elevators. We have decided therefore that we are not going to lay awake nights or make any special effort to defeat legislation that the farmers think they need. All is if they make a law which we cannot work under fairly and compete with others, we shall simply run our elevators as private elevators. I may be prejudiced in the matter but it seems to me that the farmers of Dakota and Minnesota would be as crazy to pass laws which would close up the public elevators and open a lot of irresponsible houses that nobody had any confidence in as would be the people of the United States to abolish the national banking system and allow everybody to issue currency because there were some things about the national banks they do not like. We are willing to work under any legislation that will truly help the farmers. But if they make up their minds that they have got to have something which we think will work great injury to us and no benefit to them, we shall have to protect ourselves as best we can. Neither the State of Minnesota, the Territory of Dakota, or the United States of America can compel us to run our elevators as public elevators if we do not want to. If we run public elevators they could probably say about how we should run them.

CHAS. A. PILLSBURY.

FARGO, Jan. 15, 1885.
Hon. Charles A. Pillsbury, Minneapolis, Minnesota:

MY DEAR SIR: Your very interesting letter of yesterday is just received; and I have no hesitation in saying that if the people of Minnesota and Dakota are to obtain relief on weights and grades by legislative action, as suggested by you, that it will be a long step towards remedying existing evils. I am not prepared to say that our interests would not be subserved by the railroad companies allowing elevators of reasonable capacity at all points.

I agree with you, however, entirely, as to the evils likely to arise from irresponsible parties building temporary buildings for elevator purposes. I do not expect a perfect law, but a radical change, whereby existing troubles may be alleviated if not cured, is imperatively demanded at this time. The question is, what is practical? What legislation should be had for the relief of the farmer, and do no injustice to the elevator interests? Now, Mr. Pillsbury, I know nothing of the matters of your elevator company in reference to the mixing of grades; but I do know, and from an expensive experience too, that the Northern Pacific elevator company has treated me in the most outrageous manner in this respect. I had an eastern order for seven cars No. 1 hard wheat, ordered from samples sent to millers there, and mark you, the samples were obtained from the Union elevator here, and upon those samples, of course, the order was predicated. We presented our tickets at Mr. Barnes' office and were given orders upon the elevator for the grain. We were charged half a cent per bushel for cleaning, to which charge there is surely no objection had they cleaned the wheat. They claimed that their cleaning apparatus was not in good order. If that were really true, would it not have been the fair business-like thing to do to have abated the cleaning charge and allowed a reasonable excess of wheat for the dirt contained therein? But to the fact, without moralizing upon the subject. These seven cars were shipped, as before stated, to millers east, and they returned to us a package of screenings, alleging that out of five of the seven cars (and at that time the other two cars had not arrived) there was of this dirt and foreign matter six and one-eighth pounds to the bushel, or more than ten per cent of the shipment. I have samples taken as the cars were being loaded, having carefully sealed them at the time, and I have the screenings from this wheat with the affidavits of the parties to whom it was consigned and their statement, also sworn to, as to the sum we allowed as to a reclamation, and at the proper time I propose to use these evidences—to state very mildly—of unfair and unbusiness-like dealing. Some people would call it larceny; as I am a mild and gentle individual I prefer to characterize it less harshly. With this state of facts existing, do you wonder, Mr. Pillsbury, that this elevator system in Dakota has very few friends? Do you wonder that the wheat raiser, and all wheat raisers here, has very little use for a system that sends quite a large percentage of its product into the Duluth elevators as No. 2 northern, No. 1 northern and No. 2 hard, and when it leaves the water side of those elevators it invariably goes on No. 1 hard? Do you wonder, in these times of general depression, that we object to having No. 1 hard wheat graded as No. 2 northern at Duluth? simply because it chances to be in special bins in a Fargo elevator? and we bought it instead of the elevator man? As far as I am individually concerned, I want no legislation that cannot be made thoroughly practical; I want no legislation that will work an injustice to the elevator or milling interests; but I do want such legislation as will enable the producer to realize the value of his product, less reasonable charges for handling and storing the same. When I commenced this letter I had no intention of inflicting pages of it upon you; but I admit the subject is one of deep interest to me for every interest I have in the world is here, and if wheat culture is a failure, as it surely will be without legislative protection, I might just as well pull up my stakes and seek a more congenial (financial) climate. I believe in you, personally, and if you will earnestly assist us, from a disinterested point, I have no doubt as to the result, that a good law guaranteeing equal and exact justice to all.

Yours truly, C. A. MORTON.

Competition Between Breeds.

In relation to the discussion of the merits of the several breeds of cattle, especially the Short horns and Herefords, it has been said that there is room for all breeds. The Breeders Journal says: "This is probably true. There is room not only for thoroughbred cattle and the best breeds but there is room for scrubs. But this does not meet the question as it should be met. A man MAY use a wooden plow if he has no other means of cultivating the ground but that does not prove it the best method nor that it is policy to use it. He MAY stir it with a stick rather than not move it at all. But he would not do this if he had a good pair of horses and a good improved plow to work with. It is well to use the old spinning wheel if there is not other means of making your clothing. But the old spinning wheel would not be used if the improved machinery could be had, and steam or water to propel it, and what is true of these and other industries is also true of the live stock interest of the world. THERE IS NO ROOM FOR THE POOR WHEN BETTER CAN BE HAD!

Large Yorkshire Swine.

There is a tendency to vary in all breeds of animals. It is as much a law of nature applicable to all living things, as the more widely recognized law that "like producers like." Every breeder of swine, in particular, observes that there is a great variation in size, though in other points there may be uniformity. Thus among Berkshires, some are very large, others are of medium size, and others again, fine and small. Each size has its merits, particularly the extremes. The same thing, as might be expected, occurs with the white breed of Yorkshire, which was originally large and coarse; but instead in interbreeding and refining the large ones by the use of small fine pigs, for crosses, each has of late years been separately bred, and improved rather by selection than by introducing the blood of the finer and smaller animals. This has given rise to the two distinct breeds of Yorkshire pigs which are now established. They are similar, but quite distinct in form, and it is rather remarkable, that with the natural desire of our countrymen for something not only big but odd, they have produced a breed that is very profitable. The large Yorkshires are undoubtedly the best formed, the smallest boned, the quickest feeders, of all the large breeds. They are exceedingly deep in body, with good hams, shoulders, and sides. They are not extraordinary for length of body, but in this they are improving. A point of weakness sometimes found, is a [illegible]—the weight of the body in old hogs, causing a hollowness of the back. In this respect too, there has been great improvement of late. The Yorkshire is preeminently a lard-maker; but when crossed with the Berkshire, the quality and quantity of the meat is much improved. As economical feeders and rapid growers, the large breed is only surpassed by the small Yorkshires, and for crossing, when large-sized pigs are desired, they certainly are unsurpassed. When well-fed from the first, they attain great weights. When properly crossed, as, for instance, with large Berkshires, or with what are called Cheshires in this country, or with large sows of the Chester White breed, we may expect the greatest weight of the pure Yorkshires to be exceeded.—[Col. Weld in American Agriculturist for Feb.

A Talk About Swine Feeding.

The first thing a farmer should consider is, to have healthy hogs, and in order to secure this he must provide a variety of food, and give them comfortable quarters. My pigs were fed, last winter, corn, roots, wheat middlings and buckwheat bran. This winter they are fed the same, with the addition of raw apples, of which I purchased eight hundred bushels, mostly for the pigs. Warm sheds, or rather pens, are constructed in a sunny corner of the fields adjoining the buildings, and here the pigs are being wintered, in lots of a dozen or less in each. They have plenty of room in which to stir about; and are fed in a spot where the cold winds do not reach them. One fruitful cause of disease with pigs is exposure to a cold wind when just out of a hot nest where, perhaps, they have been piled upon each other. The sudden change of temperature may be as great as twenty or thirty degrees, enough, any way, to cause colds colds, which may assume the form of pleurisy, quinsy, inflammation of the lungs or bowels. Sleeping under the straw stack, and feeding on the open ground in a raking wind, lay the foundation for many diseases. If the farmer has made no provision for feeding his hogs, other than corn, let him give them clover hay. This may cause the exclusive corn-feeder to smile, but he should remember that this is not only a change of food, but that clover contains the very elements the corn lacks. If his hogs have been so pampered that they have no appetite for such food, then get a breed which has, and let "early maturity" mean, with him, a healthy body, ready to slaughter, I care not whether the pig weighs one hundred, two hundred or three hundred pounds, so long as this weight has been made at a profit. Good appetites are the result of good bodies, and good bodies cannot be made without a variety of food. With good appetites and strong digestion, coarse and cheap foods can be utilized, and herein is the best basis for profit. Let corn come in as an aid in fattening swine, but not as the all in all in pig feeding.—[F. D. Curtis in American Agriculturist for Feb.

Pending the definite settlement of the wheat question what can our farmers do to better advantage than to consider the plan of raising more good stock in this country. The cow has never been known to impoverish a country and wheat has—and let it be borne in mind that too, when wheat was sold in a competing market and at its very best figure! Now, while it is just and proper to contend for our rights yet the shrewd farmer will not REST at at that. He will have found out, if he has kept strict account of all his outgoes, the cost of everything needed to produce a crop, interest, taxes and everything, he will have found out ere this that he is not getting a return of ten per cent. on his investments by raising wheat and doing nothing else. Now, if he stops to consider at all, and every thinking farmer does that, he will naturally ask himself where this is all going to end? If at its best his farm will not yield a return of ten per cent, what will it do after having been cropped until its natural fertility needs replenishing? It is the part of wisdom to recognize before it is too late the necessity for a change and to prepare for that change. It cannot be done all at once. The change must be gradual, and already there are some shrewd, long-headed farmers well on the way; farmers, who though they are not rich to-day by any means, yet they are on the high road to prosperity. Their stock is growing night and day, winter and summer, growing every day more valuable. The time is not very far distant when the wisdom of their course will be fully justified in substantial results. Winter is a good time to think over these things and to lay plans for the future. If every farmer has not an agricultural paper in the house he should have one and not only should he have one but he should read it carefully. Many valuable hints may be found even by those who know it all now.

AN OPEN WHEAT MARKET,

Farm Gardening.

American Agriculturist for February.

The farmer who continues to raise the same crops that he grew before towns and manufacturing villages sprang up all around him, makes a great mistake. In the older States, at least, there are but few farms not within an hour's or two hours' ride of a market. It is worth while for farmers in such localities, to consider if they can afford to raise field corn, when sweet corn will pay much better. It is true that sweet corn needs high manuring, but when the ears are off there will be a heavy crop of the very best fodder. The ears will bring in ready money, just how much will depend upon the market, but safe to say, more than any crop of ripe corn would be worth. It is a mistake to grow late potatoes, to be dug when every one else has potatoes, and prices are low, while early potatoes will bring several times the price of late ones. It is so with other crops. There are but few garden vegetables that may not be grown as farm crops, and it is a mistake to raise produce that will bear transportation from a distance, instead of that suited to a near market, and must be disposed of at once. A farmer, on the other hand, would make a mistake were he to devote his land to a new set of crops at once. He should determine to grow such things that pay the best, and to gradually work into a more profitable kind of farming. Those who propose to do this, will find sweet corn and potatoes excellent crops to begin with. Others will pay better, but these are best to prepare the land for other and more profitable crops. It would have been better had the land been prepared for these last fall, but as this was not done, make it ready as soon as it is safe to work it.

The Old Brick Block
IS THE PLACE
To Buy Dry Goods, Groceries. Clothing, Boots and Shoe Hats and Caps, or anything you want.
FONTAINE & ANGLIM
IS THE FIRM
Who are ready, with a corps of affable clerks to show you their NEW FALL and WINTER STOCK and quote prices to astonish the natives.
Great Bargains!
Don't forget to visit Fontaine & Anglim's Emporium, in the Old Brick Block,
MAIN STREET. CROOKSTON, MINN.

M. M. VAN DYKE,
Physician and Surgeon,
Corner of Main and Second Streets,
CROOKSTON, MINN.
Will attend to all professional calls promptly.

Furniture Store.
BROADWAY. CROOKSTON MINNESOTA.
P. BATAGLIA, Prop.
Keeps constantly on hand a well selected stock of Wardrobes, Bureaus, Sofas, Lounges, Bed steds, Bed Springs, Tables, Chairs, Rocking Chairs, Stands, Ornaments, Picture Mouldings, and Picture Frames. REPAIRING DONE TO ORDER. Coffins of all kinds kept constantly on hand.

NO SURPRISE!

THE GOVERNMENT ENDORSES

The American Agriculturist.

FROM THE TENTH CENSUS, VOL. 3, JUST PUBLISHED:

"The American Agriculturist is especially worthy of mention, because of the remarkable success that has attended the unique and untiring efforts of its proprietors to increase and extend its circulation. Its contents are duplicated every month for a German edition, which also circulates widely."

This tribute is a pleasing incident in the marvelous nearly

HALF A CENTURY

career of this recognized leading Agricultural Journal of the world.

What It is To-Day.

Six months ago the American Agriculturist entered upon a NEW CAREER OF PROSPERITY, and to-day it is far superior to any similar periodical ever produced in this or any other country. Richer in editorial strength; richer engravings; printed on finer paper, and presenting in every issue 100 columns of original reading matter from the ablest writers, and nearly 100 illustrations. Dr. George Thurber, for nearly a quarter of a century, the editor-in-chief of the American Agriculturist, Joseph Harris, Byron D. Halsted, Col. M. C. Weld and Andrew S. Fuller, the other long time editors, together with the other writers who have made the American Agriculturist what it is to-day, ARE STILL AT THEIR POSTS.

WHAT, FREE?

Every subscriber, whose subscription is IMMEDIATELY forwarded us with the price, $1.50 per year, and 15 cents extra for postage on Cyclopedia—making $1.65 in all—will receive the American Agriculturist for Dec, 1884, and all of 1885, and will be presented with the AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST FAMILY CYCLOPÆDIA (just out,) 700 Pages and over 1,000 Engravings. Strongly bound in cloth, black and gold.

This entirely new volume is a remarkable storehouse and book of reference for every department of human knowledge, including an Agricultural supplement by Dr. Thurber.

Send three 2-cent stamps for mailing you specimen copy American Agriculturist, an elegant 40-page Premium List, with 200 illustrations, and specimen pages of our Family Cyclopædia. Canvassers wanted everywhere.

Address PUBLISHERS AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST,
DAVID W. JUDD, Pres't. SAM'L BURNHAM, Sec.
751 Broadway, New York. [illegible]

A. Allen,
AGENT
—FOR THE—HOWE
SCALE
COMPANY.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., Jan. 20th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., on Feb. 27th, 1885, viz: KNUDT H. BERG, Pre. D. S., No. 6307, for the sw¼ S. 21, T. 148, R. 45. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: O. P. Onsted, I. P. Oldsted, C. Tharaldson and J. Nelson, all of Aldal, Polk Co., Minn.

[39-44] JOHN CROMB, Register.

Fortier's Place,
Corner Broadway and Robert Street
EVERYTHING NEW, NEAT
—AND NOBBY.—
Billiards, Pool, and the Choicest Wines, Liquor and Cigars. The purest High Proof Whiskies at wholesale prices
PURE IMPORTED GOODS ON DROUGHT.

BERG & OLSON,
PRACTICAL WATCHMAKERS
AND DEALERS IN
CLOCKS,
WATCHES,
JEWELRY,
—ROBERT STREET.—
CROOKSTON MINNESOTA.

THE PIONEER
HARNESS SHOP.
M. RAUENBUEHLER, Proprietor,
CORNER OAK AND THIRD STS., CROOKSTON MINN
is ready for the Spring trade with a full supply of Work and Light Harness, Single and Double, Saddles, Bridles, Whips, Blankets, etc. Give me a call before you purchase.

MERCHANTS' HOTEL,
J. E. MITTON, Proprietor,
CORNER BROADWAY AND ROBERT STREET
CROOKSTON, MINN.
The new Merchants' Hotel, recently re-fitted and re-furnished is now ready to accommodate the traveling public, who are cordially invited to stop at the Merchants' when in the city.

A. A. JUST, M. D.,
Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon,
Rooms corner Main street and Fletcher Avenue, over Eiken Bros. Hardware Store,
CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINN.

Crookston Tonsorial
PARLORS.
PROF. THOMPSON, Proprietor,
Robert Street, Crookston, Minn.
Shaving, hair dressing and all work in my line promptly attended to the latest style of the art. Give me a call.

AIME GABOURY,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Graduate Doctor in Medicine Laval University, Canada. Licensed Coll. Phy. Surg. Quebec. Late of Michigan University, U.S.
Office over Barber's store, Second St.
CROOKSTON MINN

Wentzel & Rauch,
Sample Rooms.
MAIN STREET. CROOKSTON, MINN
For a fine mixed or straight drink call on the boys. The choicest liquors and cigars in stock.

Crookston City Bakery,
Peter Lorge, Prop,
Keeps constantly on hand a full line of all goods usually found in a
First-Class Bakery
Cigars and Tobacco, Nuts, Fruits, Candies, Pies, Cakes, Bread,
And everything to fill out a hungry man, constantly on hand

Monev to Give Away
IN BARGAINS,
AT MARKHAM'S,
THE LEADING GROCERY HOUSE
AND THE LARGEST BOOT AND SHOE STORE
IN CROOKSTON.
Goods Delivered to any Part of the City
FREE OF CHARGE.

E. D. CHILDS & CO.,
Proprietors of
CARMAN TOWNSITE,
AND
Dealers in Real Estate!

AMERICAN FARMER
FREE
To Journal Subscribers!
Who will pay up their subscription account to THE JOURNAL in full and one year in advance at our regular rates, we will present with one year's subscription to
The "American Farmer."
A sixteen-page Agricultural Magazine, published by E. A. K. Hackett, at Fort Wayne, Indiana, and which is rapidly taking rank as one of the leading Agricultural publications of the country. It is devoted exclusively to the interests of the Farmer, Stock Breeder, Dairyman, Gardener, and their household, and every species of industry connected with that great portion of the people of the world, the Farmers. The subscription price is ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR. Farmers cannot well get along without it. It puts new ideas into their minds. It teaches them how to farm with profit to themselves. It makes the home happy, the young folks cheerful, the growler contented, the downcast happy, and the demagogue honest.

FARMERS, FARMERS,
WE ARE
Selling Lower Than Ever!
You will always find it to your advantage to
Trade with Us!
We Sell the Best for the LOWEST LIVING PRICES. Remember the place,
Broadway, bet. 2d and Robert Sts.
D. BUCHANAN.

DENTISTRY!
J. H. THOMAS, D. D. S.,
ROBERT STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.
Artificial Teeth from one to an entire set inserted. Gold, Silver or Artificial Filling used as desired. Regulating Children's Teeth a specialty. ALL WORK WARRANTED.

JOHN N. IVES.
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Collection and Land Office Business made a specialty. Money secured for final proofs on short notice.
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

A. H. DUNLOP M. D.,
Graduate McGill University, Montreal.
Licensed College Physician and Surgeon Quebec.
Office on Robert Street, Crookston.

W. L. Sargeant
Veterinary Surgeon,
CROOKSTON, MINN.
Diseases of horses and cattle a specialty.

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, January 29, 1885.

RAILROAD TIME TABLE.

GOING NORTH.	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
No. 1 Passenger	10:45 p. m.	10:55 p. m.
" 9 Passenger	10:30 a. m.
" 19 Freight	12:30 a. m.
" 15 Freight	3:00 p. m.
" 23 Freight		10:50 a. m.
GOING SOUTH.	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
No. 2 Passenger	4:00 a. m.	4:00 a. m.
" 10 Passenger		5:20 p. m.
" 20 Freight		7:00 a. m.
" 22 Freight		6:15 p. m.
" 24 Freight	5:00 p. m.
DEVIL'S LAKE LINE.	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
No. 9 Passenger		10:20 a. m.
" 10 Passenger	5:30 p. m.
" 45 Freight		6:00 a. m.
" 46 Freight	7:00 p. m.

ST. HILAIRE BRANCH.

Trains leave Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 10:15 a. m., and arrive same days at 4:00 p. m.

☞ Passenger Trains No's 1 and 2, Main Line run daily except Sunday. No's 3 and 4 run daily. Devil's Lake Passenger runs daily. Freights No's 22, 20 and 24 run daily. Freights No's 15 and 22, and Freights on Devil's Lake Line run daily except Sunday.

City and County Directory.

☞ We wish to make this directory as reliable as possible, and consequently request all parties interested to notify us of any changes in their respective announcements.

U. S. LAND OFFICE.

John Cromb..........Register.
L. K. Aaker..........Receiver.
Office hours from 8:30 a. m. to 12 m., and from 2:00 to 4:30 p. m.

MEMBER OF CONGRESS.

Knute Nelson..........Alexandria.

DISTRICT COURT.

O. P. Stearns, Judge..........Duluth.

STATE SENATOR.

Halvor Steenerson..........Crookston.

REPRESENTATIVE.

A. H. Baker..........Ada.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

R. J. Montague..........Judge of Probate.
T. C. Shapleigh..........Clerk of Court.
C. S. Spendley..........Register of Deeds.
P. J. McGuire..........Auditor.
O. H. Lucken..........Treasurer.
John Leo..........Court Commissioner.
Wm. Watts..........Attorney.
V. D. Carruth..........Supt. of Schools.
W. F. Zwickey..........Sheriff.
H. Shephard..........Coroner.
C. L. Brainard..........Surveyor.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Knute Nelson—1st Dist..........Aldal.
E. A. Bradish—2d " ....Fisher.
M. R. Brown—3d " ....Crookston.
C. Kretzschmar—4th " ....Red Lake Falls.
T. Sullivan—5th " ....East Grand Forks.

CITY OFFICIALS.

Mayor..........P. M. Walsh.
Recorder..........W. D. Hurlbut.
Treasurer..........A. G. Gallasch.
Justices..........G. W. Lewis, J. W. Lilly.
Ald.—1st Ward..........Ole Bang, L. Fontaine.
—2d " ....Henry Nolan, P. Bataglia.
—3d " ....N. P. Stone, W. Walker.
—4th " ....S. F. Markham, C. A. Chiniquy.
—at large..........E. Houston.
City Attorney..........J. N. Ives.
City Engineer..........W. D. Hurlbut.
Marshal..........J. Dowling.
Deputy Marshal..........J. B. Filiatrault, Ole Bjoin.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

PRESBYTERIAN—Corner Broadway and Fifth street. Rev. R. L. Adams, Pastor. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 m. Prayer meeting in church every Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

Methodist Episcopal Church—Corner of Main and Fourth streets. Rev. J. C. Gullette, Ph. D. Pastor. Services every Sabbath at 11 a. m. And 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30.

EPISCOPAL—Ash street, head of Second street. Rev. S. Currie, Rector. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Sunday School at 2:00 p. m.

CONGREGATIONAL—Rev. C. E. Page, Pastor. Corner Third and Ash streets. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at noon.

BAPTIST—Rev. H. L. House, Pastor. Second street, between Broadway and Ash streets. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12:15 p. m. Young people's meeting from 6:15 to 7:15. Services always closed in time to allow those present to attend their own churches. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. A cordial invitation to all. Friday evening at 7, teacher's meeting at different homes.

CATHOLIC—Ash street. C. A. S. DeCarufel, Pastor. Services every Sunday at 8:30 and 10:30 a. m. 3:00 p. m.

CARMAN.

BAPTIST—F. K. Roberts, Pastor. Services in Baptist Block at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at noon. Prayer meeting Thursday evening.

SOCIETIES.

HIRAM LODGE, No. 73, A. O. U. W. Meets in K. P. Hall, Second and Fourth Thursday of each month.
C. H. MIX, M. W.
F. BEHLMER, Secretary.

PIERSON CHAPTER, R. A. M. Meets in Masonic Hall, First and Third Monday of each month.
T. C. SHAPLEIGH, H. P.
O. H. LUCKEN, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 79, I. O. O. F. Meets every Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows' Hall, over Post Office.
F. M. SCHWARK, N. G.
R. B. GATES, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 1,469, K. of H. Meets the First and Third Monday evening of each month, in Losey's Hall, Main street.
T. A. HARRIS, Dictator.
JAS. BUTLER, Reporter.

CROOKSTON LODGE NO. 141, A. F. & A. M. Meets on the Second and Fourth Saturday evening of each month, in Masonic Hall.
W. D. HURLBUT, W. M.
GEO. D. BUCKNAM, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 25, K. of P. Meets every Friday evening, in K. of P. Hall, on Broadway.
C. W. BARNES, C. C.
W. B. DAWLEY, K. of R. & S.

Taxpayers.

Of Polk County are hereby notified that I will be at the following places at the dates specified herein for the purpose of collecting current taxes, to-wit:

Angus, Monday afternoon, Jan. 26.
Euclid, Tuesday, Jan. 27.
East Grand Fork, Wednesday afternoon and Thursday, Jan. 28 and 29.
Mallory, Friday, Jan. 30.
Fisher, Saturday, Jan. 31.
St. Hilaire, Thursday afternoon and Friday, Feb. 5 and 6.
Red Lake Falls, Saturday, Feb. 7.
Terrebonne, Monday, Feb. 9.
Maple Bay, Saturday, Feb. 14.
Mentor, P. O., Monday, Feb. 16.
Aldal, Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday, Feb. 17 and 18.
Edna, Thursday afternoon, Feb. 19.

O. H. LUCKEN,
County Treasurer, Polk County.
[39-41]

Red flannels, plain and twilled, guaranteed all wool, from 22 cents to 50 cents, at the New York store.

TO PARTIES DESIRING INSURANCE!

We represent the following old and reliable Fire Insurance Companies:

	Assets.
Ætna	$9,182,644
American	1,804,519
Fire Association	4,279,676
Underwriters	3,699,794
Orient	1,411,894
Phœnix	5,919,403
Lancashire	6,787,983
Milwaukee Mech	1,129,375
Germania	2,700,729

Having represented nearly all of the above companies for 14 years we have acquainted ourselves with the business, and think that we can justly claim the patronage of the public, who can depend upon having insurance written correctly and losses adjusted promptly.

MOSER & MOECKEL.

Notice of Dissolution.

Notice is hereby given that the firm of Harry G. Proud and George G. McDonell, doing business as Proud & McDonell, is hereby dissolved by mutual consent. The debts of said firm will be paid, and all accounts owing said firm collected by George G. McDonell.

Crookston, Minn., Jan 2d, 1885.
HARRY G. PROUD.
[38-40] GEORGE G. MCDONELL.

The business of the above firm will be continued at the old stand by Geo. G. Macdonell, who invites a continuation of the patronage of the many old customers and friends of the old firm.

GEO. G. MACDONELL.

John Knappe.

General Agent in the Red River Valley of the Netherlands American Land Company of Amsterdam, Holland.

Money to loan on good real estate security, on time to suit the borrower. Office over Merchant's Bank. [1-tf]

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Polk. } ss.

The State of Minnesota, to Ed. Gerceau Defendant:

You are hereby summoned to be and appear before the undersigned, one of the Justices of the Peace in and for said County, on the eighteenth day of February 1885, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at my office in the Crookston in said County, to answer to John Moser & Ernest Moeckel co-partners as Moser & Moeckel in a civil action. Should you fail to appear at the time and place aforesaid, judgment will be rendered against you upon the evidence adduced by said Moser & Moeckel for such sum as they shall show themselves entitled to.

Given under my hand this 14th day of January 1885.

G. W. LEWIS.
[38-41] Justice of the Peace.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Polk. } ss. In Probate Court.
Special Term, December 1884.

In the matter of the estate of Oride Laplante deceased.

Whereas, an instrument in writing, purporting to be the last will and testament of Oride Laplante deceased, late of said county, has been delivered to this Court.

And whereas Rosa Laplante has filed therewith her petition, representing among other things that said Oride Laplante died in said county on the fifteenth day of December 1884, testate, and that said petitioner is the sole executrix named in said last will and testament and praying that the said instrument may be admitted to probate, and that letters testamentary be to her issued thereon.

It is ordered, that the proofs of said instrument, and the said petition, be heard before this Court, at the Probate office in said county, on the ninth day of February A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock in afternoon, when all concerned may appear and contest the probate of said instrument.

And it is further ordered, that public notice of the time and place of said hearing be given to all persons interested, by publication of these orders for three weeks successively previous to said day of hearing, in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL a newspaper printed and published at the City of Crookston in said county.

By the Court.
ROBERT J. MONTAGUE,
[38-40] Judge of Probate.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred eighty-one and 32-100 dollars, ($181.32-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Sophia Busch and Henry Busch, her husband, to Henry Hammond, bearing date the 13th day of December A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 20th day of December A. D. 1883, at 10:20 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 332, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lots numbered twenty-two (22,) twenty-three (23,) and twenty-four (24,) in block No. three (3) of Bottineau's addition to the Townsite of Red Lake Falls, County of Polk and State of Minnesota, according to the certified plat of said addition recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Polk County, Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.
HENRY HAMMOND,
Mortgagee.
JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred seventy-five and 8-100 dollars, ($175.08-100,) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Moise Thiebert, a single man, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 10th day of April A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 11th day of April A. D. 1883, at 11 o'clock a. m., in book "L" of mortgages, on pages 281, 282 and 283, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The fractional lot No. two (2) on Elm Street, having a frontage of one hundred and seventy-five (175) feet on Elm Street, ninety-five (95) feet on Sixth Street, and one hundred and ninety-five (195) feet on the quarter section line, Townsite of Crookston, Polk County, Minnesota, according to the recorded plat thereof now on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said Polk County and forming a triangular lot, the lot hereby conveyed being the same property conveyed by E. H. Bly and wife, to Newton K. Hubbard by warranty deed, dated Sept. 12th 1881, in Polk County, and State of Minnesota with the hereditaments and appurtenances: which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.
HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.
JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Polk. } ss. In Probate Court.
Special Term, January 9th 1885.

In the matter of the estate of Henry Witty deceased.

Whereas, an instrument in writing, purporting to be the last will and testament of Henry Witty deceased, late of said county, has been delivered to this Court.

And whereas, Christ Olson has filed therewith his petition, representing among other things that said Henry Witty died in said county on the sixth day of December 1884, testate, and that said petitioner is one of the executors named in said last will and testament, and praying that the said instrument may be admitted to probate, and that letters testamentary be to him and to Andrew Olson issued thereon.

It is ordered, that the proofs of said instrument, and the said petition, be heard before this Court, at the Probate office in said county, on the ninth day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, when all concerned may appear and contest the probate of said instrument.

And it is further ordered, that public notice of the time and place of said hearing be given to all persons interested, by publication of these orders for three weeks successively previous to said day of hearing, in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL a newspaper printed and published at the City of Crookston in said county.

By the Court.
ROBERT J. MONTAGUE,
[38-40] Judge of Probate.

MORTGAGE SALE.

First Publication Jan. 22d, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of eighteen hundred and eighty seven 65-100 dollars ($1887.65-100,) which is claimed to be due, and is due, at the date of this notice, upon two certain promissory notes secured by a mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Polina Angelise McIntyre and H. D. McIntyre, to Morris R. Brown, bearing date the eleventh day of November A. D. 1882, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 27th day of November A. D. 1882, at 11 o'clock a. m., in book "H" of mortgages on page 419, which mortgage was for a good and valuable consideration on the 22d day of February A. D. 1883 duly assigned to Joseph Kelso, and said assignment duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for said County on the 27th day of February A. D. 1883, in book "K" of mortgages on pages 250 and 251, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: Lot number nineteen (19) Block number sixteen (16) in the original Townsite of Crookston according to a plat of said Townsite, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars ($50) attorney's fee as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, which sale will be made by Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State on the 14th day of March A. D. 1885, at 10:30 o'clock a. m., of said day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated January 24th, 1885.
JOSEPH KELSO, Assignee.
[39-45] Pro Se

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred eighty and 32-100 dollars, ($280.32-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph L. Daoust and Hermina Daoust, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 10th day of June A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 26th day of June A. D. 1883, at 10 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 65, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Beginning at a point fifty (50) feet west of the northeast corner of the block or parcel of land in lot seven (7,) in Section thirty-six (36,) Township one hundred and fifty (150,) of Range forty-seven (47,) bounded on the north by the street running west from the county bridge across the Red Lake River to the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railroad track, and on the east by the county road running south from said bridge, thence south one hundred (100) feet, thence west about one hundred and fifty (150) feet to the said railroad track, thence northerly one hundred (100) feet along said railroad track, and thence east about one hundred and fifty (150) feet to the place of beginning, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.
HENRY HAMMEL,
JOHN LEO, Mortgagee.
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred eighty-one and 38-100 dollars, ($181.38-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Sophie Busch, and Henry Busch, her husband, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 24th day of July A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of November A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 278, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter (ne¼) of Section No. thirty-three (33) in Township No. one hundred and fifty (150) north, of Range No. forty-four (44) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres more or less in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.
HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.
JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred fifty-three dollars, ($253) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Tollef J. Farden, and Julia Farden, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 2d day of November A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of November A. D. 1883, at 10:10 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 277, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northwest quarter of Section twenty-four (24,) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149) north, of Range No. forty-four (44) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres of land more or less, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.
HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.
JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 25th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred seventy-two and 24-100 dollars, ($372.24-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Aiken Dumas and Emily Dumas his wife to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 1st day of July A. D. 1884, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 5th day of July A. D. 1884, at 4:30 o'clock p. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 127, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northwest quarter (nw¼) of Section twenty-six (26) Township one hundred and fifty (150) north, of Range forty-four (44) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres more or less, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston in said County and State, on the 9th day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage, in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston Dec. 24th, A. D. 1884.
HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.
JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [35-41]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Jan. 1st 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred eighty-four and 85-100 dollars, ($384.85-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Albert D. Berry and Clorenthe Berry, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 21st day of April A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 23d day of April A. D. 1883, at 1:15 o'clock p. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 2, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The Southeast quarter (se¼) of Section one (1,) Township one hundred and fifty-one (151,) Range forty-five (45,) in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 16th day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston Dec. 27th, A. D. 1884.
HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.
JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [36-42]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of five hundred forty-eight and 50-100 dollars, ($548.50-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Jacob Francis and Ellen Francis, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 21st day of August A. D. 1882 and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of August A. D. 1882, at 8 o'clock a. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 215, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case, made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot eight (8) in block seven (7,) of the Townsite of Crookston, according to the recorded plat thereof now on file in the office of the Register of Deeds, Polk County, Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances: which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 17th A. D. 1884.
HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.
JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

SHERIFF'S SALE.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Polk. } ss. District Court.
Morrison & Ledeboer, Plff.
vs.
The Red Lake Falls Milling & Lumber Co. Defts.

Notice is hereby given, That by virtue of an Execution to me directed and delivered, and now in my hands, issued out of the District Court Eleventh Judicial District, State of Minnesota, in and for the County of Polk upon a Judgment rendered in said Court in favor of Morrison & Ledeboer and against The Red Lake Falls Milling and Lumber Company, I have levied upon the following described real estate of said defendant, to-wit: The north portion of lot number eleven (11) Section fourteen, containing 12 60-100 acres, and lot number twelve (12,) Section fourteen, containing 38 60-100 acres and the southeast quarter (se¼) of the northeast quarter (ne¼) and the northwest quarter (nw¼) of the southeast quarter (se¼) and west one-half (w½) of the northeast quarter (ne¼) of Section fourteen (14,) Township one hundred and fifty-one (151,) Range forty-four (44,) Polk County, Minnesota, the above described property will be sold in lots or parcels. And that I shall, on Saturday the twenty-eight day of February A. D. 1885, at the hour of ten o'clock a. m., of said day, at the west front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, proceed to sell all the right, title and interest of the above-named Red Lake Falls Milling and Lumber Company in and to the above described property, to satisfy said judgment and costs, amounting to six hundred dollars and ten cents, together with all accruing costs of sale, and interest on the same from the second day of January, 1885, at the rate of seven per cent. per annum, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash.

PIERCE & WILKINSON,
Plaintiff's Attorneys.
W. F. ZWICKEY,
Sheriff of Polk Co., Minn.
Dated Crookston, Polk Co., Minn., January 10th 1885. [37-43]

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., Jan. 7th, 1885.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Peter J. Wilcen against Even Olson Enneberg for failure to comply with law as to Timber Culture Entry No. 1311 dated July 8th, 1879, upon the nw¼ S. 10, T. 147, R. 45, in Polk Co., Minn., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; contestant alleging the said Even Olson Enneberg failed to plant five acres of said land to trees, tree seeds or cuttings during either the third or fourth year after making said entry and that he has not now ten acres of trees growing on said land, also that claimant wholly failed in the year 1883 to cultivate the land which he claimed to have planted to tree seeds prior thereto, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 5th day of March 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged failure.

[37-43] JOHN CROMB, Register.

NEW LIVERY,

Feed and Sale

STABLES,

CORNER MAIN AND FOURTH STS.

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA

TERRY & COLLINS, Prop's.

☞ Good Turnouts at all times at reasonable prices. Good Hearse and careful driver when needed.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Polk. } ss. District Court, 11th Judicial District.

In the matter of the assignment of Ferdinand E. LePage and Joseph B. Papin copartners as LePage & Papin for benefit of creditors to Frank Jerome.

On reading the petition of the above named assignee and other records, papers and files in the above mentioned matter, ordered: That all persons interested in the assigned estate herein, show cause if any there be, before this court at special term, at the Court House, in the Village of Duluth, in the County of St. Louis, in the State of Minnesota on the 26th day of February A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of that day, why the accounts of the aforesaid assignee shall not be allowed, why all his acts and proceedings in the above entitled matter shall not be ratified and confirmed, why said assignee shall not receive a reasonable compensation for his services in said matter, why the submitted claim of Eddy Harvey & Co., (assigned) shall not be paid from said estate, why the amount each creditor is entitled to receive out of said estate should not be ascertained, and the petitioner directed to pay the same, and why after this has been done, the said assignee should not be fully, completely and forever discharged from the duties of his trust herein and from all liabilities thereunder, and why the bond of said assignee shall not be forever discharged and cancelled, and why such other and further or different order as the court shall deem just and proper shall not be granted.

Ordered that this order be published in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL a newspaper printed and published in the City of Crookston, in the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, once each week for three successive weeks and that at least twenty days before said return day a copy of this order be mailed to each and all of the creditors of said assignor and also to said assignors addressed to each at his or their place of residence.

Dated January 14th A. D. 1885.
O. P. STEARNS,
District Judge.
W. & J. WATTS,
Att'ys for Assignee, Crookston, Minn. [39-41]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Jan. 22d, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of six hundred forty-five and 50-100 dollars which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by J. Anderson Foord, an unmarried man, mortgagor to Fredrick Peterson and John Peterson, mortgagees bearing date the 21st day of May A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 29th day of May A. D. 1883, at 8:30 o'clock p. m., in book "R" of mortgages, on page 22, and whereas the undivided one-half interest in the said mortgage and the debt secured thereby was by the said Fredrick Peterson, one of said mortgagees, duly assigned in writing under his hand and seal to Harold Swenson and Peter Broberg "copartners" by assignment, dated July 31st 1884, which assignment was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of August 1884, at 1:20 o'clock p. m., in book "R" of mortgages on page 329, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof,

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The north one-half (n½) of the southeast one-fourth (se¼) and the east one-half (e½) of the southwest one-fourth (sw¼) of Section twenty-eight (28,) of Township one hundred and fifty-three (153), Range forty-three (43) containing one hundred and sixty acres according to government survey, said lot, piece, or parcel of land being situated in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the seventh day of March A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated, January 22d, A. D. 1885.
JOHN PETERSON,
Mortgagee.
HAROLD SWENSON AND PETER BROBERG,
Assignees of Fredrick Peterson.
B. F. JENNESS, Attorney. [39-45]

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Polk. } ss. District Court, 11th Judicial District.

In the matter of the assignment of Charles A. Chiniquy and Joseph Rudolph Chiniquy, copartners as C. A. & J. R. Chiniquy, for benefit of creditors to Morris R. Brown.

On reading the petition of the above named assignee and other records, papers and files in the above mentioned matter, ordered: That all persons interested in the assigned estate herein, show cause, if any there be, before this court, at special term, at the Court House, in the Village of Duluth, in the County of St. Louis and State of Minnesota, on Thursday the 26th day of February A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m., of that day, why the accounts of the aforesaid assignee shall not be allowed, why all his acts and proceedings in the above entitled matter shall not be ratified and confirmed, why said assignee shall not receive a reasonable compensation for his services in said matter, why the amount of each creditor who has filed proof of claims and the release provided by law is entitled to receive out of said estate should not be ascertained and the petitioner directed to pay the same, and why after this has been done, the said assignee should not be fully, completely and forever discharged from the duties of his trust herein and from all liabilities thereunder, and why the bond of said assignee shall not be forever discharged and cancelled, and why such other and further or different order as the court shall deem just and proper shall not be granted.

Ordered that this order be published in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL a newspaper printed and published in the City of Crookston, in the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, once each week for three successive weeks and that at least twenty days before said return day a copy of this order be mailed to each and all of the creditors of said assignor, and also to said assignors, addressed to each at his reputed place of residence.

Dated January 14th A. D. 1885.
O. P. STEARNS,
District Judge.
W. & J. WATTS,
Att'ys for Assignee, Crookston, Minn. [39-41]

Hack & Gallasch
ARE SELLING THEIR GOOCDDS
AT COST
For 30 days only. For Bargains Call Early

BERG & OLSON,
PRACTICAL WATCHMAKERS
AND DEALERS IN
CLOCKS,
WATCHES,
JEWELRY,
ROBERT STREET
CROOKSTON MINNESOTA

SEEDS AND PLANTS | PETER HENDERSON & Co.,

OUR ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE OF "EVERYTHING FOR THE GARDEN," full of valuable cultural directions, containing three colored plates, and embracing everything NEW and RARE in SEEDS and PLANTS, will be mailed on receipt of stamps to cover postage (6 cents.) To customers of last season sent FREE without application.

35 & 37 CORTLANDT ST.
NEW YORK.

Big Bonanza.

JOSEPH BARRETT

Has decided to Put on the Market his

ADDITION

TO THE

CITY OF CROOKSTON

Next adjoining the Crookston Driving Park. Parties desiring to purchase

CHOICE LOTS,

NOW IS YOUR TIME!

LOTS

For Sale Separately, or in

BLOCKS.

TERMS EASY!

Apply to the undersigned or at the office of C. B. Palmer, U. S. Land Office Building. Both English and French spoken.

JOSEPH BARRETT.

IF YOU

WANT A FINE JOB OF ANY KIND DONE IN THE

Watch or Jewelry Line

GO TO

C. H. SAAKE, - SECOND STREET.

You will get in deed and in fact,
Not simply in name, but in truth.

FINE WATCH REPAIRING A SPECIALTY.

C. H. SAAKE,
Practical Watchmaker, Jeweler and Optician, Crookston

To Country Merchants:

If you are compelled to keep School Books for sale, we can furnish them to you at the WHOLESALE PRICE without any additional cost for FREIGHT. If you want Pens, Pencils, Slates, Copy Books, &c., you will do well to buy them of us at BOTTOM PRIGES, for we have got the goods.

☞ Wholesale orders for Drugs, Medicines, &c., promptly shipped.

Respectfully,
POTTER & GEORGE,
Medical Hall,
Wholesale and Retail Druggists, Crookston.

Polk County Journal

Crookston, January 29, 1885.

RAILROAD TIME TABLE.

GOING NORTH.

	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
1 Passenger	10:45 p. m.	10:50 p. m.
5 Passenger	10:30 a. m.
19 Freight	12:30 a. m.
15 Freight	4:00 p. m.
23 Freight		10:30 a. m.

GOING SOUTH.

	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
No. 2 Passenger	4:00 a. m.	4:00 a. m.
10 Passenger		5:50 p. m.
20 Freight		7:00 a. m.
22 Freight		6:15 p. m.
24 Freight	5:00 p. m.

DEVIL'S LAKE LINE.

	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
No. 9 Passenger		10:20 a. m.
10 Passenger	5:30 p. m.
45 Freight		6:00 a. m.
46 Freight	7:00 p. m.

ST. HILAIRE BRANCH.

Trains leave Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 10:45 a. m., and arrive same days at 4:00 p. m.

Passenger Trains No's 1 and 2, Main Line run daily, except Sunday. No's 3 and 4 run daily. Devil's Lake Passenger runs daily. Freights No's 22, 20 and 24 run daily. Freights No's 15 and 22, and Freights on Devil's Lake Line run daily except Sunday.

City and County Directory.

We wish to make this directory as reliable as possible, and consequently request all parties interested to notify us of any changes in their respective announcements.

U. S. LAND OFFICE.

John Cromb............Register.
I. K. Aaker............Receiver.
Office hours from 8:30 a. m. to 12 m., and from 2:00 to 4:30 p. m.

MEMBER OF CONGRESS.

Knute Nelson............Alexandria.

DISTRICT COURT.

O. P. Stearns, Judge............Duluth.

STATE SENATOR.

Halvor Steenerson............Crookston.

REPRESENTATIVE.

A. H. Baker............Ada.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

R. J. Montague............Judge of Probate.
T. C. Shapleigh............Clerk of Court.
C. S. Spendley............Register of Deeds.
P. J. McGuire............Auditor.
O. H. Lucken............Treasurer.
John Leo............Court Commissioner.
Wm. Watts............Attorney.
V. D. Carruth............Supt. of Schools.
W. F. Zwickey............Sheriff.
H. Shephard............Coroner.
C. L. Brainard............Surveyor.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Knute Nelson—1st Dist............Aldal.
E. A. Bradish—2d............Fisher.
M. R. Brown—3d............Crookston.
C. Kretzschmar—4th............Red Lake Falls.
T. Sullivan—5th............East Grand Forks.

CITY OFFICIALS.

Mayor............R. M. Walsh.
Recorder............W. D. Hurlbut.
Treasurer............A. G. Gallasch.
Justices............G. W. Lewis, J. W. Lilly.
Ald.—1st Ward............Ole Bang, L. Fontaine.
—2d............Henry Nolan, P. Batiglia.
—3d............N. P. Stone, W. Walker.
—4th............S. P. Markham, C. A. Chiniquy.
—at large............T. Houston.
City Attorney............J. N. Ives.
City Engineer............W. D. Hurlbut.
Marshal............J. Dowling.
Deputy Marshal............J. B. Filiatrault, Ole Bjoin.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

PRESBYTERIAN—Corner Broadway and Fifth street. Rev. R. L. Adams, Pastor. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 m. Prayer meeting in church every Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

Methodist Episcopal Church—Corner of Main and Fourth streets. Rev. J. C. Gullette, Ph. D. Pastor. Services every Sabbath at 11 a. m. And 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30.

EPISCOPAL—Ash street, head of Second street. Rev. S. Currie, Rector. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Sunday School at 2:00 p. m.

CONGREGATIONAL—Rev. C. E. Page, Pastor. Corner Third and Ash streets. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at noon.

BAPTIST—Rev. H. L. House, Pastor. Second street, between Broadway and Ash streets. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12:15 p. m. Young people's meeting from 6:15 to 7:15. Services always closed in time to allow those present to attend their own churches. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. A cordial invitation to all. Friday evening at 7, teacher's meeting at different homes.

CATHOLIC—Ash street. C. A. S. DeCarufel, Pastor. Services every Sunday at 8:30 and 10:30 a. m. 3:00 p. m.

CARMAN.

BAPTIST—F. K. Roberts, Pastor. Services in Baptist Block at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at noon. Prayer meeting Thursday evening.

SOCIETIES.

HIRAM LODGE, No. 73, A. O. U. W.—Meets in K. P. Hall, Second and Fourth Thursday of each month.
C. H. MIX, M. W.
F. BEHLMER, Secretary.

PIERSON CHAPTER, R. A. M.—Meets in Masonic Hall, First and Third Monday of each month.
T. C. SHAPLEIGH, H. P.
O. H. LUCKEN, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 79, I. O. O. F.—Meets every Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows Hall, over Post Office.
P. M. SCHWARK, N. G.
R. B. GATES, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 1,409, K. of H.—Meets the First and Third Monday evening of each month, in Losey's Hall, Main street.
T. A. HARRIS, Dictator.
JAS. BUTLER, Reporter.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 141, A. F. & A. M.—Meets on the Second and Fourth Saturday evening of each month, in Masonic Hall.
W. D. HURLBUT, W. M.
GEO. D. BUCKNAM, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 25, K. of P.—Meets every Friday evening in K. of P. Hall, on Broadway.
C. W. BARNES, C. C.
W. B. DAWLEY, K. of R. & S.

Taxpayers

Of Polk County are hereby notified that I will be at the following places at the dates specified herein for the purpose of collecting current taxes, to-wit:

Angus, Monday afternoon, Jan. 26.
Euclid, Tuesday, Jan. 27.
East Grand Forks, Wednesday afternoon and Thursday, Jan. 28 and 29.
Mallory, Friday, Jan. 30.
Fisher, Saturday, Jan. 31.
St. Hilaire, Thursday afternoon and Friday, Feb. 5 and 6.
Red Lake Falls, Saturday, Feb. 7.
Terrebonne, Monday, Feb. 9.
Maple Bay, Saturday, Feb. 14.
Menton P. O., Monday, Feb. 16.
Ada, Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday, Feb. 17 and 18.
Edna, Thursday afternoon, Feb. 19.

O. H. LUCKEN,
County Treasurer, Polk County.

[illegible]

TO PARTIES DESIRING INSURANCE!

We represent the following old and reliable Fire Insurance Companies:

	Assets.
Ætna	9,182,644
American	1,804,519
Fire Association	4,279,676
Underwriters	3,699,794
Orient	1,411,804
Phœnix	5,910,403
Lancashire	6,787,988
Milwaukee Mech	1,129,875
Germania	2,700,729

Having represented nearly all of the above companies for 14 years we have acquainted ourselves with the business, and think that we can justly claim the patronage of the public, who can depend upon having insurance written correctly and losses adjusted promptly.

MOSER & MOECKEL.

Notice of Dissolution.

Notice is hereby given that the firm of Harry G. Proud and George G. McDonell, doing business as Proud & McDonell, is hereby dissolved by mutual consent. The debts of said firm will be paid, and all accounts owing said firm collected by George G. McDonell.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 2d, 1885.

HARRY G. PROUD,
[38-40] GEORGE G. MCDONELL.

The business of the above firm will be continued at the old stand by Geo. G. Macdonell, who invites a continuation of the patronage of the many old customers and friends of the old firm.

GEO. G. MACDONELL.

John Knappe.

General Agent in the Red River Valley of the Netherlands American Land Company, of Amsterdam, Holland.

Money to loan on good real estate security, on time to suit the borrower. Office over Merchants Bank. [1-tf]

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Polk. } ss.

The State of Minnesota, to Ed. Garceau Defendant:

You are hereby summoned to be and appear before the undersigned, one of the Justices of the Peace in and for said County, on the eighteenth day of February 1885, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, at my office in the Crookston in said County, to answer to John Moser & Ernest Moeckel co-partners as Moser & Moeckel in a civil action. Should you fail to appear at the time and place aforesaid, judgment will be rendered against you upon the evidence adduced by said Moser & Moeckel for such sum as they shall show themselves entitled to.

Given under my hand this 14th day of January 1885.

G. W. LEWIS,
[38-41] Justice of the Peace.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Polk. } In Probate Court. Special Term, December 1884.

In the matter of the estate of Orido Laplante deceased.

Whereas, an instrument in writing, purporting to be the last will and testament of Orido Laplante deceased, late of said county, has been delivered to this Court.

And whereas Rose Laplante has filed therewith her petition, representing among other things that said Orido Laplante died in said county on the fifteenth day of December, 1884, testate, and that said petitioner is the sole executrix named in said last will and testament, and praying that the said instrument may be admitted to probate, and that letters testamentary be to her issued thereon.

It is ordered, that the proofs of said instrument, and the said petition, be heard before this Court, at the Probate office in said county, on the ninth day of February A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock in afternoon, when all concerned may appear and contest the probate of said instrument.

And it is further ordered, that public notice of the time and place of said hearing be given to all persons interested, by publication of these orders for three weeks successively previous to said day of hearing, in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL a newspaper printed and published at the City of Crookston in said county.

By the Court.

ROBERT J. MONTAGUE,
[38-40] Judge of Probate.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred eighty-one and 38-100 dollars ($181.38-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Sophia Busch and Henry Busch, her husband, to Henry Hammond, bearing date the 14th day of December A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 20th day of December A. D. 1883, at 10:20 o'clock a. m. in book "N" of mortgages, on page 332, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lots numbered twenty-two (22), twenty-three (23,) and twenty-four (24,) in block No. three (3) of Bottineau's addition to the Townsite of Red Lake Falls, County of Polk and State of Minnesota, according to the certified plat of said addition recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in Polk County, Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston in said County and State on the 2d day of February, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMOND,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of [illegible] dollars ($176.68-100,) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Moise Thisert, a single man, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 10th day of April A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the [illegible] day of April A. D. 1883, at 11 o'clock a. m. in book [illegible] of mortgages, on pages [illegible] and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage [illegible] one hundred and seventy five (175) feet on Elm street, [illegible] Sixth Street [illegible] of Crookston, Polk County, Minnesota, according to the [illegible]

[illegible]

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Polk. } ss. In Probate Court. Special Term, January 9th 1885.

In the matter of the estate of Henry Witty, deceased.

Whereas, an instrument in writing, purporting to be the last will and testament of Henry Witty, deceased, late of said county, has been delivered to this Court.

And whereas, Christ Olson has filed therewith his petition, representing among other things that said Henry Witty, died in said county on the sixth day of December 1884, testate, and that said petitioner is one of the executors named in said last will and testament, and praying that the said instrument may be admitted to probate, and that letters testamentary be to him and to Andrew Olson issued thereon.

It is ordered, that the proofs of said instrument, and the said petition, be heard before this Court, at the Probate office in said county, on the ninth day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, when all concerned may appear and contest the probate of said instrument.

And it is further ordered, that public notice of the time and place of said hearing be given to all persons interested, by publication of these orders for three weeks successively, previous to said day of hearing, in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL a newspaper printed and published at the City of Crookston in said county.

By the Court.

ROBERT J. MONTAGUE,
[39-41] Judge of Probate.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First Publication Jan. 22d, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of eighteen hundred and eighty-seven 65-100 dollars ($1887.65-100) which is claimed to be due, and is due, at the date of this notice, upon two certain promissory notes secured by a mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Polina Angelise McIntyre and H. D. McIntyre, to Morris R. Brown, bearing date the eleventh day of November A. D. 1882, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 27th day of November A. D. 1882, at 11 o'clock a. m., in book "I" of mortgages on page 4?0, which mortgage was for a good and valuable consideration on the 23d day of February A. D. 1883 duly assigned to Joseph Kelso, and said assignment duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County on the 27th day of February A. D. 1883, in book "K" of mortgages on pages 260 and 261 and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: Lot number nineteen (19) Block number sixteen (16) in the original Townsite of Crookston according to a plat of said Townsite, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars ($50) attorney's fee as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, which sale will be made by Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State on the 14th day of March A. D. 1885, at 10:30 o'clock a. m. of said day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated January 20th 1885.

JOSEPH KELSO, Assignee.
[39-45] Pro Se.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred eighty and 82-100 dollars ($28?.82-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph L. Daoust and Hermina Daoust, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 16th day of June A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 20th day of June A. D. 1883, at 10 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 63, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Beginning at a point fifty (50) feet west of the north east corner of the block or parcel of land in lot seven (7,) in Section thirty-six (36,) Township one hundred and fifty (150,) of Range forty-seven (47,) bounded on the north by the street running west from the county bridge across the Red Lake River to the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railroad track, and on the east by the county road running south from said bridge, thence south one hundred (100) feet, thence west about one hundred and fifty (150) feet to the said railroad track, thence northerly one hundred (100) feet along said railroad track, and thence east about one hundred and fifty (150) feet to the place of beginning, in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of one hundred eighty-one and 38-100 dollars ($181.38-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Sophie Busch and Henry Busch, her husband, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 5th day of July A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of November A. D. 1883, at 4 o'clock p. m. in book "N" of mortgages, on page 78, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter (ne¼) of Section No. thirty-three (33) in Township No. one hundred and fifty (150) north, of Range No. forty-four (44) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres more or less in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston in said County and State, on the 2d day of February, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th, 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of [illegible]

[illegible]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 25th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred seventy-two and 24-100 dollars ($372.24-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Alken Dumas and Emily Dumas his wife to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 1st day of July A. D. 1881, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 5th day of July A. D. 1882, at 4:30 o'clock p. m. in book "H" of mortgages, on page 127, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northwest quarter (nw¼) of Section twenty-six (26) Township one hundred and fifty (150) north of Range forty-four (44) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres more or less, in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston in said County and State, on the 9th day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston Dec. 20th, A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [35-41]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Jan. 1st 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred eighty-four and 81-100 dollars ($384.81-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Albert D. Berry and Clorinthe Berry, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 21st day of April A. D. 1882, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 22d day of April A. D. 1882, at 1:15 o'clock p. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page [illegible], and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The Southeast quarter (se¼) of Section one (1,) Township one hundred and fifty-one (151,) Range forty-five (45,) in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 16th day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston Dec. 27th, A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [36-42]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of five hundred forty-eight and 50-100 dollars ($548.50-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Jacob Francis and Ellen Francis, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 21st day of August A. D. 1882 and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 22d day of August A. D. 1882, at 3 o'clock p. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 310, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot eight (8,) in block seven (7,) of the Townsite of Crookston, according to the recorded plat thereof now on file in the office of the Register of Deeds, Polk County, Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, at provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.

JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [34-40]

SHERIFF'S SALE.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Polk. } ss. District Court.

Morrison & Ledeboer, Plff.
vs.
The Red Lake Falls Milling & Lumber Co. Defts.

Notice is hereby given, That by virtue of an Execution to me directed and delivered, and now in my hands, issued out of the District Court Eleventh Judicial District, State of Minnesota, in and for the County of Polk upon a judgment rendered in said Court, in favor of Morrison & Ledeboer and against The Red Lake Falls Milling and Lumber Company, I have levied upon the following described real estate of said defendant, to-wit: The north portion of lot number eleven (11) Section fourteen, containing 12 64-100 acres, and lot number twelve (12,) Section fourteen, containing 38 60-100 acres and the southeast quarter (se¼) of the northeast quarter (ne¼) and the northwest quarter (nw¼) of the southeast quarter (se¼) and west one-half (w½) of the northeast quarter (ne¼) of Section fourteen (14), Township one hundred and fifty-one (151,) Range forty-four (44,) Polk County, Minnesota. The above described property will be sold in lots or parcels. And that I shall, on Saturday the twenty-eight day of February A. D. 1885, at the hour of ten o'clock a. m. of said day at the west front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, proceed to sell all the right, title and interest of the above named Red Lake Falls Milling and Lumber Company in and to the above described property, to satisfy said judgment and costs, amounting to six hundred dollars and ten cents, together with all accruing costs of sale, and interest on the same from the second day of January 1885 at the rate of seven per cent. per annum, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash.

[illegible]

Plaintiff's Attorneys.

W. F. ZWICKEY,
Sheriff of Polk Co., Minn.

Dated Crookston, Polk Co., Minn., January 10th 1885. [38-44]

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Crookston, Minn. [illegible]

Complaint having been entered at this office by [illegible] against [illegible] for failure to comply with law as to Timber Culture [illegible] [illegible] Polk Co. Minnesota, with a view to the cancellation of said entry, contestant alleging that said [illegible] failed to plant [illegible] acres of said land to trees, tree seeds or cuttings during either the third or fourth year after making said entry, and that he has not now [illegible] [illegible] the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the [illegible] 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged failure.

[illegible]

NEW LIVERY,

Feed and Sale

STABLES,

[illegible]

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

TERRY & [illegible], Props.

Good Turnouts [illegible] reasonable prices. Good [illegible] and careful drivers when needed.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Polk. } ss. District Court, 11th Judicial District.

In the matter of the assignment of Ferdinand E. LePage and Joseph B. Papin, copartners as LePage & Papin for benefit of creditors to Frank Jerome.

On reading the petition of the above named assignee and other records, papers and files in the above mentioned matter, ordered: That all persons interested in the assigned estate herein, show cause if any there be, before this court at special term, at the Court House, in the Village of Duluth, in the County of St. Louis, in the State of Minnesota, on the 26th day of February A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of that day, why the accounts of the aforesaid assignee shall not be allowed, why all his acts and proceedings in the above entitled matter shall not be ratified and confirmed, why said assignee shall not receive a reasonable compensation for his services in said matter, why the submitted claim of Eddy Harvey & Co. (assigned) shall not be paid from said estate, why the amount each creditor is entitled to receive out of said estate should not be ascertained and the petitioner directed to pay the same, and why after this has been done, the said assignee should not be fully, completely and forever discharged from the duties of his trust herein and from all liabilities thereunder, and why the bond of said assignee shall not be forever discharged and cancelled, and why such other and further or different order as the court shall deem just and proper shall not be granted.

Ordered that this order be published in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL a newspaper printed and published in the City of Crookston, in the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, once each week for three successive weeks and that at least twenty days before said return day a copy of this order be mailed to each and all of the creditors of said assignor and also to said assignors addressed to each at his or their place of residence.

Dated January 14th A. D. 1885.

O. P. STEARNS,
District Judge.

W. & J. WATTS,
Att'ys for Assignee, Crookston, Minn. [39-41]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Jan. 22d, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of six hundred forty-five and 50-100 dollars which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by J. Anderson Foord, an unmarried man, mortgagor to Fredrick Peterson, and John Peterson, mortgagees bearing date the 21st day of May A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 29th day of May A. D. 1883, at 8:10 o'clock p. m. in book "R" of mortgages, on page 24, and whereas the undivided one-half interest in the said mortgage and the debt secured thereby was by the said Fredrick Peterson, one of said mortgagees, duly assigned in writing under his hand and seal to Harold Swenson and Peter Broberg "copartners" by assignment, dated July 31st, 1884, which assignment was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of August 1884, at 1:20 o'clock p. m., in book "R" of mortgages on page 320, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The north one-half (n½) of the southeast one-fourth (se¼) and the east one-half (e½) of the southwest one-fourth (sw¼) of Section twenty-eight (28,) of Township one hundred and fifty-three (153), Range forty-three (43,) containing one hundred and sixty acres according to government survey, said lot, piece, or parcel of land being situated in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the seventh day of March A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated, January 22d, A. D. 1885.

JOHN PETERSON,
Mortgagee,

HAROLD SWENSON AND PETER BROBERG,
Assignees of Fredrick Peterson.

B. F. JENKINS, Attorney. [39-45]

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Polk. } ss. District Court, 11th Judicial District.

In the matter of the assignment of Charles A. Chiniquy and Joseph Rudolph Chiniquy, copartners as C. A. & J. R. Chiniquy, for benefit of creditors to Morris R. Brown.

On reading the petition of the above named assignee and other records, papers and files in the above mentioned matter, ordered: That all persons interested in the assigned estate herein, show cause, if any there be, before this court, at special term, at the Court House, in the Village of Duluth, in the County of St. Louis, and State of Minnesota, on Thursday the 26th day of February A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m., of that day, why the accounts of the aforesaid assignee shall not be allowed, why all his acts and proceedings in the above entitled matter shall not be ratified and confirmed, why said assignee shall not receive a reasonable compensation for his services in said matter, why the amount of each creditor who has filed proof of claims and the release provided by law is entitled to receive out of said estate should not be ascertained, and the petitioner directed to pay the same, and why after this has been done, the said assignee should not be fully, completely and forever discharged from the duties of his trust herein and from all liabilities thereunder, and why the bond of said assignee shall not be forever discharged and cancelled, and why such other and further or different order as the court shall deem just and proper shall not be granted.

Ordered that this order be published in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL a newspaper printed and published in the City of Crookston, in the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, once each week for three successive weeks and that at least twenty days before said return day, a copy of this order be mailed to each and all of the creditors of said assignor, and also to said assignors, addressed to each at his reputed place of residence.

Dated January 14th A. D. 1885.

O. P. STEARNS,
District Judge.

W. & J. WATTS,
Att'ys for Assignee, Crookston, Minn. [39-41]

Hack & Gallasch

ARE SELLING THEIR GOODS

AT COST

For 30 days only. For Bargains call [illegible]

BERG & OLSON,

PRACTICAL WATCHMAKERS

AND DEALERS IN

CLOCKS,

WATCHES,

JEWELRY.

[illegible] STREET,

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

SEEDS | PETER HENDERSON & Co.,
P L A N T S
OUR ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE or "EVERYTHING FOR THE GARDEN," full of valuable cultural directions, containing three colored plates, and embracing everything NEW and RARE in SEEDS and PLANTS, will be mailed on receipt of stamps to cover postage (6 cents.) To customers of last season sent FREE without application.
35 & 37 CORTLANDT ST.
NEW YORK.

Big Bonanza.

JOSEPH BARRETT

Has decided to Put on the Market his

ADDITION

TO THE

CITY OF CROOKSTON

Next adjoining the Crookston Driving Park. Parties desiring to purchase

CHOICE LOTS,

NOW IS YOUR TIME!

LOTS

For Sale Separately, or in

BLOCKS.

TERMS EASY!

Apply to the undersigned or at the office of C. B. Palmer, U. S. Land Office Building. Both English and French spoken.

JOSEPH BARRETT.

IF YOU

WANT A FINE JOB OF ANY KIND DONE IN THE

Watch or Jewelry Line

GO TO

C. H. SAAKE, - SECOND STREET.

You will get in deed and in fact,
Not simply in name, but in truth.

FINE WATCH REPAIRING A SPECIALTY.

C. H. SAAKE,
Practical Watchmaker, Jeweler and Optician, Crookston.

To Country Merchants:

If you are compelled to keep School Books for sale, we can furnish them to you at the WHOLESALE PRICE, without any additional cost for FREIGHT. If you want Pens, Pencils, Slates, Copy Books, &c., you will do well to buy them of us at BOTTOM PRICES, for we have got the goods.

Wholesale orders for Drugs, Medicines, &c., promptly shipped.

Respectfully,

POTTER & GEORGE,
Medical Hall,
Wholesale and Retail Druggists, Crookston.

The Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Proprietor.

DEVOTED TO THE WELFARE OF POLK COUNTY.

VOL. VIII. CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINNESOTA, FEBRUARY 5, 1885. TERMS—$1.50 Per Annum. NO. 41.

Polk County Journal.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

H. E. COOKE, Editor and Proprietor.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance, to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

ADVERTISING RATES.

SPACE.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 m.	2 m	6 m.	1 year
¼ inch	50	$1 00	$1 15	$1 50	$3 00	4 50	$ 6 00
1 inch	75	1 25	1 75	2 00	5 50	6 00	10 00
2 inches	1 50	2 25	3 00	3 50	6 50	9 50	15 00
3 inches	1 75	2 75	3 75	4 50	9 50	13 50	20 00
4 inches	2 50	3 50	4 50	5 50	10 00	10 00	25 00
inches	3 00	4 00	5 00	6 00	12 50	20 00	30 00
¼ column	3 50	5 50	5 50	6 50	15 00	25 00	35 00
½ column	6 00	7 50	10 00	12 00	20 00	35 00	50 00
1 column	9 50	12 50	15 00	18 00	35 00	60 00	100 00

Entered at the Post Office in Crookston as Second Class matter.

Detroit Surprise: The Minnesota House of Representatives have passed a memorial to Congress for a liberal appropriation for the improvement of the Mississippi and Red Rivers. If they would follow up this by passing a memorial asking for an appropriation towards a canal from Duluth to the Red River they would please everybody in northern Minnesota.

Endorsed Again.

That 7 per cent. bill, which the P. P. made our Senator, Steenerson, the parent of was the hell-thy infant of Senator Peterson. THE JOURNAL emphatically condemned the bill and the Senate promptly and effectually sat right down upon the head of the bill the very first moment it showed itself above water. It is well. Requies-cat in pace.

Score One for Steenerson.

Pending discussion of the new insane asylum bill Senator Steenerson offered an amendment making the appropriation to the commissioner fund $1,000 instead of $3,000. This met with so much opposition that Steenerson withdrew it, remarking that "any country that would raise No. 1 Hard wheat for 50 cents per bushel needed an insane asylum and he would not throw any obstacles in the way to prevent their getting it."

Canning Versus Pillsbury.

Pending the joint discussion between the Dakota delegates and ours, on the wheat question, our Representative, Chas. Canning, crossed swords with the high mogul of the Ring, Senator Pillsbury. The P. P. has the following account of it:

Senator Pillsbury then read a few remarks hastily committed to paper, for fear that without notes he should be led into saying something strong, so deep were his feelings on the subject.

He felt deeply indignant at the agitation which had been created by demagogues and professional agitators. Demagogues and blatherskites in Northern Dakota and Minnesota had awakened a storm of sentiment against the elevators and the millers' association. In 90 per cent. of all cases investigated the grievances have proved to be imaginary. Dishonest employes of elevator companies might occasionally do up a farmer, but in the majority of cases the farmers were endeavoring to defraud the elevator men. He then proceeded to rebuke the agitators, and stated that the Minneapolis millers had built up Northern Dakota and Minnesota by bridging over chasm between the price of Minnesota spring wheat and winter wheat. The difference had formerly been from 20 to 30 cents. He then stated a number of propositions going to show that the farmers were as well treated as they had any right to expect and that the millers are a long suffering and much maligned class. The appointment of a State inspector at every elevator in the State was insisted upon. He deprecated the use of small elevators and warehouses as being financially unsafe and liable to entail a loss upon farmers holding their tickets.

Mr. Canning made a few remarks in reply to Mr. Pillsbury, in which he said he was not prepared to answer arguments which had been carefully prepared.

He said he was a very ignorant man, so ignorant that he scarcely knew the meaning of the word "demagogue." But he did know that he is a representative farmer of the Red River Valley, which raises from nine million the ten million bushels of wheat annually. At his town a year ago there was an inspector who graded 50,000 bushels of wheat as No. 1, which on reaching Minneapolis graded as No. 1 hard. This man was under bonds to stand grades and weights, and adopted this course to make himself safe. He alluded to the fact that wheat is being hauled over the line to Emerson, paying a tariff of 15 cents and bringing a higher price than can be obtained in Minnesota. If the millers' association is such a manifest blessing, how can this state of things exist? The railroad companies and the millers' association go hand in hand to crush the life out of the farmers. Gentlemen, if you bankrupt us you bankrupt yourselves.

Affairs in the Northwest.

In the Pioneer Press of Jan. 28th, we notice an article by D. S. Johnston, of St. Paul, on affairs in the Northwest from which we make the following extract:

"But raising wheat is not all that the Northwest is good for. Millions of bushels of corn, oats, potatoes and flax seed are also raised here. But there is still another industry rapidly coming to the front which promises to dwarf even wheat raising in comparison. This is the dairy interest. One hundred and sixty-one varieties of grasses suitable for forage grow here, and a sample of each is now on exhibition at the world's exhibition in New Orleans. Twenty-eight million pounds of butter were made in the creameries of this State alone during the year ending Nov. 1st, 1884—an increase of nearly 800,000 pounds over 1883. In creamery neighborhoods there has been no stringency of money the past year. That some of the newer parts of the Northwest are now suffering from the effects of low prices no one can attempt to deny. There is much extravagance and lack of adaptation in the early years of every new territory. This is especially true in this case. The trouble up here, however, is merely local, and really confined to narrow limits. Taking the Northwest as a whole, there is not a section of country in America, East or west, North or South, that has better prospects, or shows more activity or signs of substantial growth and progress. St. Paul, the financial gateway where the Northwest pays tribute, reports at the close of 1884, the astonishing fact that her bank capital and surplus aggregate nearly $8,000,000—an increase of nearly $100,000 since 1883. In bank exchange there is a total of $103,962,305—an increase of $279,286 since 1883. That the Northwest could go through wild-cat times that followed 1857, when wheat sold below the cost of production four years in succession; then quell the savage Indian outbreak of 1862, and drive the whole Sioux nation beyond the Missouri; then repeople a frontier almost wholly depopulated by the terrible massacre of that year, and at the same time fully supply its quota of soldiers in the great civil war, and pay heavier interest and larger mortgages than the Dakota farmer now pays; then stand the financial depression of 1874 and breast the ebbing tide which came of that, and then meet the grasshopper scourge of 1876-77 and '78, and come out of all with such favorable results as we see around us to-day, is the surest kind of guarantee that everything is not going to the dogs up here because wheat in remote settlements happens to average but a few cents over cost of production from September 1st to December 31st, 1884.

AS TO THE MORTGAGES.

I have devoted my entire time during the past ten years to placing farm mortgages in the Northwest. At present we have nearly 5,000 of these mortgages on our books. The average of all the loans we have made in Minnesota and Iowa is less than $3 an acre. Of those we have placed in Iowa the average is but little over $2 an acre. Our loans in Dakota are mostly on double minimum land, which costs at the start from the government nearly $3 an acre. Whether in Minnesota, Iowa or Dakota, our loads are confined almost wholy to improved farms near to railroads. We loan in Dakota as we do in other widely separated fields of the Northwest, to equalize the risk—the same principle upon which a successful fire or life insurance company is conducted. Now mark our experience in this business. We carried our loans through the depression following 1874, and the loss of crops in the Northwest caused by grasshoppers in 1876-77 and '78, and up to this time have never lost one dollar. But this is not all. Our interest, as a whole, has not been paid so promptly in ten years as it is being paid this winter. For about ten years after I came to this country it was the general opinion of the South and East that Minnesota was "too cold for corn." But multiplied millions of bushels of Minnesota corn are now annually heaped upon the grave of that mistake. Then, after over twenty years of the wasteful, slip-shod habits of wheat farming to which the Northwest has been addicted, it came to be said that the soil up here was becoming too much exhausted for wheat production. Minnesota, finding her reputation at stake, replies in 1884 with more millions of bushels and as large an average per acre as in any single year since the State was settled. We next hear that India and the Soudan and all the rest of the world are on the way with their soft wheat to extinguish our "No. 1 hard." But, as in the past, this year with its low prices will also go, and be followed by a lessened acreage of wheat culture on lands which can grow only the softer, cheaper varieties, and the low priced lands of the Northwest, where the high-priced No. 1 hard wheat is at home, will again come to the front and the wheat belt will move on till it passes into and beyond the valley of the Saskatchawan, and reaches at last the line where frosty summers put their ban on its further progress. The old battle of the "survival of the fittest" may and doubtless will have to be fought over again on these Northwestern prairies, but we have a corner on the best wheat of the world up here, and when it comes to the "survival" we are not at all alarmed about who will be the "fittest." As if to render what Mr. Johnston says about butter more emphatic a telegram from New Orleans says that Minnesota has taken the grand sweepstakes prize for the best butter in the world! [ED JOURNAL.]

AVERAGE RESULTS THE BEST.

Form the Breeder's Gazette.

The article "More Light Wanted" in The Gazette of Jan. 15 touches upon a matter of interest to a very large class of its readers, and treats it in a manner I have advocated for years.

The sensational reports of wonderful growth and astonishing milk yields published from time to time to attract attention to a particular breed or family are utterly valueless to practical men without all the facts of feed and management.

The value of any of the improved breeds of cattle depends wholly on their ability to economically assimilate food to the production of either beef or dairy products, and when immense weights and enormous yields are obtained by means or practices which are not only injurious to the animal and her progeny, but unprofitable, except to that class of speculators who adopt this means to boom a particular family and obtain prices out of all proportion to their real value, they intentionally defraud their patrons, and should be classed with quacks.

My interests and experience in cattle are, and have been, exclusively with Holsteins for thirteen years. My introduction to the breed was in the interest of a wealthy gentleman in Massachusetts who owned a fancy farm for pleasure. My first impressions were that Holsteins were greatly overrated. That herd had been kept on the high-pressure, "big-record" system till the folly of it had been shown by the too heavy balance on the wrong side of the ledger; then the opposite extreme had been followed till the herd was reduced to such condition that when I took them—March 1, 1872—they were simply a lot of skeletons, giving a small quantity of milk, and I would gladly have exchanged them for a like number of ordinary natives.

A judicious course of feeding for practical results, however, ere long showed me the real value of the Holstein, and forced the conviction upon my mind that it was the best combined beef and dairy breed in the world, which conviction has grown with my experience until I can challenge successful contradiction.

I commenced feeding a liberal amount of hay, but never allowed them to cram themselves; increased their grain gradually till their daily rations were four quarts of corn-meal and eight quarts of wheat-bran. They quickly responded to the treatment both in flesh and milk. That quantity of grain was continued after they went to grass till the pastures were strong, then it was gradually reduced one-half.

The cows gave an abundant flow of milk all the summer and fall, and came to the barn at stabling time in fine condition. Then the spring allowance of grain was renewed, with the addition of a few roots, but the allowance of hay was cut short a little.

My course was first a feed of long hay at 7 o'clock in the morning after milking, grain following, then roots, afterwards hay and water; the floor was then swept clean, and the cows had no more till 4 p. m., when they were again watered and fed grain, followed with hay, which was finished at 7 p. m., and all was over for the night. I made it my business to stand by, feeding hay a little at a time till the feeding was over.

After the first week of this course of feeding I could go through the stable as often as I liked, carrying hay, grain or roots, after the cows had laid down, and not one would rise; but if I were not promptly on hand at feeding-time they called, and it was perfect bedlam till I came.

I never carried a stock of cattle so cheaply through a winter before, and yet the cows kept up a heavy flow of milk and held their flesh. As they began to dry off I cut their grain down one-fourth to one-half, according to the condition of the cow. Several of them, however, milked up to the day of calving, others were forced dry only two or three weeks; those that had six to eight weeks' rest became fat.

Several cows that had been reported to me as worthless proved to be extra good ones under this treatment. One in particular was a large and well-formed half-blood three-year-old that I offered for $45 before calving and not taken. On a small allowance of grain she became good beef, and after the next calving she showed a great improvement in milk and soon went up to sixty pounds per day, and I sold her for $165.

I have never entered the race for big records, regardless of the means, nor will I; but I am heartily with those who are determined to place these cattle in the high rank they are entitled to occupy by honorable, practical means, and I feel a just pride in the success we have thus far had. I am not so much surprised at the course followed by amateurs who have engaged in the business and are vieing with each other in publishing extravagant records, but withholding particulars, as I am at the avidity with which the statements are swallowed by many.

Milking cows three times a day and resorting to every known trick to extract a larger yield may be well enough to prove what a cow is capable of merely as a curiosity, but when the important particulars of feed and managements are suppressed and the record is used to "bull" the market in the interest of a particular family and dupe the uninitiated into paying prices out of all proportion to their real value, the transaction becomes criminal in that it not only injures the interests of honorable breeders but those of the country at large.

Hundreds of unsuspecting farmers and dairymen have purchased Holsteins during the past four years on the strength of high records that have been published, expecting they could obtain nearly or quite the same results with ordinary means, and on failing utterly have condemned the breed and its promoters as humbugs, and by asserting their conviction impeded the progress of a worthy cause.

Again, the cramming system works great injury and loss. A cow that is run on the high-pressure plan becomes diseased and all her functions weakened, and she not only fails herself, but produces diseased and effeminate off-spring, which are sold at fancy prices, and if bred from perpetuates, perhaps fixes, the disease or weakness on her progeny.

My first year's experience with Holsteins satisfied me that the west was their field, and I came out with my first lot in 1873. At that time they were known to but a very few farmers; now there is scarcely a town in northern Illinois, southern Wisconsin and Iowa that has not numerous dairymen who have nearly or quite doubled the value of their herds by the introduction of Holstein blood, and the same is true of parts of Michigan, Minnesota, Kansas and Nebraska. I was recently in the stable of one of my earliest patrons who showed me one cow and five of her offspring that he could rely upon to give him a can (thirty-two quarts) per day each for quite a long time, fed in the ordinary way of his dairy and milked twice a day only.

By a singular coincidence I opened the following letter just after reading your article entitled "More Light Wanted," and I at once decided to send it to you, without the gentleman's permission, thinking it might "bring the breeder and farmer closer," as you suggest. Mr. Wilson is a practical dairyman, who sees personally after his business, and does not take his hired help's say-so for his statements:

PLYMOUTH, Wis., Jan. 14, 1885: —Geo. E. Brown & Co., Aurora, Ill.: In reply to yours of Jan. 9, I would say, in view of the large yields of milk some are reporting, I have nothing valuable to offer, and yet I am well satisfied myself. For the year 1884 Sylph has given in one day 69¼ lbs; in thirty consecutive days, 1,655¼ lbs.; and in two hundred and seventy-five days, 10,760 lbs.; and for the years 1881, 1882, 1883 and 1884 Sylph has averaged 10,152 lbs. a year. For the year 1884 Zada, with her second calf, has given in one day 59¼ lbs.; in thirty consecutive days, 1,680¼ lbs.; and in two hundred and seventy-five days, 10,500 lbs. Carmeline, with her second calf, as a three-year-old, has given in one day 58 lbs.; in thirty days, 1,585¼ lbs.; and in two hundred and fifty-one days, 9,094¼ lbs. —Carmeline being due to calve in ten and one-half months from the time she dropped her calf in 1884. My cows are only milked twice a day, and never forced, having only fair dairy keep.

R. R. WILSON.

As evidence of the combination of milk and beef of the Holsteins I will refer to the bits of gossip in The Gazette of Jan. 15 and the previous number, and also mention one other. You and many of your readers will remember the large, handsome, nearly white Holstein cow shown by Thos. B. Wales, Jr., at the Chicago Fat-Stock Show last November. I have not her exact weight, but it was I think nearly, if not quite 2,000 pounds, and she was almost faultless in form. While owned by us she was a good milker; without forcing gave 25 quarts per day. We have her only heifer, and at present she is giving 64 lbs. per day on dry feed, consisting of fourteen quarts—one-fourth cornmeal, one-fourth oats and one-half wheat-bran, and timothy hay. Her calf is two months old, and she is milked only twice per day.

Will reserve other records of the combination and long-continued milking capacity for a future issue.

GEO. E. BROWN.

Good Suggestions.

We find the following in the Western Plowman, by John M. Stahl, in relation to stock matters:

SHEEP.

My word for it, the man who buys sheep now will thank his wise stars five years from now. When many are going out of business is a good time to go into it; a priori the sheep business, for the injury done to our sheep industry by the reduction in the tariff on wool has been greatly magnified.

Sheep raising cannot be made profitable on wet land. Rolling, even hilly land, is the most desirable surface. The character of the soil is not without importance. Limestone gravel is the best soil upon which to pasture sheep.

The master of the Cincinnati Stock Yards says the best mature mutton sheep brought to the market are Southdowns, and second best are Merinos; but Merino lambs rank below both Southdown and Cotswold lambs. This is not because the mutton is inferior, but because the pelt is smaller and the butcher realizes less for the wool.

A fleece weighing 44½ pounds was recently sheared from a buck belonging to John Bell of Tekonsha, Wisconsin. We cannot expect our flocks to average such a weight of fleece, but this shows us what a vast field for improvement is yet before us. The man who shears fleeces averaging six pounds is the one who finds wool growing unprofitable.

DUROC OR JERSEY RED SWINE.

One point in favor of the Duroc-Jersey swine is the prolificness of the sows. At a fair I recently saw a sow of this breed, owned by a friend of mine, and he informed me that the sum of the two litters the sow had farrowed was thirty-five. One litter numbered eighteen and the other seventeen; but I must confess that I do not think the Duroc-Jersey a well shaped hog.

HOG CHOLERA.

At present "hog cholera" is raging in many sections of the country, and as a result the papers are teeming with cures. Farmers have certainly learned that curative measures are idle, if not worse; and that "prevention" only is worthy of attention. The so-called "hog-cholera" can be prevented, as I have demonstrated to my great satisfaction. Breed only mature animals; give only well water to drink; feed only sound, clean food, and a variety of it; and keep all quarters clean, and hog cholera will not bother you. Food, drink, or quarters unfit for any animal, by reason of their filthiness, are unfit for swine.

RAISING HORSES.

Farmers generally say there is no profit in raising horses; this is because they do not raise good horses. There is profit in a good horse, as in a steer, or hog; and a poor horse is unprofitable, as is a poor steer, hog, or sheep. One does not realize how very few good horses are raised by our farmers till he starts out to buy one. He will find poor horses the rule with a surprisingly small number of exceptions.

Our farmers would do well to pay more attention to the production of heavy draught horses. For these there is the greatest demand and the highest prices in the markets. The heavy horse need not be a horse without good action. It is not the amount of flesh and bone, but its distribution, that makes a horse clumsy. The farm horse must be a horse of all work; but for all that the size of our farm horses could be increased with advantage to the farmers. Because speed has been fashionable we have given too much attention to the fast horse (of no use on the farm) and neglected the horse we need—the compact, active, weighty animal.

BREEDING.

Just how much can be accomplished by breeding with a fixed purpose in view, is forcibly demonstrated by the Short-horn breed. For the last fifty years the object of American breeders has been to develop the beef quality, and as a result the American Short-horn is the beef animal par excellence, but is little prized for dairy purposes. On the other hand, the object of a majority of English breeders has been not only to retain, but to develop the milk quality, and the result is that in spite of the proximity of the Jerseys, Alderneys, and Ayrshires, to-day the favorite dairy breed of England is the Short-horns.

SHELTERS.

Shelters are economical because, for one thing, they prevent the rapid escape of animal heat. Nature attempts to keep the bodily temperature up to the normal standard, and therefore the more animal heat escapes the more she manufactures, and the greater consumption of food for this purpose, for the heat is produced at the expense of food. Of the animal heat the greater part is produced by a combustion, the food for which is certain elements of the food; and these elements, when not used in the production of heat, are used to form fat. Hence when an animal is sheltered there is a greater production of fat from a given amount of food.

In the construction of shelters, remember that it is just as important to keep pure air in the shelter as to keep cold air out of it. The openings for ventilation may be made at the top, and therefore they will not admit a cold current to strike directly against the bodies of the animals. The impure air is heated at the same time it is made impure (by being taken into the lungs or kept in contact with the body;) hence it will rise and pass out at the openings at the top while the outside, pure, colder air will gradually sink to take its place. The best place for these openings is just under the eaves. Have well projecting eaves, to keep out rain and snow.

MILK AND BUTTER YIELD.

Some agricultural papers devote much space to the milk and butter yields of certain cows. In fact, this has become almost a craze; but what practical value are such tests? They are made under circumstances beyond the ordinary dairyman. He cannot feed his cows or treat them as these test cows are fed and treated; it would not be profitable for him to do so, if he could. These tests satisfy an idle curiosity to know how much milk a cow can make under forced, unnatural conditions; that is all.

The performance of a single animal does not determine the merits of a breed; this is done only by the sum of the performances of all the individuals of that breed. Therefore the favor in which any breed is held by the mass of stockmen is the only true test. Isolated performances, especially under unnatural conditions, are valuable as exceptions, perhaps, but not to demonstrate that they are in accordance with the general rule.

All who wish to avail themselves of the offer we made Dec. 1st, may do so if they will pay up arreages on subscription and one year in advance before Feb. 1st. This offer made till Jan. 1st, now extended to Feb 1st, is this: To all who will pay up arreages in full and one year in advance before Feb. 1st, 1885, we will allow the usual rebate given for subscriptions paid in advance, i. e, we will accept $1,65 per annum for papers sent outside of Polk County, or $1,50 inside of the County. Everybody should make an effort to avail themselves of this good opportunity to catch up.

John Crawford & Son,
Proprietors of Crawford's
Bakery,
SECOND STREET,
Crookston Minn
CONFECTIONERY
Fresh Bread, Buns, Cakes and Biscuits. All Articles in the Fancy Baking Line.

First National Bank
OF CROOKSTON.
PAID IN CAPITAL, $100,000
SURPLUS, 1,400
Money to loan on long or short time on approved security.
Interest on time deposits. Faithful attention to Collections and prompt remittance.
GEO. O. ERSKINE, President.
K. D. CHASE, Vice President.
CHAS. E. SAWYER, Cashier.

LEO & STEENERSON.
ATTORNEYS AT LAW
Room 3., U. S. Land Office Building,
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

A. A. JUST, M. D.
Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon.
Rooms corner Main street and Fletcher Avenue, over Eiken Bros. Hardware Store,
CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINN.

Frank M. Brown,
COMMISSION
STORE,
Main Street, - - Crookston.
TWO DOORS NORTH OF MERCHANTS' BANK.
Consignments of Goods for
QUICK CASH SALES
SOLICITED.
☞ Auction every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon.

NEW
DRUG STORE
IN GARFIELD
DR. A NELSON, Prop.
The citizens of this town and vicinity are respectfully invited to call at my new Drug Store in the town of Garfield and examine my stock of
DRUGS, MEDICINES, PAINTS, OILS AND YANKEE NOTIONS.
It is no longer necessary to go 40 or 55 miles for anything in this line, as I have a full supply at prices as reasonable as any town in the Northwest. Call and see
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
I am also ready to answer all calls day or night, for the practice of my profession. Call, or leave orders at my Drug Store in Garfield, Polk Co., Minn
DR. A. NELSON.

MERCHANTS'
Bank of Crookston.
H. B. MONTGOMERY.........President, St. Paul, Minn.
M. R. BROWN,.............Vice President, Crookston, Minn.
J. KELSO.........Second Vice President, Bellevue, Iowa.
Wm. ROSS.........................Cashier, Crookston, Minn.
CASH CAPITAL, $32,000
SURPLUS, $16,533.82.
Will receive deposits and allow interest by special contract.
Buy and Sell Foreign and Domestic Exchange, make collections, and do a strictly legitimate business.
Agents for foreign passage tickets.
De Skandinaviske Sprog tales her.
WM. ROSS, Cashier.

Bigham & Olafson
(Successors to Juve & Bergland.)
THE POPULAR MERCHANTS ON
MAIN STREET, - - - CROOKSTON
Have on hand and are constantly receiving full lines of
DRY GOODS, GROCERIES,
CROCKERY,
CLOTHING,
BOOTS AND SHOES,
HATS AND CAPS
In fact everything usually found in first-class general store.
☞ Our goods are bought with great care and will be sold at
LOW PRICES
☞ FOR CASH. ☜

Crookston Tonsorial
PARLORS.
PROF. THOMPSON, Proprietor.
Robert Street, Crookston, Minn.
Shaving, hair dressing and all work in my line promptly attended to the latest style of the art. Give me a call.

AIME GABOURY,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Graduate Doctor in Medicine Laval University Canada. Licensed Coll. Phy. Surg. Quebec. Late of Michigan University, U. S.
Office over Barber's store, Second St.
CROOKSTON MINN.

P. A. DUFOUR,
Attorney and Counselor at Law,
MAIN STREET,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

DR. M. WATTS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
OFFICE ON ROBERT STREET.
Professional calls by day or night attended to with promptness.

The Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Proprietor. DEVOTED TO THE WELFARE OF POLK COUNTY.

VOL. VIII. CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINNESOTA, FEBRUARY 5, 1885. TERMS—$1.50 Per Annum.

NO. 41

Polk County Journal.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

H. E. COOKE, Editor and Proprietor.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance, to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

ADVERTISING RATES.

SPACE.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 m.	2 m.	6 m.	1 year
¼ inch	50	$1 00	$1 15	$1 50	$3 00	4 50	$ 6 00
1 inch	75	1 25	1 75	2 00	5 50	6 00	10 00
2 inches	1 50	2 25	3 00	3 50	6 50	9 50	15 00
3 inches	1 75	2 75	3 75	4 50	9 50	13 50	20 00
4 inches	2 50	3 50	4 50	5 50	10 00	10 00	25 00
inches	3 00	4 00	5 00	8 00	12 50	20 00	20 00
¼ column	3 50	5 50	5 50	6 00	15 00	25 00	35 00
½ column	6 00	7 50	10 00	12 00	20 00	35 00	50 00
1 column	9 50	12 50	15 00	18 00	35 00	60 00	100 00

Entered at the Post Office in Crookston as Second Class matter.

Detroit Surprise: The Minnesota House of Representatives have passed a memorial to Congress for a liberal appropriation for the improvement of the Mississippi and Red Rivers. If they would follow up this by passing a memorial asking for an appropriation towards a canal from Duluth to the Red River they would please everybody in northern Minnesota.

Endorsed Again.

That 7 per cent. bill, which the P. P. made our Senator, Steenerson, the parent of was the hell-thy infant of Senator Peterson. THE JOURNAL emphatically condemned the bill and the Senate promptly and effectually sat right down upon the head of the bill the very first moment it showed itself above water. It is well. Requies-cat in pace.

Score One for Steenerson.

Pending discussion of the new insane asylum bill Senator Steenerson offered an amendment making the appropriation to the commissioner fund $1,000 instead of $3,000. This met with so much opposition that Steenerson withdrew it, remarking that "any country that would raise No. 1 Hard wheat for 50 cents per bushel needed an insane asylum and he would not throw any obstacles in the way to prevent their getting it."

Canning Versus Pillsbury.

Pending the joint discussion between the Dakota delegates and ours, on the wheat question, our Representative, Chas. Canning, crossed swords with the high mogul of the Ring, Senator Pillsbury. The P. P. has the following account of it:

Senator Pillsbury then read a few remarks hastily committed to paper, for fear that without notes he should be led into saying something strong, so deep were his feelings on the subject.

He felt deeply indignant at the agitation which had been created by demagogues and professional agitators. Demagogues and blatherskites in Northern Dakota and Minnesota had awakened a storm of sentiment against the elevators and the millers association. In 90 per cent. of all cases investigated the the grievances have proved to be imaginary. Dishonest employes of elevator companies might occasionally do up a farmer, but in the majority of cases the farmers were endeavoring to defraud the elevator men. He then proceeded to rebuke the agitators, and stated that the Minneapolis millers had built up Northern Dakota and Minnesota by bridging over chasm between the price of Minnesota spring wheat and winter wheat. The difference had formerly been from 20 to 30 cents. He then stated a number of propositions going to show that the farmers were as well treated as they had any right to expect and that the millers are a long suffering and much maligned class. The appointment of a State inspector at every elevator in the State was insisted upon. He deprecated the use of small elevators and warehouses as being financially unsafe and liable to entail a loss upon farmers holding their tickets.

Mr. Canning made a few remarks in reply to Mr. Pillsbury, in which he said he was not prepared to answer arguments which had been carefully prepared.

He said he was a very ignorant man so ignorant that he scarcely knew the meaning of the word "demagogue." But he did know that he is a representative farmer of the Red River Valley which raises from nine million the ten million bushels of wheat annually. At his town a year ago there was an inspector who graded 50,000 bushels of wheat as No. 1, which on reaching Minneapolis graded as No. 1 hard. This man was under bonds to stand grades and weights, and adopted this course to make himself safe. He alluded to the fact that wheat is being hauled over the line to Emerson paying a tariff of [illegible] cents and bringing a higher price than can be obtained in Minnesota. If the millers association is such a manifest blessing how can this state of things exist. The railroad companies and the millers association go hand in hand to crush the life out of the farmers. Gentlemen if you bankrupt us, you bankrupt yourselves.

Affairs in the Northwest.

In the Pioneer Press of Jan. 29th, we notice an article by D. S. Johnston, of St. Paul, on affairs in the Northwest from which we make the following extract:

But raising wheat is not all that the Northwest is good for. Millions of bushels of corn, oats, potatoes and hay [illegible] are also raised here. But there is still another industry rapidly coming to the front which promises to dwarf even wheat raising in comparison. This is the dairy interest. One hundred and sixty-one varieties of grasses suitable for forage grow here, and a sample of each is now on exhibition at the world's exhibition in New Orleans. Twenty-eight million pounds of butter were made in the creameries of this State alone during the year ending Nov. 1st, 1884—an increase of nearly 800,000 pounds over 1883. In creamery neighborhoods there has been no stringency of money the past year. That some of the newer parts of the Northwest are now suffering from the effects of low prices no one can attempt to deny. There is much extravagance and lack of adaptation in the early years of every new territory. This is especially true in this case. The trouble up here, however, is merely local, and really confined to narrow limits. Taking the Northwest as a whole, there is not a section of country in America, East or west, North or South, that has better prospects, or shows more activity or signs of substantial growth and progress. St. Paul, the financial gateway where the Northwest pays tribute, reports at the close of 1884, the astonishing fact that her bank capital and surplus aggregate nearly $8,000,000—an increase of nearly $100,000 since 1883. In bank exchange there is a total of $108,962,865—an increase of $279,283 since 1883. That the Northwest could go through wild-cat times that followed 1857, when wheat sold below the cost of production four years in succession; then quell the savage Indian outbreak of 1862, and drive the whole Sioux nation beyond the Missouri; then repeople a frontier almost wholly depopulated by the terrible massacre of that year, and at the same time fully supply its quota of soldiers in the great civil war, and pay heavier interest, and larger mortgages than the Dakota farmer now pays; then stand the financial depression of 1874 and breast the ebbing tide which came of that, and then meet the grasshopper scourge of 1876-77 and '78, and come out of all with such favorable results as we see around us to-day, is the surest kind of guarantee that everything is not going to the dogs up here because wheat in remote settlements happens to average but a few cents over cost of production from September 1st to December 31st, 1884.

AS TO THE MORTGAGES.

I have devoted my entire time during the past ten years to placing farm mortgages in the Northwest. At present we have nearly 5,000 of these mortgages on our books. The average of all the loans we have made in Minnesota and Iowa is less than $3 an acre. Of those we have placed in Iowa the average is but little over $2 an acre. Our loans in Dakota are mostly on double minimum land, which costs at the start from the government nearly $3 an acre. Whether in Minnesota, Iowa or Dakota, our loans are confined almost wholy to improved farms near to railroads. We loan in Dakota as we do in other widely separated fields of the Northwest, to equalize the risk—the same principle upon which a successful fire or life insurance company is conducted. Now mark our experience in this business. We carried our loans through the depression following 1874, and the loss of crops in the Northwest caused by grasshoppers in 1876-77 and '78, and up to this time have never lost one dollar. But this is not all. Our interest, as a whole, has not been paid so promptly in ten years as it is being paid this winter. For about [illegible] years after I came to this country it was the general opinion of the South and East that Minnesota was too cold for corn. But multiplied millions of bushels of Minnesota corn are now annually heaped upon the grave of that mistake. Then after over twenty years of the wasteful slip-shod habits of wheat farming to which the Northwest has been addicted, it came to be said that the soil up here was becoming too much exhausted for wheat production. Minnesota, finding her reputation at stake, replies in 1884 with more millions of bushels and as large an average per acre as in any single year since the State was settled. We next hear that India and the Soudan and all the rest of the world are on the way with their soft wheat to extinguish our No. 1 hard. But as in the past this year with its low prices will also go and be followed by a lessened acreage of wheat culture on lands which can grow only the softer, cheaper varieties, and the low-priced lands of the Northwest where the high-priced No. 1 hard wheat [illegible] at home will again come to the front and the wheat belt will move on till it passes into and beyond the valley of the Saskatchewan and reaches a line [illegible] [illegible] the best wheat of the world up here, and when it comes to the "survival" we are not at all alarmed about who will be the "fittest." As if to render what Mr. Johnston says about butter more emphatic a telegram from New Orleans says that Minnesota has taken the grand sweepstakes prize for the best butter in the world. [ED. JOURNAL.]

AVERAGE RESULTS THE BEST.

Form the Breeder's Gazette.

The article "More Light Wanted" in The Gazette of Jan. 15 touches upon a matter of interest to a very large class of its readers, and treats it in a manner I have advocated for years.

The sensational reports of wonderful growth and astonishing milk yields published from time to time to attract attention to a particular breed or family are utterly valueless to practical men without all the facts of feed and management.

The value of any of the improved breeds of cattle depends wholly on their ability to economically assimilate food to the production of either beef or dairy products, and when immense weights and enormous yields are obtained by means or practices which are not only injurious to the animal and her progeny, but unprofitable, except to that class of speculators who adopt this means to boom a particular family and obtain prices out of all proportion to their real value, they intentionally defraud their patrons, and should be classed with quacks.

My interests and experience in cattle are, and have been, exclusively with Holsteins for thirteen years. My introduction to the breed was in the interest of a wealthy gentleman in Massachusetts who owned a fancy farm for pleasure. My first impressions were that Holsteins were greatly overrated. That herd had been kept on the high-pressure, "big-record" system till the folly of it had been shown by the too heavy balance on the wrong side of the ledger; then the opposite extreme had been followed till the herd was reduced to such condition that when I took them—March 1, 1872—they were simply a lot of skeletons, giving a small quantity of milk, and I would gladly have exchanged them for a like number of ordinary natives.

A judicious course of feeding for practical results, however, ere long showed me the real value of the Holstein, and forced the conviction upon my mind that it was the best combined beef and dairy breed in the world, which conviction has grown with my experience until I can challenge successful contradiction.

I commenced feeding a liberal amount of hay, but never allowed them to cram themselves; increased their grain gradually till their daily rations were four quarts of corn-meal and eight quarts of wheat bran. They quickly responded to the treatment both in flesh and milk. That quantity of grain was continued after they went to grass till the pastures were strong, then it was gradually reduced one-half.

The cows gave an abundant flow of milk all the summer and fall, and came to the barn at stabling time in fine condition. Then the spring allowance of grain was renewed, with the addition of a few roots, but the allowance of hay was cut short a little.

My course was first a feed of long hay at 7 o'clock in the morning after milking, grain following, then roots, afterwards hay and water; the floor was then swept clean and the cows had no more till 4 p. m., when they were again watered and fed, grain followed with hay, which was finished at 7 p. m., and all was over for the night. I made it my business to stand by, feeding hay a little at a time till the feeding was over.

After the first week of this course of feeding I could go through the stable as often as I liked, carrying hay, grain or roots, after the cows had lain down, and not one would rise, but if I were not promptly on hand at feeding time they called, and it was perfect bedlam till I came.

I never carried a [illegible] cheaply through [illegible] yet the cows kept up [illegible] milk and held their flesh [illegible] to dry off I cut their grain down one-fourth to one-half according to the condition of the cows. Several of them, however, milked up to [illegible] others [illegible] three weeks [illegible] [illegible] nor will I, but I am heartily with those who are determined to place these cattle in the high rank they are entitled to occupy by honorable, practical means, and I feel a just pride in the success we have thus far had. I am not so much surprised at the course followed by amateurs who have engaged in the business and are vieing with each other in publishing extravagant records, but withholding particulars, as I am at the avidity with which the statements are swallowed by many.

Milking cows three times a day and resorting to every known trick to extract a larger yield may be well enough to prove what a cow is capable of merely as a curiosity, but when the important particulars of feed and management are suppressed and the record is used to "bull" the market in the interest of a particular family and dupe the uninitiated into paying prices out of all proportion to their real value, the transaction becomes criminal in that it not only injures the interests of honorable breeders but those of the country at large.

Hundreds of unsuspecting farmers and dairymen have purchased Holsteins during the past four years on the strength of high records that have been published, expecting they could obtain nearly or quite the same results with ordinary means, and on failing utterly have condemned the breed and its promoters as humbugs, and by asserting their conviction impeded the progress of a worthy cause.

Again, the cramming system works great injury and loss. A cow that is run on the high-pressure plan becomes diseased and all her functions weakened, and she not only fails herself, but produces diseased and effeminate off-spring, which are sold at fancy prices, and if bred from perpetuates, perhaps fixes, the disease or weakness on her progeny.

My first year's experience with Holsteins satisfied me that the west was their field, and I came out with my first lot in 1873. At that time they were known to but a very few farmers; now there is scarcely a town in northern Illinois, southern Wisconsin and Iowa that has not numerous dairymen who have nearly or quite doubled the value of their herds by the introduction of Holstein blood, and the same is true of parts of Michigan, Minnesota, Kansas and Nebraska. I was recently in the stable of one of my earliest patrons who showed me one cow and five of her offspring that he could rely upon to give him a can (thirty-two quarts) per day each for quite a long time, fed in the ordinary way of his dairy and milked twice a day only.

By a singular coincidence I opened the following letter just after reading your article entitled "More Light Wanted," and I at once decided to send it to you, without the gentleman's permission, thinking it might "bring the breeder and farmer closer," as you suggest. Mr. Wilson is a practical dairyman, who sees personally after his business, and does not take his hired help's say so for his statements.

PLYMOUTH, Wis., Jan. 14, 1885.—Geo. E. Brown & Co., Aurora, Ill.: In reply to yours of Jan. 9, I would say, in view of the large yields of milk some are reporting, I have nothing valuable to offer, and yet I am well satisfied myself. For the year 1884 Sylph has given in one day 68½ lbs., in thirty consecutive days, 1,655½ lbs., and in two hundred and seventy-five days, 10,760 lbs., and for the years 1881, 1882, 1883 and 1884 Sylph has averaged 10,152 lbs. a year. For the year 1884 Zada, with her second calf, has given in one day 59½ lbs., in thirty consecutive days, 1,665½ lbs., and in two hundred and seventy-five days 10,500 lbs. Carmeline, with her second calf, as a three-year-old, has given in one day 58 lbs., in thirty days, 1,585 lbs., and in two hundred and fifty-one days, 10,091½ lbs.—Carmeline being due to calve in ten and one half months from the time she dropped her calf in 1884. My cows are only milked twice a day, and never forced, having only fair dairy keep.

R. E. WILSON.

As evidence of their combination of milk and beef of the Holsteins, I will refer to the bills of fare in The Gazette of Jan. [illegible] and the previous number, and also mention one other. You and many of your readers will remember the large, handsome, nearly white Holstein cow [illegible] by [illegible] at the Chicago Fat Stock Show last November [illegible] [illegible] weighing nearly [illegible] quite 2,000 pounds and [illegible] [illegible] combination and long-continued milking capacity for a future issue.

GEO. E. BROWN.

Good Suggestions.

We find the following in the Western Plowman, by John M. Stahl, in relation to stock matters:

SHEEP.

My word for it, the man who buys sheep now will thank his wise stars five years from now. When many are going out of business is a good time to go into it, a priori the sheep business, for the injury done to our sheep industry by the reduction in the tariff on wool has been greatly magnified.

Sheep raising cannot be made profitable on wet land. Rolling, even hilly land, is the most desirable surface. The character of the soil is not without importance. Limestone gravel is the best soil upon which to pasture sheep.

The master of the Cincinnati Stock Yards says the best mature mutton sheep brought to the market are Southdowns, and second best are Merinos; but Merino lambs rank below both Southdown and Cotswold lambs. This is not because the mutton is inferior, but because the pelt is smaller and the butcher realizes less for the wool.

A fleece weighing 44½ pounds was recently sheared from a buck belonging to John Bell of Tekonsha, Wisconsin. We cannot expect our flocks to average such a weight of fleece, but this shows us what a vast field for improvement is yet before us. The man who shears fleeces averaging six pounds is the one who finds wool growing unprofitable.

DUROC OR JERSEY RED SWINE.

One point in favor of the Duroc-Jersey swine is the prolificness of the sows. At a fair I recently saw a sow of this breed, owned by a friend of mine, and he informed me that the sum of the two litters the sow had farrowed was thirty-five. One litter numbered eighteen and the other seventeen; but I must confess that I do not think the Duroc-Jersey a well shaped hog.

HOG CHOLERA.

At present "hog cholera" is raging in many sections of the country, and as a result the papers are teeming with cures. Farmers have certainly learned that curative measures are idle, if not worse; and that "prevention" only is worthy of attention. The so-called "hog-cholera" can be prevented, as I have demonstrated to my great satisfaction. Breed only mature animals; give only well water to drink; feed only sound, clean food, and a variety of it; and keep all quarters clean, and hog cholera will not bother you. Food, drink, or quarters unfit for any animal, by reason of their filthiness, are unfit for swine.

RAISING HORSES.

Farmers generally say there is no profit in raising horses; this is because they do not raise good horses. There is profit in a good horse, as in a steer, or hog; and a poor horse is unprofitable, as is a poor steer, hog, or sheep. One does not realize how very few good horses are raised by our farmers till he starts out to buy one. He will find poor horses the rule with a surprisingly small number of exceptions.

Our farmers would do well to pay more attention to the production of heavy draught horses. For these there is the greatest demand and the highest prices in the markets. The heavy horse need not be a horse without good action. It is not the amount of flesh and bone, but its distribution, that makes a horse clumsy. The farm horse must be a horse of all work, but for all that the size of our farm horses could be increased with advantage to the farmers. Because speed has been fashionable we have given too much attention to the fast horse, (of no use on the farm) and neglected the horse we need—the compact, active, weighty animal.

BREEDING.

Just how much can be accomplished by breeding with a fixed purpose in view is forcibly demonstrated by the Short-horn breed. For the last fifty years the [illegible] has been [illegible] [illegible] food for which is certain elements of the food, and these elements, when not used in the production of heat, are used to form fat. Hence when an animal is sheltered there is a greater production of fat from a given amount of food.

In the construction of shelters, remember that it is just as important to keep pure air in the shelter as to keep cold air out of it. The openings for ventilation may be made at the top, and therefore they will not admit a cold current to strike directly against the bodies of the animals. The impure air is heated at the same time it is made impure (by being taken into the lungs or kept in contact with the body;) hence it will rise and pass out at the openings at the top while the outside, pure, colder air will gradually sink to take its place. The best place for these openings is just under the eaves. Have well projecting eaves, to keep out rain and snow.

MILK AND BUTTER YIELD.

Some agricultural papers devote much space to the milk and butter yields of certain cows. In fact, this has become almost a craze; but what practical value are such tests? They are made under circumstances beyond the ordinary dairyman. He cannot feed his cows or treat them as these test cows are fed and treated; it would not be profitable for him to do so, if he could. These tests satisfy an idle curiosity to know how much milk a cow can make under forced, unnatural conditions; that is all.

The performance of a single animal does not determine the merits of a breed; this is done only by the sum of the performances of all the individuals of that breed. Therefore the favor in which any breed is held by the mass of stockmen is the only true test. Isolated performances, especially under unnatural conditions, are valuable as exceptions, perhaps, but not to demonstrate that they are in accordance with the general rule.

All who wish to avail themselves of the offer we made Dec. 1st, may do so if they will pay up arreages on subscription and one year in advance before Feb. 1st. This offer made till Jan. 1st, now extended to Feb 1st, is this: To all who will pay up arreages in full and one year in advance before Feb. 1st, 1885, we will allow the usual rebate given for subscriptions paid in advance, i. e. we will accept $1,65 per annum for papers sent outside of Polk County, or $1,50 inside of the County. Everybody should make an effort to avail themselves of this good opportunity to catch up.

John Crawford & Son,
Proprietors of Crawford's
Bakery,
SECOND STREET,
Crookston Minn

CONFECTIONERY
Fresh Bread, Buns, Cakes and Biscuits, All Articles in the Fancy Baking Line.

First National Bank
OF CROOKSTON.

PAID IN CAPITAL $100,000
SURPLUS 1,400

Money to loan on long or short time on approved security. Interest on time deposits. Faithful attention to Collections and prompt remittance.

GEO. O. ERSKINE, President.
K. D. CHASE, Vice President.
CHAS. E. SAWYER, Cashier.

LEO & STEENERSON
ATTORNEYS AT LAW
Room 3, U. S. Land Office Building,
CROOKSTON, [illegible] MINNESOTA.

A. A. JUST, M. D.
Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon
Rooms corner Main street and [illegible] Avenue, over [illegible] Hard[illegible]
[illegible] POLK CO., MINN.

Frank M. Brown,
COMMISSION
STORE,
Main Street, - - Crookston.
TWO DOORS NORTH OF MERCHANTS' BANK.

Consignments of Goods for
QUICK CASH SALES
SOLICITED.
☞ Auction every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon.

NEW
DRUG STORE
IN GARFIELD

DR. A NELSON, Prop.

The citizens of this town and vicinity are respectfully invited to call at my new Drug Store in the town of Garfield and examine my stock of

DRUGS, MEDICINES, PAINTS, OILS AND YANKEE NOTIONS.

It is no longer necessary to go 40 or 55 miles for anything in this line, as I have a full supply at prices as reasonable as any town in the Northwest. Call and see

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON

I am also ready to answer all calls day or night, for the practice of m profession. Call, or leave orders at my Drug Store in Garfield, Polk Co., Minn

DR. A. NELSON.

MERCHANTS'
Bank of Crookston.

H. B. MONTGOMERY.........President,
St. Paul, Minn.
M. R. BROWN,............Vice President,
Crookston, Minn.
J. KELSO.........Second Vice President,
Bellevue, Iowa.
Wm. ROSS.........................Cashier,
Crookston, Minn.

CASH CAPITAL, $32,000
SURPLUS, $16,533.82.

Will receive deposits and allow interest by special contract.
Buy and Sell Foreign and Domestic Exchange, make collections, and do a strictly legitimate business.
Agents for foreign passage tickets.
De Skandinaviske Sprog tales her.
WM. ROSS, Cashier.

Bigham & Olafson
(Successors to Juve & Bergland,)
THE POPULAR MERCHANTS ON
MAIN STREET, - - CROOKSTO
Have on hand and are constantly receiving full lines of
DRY GOODS, GROCERIES,
CROCKERY,
CLOTHING,
BOOTS AND SHOES,
HATS AND CAPS
In fact everything usually found in first-class general store.

☞ Our goods are bought with great care and will be sold at
LOW PRICES
☞ FOR CASH. ☜

Crookston Tonsorial
PARLORS.
PROF. THOMPSON, Proprietor.
Robert Street, Crookston, Minn.
Shaving, hair dressing and all work in my line promptly attended to in the latest style of the art. Give me a call.

AIME GABOURY,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
Graduate Doctor in Medicine Laval University Canada, [illegible] Quebec. Late of Michigan University [illegible]
Office over [illegible] Store, Second S[illegible]

P. A. DUFOUR,
Attorney and Counselor at Law
MAIN STREET,
CROOKSTON, [illegible] MINN.

DR. [illegible] WATTS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
OFFICE ON [illegible]
[illegible]

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, February 5, 1885.

'ROUND HOME.

Monday and Tuesday were days what you read about. Lovely, warm weather up to about 3 p. m. Tuesday, when a little snow fell.

The place to buy remnants is at the New York store.

P. J. LaChapelle goes on record against any bonds to any railroad. He says: "If they want to build a railroad let 'em build it themselves."

Minnesota took the Grand Sweepstakes prize at New Orleans for the best butter in the world! Now who says we can raise nothing but wheat in Minnesota!"

St. Hilaire is coming to the front as a candidate for the new insane asylum. She has started another paper and now needs only a fine skating rink to have first-class claims.

Mr. Ansel Bates will soon open a private banking establishment in this city in Dobson's block, on Broadway. The room has been fitted up in good style ready for business.

Turn about is fair play. The country has been run by the elevators and millers several years now the people should have a chance to try their own methods awhile!

A. D. Stephens says: "I don't hail from Crookston any more. Since my experience in the country recently I have concluded it is safer to hail from anywhere else but there!"

Mr. O. J. Bergland contemplates a trip to Washington Territory in search of the promised land. If we can judge anything from a letter in the Fergus Falls Telegram, from Michael Anderson, O. J. will not find it out there.

You can buy gents' wool underwear at less than wholesale cost, at the New York store.

You can buy one pair kid gloves for 50 cents; reduced from $1.50, at the New York store.

Last week we published a proposition from the Brainerd road asking for $300,000 bonus for their road. This week we are prepared to drop $100,000 owing to a typographical error. The proposition was for $200,00.

You can buy a good colored blanket for 95 cents, at the New York store.

The St. Hilaire Spectator says: "Rumor hath it that we are to have a fine flour mill here before another summer has passed. Red Lake Falls wants to divide Polk County and be made the county seat of the new county. Just permit us to kick."

M. P. Stephens has started up a new paper in St. Hilaire to help Harry Ives starve to death. It was needless. Harry was doing as well as could be expected of so young and healthy a person and was liable to peg out just as soon as people got too poor to hire him to saw their wood.

Hack & Gallasch are selling at cost to make room for spring stock. For bargains call on them. 38tf

The millers and elevator men seem to think no one but themselves capable of handling wheat. Of course, all they want the present system continued for is simply for the benefit of the farmers, but the farmers somehow have an idea that they have had enough of this style and would like to try a change.

Fergus Falls Telegram: John Cromb the register of the Crookston land office and Judge Reuben Reynolds are mentioned as the most prominent candidates for the judgeship in the Eleventh district in case Senator Steenerson's bill meets with no fatality. Perhaps Cromb thinks the tenure on the judgeship is better even if the office doesn't pay as well.

At the New York store they are bound to do business even in dull times if prices can do any.

The Red Lake Times awakes from its slumbers bright and sassy as a new school marm on a spring morning. The paper looks nicely, but somehow while we read it we can't help thinking of a remark that Judge Stearns gets off on certain occasions—we forget most of it, but some of it goes like this: "DEAD! DEAD!! DEAD!!! and the Lord have mercy on your soul!"

Flannels, 54 and 56 inches wide, in all the new shades, reduced from $1.00 and $1.20 to 75 cents, at the New York store. The nett cost on these goods was 85 cents.

To appreciate the change that has taken place in the Prairie Farmer since that veteran agricultural journalist, Orange Judd, (formerly of the American Agriculturist) took charge of it, one should have been a reader of it before and since. From a tolerably good journal it has become the best agricultural paper in the west. We will take pleasure in showing a copy of it to our friends at any time and if any wish to try it a year will be glad to procure it for them, which we can do in connection with the JOURNAL on more favorable terms than they can obtain elsewhere. The regular price of the Prairie Farmer is $2 a year and we can furnish it at a slight advance over the price of one paper. Bear in mind that the Praire Farmer is a very large paper and comes to your home EVERY WEEK in the year, chuck full of good things that every farmer and his family should know. Only FIFTY CENTS added to the price of one paper will procure you the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL and the Prairie Farmer for [illegible]

Drop into the New York store for great bargains.

W. F. Zwickey left on Monday evening for a trip to the World's Fair. He expects to be gone about a month.

The proprietors of the addition known as Jerome's addition have received a patent for their land which settles the title question.

J. B. Holmes, father of the Red Lake Falls Gazette, was in the city on Monday, en route to Red Lake Falls on railroad business.

Mr. J. W. Simmons last week received the sad news of the death of his mother and left for Wisconsin on Saturday evening accompanied by his daughter.

Geo. G. Macdonell has assumed command at the New York store and handles the reins with a master hand. Call in and interview George when you need anything in his line.

Sandy McKinnon is "out of politics," but he does affirm that he is selling the handsomest and best buggy in the market. The boys may well feel proud of he work they do, for it is good.

C. H. Saake has moved his jewelry store to Main street, opposite the Merchants' National Bank, where he is prepared to welcome his friends and to do all work in his line. Drop in and see him.

Henry Nolan returned last week pretty nearly used up by a severe attack of asthma. He has been at the residence of Wm. Kistenmacher, confined to his bed, until Tuesday when he was able to be out for the first time.

The county ought to be able to secure an excellent bridge across to Jerome's addition. No less than eleven representatives of bridge building companies are on deck with proposals. We vote for an iron bridge.

We learn with regret of the extreme illness of Mr. C. L. Bond who does not seem to improve as fast as his friends could wish. Mr. Bond is well and favorably known in this city and his many friends will regret to learn of his danger. It is our sincere wish that he may recover, though his physician holds out little encouragement.

We were reminded of the fact that Mr. A. A. Olds is still making the most durable and best broom to be had in the city, by the appearance of that gentleman with three of them on Tuesday evening. Mr. Olds is an old hand at the business and knows all about how it is done. If you want a good, durable broom get it of Mr. A. A. Olds.

HORRIBLE SUICIDE!

Another Good Citizen Gone Wrong.

M. P. Stephens, of St. Hilaire, the Victim!

A CANDIDATE FOR THE NEW INSANE ASYLUM!

HE MAY BE DEAD BY THIS TIME!

On Tuesday we received a startling piece of intelligence. It was a copy of the Red Lake Times, of St. Hilaire, that for months has slept the sleep of the just. At the mast head was the name of M. P. Stephens, a lawyer who has heretofore borne a very high reputation in St. Hilaire, and the universal verdict up there is "I wouldn't have thought it of him!" Mr. Stephens was a lawyer of fine attainments, who enjoyed the high regards of all who knew him in life, he was law partner of the great and good "UNCLE JOSH," whose writings have rendered his name immortal, and until this sad blow fell his bright prospects were numerous and brilliant in the extreme. His sad and untimely end, by his own hand, will be deeply regretted by his many friends.

"One more unfortunate,
Weary of life,
Rashly importunate,
Gone"—into the newspaper business.

The Palace Jewelry Store.

Berthiaume Bro's have moved their entire stock of jewelry into the room formerly occupied by B. M. Lancaster as a restaurant, on Robert street. They have painted, papered and carpeted the room in fine shape, and their large stock of goods is displayed in large cases as fine as can be found in large city stores. When they first opened out in Crookston they occupied a small room on Robert street which as their trade increased they found to be entirely inadequate to their wants, and they have been forced to seek larger quarters. They have now found what they need and to say that they have fitted it up in elegant style conveys but little idea of their surroundings. One must see it to appreciate it fully. They carry a large and complete stock of everything in the line of watches, clocks, jewelry, musical instruments, &c., &c., and employ only the best of workmen in the shop. They are prepared to do any and all work in their line promptly and well at the most reasonable figures. Their prices on all goods compare favorably with city prices on the same goods. Call at their new location on Robert street and look them over.

LOST.

A valuable English pointer about 7 months old. He is a brindle color with white spot in forehead. Had a steel collar on. A liberal reward will be paid for his return to Berthiaume Bro's, Robert street.

Of Interest to Farmers.

Stone & Pinkerton have secured the agency for the Champion Cockle Mill, which is the best machine of its kind we ever saw. It will clean wheat once through almost perfectly and twice through will take out almost every fine seed of any kind. It will pay farmers to drop in and see one of these machines clean up foul wheat.

A breakage at Lee & Herrick's Roller Mills, last week caused a few days' suspension of labor.

Ed. Walsh is going to try for a flowing well on his Ash Street property.

The Grand Forks Plaindealer has got into its new office and presents a greatly improved appearance. "Purified by fire" as it were.

Jim Hill and His Bulls.

Red Wing Sun: According to the report of J. J. Hill's speech before the legislative committee in St. Paul Wednesday evening, that gentleman indulged in some strictures on the newspapers which were neither wise nor called for. The newspapers, when complaints are brought to them showing that it costs nearly double the amount to carry a threshing machine over his road one hundred and forty miles than it does to bring the same machine from Syracuse, New York, have some reason to inquire why such things are thusly. It is the duty of newspaper men to present the complaints and grievances of their patrons, and we do not believe there are many papers in the northwest that would not be glad to publish any explanation which Mr. Hill would see fit to make in the matter. That gentleman is very plausible and shrewd, and we have given him credit of being wise beyond many others and benevolent to a degree, but most people remember when he was a "mud clerk" on the St. Paul wharf, and doubtless a good one, and the fact is no disgrace to him; but when he intimates that he would be satisfied with six per cent. interest on the cash that he has put into the road, as men put their money into farming and other business, paying a hundred cents on the dollar for the value received out of his own pockets, the people would like to know from whence his millions came in the past few years. There is a good deal of humbug about the cost of railroad building on those prairies, there has been a good deal of public bounty, of municipal bonuses, of land grants and shrewd manipulations of railroad stocks and bonds, a great deal of fiction and fallacy, that have resulted in bringing the wharf clerk of St. Paul, to become the great railroad king, while the honest, toiling trades-people, farmers and mechanics, who have settled that northland and made Mr. Hill's town lots and farm lands valuable, have in many cases sunk into deepest poverty. We are willing to admit a great deal of wisdom to Mr. Hill, and can see the point of his flattering the farmers and claiming them as partners and all that, but we hope he will please remember that from his partners, the farmers, and not from the newspapers, came up the rumblings of this earthquake of discontent, from the farmers, among whom he claims, in his lordly style, to be distributing blooded bulls, as a lord might among his dependent tenants, and the newspapers have only recorded the facts of the internal disturbances.

Grand Forks Herald: Conspicuous among the outspoken representatives of the people on the joint committee now laboring at St. Paul with the monopoly dragon is Mr. Canning. He strikes right at the heart of the wheat market question when he favors legislation in Minnesota to suppress the gang of conspirators at Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth and for this end of the line "open markets and the right of every man to build his own warehouse and to ship his own grain." There is no rubbing out these silent truths. Let the railroad magnates hurl all the figures of the census and all the literary lumber of the magazines and patent office reports at the joint committee to confuse and bewilder them and lead their judgments astray. It is all written in the few words of Mr. Canning. Let Minnesota which has the power crush the monopoly at the present receiving points, and let Dakota which has also the power, if it has the manhood and independence, declare in the language of the Illinois law that every railroad shall receive and ship any quantity of wheat or other grain at any of its stations in Dakota, without unreasonable delay, and without discrimination on demand, and convey it to its destination. Any proposition that loses sight of this is a fraud upon the country. We are not demagogues, there is no election pending, we ask no rewards. All we demand for the people in North Dakota and North Minnesota is that our legislatures shall protect us in what the Canadian Pacific voluntarily protects the farmers of Manitoba, a special grade and price for a distinct and superior quality of grain.

Dissolution Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership heretofore existing between Sewal P. Norton and F. W. Benedict, under the firm name of Norton & Benedict, is this day dissolved by mutual consent.

SEWALL P. NORTON.
Crookston, Dec. 24, 1884. [41-43]

Fine stationery a specialty at M. Van Dyke & Co's.

Notice.

I desire to call the attention of the public to the fact that I have opened a Jewelry and Watchmaking business in the store formerly occupied by James McKenzie, Second Street, Crookston. I purpose to run a first-class jewelry store and shall adhere to the rule of promptness all the time. I would also respectfully for a friendly patronage of the generous public.

C. H. SAAKE,
Fine watchmaker and jeweler, Crookston, Minn.

The United States Internal Revenue Special Tax is due May 1st. Any information and a full line of blanks can be had by calling on or addressing.

JOHN McLEAN,
Attorney at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

Hogs! Hogs!! Hogs!!!

A Polk County granger wants to buy few good shotes, from six months to a year old, sows prefered. The highest market price in cash will be paid. For further particulars call on or address JOURNAL office, Crookston, Minn.
[37-tf]

Notice to Bankers.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, }
Norman County, } ss.

Pursuant to an act of the Legislature approved March 3d, 1881, entitled "An Act relating to the duties of County Treasurers and the care of the public funds," (being chapter 124, G. L. of 1881) notice is hereby given that proposals for the deposit of the funds of this county for the ensuing two years will be received by the undersigned, Board of Auditors, at the office of the County Auditor, until the 13th day of February, 1885. Such proposals shall state what security will be given to the county for such funds so deposited and what interest will be allowed on monthly balances of the amounts deposited.

Conditioned that the said funds with accrued interest shall be held subject to draft and payment at all times on demand.

We reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

Dated at Ada, Norman County, Minn., this 27th day of Jan., 1885.

NEIS O. HENDERSON,
Chairman Board County Com's.
J. C. NORBY,
Clerk of District Court.
JOHN SHELY,
County Auditor.

John Kuuppe.
General Agent in the Red River Valley of the Netherlands American Land Company of Amsterdam, Holland.

Money to loan on good real estate security, on time to suit the borrower. Office over Merchant's Bank. [1-tf]

NOTICE.

As I have established a Nursery in Crookston and propose to continue the business, I will annouce to our former customers and all that are desirous of obtaining trees and Plants the coming spring that I will sell said stock at prices below any competition. Call and see me before making purchase elsewhere. Residence on second block north of Court House, or address P. O. Box 754.

Most Respectfully,
[38-tf] E. W. HASELTINE.

Notice to Farmers.

C. Kretzschmar's Grist Mill, at Red Lake Falls, is again open for business. Flour will be exchanged for wheat, or your wheat will be ground on shares. A good feed mill is run in connection with the mill and satisfaction in all cases is guaranteed. Flour and feed on hand at all times and sold at lowest market rates.
[16-tf] C. KRETZSCHMAR.

At Seely's

You can find some extra fine crab-apple cider; old bourbon whisky, eight years old. Maryland Club, pure rye; Jules and G. H. Mum's extra dry champagne; imported Scotch ales and porters for medicinal purposes; also a fine stock of imported cigars. Call and sample. [22-tf]

Money to Loan.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS to loan on improved farms from THREE to FIVE years time at very reasonable rates. Apply at my office on Broadway, in U. S. Land Office building.
[14tf] H. STEENERSON,

PIANO TUNING.

Any parties having pianos or organs that need tuning or repairing can have their work satisfactorily done by leaving orders at the Linton House. Satisfaction guaranteed.
[9-tf] E. F. WHEELDEN.

$100,000

To Loan on improved claims in sums of $250 to $2,000. Cash paid for school bonds. Call on or address,
JOHN McLEAN, Att'y at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

DIED.

McARTHUR.—At Euclid, on Thursday, Jan. 29th, 1885, Mrs. James McArthur, aged 51 years.

LIST OF LETTERS

Remaining uncalled for in the Crookston Post Office, for the week ending Feb. 2d, 1885. Persons calling for these letters will please say "advertised."

Andrews, Carl
Agnew, Geo.
Bengtson, John J
Carignant, Octave
Dupont, Joseph
Erikson, Anton B
Gooler, L. H.
Johaneson, Gunnild
Kimball, Spencer
Kjome, John Nelson
Larson, G.
Larson, Sarah A
Hass, H
Nass, Peter N
Ottum, Anne J
Riche, Sophia
Elinger, C
Sand, Wm
Schafer, John
Toren, C. H.
Wik, Mina O

D. JACOBUS, P. M.

WM. WATTS,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND DEALER IN
REAL ESTATE.
OFFICE OVER MERCHANTS' BANK.

THE
St. Paul, Minneapolis
—AND—
Manitoba
RAILWAY
—WITH ITS—
1,400 MILES OF ROAD,
Is the only line extending through the
PARK REGION OF MINNESOTA
To all principal points in
RED RIVER VALLEY,
NORTHERN MINNESOTA,
NORTHERN DAKOTA,
—AND THE—
Devil's Lake & Turtle Mountain Districts
—CONTAINING OVER—
9,000,000 Acres
GOVERNMENT LANDS!

The Land department of the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway has exclusive charge of the Company's Lands in Minnesota, and all correspondence relative to the purchase of lands, terms, description or price of any particular tract should be addressed to that department.

Maps and pamphlets describing the country and giving rates of fare to settlers, etc., mailed FREE on application.

JAS. B. POWER,
Land and Immigration Commissioner.
C. H. WARREN,
General Passenger Agent,
St. P., M. & M. R'y., St. Paul, Minn.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Jan. 22d, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of six hundred forty-five and 50-100 dollars which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by J. Anderson Foord, an unmarried man, mortgagor to Fredrick Peterson and John Peterson, mortgagees bearing date the 31st day of May A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the county of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 29th day of May A. D. 1883, at 3:10 o'clock p. m., in book "R" of mortgages, on page 24, and whereas the undivided one-half interest in the said mortgage and the debt secured thereby was by the said Fredrick Peterson, one of said mortgagees, duly assigned in writing under his hand and seal to Harold Swenson and Peter Broberg "copartners" by assignment, dated July 31st 1884, which assignment was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of August 1884, at 4:30 o'clock p. m., in book "R" of mortgages on page 329, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given. That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The north one-half (n½) of the southeast one-fourth (se¼) and the east one-half (e½) of the southwest one-fourth (sw¼) of Section twenty-eight (28) of Township one hundred and fifty-three (153), Range forty-three (43) containing one hundred and sixty acres according to government survey, said lot, piece, or parcel of land being situated in Polk County, and State of Minnesota with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the seventh day of March A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated, January 22d, A. D. 1885.

JOHN PETERSON,
Mortgagee.
HAROLD SWENSON AND PETER BROBERG,
Assignees of Fredrick Peterson.
B. F. JENNESS, Attorney. [33-45]

BERG & OLSON,
PRACTICAL WATCHMAKERS
AND DEALERS IN
CLOCKS,
WATCHES,
JEWELRY,
—ROBERT STREET.—
CROOKSTON MINNESOTA.

Fortier's Place,
Corner Broadway and Robert Street
EVERYTHING NEW, NEAT
—AND NOBBY.—
Billiards, Pool, and the Choicest Wines, Liquors and Cigars. The purest High Proof Whiskies at wholesale prices.
PURE IMPORTED GOODS ON DRAUGHT.

M. M. VAN DYKE,
Physician and Surgeon,
Corner of Main and Second Streets,
CROOKSTON, MINN.
Will attend to all professional calls promptly.

A. Allen,
AGENT
—FOR THE—HOWE
SCALE
COMPANY.

The Old Brick Block
IS THE PLACE
To Buy Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Boots and Shoe Hats and Caps, or anything you want.
FONTAINE & ANGLIM
IS THE FIRM
Who are ready, with a corps of affable clerks to show you their NEW FALL and WINTER STOCK and quote prices to astonish the natives.
Great Bargains!
Don't forget to visit Fontaine & Anglim's Emporium, in the Old Brick Block,
MAIN STREET. CROOKSTON, MINN.

SEEDS
—AND—
PLANTS.
OUR ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE or
"EVERYTHING FOR THE GARDEN,"
full of valuable cultural directions, containing three colored plates, and embracing everything NEW and RARE in SEEDS and PLANTS, will be mailed on receipt of stamps to cover postage (6 cents.) To customers of last season sent FREE without application.
PETER HENDERSON & Co.,
35 & 37 CORTLANDT ST.
NEW YORK.

Hack & Gallasch
ARE SELLING THEIR GOODS
AT COST
For 30 days only. For Bargains Call Early.

A. Yvernault,
Dealer in
General
Merchandise,
—MAIN STREET,—
Crookston, Minn.
All my friends, both old and new, are cordially invited to call and examine my stoc and get prices.

EIKEN BROS.,
Corner of Fletcher and Main Street, Crookston, Minn.
Dealers in
HARDWARE, TIWARE,
STOVES,
—AND—
SHELFWARE.
WE KEEP A
FULL & COMPLETE
STOCK,
—AND—
Invite the Patronage
OF ALL.

E. D. Schreader,
LIVERY,
Feed and Sale Stable.
BEST TURNOUTS
IN THE CITY.
Single or Double Rigs, with or withou driver or
SADDLE HORSES
Always ready at a moments notice by day or night. If you want a Nobby Turnout call at the Red Barn, Corner Main and Third Streets,
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA

NEW LIVERY,
Feed and Sale
STABLES,
CORNER MAIN AND FOURTH STS.,
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA
TERRY & COLLINS, Prop's.
☞ Good Turnouts at all times a reasonable prices. Good Hearse and careful driver when needed.

Crookston Nurseries.
Established in 1879.
Tree Claim Stock.
I will furnish my customers and others, trees and seeds for Tree Claims at reduced figures in the spring of 1885. Also all the hardier varieties of small fruits, such as Currants, Gooseberries, and Raspberries. Also good thrifty Transcendent and Hislop Crab-Apple trees, Cottonwood and Box Elder trees. Box Elder and Ash seed, and Willow cuttings. Also garden seeds. The firm of Haseltine Bros. was dissolved in June, 1884. E. W. Haseltine has no interest or share in the old Crookston Nurseries. I continue business on the old grounds in Crookston. Don't fail to to send for catalogue of prices.
FRANK T. HASELTINE, Prop.
Crookston, Minn.

Commercial Hotel,
NORTON & BENEDICT, Prop's.
SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON MINN
—o—
First-class in all respects. Terms reasonable. A share of the public patronage solicited.

SECOND STREET
MEAT MARKET
STANTON & CO., Proprietors.
Choice meats of every description. Fish and game in their season. Everything of the very best quality and lowest prices. Call and see us.
STANTON & CO.,
Dobson's Block, Second Street.

MERCHANTS'
BILLIARD HALL,
FRED ANDERSON, Proprietor.
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA
The choicest Wines, Liquors and Cigars constantly on hand.

Furniture Store,
BROADWAY, CROOKSTON MINNESOTA.
P. BATAGLIA, Prop.
Keeps constantly on hand a well selected stock of Wardrobes, Bureaus, Sofas, Lounges, Bedsteads, Bed Springs, Tables, Chairs, Rocking Chairs, Stands, Ornaments, Picture Mouldings, and Picture Frames. REPAIRING DONE TO ORDER. Coffins of all kinds kept constantly on hand.

Wentzel & Rauch,
Sample Rooms.
MAIN STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN
For a fine mixed or straight drink call on the boys. The choicest liquors and cigars in stock. [illegible]

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, February 5, 1885.

ROUND HOME

Monday and Tuesday were days what you read about. Lovely warm weather up to about 3 p. m. Tuesday, when a little snow fell.

The place to buy remnants is at the New York store.

P. J. LaChapelle goes on record against any bonds to any railroad. He says: "If they want to build a railroad let 'em build it themselves."

Minnesota took the Grand Sweepstakes prize at New Orleans for the best butter in the world! Now who says we can raise nothing but wheat in Minnesota!

St. Hilaire is coming to the front as a candidate for the new insane asylum. She has started another paper and now needs only a fine skating rink to have first-class claims.

Mr. Ansel Bates will soon open a private banking establishment in this city in Dobson's block, on Broadway. The room has been fitted up in good style ready for business.

Turn about is fair play. The country has been run by the elevators and millers several years now, the people should have a chance to try their own methods awhile!

A. D. Stephens says: "I don't hail from Crookston any more. Since my experience in the country recently I have concluded it is safer to hail from anywhere else but there!"

Mr. O. J. Bergland contemplates a trip to Washington Territory in search of the promised land. If we can judge anything from a letter in the Fergus Falls Telegram, from Michael Anderson, O. J. will not find it out there.

You can buy gents' wool underwear at less than wholesale cost, at the New York store.

You can buy one pair kid gloves for 50 cents, reduced from $1.50, at the New York store.

Last week we published a proposition from the Brainerd road asking for $300,000 bonus for their road. This week we are prepared to drop $100,000 owing to a typographical error. The proposition was for $200,00.

You can buy a good colored blanket for 95 cents, at the New York store.

The St. Hilaire Spectator says: "Rumor hath it that we are to have a fine flour mill here before another summer has passed. Red Lake Falls wants to divide Polk County and be made the county seat of the new county. Just permit us to kick."

M. P. Stephens has started up a new paper in St. Hilaire to help Harry Ives starve to death. It was needless. Harry was doing as well as could be expected of so young and healthy a person and was liable to peg out just as soon as people got too poor to hire him to saw their wood.

Hack & Gallasch are selling at cost to make room for spring stock. For bargains call on them. 38tf

The millers and elevator men seem to think no one but themselves capable of handling wheat. Of course, all they want the present system continued for is simply for the benefit of the farmers, but the farmers somehow have an idea that they have had enough of this style and would like to try a change.

Fergus Falls Telegram: John Cromb the register of the Crookston land office and Judge Reuben Reynolds are mentioned as the most prominent candidates for the judgeship in the Eleventh district, in case Senator Steenerson's bill meets with no fatality. Perhaps Cromb thinks the tenure on the judgeship is better even if the office doesn't pay as well.

At the New York store they are bound to do business even in dull times if prices can do any.

The Red Lake Times awakes from its slumbers bright and sassy as a new school-marm on a spring morning. The paper looks nicely, but somehow while we read it we can't help thinking of a remark that Judge Stearns gets off on certain occasions—we forget most of it, but some of it goes like this: "DEAD, DEAD, DEAD!! and the Lord have mercy on your soul."

Flannels, 54 and 50 inches wide, in all the new shades, reduced from $1.00 and $1.20 to 75 cents at the New York store. The net cost on these goods was 85 cents.

To appreciate the change that has taken place in the Prairie Farmer since that veteran agricultural journalist Orange Judd (formerly of the American Agriculturist) took charge of it, one should have been a reader of it before and since. From a tolerably good journal it has become the best agricultural paper in the west. We will take pleasure in showing a copy of it to our friends at any time, and if any wish to try it a year will be glad to procure it for them, which we can do in connection with the JOURNAL on more favorable terms than they can obtain elsewhere. The regular price of the Prairie Farmer [illegible] [illegible]

Drop into the New York store for great bargains.

W. F. Z[illegible] left on Monday evening for a trip to the World's Fair. He expects to be gone about a month.

The proprietors of the addition known as Jerome's addition have received a patent for their land which settles the title question.

J. B. Holmes, father of the Red Lake Falls Gazette, was in the city on Monday, en route to Red Lake Falls on railroad business.

Mr. J. W. Simmons last week received the sad news of the death of his mother and left for Wisconsin on Saturday evening accompanied by his daughter.

Geo. G. Macdonell has assumed command at the New York store and handles the reins with a master hand. Call in and interview George when you need anything in his line.

Sandy McKinnon is "out of politics," but he does affirm that he is selling the handsomest and best buggy in the market. The boys may well feel proud of the work they do, for it is good.

O. H. Saake has moved his jewelry store to Main street, opposite the Merchants' National Bank, where he is prepared to welcome his friends and to do all work in his line. Drop in and see him.

Henry Nolan returned last week pretty nearly used up by a severe attack of asthma. He has been at the residence of Wm. Kistenmacher, confined to his bed, until Tuesday when he was able to be out for the first time.

The county ought to be able to secure an excellent bridge across to Jerome's addition. No less than eleven representatives of bridge building companies are on deck with proposals. We vote for an iron bridge.

We learn with regret of the extreme illness of Mr. C. L. Bond who does not seem to improve as fast as his friends could wish. Mr. Bond is well and favorably known in this city and his many friends will regret to learn of his danger. It is our sincere wish that he may recover, though his physician holds out little encouragement.

We were reminded of the fact that Mr. A. A. Olds is still making the most durable and best broom to be had in the city, by the appearance of that gentleman with three of them on Tuesday evening. Mr. Olds is an old hand at the business and knows all about how it is done. If you want a good, durable broom get it of Mr. A. A. Olds.

HORRIBLE SUICIDE!

Another Good Citizen Gone Wrong.

M. P. Stephens, of St. Hilaire, the Victim!

A CANDIDATE FOR THE NEW INSANE ASYLUM!

HE MAY BE DEAD BY THIS TIME!

On Tuesday we received a startling piece of intelligence. It was a copy of the Red Lake Times, of St. Hilaire, that for months has slept the sleep of the just. At the mast head was the name of M. P. Stephens, a lawyer who has heretofore borne a very high reputation in St. Hilaire, and the universal verdict up there is "I wouldn't have thought it of him!" Mr. Stephens was a lawyer of fine attainments, who enjoyed the high regards of all who knew him in life, he was law partner of the great and good "UNCLE JOSH," whose writings have rendered his name immortal, and until this sad blow fell his bright prospects were numerous and brilliant in the extreme. His sad and untimely end, by his own hand, will be deeply regretted by his many friends.

One more unfortunate,
Weary of life,
Rashly importunate,
Gone,—into the newspaper business.

The Palace Jewelry Store.

Berthiaume Bro's have moved their entire stock of jewelry into the room formerly occupied by H. M. Lancaster as a restaurant on Robert street. They have painted, papered and carpeted the room in fine shape and their large stock of goods is displayed in large cases as fine as can be found in large city stores. When they first opened out in Crookston they occupied a small room on Robert street which, as their trade increased they found to be entirely inadequate to their wants, and they have been forced to seek larger quarters. They have now found what they need and to say that they have fitted it up in elegant style conveys but little idea of their surroundings. One must see it to appreciate it fully. They carry a large and complete stock of everything in the line of watches, clocks, jewelry, musical instruments, [illegible] and employ only the best of workmen in the shop. They are prepared to do any and all work in their line promptly and well at the most reasonable figures. Their prices on all goods compare favorably with city prices for the same goods. Call at their new location on Robert street and look them over.

LOST.

A valuable English pointer about [illegible] months old. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] for his return to Berthiaume Bro's. [illegible]

Of Interest to Farmers.

Stone & Pinkerton have secured the agency for the Champion Cockle Mill, which is the best machine of its kind in existence. It will clean wheat once through almost perfectly and twice through will take out almost every fine seed of any kind. It will pay farmers to drop in and see one of these machines clean up foul wheat.

A breakage at Lee & Herrick's Roller Mills last week caused a few days suspension of labor.

Ed. Walsh is going to try for a flowing well on his Ash Street property.

The Grand Forks Plaindealer has got into its new office and presents a greatly improved appearance. "Purified by fire," as it were.

Jim Hill and His Bulls.

Red Wing Sun: According to the report of J. J. Hill's speech before the legislative committee in St. Paul Wednesday evening, that gentleman indulged in some strictures on the newspapers which were neither wise nor called for. The newspapers, when complaints are brought to them showing that it costs nearly double the amount to carry a threshing machine over his road one hundred and forty miles than it does to bring the same machine from Syracuse, New York, have some reason to inquire why such things are thusly. It is the duty of newspaper men to present the complaints and grievances of their patrons, and we do not believe there are many papers in the northwest that would not be glad to publish any explanation which Mr. Hill would see fit to make in the matter. That gentleman is very plausible and shrewd, and we have given him credit of being wise beyond many others and benevolent to a degree, but most people remember when he was a "mud clerk" on the St. Paul wharf, and doubtless a good one, and the fact is no disgrace to him; but when he intimates that he would be satisfied with six per cent. interest on the cash that he has put into the road, as men put their money into farming and other business, paying a hundred cents on the dollar for the value received out of his own pockets, the people would like to know from whence his millions came in the past few years. There is a good deal of humbug about the cost of railroad building on those prairies, there has been a good deal of public bounty, of municipal bonuses, of land grants and shrewd manipulations of railroad stocks and bonds, a great deal of fiction and fallacy, that have resulted in bringing the wharf clerk of St. Paul to become the great railroad king, while the honest, toiling trades-people, farmers and mechanics, who have settled that northland and made Mr. Hill's town lots and farm lands valuable, have in many cases sunk into deepest poverty. We are willing to admit a great deal of wisdom to Mr. Hill and can see the point of his flattering the farmers and claiming them as partners and all that, but we hope he will please remember that from his partners, the farmers, and not from the newspapers came up the rumblings of this earthquake of discontent, from the farmers, among whom he claims, in his lordly style, to be distributing blooded bulls as a lord might among his dependent tenants, and the newspapers have only recorded the facts of the internal disturbances.

Grand Forks Herald: Conspicuous among the outspoken representatives of the people on the joint committee now laboring at St. Paul with the monopoly dragon is Mr. Canning. He strikes right at the heart of the wheat-market question when he favors legislation in Minnesota to suppress the gang of conspirators at Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth, and for this end of the line open markets and the right of every man to build his own warehouse and to ship his own grain. There is no rubbing out these silent truths. Let the railroad magnates hurl all the figures of the census and all the literary lumber of the magazines and patent office reports at the joint committee to confuse and bewilder them and lead their judgments astray. It is all written in the few words of Mr. Canning: Let Minnesota, which has the power, crush the monopoly at the present receiving points, and let Dakota, which has also the power if it has the manhood and independence, declare in the language of the Illinois law that every railroad shall receive and ship any quantity of wheat or other grain at any of its stations in Dakota without unreasonable delay, and without discrimination on demand, and convey it to its destination. Any proposition that loses sight of this is a fraud upon the country. We are not demagogues. There is no election pending. We ask no rewards. All we demand for the people in North Dakota and North Minnesota is that [illegible] [illegible] the Canadian Pacific voluntarily [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] grade and price for [illegible] [illegible] quality of grain.

Dissolution Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership heretofore existing between [illegible] Norton and E. W. Benedict under the firm name of Norton & Benedict, is this day dissolved by mutual consent. [illegible]

[illegible] Norton.

Crookston, Dec. 24, 1884. [41-3]

[illegible]

Notice.

I desire to call the attention of the public to the fact that I have opened a jewelry and watchmaking business in the store formerly occupied by James McKenzie, Second Street, Crookston. I purpose to run a first-class jewelry store and shall adhere to the rule of promptness all the time. I would also respectfully [illegible] a friendly patronage of the generous public.

O. H. SAAKE,
Fine watchmaker and jeweler, Crookston, Minn.

The United States Internal Revenue Special Tax is due May 1st. Any information and a full line of blanks can be had by calling on or addressing

JOHN MCLEAN,
Attorney at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

Hogs! Hogs!! Hogs!!!

A Polk County granger wants to buy a few good shotes, from six months to a year old, sows preferd. The highest market price in cash will be paid. For further particulars call on or address JOURNAL office, Crookston, Minn.

[37-tf]

Notice to Bankers.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss.
Norman County.

Pursuant to an act of the Legislature approved March 3d, 1881, entitled "An Act relating to the duties of County Treasurers and the care of the public funds," (being chapter 124, G. L. of 1881) notice is hereby given that proposals for the deposit of the funds of this county for the ensuing two years will be received by the undersigned, Board of Auditors, at the office of the County Auditor, until the 18th day of February, 1885. Such proposals shall state what security will be given to the county for such funds so deposited and what interest will be allowed on monthly balances of the amounts deposited.

Conditioned that the said funds with accrued interest shall be held subject to draft and payment at all times on demand.

We reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

Dated at Ada, Norman County, Minn., this 27th day of Jan., 1885.

NELS O. HENDERSON,
Chairman Board County Com's.
J. C. NORBY,
Clerk of District Court.
JOHN SHELY,
County Auditor.

John Knuppe,

General Agent in the Red River Valley of the Netherlands American Land Company of Amsterdam, Holland.

Money to loan on good real estate security, on time to suit the borrower. Office over Merchant's Bank. [1-tf]

NOTICE.

As I have established a Nursery in Crookston and propose to continue the business, I will announce to our former customers and all that are desirous of obtaining trees and Plants the coming spring that I will sell said stock at prices below any competition. Call and see me before making purchase elsewhere. Residence on second block north of Court House, or address P. O. Box 754.

Most Respectfully,
[38-tf] E. W. HASELTINE.

Notice to Farmers.

C. Kretzschmar's Grist Mill, at Red Lake Falls, is again open for business. Flour will be exchanged for wheat, or your wheat will be ground on shares. A good feed mill is run in connection with the mill and satisfaction in all cases is guaranteed. Flour and feed on hand at all times and sold at lowest market rates.

[16-tf] C. KRETZSCHMAR.

At Seely's

You can find some extra fine crab-apple cider, old bourbon whisky, eight years old, Maryland Club, pure rye, Jules and G. H. Mum's extra dry champagne, imported Scotch ales and porters for medicinal purposes, also a fine stock of imported cigars. Call and sample. [22-tf]

Money to Loan.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS to loan on improved farms from THREE to FIVE years time at very reasonable rates. Apply at my office on Broadway, in U. S. Land Office building.

[14tf] H. STEENERSON,

PIANO TUNING.

Any parties having pianos or organs that need tuning or repairing, can have their work satisfactorily done by leaving orders at the Linton House. Satisfaction guaranteed.

[9-tf] E. F. WHEELDEN.

$100,000

To Loan on improved claims in sums of $250 to $2,000. Cash paid for school bonds. Call on or address

JOHN MCLEAN, Att'y at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

DIED.

MCARTHUR.—At Euclid, on Thursday, Jan. [illegible], 1885, Mrs. James McArthur, aged [illegible] years. [illegible]

LIST OF LETTERS.

Remaining uncalled for in the Crookston Post Office for the week ending Feb. 21, 1885. Persons calling for these letters will please say advertised.

Andrew, Carl [illegible]
Agnes, Geo. [illegible]
Bengtson, John [illegible]
Carignan, Octave
Dupont, Joseph
Erikson, Anton
Gobler, L. H.
Johanneson, Gunnila
Kimball, [illegible]
Larson, Sarah
Nass, Peter
Oltum, Anne
Riche, Sophia
Singery, [illegible]
Sandalyn, [illegible]
Schafer, John
[illegible]

[illegible] P. M.

WM. WATTS,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
REAL ESTATE
[illegible]

THE
St. Paul,
Minneapolis
—AND—
Manitoba
RAILWAY

—WITH ITS—

1,400 MILES OF ROAD,

Is the only line extending through the

PARK REGION OF MINNESOTA

To all principal points in

RED RIVER VALLEY,
NORTHERN MINNESOTA,
NORTHERN DAKOTA,

—AND THE—

Devil's Lake & Turtle Mountain Districts

—CONTAINING OVER—

9,000,000 Acres

GOVERNMENT LANDS!

The Land department of the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway, has exclusive charge of the Company's Lands in Minnesota, and all correspondence relative to the purchase of lands, terms, description or price of any particular tract should be addressed to that department.

Maps and pamphlets describing the country and giving rates of fare to settlers, etc., mailed FREE on application.

JAS. B. POWER,
Land and Immigration Commissioner
C. H. WARREN,
General Passenger Agent,
St. P., M. & M. R'y., St. Paul, Minn.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Jan. 22d, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of six hundred forty-five and 60-100 dollars which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by J. Anderson Foord, an unmarried man, mortgagor to Fredrick Peterson and John Peterson, mortgagees bearing date the 31st day of May A. D. 1883, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 29th day of May A. D. 1883, at 3:10 o'clock p. m., in book "R" of mortgages, on page 22, and whereas the undivided one-half interest in the said mortgage and the debt secured thereby was by the said Fredrick Peterson, one of said mortgagees, duly assigned in writing under his hand and seal to Harold Swenson and Peter Broberg "copartners" by assignment, dated July 31st 1884, which assignment was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of August 1884, at 1:30 o'clock p. m., in book "R" of mortgages on page 330, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: The north one-half (n½) of the southeast one-fourth (se¼) and the east one-half (e½) of the southwest one-fourth (sw¼) of Section twenty-eight (28,) of Township one hundred and fifty-three (153), Range forty-three (43,) containing one hundred and sixty acres according to government survey, said lot, piece, or parcel of land being situated in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the seventh day of March A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated, January 22d, A. D. 1885.

JOHN PETERSON,
Mortgagee.
HAROLD SWENSON AND PETER BROBERG,
Assignees of Fredrick Peterson.
B. F. JENNESS, Attorney. [39-45]

BERG & OLSON,

PRACTICAL WATCHMAKERS

AND DEALERS IN

CLOCKS,
WATCHES,
JEWELRY,

ROBERT STREET,
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

Fortier's Place,

Corner Broadway and Robert Street

EVERYTHING NEW, NEAT
AND NOBBY.

Billiards, Pool, and the Choicest Wines, Liquors and Cigars. The purest High Proof Whiskies at wholesale prices.

PURE IMPORTED GOODS ON DROUGHT.

M. M. VAN DYKE,
Physician and Surgeon,
Corner of Main and Second Streets,
CROOKSTON, MINN.
Will attend to all professional calls promptly.

A. Allen,
AGENT FOR THE HOWE
SCALE
COMPANY.

The Old Brick Block

IS THE PLACE

To Buy Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Boots and Shoe Hats and Caps, or anything you want.

FONTAINE & ANGLIM

IS THE FIRM

Who are ready, with a corps of affable clerks to show you their NEW FALL and WINTER STOCK, and quote prices to astonish the natives.

Great Bargains!

Don't forget to visit Fontaine & Anglim's Emporium, in the Old Brick Block,

MAIN STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.

SEEDS AND PLANTS.

OUR ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE
OF
"EVERYTHING FOR THE GARDEN,"

full of valuable cultural directions, containing three colored plates, and embracing everything NEW and RARE in SEEDS and PLANTS, will be mailed on receipt of stamps to cover postage (6 cents.) To customers of last season sent FREE without application.

PETER HENDERSON & Co.,
35 & 37 CORTLANDT ST.
NEW YORK.

Hack & Gallasch
ARE SELLING THEIR GOODS
AT COST
For 30 days only. For Bargains Call Early.

A. Yvernault,

Dealer in

General
Merchandise,

—MAIN STREET,—
Crookston, Minn.

All my friends, both old and new, are cordially invited to call and examine my stock and get prices.

EIKEN BROS.,

Corner of Fletcher and Main Street, Crookston, Minn.

Dealers in

HARDWARE, TIWARE,
STOVES,
—AND—
SHELFWARE.

WE KEEP A
FULL & COMPLETE
STOCK,
AND Invite the Patronage
OF ALL.

E. D. Schreader,
LIVERY,
Feed and Sale Stable.

BEST TURNOUTS
IN THE CITY.

Single or Double Rigs, with or without driver or

SADDLE HORSES

Always ready at a moments notice by day or night. If you want a Nobby Turnout call at the Red Barn, Corner Main and Third Streets,

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA

NEW LIVERY,
Feed and Sale
STABLES.,

CORNER MAIN AND FOURTH STS.,
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA

TERRY & COLLINS, Prop's.

Good Turnouts at all times a reasonable prices. Good Hearse and careful driver when needed.

Crookston Nurseries.

Established in 1879.

Tree Claim Stock.

I will furnish my customers and others, trees and seeds for Tree Claims at reduced figures in the spring of 1885. Also all the hardier varieties of small fruits, such as Currants, Gooseberries, and Raspberries. Also good thrifty Transcendent and Hislop Crab-Apple trees, Cottonwood and Box Elder trees. Box Elder and Ash seed, and Willow cuttings. Also garden seeds. The firm of Haseltine Bros. was dissolved in June, 1883. E. W. Haseltine has no interest or share in the old Crookston Nurseries. I continue business on the old grounds in Crookston. Don't fail to to send for catalogue of prices

FRANK T. HASELTINE, Prop.
Crookston, Minn.

Commercial Hotel,
NORTON & BENEDICT, Prop's.
SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN

First-class in all respects. Terms reasonable. A share of the public patronage solicited.

SECOND STREET
MEAT MARKET
STANTON & CO., Proprietors.

Choice meats of every description. Fish and game in their season. Everything of the very best quality and lowest prices. Call and see us.

STANTON & CO.,
Dobson's Block, Second Street.

MERCHANTS'
BILLIARD HALL,
FRED ANDERSON, Proprietor,
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA

The choicest Wines, Liquors and Cigars constantly on hand.

Furniture Store,
BROADWAY, CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.
P. BATAGLIA, Prop.

Keeps constantly on hand a well selected stock of Wardrobes, Bureaus, Sofas, Lounges, Bedsteads, Bed Springs, Tables, Chairs, Rocking Chairs, Stands, Ornaments, Picture Mouldings and Picture Frames. REPAIRING DONE TO ORDER. Coffins of all kinds kept constantly on hand.

Wentzel & Rauch,
Sample Rooms.
MAIN STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.
[illegible] fine mixed drinks [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] choicest liquors and cigars [illegible] [illegible]

EATING BEFORE SLEEPING.

Journalist's Experience of Value to Mankind in General.

David M. Stone in N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

The notion is widely prevalent that it is unhealthy to eat late at night or just before retiring. This came from the severe denunciation of "late suppers" contained in nearly all the old popular works on diet. The argument in these publications was not directed against the food at a late hour in the day, but against what was involved in a late supper, at a period when the revelers slipped from the chairs and spent the night under the table, or were carried by waiting lackeys insensible to their beds.

It was the midnight debauch that was the object of attack, and even here it was less the gluttony than the drunkenness which alarmed the doctors and called forth their reprehensions. A man may induce apoplexy by gorging himself with food at any hour of the day, but the bottle after bottle of heady wine or the bowls of hot punch at the evening revel were what did the business for most who ran a brief career of dissipation to an untimely grave.

Man is the only animal that can be taught to sleep quietly on an empty stomach. The brute creation resent all efforts to coax them to such a violation of the laws of nature. The lion roars in the forest until he has found his prey, and when he has devoured it he sleeps over until he needs another meal. The horse will paw all night in the stable, and the pig will squeal in the pen, refusing all rest or sleep until they are fed. The animals which chew the cud have their own provision for a late meal just before dropping off to their night slumbers.

Man can train himself to the habit of sleeping without a preceding meal; but only after long years of practice. As he comes into the world nature is too strong for him and he must be fed before he will sleep. A child's stomach is small, and when perfectly filled, if no sickness disturbs it, sleep follows naturally and inevitably. As digestion goes on, the stomach begins to empty. A single fold in it will make the little sleeper restless; two will awaken it, and if it is hushed again to repose the nap is short, and three folds put an end to the slumber. Paregoric or other narcotic may close its eyes again, but without either food or some stupefying drug it will not sleep, no matter how healthy it may be. Not even an angel who learned the art of minstrelsy in a celestial choir can sing a babe to sleep on an empty stomach.

We use the oft quoted illustration, "sleeping as sweetly as an infant," because this slumber of a child follows immediately after its stomach is completely filled with wholesome food. This sleep which comes to adults long hours after partaking of food, and when the stomach is nearly or quite empty, it is not after the type of infantile repose. There is all the difference in the world between the sleep of refreshment and the sleep of exhaustion.

To sleep well, the blood that swells the veins in the head during our busy hours must flow back, leaving a greatly diminished volume behind the brow that lately throbed with such vehemence. To digest well, this blood is needed at the stomach and near the fountains of life. It is a fact established beyond the possibility of contradiction that sleep aids digestion, and that the process of digestion is conducive to refreshing sleep. It needs no argument to convince us of this mutual relation. The drowsiness which always follows a well-ordered meal is itself a testimony of nature to this interdependence.

The waste of human life by the neglect of the lesson is very great. The daily wear and tear of the body might be restored more fully than it usually is if this simple rule was not systematically violated. Sleep is wonderfully recuperative, but it may be shorn of half its benefits by unfavorable conditions. Foul air in the bed chamber leaves the sleeper almost as exhausted in the morning as when weary with the day's labor, he sank upon the bed. A gnawing stomach, empty of food takes out of the nightly sleep that refreshing sense of comfort which properly belongs to it. It leaves the blood to throb in the heated brow, and haunts the sleep with an ever-present source of disquiet. It is like the sleep which the mother takes while her sick child is under the care of watchers in another room. An uneasy stomach is just like an aching heart in its effect upon the nightly repose.

A healthy person who goes to bed on a full stomach will always wake in the morning with a better appetite for his breakfast. If dinner is eaten in the middle of the day and a light supper is served at 6 in the afternoon, a hearty luncheon should be provided at 10 in the evening, or just before the time of retiring. The rule should be to eat at the last moment before going to bed, whatever that hour may be.

And this latest meal should not be of "light" viands, and this phrase is commonly understood. The less a person eats at any time of cake or pie, or the countless flummeries that go to make up fancy tea-table the better, but none of these should be eaten at bedtime. Cold chicken, cold roast beef, corned beef, or wholesome meat of any kind, with well baked bread and butter, (sauce and pickle will do no harm), will serve the substantial requisites for this collation. Milk is perhaps the best of all where the pure article can be obtained. "Borden's condensed" will supply it in the best shape to suit our taste, and if this is used it should be mixed with warm or hot water, instead of cold and eaten before it cooles. With bread and fruit, (baked apples will serve when berries and peaches fail), this makes a very wholesome evening meal.

A person should be very cautious when they reform their habits in this respect. A mouthful or two each night at first is all that should be attempted, gradually increasing the quantity until the luncheon becomes a pretty substantial meal. If indigestion follows at any time, chewing the meat of one or two peach pits (for the prussic acid in them) after eating is better than sending for a doctor. With a clear conscience and a full stomach, any man in tolerable health may derive from his nightly sleep that recuperation which ought to come from the sweet restorer of life's daily wear and waste.

ONIONS BAKED.—A very appetizing way to cook onions is to boil them in salt and water until they begin to be tender; drain the water from them, peel them, and wrap each onion in soft paper; set them side by side into a dripping pan, let them bake until done, remove the paper, then put into a vegetable dish, and pour rich brown gravy over them or melted butter.

PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.—Mr. Merrill, from the committee on finance, reported favorably, with amendments, the house bill for the retirement and recoinage of the trade dollar. The vote in committee was 6 to 4 against the bill. Mr. Merrill gave notice that he would call up the bill Tuesday next.

Mr. Cameron (Pa). from the committee on military affairs, reported the bill to authorize the establishment of a retired list for non commissioned officers and privates of the United States army who have served thirty years and upwards.

Senator McMillan, from the judiciary committee, reported favorably Senator Hoar's bill to provide two additional associate justices for Dakota.

Senator McMillan introduced an amendment to the Indian bill, appropriating $730 to pay John Kanla for depredations by the Sioux in 1862.

In executive session, the president nominated William M. Buswell of Louisiana naval officer of the customs, district of New Orleans.

Confirmations—H. C. Minor, Louisiana, collector of internal revenue, district of Louisiana; John F. Hartranft, Pennsylvania, collector of customs, district of Philadelphia; Sanford E. Chaille, Louisiana member of the national board of health; Capt. Almon F. Rockwell, assistant quartermaster, to be quartermaster with rank of major; Nelson A. Dunning, Michigan, consul at Auckland; Assistant Naval Constructor George F. Mallet, California, naval constructor. Postmasters—Henry S. Hindekoper, Philadelphia; John M. Bacon, Oregon City, Or.; Thomas J. Ross, Nevada, Iowa; William B. Fish, Anamosa, Iowa; Donald McDonald, Grand Forks, Dak.

In executive session Senator Bayard concluded his speech upon the Nicaraguan treaty. He maintained that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty is still in force, and that the ratification of the Nicaraguan treaty would be a violation of it. A running debate of an hour then took place. Senator Sherman had two amendments pending. One is to open negotiations with England for the abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty before proceeding with the ratification of the Nicaraguan treaty. The other is to provide that there shall be no discrimination either for or against any government in canal rates for the passage of vessels.

HOUSE.—The Army Appropriation bill was discussed and passed. Only two amendments were made by the house. One of these changes the articles of war relating to courts martial so as to permit such courts to regulate the hours of their sessions, and the other strikes out the paragraph reported by the committee authorizing graduates of the United States military academy to be attached to any corps of the army for which they are recommended by the academic board as additional second lieutenants until vacancies happen. This paragraph was inserted to guard against the discharge of cadets who will graduate in 1886, the class of that year being unusually large. McMillan of Tennessee and Warner of Ohio led the opposition to this paragraph, which was knocked out on a point of order.

SENATE.—Messages from the president were laid before the senate, transmitting information heretofore called for regarding the landing of foreign cables in the United States; the awards of the Venezuelan mixed commission, and the status of the Oklahoma lands, which lands, the president maintains, cannot, under existing treaties, be opened for settlement. Without the transaction of other business, the senate went into executive session on the Nicaragua treaty. Senator Vance made a speech arguing that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty was still an obstacle to the ratification of the treaty and offered a motion that further action be postponed until after March 4. This motion was the subject of a long debate. Senators Bayard and Saulsbury and others upon the Democratic side spoke in favor of the motion, and Senators Morgan, Lapham, Conger and Miller of California opposed it.

The following nominations were sent by the president to the senate:

Nicholas H. Owings, secretary of Washington Territory. Registers of land offices—George A. McKenzie, Stockton, Cal.; Charles R. Johnson, Los Angeles, Cal.; Mark L. Blunt, Pueblo, Col.; Henry H. Griffiths, receiver of public moneys at Des Moines, Iowa; Robert Woolbridge, Ohio, Indian agent of the Lemlie agency, Idaho. Postmasters—George E. Delavan, Greene, Iowa; H. L. J. McClellan, Marion, Iowa; Henry F. Steward, Ketchum, Iowa.

HOUSE.—Mr. Clay, from the committee on presidential laws, reported a concurrent resolution providing:

The two houses shall assemble in the hall of the house at noon on the 11 of February, 1885, pursuant to the requirements of the constitution and laws relating to the president and vice president of the United States, and the president of the senate shall be the presiding officer; that one person shall be appointed teller on the part of the senate and two as tellers on the part of the house, to make a list of the votes as they shall be declared. That result shall be delivered to the president of the senate, who shall announce the state vote and the persons elected to the two houses assembled as aforesaid, which shall be deemed the declaration of the persons elected as president and vice president. Referred.

J. W. Reed, Democrat, took his seat as the successor to Mr. Scales, fifth district of North Carolina. Mr. Hewitt was again defeated in attempt to have the Mexican treaty bill taken up for consideration. The house voted to consider railway land grant forfeiture bills, but was prevented from doing so by filibustering.

SENATE.—The senate went into executive session and the suspended vote upon Senator Vance's motion to postpone action upon the Nicaragua treaty was continued, resulting in the defeat of the motion—23 to 25. Senator Sherman's amendment, looking to the abrogation or modification of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, was then discussed some hours, and coming to a vote in committee of the whole, was defeated—27 to 28. The second Sherman amendment, relating to discrimination in tolls, was defeated without division. The treaty was then reported to the senate, and a vote upon Sherman's amendment relating to the Clayton-Bulwer treaty was again taken, resulting in its adoption—30 to 19. A vote was then taken upon the treaty itself, and 32 senators voted for its ratification, while 23 voted against it. The affirmative vote being less than two-thirds of the whole number voting, the treaty was not ratified. The nays were all democratic, with the exception of Riddleberger. The following democrats voted for the treaty: Jonas, La., Jones, Flor., Maxey, Morgan, Pendleton and Rugh.

Mr. McMillan has presented in the senate a memorial from the Minnesota legislature urging the purchase of the Portage and Lake Superior ship canals by the government, for the purpose of making it a free waterway.

HOUSE.—After miscellaneous business of no great importance, the river and harbor appropriation bill was discussed until adjournment.

SENATE.—To-day Senator Beck presented a memorial from a number of naval officers, protesting against the passage of the resolution giving the thanks of congress to Commander Schley and Lieut. Emery. The memorial says the resolution would advance these gentlemen one grade, and this advancement would affect all officers now standing above them in the list of their respective ranks. They say, "While, not wishing to detract from the merits of these most excellent and worthy officers, we would respectfully represent that their services in the Greely expedition were not of the character which entitles them to such marked distinction and advantage over their comrades."

Mr. Hoar, from the committee on judiciary, reported favorably a resolution providing that the two houses of congress assemble in the hall of the house on Feb. 11 to count the electoral vote. Mr. Hoar called up the house resolution of similar import, and, after amending it to correspond with the senate resolution, it was agreed to. The amendment increases the number of tellers.

Senator Harrison has introduced for the committee on military affairs a bill to pay the expenses of operating and keeping in repair the Northwest section of the United States military telegraph lines from Bismarck to Fort Bills and connections, constructed under the act of congress 1878, which expenses were incurred between June 20, 1878, and June, 1884.

Confirmations: Postmasters—George E. Delevan, Greene, Iowa; H. Lizzie Johnson, Marion, Iowa; Henry F. Stewart, Ketcham, Idaho. Nicholas H. Owings, secretary Washington Territory.

The speaker laid before the house a message from the president recommending that the steamer Alert, which was presented to this government by England to assist in the search for the Greely party, be returned to England with a fitting acknowledgment of the generous gift. Referred. Also a communication from the secretary of state recommending the passage of a joint resolution permitting military officers to be sent as military instructors to Corea, in compliance with a request of the Corean government.

A THRILLING EXPERIENCE.

Remarkable Statement of Personal Danger and Providential Escape.

The following story—which is attracting wide attention from the press—is so remarkable that we cannot excuse ourselves, if we do not lay it before our readers, even though its length would ordinarily preclude its admission to our limited space.

TO THE EDITOR ROCHESTER (N. Y.) DEMOCRAT:

SIR.—On the first day of June, 1881, I lay at my residence in this city surrounded by my friends and waiting for death. Heaven only knows the agony I then endured, for words can never describe it. And yet, if a few years previous any one had told me that I was to be brought so low, and by so terrible a disease, I should have scoffed at the idea. I had always been uncommonly strong and healthy, and weighed over 200 pounds and hardly knew, in my own experience, what pain or sickness were. Very many people who will read this statement realize at times that they are unusually tired and cannot account for it. They feel dull pains in various parts of the body and do not understand it. Or they are exceedingly hungry one day and entirely without appetite the next. This was just the way I felt when the relentless malady which had fastened itself upon me first began. Still I thought nothing of it; that probably I had taken a cold which would soon pass away. Shortly after this I noticed a heavy, and at times neuralgic, pain in one side of my head, but as it would come one day and be gone the next I paid little attention to it. Then my stomach would get out of order and my food often failed to digest, causing at times great inconvenience. Yet even as a physician, I did not think that these things meant anything serious. I fancied I was suffering from malaria and I doctored myself accordingly. But I got no better. I next noticed a peculiar color and odor about the fluid I was passing—also that there were large quantities one day and very little the next, and that a persistent froth and scum appeared upon the surface, and a sediment settled. And yet I did not realize my danger, for indeed seeing these symptoms continually, I finally became accustomed to them, and my suspicion was wholly disarmed by the fact that I had no pain in the affected organs or in their vicinity. Why I should have been so blind I cannot understand.

I consulted the best medical skill in the land. I visited all the famed mineral springs in America and traveled from Maine to California. Still I grew worse. No two physicians agreed as to my malady. One said I was troubled with spinal irritation; another, dyspepsia; another, heart disease; another, general debility; another, congestion of the base of the brain; and so on through a long list of common diseases, the symptoms of many of which I really had. In this way several years passed, during which time I was steadily growing worse. My condition had really become pitiable. The slight symptoms I at first experienced were developed into terrible and constant disorders. My weight had been reduced from 207 to 130 pounds. My life was a burden to myself and friends. I could retain no food on my stomach, and lived wholly by injections. I was a living mass of pain. My pulse was uncontrollable. In my agony I frequently fell to the floor and clutched the carpet, and prayed for death. Morphine had little or no effect in deadening the pain. For six days and nights I had the death-premonitory hiccoughs constantly. My water was filled with tube-casts and albumen. I was struggling with Bright's Disease of the kidneys in its last stages!

While suffering thus I received a call from my pastor, the Rev. Dr. Foote, at that time rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, of this city. I felt that it was our last interview, but in the course of conversation Dr. Foote detailed to me the many remarkable cures of cases like my own which had come under his observation, by means of a remedy, which he urged me to try. As a practicing physician and a graduate of the schools, I derided the idea of any medicine outside the regular channels being in the least beneficial. So solicitious, however, was Dr. Foote, that I finally promised I would waive my prejudice. I began its use on the first day of June, 1881, and took it according to directions. At first it sickened me; but this I thought was a good sign for one in my debilitated condition. I continued to take it; the sickening sensation departed and I was finally able to retain food upon my stomach. In a few days I noticed a decided change for the better, as also did my wife and friends. My hiccoughs ceased and I experienced less pain than formerly. I was so rejoiced at this improved condition that, upon what I had believed a few days before was my dying bed, I vowed, in the presence of my family and friends, should I recover I would both publicly and privately make known this remedy for the good of humanity, wherever and whenever I had an opportunity, and this letter is in fulfillment of that vow. My improvement was constant from that time, and in less than three months I had gained 26 pounds in flesh, became entirely free from pain and I believe I owe my life and present condition wholly to Warner's Safe Cure, the remedy which I used.

Since my recovery I have thoroughly re-investigated the subject of kidney difficulties and Bright's disease, and the truths developed are astounding. I therefore state, deliberately, and as a physician, that I believe more than one-half the deaths which occur in America are caused by Bright's disease of the kidneys. This may sound like a rash statement, but I am prepared to fully verify it. Bright's disease has no distinctive symptoms of its own, (indeed, it often develops without any pain whatever in the kidneys or their vicinity,) but has the symptoms of nearly every other common complaint. Hundreds of people die daily, whose burials are authorized by a physician's certificate as occurring from "Heart Disease," "Apoplexy," "Paralysis," "Spinal complaint," "Rheumatism," "Pneumonia," and other common complaints, when in reality it is from Bright's disease of the kidneys. Few physicians, and fewer people, realize the extent of this disease or its dangerous and insidious nature. It steals into the system like a thief, manifests its presence if at all by the commonest symptoms and fastens itself upon the constitution before the victim is aware of it. It is nearly as hereditary as consumption, quite as common and fully as fatal. Entire families, inheriting it from their ancestors, have died, and yet none of the number knew or realized the mysterious power which was removing them. Instead of common symptoms it often shows none whatever, but brings death suddenly, from convulsions, apoplexy or heart disease. As one who has suffered, and knows by bitter experience what he says, I implore every one who reads these words not to neglect the slightest symptoms of kidney difficulty. Certain agony and probable death will be the sure result of such neglect and no one can afford to hazard such chances.

I am aware that such an unqualified statement as this, coming from me, known as I am throughout the entire land as a practitioner and lecturer, will arouse the surprise and possible animosity of the medical profession and astonish all with whom I am acquainted, but I make the foregoing statements based upon facts which I am prepared to produce and truths which I can substantiate to the letter. The welfare of those who may possibly be sufferers such as I was, is an ample inducement for me to take the step I have, and if I can successfully warn others from the dangerous path in which I once walked, I am willing to endure all professional and personal consequences.

J. B. HENION, M. D.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Dec. 30.

Death Amid Rags and Jewels.

London Cable: An erratic millionaire named Keith has been found dead in his mansion at Caterham, near London. He died alone of apoplexy. He had lived a life of solitary wretchedness for twenty years. His wife, to whom he was devotedly attached, and whom he surrounded with every purchasable luxury, died in 1864. After her burial Mr. Keith never left his mansion, and every thing in the house was suffered to go to decay. He never admitted visitors, and cooked his own food, which was procured for him by a trusty servant who lived in a neighboring cottage. He slept on a pile of rags and sacking on the floor of a room opposite an open wardrobe, in which were hung his wife's wedding dress, several ball dresses, and many rich jewels which she had formerly worn. The house was furnished sumptuously, but there was six inches of dust over the handsome furniture, and the house was indescribably filthy.

Another British Victory in Africa.

Intelligence has been received at the British war department that Gen. Stewart's force is entrenched south of Metemneh. The dispatch also gives the gratifying information that Stewart is in communication with Gen. Gordon. Stewart's force had several fights with Arab rebels before reaching Metemneh. Gen. Stewart himself was badly wounded. Five of the Mahdi's emirs were killed in the fight. The enemy numbered seven thousand. A large number were cavalry armed with rifles. The British loss is twenty killed and sixty wounded. Total loss of enemy, thirteen hundred. Gen. Wolseley in his dispatch reports the capture of Metemneh by the British. He also says that Sir Charles Wilson has gone to Khartoum on board a steamer to confer with Gordon. The point where the battle of the 19th occurred is in the desert about five miles south from Metemneh. When Gen. Stewart reached that point, he found the enemy hovering about his little army on all sides, and skirting it often within an uncomfortably short range. The rebels had evidently stationed themselves in the vicinity to await his arrival and give him battle. Among the first killed were Mr. Cameron, special correspondent of the London Standard, and Mr. Herberts, special correspondent of the London Post. Gen. Stewart was one of the very first to be wounded. He was shot in the thigh.

The latest dispatches received in the war office show Lord St. Vincent was not as once reported, killed in the battle fought in the desert the 16th inst. He died from a wound received the 17th at Abu-Klea. Only two British officers were killed in the zareba fight.

Mutiny and Murder at Sea.

A terrible tale of mutiny and murder is recorded on the book of the brigantine Natal, which is lying in the Atlantic basin, Brooklyn. When two months out, while the captain was asleep one night, the carpenter attacked him with a broadax, laying open his face. The captain warded off a second blow, and the carpenter stabbed with a sheath knife in the neck. The mate hearing the struggle, ran in, and the captain, with his aid, drove out the carpenter and barricaded the cabin door, just as the steward was coming to reinforce the carpenter. The mutineers retreated into the forehold, where they were imprisoned, as was supposed, by the battering down of the forehatches. Next day a search was made for the captain's son. His cap with a broadaxe cut in it was found on deck. He had been murdered and his body thrown into the sea by the mutineers. The three men worked the brigantine for four days. The captain then loosened the fore-hatch and called on the mutineers to come up and surrender. They threw their sheath knives on deck, but muttered that the pistols had been lost below. The captain had no leg-irons or handcuffs with which to secure them. He believed they lied, and he shot the carpenter and steward dead, and threw their bodies overboard. The others agreed to obey orders after that.

The Weather.

Lieut. Charles W. McKim, Portland, Ky., states: "For twenty years I suffered with rheumatism. During the bad weather my suffering was terrible. I was about to give up. Some one suggested the application of St. Jacobs Oil. I tried it and its relief was rapid. In half an hour I could stand up. I no longer suffer with the pains."

The N. E. Homestead describes the "tricks" by which the commissioner of agriculture has retained the presidency of the so-called New-England agricultural society" for twenty-one years. Intelligent farmers of the misrepresented six states are said to have been long ago "disgusted with this mutual admiration ring," favoritism in prize awards and gross abuses in the management of its fairs adding to the "disgust."

The civil service commission are considering a proposition to include in the classification of employes coming within the provisions of the civil service act, all government employes enumerated in the laws relating to the civil service except officers nominated by the president and confirmed by the senate, and employes below the $900 grade. Such classification would include chiefs of divisions and assistant chiefs and a number of departmental officers who are not subject to confirmation by the senate.

The principal additions made by the senate committee to the consular and diplomatic bill are as follows: To carry out the provisions of the neutrality act, $12,000; to enable the president to meet unforeseen emergencies arising in the diplomatic and consular service, and to extend commercial and other interests of the United States, $50,000; to meet the expenses of introducing and extending American commerce in the Congo valley, $5,000.

It is estimated that about fifteen thousand persons are out of employment in St. Louis alone.

"A little fire is quickly trodden out
Which, being suffered, rivers cannot quench."

Procrastination may rob you of time, but by increased diligence you can make up the loss; but if it rob you of life the loss is irremediable. If your health is delicate, your appetite fickle, your sleep broken, your mind depressed, your whole being out of sorts, depend on it you are seriously diseased. In all such cases Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" will speedily effect a genuine, radical cure—make a new man of you and save you from tortures of lingering disease.

The senate of Nebraska passed a bill to forbid the sale of tobacco to minors.

"Throw Physic to the Dogs"

when it is the old-fashioned blue mass, blue pill sort, and insist on using Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," a modern medical luxury, being small, sugar-coated granules, containing the active principles of certain roots and herbs, and which will be found to contain as much cathartic power as any of the old fashioned, larger pills, without the latter's violent, drastic effects. The pellets operate thoroughly but harmlessly, establishing a permanently healthy action of the stomach and bowels, and as an antibilious remedy are unequaled.

A dance at Attaka, Ind. Ter., resulted in the necessity for nine funerals.

* * * * Piles, fistulas and rupture radically cured. Book of particulars two letter stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

A New Jersey woman has left $18,000 to Fred Douglas, or the income thereof.

A Bold Counterfeit.

A Bold Counterfeit or Imitation of Dr. C. D. WARNER'S WHITE WINE OF TAR SYRUP and GERMAN HOP BITTERS is being sold in the Northwest. Beware of the dangerous imitations. The worthless stuff is sold to Druggists at $2.50 per dozen, or about 20 cts. per bottle, and they charge you 50 cts. The Genuine WHITE WINE OF TAR SYRUP and GERMAN HOP BITTERS bears the name of DR. C. D. WARNER on label and wrapper and blown in bottle. Take no other.

The Hamburg-American line practically sells second-class passage for $10.

During the war, Dr. Lloyd, of Ohio, from exposure contracted consumption. He says: "I have no hesitation in saying that it was by the use of Allen's Lung Balsam that I am now alive and enjoying perfect health." Don't experiment with new and untried medicines. If you have a cough or cold, take at once Allen's Lung Balsam.

The week's failures numbered 336, against 445 for the week previous.

The Children's Health must not be neglected. Colds in the Head and snuffles bring on Catarrh and throat and lung affections. Ely's Cream Balm cures at once. It is perfectly safe and is easily applied with the finger. It also cures Catarrh and Hay-Fever, the worst cases yielding to it in a short time. Sold by druggists. 50 cents. Ely Bros., Oswego, N. Y.

Roswell Grant uncle of the general, died at St. Albans, W. Va.

CHRONIC CATARRH. The result of 25 years' Catarrh;—the bridge, or division of my nose, was about half gone. I obtained a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm; have used four bottles, applying it to the affected parts with a swab, which has about cured up the nostrils. I had previously tried all other remedies on the market without permanent relief.—J. A. Wood, 96 N. High Street, Columbus, Ohio.

I FIND Ely's Cream Balm good for Catarrh of long standing.—M. N. Lasley, 1434 West Chestnut Street, Louisville, Ky.

At Winterset, Iowa, Mrs. Dooley killed her little boy and herself with opium.

Farmers—Try It!

Wells, Richardson & Co's. Improved Butter Color will be found to be the only oil color that will not become rancid. Test it and you will prove it. It will not color the butter-milk; it gives the brightest color of any made, and is the strongest and therefore the cheapest.

The purest, sweetest and best Cod Liver Oil in the world, manufactured from fresh, healthy livers, upon the sea-shore. It is absolutely pure and sweet. Patients who have once taken it prefer it to all others. Physicians have decided it superior to any of the other oils in market. Made by CASWELL, HAZARD & Co., New York.

NO SAFER REMEDY can be had for Coughs and Colds, or any trouble of the Throat, than "BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES." Price 25 cts. Sold only in boxes.

Maid of Athens.

What is the difference between this noted Lady and Carboline the great Hair Renewer? Ans.—One is Maid of Athens and the other is Made of Petroleum and both come from Grease.

THOUSANDS say so, DR. GRAVES' HEART REGULATOR will give relief, all forms of Heart Disease, nervousness and sleeplessness yield to its use. $1.00 per bottle. Free pamphlet of F. E. Ingalls, Cambridge, Mass.

FOR BILIOUS AFFECTIONS TAKE Allen's Iron Tonic Bitters. All genuine bear the signature of J. P. Allen, Druggist, St. Paul, Minn.

Cole's Carbolisalve is the favorite Household Remedy for the cure of Cuts, Wounds, Chilblains, Poisons, Bites of Insects, and Skin diseases. Get the genuine. 25c. and 75c., at Druggists or by mail. J. W. COLE & CO., Black River Falls, Wis.

ST. JACOBS OIL

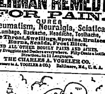
TRADE
MARK.
20

THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY FOR PAIN.

CURES
Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Backache, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swellings, Sprains, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites, AND ALL OTHER BODILY PAINS AND ACHES.

Sold by Druggists and Dealers everywhere. Fifty Cents a bottle. Directions in 11 Languages.

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO.
(Successors to A. VOGELER & CO.) Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.



FOR CLEANSING THE SKIN and Scalp of Birth Humors, for allaying Itching, Burning and Inflammation, for curing the first symptoms of Eczema, Psoriasis, Milk Crust, Scall Head, Scrofula, and other inherited skin and blood diseases, CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, are infallible. Absolutely pure. Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25; RESOLVENT, $1. POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., BOSTON. Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

A Good Family Remedy
STRICTLY PURE.
Harmless to the Most Delicate

WORLD
ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM
RENOWN

THE REMEDY FOR CURING
CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS.
NEW EVIDENCE.
Read the following:

ADDISON, PA., April 7, 1833.
I took a violent cold and it settled on my lungs, so much so, that at times I spit blood. ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM was recommended to me as a good remedy. I took it, and am now sound and well. Yours respectfully,
A. J. HILEMAN.

ADDISON, PA., April, 1833.
A. J. COLBOM, Esq., Editor of the Somerset Herald, writes: I can recommend ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM as being the best remedy for Colds and Coughs I ever used.

ASTORIA, ILLS., April, 6, 1833.
Gentlemen:—I can cheerfully say your ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM, which I have sold for the past fifteen years, sells better than any cough remedy, and gives general satisfaction. 'Tis frequently recommended by the medical profession here. Yours Truly,
H. C. MOONEY, Druggist.

LA FAYETTE, R. I., October, 12, 1834.
Gentlemen:—Allow me to say that after using three bottles of ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM for a bad attack of Bronchitis, I am entirely cured. I send this voluntarily, that those afflicted may be benefited.
Yours respectfully,
BURRILL H. DAVIS.

J. N. HARRIS & CO., Limited, Proprietors.
CINCINNATI, OHIO.

HOPS & MALT
TRADE MARK
BITTERS
WILL CURE Dyspepsia, Liver and KIDNEY Complaint.
IT IS THE
GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER
And Health Restorer,

A perfect renovator and invigorator of the system, carrying away all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition, enriching it, refreshing and invigorating both mind and body. As a cure for RHEUMATICS it has no equal.

SAFE, SURE AND SPEEDY

In all cases of Indigestion, Biliousness, Constipation, Headache, Loss of Appetite, Piles, Neuralgia, Nervous disorders and all FEMALE COMPLAINTS, Hops and MALT Bitters never fails to perfect a cure when properly taken.

THOUSANDS OF CASES

Of the worst forms of these terrible diseases have been quickly relieved, and in a short time perfectly cured by the use of Hops and MALT Bitters. Do not get Hops and MALT confounded with other inferior preparations of similar name. Take nothing but Hops and MALT. All druggists keep them. None genuine unless manufactured by
HOPS & MALT BITTERS CO., Detroit, Mich.

NOYES BROS. & CUTLER, St. Paul.
MERELL & RYAN, St. Paul.
LYMAN ELIEL DRUG CO., Minneapolis.
Wholesale Agents.

THE BIG BOSTON.
FIRE! FLOOD!
The goods saved from the Fire and Flood on Christmas are now offered, and are being sold at prices never heard of before in the North west. Merchant Tailoring at less money than others will charge for Ready-Made Clothing. Satisfaction guaranteed. Send your orders to BIG BOSTON, Minneapolis, Minn.
New Quarters, Washington & 2d aves S.

FOR Man and Beast.
Mustang Liniment is older than most men, and used more and more every year.

TUTT'S PILLS
25 YEARS IN USE.
The Greatest Medical Triumph of the Age!
SYMPTOMS OF A
TORPID LIVER.

Loss of appetite, Bowels costive, Pain in the head, with a dull sensation in the back part, Pain under the shoulder-blade, Fullness after eating, with a disinclination to exertion of body or mind, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, with a feeling of having neglected some duty, Weariness, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, Headache over the right eye, Restlessness, with fitful dreams, Highly colored Urine, and
CONSTIPATION.

TUTT'S PILLS are especially adapted to such cases, one dose effects such a change of feeling as to astonish the sufferer. They Increase the Appetite, and cause the body to Take on Flesh, thus the system is nourished, and by their Tonic Action on the Digestive Organs, Regular Stools are produced. Price 25c. 44 Murray St., N.Y.

TUTT'S HAIR DYE.

GRAY HAIR or WHISKERS changed to a GLOSSY BLACK by a single application of this DYE. It imparts a natural color, acts instantaneously. Sold by Druggists, or sent by express on receipt of $1.
Office, 44 Murray St., New York.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED

STOMACH BITTERS

By the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters the haggard appearance of the countenance and sallowness of dyspepties are supplanted by a healthier look, and as the food is assimilated, the body acquires substance. Appetite is restored, and the nervous system refreshed with much needed slumber, through the use of this medicine, which is also beneficial to persons of a rheumatic tendency, and an inestimable preventive of fever and ague. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

WANTED Ladies and Gentlemen in City or County to take light work at their own homes. $3 to $4 a day easily made. Work sent by mail. No canvassing. We have good demand for our work, and furnish steady employment. Address with stamp CROWN M'F'G. Co., 294 Vine St., Cin'ti, O.

STROWBRIDGE BROAD CAST

SOWER
BEST! CHEAPEST! SIMPLEST!

Sows all grains, grass seeds, plaster, salt, ashes, commercial fertilizers — everything requiring broadcasting—any quantity per acre, better and faster than any other method. SAVES SEED by sowing perfectly even. Not affected by wind, as seed is not thrown upwards. Sows half or full cast, on either or both sides of wagon. Readily attached to any wagon or cart without injury, and used wherever they can be driven. Lasts a life-time. Sows 80 acres wheat per day. Crop one-fourth larger than when drilled. Only perfect Broadcaster made; most accurate agricultural implement in the world. Endorsed and recommended by Agricultural colleges and best farmers in U. S. Fully warranted—perfectly simple. Do not be put off with any other. Send at once for new free illustrated catalogue with full information and hundreds of testimonials.

C. W. DORR, Manager
RACINE SEEDER CO.,
258 FOURTH ST., DES MOINES, IOWA

KIDNEY-WORT
THE SURE CURE
FOR KIDNEY DISEASES,
LIVER COMPLAINTS,
CONSTIPATION, PILES,
AND BLOOD DISEASES.
PHYSICIANS ENDORSE IT HEARTILY.

"Kidney-Wort is the most successful remedy I ever used." Dr. P. C. Ballou, Monkton, Vt.
"Kidney-Wort is always reliable." Dr. R. N. Clark, So. Hero, Vt.
"Kidney-Wort has cured my wife after two years suffering." Dr. C. M. Summerlin, Sun Hill, Ga.

IN THOUSANDS OF CASES

it has cured where all else had failed. It is mild, but efficient, CERTAIN IN ITS ACTION, but harmless in all cases.

It cleanses the Blood and Strengthens and gives New Life to all the important organs of the body. The natural action of the Kidneys is restored. The Liver is cleansed of all disease, and the Bowels move freely and healthfully. In this way the worst diseases are eradicated from the system.

PRICE, $1.00 LIQUID OR DRY, SOLD BY DRUGGISTS.
Dry can be sent by mail.
WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO. Burlington Vt.
KIDNEY-WORT

J. A. SALZER, LACROSSE, WIS.
BUY NORTHERN GROWN SEEDS.
Seeds (our growth), produce by all odds, the finest Flowers, best Vegetables and largest farm crops—increasing yields fully ½ to ⅓. Try them. New Vegetables, Wheat, Oats, Barley, etc. Roses and Plants by 100,000. Will pay to get our new catalogue, free. JOHN A. SALZER, Seed Grower, La Crosse, Wis.
Conceded that our tested reliable Northern

SEEDS FREE BY MAIL.
Illustrated Catalogue of Vegetable and Flower Seeds, Plants, Bulbs, Garden Tools, etc. FREE to all applicants. Market Gardeners send for wholesale list.
J. B. ROOT & CO., Rockford, Illinois.

BUY NORTHERN GROWN SEEDS. No Seeds produce finer Flowers, Vegetables and Crops, than our reliable Northern Grown Seeds. All tested. Don't buy worthless Seeds when for less money ours are delivered FREE BY MAIL at your door. Catalogue free. JOHN A. SALZER, La Crosse, Wis.

HAGAN'S
Magnolia Balm
is a secret aid to beauty. Many a lady owes her freshness to it, who would rather not tell, and you can't tell.

Home Items and Topics.

—All your own fault.
If you remain sick when you can Get hop bitters that never—Fail.

—The weakest woman, smallest child, and sickest child can use hop bitters with safety and great good.

—Old men tottering around from Rheumatism kidney trouble, or any weakness will be made almost new by using hop bitters.

My wife and daughter were made healthy by the use of hop bitters and I recommend them to my people.—Methodist Clergyman.

Ask any good doctor if hop
Bitters are not the best family medicine
On earth! ! !

Malarial fever, Ague and Biliousness, will leave every neighborhood as soon as hop bitters arrive.

My mother drove the paralysis and neuralgia all out of her system with hop bitters."—Ed. Oswego Sun.

Keep the kidneys healthy with hop bitters and you need not fear sickness."

—Ice water is rendered harmless and more refreshing and reviving with hop bitters in each draught.

—The vigor of youth for the aged and infirm in hop bitters! ! !

—"At the change of life nothing equals
Hop Bitters to allay all troubles incident Thereto."

—"The best periodical for ladies to take monthly, and from which they will receive the greatest benefit is hop bitters."

—Mothers with sickly, fretful, nursing children, will cure the children and benefit themselves by taking hop bitters daily.

—Thousands die annually from some form of kidney disease that might have been prevented by a timely use of hop bitters.

—Indigestion, weak stomach, irregularities of the bowels, cannot exist when hop bitters are used.

A timely * * * use of hop
Bitters will keep a whole family
In robust health a year at a little cost.

—To produce a real genuine sleep and child-like repose all night, take a little hop bitters on retiring.

None genuine without a bunch of green Hops on the white label. Shun all the vile poisonous stuff with "Hop" or "Hops" in their name.

BUY SALZER'S (La Crosse, Wis.) SEEDS.

BUY NORTHERN GROWN SEEDS. Catalog free. J. A. SALZER, Seed Grower, La Crosse, Wis.

CANCER A SUCCESSFUL TREATMENT. No knife! No Plaster! No pain! W. C. Payne, M. D., Marshalltown, Iowa.

RAW FURS WANTED. Ship by express in sacks to London, Leipzig & Paris Agency, A. Moore, Mgr., 223 Jackson st., St. Paul, Minn.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till Cured. DR. J. STEPHENS, Lebanon, Ohio.

SOLDIERS NEW LAWS: Officers' pay from commissions: Deserters relieved: Pensions and increase: experience 19 years; success or no fee. Write for circulars and laws. A. W. McCORMICK & SON, Cincinnati, Ohio.

LEARN TELEGRAPHY, or SHORT-HAND and TYPE WRITING HERE. Situations furnished. Address Valentine Bros., Janesville, Wis.

DIAGNOSIS.... Send $1 and a lock of your hair to Mrs. L. Atwood who will locate your disease and prescribe treatment. Satisfaction or money refunded. 118, 5th st. S., Minneapolis, Min.

DIKE'S BEARD ELIXIR
[illegible]
L. L. SMITH & CO., Agents, Palatine, Ill.

[illegible]

AGENTS WANTED for the MISSOURI STEAM WASHER! It will pay any intelligent man or woman seeking profitable employment to write for Illustrated Circular and terms of Agency for this Celebrated Washer, which by reason of its intrinsic merit is meeting with such wonderful success.
J. WORTH, CHICAGO, ILL., or ST. LOUIS, MO.

R. U. AWARE
THAT
Lorillard's Climax Plug
bearing a red tin tag; that Lorillard's Rose Leaf fine cut; that Lorillard's Navy Clippings, and that Lorillard's Snuffs, are the best and cheapest, quality considered?

CONSUMPTION.
I have a positive remedy for the above disease; by its use thousands of cases of the worst kind and of long standing have been cured. Indeed, so strong is my faith in its efficacy, that I will send TWO BOTTLES FREE, together with a VALUABLE TREATISE on this disease to any sufferer. Give express and P. O. address.
DR. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl St., New York.

RUSSIAN FLAX SEED.
We have FOR SALE GENUINE RUSSIAN SEED FLAX. Experience has proven that Russian seed yields fully FIFTY PER CENT better than any other variety ever sown in this country. Sow only the genuine Russian. We guarantee ours. Write for prices.
MANKATO LINSEED OIL CO., MANKATO, MINN.

DR. LINQUIST'S

Spinal Misses' Waist	$1 75
Spinal Corset	2 00
Spinal Nursing Corset	2 25
Spinal Abdominal Corset	2 75

Recommended by leading physicians, delivered free anywhere in the U. S. on receipt of price. Lady Agents Wanted.
Dr. Linquist's Spinal Corset Co., 412 B'way, New York.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S
VEGETABLE COMPOUND
IS A POSITIVE CURE FOR
All those painful Complaints and Weaknesses so common to our best
FEMALE POPULATION.
Price $1 in liquid, pill or lozenge form.

Its purpose is solely for the legitimate healing of disease and the relief of pain, and that it does all it claims to do, thousands of ladies can gladly testify.

It will cure entirely all Ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, and consequent Spinal Weakness, and is particularly adapted to the change of life.

It removes Faintness, Flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves Weakness of the Stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, and backache, is always permanently cured by its use.

Send stamp to Lynn, Mass., for pamphlet. Letters of inquiry confidentially answered. For sale at druggists.

SWEET GUM & MULLEIN
The sweet gum taken from the tree of the Southern swamps contains a stimulating expectorant principle which loosens the phlegm, and cuts the false membrane, relieving the early morning cough in Consumptives, curing Coughs, Croup, and Whooping Cough. This, combined with the mucilaginous healing and flesh producing principle in the Mullein Plant of the old field, presents in Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein, the finest known remedy for Coughs, Croup, Whooping Cough, Colds, and Consumption. For full information send 2c. stamp for "Taylor's Riddle Book" for the welfare of home and amusement of the little ones.
WALTER A. TAYLOR, Atlanta, Ga.

SEEDS.
CHEAPEST,
Pure & Best.
Gardeners trade a specialty. Packets only 3c. Cheap as dirt by oz. & lb. Postage or Exp. paid.
50000 Guides
FREE. Send your address for my most Beautiful Illustrated Garden Guide ever printed. R. H. SHUMWAY, Rockford Ill.

SEEDS I grow them myself and test them before selling. They are fresh and reliable. don't buy any seeds from second-hand dealers. Write for my splendid Illustrated Almanac and Catalogue, FREE. H. W. BUCKBEE, Rockford, Ill.

THE HOUSE OF CLAY.

There was a house—a house of clay,
Wherin the inmates sang all day,
Merry and poor.
For Hope sat likewise heart to heart,
Fond and kind—fond and kind,
Vowing he never would depart—
Till all at once he changed his mind—
"Sweetheart good-bye!" he slipped away,
And shut the door.

But Love came past, and looking in,
With Smiles that pierced like sunshine thin,
Through wall, roof, floor,
Stood in the midst of that poor room,
Grand and fair—grand and fair,
Making a glory out of gloom,
Till at the window mocked old care—
Love sighed—"all lose and nothing win!"
He shut the door.

Then o'er the barred house of clay,
Kind jasmine and clematis gray
Grew evermore—
And bees hummed merrily outside
Loud and strong—loud and strong,
The inner silentness to hide,
The steadfast silence all day long—
Till evening touched with finger gray
The close-shut door.

Most like the next that passes by,
Will be the angel whose calm eye
Marks rich, marks poor;
Who, pausing not at any gate,
Stands and calls—stands and calls;
At which the inmate opens straight—
Whom, o're the crumbling clay house falls,
He takes in kind arms silently
And shuts the door.
Every Other Saturday.

A SLIGHT THEATRICAL ERROR.

Mr. Rufus Snapper played the juvenile lead in a theatrical company on the road which was advertised to bring out only the very first-class novelties. Mr. Digby Dasher played the first walking gentleman in the same organization. To say that these gentlemen were jealous would be merely to outline their feelings to one another. They were rivals, both on the stage and off the stage. Mr. Snapper, who, according to the daily press, was a very promising young actor, had perhaps the best of the struggle before the footlights. When playing the impassioned lover in full warpaint, to any one sitting a little distance from the stage and without an opera glass, he passed for a very fair specimen of an Adonis. Seen in private life the change was great.

He had red hair, and after many years' theatrical paint and powder, the general appearance of his complexion was, to say the least, blotchy. Mr. Dasher, on the contrary, though on the stage he was obliged to stand somewhat in the shade on account of his more "promising" rival, when once away from the footlights' glare decidedly took the lead who was young good looking (though he knew it), and was rumored "to be of very good family, don't you know."

Whether this was true or not, Mr. Snapper gave himself great airs on this account. A certain fair damsel, also belonging to the company, who was known to the public as Miss Adelina Montague, in private life known as Miss Mary Smith, had ensnared the hearts and fancies of the above mentioned gentlemen.

Both were assidious in their attentions, tender in their looks and frequent in their offerings of beer after the performances; but Dasher alone was reserved the smiles and playful coquetries of the fair Adelina. His beers were accepted with smiles; Snapper's were refused without thanks. This fact caused gloomy discontent and thoughts of revenge to brood in the soul of the unlucky Rufus.

Of what avail to him were his theatrical successes and the vigorous plaudits of a delighted public, when the object of his impassioned adoration continued to disdain his love and—his beer?

The action of the comedy in which they both took part entailed the giving of a letter to Mr. Dasher in the character which he assumed. This letter was usually utilized by the fair Adelina to give notice to her swain as to the place where they should meet when the performance was over. These two lovers had been obliged to have recourse to some such secret means of communication, for Snapper was surly, and, like a dog in the manger, was resolved that if he could not enjoy the society of Miss Montague no one else should; and so, being powerful with the manager, employed every means in his power to prevent the lovers from meeting. After a while Snapper got an innings.

One Saturday night, only a few moments before they were ready to "ring up," Mr. Dasher, who had laid all his plans for a pleasant day in the country with his inamorata on the morrow, was taken suddenly ill. Snapper stood by as he saw him assume his overcoat and depart hurriedly homeward, smiling grimly. Another gentleman of the company was hurriedly deputed to fill Dasher's place. As he was going out to the stage Snapper touched him on the arm and said: "See here, Jawkins, I want you to give me that letter that you'll get to-night. There's a message in it for me, a little matter I've arranged with Miss Montague—see? Mum's the word, don't give it away."

Jawkins promised compliance and secrecy, and went his way. In due course the letter was brought and delivered to Jawkins, who, in his turn at the first convenient opportunity, handed it to Snapper. As soon as Mr. Snapper got off the stage he opened it eagerly and read it. The contents were as follows: "Dearest Diggy, Duckey. All is prepared. Meet me to-night after the performance at my house. Don't fail. Yours as ever, ADELINA."

"Diggy, Ducky!" said Snappy scornfully, as he tore this precious missive into little bits. "I think I'll get even with Miss Adelina and her Diggy, Ducky, this time."

Snapper turned hastily around, thinking he had heard a footstep, but saw no one. Soon after the performance was over; the lights were turned out, and Snapper putting on a large cloak and slouch hat (for these were the kind of garments in which Dasher usually appeared) sallied forth to fill his rival's place.

Coming to the appointed trysting place he gazed around somewhat anxiously, and seeing no Adelina in sight, he began to fear that he was too late or had been sold. Finally, however, a female form emerged from the house, and coming up to him and putting her arm through his, murmured softly, "Digby, dear, I am so sorry I was late."

"No matter, dearest," rejoined Snapper, in tones which he endeavored to assimilate to those in which the fascinating Digby spoke; "I would wait for hours for one glance of those beautiful eyes. Hem! I think I've hit the style off pretty nicely," he thought, and he began to walk the young lady briskly off.

"Not so fast, please," murmured the fair one, "I get out of breath very easily."

Snapper thought it was rather peculiar that the sylph like Adelina, who was not over-burdened with flesh—her detractors even called her skinny—should get out of breath so easily, but said nothing.

"Where shall we go; dear Digby?" said the fair one, after they had tramped on for some time in silence.

"Oh! I know a nice place, quiet and secluded, where we are not likely to be disturbed. Come along, I am getting thirsty," said Snapper, somewhat shortly, for the fair one leaned more and more heavily upon his arm.

"Oh, Digby! how cross you are to-night," said Adelina, plaintively.

"Not at all, my sweet, my own, my darling, my pet," said Snapper, somewhat hurriedly.

"Confound it!" he thought, "if I have got to keep up this turtle dove business much longer I shall burst.

He finally arrived at the place that Snapper had chosen for the development of his little comedy. It was a quiet restaurant, much affected by the "profession," whose doors were never closed either night nor day to the hungry soul. They asked for and were shown into a private room. As soon as they had entered the lady said:

"Digby, dear, turn down the light."

Snapper was somewhat surprised at a request which tallied so nearly with what he intended doing, as he did not yet intend to discover himself. As he obeyed the lady's behest, he thought "That Digby's no fool! He's evidently got a very soft thing here, of which I intend to get the benefit for a while at least."

"Now order supper, Digby, dear," said the lady.

Snapper rather quailed at this, as he had only expected to supply beer, still he suppressed his feelings and rang the bell.

The waiter appeared, and before Snapper had time to open his mouth, his fair companion said briskly. "Waiter, supper for two, please; some deviled crabs, a couple of quail, some fried oysters, celery and a bottle of champagne."

Snapper listened aghast, and wondered sadly whether Digby did this sort of thing every night, and if so, how he did it.

"Shall I turn up the gas, mum?" said the waiter.

"Oh, no, certainly not!" said both Snapper and his companion hurriedly and simultaneously, and the waiter retired.

Snapper thought of the bill, and his zest for revenge was somewhat weakened, but still thinking that he had better make the best of the situation he drew his fair companion beside him, on the sofa and proceeded to act towards his companion as he presumed his friend Digby would have done under similar circumstances—with the gas turned down.

A discreet tap at the door aroused the couple, and the waiter entered bearing the supper.

A happy thought now struck Snapper. He thought that as Digby was supppose to have ordered the supper, he might as well pay the bill, and so instructed the waiter to have it charged to his account. This the waiter promised to do, and Snapper thinking that his revenge would be more complete sat down to his supper in great content.

The supper was still in progress when a voice was heard outside clamoring in noisy terms. "Where is he? Let me get at him! I will get in. Waiter get out of the way!" and the door was burst violently open, and a man shrouded in a long cloak rushed into the room.

Snapper rose to repel the attack of the enemy, thinking complacently that he had not labored in vain. The man in the cloak, without waiting to parley, seized Snapper by the hair and yelled violently, "Where's my wife?"

The hair this time being a wig which Snapper had used to conceal the color of his locks, gave way suddenly, and the man in the cloak fell down.

"Wife!" said Snapper scornfully, "nonsense! she is not your wife any more than she is mine."

"You villain!" said the man in the cloak making another grab for the hair, which Snapper eluded by dodging under the table, "do you mean to insinuate that you, you—know she's been my wife this ten year."

"Great goodness!" said Snapper, emerging from the other side of the table, "that's not posible! the girl's only twenty-one now. Who the devil are you anyway?"

"Who am I?" returned the other, "I'll very soon show you who I am, you impudent scoundrel. I'll teach you to take other men's wives off to supper, too," and throwing off his cloak he disclosed the form and features of the gentleman who played the heavy—father parts, and proceeded to make for Snapper.

"Hold on!" cried Snapper," there's something wrong here."

"I should think it was wrong," returned the other, "come on!"

"Stop!" cried Snapper, dodging around the table. "Stop, I say! This is not you wife at all, it's Miss Montague," and rushing to the sofa where his companion had retired at the beginning of the fracas, he pulled off her cloak and veil, turned up the gas and disclosed the features of—the lady who played the mother parts, wife of the father above mentioned.

"What does all this mean?" shouted Snapper. He and the heavy father gazed at each other in angry silence for a moment, while the lady sat on the sofa shaking with laughter.

The door opened and in walked Mr. Dasher. "Ah! Snapper, my boy," he said, "good evening. Hope you've had a good supper. Adelina and I have watched you with great interest from the next room making love to Mrs. Bings."

"Making love, has he," said Bings, "I'll—"

"Oh! no you wont," said Digby, "he didn't mean to; it wasn't his fault. He thought it was Miss Montague. Now, Snapper," he continued, turning to the discomfitted "juvenile lead, "when next you want to read other men's letters be sure that nobody sees you. Mrs. Bings saw you reading my letter, told me on the way home, and I had just time to rush around and fix up this little scheme on you with Adelina before you appeared."

Snapper scowled at him and was just rushing off when the waiter stopped him and said: "The bill, please, sir."

Snapper had to pay it, too, and heard so much of the above joke on him that he soon after left the company.

'Twas many a day, however, before he had heard the last of his slight theatrical error.—R. De Koven in Chicago Rambler.

BERNHARDT HEARTBROKEN.

Crushed by the Faithless Richepin's Desertion.

Regular Correspondence New York Tribune.

Well, the news is true that Sarah Bernhardt is seriously ill. There is no shamming this time. So says Duquesnel, the manager of the Porte St. Martin Theater; and Sardou is of the same opinion. I met him the other day in the library of the Institute, where he was in conversation about the whimsical but rarely endowed actress with several other members of the Academy who are all dramatic authors. He spoke of a general collapse of the nervous system, which was only to be expected. Sarah has, ever since she made a mark at the Francois as Mrs. Clarkson and in the part of Dona Sol, lived in a state of perpetual excitement made up of delight and worry, of triumph and humiliation of vulgar torments and artistic glory. Her brain, through her own fault, perhaps, has been in a state of perpetual tension, and her imagination so fevered, on the stage and off, that it was impossible for mind and body to have gone on for many years without being utterly wrecked.

"When Sardou was asked whether she was playing tricks he said: "I think not. I have had great experience with women of her class, and I think I know when they are not counterfeiting, and when they are acting a part. Sarah was nearer to a demon than any woman I ever saw, when I went to call on her yesterday. She is not, observe young; she knows that her power as a woman—I do not speak of her prestige as an actress—is on the wane, and she finds herself deserted by a man who had acquired over her the most absolute ascendency that love can secure. He might insult her, trample on all her feelings, give the rein to any amount of ill-humor, take any liberty before strangers in talking at her, criticise her sharply, and yet not cool in any wise her passion. She was magentized—poor, frail, swaying weed—by his powerful masculinity. Sarah is so nervous herself that she has been always running after men who have strong minds in strong bodies. This accounts for her Damala freak. Richepin compared to Damala was as Hercules to an Apollo. She literally adored him and only wanted to be allowed to associate her existence with his. He was disappointed that she did not carry all before her in England as Lady Macbeth in his translation of Shakespeare's tragedy. So was she. Indeed, she was annihilated by the coldness with which she was received. She is a creature entirely without ballast and exaggerates everything. All passions are not amiable. She is like one possessed of an evil spirit when she gives herself up to hatred, which she often does. The spirit lodged in her rends her and can not be exorcised. Although she does not shrink from doing under all circumstances just as she likes, she cannot half express those violent emotions even when she gets into fits of choking rage."

Breaking the Devil to Pieces.

From the Baltimore American.

The Salvation Army, in their new barracks at Gilmor and Baltimore streets, had a jubilee all day. The bright weather brought out many interested from motives of curiosity only, and others who desired to testify to the practical workings of Christianity in their own lives. An old-fashiined experience meeting was held in the afternoon. The rays from the declining sun streamed through the side windows, on the inside of which were tacked strips of cheap calico in all colors, except black. It was a very unsuccessful attempt at reproducing the gorgeousness of pure sunlight through imported stained glass. When the sun sank behind the houses and withdrew its rays, the gloomy aspect inside was relieved only by two small clusters of gas jets about the pulpit. Although light was scant there was no lack of sound. In the pulpit were a stout man with a close-fitting red jacket, which seemed unrelieved by shirt collar; a tall, angular woman in a red jersey, a buxom colored woman in a dark dress, trimmed with two rows of pearl buttons; a very slim white woman a beardless boy, two elderly men and a ten-year-old child. All these, excepting the child and the two men, were singing at the top of their voices, "Salvation's Free," "I'm so Glad Jesus Loves Me," etc., and swinging their hands like the chorus in Pinafore in "Softly on Tip-toe Stealing." The stout man was the leader. He was very hoarse, but managed now and then to be heard. The deep baritone voices of the noisy young men in the rear of the house sang half a line behind the leaders, but contributed to the volume of the sound, if not to the melody. All gave their experiences, the regular officers of the army first. The angular woman in the red jersey, after saying, in a strong foreign accent, that she was very happy, took a seat beside one of the elderly men and put her arm over the bench behind him. The leader gave his testimony, but with a most reckless disregard for the letter "h" wherever he crossed it. Frequent exclamations of "glory!" "hallelujah!" etc., encouraged the speakers, and a 3-year-old child drummed so loudly in applause on a bench with its feet that its mother had to threaten mild personal violence. All the experiences were most satisfactory. Some gave long reviews of lives once almost wasted, but happily reformed at critical periods. At the end of the service the stout man could hardly be heard, but he summoned all his vocal powers and announced hoarsely: "We'll have a service to-night at 8 o'clock, and take up a collection at the door, so as not to interrupt the exercises. We mean to break the devil all to pieces."

ONIONS FRIED.—Slice and boil ten minutes at a time in three waters; drain, and fry in butter or beef drippings, stirring often; season, and serve hot.

FARM, FIELD AND FIRESIDE.

Farming Paragraphs.

A factory at Highland, Mich., put up this season 10,000 barrels of pickles.

The dates of the exhibition of live stock in New Orleans are as follows: Fat stock, December 10th to January 10th; horses, December 20th to January 25th; cattle, sheep and swine, January 25th to March 1st; dogs, January 10th to 17th.

It is thought by some of the leading commission houses of New York that higher prices for wheat may be looked for in the immediate future.

Stock raising has made Holland one of the wealthiest agricultural countries in the world. Land there is worth from two to four thousand dollars an acre; nine acres out of every ten are kept in grass, and pay the owners large dividends.

Unscrupulous tree peddlers have done for some years past a thriving business in the colder parts of the country, trading on fruit-growers' hopes of hardiness and superior quality in Russian apples. Their frauds were denounced by the Kansas State Horticultural Society not long ago, and a resolution passed declaring that "except Oldenburg, Red Astrachan and Tetofsky, the Russian varieties are unworthy of cultivation."

Posts or stakes with their ground ends charred and then dipped in coal tar will last exceedingly well.

It pays to make a cow comfortable in as many respects as possible. Every hour she suffers from any cause, the milk account suffers correspondingly.

Including imported and native born, it is claimed that there are now in this country about 25,000 registered Jerseys.

During cold weather the water used for watering plants should be tepid. It is highly injurious to give the house plants a sprinkling of very cold water.

Lime is an important food ingredient in the poultry house. It can be furnished in no better shape than that of old mortar or lime rubbish. Where this may not happen to be available, oyster, clam, or small shells pounded up, are a fair substitute. Egg shells well broken may also be given; there is no basis for the notion that feeding these leads to the habit of eating eggs. Bone dust mixed with soft food, or chalk broken in small peices also answer well in the absence of lime.

Notions in Dress.

The strong leather belt, black, dark red or blue, is considered an almost indispensible adjunct of the traveling costume.

Embroidered braid is elegant but costly. Parisian ladies embroider with their own hands delicate running patterns in gold, silver or steel, over black or dark colored braids, which they use for trimming underdresses, jackets and mantles. This easy, pretty work is very effective, be the pattern ever so simple.

Woolen guipure lace comes in all the new shades of dark and light winter materials. Sometimes it is intermixed with threads of gold, silver or steel.

For young ladies charming evening dresses are made of reeling, surah, woolen, muslin, or crepe, pointed or brocaded and trimmed with a number of cockade and star-shaped bows, made of narrow gauze, satin or velvet ribbon.

Narrow galloons, spangled with gold, silver or steel, are put on in numerous rows over some of the new costumes.

A beautiful garniture for an evening dress has large leaves in gold beads thrown on a chenille and pearl ground work.

The New chenille fringe is intermixed with silk, has a netted heading and a ball drop in chenille at each point.

Novelties in brocaded ribbons are mostly in one color, with the design either sunk or in relief, such as velvet or terry, with the design in satin, or satin with the brocade in velvet.

Guipure de laine is a coarse woolen lace with large meshes for ground work and the flowers embroidered in chenille. This lace is made in all shades and is arranged on skirts as flat flounces, and also as tabliers, with a row of velvet between each flounce.

For full dress dark blue shoes are trimmed with silver braid and worn with pure blue silk stockings.

The Well-Dressed Woman.

The well-dressed woman again knows not only what to wear, but when to wear it. In the summer forenoon you will see her in the simplest of cottons, a dress absolutely plain and without ornament, without laces, fringes, decoration of any kind. In the winter at the same time she is equally plainly dressed in cloth. Later in the day she changes to smarter clothes for more ceremonious duties, visits, afternoon parties, and teas—velvets and silks combined in winter, in summer rich gauzes and costly laces. In the evening, for dinner or ball, the most choice and splendid masterpieces of the dress maker's art are reserved; the richest stuff set off with the most elaborate embroideries and the rarest jewels. But withal, even in this the last gorgeous stage into which the modern chrysalis has developed, ostentatious display is scrupulously avoided.

The highest art is to conceal art; to use the richest materials in composing the utmost simplicity. There is no heaviness, no overloading with ornament, no meaningless superadded decoration. The attire of a perfectly-dressed woman is original without excentricity; personal to herself, yet following the latest fashion; attractive, yet undemonstrative—developing to the utmost her peculiar charms.—American Queen.

Oiling Harness.

To oil harness properly take it into a damp cellar, or some damp, cool room; take all apart, soak well in a tub of warm water, and with a coarse rag and old knife rasp off all gum and dirt. As soon as the outside is dried a little put on with a rag or brush as much oil as will stick to it, and place all in a heap on a board to dry; if one coat is not enough go over it again till filled with oil; then, when all dried in, take warm soft water, castile soap and a rag, wash well and put together. Castor-oil is best of all; good neat's-foot oil is very good in which mix enough lampblack to color well. After being exposed to a soaking rain, the harness should be rubbed over with a rag and good oil while wet. Never expose leather to a hot sun or drying winds till dry, after oiling, or the oil will do harm, rather than good.

Wheat Growing.

Exhaustive tillage is working mischief with western wheat growers; they are drawing recklessly on their soil deposits; sterility will soon relieve Chicago elevators of their plethoric supplies; there is a limit to the fertility of virgin soil, and when it is reached, wheat and other grains will command higher prices. Till then, New York and other Eastern farmers will find it for their interest to grow wheat very moderately. When spring crops have introduced thistles and weeds, a well-worked summer-fallow is the best means of purification and the best preparation for fall seeding with Red Top and Timothy; either wheat or rye should be sown with grass seed. The only condition on which Eastern farmers can raise wheat at present prices is that they work their land so thoroughly, and manure it so highly, that their average yield shall not fall below 30 bushels to the acre.—Rural New Yorker.

How to Plant Tree Claims.

At the solicitation of some of my friends, who know of my experience in handling forest trees, I have been induced to give a few practical ideas as to the way tree claims ought to be planted. Most planters upon entering their claims have not the remotest idea of what kind of trees they ought to plant or how they had best set to work to perform the operation of planting to the best advantage. This article may be the means of helping some one to a proper and practical solution of what to them has been quite a problem, and if so I will be glad.

The law requires that ten acres on each quarter section must be set with trees, and the distance is to be four by four feet apart. This makes the number of trees necessary to each claim amount to 27,000, or 2,700 to each acre. The land should be broken up at least one year before the time the trees are to be set out, and if two years before, and a crop taken off, it would be much better for the trees and greatly lessen the labor of both planting and culture. After the ground is all freshly ploughed in the spring, it should be marked of with a four-line marker, each running to be exactly four feet from the other. These marks should be run as straight and carefully as though they were for corn, and must be run both ways. Then take a turning plough, drive the team so that the plough will make a furrow in exact line with the mark, having the land side next to it, as a guide for the trees to be set by. In these furrows the roots of the trees are to be set, one being placed opposite each cross mark made by the marker when it went across the field. Two men, or one man and a boy, is all the help necessary to set out a tree claim after the ground is all prepared and the furrows made. Set a tree up straight, with its roots in the bottom of the furrow, which would make it about right depth, and have a man with a clean bright spade, so it will scour easily, throw on dirt enough to cover the roots; hold the tree in its place while you pack the earth above them by stepping on with both feet. Then pass along to the next mark and set a tree there, and in the same manner the whole field can be planted, both easily and expeditiously. The next operation, after there are a number of rows planted, is to run over the rows with a two-horse cultivator and fill in the furrows, or if no cultivator is at hand, take a double-shovel plough and one horse, turning back the loose earth thrown out by the big plough; or, being careful not to throw too strong a furrow against the trees, the big plough can be used for filling up.

It will be necessary, after the furrows are filled in around the trees, to go over the rows and tramp around each tree again and straighten it up if the dirt knocked it over. This constitutes the planting, and then comes the culture, which should be begun early; in fact, the cultivator ought to be run over the rows soon after planting; so as to fill in some loose earth around the trees and over the hard-packed surface about their stems.

A few words more as to how best to care for the trees between the interval of their arrival and the time all are set, and how to keep them from starting out leaves before you get time to plant all of them, will close this article.

Unpack the trees on arrival, loosen them out of the branches and dig a trench to bury the roots in. Pack the earth solidly over the trenched roots, the tops having meanwhile been laid nearly flat to the surface. If you fear they will start leaves too soon for you, throw a few inches of loose earth over the tops, which will keep the buds back, and do no injury for a week or so until you can get them planted. Give the trees good culture and they will grow and do well, provided they are carefully handled. In planting keep each kind separate, and before they are taken out to the field wet the roots thoroughly and keep them out of the sun and wind as much as possible.

The planting of these trees should not be solely for the purpose of getting a title to a quarter section of good land, but should be made with a view to future value and usefulness; therefore good kind of trees should be planted, and the ground not taken up with inferior stock. Silver maples, ash, box elder, or ash leaf maple, hardy catalpa, black walnut, and American white elm are all good kinds, and are transplanted so easily and successfully that they are adapted to all parts of the country, and this fact greatly aids the successful planting of tree claims. The above sorts are all rapid growers. The black walnut is an especially valuable tree, and there should be a liberal lot of this noble species on every claim and every farm.—Charles S. Rowley in Rural World.

Good Ways to Cook Cabbage.

After it is shaved ready for cooking, put it in a kettle with a little water; let it boil a few minutes; season well with salt and pepper, adding more water from time to time as necessary. When done very tender, it may be finished up in any of the three following ways.

First.—Melt a small piece of butter in a frying-pan; add some of the cabbage, cook briskly, stirring often, until it almost begins to fry; then dish it up and keep it hot till served.

Second.—Put another bowlful of the cabbage in the frying-pan, add vinegar to make it sufficietly sour, and let it heat well through. Serve very hot.

Third.—To the cabbage remaining in the kettle add sufficient creamy sweet milk to form a pleasant accompaniment; salt more if necessary; let it almost boil, and it is done. Serve hot. It is extremely nice.

Another nice dish is a combination of turnips and cabbage. It may be nearly half turnip, which should be sliced thin and cut in fine strips resembling shaved cabbage. Cook in a little water, seasoning with salt, pepper and a small piece of butter. Cook till very tender, stirring often. It may be served as cooked, or with the addition of vinegar. Or, creamy, sweet milk may be added and allowed to simmer before serving, also more salt if necessary. If all be adroitly done, even a Dutchman if unenlightened, would scarcely suspect that it is not what it seems—all cabbage.

How to Cook Onions.

BOILED ONIONS.—Peel the bulbs and boil them in water slightly salted until soft, which will be about forty minute[s] of ordinary size. Remove them from the kettle with a skimmer, butter generously, sprinkle with pepper, and send to the table hot.

BOILED ONIONS No. 2.—Peel, wash, boil fifteen minutes, drain off the water and add boiling water, salt, and boil till thoroughly soft, then pour off the water and pour over them sweet milk. Stir flour and butter together and when the milk boils stir in this thickening, adding salt and pepper to taste. Old onions require more than an hour to boil.

BOILED ONIONS No. 3.—Boil them twenty minutes and pour off the water; then put in equal parts of hot water and milk, or skimmed milk alone, and boil them twenty minutes longer. When they are done take them up with a skimmer, let them drain a little and lay them into the dish. Put on butter, pepper, salt.—Young Housekeeper's Friend.

ONIONS SCALLOPED.—Peel a quart of small onions without breaking the layers apart; put them over the fire in enough boiling water to cover them, and boil them for half an hour, or until they are just tender; then drain them and put them in an earthen baking dish, which can be sent to the table; put in a saucepan over the fire a level teaspoonful each of butter and flour; stir them until they are smooth, then gradually stir in a pint of milk, add a level teaspoonful of salt and a quarter of a tesspoonful of white pepper; let the sauce boil for a moment, and pour it over the onions; dust a thin layer of cracker dust over them; quickly brown the surface in a hot oven, and then serve the dish at once.

The Early American Politician.

In 1638 Harvard College was opened with a class of nine students. The college was principally started for the purpose of educating clergymen to minister to the spiritual wants of the colonists. It is a curious circumstance that these nine young men were graduated September 16, 1642, the day that Cromwell fought the battle of Wooster, and all but two returned to England to engage in the civil war. One of those young men had a career truly remarkable. This was George Downing, son of George Downing, of Salem, Mass. He made his way by force and intelligence to be the right hand man of Cromwell. After Cromwell's death, and after Charles II. came to the throne, Downing performed a feat almost unparalleled in history. When the chief men of the former goverment were being hunted to the ends of the world Downing played his part so well that he managed to secure the same place under Charles that he held under Cromwell. He sacrificed his old friends without a twinge of conscience. Charles made him minister to Holland, and Downing street was named after him. We are apt to think in these days that the unscrupulous politician is a thing of recent date, but none of them have succeeded in beating George Downing.—Rev. Tarbox before the New England Genealogical Society.

A Return to Doublet and Hose.

For some time past the gilded youth of France and England have mingled their laments with those of the tailors that their lot has been cast in an age given over to so complete a prosiness of costume. They sigh for fashions of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries; they yearn after slashed doublets and bran stuffed trunk hose, or for the more graceful array of the Stuarts, or for the variegated dress of the Georges, with its gold and silver embroidered coats and waistcoats, its hip-pockets of huge dimensions, its wigs, its knee-breeches and silk stockings, and, later, its Hessian boots. And it is said that in France some of these aspiring youths have actually revolutionized the male evening costume this very winter by discarding the "customary suit of solemn black," and induing themselves with gay and particolored raiment, all of the olden time. The use of velvets, satins and silks for men's coats is to be revived, and thus the wealthy are to gain opportunities for indicating the plethoric condition of their purses by the expense and gorgeousness of their external decorations.—N. Y. Tribune.

Bob Ingersoll's Fee in the Star-Route Cases.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

While ex-Senator Dorsey was here in attendance on the Cattle Convention he was asked one day how much he paid Bob Ingersoll for his defense in the Star-route trials. "Well," said he, "it was very curious how that was done. From the beginning to the end of the trial Ingersoll never asked me for a dollar. One day, after I had been acquitted on the second trial, I met Ingersoll, and I asked him how much I owed him. He at first declined to talk about it, saying he had no charge to make, and he didn't care if he never got a cent. I asked him to walk a few squares with me, and we went to the Safe Deposit building. I unlocked my box and took out a 4 per cent. government bond for $100,000 and gave it to him. He put it in his pocket and we walked away, and have not referred to the subject since."

Anglo-Mania in New York.

Letters to San Francisco Argonaut.

Anglomania has arrived at such a point in New York that it has invaded all branches of trade. Next to Delmonico's there is a tailor who announces on his gilt sign that he is favored with the patronage of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales; around the corner on Fifth Avenue is a wine shop, the windows of which are bedaubed with the arms of Victoria, followed by the merchant's name with the legend, "Caterer to Her Imperial Highness"; all of the yellow cabs are decorated with the three plumes and crest of the Prince of Wales down to half a dozen dukelings, lettered in gilt upon their windows, and probably the most popular boot-makes up-town displays the sign, "Nothing but English-made boots and shoes here," over the door of his shop. All the fashionable dress-makers, men and women, pretend to have branch establishments in London, and nothing but English tilburys, dog-carts, gigs, mail phaetons, and coaches are seen on the avenue. English actors are the idols of the dudes about town, and English fashions in dinners, clothes, and even in yachting uniforms and names, are supreme. Every four-dollar-a-week clerk who can afford the expense has a crest printed at the head of his note-paper, and New Yorkers, from William K. Vanderbilt down to the cheap swells who attend dancing schools and live in boarding-houses, affect a dialect which is supposed to be English, has cockney tendencies, and is very difficult to understand. I was thinking of this yesterday when I went into a gun-shop on Broadway to buy a collar for a dog. I hadn't been in the shop for a year or more, and was rather surprised to see that one side of it was taken up with photographs. Two rather weary looking clerks with banged hair and soiled hands waited upon the customers, and shoved out box after box of photographs with an air of utter weariness. The proprietor wanted me to look at a new gun which he had just received from the other side, and while he was getting it out of the case, I asked him about the photographs.

"That branch of the business," he said, unpacking the gun carefully, "astonishes me by its growth considerably more than it does you. I came here with the idea of selling higher class sporting goods, and got into the photograph business unintentionally. A cousin of mine in London sent me a dozen pictures of Lady Lonsdale, as an example of what he could do in copying photographs. I put one of them in my window merely in the way of ornamentation, and I had fifty applications for it within a day. I had labeled it 'Lady Lonsdale, the English beauty,' and that was unquestionably what caught the crowd. I sent over to the other side for a complete assortment, and now sixty people come in to buy an English beauty where one asks for anything else. I keep photographs of actresses and eminent men but by far the greatest sale is done in English beauties. The peculiar thing about it is," he added, with a smile, that very few of the beauties are beautiful. What do you think of that gun?"

I was in the shop for half an hour, and during that time thirty or forty girls came in and pottered over the photographs. They were all well-dressed, straight-shouldered, erect, and high-colored women, most of them far more beautiful than the pictures they bought, and all of them very English in manner and speech—at least they thought they were. Nearly all of them asked the clerk if he had any of Miss Chamberlain, and the clerk always answered that her father was unwilling to have her photograps sold. A great many pictures of the Princess of Wales were sold, and not a few of the Prince himself.

Just as I went out one of the single-eye-glassed fraternity with a bob-tailed coat came in, and approaching the clerk, murmured:

"Give me the pwince."

"What Prince?" said the clerk, who was evidently not an Anglomaniac.

"Him of Wales, of course," was the answer.

Sensible Advice to Workingmen.

The last Bulletin of the American Iron and Steel Association contains the following advice to workingmen, which is worthy of being thoughtfully considered by many who are not workingmen: "Begin now to save where you can; resolve to wear the old coat another winter; leave the buying of expensive roasts and tenderloin steaks to those who can afford them; learn to distinguish between food that is cheap and nourishing and food that is high in price; if you cannot afford a visit by railroad to a far-off cousin or other relative who has enough to do to take care of himself, stay at home; home is the best place, any way. Cease copying of the rich; all cannot be rich; keep in your station, but honor it; respect yourself by not pretending to be better off in this world's goods than you are; shun the grog shop, and, if you must be a slave to tobacco, let this slavery take as little money from your pocket as possible. Whatever your wages may be, don't fool them away. Take them home when earned, and thank Providence that the enterprise and skill of others have given you the opportunity to earn even low wages so that you may have even a humble home. Be thankful for what you have, and be cheerful. Don't grumble, don't drink fire-water, keep at work, save the pennies, and you will get along. This is a goodly land, and if there is anything wrong with the idustries of the country to-day it will be righted by and by."—The Iron Age.

The New York World says the Conklin home stead at Huntington, L. I., one of the first buildings erected on Long Island, and which was over 200 years old, was recently burned to the ground, being set on fire by the explosion of an oil lamp. It was valued at about $20,000, and was occupied at the time by descendants of Ezekiel Conklin, who figured prominently on the island 100 years ago, and was at one time taken prisoner by the British.

A fabulous estimate of the wealth of ex-Governor English, of Connetieut, which has been going the rounds, results in a proportionate increase in his mail. He says he is begged to "lift a caravan of church debts, build an infinity of sacred edifices," and even requested to "establish a donation fund for the subjectionof Siberian fever." One woman has asked him to take $2,500 worth of depreciated securities off her hands.

HELENORE.

She came to our door one dreary November day in a pouring rain, and begged in broken English that we would take her into our service.

She belonged to a miserable French Canadian family that had lived in the city for many years; but, shiftless and degraded as they were, it was evident from the young girl's account, that they considered her the black sheep among them; and her mother, always harsh with her, for some reason had recently grown more so, until that morning, after an unusually cruel beating, Helenore—she said her name was Helenore Baldeau—had fled from under her hand, and shaking off the dust of her native alley, wandered, she neither knew nor cared whither, till hunger and fatigue led her to seek a shelter with us.

Her plain and somewhat heavy face was swollen and red with weeping, and there was a look of pleading in her great soft black eyes that was difficult to resist.

"Oh, if you would but try me!" she said. "I can do good many tings; I care only for some bread to eat and a place to leev, and"—with a shudder—"to be hurt no more."

I held the door open and looked at her with compassion stirring my heart. Poor child! she seemed so young and yet so forlorn, standing there in her dripping garments. She could not have been more than 15 or 16 years old, and she looked into my face with an expression of gentle confidence that I felt it would be cruel to wholly disappoint.

And then she asked so little—"only a place to leev and bread to eat, and to be hurt no more."

The tears came to my eyes as the simple words recurred to me, and yielding to a sudden impulse I took her in, fed her, and made her as comfortable as possible; meanwhile turning it over and over in my mind as to what I should do with her.

At dinner time I held a consultation with Jack, the nominal head of our family,; I say nominal advisedly, for he insists that I defer to him only as a matter of form, after having fully determined in my own mind upon any course of action.

Be this as it may, he generally confirms my decisions, thus making assurance doubly sure; so this time, after looking over my "very latest," as he called her, he promised to go to her mother and negotiate, if he could, for Helenore's services.

As a result of that interview he found out for a certainty that Madame Baldeau was a horrible old vixen, but she readily agreed to let her daughter remain in our employ if, after a suitable trial, we so desired.

When Jack came home at night he found us all together in the sitting-room. I was sewing and Helenore was sitting near me playing with little Ned, our 3-year-old boy.

"Well, Helenore," said he lightly, "I have seen your mother, and you can stay with us if you are a good girl."

Sometimes quite an audience would gather around her while she played, and she always received their applause with much dignity, and as a matter of course. But there was one thing about this instrument very remarkable and mysterious; it responded to Helenore's touch and to hers alone. Many others tried it, but always with poor success. Even Jack, who has a sort of facility with a dozen instruments, and can play the whole opera of "Patience" on a tin whistle, after a fashion, finally gave it up in despair, declaring that he believed that Helenore was a witch; undoubtedly it was the peculiarity of her voice that gave to her tooting such wonderful effect.

She seldom sang, and when she did, it seemed to be solely for the sake of giving vent to some powerful emotion otherwise inexpressible. Her voice was low, but very sweet and flexible; she had no high tones. I think she considered them too light and frivolous to convey the feelings of her soul. I once asked her why she never sang high.

"Mine heart is down here," she answered, laying her hand on her heart; and I was glad to believe that in those low, deep tones of hers, so tremulous and so solemnly sweet, the strange, poetic soul of this poor untaught creature found full expression and was satisfied.

She sang her own words generally, and they were without connection—a senseless jumble; and yet as she sang them they often possessed a weird and startling significance. Here is one of her songs:

"Oh happy, happy me!
So still, so still, white moon.
To leev, to love, to die.
All still and white, to die!"

By questioning I found out what these words meant to her. She was always at ease with me, and could express herself more freely to me than anybody else; so she tried to explain this verse.

She turned toward him with a look of unutterable gratitude and tried in vain to speak; then, with one swift movement, she threw herself at my feet, and fastening her great eyes upon mine with an expression I shall never forget, she made the sign of the cross upon her forehead and breast.

We saw her do this afterward on several occasions when deeply moved, and it was as expressive and touching as characteristic.

We soon became much attached to her, and her odd wild ways furnished us no little amusement. One of her favorite pastimes was to sit with baby in the back door and play on her "music," as she called it. This was an invention of Helenore's own, and was only one of her many grotesque but poetic fancies.

It was only a large sheet of thick paper, rolled up into a huge trumpet shape, and on this queer instrument she would play for hours, bringing out the most unearthly, but withal, musical tones, which the neighbors far and near soon learned to marvel at and designate as "Helenore's music."

She said she was "Oh, so happy" with us. She loved her little chamber she could be "all still;" she loved to have the "white moon" look so kindly upon her at night, and she felt it would be good to die there "all still and white."

In the spring, however, a change came over our Helenore.

Her deep content gave place to a strange restlessness. She was no longer the faithful, attentive little handmaid I had learned to love and trust. She seemed to be irresistibly drawn away from all her in-door occupations; if a bird sang near the house, she would drop her work and run eagerly to the window as if she heard her own name called. If she were sent down town on an errand, she was unaccountably long in returning; and, finally, one afternoon when she took little Ned for his accustomed airing she was gone for hours, wandering away across the fields, and bringing him home at dusk lying back fast asleep in his carriage, with a wreath of violets like a halo round his golden head, and more clutched tightly in his chubby hands.

She received my surprised reproof in sullen silence, and I waited in vain for some account of her absence.

She grew more and more strange and restless every day, fretting and chafing over her light tasks like some caged animal, untill finally, I questioned her.

"Helenore," said I kindly, "what is it that ails you? Tell me, and I will try to help you."

At first she frowned darkly and would not answer, but when I laid my hand gently and coaxingly upon her head—I had noticed she loved to have me do so—she yielded and her tongue was loosed.

"Oh, madam, do not be angry!" she cried. "We have gypsy blood in us, mine moder do say—and oh, I would be going!"—stretching out her arms toward the distant fields with a swift and eloquent gesture of longing. "Oh, let me go! I must go!"

I was both shocked and disappointed, and I told her so, and tried to reason with her.

"Where would you go?" I asked. "There are no gypsies near that you could join, and you would soon starve and die alone; and, besides, how can you leave poor baby and me? Do you not love us, Helenore?"

"Oh, I do, I do!" she cried, passionately, throwing herself down upon the floor; "and I do not try to hear the call, I put mine fingers on my ears, but I hear them just the same!"

"Who calls you, Helenore?" I asked.

"All things out-o'-doors; the birds and bees and winds. They call me, always, always: they say, 'Helenore, Helenore, come!' and I must go!" she cried, springing to her feet and looking wildly around.

I feared she was losing her mind, and was much alarmed about her; we tried to divert and amuse her in every possible way, and for a few days she really seemed to be more quiet.

But one morning we missed her. The afternoon previous, a hand organ-grinder and a woman, evidently his wife, entered our grounds. Helenore went out to hear them play; and we noticed that she stood conversing with them some time afterward.

They had been hanging about the neighborhood for several days, and somehow we felt sure that she had gone with them. Our suspicions were confirmed by a farmer living a mile or so above us who said he met them just at dusk, as he was returning home from the city—a man and woman and our Helenore. He said he recognized Helenore at once, and spoke to her, but she made no answer.

We learned furthermore from her mother that an organ-grinder and his wife—old acquaintances of the family—had been in the vicinity for a week past, and had put up a night or two at her house; and she doubted not that they were the same persons we had in mind. She made light of her daughter's disapearance, saying, with a shrug of her fat shoulders, that "she would be back soon enough," and seeming to think that in any case we were well rid of her.

But we missed her and we mourned her, and I did not try to fill her place. My "very latest," as Jack still called her, seemed to have proved a sad failure.

* * *

I was lingering in my rose garden in the twilight of a warm September day, hanging fondly over a bed of pet hybrids—latest and sweetest of roses—when I suddenly missed little Ned from my side, and looking around for him, I spied him swinging on the front gate. I started to go toward him, and at that moment the figure of a woman sprang up, as it were out of the ground near him, and at the same moment I heard a glad cry from Ned: "Helenore! Helenore!"

It was our Helenore! She caught him to her breast and flew, swift as the wind across the lawn to meet me, and, dropping on her knees, with one arm still around the bewildered child, she clung to me desperately, sobbing and groaning; but not one word did she speak.

I begged her to rise, but she would not; so I sat down there on the damp grass, and, taking her head in my lap, soothed her with the old touch of the hand she loved so well.

At last she heaved a long tremulous sigh and lifted her face to mine.

"I can not ask you to forgive," she murmured humbly; "that would be too good for Helenore; but I come to see you once more, and to tell you what is so heavy here"—pressing her hand on her heart—"and then to die."

I led her into the house and drew from her the history of her experience since she left us in the spring.

"Were the people with whom you went away kind to you?" I asked.

"Kind!" she cried fiercely. "Oh, they were indeed most cruel! True, they did never hurt me like mine moder, but they have made me so to suffer that I wish not now to live any more."

"But you liked it at first, did you not—the fields and woods and the music?"

"Yes; I like well to wander and to be free; but I learned soon that only children and birds and squirrels are truly free—not woman with a heart here and here"—touching her forehead and laying her hand on her heart.

I wondered at her words, but I understood them later.

"For a few days we had a happy time, and they were good to me, but then trouble came. I could not dance when I was tired, and I could not learn to sing their songs—and they laughed at my own poor songs; so they began to speak only bad words to me and to care not if I starved and suffered.

"We were far away—I know not where—when we came to large woods, where many men chopped the trees, and some wifes and children were there too, and I begged the music man and woman that I might stay and work for them and leev in a little hut; and I stayed. They too came back afterward and worked."

"And were you happy there?"

She clasped her hands tightly over her bosom and a new and strange expression swept over her face that I did not understand.

"Happy, happy!" she murmured, "Oh, yes! listen—I will tell you!"

"One chopper was kind to me; he said he loved me—loved me!" she repeated solemnly, with a tender thrill in her voice that explained all. "And he was so kind to me, as if I had been a queen. It was he, too, madam, that did teach me to speak so well, for he was a Yankee man," she added proudly; "and you see I do speak much better!"

I assented. "Where is he now?" I asked.

"Oh, I know not! I know not!" she cried, rocking herself back and forth and wringing her hands.

"That wicked man and woman took me away one night; they said that he, my Eloi, had sent for me to go to meet him, far, far off; and when we found him not they mocked and laughed at my pain. Oh, I could kill them, liars! beasts!" The last words were only a hiss of rage, and she stopped short, choked with passion.

"Helenore," I said, "why did they deceive you so? What had you done to them?"

"What had I done to them? Noting, noting; but they hated me like mine moder do and would not that I should be happy."

Here she paused and a sudden revulsion of feeling seemed to sweep over her.

"None are ever kind to Helenore," she said sadly—"none but you and him." Then lifting my hand to her lips she kissed it reverently and made the sign of the cross.

I was deeply touched; I drew the girl to me and said, with tears on my cheeks:

"Stay with us, Helenore, and try to be happy again."

"What? say you so?" she cried, her eyes wide with wonder. "Then, now, you do indeed forgive like God." And she began to weep naturally and softly, shedding those tears which always relieve the heart.

She was very tired, and when I reminded her, presently, that her little chamber and the pretty white bed were waiting, she smiled for the first time.

"Ah," she said almost brightly, "it can not be that I shall die now, and perhaps my Eloi will find me, though I could not find him."

Her words proved prophetic. One night, a few weeks after her return, we were startled by the thrumming of a banjo under Helenore's window, soon joined by a lusty voice bawling out right heartily some foolish ditty we hear in the streets.

I sprang up at once. "Jack," said I, "that is Helenore's Eloi; I know it!"

I went quickly to her room—she had not yet retired for the night—and when I opened her door she was standing like a statute by her bed; she turned, as I spoke her name, and with a look of ecstacy, pointing to the window, whispered:

"Eloi—Eloi!"

"Yes," said I; "go down and ask him to come in."

"Wait," "wait," she said mysteriously; and seizing her "music"—the paper horn—she leaned far out of the window and blew blast upon blast of her most unearthly strains, which, added to the roar of her lover's voice, produced an effect indescribably strange and ludicrous.

We concluded that she had heard those sounds before, as otherwise, at the first blast, he certainly would have taken to his heels and run away.

Elias Rogers, for that was the young man's name was in truth a "Yankee man," as Helenore claimed, but he had lived much among the Canadians, and spoke their language like his own.

We found that he was honestly in love with our Helenore; and rough and coarse as he seemed, he doubtless had a romantic sympathizing nature, or he could not have understood or appreciated her as he evidently did. We were relieved to find him in every way so worthy of her, and so suited to make her happy.

And now my story is soon finished.

Helenore left us again, but this time with happy smiles and the hope of seeing us very often. In short, while I write, she sits out on the piazza with her own baby in her arms, and my Ned—grown now to be quite a big boy—leaning on her lap.

She is telling him what he shall find when he comes to see her and Eloi in the woods where they are chopping—birds' eggs to add to his collection. "Oh, so many kinds! but they will only take one from each nest, because the mother bird would be sad and grieve."

Her heart is tender as of yore, but it never aches now except for others' woes.—Belle C. Greene, in the Continent.

Current Notes.

Diana Ramsey died in Savannah a few days since, aged 104. She was a slave in the family of Gen. R. H. Anderson, nursed nearly all the children and remained with unaltered fidelity in spite of emancipation. Since the war she has been cared for by her old master's family.

The larvæ of butterflies and moths are called caterpillars; those of beetles, grubs; those of flies, maggots, and those of mosquitoes, wigglers. The terms larvæ, pupa, the bee state is reached by a very gradual change of form, so that it is difficult to say where the pupa ends and the image begins. In fact, a large number of insects reach maturity through an indefinite number of slight changes. The bumblebee moults at least ten times before arriving at the winged state.

The Manitoba smugglers are shipping whisky across the line as onions, pork, flour, fish, or anything that is handled in large quantities. A recent strike made by the customs officers amounted to 1584 bottles of fire water valued at $5 per bottle. It was poured out on the dry and frosty earth. Crowds of drier and frostier men still gather around the spot and sigh.

Miss Emma French, living near Stockton, Cal., went into the fields the other day to shoot geese, accompanied by her brother. The young lady carried a parlor rifle, and at a time when it was pointed to the ground, it went off, shattering one of her toes. She came into the city and consulted Dr. Hudson and submitted to an amputation of the toe. When the doctor suggested that she could be placed under the influence of chloroform, she said: "No: if your instruments are sharp I will see the operation performed." Accordingly, the toe was removed without a sign from the young lady to indicate pain.

BALLADE OF THE DANCE.

The ebbing music dies away—
"Delightful, glorious, divine!"
You hear the eager waltzers say,
Breathless from "Ehren on the Rhine."
On fair flushed cheeks the soft lamps shine,
And laughter low and sweet sly glances
With the soft tide of talk combine
Between the dances.

And here and there in pretty groups
The dancers rest about the room;
To whisper low the gallant stoops—
The dim conservatory's gloom,
Its shadows and the faint perfume,
Congenial to the old romance is;
And many a brave man meets his doom
Between the dances.

In lightsome cadence glad and gay
The rippling tide of talk flows on—
The reigning waltz, the latest play,
The last new tale by such a one:
The Church and politics they shun
And "what the attitude of France is;"
But hearts are lost and heart are won
Between the dances.

JULES VERNE'S LATEST FANTASY.

The Midnight Visit of Dr. Trifulgas.

The rising gale whistles. The rain comes down in torrents. Low sway the trees under the blast that sweeps the Volsinian shore, and dashes its fury against the slopes of the mountains of Crimma. The rock-bound coast is rent and riven by the tempestuous billows that surge and foam along the vast Megalocrida Sea.

In the depth of the bay nestles the little sea-port town of Luktrop. It boasts a few hundred houses with greenish miradors sheltering them from the winds of the main, and four or five steep streets that look more like the beds of a mountain torrent than public thoroughfares. Not far off smokes the Vanglor, an active volcano, which by day blenches forth thick volumes of sulphurous vapor, and by night fitful floods of flame. The crater, seen fully one hundred and fifty kertses out at sea, answers the purpose of a beacon and guides home to Luktrop the coasters—felzanes, verliches, or balanzes—that plow the troubled waters of the Megalocrida.

On the other side of the town are heaped up ruins of the Crimmerian era; while the suburb, of Moorish aspect, like a casbah or Algerian fortress, with its white walls, round roofs, and terraces calcined by the sun, seems a huge pile of square stones thrown together at hap-hazard. The whole mass looks like a cluster of dice, the dots of which have been worn away with age.

Among other peculiar structures may be seen an odd-looking building called the Six-Four from the number of its windows, six in front and four behind.

A steeple rises above the town, the square steeple of Saint Philfilene, with its bells visible through the open stone-work, and when these are swung as they are at times) by the violence of the storm, it is accounted a bad sign, and the good people of the place are filled with fear at the omen. Such is Luktop, with a few stray houses on the heath beyond, scattered amid the broom and furze, as in Brittany. Luktrop, however, is not in Brittany. Is it in France?—I can not say. In Europe?—I do not know.

At any rate it were useless to look for the place on the map.

* * *

Tap, tap! A discreet rap is heard at the narrow door of the Six-Four, on the left-hand corner of Messagliere Street. A comfortable house this, if such a word is known at Luktrop, and one of the thriftiest of the place, if to earn on an average a few thousand fretzers a year be a sign of thrift.

A ferocious yelp, something between a bark and a howl, as from a wolf, has answered the rap, whereupon a window above the door of the Six-Four is thrown open, and an angry voice bawls out:

"To the devil with all intruders!"

A young girl, shivering in the rain, with a sorry cape thrown over her shoulders, inquires if Dr. Trifulgas is at home.

"He is or isn't—all depends."

"I come for my father, who is dying."

"And where is he dying?"

"By the Val-Karniou, four kertses from here."

"And what's his name?"

"Vort Kartif."

"Vort Kartif—the cracknel-maker?"

"Yes; and if Dr. Trifulgas would only"——

"Doctor Trifulgas isn't at home!"

And the window is brutally closed in the girl's face, while the wind and the rain outside mix their voices in deafening din.

* * *

A hard man he, Dr. Trifulgas, with but little feeling for a fellow-creature, and one who attends a patient only if well paid in advance for his services. His old dog, Aurzof—a cross between a bull and a spaniel—would have more heart than he. The door of the Six-Four remains invariably closed to the poor, and open only to the rich. He has, moreover, his scale of prices: typhoid fever, so much; brain fever, so much; so much for a pericarditis, and for as many more diseases as doctors choose to invent by the dozen. And Vort Kartif, the cracknel-maker, is a poor man, with a penniless brood. Why, then, should Doctor Trifulgas bedevil himself, and on such a night? "The rousing me from my sleep," snuffled he, as he went to his bed again, "is alone worth ten fretzers!" Twenty minutes had scarce gone by than the iron knocker again woke the echoes of the Six-Four. Grumbling, the doctor got out of bed, and from the window growled:

"Who is there?"

"I am Vort Kartif's wife."

"The cracknel-maker from Val-Karniou?"

"Yes; and if you don't come he'll die."

"Well, then, you'll be a widow?"

"Here are twenty fretzers"——

"What! twenty fretzers to go to Val-Karniou, four kertses hence!"

"For God's sake, come!"

"Go to the devil!" And, with an oath, the window was again slammed. "Twenty fretzers!" muttered he; "what an idea! Run the risk of catching cold or a lumbago for such a sum, when one has to attend to-morrow morning the gouty—but wealthy—Edzingov, at Kiltrens, whose ailment is worth fifty fretzers a visit."

With this pleasant prospect, Doctor Trifulgas sought his bed and went to sleep as soundly as ever

* * *

Rap, rap, rap!

Three blows from the knocker, struck with a firm hand, have this time added their rattle to the noise of the storm. The doctor, startled from his sleep, got up in a towering passion. On opening his window the hurricane came in like a whirlwind.

"'Tis for the cracknel-maker"——

"What, again that wretch?"

"I am his mother."

"May his mother, wife, and daughter all die with him!"

"'Tis a fit"——

"Ay, and a tight one, no doubt," chuckled the doctor.

"We have a little money," said the old woman, "an installment on the house sold to Dantrup, the drayman, of Messagliere Street. If you don't come, my grand-daughter will be without a father, my daughter without a husband and myself without a son!"

It was heartrending and horrible to hear the old hag's voice, and to think that the wind froze the blood in her veins, and drenched the very bones under her skin.

"A fit, say you? The fee two hundred fretzers," rejoined the heartless leech.

"We have but one hundred and twenty."

"Good night, then!" And once more the window was closed.

On second thoughts, however, he came to the conclusion that, for an hour's trot and half an hour's attendance, one hundred and twenty fretzers made sixty fretzers an hour—one fretzer a minute! It was small profit at best, but not quite to be despised.

So, instead of getting into bed, the doctor slipped himself into his velvet suit, hurried down stairs in a pair of thick water-proof boots, muffled himself up in a large overcoat, put on his gloves and sou'wester, and, leaving the lamp lighted on the table near his Codex opened at page 197, pushed open the door of the Six-Four, and appeared on the threshold.

The old crone was there, leaning on a stick, her frame emaciated by eighty years of misery.

"The money," said he.

"Here; and may God return it a hundred fold!"

"God?—the money of God? Has any one seen its color?"

The doctor whistled Hurzof, put a small lantern in the dog's mouth, and bent his steps toward the sea. The old hag trudged on behind.

* * *

Good heavens, what weather! The bells of Saint Philfilene sway to and fro under the headlong fury of the storm, an ominous portent, as we know. But Doctor Trifulgus eschews all superstitious notions. The fact is, he believes in nothing at all, not even his own science—except for what it brings him in. What weather, to be sure, and what a road! Nothing but shingle and slag—the shingle slippery like sea-weed and the slag crisp as clinker. And no other light to see by than a tremulous flicker from Hurzof's lantern. At times strange fantastic figures seemed to toss in the flames that swell from the mouth of the Vanglor. There is really no telling what lies at the bottom of those inscrutable craters. Perhaps the souls of the under-world, that volatilize on reaching our atmosphere.

The doctor and the old hag followed the line of coast that runs in and out of the small bays along the shore. The sea is of a livid whiteness, and sparkles as its billows hurtle the phosphorescent fringe of surf that seems to pour wave on wave of glow-worms upon the beach.

Thus both rush on till they reach a bend in the road between two swelling downs, where the broom and sea-rushes clash their blades together, like so many bayonets.

The dog has drawn nearer to his master, and seems to say:

"Well, what think you? A hundred and twenty fretzers to place under lock and key in the safe! That's the way to build up a fortune! 'Tis another piece of ground added to the vine enclosure! Another dish added to the evening meal! Another bowl of food for faithful Hurzof! Nothing like attending rich patients and loosening their purse-strings."

At this point the old woman stopped. She directed a finger, which shook like age, toward a red light some way off in the gloom—the house of Vort Kartif, the cracknel-maker.

"There?" laconically put in the doctor.

"Yes," responded the crone.

Just then the Vanglor, vibrating to its foundations with a noise like thunder, threw up a mass of fuliginous flame, that mounted to the zenith and rent the clouds. Doctor Trifulgas was thrown to the ground by the force of the concussion. Regaining his footing, he swore like a Christian, and looked around. The beldam was gone. She must have fallen through some deep crevasse in the ground, or taken flight on the floating fog-clouds of ocean. The dog, however was still there, upright on his haunches, his mouth wide open, and the light of the lantern blown out.

"Never mind; let's go on," mumbled Doctor Trifulgas. The honest man has pocketed the one hundred and twenty fretzers, and must needs earn them.

* * *

A solitary light is alone visible in the distance half a kertse away. It is doubtless the lamp of the dying, or, perchance, dead man, and yonder must be the cracknel-maker's house. There can be no mistake, the old hag pointed it out. And so saying, with the noise of the storm in his ears, Dr. Trifuldas hurries on toward the house, which, standing alone in the midst of a wide heath, is more distinctly perceptible as the wayfarer approaches.

It is a singular and noteworthy fact to observe how much the house of the cracknel-maker looks like the doctor's Six-Four, at Luktrop; there is the same arrangement in the front windows, and the little vaulted door at the side. Doctor Trifulgas strides on as fast as the driving gusts of wind and rain will permit. He reaches the door, which is ajar, pushes it open, enters, and the blast closes it behind him with a bang. The dog outside howls or is silent, by turns, like choristers chanting the verses of a Forty Hours' psalm.

How very strange! One might almost be led to suppose that Doctor Trifulgas had come back to his own house. But this can not be. He took no wrong turning on the road, nor did he lose his way. No, he is certainly at Val Karniou, and not at Luktrop. Yet how comes it his eye dwells on the same, low, vaulted corridor, the same winding staircase, and the same massive wooden railing, hand-worn like his own? He ascends, and stops on the landing. A faint light comes from under the door, as at the Six-Four.

Is it a snare or a delusion? By the weak glimmer of the lamp, he vaguely recognizes his own room—there the yellow sofa; there, on the right, the old oaken chest; and there, on the left, the iron-girt safe, in which he had thought of placing his one hundred and twenty fretzers. Yonder is his arm-chair with its leather tassels, his table with its convoluted legs, and upon it, by the flickering lamp, his own Codex, open at page 197.

"What ails me?" murmurs the doctor. What ails thee? Why thou art palsied with fright. Thy eyeballs start from their sockets. The body contracts and dwindles in size. An icy sweat chills thy skin, on which nameless horrors seem to creep.

Quick, or the lamp, for want of oil, will go out, and the sick man die. Ay, the bed is there—his own, with its pillows and baldaquin—a bed as long as it is broad, and the closed curtains with their large inwrought flowers. Can this indeed be the bed of a poor cracknel-maker? Trembling, the doctor draws near, pulls the curtains aside, and peers within.

There, outstretched on his dying bed, lies the sick man, with his head outside the counterpane and motionless, like one about to breathe his last. The doctor bends forward——

Ah! what ghastly scream is that which rends the air, and is taken up by the dog outside with his sinister howling? It is not Vort Kartiff, the cracknel-maker, who is the dying man, but he, the doctor, Doctor Trifulgas himself!—he who is smitten down with brain fever—he and no other. Full well he knows the symptoms. It is cerebral apoplexy, with sudden accumulation of serosity in the cavities of the brain, and partial paralysis of the body on the side opposite that where the lesion exists. Ay, it was for him that assistance was besought, that one hundred and twenty fretzers were paid! He who, in the hardness of his heart, had refused to attend the poor cracknel-maker! It is he now that is dying.

Doctor Trifulgas raved like a maniac. The symptoms increased every minute. Not only were all the functions of relation dead in him, but the beatings of his heart were nearly gone, like the breath of his lungs. Yet he had not lost all conciousness of his desperate strait.

What shall he do? Diminish the mass of the blood by bleeding? There must be no hesitation, or Doctor Trifulgas is a dead man. Phlebotomy was still practiced in Volsinia, and there, as here, the doctors rescued from apoplexy all those who were not to die from its effects.

Doctor Trifulgas sized his case of instruments, took his lancet, and punctured the vein on his duplicate self. No blood, however, spurted from the wounds. He rubbed with all his might the chest of the dying one, but he found that the pulsations of his own heart diminished; he burnt the other's feet with hot bricks, but felt his own feet growing cold.

Suddenly his duplicate starts up in his bed, struggles wildly in the last throes of suspended breathing, a rattle is heard in his throat, and Doctor Trifulgas, with all his science, falls back dead in his own arms.

* * *

The following morning a corpse was found in the house known as the Six-Four—that of Doctor Trifulgas. He was placed in a coffin, and conveyed, in great pomp, to the cemetry of Luktrop, after the manner of the many he had already sent there.

As for old Hurzof, I am told the faithful beast may still be seen, with his lantern relighted, scouring the heath and howling for his lost master. If this be true or not, I can not say. Yet so many strange things do occur in this Volsinian country, especially round about Luktrop, that I see no reason to doubt the statement. At any rate, let me ask of you once more not to look for this town of Luktrop on the map. The best geographers are still uncertain as to its exact position in latitude—and even longitude.—Translated from the Christmas number of the Paris Figaro

A Letter From "Old Tecump."

From a Washington Letter.

Captain C. C. Smith, of the treasury department, lately found among his war letters the following from General Sherman, written soon after his son Willie died at Memphis:

"Gayoso House, Memphis, Tenn., October 4, 1863. Captain C. C. Smith, Commanding Battalion Thirteenth U. S. Regulars: My Dear Friend—I can not sleep to-night until I record an expression of the deep feeling of my heart to you, and to the officers and soldiers of the battalion for their kind behavior to my poor child. I realize that you all feel for my family the attachment of kindred, and I assure you of full reciprocity. Consistent with a sense of duty to my profession and officers, I could not leave my post, and sent for the family to come to me in that fatal climate, and in that sickly period of the year, and behold the result! The child who bore my name, and whose future I reposed more confidence than I did in my own plan of life, now floats a mere corpse, seeking a grave in a distant land, with a weeping mother, brother and sisters clustered about him. For myself, I ask no sympathy. Oh! no, I must go and meet a soldier's fate, or live to see our country rise superior to all factions, till our flag is adored and respected by ourself and by all the powers on earth.

"But Willie was, or thought he was, a Sergeant in the Thirteenth. I have seen his eye brighten, his heart beat, as he beheld the battalion under arms, and asked me if they were not real soldiers. Child as he was, he had the enthusiasm, the pure love of truth, honor and love of country which should animate all soldiers. God only knows why he should die thus young. He is dead, but will not be forgotten till those who knew him in life have followed him to that same mysterious end.

"Please convey to the battalion my heart-felt thanks, and assure each and all that if in after years they call on me or mine, and mention that they were of the Thirteenth regulars when Willie was a sergeant, they will have a key to the affections of my family that will open all it has; that we will share with them our last blanket, our last crust. Your friend, W. T. Sherman,
"Major General."

Personal Paragraphs.

The late Richard Somers Smith, of Philadelphia, was the third of six brothers, all of whom lived to celebrate their golden weddings. He was born in 1789, and consequently lived under the administration of every President the United States has yet had.

Mamie Dickens, daughter of Charles Dickens, writes in the Youth's Companion of her great father: "His study—to these children—was rather a mysterious and awe-inspiring chamber, and while he was at work nobody was allowed to enter it. The little ones had to pass the door as quietly as possible, and the little tongues left off chattering. But at no time through his busy life was he ever too busy to think of them, to amuse them, or to interest himself in all that concerned them."

A gander-legged reporter of the Cincinnati News-Journal disguised himself as a dude and went out to hear what would be said about him and to flirt with beauty. He reports that fully two-thirds of the young women and girls are not averse to a little innocent flirtation, and that nearly all the women will turn for a look at a finely or strikingly-dressed young man.

Mr. Bell, the originator of the telephone enterprise of that name, formerly a teacher of languages in Boston, now lives in Washington with a fortune estimated at $5,000,000. Mr. Blake, the inventor of the "transmitter," is worth $4,000,000. Mr. Vail, the general manager of the company, formerly a poor telegraph operator, has an elegant Boston residence and $4,000,000. Mr. Forbes, who furnished the money to put the invention to use, is worth from $5,000,000 to $6,000,000.

The world has just discovered that Gen. Stonewall Jackson left a daughter, and England and France has discovered that she is the most beautiful woman that has visited their shores this season. Miss Julia Jackson is said to be a much more beautiful girl than the now famous Jennie Chamberlain, and there is every probability of her being the rage of the coming season in London. It would appear that the crop of English professional beauties has given out, as we hear of no one who takes the place formerly filled by Mrs. Langtry and Mrs. Cornwallis West. It is a new field for American enterprise. Miss Jackson is a dark type, and half the artists in London are raving about her eyes.

Mathew Arnold delivered his farewell lecture in Chickering Hall, New York, Saturday night. The subject was "Literature and science." In concluding it, Mr. Arnold said: "I have met with much kindness everywhere, and I wish before I depart to express to you and to all my friends in America my gratitude for the kindness in which you have received and the indulgence with which you have heard me. My deep interest in this country and its inexhaustible impossibilities make it my hearty desire to visit you once more before I die." Mr. Arnold, accompanied by his wife and daughter sailed for England last week.

The following anecdote is told of Earl Lindsay, father of Lady Anne Barnard, who wrote the famous ballad, "Auld Robin Gray." The earl's kindness of heart was unbounded. One day he overtook, on the road, an old woman who had stolen a quantity of turnips from one of his fields. He began to bluster and scold in a way that would have frightened a stranger; but the old woman waited and curtsied till the storm had subsided, and then said: "Ay, my lord; they're unco' heavy; will ye nae gie me a lift?" and the earl dismounted and helped her take the sack on her back."

Miss Anna Stomps, a young society lady of Dayton who had always been much admired for her beautiful head of thick, brown hair, was robbed of her charm Saturday night. She was in the woodshed in the rear of her home, when her braided treasure was caught from behind and slashed off with a sharp knife. An alarm was raised, but the vandal escaped with his prize. The motive for the deed is a mystery.

Various Paragraphs.

The Shakers of South Union, La., one of the thirteen Shaker Communities in the United States, own 20,000 acres in one of the best parts of Louisiana.

The raising of turkeys seems to be one of the great industries of California. One man near Casmalia, that State, raised 2,000 turkeys this season, realizing $3,000 from their sale.

Dr. Henry Leonard, of Toledo, has been stuying up the history, uses and abuses of lice. He has discovered that sailors believe a certain number of body lice, or graybacks eaten in jam or jelly, will cure the liver complaint. Some of the Northern tribes of Indians regard the fat head louse as a most delicate and savory morsel. They spend much of their time picking them off of each other, the picker getting one-half the game for catching it.

The Bibliotheuue National of France according to the annual inventory just completed, contains 2,500,000 volumes. In the cabinet of manuscripts are 92,000 volumes and 144,000 French and foreign coins of all periods.

Baron A. de Rothschild is having built one of the largest steam yachts that was ever constructed. She is 246 feet long and 27 feet beam, and the speed expected is fourteen and one-half knots. She will be ready for sea by June, and her name will be Eros.

The Rev. A. E. Tortart is trying to build a church at Gettysburg as a thank-offer to God for bringing the war to a close. It will be under the auspices of the Episcopal church, but free to all, and will be called "The Church of the Prince of Peace." Mr Tortart has utilized the touching story of a Rhode Island drummer boy, who died on Round Top from fever induced by exhaustion in forced marches to reach the field of Gettysburg for the battle, in the organization of busy-bee societies to raise money for the church. The boy's shattered drum was left on the field and was taken by a farmer and used as a beehive.

A roll of bills amounting to $2,000 supposed to have been washed ashore from some wreck was picked up recently by a person living in Black Rock, Conn.

Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Publisher.

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

Referring to a theory of scientists, in discussing earthquakes, that the bowels of the earth are a seething mass of fire and that there is danger of the world growing hotter and hotter until the earth becomes a mass of flame, a writer says that if anyone had begun to fear that things were warming up at an uncomfortable pace, he will be reassured by the recent weather.

English judges, as well as statesmen, are proverbially long-lived, especially judges. No less than four English Judges are still actively pursuing their judicial labors after attaining the age of fourscore years. They are Vice Chancellor Bacon, who is in his 87th; Judge Petersdorff, in his 85th; Judge Hulton, in his 83d; and Judge Bayley, of the Westminster County Court, also in his 83d year. There are many other judges who are verging towards the ages of those named.

Exports of American staples are still running far ahead of the figures of twelve months ago. During the week ended January 10 the value of breadstuffs and cotton alone, exported from the Atlantic and Gulf ports, was $2,300,000 greater than for the same week of 1884, a rate of increase equal to about $120,000,000 a year. On the other hand there is a considerable decrease in our imports. The times are not favorable for the expenditure of the usual amount of money for foreign silks, laces, wines and gawgaws generally.

It is announced that the post-office committee of the house of representatives will report a substitute for the bills pending before it relative to the reduction of newspaper postage from two to one cent per pound. The bill provides that publications of second-class when sent by the publisher from the office of publication to bona fide subscribers, or when sent from a news agent to actual subscribers or other news agent, shall be entitled to transmission through the mail at one cent per pound, such postage to be prepaid.

It is a favorite theory of those who devote attention to what is termed vital statistics, that people live longer now than formerly, and it seems to be true as regards certain localities, whatever may be the case in others. In Connecticut, as the result of elaborate compilations, the Bridgeport Standard says: "One interesting result which this state canvass presents is that the days of our years are more in number than they were a generation ago. A generation ago only one person in 500 lived to see eighty years. Now, one per cent. of the population, or five in every 500 live to that great age."

There is a scheme on foot for a further acquisition of territory from Mexico by the United States. It is proposed to "rectify the boundary line between this Republic and Mexico," concerning which there has been much disputation, by purchasing all of the Mexican territory lying north of the twenty-second parallel of latitude, embracing nine of Mexico's twenty-six states. This would give us Lower California and the entire Gulf of California, including the ports of Guaymas, Mazatlan and La Paz. The nine states are in territorial extent about 75 per cent. of the amount purchased by our government in 1848 under PresidentPok.

Debates in executive sessions of the Senate are held with closed doors, and never appear in the Congressional Record. But it has leaked out that Senator Edmunds of Vermont in executive session made a ringing speech in favor of building the proposed Nicaragua canal without asking England's consent. The policy of conducting further negotiations respecting the Clayton-Bulwer treaty—of crawling on the ground at her feet, to avoid inviting the hostility of her High Mightiness—he justly characterized as "the diplomacy of fear," and declared that although complications abroad appear to be almost inevitable, we should take a firm and decided stand at once.

It is always unsafe to predict what will happen in the closing days of a session of congress, but the New York Commercial Bulletin hazards a prophecy regarding pending measures of especial interest to commerce. It says the Spanish treaty is not likely to be pressed to a vote in the senate, because its friends see that it would be defeated. The Nicaragua treaty has friends enough to pass it, but not at this session. They want more time. Neither house will pass a postal telegraph bill. A bill to suspend silver coinage may pass the senate, but will die in the house. The interstate commerce bill, land grant forfeiture bills and bills to adjust the indebtedness of the Pacific railroads may reach conference committees, but the lobbies will probably be able to prevent any agreement. The chances are against the Lowell bankruptcy bill. The $85,000,000 educational bill is in a parliamentary mesh from which its extrication is improbable. The $25,000,000-a-year pension bill has a good show to win. The Mexican treaty is uncertain, though its opponents are confident of defeating it. The steamship subsidy bill is a special order accessible by a majority vote and will bear watching.

SUMMARY OF NEWS OF THE WEEK.

The Most Brilliant Surgical Operation.

New York Special: The most brilliant surgical case yet recorded is an operation recently performed at the Chambers Street hospital. In this case precedent was openly defied and the attending surgeons saved a human life and performed an operation of a kind that never before had been attended with success. One McElroy was shot, the ball stopping at some point within the abdominal cavity. A consultation was held, and it was determined that death would speedily ensue unless relief was afforded in some manner; and heroic treatment was decided upon. Within twenty hours after being shot McElroy was transferred to the operating table. Elaborate precautions were taken to prevent the introduction of disease germs into the wound. An incision was made into the abdominal cavity and the entire intestines gradually taken out. The bullet was found in the last section and removed. It was found to have penetrated the intestines in several places. The operation lasted two hours. As soon as food could be given properly, McElroy gained strength and went out of the hospital for the first time on Christmas day, less than two months from the time he was injured, and about a week after which he was discharged cured. The success of the operation is considered a great triumph in surgical science.

Iowa takes the cake on creamery butter at New Orleans.

Two educated Hebrews have joined a Methodist church at Cincinnati.

The Opera house fire at Rondout, N. Y., entailed a loss of $50,000.

The Illinois legislative deadlock was broken by the election of Haines as speaker.

H. P. Halingsen of Alice, Ransom county, was killed by a falling tree while cutting wood.

Peter Pierce, of Eagle River, Wis., froze to death while returning from Eagle Harbor on foot.

At San Francisco, fire destroyed Kerr's carriage factory, and two adjoining buildings. Loss, $50,000.

The planing mill of Ketchum, Zastrow & Co. Helena, Mont., burned. Loss, $10,000; insurance $5,000.

The late Charles H. Rogers, a banker of Philadelphia, left $2,000,000 to build a home for the aged.

Dr. F. Pierce of Worcester, Mass., has been given two years in the house of correction for fatal malpractice.

A woman from Wisconsin communicated to a representative at Washington a plot to blow up the capitol with dynamite.

The Massachusetts legislature has refused to allow a woman preacher of Nantucket to preform the marriage cermoney.

A fellow named St. Clair stole a horse at Prairie du Chien and sold it. He then stole and sold the animal again. He was arrested.

Judge Windslow has affirmed the sale of the J. I. Case Plow company of Racine to J. I. Case, upon payment to the assignee of $157,000.

Bennett Parsons, a farmer near Jonesboro, Ala., aged seventy-two years, was shot and killed. His wife and daughter are accused of the deed.

J. B. Day a farmer, sixty years old, was burned to death in a fire that destroyed the Empire house, Plover, Wis. The other inmates escaped.

Archbishop Alemany of San Francisco has resigned his see. His resignation has been accepted by the pope. Archbishop Riordan succeeds him.

Sergeant Mason, who shot at Guiteau, is living quietly on his Virginia farm with Betty and the baby, on the profits of the tour of the dime museums.

On one side of a certain street in Denver is a house and grounds that cost nearly $1,000,000, and just opposite is a hut residence that is worth probably $20.

A bill introduced in the Ohio legislature provides that a person sentenced to the penitentiary three times shall be liable on the third occasion to a life term.

The committee on selecting a grand marshal for the inaugural ceremonies will probably select Gen. Don Carlos Buell, in the event Gen. McClellan declines.

Gust Weizel, a farmer, was killed at a railroad crossing at Wausau, Wis. His team was frightened by a switch engine and ran away, causing Weizel's death.

Frank McCormick was arrested at Helena, Mont., for passing counterfeit money, and bound over in $1,000 to appear before United States District Judge Alden.

Elijah M. Haines, independent Democrat, was elected permanent speaker of the Illinois assembly on the second ballot, breaking the deadlock which has existed for three weeks.

A fire in Dubuque destroyed a house and contents. The fire communicated to the lumber yard of the Standard Lumber company's yards and destroyed 1,000,000 lath. Total loss, $3,000; insurance, $2,000.

Fifteen indictments for the embezzlement of state funds have been found against William R. Smith, clerk in the office of the auditor of public accounts of Virginia. The number of indictments is expected to go up into the hundreds.

R. W. Lansing of the town of Bloomington Grove, Dane County, Wis., a well known resident of Wisconsin, died recently. He was appointed receiver of public moneys at Mineral Point in 1843, when Wisconsin was still a territory.

The murderer, Hank Lewis, before leaving Plankinton after his acquittal, purchased a Winchester rifle, laid in a large supply of cartridges and announced his determination to return to his claim "on the Cedar" and hold the fort against the world, the flesh and the devil.

Postoffices Established—Minnesota: Chatham, Wright county; Winfield, Renville county. Postmasters Commissioned—A. H. Vierson, Pella, Iowa; H. Y. Johnson, Mapes, Dak.; L. F. Foquet, Chatham, Minn.; U. Julson, Winfield, Minn.

The crew of the British bark Wellington mutinied off Cornwall, killed the captain and severely wounded the mate. The captain and mate in defending themselves wounded three of the crew. The mutineers were towed into Plymouth, where they were placed under arrest.

In an altercation at Clifford, Dak., W. Lovejoy struck Peter Strand with a billiard cue, causing fracture of the skull, from which Strand died. The quarrel originated about an old pipe. Both parties were under the influence of liquor. Lovejoy was arrested and tried.

Charles Warren Adams, who recently brought action in London for libel against Bernard Coleridge, son of the lord chief justice, based on a letter written to Mildred Mary Coleridge to whom he (Adams) was engaged, has now brought direct action for libel against Lord Coleridge himself.

Dr. W. H. Maiken and Mrs. Eliza Park, who eloped from Corning, Iowa, last fall, and were captured in Tennessee have been returned to Corning. Maiken, a practicing physician in that city for a number of years, left a wife and three children, and his companion deserted a husband and four children.

At Ripon, Wis., A fire recently destroyed a block of three buildings, owned by Judge L. C. Reed, valued at $20,500, which are a total loss. Insurance $10,000, about equally divided between the Underwriter's Fire association, Home of New York, Hartford and Imperial London association.

John Bright addressed a crowded meeting at Birmingham. He said the question of disestablishment would not be an opportune one in the present century. He ridiculed the idea of colonial confederation without a system of free trade, and asserted the next parliament would probably grant free trade in land.

The Philadelphia express on the Reading railroad was wrecked at Greenville, N. J. Many people were injured. Twenty-five wounded persons have been removed from the wreck, and many more were to be extricated. There were seventy passengers on board, and it is remarkable that many were not killed outright.

The coroner's jury in the Druse murder case in Warren, Herkimer county, New York, finds that William Druse was shot and killed by Roxanna, his wife, aged forty, and that Mary J., the daughter, aged twenty, George W. Druse, aged ten, and Frank Gates, her nephew, aged fourteen, were feloniously present and gave aid and comfort to the woman.

Detectives returned to Boston from Detroit, Mich., having in custody ex-Gov. Moses of South Carolina, wanted in Cambridge for obtaining money by false pretenses from Col. T. W. Higginson. Moses obtained $34 from Col. Higginson by representing himself as a lawyer named Byram, who had been robbed while returning from Canada. The prisoner was committed to jail.

The Irish newspapers denounce the outrage in vigorous terms. The Freeman's Journal says: Only one feeling prevails throughout Ireland regarding the fiendish crimes, and that is deep, earnest sympathy with those injured, and no less than the earnest wish that the diabolical authors may be brought to justice. Any man with a touch of human feeling must regret the escape of the miscreants.

In the court of appeals in London a decision was handed down in the case of Charles Bradlaugh on his appeal from the decision of the divisional court refusing him a new trial in the case which the government won against him for taking his seat of commons without taking the oath. The court of appeal decides that Bradlaugh has the right of appeal, and the decision is in effect an order for a new trial.

The court martial in the Swaim case is still deliberating, not having reached any conclusion yet. The members refuse to talk about it to outsiders, either to deny or affirm the correctness of any of the rumors afloat as to their views. The fact that no conclusion has yet been reached is generally regarded by army officers as indicating that the court is divided, and no unanimous conclusion is to be looked for.

Congressman Deuster was swindled out of $150 by a female sharper in Washington. The woman presented him a telegram purporting to come from a responsible gentleman in Milwaukee, requesting Deuster to advance the woman $150 on his account. He gave the money, and subsequently ascertained that the telegram was bogus. The gentleman from the Milwaukee district is now looking for the woman.

In the Massachusetts senate, Thayer introduced a bill providing for the punishment of persons making, selling, offering to sell or having in their possession nitro-glycerine, giant powder or any other explosive compound with intent that such explosives shall be used at any place within the commonwealth or in any foreign country for the injury or destruction of public or private property or for the purpose of assassination.

Flandreau, Dak., Special Telegram. There have been no through trains from the east since Monday the 19th, owing to a blockade through southern Minnesota. Tuesday the 20th, the train going east returned from Fulda and has been making daily trips between that point and Woonsocket. The weather for the past ten days has been cold but with the exception of one day has been very calm. There is not to exceed two inches of snow on the ground.

At Cleveland, O., Mr. Patterson and Alex Bates, two young society men, created a sensation by engaging in a disgraceful fight at a prominent roller rink. The affair grew out of some derogatory remarks made by Bates concerning Patterson and a Miss Mahr, a dashing young society lady. Patterson was badly whipped, and cried "Enough." Owing to the prominence of the parties great efforts are being made to hush up the affair.

At Huntingdon, Pa., during the absence of Sheriff McAlevy the prisoners who are allowed the freedom of the corridors engaged in a desperate conflict among themselves, in which Alex. Gray received dangerous injuries by being beaten over the head with a poker by a fellow prisoner named Tom Potter. The insurrection was quelled through the heroism of Miss Laura McAlevy, niece of the sheriff, who forced the prisoners back to their cells at the point of a revolver.

Admiral Courbet's operations for the seizure of the mines of Kelung have been thwarted by the Chinese. Dispatches state that the French troops disembarked, attacked Kelung and were repulsed with a loss of seventy-five men. Later news shows the repulse of the French was due largely to the utter inefficiency of their attack, owing to a miscalculation of the enemy's strength. The French troops are being now organized for a combined attack upon both Kelung and Tamsui.

The Clearwater Advance commends the Pioneer Press in its new venture "presenting in its Sunday issue articles on current topics by specialists." It says the articles are made doubly valuable because the authors "are known to be in full possession of their powers. It is a literary treat to peruse their writings." The Advance is right, and the fact that these articles are published in the Weekly as well as in the Sunday Pioneer Press, places them within reach of every body for One dollar a year. A marvel of cheap literature.

Capt. J. M. Farrell, organizer of Farrell's detective agency and protective police has just died in New Orleans at the age of fifty-nine. He was one of the best known detectives in the United States. William Melchert, druggist, made a mistake in filling a prescription. Instead of one ounce of water, and twenty-four drops of aconite, as ordered by the doctor, he put in an ounce of aconite. A dose of this was administered to Farrell, and he expired shortly after. A warrant has been issued, charging Melchert with involuntary manslaughter.

In explanation of the position of Gen. Rosecrans on the bill of retiring Gen. Grant, some papers have published two dispatches purporting to be from Gen. Grant, and sent during the war to Stanton and Halleck, one demanding Rosecrans' removal and the other ordering his arrest in a certain contingency. When Gen. Rosecrans' attention was called to the dispatches named and the commands thereon, he said: "This is the first intimation I have ever had of the existence of any such dispatches, or of any ground upon which such telegrams might be based.

Des Moines, Iowa Special.—The executive offices in the new capitol were thrown open to the public on the night of the 29th inst. Gov. Sherman was assisted in the reception of guests by ex-Govs. Stone and Merrill. It was intended to have all the living ex-governors present; but Kirkwood, Gear, Newbold and Carpenter did not appear. There was a continuous jam of the populace going and coming from the time the doors opened until after 11 o'clock. The governor's new quarters comprise a suite of four rooms, and constitute elegant quarters, thoroughly in keeping with the dignity of the state.

A conference was held at the treasury department Saturday on the general question of the business prospects of the country as affected by the alleged depreciation of silver. There were present Secretary McCulloch, Treasurer Wyman, Assistant Treasurer Acton of New York, William Dowd, George S. Coe and Vermilyea, bankers of New York. Secretary McCulloch said, in referring to the conference, that views all were in harmony on the general question, that national finance does not call for changes in the present policy of the administration. There is no cause, he said, to apprehend any interruption in the business prosperity of the country nor anything to justify depreciation of the value of silver certificates.

Portland, Or., Special: During the past six weeks heavy storms have prevailed throughout Eastern Oregon and Washington Territory. The loss of live stock is reported very heavy. Cattle and horses perished by thousands from exposure and want of food. The loss of sheep and hogs, however, is reported much greater. In Crook county, Or., the percentage of loss is very large, but in Klamath county, just south, the loss is comparatively light. The total money value to stock raisers is difficult to estimate. The latest reports from settled regions east of the Cascades are that large numbers of persons froze to death during the late cold, protracted snow storm. A number of persons during the continuance of the storm are known to have wandered off and perished. Most of the bodies of such persons have been recovered since the snow disappeared. Very recent inquiries among relatives and friends disclose the fact that many persons are still missed, and their whereabouts unknown. There can be no doubt as to the fate of these missing persons. The precise number of persons perishing will probably never be known, but it is large.

THE MINNESOTA LEGISLATURE.

SENATE—Petitions were presented for submission to the people of a prohibition amendment to the constitution, and for an amendment to secure female suffrage. Bills were introduced: To reimburse counties in the state from the gross tax on railroads, for taxes overpaid through reason of exemption of railroads from tax; providing for consolidation of religious organizations; to establish a state normal school at Moorhead; protecting all citizens, without regard to color, in their civil and legal rights; relating to the appointment of assistant superintendents of schools. The house bill authorizing Wright county to issue $10,000 in bonds was passed; also, the senate bill amending the statutes relating to restraining beasts doing damage. The senate, in committee of the whole, reported favorably on the bill to create an additional judge in the Eleventh district; to punish conspiracies to regulate the price of grain; reducing peremptory challenges of accused in capital cases from twenty to seven.

Senator Doran's bill to punish grain corner manipulators was amended in committee of the whole so as to add to the punitive clause imprisonment for not less than one nor more than three years, and then recommended to pass.

No opposition was manifested in the senate to the Stevenson bill providing for an additional judge in the Eleventh judicial district. A similar bill passed the last senate but failed in the house. Senator Comstock in recommending the bill read statistics showing that the vote at the last general election in the Eleventh district was, in round numbers, 17,000. In the Second district with three judges, the vote was 15,000; in the Fourth, with three judges, 31,000; in the Eighth, 12,000; the Ninth, 10,000; the Tenth, 11,000.

The bill introduced by Senator C. D. Gilfillan to protect the legal right of all classes of citizens without distinction of race or color, is in the interest of the colored people of Minnesota, and is an exact copy of the Ohio law on the same subject. The preamble sets forth the equality of all men under the law, and the sections provide that any infringement of these rights, such as refusal to admit to cars, theaters, public halls, etc., shall be a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $500, or imprisonment not less than thirty days nor more than one year.

HOUSE—Petitions were presented for the extension of the right of suffrage to women, and to prohibit the sale and manufacture of oleomargarine. The house refused to make a memorial on the Reagan bill the special order. Bills were introduced authorizing the St. Paul & Sioux City and Winona & St. Peter railroads to divide certain lands; to regulate the transportation of grain; to prohibit the sale of dangerous weapons to minors; authorizing women to vote for county superintendent of schools; in relation to the distribution of the property of debtors under the insolvent act; exempting Washington county from the operations of the partition fence laws; fixing the compensation of the county treasurer of Ramsey county; amending the statutes relating to the appointment of guardians; prohibiting the catching of fish in Lake Minnetonka except between May and November; requiring persons elected to school offices to serve; limiting the time in which real estate judgments may be opened. Senate bills were passed, legalizing the incorporation of certain villages, and a number of local bills. House bills were passed amending the statutes relating to assignments.

The bill introduced by J. H. Drake to allow the St. Paul & Sioux City and the Winona & St. Peter Railroad companies to make an equitable division of lands, the title to which vests in both companies, is to allow such division without the legal title being effected. Of the land in question there are about 10,000 acres situated in the northern portions of Brown, Cottonwood and Murray counties.

Mr. Hendrickson has introduced an amendment to the insolvent debtor law, which provides that in case a judgment debtor makes an assignment and any judgment creditor can show to the court that the debt was contracted fraudulently, the creditor is not obliged to sign a full release, but may retain what shall protect his interest.

SENATE—Bills were introduced, to provide for examination into and settlement of seed grain claims; amending the religious corporation law; for a change of boundary between Polk and Marshall counties; joint resolution declaring that certain railroad corporations have forfeited their franchises and asking adjudication; declaring a portion of the Cannon Valley railroad grant forfeited unless the road is built into Mankato within eight months. Senate bills passed for an additional judge in the Eleventh district; protecting manufacturers and bottlers in the use of trade marks; preventing combinations to affect the price of wheat; providing for the collection of criminal statistics. House bills passed, preserving the fish in Clearwater lake and authorizing St. Joseph and St. Cloud, Stearns county, to issue bonds (two bills). Three senators were appointed on the joint committee to confer with Dakota legislators. The resolution was adopted to inquire into the tax upon the $3,000,000 mortgage held by the Minnesota Railway Construction company.

Senator Doran's bill passed by the senate provides that "every person who shall combine, confederate or conspire with any other person or persons, with a view, in whole or in part, by any arrangement, plan, device or contrivance, to control or diminish the market price of wheat, corn or other grain, shall be deemed guilty of a felony, etc."

After the bill had passed by a vote of 33 to 7, Senator Doran said, although he had hoped to be permitted to remain silent, he would say that the purpose of the bill was to prevent the millers' association from controlling the price of wheat, and was the outgrowth of a meeting he had with certain buyers of wheat, in which it was represented that it would be to his interest to lower the price on wheat at Le Sueur eight or nine cents below what he was paying.

Senator O'Brien's bill respecting religious corporations is explained by the introducer as intended to remove all doubt of the power of Episcopal and Roman Catholic churches to mortgage or convey realty without previous notice in the churches or a vote of approval by the members of the congregation. The mover asked that the bill be passed under suspension of the rules, but the senate declined to do so by a pronounced majority.

More than 200 bills have been introduced in the senate thus far, and of surcease in the flood there is no sign. Between twenty and thirty have been passed under suspension of the rules and a dozen in the regular order.

HOUSE—Representative McKusick petitioned for power from the house to summon witnesses in his contested election case. Bills were introduced authorizing Mower county to purchase fair grounds; fixing the salary of the state treasurer's clerk; amending law relating to partition fences; to regulate employment bureaus or offices; changing the time of holding meetings by county commissioners; amending the probate law; amending statutes relating to the filing of mortgage notes; appropriating $5,000 per year for the state board of corrections charities. A resolution was introduced for the investigation of labor other than convict in the state prison. House bills passed: Allowing religious bodies to organize as corporations; authorizing mortgagees and pledgees to purchase at public sale; legalizing certain records recorded in the office of the register of deeds; legalizing powers of attorney heretofore made; relating to the distribution of property by assigns; amending statutes relating to assigns. A committee was appointed to meet the committee from the Dakota legislature.

Mr. Foster's bill changing the law relating to the filing of notes, mortgages, etc., changes a single word—vendor to vendee. It requires the note to be filed where the vendee lives.

SENATE.—Resolutions were presented calling for the passage of the Illinois railroad law and of a memorial in favor of the McAdoo bill in congress. Bills were introduced, making the illegal sale of intoxicating liquors prima facie evidence of wrong intent; providing for the incorporation of G. A. R. posts; fixing the terms of court commissioners and judges to agree with the biennial election amendment; amending the charter of Hastings (passed under suspension), and to prevent the spread of contagious diseases among domestic animals; the bill allowing Crow Wing county to issue $50,000 bonds for a bridge across the Mississippi at Brainerd. In committee of the whole the bill reducing the rate of legal interest from 10 to 8 per cent. was indefinitely postponed; also the bill providing for assessments on owners of lots in cemeteries.

Senator Castle introduced a very lengthy bill to suppress and prevent the spread of contagious diseases among domestic animals. By the terms of the bill the governor is authorized to appoint a state veterinarian or inspector to inspect all cases in which he suspects contagious diseases to exist. Glanders in horses and pleuro-pneumonia in cattle are particularized, but other contagious diseases are referred to generally.

Senator Hall introduced a substitute to Senator Comstock's bill, the substitute providing that any person who holds a tax title shall give due notice to the former owner of the land, or to any having a mortgage thereon at the time of expiration of right of redemption. It also provides for preservation of record of such notice.

Senator O'Brien's bill in relation to the sale of intoxicating liquors is intended to relieve the prosecution of the necessity of proving intent, in that the sale of any intoxicating liquor to an habitual drunkard or minor, under whatever name the liquor is sold, shall be prima facie evidence of wrong intent.

HOUSE.—The Knife Falls Boom company replied to the petition of the Duluth lumbermen. Bills for the numbering of irregular pieces of land, realizing the incorporation of villages and for the punishment of certain practices at elections were indefinitely postponed. The committee on elections was instructed to send for persons and papers to the Wyncoop-KeKusick election case. Bills were introduced: To enforce the payment of taxes that have become delinquent in certain cases; amending statutes relating to service of summons upon corporations; providing for the regulation of building associations; to regulate the sale of poisons; to require the listing of exempt personal property; permitting towns to vote on manner of paying poll tax; restricting the amount of toll to be taken for custom milling; to provide for the collection of school board indebtness in certain cases; changing the time for ordering school books from June to Sept; providing for the election of county superintendent of public instruction; reducing the fees of the oil inspector; amending the statutes in the matter of acknowledgements and discharge of executors; amending the statutes fixing the fees in justices' court. The railroad committee reported a substitute for all the railroad bills.

Mr. Spaulding is after the inspector of oils. Under the present law the inspector gets 40 cents for inspecting a single barrel, 30 cents a barrel for each barrel not to exceed five, 25 cents per barrel not to exceed ten barrels, and 20 cents a barrel for more than ten barrels. Mr. Spaulding's bill makes the rate 25 cents a barrel for single barrels, 20 cents for less than five barrels, 15 cents for less than ten barrels, and 10 cents for more than ten barrels.

Senator Wilkins' bill, by amendment to the present statutes, provides the method for incorporating posts of the Grand Army of the Republic in Minnesota.

SENATE—The O'Brien liquor bill was recommended to pass by the senate committee of the whole. A large number of bills appropriating money to aid in building bridges were introduced. Senator Shaleen introduced bills which are exact copies of the Illinois statutes affecting railroads, warehouses and grain inspection. The senate bill authorizing guardians to mortgage real estate of wards to pay debts passed. Adjourned until Tuesday next at 10:30 a. m.

General orders were taken up, Senator Langdon in the chair. The following bills of import were recommended to pass: Relating to payment of county treasurers monthly; appropriating money for repairs on the capitol; increasing the salary of the recording clerk in the office of the secretary of state; for an additional judge in the Seventh district; amending the laws affecting replevin in justice's court; providing for a change of the east and west boundary between Polk and Marshall county; amending the laws giving title by descent; amending the drainage law so that county commissioners are not liable to penalties; the two bills introduced by the judiciary committee to extend the terms of courts and of county commissioners to agree with the biennial election law.

HOUSE—Bills were introduced to amend the statutes relating to dams; appropriating $1,500 annually for farmers' institutes; amending the statutes relating to property exempt from taxation; amending statutes relating to the draining of lakes; amending statutes relating to chattel mortgages; amending statutes relating to exemption sales; amending statutes relating to redemption of mortgage foreclosure sales; to regulate the holding of teachers' institutes in the state. House bills were passed requiring security for costs in certain cases. In committee of the whole the memorial for the passage of the Regan bill was considered, Speaker Gibbs moved that the committee report the bill back with a recommendation that it be laid upon the table and the motion was carried by a vote of 43 to 33. The committee rose and reported, and Mr. Lienau moved that the report be not accepted, and the question being upon the adoption of the report that the bill lie upon the table there were ayes 38, and

The constitutional convention bill was lost in the house for lack of the two-thirds vote required to pass it, chiefly attributable to the light house. The vote was reconsidered and the bill laid aside.

The bill which was introduced last night in the house, appropriating $1,500 for farmers' institutes, provides that $100 shall be appropriated to defray the expenses of such institute, and creates the office of conductor of these institutes, at a salary of $1,000 per annum and necessary expenses, the officer to be appointed by the governor.

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL BOARD.

The state normal school board met at Superintendent Kiehle's office. There were present C. H. Berry, Winona; George T Barr, Mankato; W. B. Mitchell, St. Cloud; Joseph C. Whitney, Minneapolis; Sanford Niles, Rochester, members of the board; and Irwin Shepard and Edward Searing, president of the Winona and Mankato normal schools, respectively. After some discussion the board decided to make the following recommendations to the legislature for appropriations: $40,000 to build an addition to the Mankato school; $30,000 to build a ladies' hall at Winona; $16,000 to complete the ladies' hall at St. Cloud; $4,000 extra appropriation for each school; $2,000 for immediate use at Winona for teachers' salaries, etc.; $1,500 extra to repair the buildings at Mankato.

Climate and Character.

The men and women of New England, the Middle States, the west and the South, who emigrated to California thirty years ago, have become distinctively Californians, and the American who emigrates into Guatemala or Nicaragua will, in a still more marked degree become a Guatemalan or a Nicaragnan in character. The stream of migration from the "States" to the Pacific coast from 1846 to 1856, which, dividing at old Fort Hall, went, one division to Oregon or Washington Territory, the other to California, has, from climatic causes, produced differences in character as marked as are found between the people of Maine and the people of Florida. Thirty years after the flood of emigration shall have been set in motion from this State and Oregon and Wahington into the province of Alaska there will be a new type of character evolved there, distinct from that of the sources whence it came, though of the self-same blood and race.—San Francisco Chronicle.

The oldest carriages, used by the ladies of England, were called whirlcotes. These became unfashionable after Ann, the daughter of Charles IV. and Queen of Richard II., about the end of the fourteenth century, showed the ladies how gracefully they could ride on a side-saddle. Coaches were first known in England in the year 1580. They were introduced from Germany by the Earl of Arundel. They came into general use among the nobility in the year 1605. The celebrated Duke of Buckingham was the first who rode in a coach and six horses; to ridicule this pomp the Earl of Northumberland put eight horses to his carriage. Coaches let to hire were first established in London in 1625. There were only twenty of them kept at the principal inns. In the year 1637 there were fifty hackney coaches; in 1654 there were 200; in 1694 they were limited to 700; and in 1775 to 800; there are now 1,100.

Calvin Beal of Tacoma, W. T., handed a despatch to the lady telegraph operator, and seeing the despatch on the table after being told that it had been sent became excited and fired two shots at her, neither, fortunately, taking effect. It is believed that he is insane.

STATE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

Ramsey County Gives the Society a $200,000 Farm, Which is Accepted.

The annual meeting of the state agricultural society was held at St. Paul. The attendance at the meeting was unusually large, including representative agriculturists from all parts of the state, who have come in as delegates from the various agricultural and horticultural societies throughout the state.

The Ramsey and Nicollet county agricultural societies sent delegates to the meeting, but they were excluded, neither society having held a fair during the past year, as required by law.

N. P. Clark, chairman of the committee on the location of inter-urban state fair grounds, made a verbal report. He said the members of the committee had done a great deal of hard work for the purpose of securing grounds between the two cities, but without any success, when the Ramsey county poor farm was tendered the society by the county commissioners. They were much surprised and gratified at the liberality of Ramsey county in this matter, and recommended, unanimously, the acceptance of these grounds. The committee appointed at the city hall conference was then invited into the meeting. Mayor O'Brien, on behalf of the county commissioners, addressed the society. He said:

We propose to place this property in your hands without restriction. We propose to give you $200,000 worth of land and buildings. [Applause.] You can plant your home. We say, here is a foundation for your society; and then we expect in return for that, that the people of the state will, through the legislature, make the necessary contributions to enable you to grace that property, with the buildings appropriate and proper for your purposes.

J. S Harris then moved that the offer of the Ramsey county commissioners be accepted. He said:

This is a magnificent gift. We should accept it in the spirit in which it is given. We should adorn those grounds and improve them until they will compete in beauty and convenience with any fair grounds in the Union. I believe that every member of this society is in favor of accepting these grounds, and that ninety-nine out of every hundred farmers in the state will be willing to be taxed to raise the funds to make those fair grounds what they should be.

After addresses by various members Mr. Harris' motion accepting the gift of the Ramsey county commissioners was adopted unanimously by acclamation. Some one asked Mayor O'Brien for how long a time this gift was made, and the latter responded, "as long as the State of Minnessota and this society have an existence." The thanks of the society were then tendered for the other offers that had been presented.

On motion of Mr Harris, the society's committee on the fair grounds, together with the officers of the society, were authorized to conduct all business connected with the transfer of the fair ground and apply to the legislature for such legislation as may be necessary in the matter, and such an appropriation for improving the grounds as may be sufficient for immediate uses.

The committee authorized to act with the officers of the society in completing the transfer of the grounds consists of N. P. Clark, St. Cloud, chairman; Clark Thompson, Wells; J. F. Norrish, Hastings; Col. Stevens, Minneapolis, and C. A. De Graff, Janesville.

Resolutions were adopted asking the legislature to pay the expenses of farmer's institutes.

E. C. Judson, the secretary, presented his annual report of the expenditures in connection with the annual fair. The items are summarized as follows: General expense account $1,711; paid to officers, assistants, gate keepers, etc., $2,790.83; purses for races, $2,190.40; premiums, $4,067; total expenditures, $10,760.23. The indebtedness of the society is given as follows: Premiums in dispute and unpaid, $172; bill of C. W. Burdick, $23.50; note given to Germania bank, St. Paul, $3,200; total, $3,415.50. The treasurer, Frank J. Wilcox, also presented his report. This shows receipts for the year from all sources amounting to $14,531, and the total expenditures, including the state fair items named in the secretary's report, amounting to $14,512.91, leaving a cash balance on hand of $18.09.

The election of officers was had. For President. Whole number of votes, 86; Necessary for a choice, 44; N. P. Clark, St. Cloud, 58; Clark W. Thompson, Wells, 26; John F. Norrish, Hastings, 6; Scattering, 1.

Gen. Baker said that the ballot indicated clearly the sense of the meeting as to the presidency. The vote was also in accordance with the wishes of the Ramsey county members, and out of courtesy to them, in view of the magnificent gift they had made the society, he moved that N. P. Clark of St. Cloud be declared the unanimous choice of the societ for president which was done.

The remaining officers were elected without contest, the secretary casting the vote of the society. These officers are as follows:

Vice Presidents—C. A. De Graff, Janesville; C. T. Bailey, Duluth.
Secretary—R. C. Judson, Farmington.
Treasurer—F. G. Wilcox, Northfield.

J. F. Norrish was chosen to the executive committee in the place of Mr. De Graff, and James McHench and Col. Clark, whose terms on the board of managers had expired, were re-elected.

Col. Stevens, of Minneapolis, introduced a resolution thanking the retiring president, Col. Thompson, for the able manner in which he had conducted the affairs of the society during his term of office. Gen. Baker heartily seconded the resolution. He said that the efforts which had been made by Col. Thompson to keep the society on its feet were wonderful, almost marvelous. It had been with great difficulty that the society had been kept alive, and the fact that it was alive and prosperous to-day was due more to Col. Thompson's energy, ambition and his influence among the people of Southern Minnesota than to anything else.

A large number of the members before leaving for home, accepted an invitation to visit the great stock farm of Mr. J. J. Hill, near St. Paul.

Fruits Adapted to the Northwest.

At the late meeting of the Minnesota Horticultural Society at St. Paul the following apples were recommended, a vote being taken upon each variety:

For general planting, Duchess of Oldenburgh and Wealthy; for planting in limited quantities, the Tetofski; for trial, Yellow Transparent, the Peach apple, the Red Anise, the Longfield, the Russian Smelling apple, the Liebba, the Swan, Little Seedling, Hibernal and the Minnesota seedlings, Rollins' Pippin, Elgin Beauty, Giant Swaar and Kimball.

Plumb's Cider apple the Fameuse, the St. Lawrence and Walbridge, which were on last year's list, were dropped. The revision of the fruit list was made with the following result:

Crabs and Hybrids—Recommended for general planting: Beecher Sweet, Orange, Early Strawberry, Whitney No. 20, Virginia; for planting in limited quantities, the Hyslop; dropped from the list, Payers' red Minnesota, Conical, Hesper, Hutchinson's Sweet.

Grapes—Recommended for general planting: Concord, Delaware, Moore's Early, Brighton, Worden, Roger's Nos. 9 and 15; for trial, the Martha, Rogers' No. 4, Krahmer's seedling; dropped from the list, Rogers' No. 19 and 3.

Raspberries—Recommended for general planting: Blackcaps—Doolittle, Seneca, Mammoth Cluster, Gregg. Redcaps—Turner, Philadelphia, Cuthbert. Dropped from the list, the Purple Cane.

Currants—Recommended for general planting: Red—Red Dutch, Victoria; White—White Grape; Black—Black Naples. Varieties for trial, Prince Albert, Stewart's seedling, red, and Sias' seedlings, black.

Gooseberries—Recommended for general planting: The American seedling; Downing's Improved. Dropped from the list: The Houghton.

Native Plums—Recommended for general planting: Harrison's Peach, Forest Garden, Weaver, DeSoto. For trial: The Rolling Stone.

Strawberries—For general cultivation, placed on list in order of merit: First, Wilson's Albany Seedling, hermaphrodite; second, Charles Downing; third, Downer's Prolific; fourth, Green Prolific, pistillate; fifth, Cresent Seedling pistillate; sixth, Captain Jack hermaphrodite. For general trial: Windsor Chief, Cumberland Triumph, Old Ironclad, James Vick, Manchester, Minnetonka Chief, Piper Seedling, Miner's Prolific. For trial by amateurs: Bidwell, Iowa Prolific. Dropped from the list: Red Jacket and Pioneer.

Blackberries—Stone's Hardy and Ancient Britain recommended for trial.

Postoffices established: Dakota—Knife River, Morton county; Seward, Hamlin county. Iowa—Blakely, Decatur county, Oakwood, Polk county. Wisconsin—Big Wausakee, Marinette county. Postmasters commissioned—G. W. Matthews, Grand View, Dk.; Patrick Kelly, Tracy, Dak.; C. J. Wiley, Warren, Dak.; T. O. Conner, Georgetown, Iowa; W. A. Baker, Rochester, Iowa; L. W. Hockman, Waterman, Iowa; Olaf Nordvold, White Willow, Minn.; G. Myers, Adams Center, Wis.; C. Krauth, Knife River, Dak.; Magnus Mathewsen, Seward, Dak.; William Hamilton, Blakely, Iowa; G. W. West, Oakwood, Iowa; J. S. Monroe, Big Wausakee, Wis.

RAILROAD LEGISLATION.

Formulation of a Railway and Warehouse Commission Bill by the Railroad Committee of the House.

In the Minnesota House of Representatives, the railroad committee reported back all the bills referred to them with a recommendation that they be indefinitely postponed and recommended the passage of a bill for an act relating to railroads, providing for commissioners, prescribing their powers and duties; regulating railroad transporation and providing some of the rules of evidence and practice in actions relating thereto. It is altogether too long to print in full and it need not be printed for a clear idea of its provisions may be obtained from a synopsis.

The bill provides for an elective railroad commission, of two besides the present commissions, to which reports shall be made by the railroad companies in the usual form, and which shall have certain specified powers of inspection, supervision, inquisition and prosecution. That is to say, the commission may inform itself as to the conduct of railroad corporations and their relations with shippers, by examination of their books and accounts, which are to be open to it at all times. It is to hear complaints of neglect, overcharge, or discrimination, with judicial power to compel the attendance of witnesses, to arbitrate between railroads and shippers, and in its discretion enforce the punitive clauses of the bill against the former by process in the state courts. In all cases arising under the bill, the state is to conduct the prosecution by the attorney general and county attorneys; and all penalties, which are in the form of fines, shall accrue to the benefit of the county in which the case is tried. These provisions of the bill are familiar enough as the features of the Massachusetts and Iowa railroad laws, which conceive the railroad commission as a supervisory and arbitrating power between the railroad and shipper, whose main function is to secure wholesome publicity in their mutual relations and bring cases of injustice and unfair discrimination to the knowledge of the proper courts.

Other sections prescribe the duties and obligations of railroad corporations under the act. Sections 15 to 18 inclusive are substantially borrowed from the Iowa law also, and are intended to prevent discriminations of all kinds. Section 15 requires railroads to accept and forward all grain or other commodities offered within a reasonable time, and without discrimination between persons and corporations offering it. It also contains the provision that any person desiring to erect an elevator or warehouse on a railroad track shall be permitted to do so, and afforded shipping facilities.

Section 17 prohibits discrimination or undue delay in the forwarding of freight and its transfer from one railroad to another, and declares that a greater charge shall not be made for the transportation of freight for a shorter distance than for a longer distance from the same station; nor that more favorable terms shall be granted to one person, firm or corporation than to another for the same service. The first prohibition is a modification of the principle of the Reagan bill that long haul reductions shall not be permitted. Section 25 makes it mandatory upon the commission to establish a schedule of rates for every railroad doing business in the state. This section is given in full:

Sec. 25. [Schedules.] The railroad and warehouse commissioners are hereby directed to make, for each of the railroad corporations doing business in this state, as soon as practicable, a schedule of reasonable maximum rates of charges for the transportation of passengers and freights and cars on each of said railroads; and said schedule shall, in all suits brought against any such railway corporations, wherein is in any way involved, the charges of any such railroad corporation for the transportation of any passenger or freight or cars, or unjust discrimination in relation thereto, be deemed and taken in all courts of this state as prima facie evidence that the rates therein fixed are reasonable maximum rates of charges for the transportation of passengers and freights and cars upon the railroads for which said schedules may have been respectively prepared. Said commissioners shall from time to time, as often as circumstances may require, change and revise said schedules. When any schedules shall have been made or revised, as aforesaid, it shall be the duty of said commissioners to cause publication thereof to be made for three successive weeks, in some public newspaper published in the city of St Paul, in this state. All such schedules, heretofore or hereafter made, purporting to be printed and published as aforesaid, shall be received and held in all such suits as prima facie the schedules of said commissioners, without further proof than the production of the schedule desired to be used as evidence, with a certificate of the railroad commissioners that the same is a true copy of the schedule prepared by them for the railroad company or corporation therein named, and that the same has been published as required by law, stating the name of the paper in which the same was published, together with the date of such publication.

In the Grand Army of the Republic in Minnesota, the roll of newly elected officers stands as follows: Department commander R. A. Becker of St. Paul,; senior vice commander, William Thomas, of Mankato; junior vice commander, George S. Canfield, Brainerd; medical director. H. W. Brazee, Minneapolis; chaplain, J. M. Brown, Owatonna; council of administration, Thomas Montgomery, of St. Peter, L. G. Nelson of Kasson, A. H. Reed, of Glencoe, P. Starkweather of St. Paul, R. C. Livingstone of Spring Valley; delegates to the national encampment, F. M. McDonald of Minneapolis, C. C. Whitney of Marshall, J. Simonton of St. Paul, Col. Sessions of Minneapolis, D. A. Jacklin of Waterville, M. J. Sutherland of Austin; delegate at large, E. M. Pope of Mankato; alternates, Comrades Johnson, Scarf, Mero and Skinner; alternate at large, Capt. James Cannon, Mankato. It was decided to hold the next encampment at Excelsior.

Tom Quayle shot himself either accidentally or intentionally, it is not known which, at his place of business in Blue Earth City. He had some business transaction with an agent of a harvester company, which occupied considerable of the forenoon, and both gentlemen went to dinner. After dinner some one had occasion to drop into Mr. Quayle's place of business and found him lying on his face with pistol in hand and a bullet hole in his head back of the right ear. The jury returned a verdict of accidental shooting.

Jacob Grasslo shipped during the year ending Jan. 1 252 car loads of stock from Olmsted county, for which he paid about $150,000. William Buck, James Kennedy and others have shipped probably as much more. With what was consumed in the county the amount of stock sold would aggregate somewhere near $400,000. This does not include horses and sheep, large numbers of which were sold.

The United States treasury department is instituting a thorough system of retrenchment, and forty removals of employes and inspectors have been ordered in different sections of the country. Two in the St Paul district, under the jurisdiction of Special Agent John Douglas, will lose their heads—H. L. Eaton of St. Vincent and Peter Blow of Helena.

White Bear, a drunken Chippewa, had both legs cut off by a train near Minnesota City Winona county, and died soon after.

The Ramsey county legislative delegation agree to extend the city limits to the Hennepin line.

A dispatch says that the Haro family, prominent Adventists of Creston are still looking for the end of the world. The men have thrown up their positions and will not work. Their Bibles are constantly before them, and they are shut in thier house waiting for Gabriel's call. There are twelve in all—men, women and children. It is rumored, that one young girl, who is not a believer, is to be offered up as a sacrifice, to appease their God. The community is restless, and fears that these religious cranks will close their programme with a terrible tragedy.

All cellars should be ventilated. There is a great deal of foul gas that accumulates from the decay of vegetable matter in them that too often is allowed to pass into the rooms above, to the injury of the health of their occupants. The best way to secure ventilation is to have communication between the cellar and the chimney by means of a pipe or other opening. The upward draft will remove all foul air as it accumulates, and render it nearly or quite as pure as in the rooms above.

THE ELEVATOR SYSTEM.

That the present elevator system works incalculable injury to the interests of the farmer has been too well proved to need comment. That Mr. Chas. A. Pillsbury, (the head and soul of the system, and the Millers Association,) should do his best to defend and perpetuate it is not so surprising when one considers the amount of money he has made out of it. It seems to hurt him sorely if anyone hints that his own elevator line does not intend and has not always dealt fairly by the farmers in every particular and, we believe, he boasts that every case that has come to his notice has been honestly settled. Perhaps he honestly thinks so but how can he reconcile the following history of one particular case with strict honesty? THE JOURNAL files for Jan. 24, 1884 contains the following:

"Mr. C. A. Pillsbury, in the Pioneer Press of the 21st inst says:

There was a man at Crookston who said that he had been docked fourteen pounds to the bushel at our Angus elevator. But he acknowledged at Crookston—a very important thing which seems not to have been stated to your correspondent—that he had made his complaint at Minneapolis, and it had been settled long before the Crookston meeting, and before there was any agitation. But I must say further about this transaction that the agent at Angus had worked for us only about a week when the elevator burned and the wheat should have been docked fourteen pounds. I have seen wheat that ought to have been docked that and more too. But as the farmer thought he had been wronged and the wheat was burned and no way of testing it, we took his word and paid his claim. It looks like straining the thing a little to bring this up as a case of injustice."

Thus saith Mr. Pillsbury, and if he spoke the truth it might be considered a hardship to bring up such cases but the following affidavit of J. M. Palmer, the farmer at Angus who had been docked fourteen pounds to the bushel puts it in an altogether different light.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, }
County of Polk. } ss.

James M. Palmer, being duly sworn says that he is a farmer residing near Angus, in Polk County, that during the season of 1883 he raised a crop of wheat on his farm in Sec. 20, R. 47, in the town of Angus that on or about Oct. 1st, 1883, he delivered eight hundred bushels of wheat to Pillsbury & Hurlbut's elevator, at Angus station, which wheat was taken from the machine and delivered to said elevator and was graded by the agent of said elevator No. 2 Hard, after docking the same FOURTEEN (14) pounds to the bushel. Affiant further says that the same quality of wheat, in the same condition as delivered to said elevater, was by him loaded into a car and shipped to Duluth, Minnesota, where the same was returned to affiant as graded No. 1 Hard, and only docked ONE-HALF (½) pound to the bushel for cleaning. That soon after the delivery of said wheat at Angus the said elevator, with all the wheat, was destroyed by fire. That affiant at the time of said delivery objected to such heavy dockage as fourteen pounds to the bushel but got no satisfaction.

That on the 9th day of January, A. D. 1884, affiant appeared in the City Hall, in the city of Crookston, at the meeting then being held there, at which was present A. Manvel, General Manager of the St. P., M. & M. R'y., Charles A. Pillsbury, Hulbert and others that affiant then and there publicly stated the facts in regard to said excessive dockage on said wheat delivered to the elevator of Pillsbury & Hulbert, at Angus, Minnesota. Affiant further says that his attention has been called to a letter over the signature of Charles A. Pillsbury, dated Minneapolis, Jan. 19th, and appearing in the Daily Pioneer Press for Monday, Jan. 14, 1884. That affiant has read said letter, and affiant further says that he is the person referred to therein as having been docked fourteen pounds to the bushel, and that affiant never acknowledged that he had made a complaint in said matter at Minneapolis, and that the same had been settled. Affiant says that said statement in said letter of Mr. Charles A. Pillsbury aforesaid is false and untrue, and that affiant has never been settled with as to dockage. Affiant further says that by reason of the unjust and groundless dockage by the Pillsbury & Hulbert Elevator at Angus, Minnesota, as aforesaid, affiant has been injured and damaged and defrauded out of about TWO HUNDRED AND THIRTY-NINE DOLLARS, which has never been settled, compromised or paid to him by Pillsbury & Hulbert or any one else, and still remains unpaid, unsettled and uncompromised and as affiant believes justly due to affiant

J. M. PALMER."

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 22d day of January A. D. 1884.

[Seal] H. STEENERSON, Notary Public."

From Mr. Pillsbury's statement of the case it is seen that Mr. Pillsbury acknowledges that Mr. Palmer's claim is a JUST one, and that he desires the impression to obtain that it has been paid. Mr. Palmer's SWORN statement shows that it has not been paid therefore, if Mr. Pillsbury is as honest as he pretends to be the only honorable course left for him to pursue is to PAY THAT JUST CLAIM in full with interest up to date of payment.

This case is but one of hundreds that were abundantly proved last year where wrongs were inflicted upon farmers under the plea of "frozen wheat," "short weights" "smut" &c., &c., and under the present elevator system the farmer has absolutely no recourse. There is no appeal for him from an entirely arbitrary OPINION of an agent, (which is more liable to be wrong than right as the agent is under heavy bonds to protect the elevator company) and this is what the farmer complains of. He does not care who buys his wheat if he is sure of justice in the deal. He does not wish to tear up the railroad tracks or destroy their business but he does want justice from them. It is the fact that the present system places the whole control in the hands of the buyer that is wrong. Now, the railroad, as a common carrier has no right to make such rules and regulations as will permit one man or one set of men to absolutely control the wheat trade of the country. They have as much right to make rules and regulations governing every other commodity as they have for wheat. Simply because the present system is "more convenient" is no excuse at all and more especially when it has been clearly shown that that system is a burden to the country. Gentlemen of the Legislature, we want nothing but EVEN HANDED JUSTICE in this matter and nothing short of that will satisfy us. The simple fact that such a system exists that permits such "mistakes" (?) to happen as the case we herewith present shows that the system is wrong, and should be righted. It seems that Mr. Pillsbury either thinks this case has been settled OR ELSE HE DON'T INTEND IT SHALL BE, but in either case it is rough on the farmer. He has to grin and bear it and he don't like a system that permits such big "mistakes!" He THINKS he has been robbed, and defrauded and even when Mr. Pillsbury tells him that he has not been robbed at all "it was only a little mistake, liable to happen to any one you know," UNDER THIS SYSTEM, the farmer fails to see how that helps him in the least. HE IS OUT OF POCKET all the same whatever you call it, a mistake or robbery. If this is a free country farmers' rights should be as sacred as millers or elevator men's. A farmer should have just as much right to order a car to ship wheat as he has to ship wool or stock, or anything else. He should have as much right to build warehouses, or flat-houses to ship wheat through as he has to ship wool or stock through or any other commodity. If he had that right we believe we should soon see what we need AN OPEN MARKET. Of course millers and elevator men will oppose all that because THEY can make more under the present system. It is perfectly natural for them to perpetuate the system under which they make the most money and they will leave no stone unturned to do it.

THE MONOPOLY.

Mr. Chas. A. Pillsbury has said repeatedly that he should not try to oppose any measure that farmers thought fit to pass yet we see that he seems somewhat interested and we see no reports of other elevator men having as much to say as he does. He is reported to have said that "The farmers are not the only ones who have cause of complaint!" Are we to infer from that that he thinks that after the elevator men and the millers have made all the profits there is in wheat-raising that they don't get enough? Could he, or any other man invent a system that would give them more? Under the present system every farmer is being impoverished raising wheat but are the elevator men and the millers being impoverished in like ratio? We will cite one case with which we are all familiar in this upper country—O. S. Barnes, of Fargo, the general manager of the Northern Pacific Railroad Elevators. In 1873 it is well-known that O. S. Barnes was employed, (as walking-boss we think) on this railroad. The following year he accepted the position of general manager on a farm near Glyndon, from that he acquired an interest in a general store in Glyndon and went into buying wheat in a small way. No sooner did he touch wheat than he began to gather in the wealth. To-day he is accounted one of the wealthiest men in this upper country. Supposing, instead of buying wheat he had gone into wheat raising on as large a scale as it is possible for one man to engage in it. Where would he be to-day? Well, to speak it in plain, unvarnished English he would have been BUSTED, doubtless. Take the Pillsburys as another instance. They are far from being impoverished by their wheat transactions, in fact they rather seem to be making money out of it. This may be owing to the large amounts they yearly handle but if the same rule applied as does in the case of the farmer the more wheat they handle the worse they would be off. The more wheat a farmer raises the worse he is off. There seems to be big money in wheat for everybody that handles it except the farmer. Why is this? The system may have been all right once when everybody could step into the market and buy but that day has gone by. Under the present system the control lies wholly in the hands of a few who have the power, can and do just as they please. That system that gives an elevator man of Minneapolis the power to say to a mill-owner at Crookston "If you dare to raise your prices above ours we will shut down on you," is wrong. It is in defiance to the constitution of the United States which is supposed to give every man equal rights under the law. We can not see any use in trying to frame laws to protect elevators in their present system. This country has tried that system pretty effectually for several years and its results are that the elevators and millers are all growing rich and the country is being impoverished. It is not fair for one side to have their innings all of the time and the farmer should now demand his turn at the bat. He should demand the right to build wheat-houses or that merchants and others have that right. He should demand the right to have cars set out for his use when needed just the same for wheat as for stock, or wool or any other produce and he should insist that there be no elevator or any other charges added except a reasonable freight rate. Had the farmer those privileges assured that very fact would compel the elevators to come in under the common law as others do, would insure an open wheat market and that is all the farmer needs. There would be very few cases where cars would be demanded by farmers if there were competing buyers in the market. The elevator companies assert that such is the case now. We as positively deny it. The prices are identically the same the grades are all the same and if a farmer is offered a certain sum for his grain at one elevator he can't get a cent more at another, and his local mills dare not offer him a cent more for the wheat than the elevators do for fear of trouble to themselves. Is that competition? Is that an open market? It is exactly the kind of competition and the kind of an open market we are getting under the present system and is just what we rebel against. Now it is not necessary, in our judgement to pass a long rigmarole of complex sentences that will benefit nobody. What is wanted is a simple, plain law that all can understand and be made to respect. A law that shall discriminate in favor of no one. A law so effective as to guarantee the rights of the simplest farmers as sacred as the most wise business man. A law that will guarantee the poor settler who raises 30 or 40 acres of wheat and hauls it to market many miles with oxen as much for his wheat as the man who raises his thousands of bushels gets. If those elevator men are sincere in their protestations they will not object to allowing the people to try a different system than the one now in vogue. But it seems that the present system is so good a one (for the millers and elevator men) that they can not bear to see a change. The elevator men, before they would erect their elevators demanded protection in what they called their rights. They have got it and that "protection" proves to be too severe a burden on the country. If they are sincere in their professions let them now prove it by relinquishing those protections freely and voluntarily. But there is where the shoe seems to pinch. Under those "protections" they are making more money than they could otherwise, hence their bitter opposition to a change. Any law, looking to perpetuating those protections and privileges over any other buyer is wrong to the farmers and business men of this country and should not be entertained or thought of.

At last the farmers of the State have found an able exponent in an agricultural paper, an adjunct they have long needed and that paper is published right in Minneapolis, where the gang operate who have so managed affairs as to take the largest share of the profits of wheat raising, leaving the farmers barely enough to subsist on. The Farm, Stock and Home is fearless and outspoken in the farmers' interest. What a refreshing contrast is that to the stick-in-the-mud policy pursued by a so-called agricultural paper that has been run by a Miss Nancy who has made great pretense of running a paper purely in the interest of the farming community. During the excitement last winter, when farmers were having sound No. 1 Hard wheat stolen from them under the excuse that it was frosted wheat we spoke to Miss Betsy about it one day when in Minneapolis, and told him we could bring indisputable evidence that farmers were being constantly robbed of good sound wheat under the plea of "frozen wheat." After listening courteously he said as near as we can recollect, this: "What's the use of my trying to remedy this evil, Cooke, THE MILLERS AND THE RAILROAD COMPANY HAVE THE POWER IN THEIR HANDS AND I COULD NOT AFFORD TO RISK LOSING MY PASS BY BUCKING AGAINST THEM! No, the farmers will have to wiggle out of this as best they may! You know it is always hard times in every new country and no doubt this will all come out right IN A FEW YEARS TIME!" In contrast to that milk and water mullgrub we take the following expressions from the Farm, Stock and Home and we say all honor to the man who while he pretends to represent the farmers' interests DOES IT:

"We have been told publicly, of the threats of the Millers' Association, to litigate any radical law passed affecting them; or if failing that they would close their elevators, and let the grain rot! Does not such talk concern the people's elect—to hasten themselves to see if there is really any power in the people, for the good of the people?

Here is a Legislature overwhelmingly farmer. The home interests represented are languishing for reasonable action. Outside of the State, thousands of people wait one hopeful sign, to come in and develop the country. They will come in with capital and strong hands and intelligent heads, AS SOON AS WE TAKE DOWN THE SIGNS THAT HAD SYSTEMS, OR LACK OF SYSTEMS, HAVE PUT UP THAT "FARMING DON'T PAY IN THE NORTHWEST." The people of the State want action taken and there is going to be a day of fearful reckoning if there is not. The people want nothing unreasonable, neither do they want their agents dictated to by those who have previously robbed them. But they will be satisfied with reasonable action—such as keep the State constitution, the written law, and the fair rights of all in sight. Measures framed in such a spirit cannot then be pressed too hard—but should be pushed through House and Senate, whip and spur, until safe under the waiting hand of Governor Hubbard. Gentlemen, with everything needed in your full control, will you now counsel and act together, and that immediately and from this moment?

Hear no proposition to shut off this question; none to delay by long-winded discussion. Delay means certain death in the whirlwind of the session's closing hours! The outlook is daily brighter for better times this coming year; for better prices for what you raise, for a great immigration of people who want to work for you, to buy of your products or invest in your surplus lands. Heed this counsel, act, and go home and you have done more to enhance the grand interests of this State than any body of men who have as yet been assembled in the State since it was organized."

We would like to raise a large club of Polk County farmers to support such a paper as that and we predict that if the Farm, Stock and Home continues on that platform it will receive the united support of every intelligent farmer in the State. It certainly deserves it.

SOMETHING LIKE IT.

We have received H. F. No. 227 being a bill agreed upon in the House committee and it has so much of the ring of the true metal about it that we are encouraged to hope that something may be accomplished after all. Below we give the provisions of the bill which though not exactly what is wanted, is the best yet proposed, and shows the right spirit. The bill has been remanded to the committee for a few corrections and is to be reported back to-day, (Thursday.)

Section. 1. Creates a railway and warehouse commission of three, one to be the present commissioner, to be appointed by the governor and their successors to be elected at the November election in 1886.

Sec. 2. Regulates the election.

Sec. 3. Requires them to be persons entirely disconnected from railroads, warehouses or any such interests and they must be sworn to execute the laws, and give bond in $20,000.

Sec. 4. Fixes compensation at $3,500 per year, a secretary at $1,500 and expenses.

Sec. 5. Declares the right of free passage of commissioners and assistants over all roads (same as in Illinois, to cut off bribery with free passes now so common.)

Sec. 6. Requires railroad companies to give complete and particularized reports.

Sec. 7. Empowers commissioners to require special reports from railroads.

Sec. 8. Applies sections 6 and 7 to officers of roads.

Sec. 9. Requires commissioners to report fully to governor on or before Dec. 1st, annually.

Sec. 10. Authorizes commissioners to examine railroads and warehouses, one visiting each county at least once in 3 months where there is a station.

Sec. 11. Gives power to examine books, papers, &c., and examine railroad officials under oath.

Sec. 12. They may summon and examine witnesses and the District Court may issue attachments for them.

Sec. 13. Witnesses wilfully neglecting to obey subpoena made liable to a penalty of not less than $25 nor more than $300—or imprisonment.

Sec. 14. Railroad officers, &c., neglecting to report or obstructing commissioners, fined not less than $100 and not more than $5,000, and for every ten days refusal a repetition of penalty.

Sec. 15. Is an exact reprint of the Illinois law of 1873 in regard to open market and shipment without discrimination, with the addition of the right to any person to build an elevator at any railroad line, of any size he sees fit, and to make connection by side rack.

Sec. 16. Provides in clear terms that any railroad making unjust discriminations shall be deemed guilty of violating this law and be dealt with as provided in sec. 19.

Sec. 17. Further specifically regulates shipments, providing against inequalities, rebates and discriminations, embracing the Reagan Inter-State Commerce clause about longer and shorter hauls.

Sec. 18. Requires railroads to furnish all necessary cars and equipments to transport passengers and property on tender of payment.

Sec. 19. Prescribes the penalty for violation of the foregoing provisions, at not less than $1,000 for first offense, and not less than $2,000 and not more than $5,000 for each subsequent offense, reserving trial by jury.

Sec. 20. Made the duty of commissioners to personally investigate and enforce the provisions of this act, and to institute suits for infringements, and may employ counsel to assist the attorney general.

Sec. 21. Makes it the duty of the attorney general and county attorneys to prosecute.

Sec. 22. Penalties to be paid into the State treasury.

Sec. 23. Reserves right of suit for damages.

Sec. 24. Majority of the board decides.

Sec. 25. Requires commissioners to fix schedules with rates of freight passenger transportation, which shall be taken as prima facie reasonable maximum rates and shall be published in a newspaper at St. Paul. They may change this schedule from time to time.

Sec. 26. Rules of evidence same as other civil actions, penalties cummulative to other ones. Suits to have precedence over all other civil causes.

Sec. 27. Defines a railroad corporation.

Sec. 28. Conserves the full force of common law liability of railroad corporations.

Sec. 29. Present railroad commissioner law repealed, saving actions pending.

Sec. 30. Goes into effect in 60 days after passage.

At Last.

At last Minnesota has what she has long needed—a creditable agricultural and breeders' journal, the Farm, Stock and Home, published at Minneapolis with the veteran agricultural writer of the State, John H. Stevens, at the head of the agricultural department. We have examined a sample copy sent us and can most heartily commend it to our patrons as a most valuable paper. It is a 16 page 4 column paper and being a Minnesota product makes it the more valuable to the farmers of the Northwest. It should be a welcome visitor to every household, and to make it so among our patrons we will furnish it to JOURNAL readers for 25 cents extra. Thus you can get 52 copies of the JOURNAL and 26 copies of the Farm, Stock and Home for 25 cents more than the price of the JOURNAL. All who have already paid in advance and would like it can get it by paying 25 cents extra. It is just like a paper we have for a long time wished to see established in our own State, and we propose to do all we can to place it in the hands of farmers who, when once they have read it will be loth to part with it. We expect some samples shortly when our friends can see it.

Oh no, those dealers in wheat don't want to oppose the farmers' demand for equal justice, but—"if you pass a law that interferes with our present profitable trade, if we can't bust it in the courts we will shut up shop and let your old wheat rot in the granaries!" That would be a pity, wouldn't it? If they had shut up shop last year and not handled a bushel of grain the farmers in this Northwest would have been thousands of dollars better off to-day. Wherever the farmers could find a chance to ship their grain to Duluth they beat the elevator grades and prices to the amount of from 8 to 10 cents a bushel all the same! Oh, no, these fellows don't want to oppose the farmers at all! Far from it!

Let every man stand free and equal before the law is all the farmers ask. Why should one man be protected in shipping rights more than others? If the railroads are common carriers a man should have as much right to ship a car of wheat without the danger of its being mixed with inferior grades as he has to ship a carload of wool without its being mixed by the party who may load it into the cars or unload it; or to ship a carload of blooded-stock without its being mixed with scrubs, or to ship any commodity whatever. If Jim Hill's blooded bulls were shipped through elevators into this country and had to go through the same process that our No. 1 Hard wheat has to to go out, we are of the opinion that they would not improve the quality of our stock much when they reached their destination. We may ship our oats, barley, potatoes, wool, or any other commodity whatever, but when it comes to wheat we are left. Somehow on wheat we don't know enough to be common shippers. We know enough to ship other commodities (that elevator men and millers don't want) but we are too ignorant to ship our wheat! (From the elevator and miller's standpoint.) That's where the farmers materially differ with these men and they demand the right to ship their own wheat also.

Foul Weeds.

There is a subject that the Legislature might well consider at this session that would be of vast importance. The land in the Northwest is every year becoming over-run with foul weeds that will in time become so numerous as to choke out all grain and render abortive the effort to raise grain of any kind. There is, we believe, a law in relation to mustard seed, which is supposed to oblige everybody to pull his mustard but it does little good owing to the lightness of the penalty attached. As it exists to-day it is far easier and less expensive for a man to pay his penalty than for him to hire men and pull his mustard and the result is that the mustard grows on unharmed and the land is liable to become over-run with the foul stuff unless some action is taken. Let a good healthy penalty be attached to that law and it will be all right.

You can buy a large surge white bed spread for 85 cents, at the New York store.

Crookston City Bakery,
Peter Lorge, Prop,
Keeps constantly on hand a full line of all goods usually found in a
First-Class Bakery
Cigars and Tobacco, Nuts, Fruits,
Candies, Pies, Cakes, Bread,
And everything to fill out a hungry man, constantly on hand.

Money to Give Away
IN BARGAINS,
AT MARKHAM'S,
THE LEADING GROCERY HOUSE
AND THE LARGEST BOOT AND SHOE STORE
IN CROOKSTON.
Goods Delivered to any Part of the City
FREE OF CHARGE.

E. D. CHILDS & CO.,
Proprietors of
CARMAN TOWNSITE,
AND
Dealers in Real Estate!

AMERICAN FARMER
FREE
To Journal Subscribers!
Who will pay up their subscription account to THE JOURNAL in full and one year in advance at our regular rates, we will present with one year's subscription to
The "American Farmer,"
A sixteen-page Agricultural Magazine, published by E. A. K. Hackett, at Fort Wayne, Indiana, and which is rapidly taking rank as one of the leading Agricultural publications of the country. It is devoted exclusively to the interests of the Farmer, Stock Breeder, Dairyman, Gardener, and their household, and every species of industry connected with that great portion of the people of the world, the Farmers. The subscription price is ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR. Farmers cannot well get along without it. It puts new ideas into their minds. It teaches them how to farm with profit to themselves. It makes the home happy, the young folks cheerful, the growler contented, the downcast happy, and the demagogue honest.

FARMERS, FARMERS,
WE ARE
Selling Lower Than Ever!
You will always find it to your advantage to
Trade with Us!
We Sell the Best for the LOWEST LIVING PRICES. Remember the place,
Broadway, bet. 2d and Robert Sts.
D. BUCHANAN.

DENTISTRY!
J. H. THOMAS, D. D. S.,
ROBERT STREET, - CROOKSTON, MINN.
Artificial Teeth from one to an entire set inserted. Gold, Silver or Artificial Filling used as desired. Regulating Children's Teeth a specialty. ALL WORK WARRANTED.

JOHN N. IVES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Collection and Land Office Business made a specialty. Money secured for final proofs on short notice.
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

A. H. DUNLOP M. D.,
Graduate McGill University, Montreal.
LICENSED COLLEGE PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON QUEBEC.
Office on Robert Street, Crookston.

W. L. Sargeant
Veterinary Surgeon,
CROOKSTON, - - MINN.
Diseases of horses and cattle a specialty.

THE ELEVATOR SYSTEM.

That the present elevator system works incalculable injury to the interests of the farmer has been too well proved to need comment. That Mr. Chas. A. Pillsbury, (the head and soul of the system, and the Millers' Association) should do his best to defend and perpetuate it is not so surprising when one considers the amount of money he has made out of it. It seems to hurt him sorely if anyone hints that his own elevator line does not intend and has not always dealt fairly by the farmers in every particular and, we believe, he boasts that every case that has come to his notice has been honestly settled. Perhaps he honestly thinks so but how can he reconcile the following history of one particular case with strict honesty? THE JOURNAL files for Jan. 24, 1884 contains the following:

"Mr. C. A. Pillsbury, in the Pioneer Press of the 21st inst says:

'There was a man at Crookston who said that he had been docked fourteen pounds to the bushel at our Angus elevator. But he acknowledged at Crookston—a very important thing which seems not to have been stated to your correspondent—that he had made his complaint at Minneapolis, and it had been settled long before the Crookston meeting, and before there was any agitation. But I must say further about this transaction that the agent at Angus had worked for us only about a week when the elevator burned and the wheat should have been docked fourteen pounds. I have seen wheat that ought to have been docked that and more too. But as the farmer thought he had been wronged and the wheat was burned and no way of testing it, we took his word and paid his claim. It looks like straining the thing a little to bring this up as a case of injustice."

Thus saith Mr. Pillsbury, and if he spoke the truth it might be considered a hardship to bring up such cases but the following affidavit of J. M. Palmer, the farmer at Angus who had been docked fourteen pounds to the bushel puts it in an altogether different light.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss.
County of Polk. }

James M. Palmer, being duly sworn says that he is a farmer residing near Angus, in Polk County, that during the season of 1883 he raised a crop of wheat on his farm in Sec. 20, R. 47, in the town of Angus that on or about Oct. 1st, 1883, he delivered eight hundred bushels of wheat to Pillsbury & Hurlbut's elevator, at Angus station, which wheat was taken from the machine and delivered to said elevator and was graded by the agent of said elevator No. 2 Hard, after docking the same FOURTEEN (14) pounds to the bushel. Affiant further says that the same quality of wheat, in the same condition as delivered to said elevator, was by him loaded into a car and shipped to Duluth, Minnesota, where the same was returned to affiant as graded No. 1 Hard, and only docked ONE-HALF (½) pound to the bushel for cleaning. That soon after the delivery of said wheat at Angus the said elevator, with all the wheat, was destroyed by fire. That affiant at the time of said delivery objected to such heavy dockage as fourteen pounds to the bushel but got no satisfaction.

That on the 9th day of January, A. D. 1884, affiant appeared in the City Hall in the city of Crookston, at the meeting then being held there, at which was present A. Manvel, General Manager of the St. P., M. & M. R'y., Charles A. Pillsbury, Hulbert and others that affiant then and there publicly stated the facts in regard to said excessive dockage on said wheat delivered to the elevator of Pillsbury & Hulbert, at Angus, Minnesota. Affiant further says that his attention has been called to a letter over the signature of Charles A. Pillsbury, dated Minneapolis, Jan. 19th, and appearing in the Daily Pioneer Press for Monday, Jan. 21, 1884. That affiant has read said letter, and affiant further says that he is the person referred to therein as having been docked fourteen pounds to the bushel, and that affiant never acknowledged that he had made a complaint in said matter at Minneapolis, and that the same had been settled. Affiant says that said statement in said letter of Mr. Charles A. Pillsbury aforesaid is false and untrue, and that affiant has never been settled with as to dockage. Affiant further says that by reason of the unjust and groundless dockage by the Pillsbury & Hulbert Elevator at Angus, Minnesota, as aforesaid, affiant has been injured and damaged and defrauded out of about TWO HUNDRED AND THIRTY-NINE DOLLARS, which has never been settled, compromised or paid to him by Pillsbury & Hulbert or any one else, and still remains unpaid, unsettled and uncompromised and as affiant believes justly due to affiant.

J. M. PALMER.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 22d day of January A. D. 1884.

[Seal] H. STEENERSON, Notary Public.

From Mr. Pillsbury's statement of the case it is seen that Mr. Pillsbury acknowledges that Mr. Palmer's claim was a just one, and that he desires the impression to obtain that it has been paid. Mr. Palmer's sworn statement shows that it has not been paid, therefore, if Mr. Pillsbury is as honest as he pretends to be the only honorable course for him to pursue is TO PAY THAT [illegible] in full with interest up to [illegible] is but one of hundreds that [illegible] abundantly proved last year where [illegible] upon farmers [illegible] under the plea of "frozen wheat," "short weight," &c., &c., and under the present elevator system the farmer has absolutely no recourse. There is no appeal for him from an entirely arbitrary decision of an agent (which is more liable to be wrong than right as the agent is under heavy bonds to protect the elevator company) and this is what the farmer complains of. He does not care who buys his wheat if he is sure of justice in the deal. He does not wish to tear up the railroad tracks or destroy their business but he does want justice from them. It is the fact that the present system places the whole control in the hands of the buyer that is wrong. Now, the railroad, as a common carrier has no right to make such rules and regulations as will permit one man or one set of men to absolutely control the wheat trade of the country. They have as much right to make rules and regulations governing every other commodity as they have for wheat. Simply because the present system is "more convenient" is no excuse at all and more especially when it has been clearly shown that that system is a burden to the country. Gentlemen of the Legislature, we want nothing but EVEN HANDED JUSTICE in this matter and nothing short of that will satisfy us. The simple fact that such a system exists that permits such "mistakes" (?) to happen as the case we herewith present shows that the system is wrong, and should be righted. It seems that Mr. Pillsbury either thinks this case has been settled OR ELSE HE DON'T INTEND IT SHALL BE, but in either case it is rough on the farmer. He has to grin and bear it and he don't like a system that permits such big "mistakes!" He THINKS he has been robbed and defrauded and even when Mr. Pillsbury tells him that he has not been robbed at all "it was only a little mistake, liable to happen to any one you know," UNDER THIS SYSTEM, the farmer fails to see how that helps him in the least. HE IS OUT OF POCKET all the same whatever you call it, a mistake or robbery. If this is a free country farmers' rights should be as sacred as millers or elevator men's. A farmer should have just as much right to order a car to ship wheat as he has to ship wool or stock or anything else. He should have as much right to build warehouses or flat-houses to ship wheat through as he has to ship wool or stock through or any other commodity. If he had that right we believe we should soon see what we need AN OPEN MARKET. Of course millers and elevator men will oppose all that because THEY can make more under the present system. It is perfectly natural for them to perpetuate the system under which they make the most money and they will leave no stone unturned to do it.

THE MONOPOLY.

Mr. Chas. A. Pillsbury has said repeatedly that he should not try to oppose any measure that farmers thought fit to pass, yet we see that he seems somewhat interested and we see no reports of other elevator men having as much to say as he does. He is reported to have said that "The farmers are not the only ones who have cause of complaint!" Are we to infer from that that he thinks that, after the elevator men and the millers have made all the profits there is in wheat raising that they don't get enough? Could he or any other man invent a system that would give them more? Under the present system every farmer is being impoverished raising wheat but are the elevator men and the millers being impoverished in like ratio? We will cite one case with which we are all familiar in this upper country—G. B. Barnes, of Fargo, the general manager of the Northern Pacific Railroad Elevators. In 1878 it is well known that G. B. Barnes was employed (as walking boss we think) on this railroad. The following year he accepted the position of general manager on a farm near Glyndon, from that he acquired an interest in a general store in Glyndon and went into buying wheat in a small way. No sooner did he touch wheat than he began to gather in the wealth. To-day he is accounted one of the wealthiest men in this upper country. Supposing instead of buying wheat he had gone into wheat raising on as large a scale as it is possible for one man to engage in it. Where would he be to-day? Well, to speak it in plain unvarnished English, he would have been BUSTED doubtless. Take the Pillsburys as another instance. They are far from being impoverished by their wheat transactions in fact they rather seem to be making money out of it. This may be owing to the large amounts they yearly handle but if the same rule applied as does in the case of the farmer the more wheat they handle the worse they would be off. The more wheat a farmer raises the worse he is off. There seems to be big money in wheat for everybody that handles it except the farmer. Why is this? The system may have been all right once when everybody could step into the market and buy but that day has gone by. Under the present system the control lies wholly in the hands of a few who having the power can and do just as they please. That system that gives an elevator man of Minneapolis the power to say to a mill owner at Crookston "If you dare to raise your [illegible] shut down on you [illegible] defiance to the Constitution of the United States which is supposed to give every man equal rights under the laws. We cannot see any use in trying to [illegible] frame laws to protect elevators in their present system. This country has tried that system pretty effectually for several years and its results are that the elevators and millers are all growing rich and the country is being impoverished. It is not fair for one side to have their innings all of the time and the farmer should now demand his turn at the bat. He should demand the right to build wheat houses or that merchants and others have that right. He should demand the right to have cars set out for his use when needed just the same for wheat as for stock or wool or any other produce and he should insist that there be no elevator or any other charges added except a reasonable freight rate. Had the farmer those privileges assured that very fact would compel the elevators to come in under the common law as others do, would insure an open wheat market and that is all the farmer needs. There would be very few cases where cars would be demanded by farmers if there were competing buyers in the market. The elevator companies assert that such is the case now. We as positively deny it. The prices are identically the same the grades are all the same and if a farmer is offered a certain sum for his grain at one elevator he can't get a cent more at another, and his local mills dare not offer him a cent more for the wheat than the elevators do for fear of trouble to themselves. Is that competition? Is that an open market? It is exactly the kind of competition and the kind of an open market we are getting under the present system and is just what we rebel against. Now it is not necessary in our judgement to pass a long rigmarole of complex sentences that will benefit nobody. What is wanted is a simple, plain law that all can understand and be made to respect. A law that shall discriminate in favor of no one. A law so effective as to guarantee the rights of the simplest farmers as sacred as the most wise business man. A law that will guarantee the poor settler who raises 30 or 40 acres of wheat and hauls it to market many miles with oxen as much for his wheat as the man who raises his thousands of bushels gets. If those elevator men are sincere in their protestations they will not object to allowing the people to try a different system than the one now in vogue. But it seems that the present system is so good a one (for the millers and elevator men) that they can not bear to see a change. The elevator men before they would erect their elevators demanded protection in what they called their rights. They have got it and that "protection" proves to be too severe a burden on the country. If they are sincere in their professions let them now prove it by relinquishing those protections freely and voluntarily. But there is where the shoe seems to pinch. Under those "protections" they are making more money than they could otherwise, hence their bitter opposition to a change. Any law looking to perpetuating those protections and privileges over any other buyer is wrong to the farmers and business men of this country and should not be entertained or thought of.

At last the farmers of the State have found an able exponent in an agricultural paper, an adjunct they have long needed and that paper is published right in Minneapolis, where the gang operate who have so managed affairs as to take the largest share of the profits of wheat raising, leaving the farmers barely enough to subsist on. The Farm, Stock and Home is fearless and outspoken in the farmers' interest. What a refreshing contrast is that to the stick-in-the-mud policy pursued by a so-called agricultural paper, that has been run by a "Miss Nancy" who has made great pretense of running a paper purely in the interest of the farming community. During the excitement last winter when farmers were having sound No. 1 Hard wheat stolen from them under the excuse that it was frosted wheat, we spoke to "Miss Betsy" about it one day when in Minneapolis and told him we could bring indisputable evidence that farmers were being constantly robbed of good sound wheat under the plea of frozen wheat. After listening courteously he said as near as we can recollect this: "What's the use of my trying to remedy this evil, Cooke, THE MILLERS AND THE RAILROAD COMPANY HAVE THE POWER IN THEIR HANDS AND I COULD NOT AFFORD TO RISK LOSING MY PASS BY [illegible] AGAINST THEM! No, the farmers will have to wiggle out of this as best they may. You know it is always hard times in every new country and no doubt this will all come out right IN A FEW YEARS TIME!" In contrast to that milk and water mullgrubbery we take the following expressions from the Farm, Stock and Home and we say all honor to the man who while he pretends to represent the farmers' interests does it.

"We have been told publicly of the threats of the Millers' Association to litigate any radical law passed affecting them, or failing that they would close their elevators and let the grain rot. Does not such talk concern the people's elect—to hasten themselves to see if there is really any power in the people for the good of the people?

"Here is a Legislature overwhelmingly farmer [illegible] are languishing for reasonable action. Outside of the State thousands of people wait [illegible] to come in and develop the country. They will come [illegible] capital and strong [illegible] intelligent heads [illegible]

[illegible] NORTHWEST. The people of the State want action taken and there is going to be a day of fearful reckoning if there is not. The people want nothing unreasonable, neither do they want their agents dictated to by those who have previously robbed them. But they will be satisfied with reasonable action—such as keep the State constitution, the written law, and the fair rights of all in sight. Measures framed in such a spirit cannot then be pressed too hard—but should be pushed through House and Senate, whip and spur, until safe under the waiting hand of Governor Hubbard. Gentlemen, with everything needed in your full control, will you now counsel and act together, and that immediately and from this moment? Hear no proposition to shut off this question; none to delay by long-winded discussion. Delay means certain death in the whirlwind of the session's closing hours! The outlook is daily brighter for better times this coming year; for better prices for what you raise, for a great immigration of people who want to work for you, to buy of your products or invest in your surplus lands. Heed this counsel, act, and go home and you have done more to enhance the grand interests of this State than any body of men who have as yet been assembled in the State since it was organized."

We would like to raise a large club of Polk County farmers to support such a paper as that and we predict that if the Farm, Stock and Home continues on that platform it will receive the united support of every intelligent farmer in the State. It certainly deserves it.

SOMETHIMG LIKE IT.

We have received H. F. No. 227, being a bill agreed upon in the House committee and it has so much of the ring of the true metal about it that we are encouraged to hope that something may be accomplished after all. Below we give the provisions of the bill which though not exactly what is wanted, is the best yet proposed, and shows the right spirit. The bill has been remanded to the committee for a few corrections and is to be reported back to-day (Thursday.)

Section 1. Creates a railway and warehouse commission of three, one to be the present commissioner, to be appointed by the governor and their successors to be elected at the November election in 1886.

Sec. 2. Regulates the election.

Sec. 3. Requires them to be persons entirely disconnected from railroads, warehouses or any such interests and they must be sworn to execute the laws, and give bond in $20,000.

Sec. 4. Fixes compensation at $3,500 per year, a secretary at $1,500 and expenses.

Sec. 5. Declares the right of free passage of commissioners and assistants over all roads (same as in Illinois, to cut off bribery with free passes now so common.)

Sec. 6. Requires railroad companies to give complete and particularized reports.

Sec. 7. Empowers commissioners to require special reports from railroads.

Sec. 8. Applies sections 6 and 7 to officers of roads.

Sec. 9. Requires commissioners to report fully to governor on or before Dec. 1st, annually.

Sec. 10. Authorizes commissioners to examine railroads and warehouses, one visiting each county at least once in 6 months where there is a station.

Sec. 11. Gives power to examine books, papers, &c., and examine railroad officials under oath.

Sec. 12. They may summon and examine witnesses and the District Court may issue attachments for them.

Sec. 13. Witnesses wilfully neglecting to obey subpoena made liable to a penalty of not less than $25 nor more than $300—or imprisonment.

Sec. 14. Railroad officers, &c., neglecting to report or obstructing commissioners, fined not less than $100 and not more than $5,000, and for every ten days refusal a repetition of penalty.

Sec. 15. Is an exact reprint of the Illinois law of 1878 in regard to open market and shipment without discrimination, with the addition of the right to any person to build an elevator at any railroad line of any size he sees fit and to make connection by side track.

Sec. 16. Provides in clear terms that any railroad making unjust discriminations shall be deemed guilty of violating this law and be dealt with as provided in sec. 10.

Sec. 17. Further specifically regulates shipments, providing against inequalities, rebates and discriminations, embracing the Reagan Inter-State Commerce clause about longer and shorter hauls.

Sec. 18. Requires railroads to furnish all necessary cars and equipments to transport passengers and property on tender of payment.

Sec. 19. Prescribes the penalty for violation of the foregoing provisions at not less than $1,000 for first offense and not less than $2,000 and not more than $5,000 for each subsequent offense, requiring trial by jury.

Sec. 20. Makes the duty of commissioners to personally investigate and enforce the provisions of this act, and [illegible] for infringements, and [illegible] counsel [illegible] attorney general [illegible]

Sec. 21. Makes it the duty of the attorney general and county attorneys to prosecute.

Sec. 22. Penalties to be paid into the State treasury.

Sec. 23. Reserves right of suit for damages.

Sec. 24. Majority of the board decides.

Sec. 25. Requires commissioners to fix schedules with rates of freight passenger transportation which shall be taken as prima facie reasonable maximum rates and shall be published in a newspaper at St. Paul. They may change this schedule from time to time.

Sec. 26. Rules of evidence same as other civil actions, penalties cummulative to other ones. Suits to have precedence over all other civil causes.

Sec. 27. Defines a railroad corporation.

Sec. 28. Conserves the full force of common law liability of railroad corporations.

Sec. 20. Present railroad commissioner law repealed, saving actions pending.

Sec. 30. Goes into effect in 60 days after passage.

At Last.

At last Minnesota has what she has long needed—a creditable agricultural and breeders' journal, the Farm, Stock and Home, published at Minneapolis with the veteran agricultural writer of the State, John H. Stevens, at the head of the agricultural department. We have examined a sample copy sent us and can most heartily commend it to our patrons as a most valuable paper. It is a 16 page 4 column paper and being a Minnesota product makes it the more valuable to the farmers of the Northwest. It should be a welcome visitor to every household, and to make it so among our patrons we will furnish it to JOURNAL readers for 25 cents extra. Thus you can get 52 copies of the JOURNAL and 26 copies of the Farm, Stock and Home for 25 cents more than the price of the JOURNAL. All who have already paid in advance and would like it can get it by paying 25 cents extra. It is just like a paper we have for a long time wished to see established in our own State, and we propose to do all we can to place it in the hands of farmers who, when once they have read it will be loth to part with it. We expect some samples shortly when our friends can see it.

Oh no, those dealers in wheat don't want to oppose the farmers' demand for equal justice, but—"if you pass a law that interferes with our present profitable trade, if we can't bust it in the courts we will shut up shop and let your old wheat rot in the granaries!" That would be a pity, wouldn't it? If they had shut up shop last year and not handled a bushel of grain the farmers in this Northwest would have been thousands of dollars better off to-day. Wherever the farmers could find a chance to ship their grain to Duluth they beat the elevator grades and prices to the amount of from 8 to 10 cents a bushel all the same! Oh, no, these fellows don't want to oppose the farmers at all! Far from it.

Let every man stand free and equal before the law is all the farmers ask. Why should one man be protected in shipping rights more than others? If the railroads are common carriers a man should have as much right to ship a car of wheat without the danger of its being mixed with inferior grades as he has to ship a carload of wool without its being mixed by the party who may load it into the cars or unload it, or to ship a carload of blooded-stock without its being mixed with scrubs, or to ship any commodity whatever. If Jim Hill's blooded bulls were shipped through elevators into this country and had to go through the same process that our No. 1 Hard wheat has to go out, we are of the opinion that they would not improve the quality of our stock much when they reached their destination. We may ship our oats, barley, potatoes, wool, or any other commodity whatever, but when it comes to wheat we are left. Somehow on wheat we don't know enough to be common shippers. We know enough to ship other commodities (that elevator men and millers don't want) but we are too ignorant to ship our wheat! (From the elevator and miller's standpoint.) That's where the farmers materially differ with these men and they demand the right to ship their own wheat also.

Foul Weeds.

There is a subject that the Legislature might well consider at this session that would be of vast importance. The land in the Northwest is every year becoming over-run with foul weeds that will in time become so numerous as to choke out all grain and render abortive the effort to raise grain of any kind. There is, we believe, a law in relation to mustard seed, which is supposed to oblige everybody to pull his mustard but it does little good owing to the lightness of the penalty attached. As it exists to-day it is far easier and less expensive for a man to pay his penalty than for him to hire men to pull his mustard and the result is that the mustard grows on unharmed and the land is liable to become over-run with the foul stuff unless some action is taken. Let a good healthy penalty be attached to that law and it will be all right.

You can buy a large sugar [illegible] for 8 cents [illegible] New York [illegible]

Crookston City Bakery,
Peter Lorge, Prop,
Keeps constantly on hand a full line of all goods usually found in a
First-Class Bakery
Cigars and Tobacco, Nuts, Fruits, Candies, Pies, Cakes, Bread,
And everything to fill out a hungry man, constantly on hand

Monev to Give Away
IN BARGAINS,
AT MARKHAM'S,
THE LEADING GROCERY HOUSE
AND THE LARGEST BOOT AND SHOE STORE
IN CROOKSTON.
Goods Delivered to any Part of the City
FREE OF CHARGE

E. D. CHILDS & CO.,
Proprietors of
CARMAN TOWNSITE,
AND
Dealers in Real Estate!

AMERICAN FARMER
FREE
To Journal Subscribers!
Who will pay up their subscription account to THE JOURNAL in full and one year in advance at our regular rates, we will present with one year's subscription to
The "American Farmer,'
A sixteen-page Agricultural Magazine, published by E. A. K. Hackett, at Fort Wayne, Indiana, and which is rapidly taking rank as one of the leading Agricultural publications of the country. It is devoted exclusively to the interests of the Farmer, Stock Breeder, Dairyman, Gardener, and their household, and every species of industry connected with that great portion of the people of the world, the Farmers. The subscription price is ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR. Farmers cannot well get along without it. It puts new ideas into their minds. It teaches them how to farm with profit to themselves. It makes the home happy, the young folks cheerful, the growler contented, the downcast happy, and the demagogue honest.

FARMERS, FARMERS,
WE ARE
Selling Lower Than Ever!
You will always find it to your advantage to
Trade with Us!
We Sell the Best for the LOWEST LIVING PRICES. Remember the place,
Broadway, bet. 2d and Robert Sts,
D. BUCHANAN.

DENTISTRY!
J. H. THOMAS, D. D. S.
ROBERT STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.
Artificial Teeth from one to an entire set inserted. Gold, Silver or Artificial Filling used as desired. Regulating Children's Teeth a specialty. ALL WORK WARRANTED.

JOHN N. IVES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
Collection and Land Office Business made a specialty. Money secured for final proofs on short notice.
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

A. H. DUNLOP, M. D.,
Graduate McGill University, Montreal.
Licensed College Physicians and Surgeons, Quebec.
Office on Robert Street, Crookston.

W. L. Sargeant,
Veterinary Surgeon.
CROOKSTON, MINN.
Diseases of horses & cattle a specialty.

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, February 5, 1885.

RAILROAD TIME TABLE.

GOING NORTH.

	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
1 Passenger	10:45 p. m.	10:55 p m
" 9 Passenger	10:30 a. m.
" 19 Freight	12:20 a. m.
" 15 Freight	4:00 p. m.
" 23 Freight		10:30 a. m.

GOING SOUTH.

	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
No. 2 Passenger	4:00 a. m.	4:00 a. m.
" 10 Passenger		5:00 p. m.
" 20 Freight		7:00 a. m.
" 21 Freight		6:15 p. m.
" 24 Freight	5:00 p. m.

DEVIL'S LAKE LINE.

	ARRIVE.	LEAVE.
No. 9 Passenger		10:20 a. m.
" 10 Passenger	5:30 p. m.
" 45 Freight		6:00 a. m.
" 46 Freight	7:00 p. m.

ST. HILAIRE BRANCH.

Trains leave Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 10:45 a. m., and arrive same days at 4:00 p. m.

☞ Passenger Trains No's 1 and 2, Main Line, run daily except Sunday. No's 3 and 4 run daily. Devil's Lake Passenger runs daily. Freights No's 23, 20 and 24 run daily. Freights No's 15 and 22, and Freights on Devil's Lake Line run daily except Sunday.

City and County Directory.

☞ We wish to make this directory as reliable as possible, and consequently request all parties interested to notify us of any changes in their respective announcements.

U. S. LAND OFFICE.

John Cromb	Register.
L. K. Aaker	Receiver.

Office hours from 8:30 a. m. to 12 m., and from 2:00 to 4:30 p. m.

MEMBER OF CONGRESS.

Knute Nelson	Alexandria.

DISTRICT COURT.

O. P. Stearns, Judge	Duluth.

STATE SENATOR.

Halvor Steenerson	Crookston.

REPRESENTATIVE.

A. H. Baker	Ada.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

R. J. Montague	Judge of Probate.
T. C. Shapleigh	Clerk of Court.
C. S. Spendley	Register of Deeds.
P. J. McGuire	Auditor.
O. H. Lucken	Treasurer.
John Leo	Court Commissioner.
Wm. Watts	Attorney.
V. D. Carruth	Supt. of Schools.
W. F. Zwickey	Sheriff.
H. Shephard	Coroner.
C. L. Brainard	Surveyor.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Knute Nelson—1st Dist	Aldal.
E. A. Bradish—2d "	Fisher.
M. R. Brown—3d "	Crookston.
C. Kretzschmar—4th "	Red Lake Falls.
T. Sullivan—5th "	East Grand Forks.

CITY OFFICIALS.

Mayor	E. M. Walsh.
Recorder	W. D. Hurlbut.
Treasurer	A. G. Gallasch.
Justices	G. W. Lewis, J. W. Lilly.
Ald.—1st Ward	Ole Bang, L. Fontaine.
—2d "	Henry Nolan, P. Rengalin.
—3d "	N. P. Stone, W. Walker.
—4th "	J. F. Markham, C. A. Chiniquy.
—at large	P. Houston.
City Attorney	F. N. Ives.
City Engineer	W. D. Hurlbut.
Marshal	J. Dowling.
Deputy Marshal	J. B. Filteault, Ole Bjoin.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

PRESBYTERIAN—Corner Broadway and Fifth street. Rev. R. L. Adams, Pastor. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 m. Prayer meeting in church every Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

Methodist Episcopal Church—Corner of Main and Fourth streets. Rev. J. C. Gullette, Ph D. Pastor. Services every Sabbath at 11 a. m. And 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30.

EPISCOPAL—Ash street, head of Second street. Rev. S. Currie, Rector. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Sunday School at 2:00 p. m.

CONGREGATIONAL—Rev. C. E. Page, Pastor. Corner Third and Ash streets. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at noon.

BAPTIST—Rev. H. L. House, Pastor, Second street, between Broadway and Ash streets. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m.; and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12:15 p. m. Young people's meeting from 6:15 to 7:15. Services always closed in time to allow those present to attend their own churches. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. A cordial invitation to all. Friday evening at 7, teacher's meeting at different homes.

CATHOLIC—Ash street. C. A. S. DeCarufel, Pastor. Services every Sunday at 8:30 and 10:30 a. m. 3:00 p. m.

CARMAN.

BAPTIST—F. K. Roberts, Pastor. Services in Baptist Block at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at noon. Prayer meeting Thursday evening.

SOCIETIES.

HIRAM LODGE, No. 78, A. O. U. W. Meets in K. P. Hall, Second and Fourth Thursday of each month.
C. H. MIX, M. W.
F. BEHLMER, Secretary.

PIERSON CHAPTER, R. A. M. Meets in Masonic Hall, First and Third Monday of each month.
T. C. SHAPLEIGH, H. P.
O. H. LUCKEN, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 79, I. O. O. F. Meets every Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows' Hall, over Post Office.
F. M. SCHWARK, N. G.
R. B. GATES, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 1,469, K. of H. Meets the First and Third Monday evening of each month, in Losey's Hall, Main street.
T. A. HARRIS, Dictator.
JAS. BUTLER, Reporter.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 141, A. F. & A. M. Meets on the Second and Fourth Saturday evening of each month, in Masonic Hall.
W. D. HURLBUT, W. M.
GEO. D. BUCKNAM, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 25, K. of P. Meets every Friday evening, in K. of P. Hall, on Broadway.
C. W. BARNES, C. C.
W. B. DAWLEY, K. of R. & S.

Taxpayers.

Of Polk County are hereby notified that I will be at the following places at the dates specified herein for the purpose of collecting current taxes, to-wit:

Angus, Monday afternoon, Jan. 26.
Euclid, Tuesday, Jan. 27.
East Grand Fork, Wednesday afternoon and Thursday, Jan. 28 and 29.
Mallory, Friday, Jan. 30.
Fisher, Saturday, Jan. 31.
St. Hilaire, Thursday afternoon and Friday, Feb. 5 and 6.
Red Lake Falls, Saturday, Feb. 7.
Terrebonne, Monday, Feb. 9.
Maple Bay, Saturday, Feb. 14.
Mentor, P. O., Monday, Feb. 16.
Aldal, Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday, Feb. 17 and 18.
Edna, Thursday afternoon, Feb. 19.

O. H. LUCKEN,
County Treasurer, Polk County.
[39-41]

Red flannels, plain and twilled, guaranteed all wool, from 22 cents to 50 cents, at the New York store.

[illegible] FIRE INSURANCE

We represent the following old and reliable Fire Insurance Companies:

	Assets.
Ætna	$9,182,644
American	1,804,519
Fire Association	4,279,676
Underwriters	3,699,794
Orient	1,411,894
Phœnix	5,919,408
Lancashire	6,787,983
Milwaukee Mech	1,129,375
Germania	2,700,729

Having represented nearly all of the above companies for 14 years we have acquainted ourselves with the business, and think that we can justly claim the patronage of the public, who can depend upon having insurance written correctly and losses adjusted promptly.

MOSER & MOECKEL.

The best five cent cigars is at the Red Star Grocery, Broadway. [51-tf]

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Crookston, Minn., Jan. 29th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., on Feb. 27th, 1885, viz: KNUDT H. BERG, Pre. D. S., No. 6907, for the sw¼ S. 21, T. 148, R. 45. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: O. P. Onsted, L. P. Oldsted, C. Tharaldson and J. Nelson, all of Aldal, Polk Co., Minn.

[39-41] JOHN CROMB, Register.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Crookston, Minn., Jan. 7th, 1885.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Peter J. Wikeen against Even Olson Hanneberg for failure to comply with law as to Timber Culture Entry No. 1311 dated July 8th, 1879, upon the nw¼ S. 10, T. 147, R. 45, in Polk Co., Minn., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; contestant alleging the said Even Olson Hanneberg failed to plant five acres of said land to trees, tree seeds or cuttings during either the third or fourth year after making said entry, and that he has not now ten acres of trees growing on said land, also that claimant wholly failed in the year 1883 to cultivate the land which he claimed to have planted to tree seeds prior thereto, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 5th day of March 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged failure.

[37-43] JOHN CROMB, Register.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Polk. } ss.

The State of Minnesota, to Ed. Gareau Defendant:

You are hereby summoned to be and appear before the undersigned, one of the Justices of the Peace in and for said County, on the eighteenth day of February 1885, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at my office in the Crookston in said County, to answer to John Moser & Ernest Moeckel co-partners as Moser & Moeckel in a civil action. Should you fail to appear at the time and place aforesaid, judgment will be rendered against you upon the evidence adduced by said Moser & Moeckel for such sum as they shall show themselves entitled to.

Given under my hand this 14th day of January 1884.

G. W. LEWIS,
Justice of the Peace.
[35-41]

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Polk. } ss. District Court, 11th Judicial District.

In the matter of the assignment of Ferdinand E. LePage and Joseph S. Papin copartners as LePage & Papin for benefit of creditors to Frank Jerome.

On reading the petition of the above named assignee and other records, papers and files in the above mentioned matter, ordered: That all persons interested in the assigned estate herein, show cause if any there be, before this court at special term, at the Court House, in the Village of Duluth, in the County of St. Louis, in the State of Minnesota, on the 26th day of February A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of that day, why the accounts of the aforesaid assignee shall not be allowed, why all his acts and proceedings in the above entitled matter shall not be ratified and confirmed, why said assignee shall not receive a reasonable compensation for his services in said matter, why the submitted claim of Eddy Harvey & Co. (assigned) shall not be paid from said estate, why the amount each creditor is entitled to receive out of said estate should not be ascertained and the petitioner directed to pay the same, and why after this has been done, the said assignee should not be fully, completely and forever discharged from the duties of his trust herein and from all liabilities thereunder, and why the bond of said assignee shall not be forever discharged and cancelled, and why such other and further or different order as the court shall deem just and proper shall not be granted.

Ordered that this order be published in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL a newspaper printed and published in the City of Crookston, in the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, once each week for three successive weeks and that at least twenty days before said return day a copy of this order be mailed to each and all of the creditors of said assignor and also to said assignors addressed to each at his or their place of residence.

Dated January 14th A. D. 1885.

O. P. STEARNS,
District Judge.

W. & J. WATTS,
Att'ys for Assignee, Crookston, Minn. [39-41]

SHERIFF'S SALE.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Polk. } ss. District Court.

Morrison & Ledeboer, Plff,
vs.
The Red Lake Falls Milling & Lumber Co. Defts.

Notice is hereby given, That by virtue of an Execution to me directed and delivered, and now in my hands, issued out of the District Court Eleventh Judicial District, State of Minnesota, in and for the County of Polk upon a Judgment rendered in said Court in favor of Morrison & Ledeboer and against The Red Lake Falls Milling and Lumber Company, I have levied upon the following described real estate of said defendant, to-wit: The north portion of lot number eleven (11) Section fourteen, containing 12 50-100 acres, and lot number twelve (12,) Section fourteen, containing 38 60-100 acres and the southeast quarter (se¼) of the northeast quarter (ne¼) and the northwest quarter (nw¼) of the southeast quarter (se¼) and west one-half (w½) of the northeast quarter (ne¼) of Section fourteen (14,) Township one hundred and fifty-one (151,) Range forty-four (44,) Polk County, Minnesota, the above described property will be sold in lots or parcels. And that I shall, on Saturday the twenty eight day of February A. D. 1885, at the hour of ten o'clock a. m., of said day, at the west front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, proceed to sell all the right, title and interest of the above named Red Lake Falls Milling and Lumber Company in and to the above described property, to satisfy said judgment and costs, amounting to six hundred dollars and ten cents, together with all accruing costs of sale, and interest on the same from the second day of January 1885, at the rate of seven per cent. per annum, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash.

PIERCE & WILKINSON,
Plaintiff's Attorneys.

W. F. ZWICKEY,
Sheriff of Polk Co., Minn.

Dated Crookston, Polk Co., Minn., January 10th 1885. [38-44]

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Polk. } ss. District Court; 11th Judicial District.

In the matter of the assignment of Charles A. Chiniquy and Joseph Rudolph Chiniquy, copartners as C. A. & J. R. Chiniquy, for benefit of creditors to Morris R. Brown.

On reading the petition of the above named assignee and other records, papers and files in the above mentioned matter, ordered: That all persons interested in the assigned estate herein, show cause, if any there be, before this court, at special term, at the Court House, in the Village of Duluth, in the County of St. Louis, and State of Minnesota, on Thursday the 26th day of February A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m., of that day, why the accounts of the aforesaid assignee shall not be allowed, why all his acts and proceedings in the above entitled matter shall not be ratified and confirmed, why said assignee shall not receive a reasonable compensation for his services in said matter, why the amount of each creditor who has filed proof of claims and the release provided by law is entitled to receive out of said estate should not be ascertained and the petitioner directed to pay the same, and why after this has been done, the said assignee should not be fully, completely and forever discharged from the duties of his trust herein and from all liabilities thereunder, and why the bond of said assignee shall not be forever discharged and cancelled, and why each other and further or different order as the court shall deem just and proper shall not be granted.

Ordered that this order be published in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL a newspaper printed and published in the City of Crookston, in the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, once each week for three successive weeks and that at least twenty days before said return day a copy of this order be mailed to each and all of the creditors of said assignor, and also to said assignors, addressed to each at his reputed place of residence.

Dated January 14th A. D. 1885.

O. P. STEARNS,
District Judge.

W. & J. WATTS,
Att'ys for Assignee, Crookston, Minn. [39-41]

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Polk. } ss. In Probate Court.
Special Term. January 9th 1885.

In the matter of the estate of Henry Witty deceased.

Whereas, an instrument in writing, purporting to be the last will and testament of Henry Witty deceased, late of said county, has been delivered to this Court.

And whereas, Christ Olson has filed therewith his petition, representing among other things that said Henry Witty died in said county on the sixth day of December 1884, testate, and that said petitioner is one of the executors named in said last will and testament, and praying that the said instrument may be admitted to probate, and that letters testamentary be to him and to Andrew Olson issued thereon.

It is ordered, that the proofs of said instrument, and the said petition, be heard before this Court, at the Probate office in said county, on the ninth day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, when all concerned may appear and contest the probate of said instrument.

And it is further ordered, that public notice of the time and place of said hearing be given to all persons interested, by publication of these orders for three weeks successively previous to said day of hearing, in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL a newspaper printed and published at the City of Crookston in said county.

By the Court.
ROBERT J. MONTAGUE,
Judge of Probate.
[38-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First Publication Jan. 22d, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of eighteen hundred and eighty seven 65-100 dollars ($1887.65-100,) which is claimed to be due, and is due, at the date of this notice, upon two certain promissory notes secured by a mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Polina Angelina McIntyre and H. D. McIntyre, to Morris R. Brown, bearing date the eleventh day of November A. D. 1882, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 27th day of November A. D. 1882, at 11 o'clock a. m., in book "H" of mortgages on page 460, which mortgage was for a good and valuable consideration on the 22d day of February A. D. 1883 duly assigned to Joseph Kelso, and said assignment duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for said County on the 27th day of February A. D. 1883, in book "K" of mortgages on pages 260 and 261, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: Lot number nineteen (19) Block number sixteen (16) in the original Townsite of Crookston according to a plat of said Townsite, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars ($50) attorney's fee as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, which sale will be made by Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston in said County and State on the 12th day of March A. D. 1885, at 10:30 o'clock a. m., of said day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated January 22th, 1885.

JOSEPH KELSO, Assignee.
[42-45] Pro Se

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 18th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred eighty and 32-100 dollars, ($2[illegible].32-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph L. Daoust and Herminia Daoust, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 16th day of June A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 20th day of June A. D. 1883, at 10 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 63, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Beginning at a point fifty (5.) feet west of the northeast corner of the block or parcel of land in lot seven (7,) in Section thirty-six (36,) Township one hundred and fifty (150,) of Range forty-seven (47,) bounded on the north by the street running west from the county bridge across the Red Lake River to the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railroad track; and on the east by the county road running south from said bridge, thence south one hundred (100) feet, thence west about one hundred and fifty (150) feet to the said railroad track, thence northerly one hundred (100) feet along said railroad track, and thence east about one hundred and fifty (150) feet to the place of beginning, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston, Dec. 12th A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.
JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [31-40]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Jan. 1st 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred eighty-four and 83-100 dollars, ($384.83-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Albert D. Berry and Clarenthe Berry, his wife, to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 21st day of April A. D. 1882, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 22d day of April A. D. 1882, at 1:15 o'clock p. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 2, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The Southeast quarter (se¼,) of Section one (1,) Township one hundred and fifty-one (151,) Range forty-five (45,) in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 16th day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston Dec. 27th, A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.
JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [36-44]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Dec. 25th 1884.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred seventy-two and 21-100 dollars, ($372.21-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Aiken Dumas and Emily Dumas his wife to Henry Hammel, bearing date the 1st day of July A. D. 1882, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 5th day of July A. D. 1882, at 4:30 o'clock p. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 127, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northwest quarter (nw¼) of Section twenty-six (26) Township one hundred and fifty (150) north, of Range forty-four (44) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres more or less, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston in said County and State, on the 9th day of February A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Crookston Dec. 24th, A. D. 1884.

HENRY HAMMEL,
Mortgagee.
JOHN LEO,
Att'y for Mortgagee, [35-41]

STEWART & LAURENCE,
SUCCESSORS TO E. M. WALSH,
Hardware Merchants,
CARRY A FULL LINE OF
Iron, Steel, Nails, Tinware, Guns,
REVOLVER, AMMUNITION, BUILDING PAPER,
Sash, Doors, &c.

McKINNON BRO'S
CARRIAGE WORKS!
Robert Street,
Crookston, - Minn.
AGENTS FOR THE
J. I. CASE THRESHING MACHINES!
And Manufacturers of
Carriages, Wagons,
BUGGIES,
Cutters, Sleds, &c.
Axles, Springs, and all Repairs kept in stock,

DEALERS IN
FARM MACHINERY.

In Farm Machinery we have the Champion Seeder, Fargo Diamond Tooth Harrow, Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow, Davenport and Grand Detour Sulky and Walking Plows, Buford Gang Plows, Field Rollers of all sizes, Warrior Mowers, the leading Hay Rake and first-class Harvesters and Binders, the Webber Wagon and McKinnon Bros. Wagon, In fact we have everything in machinery, from

A Wheelbarrow to a Threshing Machine!
EXTRAS
For all Machines constantly on hand

THE
J. I. CASE
THRESHING MACHINE COMPANY
The Dennet or Beloit
HARVESTING MACHINE COMPANY:
And the Van Brunt & Davis
SEEDER COMPANY,
Are Represented
BY
STEENERSON BROS.,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

HOW TO BE HEALTHY!
Drink LePage's
35c Tea and 35c pure Java Coffee
AND SMOKE MY NICKEL PILGRIM CIGAR.
HOW TO BE WEALTHY!
COME TO THE RED STAR GROCERY
And Save Money on everything you buy.
AND IF YOU ARE WISE
You will buy only Pure and Fresh Groceries. THE RED STAR GROCERY is the place to get them and there you will find Prices the Lowest. Farmers and others bring in your Butter and Eggs and get highest prices for them. Remember the RED STAR, one door south of Montreal House.
E. LEPAGE, Broadway, Crookston, Minn

Big Bonanza.
JOSEPH BARRETT
Has decided to Put on the Market his
ADDITION
TO THE
CITY OF CROOKSTON
Next adjoining the Crookston Driving Park. Parties desiring to purchase
CHOICE LOTS,
NOW IS YOUR TIME!
LOTS
For Sale Separately, or in BLOCKS.
TERMS EASY!
